Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2016 with funding from Media History Digital Library

https://archive.org/details/motionpicturenew25marc

MARCH 4, 1922

Motion Picture News

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

A Canadian Advertiser Says:—

"Our motive for using The NEWS for advertising was solely for getting our product before Canadians, The NEWS being the best medium and having a larger circulation than any other motion picture trade journal, to our knowledge, in this country."

The News Dominates The Field

VOL. XXV No. 11

Entered as Second Class Matter, October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879

PRICE 20 CENTS

Published Weekly—$3.00 a year

Los Angeles — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Chicago

Jane Novak

in

Belle of Alaska

A Heart and Action Drama of the Roaring Yukon

Supported by NOAH BEERY and
J. FRANK GLENDON
A
CHESTER BENNETT
Production

The first great Klondike picture with real box-office power released to exhibitors in the past year.

With a star cast deserving all the heavy advertising and shrewd exploitation that you will give this story of the gold-seekers with their mad diversions and tremendous physical encounters.

Released now.

American
RELEASING CORPORATION

WALTER E. GREENE, President F. B. WARREN, Vice President

15 W. 44th St. N.Y.C. - Phones: Vanderbilt 7078-9

With

the power of an earthquake—the speed of a tornado—
the force of a tidal wave—
It will sweep the world off its feet!

Nothing so mighty, so thrilling, so altogether astounding, has ever been screened.

These four Paramount Pictures represent the summit of motion picture achievement.

From the novel by Carl Figdor.
Directed by Joe May.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

HAMILTON THEATRICAL CORP. presents

"THE MISTRESS OF THE WORLD"

UFA PRODUCTION

– A SERIES OF FOUR –

Paramount Pictures

WITH MIA MAY

Look at these Posters—

NEVER in your life have you seen such knockout, business-getting, eye-catching posters as these issued on "The Mistress of the World."

Picturing the biggest thrills in all four pictures, in a striking, startling manner, flooded with color and excitement, they will wake up the sleepiest town in the world.

There's no human being so hard-boiled that he will not thrill with expectation at the sight of any of these tremendous posters.

MORE THRILLS IN 4 WEEKS

OF

"MISTRESS OF THE WORLD"

THAN THE EARTH HAS KNOWN SINCE IT BEGAN

24-6

Then try to Imagine the Pictures!

"THE MISTRESS OF THE WORLD" is an opportunity that comes only once in a lifetime. Make the most of it!

Hamilton Theatrical Corporation presents

"The MISTRESS of THE WORLD"

with MIA MAY

No. 1—"The Dragon's Claw."
No. 2—"The Race for Life."
No. 3—"The City of Gold."
No. 4—"Saved by Radio."

From the novel by Carl Figdor.
Directed by Joe May.

UFA PRODUCTION

A series of four Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR President

Country of Origin U. S. A.

The Spice of the Program

BOBBY VERNON

NO matter how good the feature picture may be, it is after all only half of the evening's motion picture entertainment.

The spice, the zest and frequently the greatest enjoyment are furnished by the short subjects.

VIORA DANIEL

NEAL BURNS

LLOYD HAMILTON

JOHNNY HINES

DOROTHY DEVORE

HELEN DARLING

THOUGHTFUL exhibitors realize, however, that short subjects, to give spice to any program, must be of unusually high quality and must present artists of ability and character—such short subjects as

CHRISTIE COMEDIES
"TORCHY" COMEDIES
MERMAID COMEDIES
CAMPBELL COMEDIES
SELIG-RORK PHOTOPLAYS
Short-Reel Features
"SCENICS BEAUTIFUL"
and WILDERNESS TALES
By Robert C. Bruce
SKETCHOGRAFS—CARTOONS
By Julian Ollendorff
KINOGRAMS—NEWS WEEKLY
and Specials like
THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND

The above makes of motion pictures carry our trade-mark.

Look for it on posters and lobby cards in theatre entrances. When you see it—

Go in---

It's the sign of a Well-Balanced Program!

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.
E. W. Hammons, President
EXECUTIVE OFFICES, NEW YORK

TWELVE MILLIONS OF PEOPLE are being told constantly through Educational's National Advertising to look for posters announcing our unusually high quality short subjects

In YOUR Theatre Entrance!

This advertisement will appear in

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, March 18, 1922

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

CARL LAEMMLE PRESENTS "The Adventures of

ROBINSON CRUSOE"

The Biggest, Cleanest Chapter play ever made for the American Child

HERE is Romance! Here is Adventure! Here is Thrill! And all out of the biggest, cleanest story of adventure ever written—the one book above all others that parents and teachers know is stimulating, wholesome reading for the child. And out of this 200-year old book, out of this deathless romance comes a Chapter-picture, even more interesting, even more instructive than the book itself. At last a living, breathing figure—ROBINSON CRUSOE—the hero of every child—all ready for your screen and bound to pull the biggest crowds of youngsters and oldsters that ever stormed your house. Produced as only one concern in the whole world can produce a Continued Feature.

featuring

HARRY MYERS

as "Crusoe" and Noble Johnson as "Friday"

Supported by

GERTRUDE OLMSTEAD
PERCY PEMBROKE
GERTRUDE CLAIRE
and JOSEF SWICKARD of "the Four Horsemen"

Directed by Robert Hill Produced by

UNIVERSAL

CARL LAEMMLE
presents
Priscilla Dean
in a great Universal-Jewel made by Wesley Ruggles from Cynthia Stockley's novel
"WILD HONEY"

LEE MORAN

—the Scream of the Screen in Two-reel Mix-ups that happen to Everybody

SLAPSTICK is dead—shady stuff is dead. Clean fun is here to stay—the funny things that happen to everybody—for everybody to laugh at. And the Prize Comedian in up-to-the-minute fixes and mix-ups is LEE MORAN. Sign up for him in CENTURY COMEDIES and you'll have a national favorite who will pack your house in a blizzard, a first class sample of what CENTURY gives you every week right straight thru the year. Show LEE MORAN in the three new comedies listed below and do it now if you like to please.

"The Straphanger"
"The Touchdown"
"Upper and Lower"

Century Comedies

BROWNIE
BABY PEGGY
HARRY SWEET

RELEASED THRU UNIVERSAL

LEWIS J. SELZNICK Presents

CONWAY TEARLE

IN "A Wide Open Town"

BY EARLE MITCHELL SCENARIO BY EDWARD J. MONTAGNE personally staged by RALPH INCE

SELZNICK PICTURES
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A Drama of Suspense, Laughter, Heart Throbs and Action

FAMOUS PLAYERS LASKY CORPORATION PRESENTS BOOMERANG BILL" with LIONEL BARRYMORE
Story by Jack Boyle Scenario by Doty Hobart
Directed by Tom Terriss-Settings by Jos. Urban It's A Paramount Picture
A vivid, startling romance of thrills and climaxes which will sweep your audiences off their feet.
"Lionel Barrymore is fine—we don't remember having seen him do anything so well—the picture gets such a hold on you that you believe you are watching the purifying process of a bad man for the first time."—N. Y. Eve. Sun.
Created by Cosmopolitan Productions

The street of nameless fears—
The secret slave market—

The battle with the harem guards—
The sinister byways of Stamboul—

A romance of Constantinople and Fifth Avenue—

LEWIS J. SELZNICK presents

EUGENE O'BRIEN

"The Prophet's Paradise"

Personally staged by Allan Crosland

Pauline Frederick

Pauline Frederick's new release, "Two Kinds of Women meets every requirement of the exhibitor and the theatr going public.

The appeal of the story has been proved. Approximately a milli and a quarter people read it when it ran as "Judith of Blue La Ranch" in Everybody's Magazine. To-day it ranks as a best sell among the novels. Jackson Gregory, who wrote it, has a world-wide popularity.

"Two Kinds of Women' is a scenically delightful production with a leading role that requires the soul-stirring genius plus the supreme beauty and magnetism possessed by just one star of all who shine in pictures—Pauline Frederick.

Produced by

R-C PICTURES

"Two Kinds of Women"

From the Novel, "Judith of Blue Lake Ranch," by Jackson Gregory

SCENARIO BY EVE UNSELL

"Two Kinds of Women" contains two story themes which, when skilfully treated, always result in a "natural hit" picture—love and adventure.

If the love story were absent from the plot this picture would go over big as a straight adventure play. If the adventure element were eliminated it would remain a great romantic drama.

—But blending, as it does, an entrancing love theme with a thrilling series of unusual adventures, it is unquestionably a picture that is setting the pace for the screen hits of 1922.

PLAY THIS SURE WINNER

Directed by COLIN CAMPBELL

R-C PICTURES

"THE ISLE JULES

Mystery Adapted from

The dramatic triumph of French genius; the acme of artistry.

Presented by Louis Nalpas
Directed by Henri Fescourt

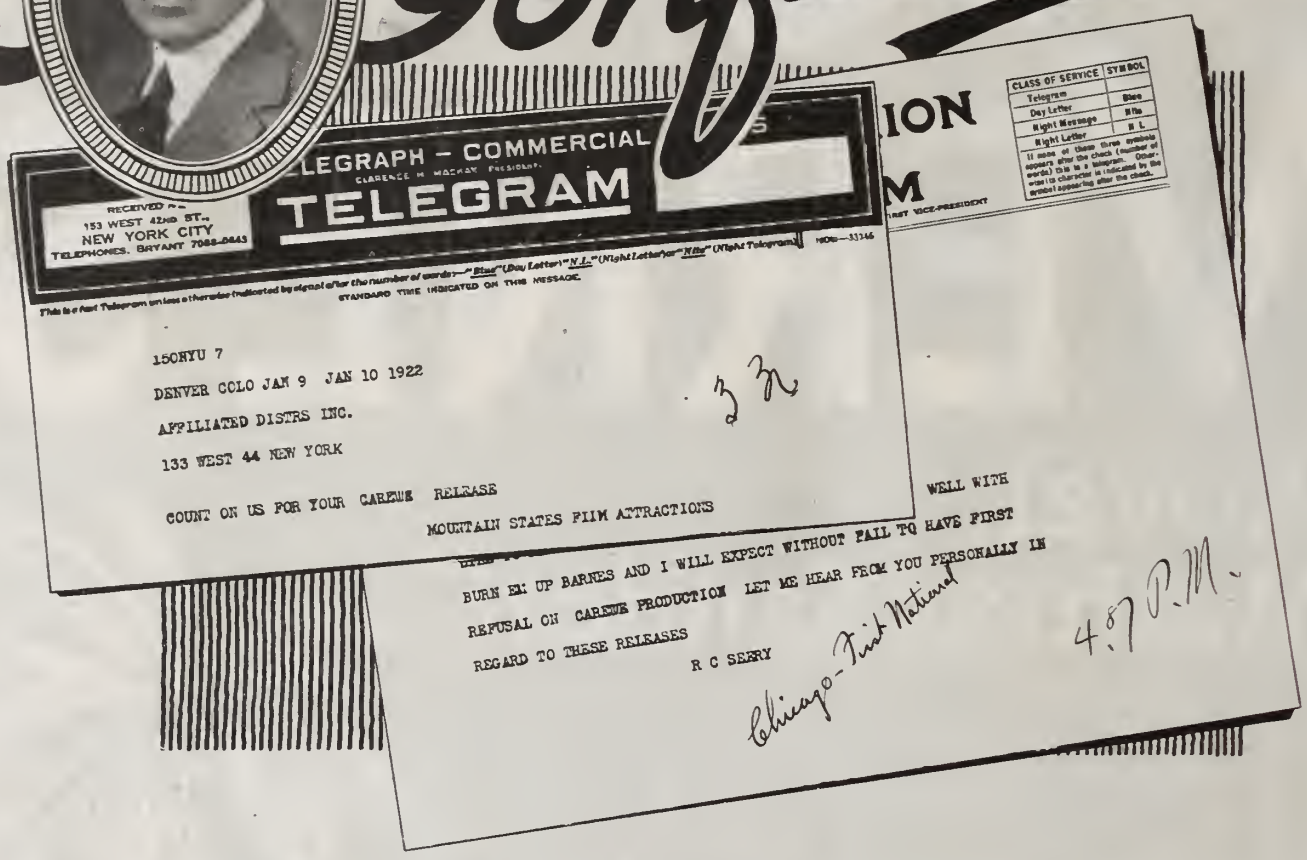
OF ZORDA" VERNE'S

Novel "Mathias Sandorf"

Lure, luxury and lavishness;
sensations that fire the blood;
thrills that startle and amaze.

Pathé
Distributors

Confidence



TELEGRAM
153 WEST 42ND ST.,
NEW YORK CITY
TELEPHONES, BRYANT 7088-8443
STANDARD TIME INDICATED ON THIS MESSAGE.
150NYU 7
DENVER COLO JAN 9 JAN 10 1922
AFFILIATED DISTRS INC.
133 WEST 44 NEW YORK
COUNT ON US FOR YOUR CAREWE RELEASE
MOUNTAIN STATES FILM ATTRACTIONS
BURN EM UP BARNES AND I WILL EXPECT WITHOUT FAIL TO HAVE FIRST REFUSAL ON CAREWE PRODUCTION LET ME HEAR FROM YOU PERSONALLY IN REGARD TO THESE RELEASES
R C SEERY
Chicago-First National 4:57 P.M.

"I am the Law!"

Is sold in Pittsburgh to First National because——we have built up Confidence in our product by our method of doing business. Our Torchy Comedies and our recent feature success "BURN 'EM UP BARNES."

—we offered "BURN 'EM UP BARNES" very cheap to the Independent Exchanges before we started to produce it and a few wise ones "cleaned up" like Joe Skirboll, First National, Pittsburgh; Roy Seery, First National, Chicago; Louis Hyman, Greater Features, Philadelphia; West Coast—M. A. Klausner for Denver; and Skirboll Bros. for Ohio.

By their foresight and Confidence they won—you can do the same on this picture. Wire us.

The Big 6 are coming

AFFILIATED
DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
C. C. BURR, Pres.
133-135-137 West 44th St.
New York City, N. Y.

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

"I am the Law!"

—is great value to the Independent Exchange in any territory. a picture better than your competition can buy, it will raise the prestige and position of any exchange in the territory accordingly—because—

—aside from the wonderful performance, the cast means something to exhibitors, press, and public—

—directed by EDWIN CAREWE, who made "Isobel," and has always been "sure-fire" and made successes—

—it is a "snow" picture, and they have all made money for exhibitors—

—with a cast like ALICE LAKE, ROSEMARY THEBY, KENNETH HARLAN, GASTON GLASS, WALLACE BEERY, NOAH BEERY, and others well known, the Value must be there——at our price and our terms the exchange is sure to make money—

Wire us a proposition for your territory.

The Big 6 are coming

AFFILIATED
DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
C. C. BURR, Pres.
133-135-137 West 44th St.
New York City, N. Y.

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

ATTRACTIVE TWENTY-FOUR SHEETS—for three big Vitagraph specials. The rare color values are impossible to suggest in monotone reproduction

Florence Vidor has achieved stardom. From her success in "Lying Lips" to her triumph in "Hail the Woman". the charm and superb artistry of this beautiful woman has shone forth with ever-increasing brilliancy. Her hour has come. Associated Exhibitors proudly proclaims Florence Vidor a star in her own right and announces the first of her stellar vehicles.
ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
Associated Exhibitors
Presents
Florence Vidor
in
"Woman, Wake Up!"

The triumph of Florence Vidor in "Hail the Woman" will center public attention upon her debut as a star in "Woman, Wake Up". It is a feature worthy of such an honor. Exhibitors, alert to the box office value of a fast-ascending star, will find success with this, the first of her forthcoming stellar releases.

Exhibitors, Wake Up!

Associated Exhibitors

Presents

Florence Vidor

in

"Woman, Wake Up!"

Distributed By Associated Exhibitors through Pathé Exchange, Inc.

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVE FOR ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS SIDNEY GARRETT

William Fox
presents

CHARLES JONES

in

PARDON MY NERVE!

Story by William Patterson White
Directed by Reeves Eason

Now Ready

The romance of a son of the range, who made his nerve the law

A VAST AUDIENCE AWAITS THE RETURN TO THE SCREEN OF WILLIAM FARNUM

A 1922 dramatic masterpiece

WILLIAM FOX
presents

WILLIAM A Stage

From the famous play by ALEXANDRE DUMAS

FARNUM in Romance

Directed by HERBERT BRENON

IT TOOK

L. V. Jefferson

FIVE LONG YEARS TO WRITE

"THE FOREST KING"

When a great author and adaptor like L. V. Jefferson becomes a producer there must be reason. There is!

"The Forest King" was too good a story to entrust to anyone else so the author made it himself!

A Master Photoplay by a Photoplay Master

OTHER CURRENT FEATURES RELEASED BY THE PACIFIC FILM COMPANY

HENRY B. WALTHALL
in
"The Able Minded Lady"

William Leighton's
Saturday Evening Post Story

"WALTHALL AT HIS BEST IN A WHIMSICAL COMEDY ROLE"

"The Girl from Rocky Point"
with
ORA CAREW

Walt Whitman, Theodor von Eltz, Gloria Joy and others

"A SKILLFUL BLENDING OF THE GOOD AND BAD THAT IS IN ALL OF US"

PACIFIC FILM CO.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES AND STUDIO
Culver City, Cal.

Jno. J. Hayes, Pres.

Eastern Representative
JULIUS SINGER
729 Seventh Avenue
New York, N. Y.

Distinctive Productions Incorporated presents

GEORGE ARLISS

in

"The Ruling Passion"

From Earl Derr Biggers' story in "The Saturday Evening Post"
Harmon Weight, Director — — — — Forrest Halsey, Scenarist
Harry A. Fischbeck, Photographer — Clark Robinson, Art Director

Sixty laughs every hour with George Arliss, emperor of refined fun, prince of the light comedy photoplay. There's youth and beauty, plus love, romance, adventure—everything for the patron and the box-office.

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION
MARY PICKFORD • CHARLIE CHAPLIN • DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS • D.W. GRIFFITH
HIRAM ABRAMS • PRESIDENT

Get Your

¶ A few weeks ago I made the first announcement of my Direct Booking and Profit Sharing Plan.

And say, I've had some job keeping up with the flood of inquiries.

I guess you boys were ready and waiting.

The flood of letters proves the EXHIBITOR IS AROUSED.

For years you have been paying in advance for two or more pictures on a series contract without receiving anything for doing so, not even interest on your money.

Many millions of your money have been tied up that way.

I MAKE YOU MY PARTNERS.

I GIVE YOU THE PROFITS YOUR MONEY EARNS.

I MAKE MY CUSTOMERS MY PARTNERS. BY MAKING MONEY FOR MY PARTNERS I KEEP MY CUSTOMERS.

I will have the greatest directors because my plan gives the real CREATOR the truly great incentive of earning in proportion to his ability to make great films economically.

That's the opportunity the real director wants. He asks nothing more.

I eliminate the tremendous overhead of massive studios by having units that work independently without having millions invested in unnecessary studio properties.

I eliminate all waste motion and false charges for those who contribute nothing to the success of the films.

I work with three real CREATORS in the same sort of association that resulted in the production of "THE MIRACLE MAN."

For three years, since I gave up writing reviews, I have worked with real CREATORS.

My work is selection of story, preparation of finished continuity, editing the completed production and the vital box-office point, THE CHOICE OF THE MAIN TITLE.

I WILL GET NO SALARY. THE DIRECTOR GETS NO SALARY.

WE DON'T MAKE MONEY—UNTIL YOU MAKE MONEY.

GET OUT YOUR PENCIL. DO SOME FIGURING.

THE MORE YOU FIGURE THE MORE YOU WILL LIKE IT.

There are no holes in this because it is an A B C, cards-on-the-table division of profits between creator and customer.

Any exhibitor, no matter how big or how little, may participate.

Quota arguments are practically eliminated because you participate in the profits in proportion as you pay in advance for the series of specials.

Of course there will be many imitators.

That is always the sincerest form of flattery.

I REST MY CASE ENTIRELY ON MY RECORD IN PRODUCTION DURING THE PAST THREE YEARS AND MY TEN YEARS RECORD OF SQUARE DEALING

¶ Let's start the figuring.

I am to make twelve productions in co-operation with three great directors. The maximum cash outlay on each picture is set at $100,000 for production expense, prints, and advertising.

Until the first hundred thousand dollars for each picture is subscribed these productions are sold to exhibitors on a $300,000 quota.

As soon as we receive the cash outlay of $100,000 per picture we discontinue selling these productions on a $300,000 quota and the quota is set as far above that mark as the worth and appeal of the particular production determines.

Out Pencils!

The original subscribers pay in advance for as many of the 12 specials as they care to.

They share in fifty per cent of the profits of the twelve pictures in the proportion of their advance payment to the actual cost of the productions.

Here's the way it figures:

Actual production outlay per picture	$75,000
Prints	20,000
Advertising	5,000
Total cash outlay	$100,000
Film rentals	$300,000
30% for distribution	90,000
	$210,000
Revenue from foreign sales	50,000
	$260,000
Less total cash outlay	100,000
Net profit per picture	$160,000
50% of profits returned to exhibitors	80,000

The exhibitor who, on a three hundred thousand dollar quota would pay $100 per picture, would pay $1200, if he were to pay for the twelve pictures in advance. Simple arithmetic will show you that his profit rebate of eighty per cent will give him $960—or—he will have played his twelve pictures at an actual cost of $20 per picture.

THE SAME FIGURING WILL SHOW YOU THAT THE FIRST RUN EXHIBITOR WHO ORDINARILY PAYS $1000 A PICTURE CAN REALLY GET HIS TWELVE PRODUCTIONS FOR $200 EACH.

These figures are based on a $300,000 quota. For pictures of the sort I will make, with co-operative partnership interest on the part of exhibitors, you can see that this is very conservative.

I personally expect every picture in the series to gross more than $500,000.

WITH EACH PICTURE IN THE SERIES THAT GROSSES $500,000 THERE WILL BE PROFIT REBATES RETURNED TO EXHIBITORS ON THE BASIS OF $150 FOR $100 OF ADVANCE PAYMENT.

Keep your pencil working. Do your own figuring.

You can lay out different sets of figures as to gross revenue because you can count on the fixed charges being at an absolute maximum of $100,000 per picture. Distribution is guaranteed at cost—30%.

If only three out of the twelve productions pass the $500,000 gross you can see that you will be getting the twelve productions without a cent of cost.

IF ONLY ONE OUT OF THE TWELVE PICTURES IS A "MIRACLE MAN"!!—— DO YOUR OWN FIGURING.

"The Miracle Man" has grossed a million and a half to date.

REMEMBER THAT I WALKED UP AND DOWN BROADWAY AND BEGGED MANY "FILLUM" EXECUTIVES TO FINANCE GEORGE LOANE TUCKER TO THE EXTENT OF $100,000 TO MAKE "THE MIRACLE MAN" ON A BASIS OF TUCKER AND I WORKING WITHOUT SALARY AND A DIVISION OF FIFTY-FIFTY OF THE PROFITS.

That was three years ago. This time —TODAY—I am offering the profits to EXHIBITORS.

THIS IS YOUR CHANCE TO BECOME MY PARTNER.

I am not selling this plan yet. The contracts are not even printed. But my tip is—

Write today for details.

Wid

1540 Broadway, N. Y. City

Telephone; BRYANT 4364

Why?

Are Exchanges Reporting

BOOKINGS

of

SECOND NATIONAL PICTURES CORPORATION

Releases

on an almost

UNPRECEDENTED SCALE?

Why?

The Excellent Entertainment

Provided by

"THE NIGHT RIDERS"

"HER STORY"

"DAVID AND JONATHAN"

gives the answer.

Second National Pictures Corp.

140 West 42nd Street New York

a boy – his-girl – romance – a whirl – a plot a jam – despair – then bam! – a fight hold tight – good night – ALL RIGHT – the hero wins the love begins – – the audience grins

O dog, bite my cat, what a Movie!

JOHN EMERSON and ANITA LOOS

present

Their Own Production

RED HOT ROMANCE

Management of Joseph M. Schenck

Don't miss it!! It's the goods!!

This is one of two designs of 24 sheet posters with sure-fire selling talk that'll bring 'em in. It's a crackerjack for low billboards, the side of a theatre, or any place where they can readily read it. The other is designed for high billboards or those they see at a distance and carries a punch that they can get at a single glance.

Thrills and Laughs Come Hot and Fast!

I'm an American girl! Take That!

B-l-a-h! I got you scared!

The Kink is dying! Let him die!!

Don't fire! Ive got him insured.

S-h-h-h! The Plot Thickens!

G'mornin' judge! S'me, the Kink!

Kink, Ah craves yo' ears fo' luck!

John Emerson and Anita Loos

present their own production

RED HOT ROMANCE

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

"THE FOUR SEASONS"

After the showing of "THE FOUR SEASONS" at the STANLEY THEATRE, Philadelphia, the critic of the Evening Ledger said in a long review:

> There is an appeal in this novel film that passes far beyond the regular fans and "fanettes." . . . . It is as good an advertisement of the photoplay as has come to Philadelphia in months. . . . It is to be devoutly hoped that the makers of "THE FOUR SEASONS" will come again—and soon.

Booking Through Hodkinson Exchanges

KINETO COMPANY OF AMERICA

INCORPORATED

71 West Twenty-third St.

New York City

Newest Reviews and Comments

Presenting
RICHARD TALMADGE
In a series of six of the most remarkable, thrilling comedy dramas ever produced.

Released Through
All Star Feature Distributors, San Francisco, Cal.
All Star Feature Distributors, Los Angeles, Cal.
Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Capital Film Exchange, New York City, N. Y.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, Atlanta, Ga.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, Omaha, Neb.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, New Orleans, La.
Enterprise Distributing Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.
First National Exhibitors Circuit, Oklahoma City.
Pioneer Film Corporation of N. E. Boston, Mass.
Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
20th Century Film Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

Produced by
PHIL GOLDSTONE
6060 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Cal.

"The Unknown"

Phil Goldstone Introduces New Star in a Hair-Raising Melodrama

Reviewed by Roger Ferri.

"The Unknown" furnishes a most appropriate title to introduce a promising star, Richard Talmadge, who comes into our midst virtually unknown, save to a few who have identified him as a once-upon-a-time-member of Douglas Fairbanks' Company. And right here it is timely to say that "Dick" is a second edition of Doug He leaps over high tables, fences and what not in a manner that bids fair to win him popularity, for he is at all times entertaining, daring and smiling. Those who have enjoyed Doug will marvel at Dick Talmadge, for there are a few tricks this newcomer pulls that even that smiling star would probably evade.

Richard Talmadge has bounded into stardom in much the same way that he bounces his way about in this picture—and straight to the hearts of those who look on. He is "pep" personified and has a personality that grips the spectator from the start. There is adventure aplenty and romance sufficient to maintain the attention of those who delight in following the courtesy of a grossly misunderstood young man. Mr Talmadge in the dual role presents as fine a piece of eccentric acting as the writer has viewed on the screen in a long time. The story is fascinatingly exciting throughout and at times Dick's stunts are so daring that one is actually thrown out of his seat.

The cutting is not as good as it might have been, but this shortcoming is more than made up for by the entertaining quality of the picture. The supporting company does exceptionally well and the direction is acceptable.

The Cast

Dick Talmadge / The Unknown.....By Himself
Sylvia Sweet.....Andre Tournier
Parker Talmadge.....Mark Fenton
J. Macolm Sweet.....J. W Early

Directed by Grover Jones.
Length, 5 Reels.

The Story

Living in these days of hard times was Dick Talmadge, son of Parker Talmadge controlling power of the flour market with an inherent desire to sleep and a marked aversion to all kinds of excitement. Dick leads a dual existence. As Dick Talmadge he is a chip of the old block, but as the unknown he is champion of the people and leads a determined fight against high prices J. Malcolm Sweet, sugar baron, and Dad Talmadge agree that Dick and Sylvia Sweet shall marry. But Sylvia, knowing only one side of Dick's nature reproaches him and urges him to do something worth while Dick's activities as the Unknown gains newspaper recognition Sylvia becomes acquainted with this masked marvel, not knowing he is Dick. A raid on the profiteers' stored goods caused a panic among the high financiers. Detectives are engaged to run down the Unknown, but he eludes them at every turn. A grand reception is held and the Unknown invited, a plot having been conceived to "accidently" shoot him. A fight starts and Dick is unmasked. The mystery solved all ends happily and Sylvia changes her opinion of the young man

Program and Exploitation Catchlines:

He Was the Son of a Profiteer, Yet He Sided With the People.
What Would You Do If You Discovered That the Man Whom You Had Hated Was Really the Man of Your Dreams?
Dick Talmadge—the Most Sensational Star—Modernizes Dr Jekyl and Mr. Hyde.

Exploitation Angles: Play strong on Talmadge to put him over, taking the angle of the review, then make your appeal to the sporting blood that is inherent in most persons with your allusions to the ring champion.

HARRISON'S REPORT SAYS:

"The Unknown is the most suspensive picture shown for a long time, the interest being never permitted to lag.

"Mr. Talmadge is heralded as Fairbanks' pupil and surely no one, after witnessing this picture, will dispute this allegation."

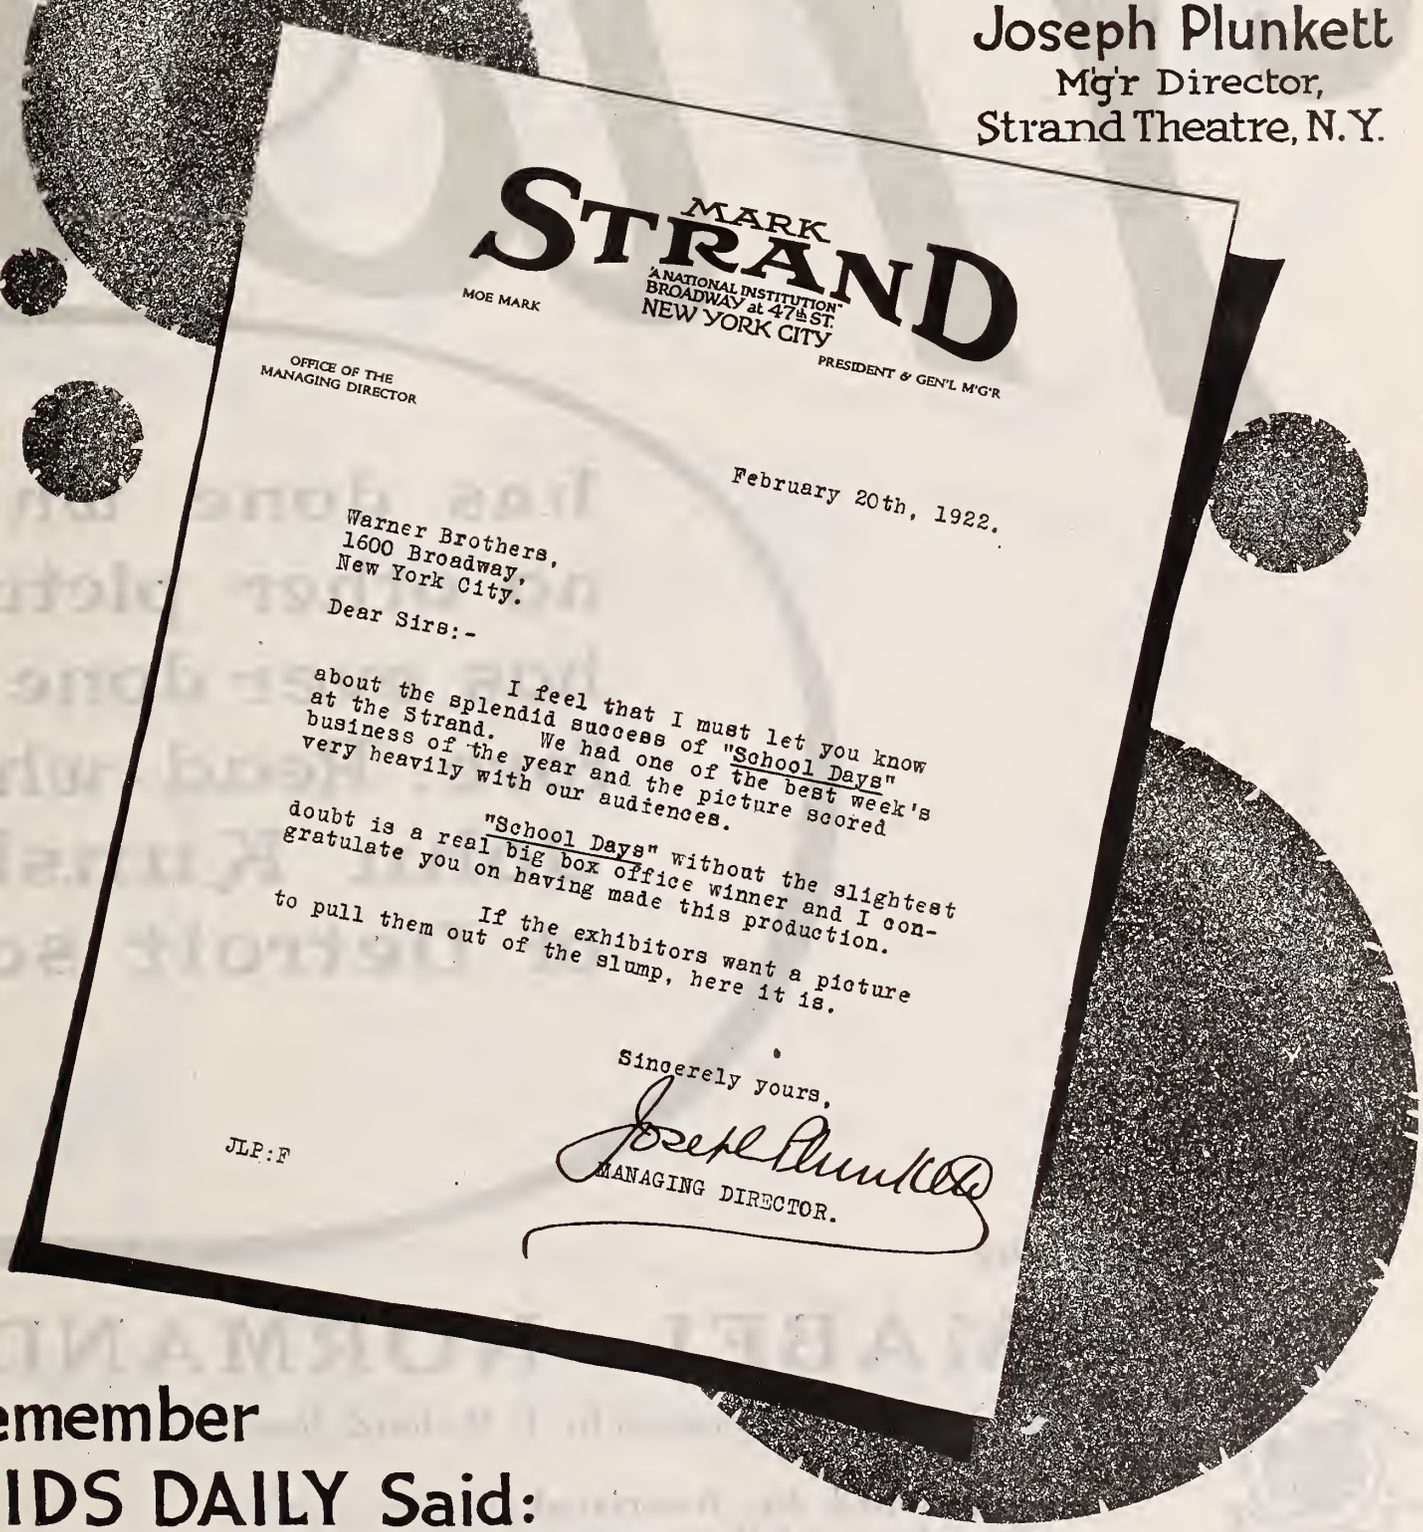
VARIETY SAYS:

"A new star in an appropriate type of picture. The Unknown—The thrills in this picture alone are well worth the price of admission—The story is gripping and interesting throughout—While only a protege of Fairbanks, he can certainly teach that star a few things."

"If the Exhibitors want a Picture to pull them out of the slump

HERE IT IS!"

Joseph Plunkett
M'g'r Director,
Strand Theatre, N.Y.



MARK STRAND
"A NATIONAL INSTITUTION"
BROADWAY at 47th ST.
NEW YORK CITY

MOE MARK
PRESIDENT & GEN'L M'G'R

OFFICE OF THE
MANAGING DIRECTOR

February 20th, 1922.

Warner Brothers,
1600 Broadway,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:-

I feel that I must let you know about the splendid success of "School Days" at the Strand. We had one of the best week's business of the year and the picture scored very heavily with our audiences.

"School Days" without the slightest doubt is a real big box office winner and I congratulate you on having made this production.

If the exhibitors want a picture to pull them out of the slump, here it is.

Sincerely yours,

Joseph Plunkett

MANAGING DIRECTOR.

JLP:F

Remember
WIDS DAILY Said:
"If you can't clean up with this one let some other fellow run your house."

Mack Sennett's

Mol

has done what no other picture has ever done before. Read what John Kunsky of Detroit says:

Starring

MABEL NORMAND

Directed by F. Richard Jones

Distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

If you haven't played it, do it now!

Up O

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Telegram
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

WESTERN UNION

TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT — GEORGE W. E. ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Form 1204

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Telegram
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

RECEIVED AT 54 WEST 45TH STREET, NEW YORK ALWAYS OPEN

R114DEPY 1250 AM 75 NL
KG DETROIT MH FEB 15

AL LICHTMEN GENL MGR ASSD PRODUCERS FIRST NATL PICTURES
SIX AND 8 WEST 48TH ST? NEWYORK

BY RETURNING MOLLY O TO MADISON THEATRE FOR ANOTHER WEEK AFTER A WEEKS CHANGE OF PICTURE WE CREATED A PRECEDENT STOP NEVER BEFORE IN HISTORY OF DETROIT HAS A BIG DOWN TOWN HOUSE RETURNED A FIRST RUN PICTURE STOP FIRST WEEK DID WONDERFUL BUSINESS ESPECIALLY LAST HALF OF WEEK BUT TOO LATE TO CONTINUE BECAUSE PICTURE CHANGE ADVERTISED STOP RETURN ENGAGEMENT OPENED BETTER THAN FIRST WEEK STOP HELD UP ALL WEEK

JOHN H KUNSKY

Bigger Than Mickey

Released on the Open Market
Available to All Exhibitors

f you have, repeat! John Kunsky did!

New York laughs - -

MARSHALL NEILAN'S "PENROD"

with FRECKLES BARRY

Adapted from Booth Tarkington's celebrated book and play, co-directed by Marshall Neilan and Frank O'Connor

Photographed by David Kesson - - Scenario by Lucita Squier

Joe Plunkett says: "It opened to big business." And he looks for a smashing week. Reviews prove his expectations.

A TREASURE OF THE SCREEN

They are fully as delightful in the new form as they were in magazine form afterward between the covers of a book and later still on the spoken stage.

Marshall Neilan, in making the production, has taken Booth Tarkington's characters and given them a lifelike presentation, breathing the very essence of youthful rascality and roguishness. He has taken the separate episodes of Penrod's existence and moulded them into one coherent story.

He has preserved for the screen one treasure that should not be permitted to disappear—an epic of American boyhood. It is a revel in humor—one which everyone will enjoy. Wesley Barry is superb in the title role of Penrod Schofield and has the aid of twoscore juvenile players and almost an equal number of adults.

While Mr. Tarkington's intention was that "Penrod" should be a story of juveniles it was written expressly for the adult mind. Mr. Neilan's film adaptation qualifies it for absorption by both young and old.

—New York Telegram.

INCIDENTS AS NUMEROUS AS FRECKLES' FRECKLES

The incidents woven out of Booth Tarkington's series seem almost as numerous as the freckles on Wesley Barry's face.

This Neilan feature is perhaps the best capturing of Tarkington's elusive charm imaginable on the screen, and there is an air of unstudied impetuosity about it that is enhanced by Wesley Barry, the complete Tarkington hero who casts everything but a vote.

And Baby Peggy, the tiniest star on the screen, adds several carats to the value of the picture by the vim with which she weeps a bucket of tears. —New York Herald.

"PENROD"

Marshall Neilan has retailed very enjoyably the incidents and much of the essence of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" at the Strand this week. Neilan has revived much of the natural naivete of boyhood—something of a miracle for any one in sophisicated Hollywood. He is aided by Herman and Verman, the colored midgets, as well as Penrod's other boy friends, and his funny, fuzzy dog, not to mention the young hero himself. —New York Sun.

PENROD IS IRRESISTIBLE

Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" was irresistible, partly because he was so exactly like your own kid or the boy across the street or your little nephew Willie. Wes Barry does not seem to us to have the quality of the common-place; he is a strange, wistful little creature, half elf and half gamin. —New York Globe.

PENROD REMOVES OLD AGE

Seeing "Penrod" at the Strand is a far pleasanter way of removing age and restoring youth than hobnobbing with monkey glands. The film is a most refreshing glimpse of youthful emotions and escapades.

Marshall Neilan has made the picture from the well known Booth Tarkington story and has wisely allowed Wesley Barry to play the role of the imaginative and active Penrod. The spectators at the Strand received the film in the happiest manner, and, getting into the spirit of the thing, abandoned themselves to showing appreciation. Age dropped off shoulders with unusual grace. The man next to us came in at the age of 50 and left a mere infant.

The picture is really a treat and must be seen to be appreciated.

—New York Telegraph.

"PENROD" BRINGS LAUGHTER TO STRAND

The funniest thing in the screen version of "Penrod" is the scene where Penrod goes to ask Baby Rennsdale to be his partner in the cotillon. We should have been ashamed of the way we laughed if every one else in the Strand Theatre hadn't been doing the same thing. Marshall Neilan has made a picture from Booth Tarkington's story, and Wesley Barry naturally was chosen to interpret the title role.

If Marshall Neilan never had done or never would do anything save these scenes he would deserve a tablet in the Hall of Fame, and the child who played Baby is almost too good to be true. She is Peggy Jane and she is so young yet that she doesn't know she is being cute.

On the whole, the picture is a most amusing piece of work. —New York Tribune.

PENROD GOOD FOR WHAT AILS YOU

A lot of folks after reading Booth Tarkington's wonderful "Penrod" stories expressed a wish that some day the lovable boy and girl and grown-up characters would flit across the screen. But they thought it couldn't be done because of the supposed scarcity of juvenile players to assume the many and varied roles.

Well, they got their wish, and it HAS been done. But it took a Marshall Neilan to do it.

"Penrod," Neilan's latest and best, with Wesley Barry, the human freckle, in the titular role, is unwinding right merrily this week at the Strand. For those who are looking for clean, wholesome entertainment and who want to take a couple of hours off and sail back to boy and girl land, the Strand is certainly the place this week. It won't do at all for those who crave soot.

Wes Barry is improving all the time as far as acting and freckles are concerned, although, speaking in the parlance of a beauty parlor, his latter attribute would scarce be noted down among the "improvements."

It doesn't make much difference how old you are or how crabbed one might feel, "Penrod" will be good for what ails you and you'll come away from the Strand feeling much better than when you went in.

—The Evening World.

NEILAN HAS MASTERED BUSINESS

"Penrod," which Marshall Neilan has placed into films at the Strand Theatre, is a brightly titled, understandingly compiled series of boy pranks, with Wesley Barry in the title part. The prize for cuteness goes to tiny baby Rennsdale, who plays the Peggy Jane, and there are a dozen other child actors who do capital work for Mr. Neilan.

Booth Tarkington will undoubtedly express gratification at the result of this picture, or series of pictures. It has been for the most part ideally cast. To have directed the group of babies and children in the performing of such comic situations was no lark. Mr. Neilan has just about mastered the business of directing comedy pictures.

Two prizefighters, whose noses had been broken, and then knocked sidewise, sat beside us yesterday and laughed themselves to tears. So that "Penrod's" appeal is not restricted to mothers and their nice little girls and boys. —New York World.

MARSHALL NEILAN PRODUCTIONS

FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Motion Picture News

Barter

THE Albany Convention, like all recent gatherings of organized exhibitors, was a serious-minded affair.

Rental prices were discussed for four hours, at one session, and the result was a resolution calling for a reduction of at least one-third of present prices and the appointment of a commission to secure such a reduction.

* * *

It was pointed out that, according to the Government tax reports, rentals increased last year in the face of a box office decline of many millions of dollars.

Many heavy losses were reported—though here and there a man was frank enough to say he was doing well.

The tenor of the session, however, was one of discouragement. A genuine hatred of the distributor was evident.

* * *

What does it all mean?

What is to be done—to relieve what is evidently a bad situation?

* * *

One exhibitor pointed out that an arbitrary and universal reduction of rentals, such as was proposed, was out of the question.

Conditions in the Metropolitan section were entirely different from those up-state, he contended. Big houses differed from small houses. Then there was the matter of exhibitor competition—the points where it existed sharply, or not so much, or not at all.

After all, he said, the exhibitor gets the price just as much as the distributor.

* * *

And the latter statement, it seems to us, gets right down to the root of this very big and troublesome problem.

* * *

Rental prices are a matter of barter.

Just that.

It's a poker game. And the best man, sitting in the best position, wins. Sometimes it's the distributor; sometimes the exhibitor.

* * *

In other lines prices are pretty firmly standardized. There are grades of goods, and grades of prices. In each grade quality is uniform. But with pictures—

Who can say what a picture is worth?

The distributor doesn't know. He gets what he can. And the exhibitor fights back. Each measures the other's weakness and strength. There's the widest latitude. It's a bluff and call game. And the players grow to hate and distrust each other. Poker. Barter. Nothing else.

And the exhibitor gambles with the picture when he gets it. Gambles with the weather, his opposition, the taste of his public, his advertising. In equal houses in equal communities the same picture will draw twice as much money in one house as in another.

How on earth can you, arbitrarily, fix picture rental prices? From the top down, we mean. You can't—any more than you can standardize poker pots.

* * *

There's just one way.

* * *

What determines the value of a picture?

There's just one measure, the price the public pays for it.

Isn't that 100% true? And isn't this the one and only way to work out the problem? Namely, from the ground up, instead of the top down. Let the public set the value.

Then, having the value fixed, let the exhibitor take so much, the distributor so much, the producer so much.

There—at last—a definite value is set. And on this solid, definite basis, you build a solid definite profit participation.

Out goes poker, barter, jipping, distrust, hatred, insecurity, high selling expense, duplication of exchanges—most of our present abuses and waste!

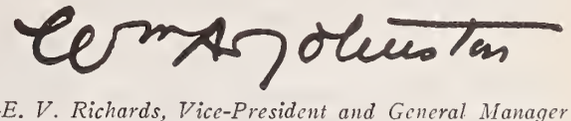
* * *

Percentage! Yes, that's what it is. We announced and advocated it seven years ago. And we said it would arrive—some day.

Somebody perhaps will call it by a new name—(Percentage, because it hasn't been done rightly, has a bad odor). The new way will be called "profit sharing" or "cooperation." And the new contract will have an arrangement of exhibitor advertising—so the public will pay all it should and make the basic value what it should be.

Some one will—

When?



(Editor's Note:—E. V. Richards, Vice-President and General Manager of the Saenger Amusement Co., Inc., strongly opposes percentage plans. His letter appears on page 1338.)

Index to General and Departmental News

DEPARTMENTS

Editorial, General News and Features....1333-1346
Exhibitors' Service Bureau....1347-1353
Reports from the Big Houses....1354
With the First Run Houses....1355-1358
Notes from the Chicago Field....1359
Action Stills from the Week's Releases....1360-1361
Feature Reviews....1363-1368
News from the Independents....1369-1374
Special First National Section....1375-1393
News from the Producers....1395-1402
Information on All Releases....1402-03-04-05-06-1422
New Theatre, Equipment and Construction....407-1419
Music and the Picture....1420
Studio Notes from the West Coast....1421

GENERAL NEWS AND FEATURES

Wm. A. Johnston's Editorial....1333
First National "Dollar a Week" Men....1334
Pictures and People—A Personal Chat....1335, 1336, 1343
M. P. T. O. A. Statement on the Washington Conference....1337
A Percentage Antagonist Has His Say....1338
War on Censorship Waged in Many Sections....1339
Harry Crandall's Statement on the Knickerbocker Disaster....1340
Personal Appearances—Are They Valuable?....1441
How to Backfire Adverse Propaganda. By an Exhibitor....1442
The Press Book—Where Does Its Value Lie?....1442
Censor Repeal Discussed at Albany....1443
Brandt Denies Rumors of Break with Cohen....1444

STATE RIGHT ANNOUNCEMENT

"Wandering Boy" Has Successful N. Y. Run....1369
New Pacific Film Release....1370
Glavey Making New Series....1370
"Comedy Attractions vs. Fillers." By Hunt Stromberg....1371
DiLorenzo Release March 1....1374
"Ten Nights" Continues Its Success....1374
N. Y. Critics Greet "Cardigan"....1374

PRODUCER ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wm. Fox March Releases....1396
"Foolish Wives" to Run at N. Y. Capitol....1397
Associated Exhibitors March Releases....1397
Paramount Releases for Feb. 26....1398
Critics Laud "A Doll's House"....1399
Results of Ince's World-Wide Survey....1400
Chaplin Completes Subject....1401

ACCESSORY DEPARTMENT

Colored Lighting Provides Artistic Effects....1407
American Projection Society Dinner....1412
National Anti-Misframe League Forum....1416

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Beyond the Rainbow" (R-C Pictures)....1362
"Shattered Idols" (First National)....1362
"The Cave Girl" (First National)....1362
"A Wide Open Town" (Selznick)....1363
"Cardigan" (American Releasing Corp.)....1363
"Tropical Love" (Asso. Exhibitors)....1363
"Give Me My Son" (Geo. H. Hamilton, Inc.)....1364
"Her Story" (Second National)....1364
"The Loves of Pharaoh" (Paramount)....1364
"The Rosary" (First National)....1365
"Her Social Value" (First National)....1365
"Her Husband's Trademark" (Paramount)....1365
"The Ghost City" (Asso. Photoplays)....1365
"The Wise Kid" (Universal)....1366
"Travelin' On" (Paramount)....1366
"The Unfoldment" (Asso. Exhibitors)....1366
"Her Own Money" (Paramount)....1367
"Pardon My Nerve" (Fox)....1367
"A Homespun Vamp" (Realart-Paramount)....1367
"Midnight" (Realart-Paramount)....1367
"Woman, Wake Up" (Asso. Exhibitors)....1368
"A Motion to Adjourn" (Arrow Film)....1368
"Welcome to Our City" (S. A. Pictures Corp.)....1368

Many Candidates for "Dollar a Week" Jobs

First National's Offer of Trip to Coast for Nine Best Exploiteers Gets Big Response

THE manifesto sent out by Associated First National Pictures last week, calling for the nine exhibitors in the country who would demonstrate the first-water quality of their showmanship during First National Week by their advertising and exploitation campaigns, to be the guests of the company for a week in Los Angeles, has met with an enthusiastic response from the live-wire exhibitors of the United States.

These nine "One Dollar a Week" men will be carefully selected from all the entrants by a committee which is composed of the Exploitation Editors of the motion picture trade journals. It is not necessary for an exhibitor to be a First National franchise holder to be eligible for one of these "Dollar a Week" jobs. Any exhibitor has a chance to be one of the nine lucky ones. If any of the winners live so far west that a trip to the Los Angeles studios of independent producers would be an old story to him, he has the alternative of a trip to the New York office, with the opportunity of living for a week with the executives and watching the machinery of distribution in operation at headquarters.

For the purposes of the occasion, the theatres of the country have been divided into three groups, so that these nine jobs are open for three managers of theatres seating 2,500 or over. For three managers of theatres seating 1,000 to 2,499. For three managers of theatres seating less than 1,000.

A few of the "count-me-in" letters that have been received from prominent showmen all over the country are given here to indicate the spirit in which the First National invitation has hit the exhibitors.

Edward L. Hyman, of the Brooklyn Strand, writes:

"'I would like to have you enter my classification in the theatres seating 2,500 or over.

"We are playing Hope Hampton in 'Stardus,' and I am working on a very extensive advertising campaign."

Colonel Willard C. Patterson, of the Metropolitan, Atlanta, Ga., throws his hat into the ring and announces that he's "goin'" to win a trip.

"Have booked 'Hail the Woman' in the Metropolitan," writes Pat, "and have already started an original angle on it from an advertising standpoint. Now you watch some of the stuff I put around it."

Charles F. McManus, of the Colonial Theatre, Tacoma, Wash., comes through with cheers for the idea.

"I think your idea is splendid," says McManus. "I am in Class 3, as the Colonial seats 954. We are going to show 'The Lotus Eater' during First National Week, and I am planning some big stunts for this picture. We are also going the limit on our front. Started last week with the advance slides. Wednesday morning my float will be around town. By Saturday night will be ready to hang out the S. R. O. sign."

A. G. Stolte, directing manager of the Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, Iowa, has announced his intention of participating.

"It will be worth the trouble, if one can be successful enough to win the prize, a trip to Hollywood, California," says Arthur.

"This job is a cinch," is the way Gus Metzger, of the Rivoli, Portland, Oregon, sizes up the situation from his viewpoint. "I intend making the grade on high. I feel that one week's rest in Los Angeles will do me a lot of good."

"Count me in on the anniversary week campaign," is Maurice F. Barr's greeting from New Orleans, where he is supervising manager of the Saenger Amusement Company's New Orleans theatre.

"I am happy to say that I would make the same effort in my exploitation campaign for First National Anniversary Week whether there was a prize of not, because it means money for me to do so," is Stanley Chambers' declaration from the L. N. Miller Theatrical Enterprises in Wichita, Kansas.

Arch E. Bamberger, of the Strand Amusement Company, Owensboro, Ky., is also after a "place in the sun" of California for a seven days' outing.

All exhibitors who are after one of these nine unique jobs will have until March 20 to get the evidence before the committee of judges in New York. All details should be sent in care of Associated First National Pictures.

PEOPLE AND PICTURES

THE industry is waiting for Mr. Hays, marking time, in a way, till a leader leads. Good Lord, what a lot that fellow will have to do!

First of all, a publicity-engineer, Mr. Hays! If we may earnestly suggest, a big engineer. One who can tap immediately the big buried lode of favorable truth about the picture, and picture people, and the industry. The screen, the newspapers, the public—all are hungry for some golden facts. And Great Scott, how we do need them! ! !

There was an opportunity at the Albany Convention, just a little one comparatively, but one of the many golden ones that slip by every day.

The two big newspapers there wanted to run special sections on the convention. The cost was very little. Divided among a few companies, it meant nothing. It would have paid, offhand, in picture patronage. And in larger ends it would have paid heavily. Everybody ok'd the idea but there was no head. No one to say 'yes' in half a minute, and then give orders in ten minutes; no one person to do it.

* * *

In Town: Motley H. Flint, Vice-President of Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, who has done as much for the independent producer as any man we know of. Actual encouragement, too; not merely words.

M. C. Levee, President of United Studios, which are humming with activity.

Thomas H. Ince and Mack Sennett.

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford.

A. H. Blank, Sam Katz, Nathan Gordon.

* * *

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS was interviewed by MOTION PICTURE NEWS upon the following subjects:

"What," we asked, "should the industry do to meet the yellow newspaper attacks on Hollywood?"

"Make good pictures," said Mr. Fairbanks.

"What about censorship and blue laws in general?"

"Make good pictures," said Mr. Fairbanks.

"What do you think about the business situation?"

"Make good pictures," said Mr. Fairbanks.

And though we had some pretty good thoughts and suggestions on all three subjects, we were compelled to admit that Mr. Fairbanks was about right. At least we can't, as an industry, do very much along any line without "good pictures" as a basis.

At any rate, that's all Mr. Fairbanks would suggest. "Good Pictures!"

We might add that we have a lot of respect for this likable, hard-working, able individual.

As for Mary Pickford, we regard her as one of the great women of the world.

Both are a great credit to motion pictures. We only wish they would write something to the public about themselves and their work. It is hard work and serious work. It would do a lot to correct the present distorted impression of Hollywood.

* * *

EXHIBITORS! EVERYWHERE! Read the letter in this issue from H. M. Richy, the active general manager of the Michigan League of Exhibitors.

A newspaper correspondent, a good and true one, Mr. H. G. Salzinger, happened to be in Hollywood when the Taylor fatality happened. And he sent out a story, a good and true one, about Hollywood. We've seen it in the Detroit News, Detroit Journal and Brooklyn Eagle. It's better reading than the "yellow" and untrue stuff. It shows that newspapers—lots of them, the best everywhere, want the interesting, real facts.

Mr. Richy got busy, not only in Detroit, but throughout Michigan. He sent printed copies of the article to every exhibitor to hand to his local paper.

Is there a better piece of work for any League or any exhibitor to do?

* * *

The Eastman National Academy of Motion Pictures, at Rochester, N. Y., the palatial structure George Eastman has given citizens of that city as a home for motion pictures and good music, will be managed by Charles H. Goulding, a former Syracuse boy. Mr. Goulding, who is a native of Auburn, moved to Syracuse with his parents when a child and spent his boyhood days there, taking a prominent part in amateur theatricals.

The new Eastman theatre will be opened next Fall, according to present expectations. It is a mammoth structure of steel and Indiana limestone, Italian renaissance in style, and will seat between 3,300 and 3,400 persons.

* * *

ARTHUR BRISBANE wrote an ad for D. W. Griffith. Full page size, and it ran in the New York Sunday American, Morning American and Evening Journal. Cost D. W. an even $11,000 for the 2,000,000 circulation.

Here it is—in miniature and here is how it happened.

When the People Reach Out, BEWARE!

King Louis XVI. of France Learned It Too Late.

FROM REVOLUTION BLOODSHED AND TYRANNY ONLY SORROW CAN COME.

See D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm" APOLLO THEATRE 42nd Street, West of Broadway

Reproduction of full page advertisement written by Arthur Brisbane for D. W. Griffith, the story of which is told on this page

D. W. G. met A. B. on the train to Detroit, which city A. B. is running these days along municipal ownership lines (he gives the job a few hours a week).

"How's 'Two Orphans' going in N. Y.," asked A. B.?

"I'm not reaching the masses," observed D. W.

"Naturally," countered A. B. "You're whispering to them. Why don't you yell at them"

Whereupon, like all good ad-writers—and ad solicitors, he gave a telling allusion.

"If you went into a big, noisy restaurant," he began, "and wanted to make an announcement to the busy eaters and the cashier said she'd whisper it for fifty cents or yell out loud for fifty dollars—which would you have her do"

"Yell," of course, said D. W.

"All right," said A. B. I'll yell, and Mr. Hearst gets $11,000."

Well, the Brisbane ad ran Thursday morning, Friday evening and Sunday morning. And now—at this writing, the following Tuesday they are turning 'em away!

Yelling wins—in this business.

* * *

The cudgels against State censorship are taken up strongly by the influential Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch in an editorial which gets to the meat of the subject by characterizing such legislation as a "narrow regulatory treatment of an amusement that has become the most popular of all."

* * *

SPEAKING of "The Prodigal Judge," which the New York newspapers acclaimed—the Times giving it about the highest praise ever accorded to any picture, Macklyn Arbuckle, who played the title role, writes us this interesting letter:

"For four years I have een endeavoring to be allowed to produce the big, wholesome, humorous, lovable type of the American character.

"The real American father and mother are naturally clean-minded, and I have felt that there was a large clientele for plays depicting the brighter and happier side of the American life. The American father is the backbone of this country. Be he in a larger or smaller town.

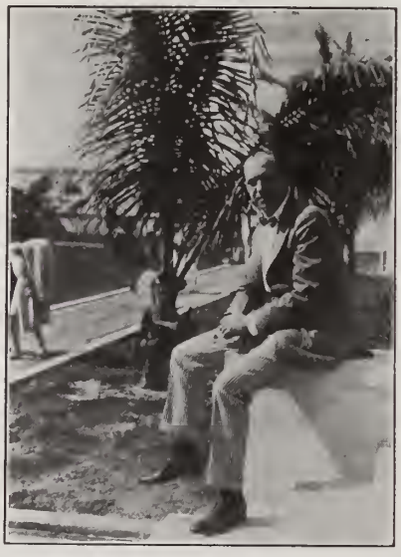
"He has native humor, a big heart, interested in the love affairs of the young folks and spreads happiness as he goes through life, and a deadly punch in each fist for the protection of his honor and family.

"'The Prodigal Judge' is a psychological study of a big American of his time. It was not a chance characterization, but the result of study and care. That it has been appreciated gives me encouragement to appeal to the better side of the American public.

"I hope to appeal in the wholesome play of the screen as I did on the legitimate stage for thirty years. It is up to the American father and mother to regulate plays and pictures without the aid or dictation of a censor. Their verdict will be the producers' guide."

* * *

MR. E. M. ASHER, representing Mack Sennett, writes us a letter boiling with righteous indignation over the injustice of coupling Mabel Normand's name with the recent and deplorable Hollywood fatality. We are just as indignant as Mr. Asher. And this goes, too, for Mary Miles Minter. Both are certainly innocent. And it is decidedly up to the industry, and in particular to the exhibitor, to see that neither suffers. The exhibitor can do much in the emergency to set the public right.



Arthur S. Friend, (c) Underwood and Underwood

Why, asks Mr. Asher, don't we have a publicity bureau in such crisis, one that will furnish material to offset the nasty newspaper tales? Why don't we have our screens organized for the same purpose?

Why not?

We have asked the same question and urged the same remedy till it is difficult to write urgently about it.

Never before did the industry need its own publicity as it does at present. Never before has there been such a pitiable spectacle as the giant power of the screen standing blind and impotent.

But the reason is this: we never, collectively or individually, do anything for the common good—until it's too late.

We live for the day in this business. The devil take tomorrow.

* * *

There's no use in railing at the newspapers for printing Hollywood all over the front page. Of course they do and always will.

Twelve millions of people go to pictures daily. Fifty millions are considerably interested.

There isn't a subject in the world so universally interesting; nor are any subjects so talked about as the people of the screen.

And newspapers, which are in the business of retailing news of most interest to their readers—retail news about pictures and picture people. If necessary, they themselves manufacture it.

It is simply up to pictures and picture people to see that the newspapers get good news and not bad news. It can be—and MUST be done.

It's a huge responsibility. We told our views on it in an editorial called "Creatures of Celluloid."

* * *

James Loughborough, manager of the Pathe exchange in Albany, N. Y., has just had the Legion of Honor conferred upon him by the French government. At the time that Marshal Foch visited this country, Mr. Loughborough was loaned by Pathe to handle the publicity. He did his work so well that he has now been honored by the French nation.

* * *

FROM Okanogan, Washington, comes the finest idea of many a day for small town managers—and small towns as a whole, too.

Twelve merchants of Okanogan rent the Paramount theatre every Wednesday afternoon and give a free matinee to everyone living outside the village limits. The merchants are supplied with an unlimited number of tickets and these are passed around to the ranchers who trade with them.

The benefits of the stunt are many. The merchants pay W. C. Skates, the manager of the Paramount, enough to cover his expenses. The program is the same as that shown at night and there is no loss in business because the town people are not admitted. Mr. Skates, in common with most small town exhibitors, does not run mid-week matinees.

Through the arrangement, Mr. Skates has made his theatre something more than a place of amusement and the merchants are his greatest boosters.

It is a great scheme—worthy of national acceptance by the city fathers of any small town.

* * *

W. A. BUSCH, Goldwyn manager at Washington, D. C., had a letter in last week's "News" which hit a very big nail on the head. The thoughtful exhibitor will do well to read it again and ponder.

W. E. Shallenberger hit on the same subject before a hotel lobby group at the Albany convention.

And we have editorialized often—and expect to again—along the very same lines.

Mr. Busch speaks of "ready-made" pictures—and the other kind. He says the "other kind" are harder to sell—to the exhibitor and to the public. We know it.

The "ready-made" picture is the picture with a star encased in the regular "movie stuff." The exhibitor puts up the star's name, a poster, a few stills and the "ready-made" audience comes in, not a big audience, but an easily had one.

The "other kind" of picture is the picture with a story, a real appeal, mental or heart or both. And lots of people want to see it. And they'll come out of their good homes. But you've got to tell them about it—which means well written publicity. And that's a harder way.

It's the easy way that makes stars and stars' salaries. That's a fact! The easy way exhibitor does it. Think it over.

And the public—today—wants pictures, stars too, but pictures. The "ready-made" picture is through except for the "ready made" audience—and this audience won't pay rental prices.

M.P.T.O. of A. Issues Statement on Washington Conference

Urgent Call for All Exhibitors to Attend May 8th to 12th Gathering

IN a statement addressed to the exhibitors of America from the national headquarters of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, theatre owners all over the country are requested to make every possible effort to be present at the coming national convention to be held in Washington, D. C., May 8th to 12th, inclusive. The Washington conference is hailed as marking the "supreme advance" of the exhibitors' national organization, and the importance of the issues to be discussed makes a large attendance of theatre owners highly imperative. The M. P. T. O. of A. statement follows:

"Fellow Theatre Owners

"The annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America in Washington, D. C., May 8th to 12th, inclusive, will prove to be the greatest event in the history of our wonderful industry. Affairs are so shaped now as to render this gathering of most vital concern to every motion picture theatre owner in the nation.

"Theatre owners have, since our Minneapolis convention, made many conspicuous advances. Until now we occupied ground in the forefront of our industry. Because of our daily contact with millions of people in our theatres throughout the United States, we have brought about an appreciation on the part of the public for our business which is daily growing.

"With our new status well established, as theatre owners we must measure up to the dignity and fully comprehend the responsibility this entails. We stand forth now in the community as a public service factor in the same division as the pulpit, the school and the press. The motion picture in its present high development is the screen press of America. And as the custodian of this truly wonderful visualizing publicity element, theatre owners must discharge the duties encumbent upon same with patriotic fidelity.

"We owe this service in a very definite way to our nation, state and community. During the past year we have established a Public Service Department of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America at Washington, and through that division we have supplied film of travel, trade, commerce and agriculture to many sections of the country and exhibitors everywhere have co-operated with us in carrying out the details of this great work. At our convention next May we hope to place this public service element on such a high and comprehensive basis as to fully meet every national, state and community need which can be served through the motion picture screen. This situation will be so completely set forth in official reports and recommendations that it will at once come into active operation in every section of the country. In fact, we propose to make our energies in this relation radiate from Washington in such a way as to bring this service at once into great public demand.

"This and other progressive policies will feature the work of the Washington convention. Action will also be taken to defend our industry against unwarranted legislation and other attacks from those who misunderstand the purposes of the theatre owners and do not fully appreciate the beneficient phases of our work.

"We must meet censorship attacks both in the nation and different states. Attempts to impose unjust and ruinous tax levies must be defeated through a clear presentation of our side to law-makers and the public.

"These campaigns of misrepresentation are now on. Organizations claiming to have reform tendencies are at work in different states seeking to impede and hamper our business. A resolution is now before the United States Senate asking for a general investigation of the motion picture industry. Organized bodies of mistaken zealots seek to throttle this screen press of America with unwholesome statements repugnant to American ideals and at variance with the thought of the public.

"To prove our side to the people will be one of the duties confronting us at the Washington convention. We have the visualizing powers and wonderful publicity elements of the screen in our custody. The people of the United States demand that the screens shall be kept free from all political and other entangling alliances, and that its integrity as the screen press of America shall remain unimpaired. That this shall be done is the pledge which we have made to the people and propose to keep.

"Come to Washington, theatre owners, and help us formulate plans in accordance with this program which will comprehend public needs and our business necessities in every state in the union. We can do it. We must do it. This is the real job before you, theatre owners, as it means the safeguarding of your investments and the entire future of your business. The week you spend in Washington at this convention will bring you greater returns than anything you ever did in connection with your theatre.

"The American people will stand squarely with us when we bring our side to light, and they will see to it that powers to aid them shall not be impaired by adverse legislation and other restricting conditions. We also have the admission, seat and music taxes and other things to battle against, and a multitude of similar conditions shaped to injure us. Give us the benefit of your personal co-operation in Washington. We need you and your energies will count in your congressional district on behalf of our great industry.

"United we will meet every issue successfully and win.

"Arrange to be at the Washington convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America May 8th to 12th, inclusive.

"National President Sydney S. Cohen has appointed the following committee in charge of the arrangements for the convention:

"W. A. True of Hartford, Conn., chairman; W. A. Steffes, Minneapolis, Minn.; W. D. Burford, Aurora, Ill.; John Manheimer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; E. M. Fay, Providence, R. I.; A. R. Pramer, Omaha, Neb.; E. T. Peter, New York, N. Y.; A. Julian Brylawsky, Washington, D. C.; Glenn Harper, Los Angeles, Calif., and D. A. Harris, Pittsburgh, Pa."

Radio to Link Meetings of Adv. Men on Both Coasts

FOR the first time in the history of the motion picture industry the advertising men of the East and West coasts will be linked together when the Naked Truth dinner of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers is held at the Biltmore Hotel March 25. At a meeting of the A. M. P. A.'s board of directors last week plans were completed for the installation of radio service which would connect the ballroom of the Eastern hostlery directly with the West Coast Advertisers' Association, who will hold a meeting the same evening.

The novel experiment, which promises to establish a precedent in the industry, will convey vocally all the acts and sketches of the Naked Truth dinner over 3,000 miles and form a tangible bond between the two organizations. Charles Barrell, of the Western Electric Company, a member of the A. M. P. A.'s board of directors, is completing arrangement for the radio service.

Accommodations have been made for 400 guests, and seat reservations are being made by name and with issuance of tickets. Inasmuch as tables will be set for ten people each this method, it is expected, will obviate any difficulty in finding places. At the same time it will necessitate an early reservation of seats to make sure of accommodations.

Under the direction of A. M. Botsford, chairman of the entertainment committee, the 30 members who will take part in the sketches held an enthusiastic meeting on Friday of last week at which the final details of the program were worked out preparatory to the actual commencement of rehearsals.

A Percentage Antagonist Has His Say

An Opinion by E. V. Richards, Jr.

General-Manager of Saenger Amusement Co., Inc.

Mr. W. A. Johnston, Editor,
Motion Picture News.

Dear Mr. Johnston:

On various occasions in the past three or four years you have printed lots about the percentage plan for the distribution of film. You have also had two or three conversations with me, as best I can recall, as far back as three years ago, and on one occasion you asked me by letter to give you an expression on the percentage subject.

My opinion of three years ago is the same today—that is, the percentage system of exploiting the exhibitor is no different than that of the first rental schemes. I believe the proof of that in considerable degree is proven by the decrease in theatre receipts and the enormous increase in film rentals that have just been shown in the trades papers covering the complete period of 1921.

I made the statement to you in one of our conversations that if anything the percentage would be a far greater evil than the old system of flat rental, for the following reasons, by comparing the history of the legitimate theatre, with few exceptions, or comparatively few exceptions. The history of our legitimate theatre is one of decay. The theatre owner was so over-exploited on percentage terms that it was not long before he was left as the errand boy or the bill-poster or the hackdriver for his livelihood. The old, dilapidated buildings became unattractive, dangerous and behind times as far as public appeal was concerned, as the theatre owner had no money left with which to rebuild a legitimate theatre; therefore, there was no decent home for legitimate plays, unless civic pride contributed or indorsed such an institution for the maintenance of a place of amusement.

If the present tactics of certain distributors and producers in the film business are put into effect, the same would soon happen to the motion picture industry—that is, by taking an extreme pessimistic view of the situation.

Today the distributors are approaching the exhibitors on a sharing basis, throwing one competitor against another in the percentage terms as against flat rentals, plus the following: An itemized account of every expense in connection with the operation of his business. I think that it is high time for the edification of the exhibitors throughout the country that you publishers should equally educate all sides of this industry. When the distributor approaches an exhibitor for a percentage contract and offers any such form to be signed as a part of the agreement, the exhibitor should be so educated as to require the producer or distributor to furnish him with the following information: How much did the production cost, and have same verified by a firm of equal reputation as Price, Waterhouse & Company? How much salary was paid to the star? How much salary was paid the officials of the company and to subsidiary corporations, and in this case an itemized list of such corporations and officials should be given? How much bonus money and what rate of interest in the financing of the above production? How many agents and sub-agents has the story or scenario passed through before it was put into execution or into the production, and what was the cost of same? What does the producer expect to gross on the investment and over a period of how many months? What is the quota that is set for every community in the United States, and what are the quotas that are actually accepted in each key city? What amounts from foreign sources, and itemize this? Are the officials of the above production interested and to what extent in any individual or corporations that have contributed a part in service or material to the above production during its making or exploitation?

The exhibitors are requested to give comparatively the above information on their side when the percentage distributor comes around. Why not the exhibitor begin to demand a few things of interest of the other side of the business? Doesn't it sound like "honorable (?), legitimate theatrical history in America?" Don't the distributors and producers realize that when they make a bad picture on which the exhibitor loses money that in the long run the producer pays the bill, and why should it not be so? Isn't it time that the producers, stars and distributors are reflecting seriously on the days when film rental buying and film receipts are falling off? Aren't they likely to wake up some day and find that their present assistants and other supernumeraries are financed by the great body of exhibitors in this industry, unless there is some substantial basis of reasoning established in this industry? In spite of all that may be said, the motion picture exhibitor is not in the pitiful position of the legitimate theatre owner, for the simple reason that this business is a manufacturing enterprise after all, and in one sense, comparatively speaking, a theatre is a permanent proposition.

The motion picture industry is free and open to all, and there is no one that can control the "A, B, C" of picture making. That has been very thoroughly proved from the days of the Biograph and other so-called restricted organizations of the early days.

Does the producer realize that his particular phase of the business is massed and centralized and therefore develops very rapidly in opposition to himself when national resentment arises among all factions of exhibitors?

Let the exhibitor wake up—and I mean by waking up know how to make a survey of his own business to keep up with improvements for the future and at the same time have a fair and reasoning plan with the producer so that both may get all the profit they are entitled to on their investment. BUT THE PERCENTAGE PLAN WILL NEVER DO IT. WHAT PLAN?

I will not attempt to offer a substitute for the complaint nor a cure for the disease, but I am in hopes that a man such as Mr. Hays coming into the industry will be strong enough to suppress the sharp practices and selfish interests of any individual in the industry, whether he be producer, distributor, star or exhibitor, and that you publishers will get behind the CAUSE and throw the true light on all its evils from all sides until conditions are cleaned up. That's what we need NOW.

Yours very truly,

Saenger Amusement Co., Inc.
E. V. Richards,
Vice-President and General Manager.

N. B.: So many actors and producers continually expound the theory that exhibitors have money while they are usually in debt or broke. Take a trip to the studio or note the life of the average producer or actor. It's not the exhibitor's fault that the industry squanders money.

Ohio Censors' Rulings Arouse Consternation

"FOOLISH WIVES," Universal's big production, and Goldwyn's "The Sin Flood," were two pictures which were rejected in their entirety recently by the Ohio Board of Censors. Universal's "Leather Pushers" series was also mercilessly condemned.

Added consternation in Ohio film circles followed the announcement of the board that all news reels must have a certificate of censorship before they can be legally exhibited on the screen. Local exchanges state that news reels received in Cleveland on Saturday are shown on the screen the following Sunday. They claim that the censoring of the news reel would delay the films so long that they would be useless as news.

It is also rumored that the Carpentier-Dempsey fight pictures are to be recalled by the Ohio Board of Censors.

War on Censorship Waged in Many Sections of the Country

Fight Pending Bills in Kentucky, Mississippi, Massachusetts, Maryland

THE censorship war continues unabated in many sections of the country with the motion picture industry marshaling all its resources to combat the professional reformers. Definite action for the acceptance or rejection of censorship is expected shortly in the legislatures of Kentucky and Mississippi. In Massachusetts a fight is being waged against a proposed bill which seeks to bar the use of the screen in the forthcoming censorship referendum campaign in that state. The Maryland Board of Censors has proposed to the Maryland legislature an amendment to the present censorship law which will provide for more drastic penalties for failure to observe the mandates of the board. In addition to the agitation for and against censorship carried on in various state capitals, the question is being debated by the pros and the antis in many municipal districts throughout the country. The right of a censorship board to pass upon the "social phase" of a picture is being contested in Kansas, where labor interests have brought suit to enjoin the Kansas Censorship Board from rejecting a picture titled "The Contrast," which deals with an industrial situation.

David Wark Griffith is scheduled to appear this week before the Kentucky legislature to speak against the consorship measure now awaiting action by the lawmakers. The censorship measure now pending in Kentucky is known as Senate Bill No. 176. It was introduced by Senator Brock and provides for a film censorship board under the supervision of the Department of Education—the board to be composed of three members at a salary of $3,000 each. License fees of $2.00 per reel of 1,000 feet are provided for in the measure, and fines of from $100 to $1,000 for violation of the censorship law. The measure sets forth that only such films may be shown in Kentucky as are, in the judgment of the censor board, "of a moral, educational or amusing and harmless character."

Under the direction of Chairman Hess, Jack S. Connolly, Washington representative of the National Associaiton, is now in Mississippi co-operating with E. V. Richards, Vice President and General Manager of the Saenger Amusement Company, and Y. F. Freeman, of the Southern Enterprises, Inc., in establishing a strong front to combat the efforts of the reformers to force through a censorship bill. This measure has been reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Education. The legislation was urged by Governor Russell of Mississippi, who, in his message to the Legislature, said: "I cannot too strongly urge the very great necessity of establishing by statute law a censorship of the motion pictures used in this state." The situation in Mississippi is fraught with grave danger to the industry, and the result is still in doubt.

In Massachusetts the censorship committee of the National Association, through its representative, ex-Judge J. Albert Brackett, is co-operating with the Allied Theatres of that state and has a stiff fight on its hands to prevent the passage of House Bill No. 467, which seeks to bar the use of the screen in the forthcoming censorship referendum campaign. At a hearing on this bill before the Committee on Election Laws of the Massachusetts Legislature, on February 19, Judge Brackett entered a vigorous protest against the passage of the bill and charged that the measure was a covert attempt to forestall any campaign of education on the screen by the moving picture theatres to tell their side of the story to the public in connection with the censorship referendum.

The Maryland State Board of Censors is dissatisfied with its name. A proposed amendment to the censorship law has been introduced in the Maryland Legislature which seeks to change the official name of the censorship body to "Maryland State Board of Review."

More drastic penalties for failure to rigidly observe the mandates of the censor board are also provided in the amendment. Whereas the present law prescribes a fine of from $5 to $10 for failure to display the approval seal of the censor board on any film exhibited in Maryland, the amendment provides for a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100, or imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or both in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace before whom the complaint is lodged.

The bill prohibits the making of any change or alteration in the film after it has been licensed, except such elimination as ordered by the board, and any violation of this clause would be punishable by the immediate revocation of license. The measure seeks also to revise a section of the law defining the character of films which are unsuitable for license by adding, "inhuman or inciting of crimes."

The proposed amendment is now before the Judiciary Committee of the Maryland Legislature and will be vigorously opposed by the exhibitors of Maryland, also by the Censorship Committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry of which Gabriel L. Hess is chairman.

Has a censorship board the power to pass upon the social phase of a picture? That question will be decided in a court hearing in Kansas City, Kans., on a picture, "The Contrast," which deals with the industrial situation. Labor interests behind the picture have brought suit in the Wyandotte County District Court to enjoin the Kansas Motion Picture Censorship Board from rejecting the picture.

The picture was made during the recent coal miners' strike in Kansas, and is alleged to encourage strikes, although attorneys for the labor interests assert that the plot is merely a love story woven around every-day industrial life. The state has been given twenty days to file an answer.

Unclean motion pictures attacked on Sunday, February 12th, at the Ogden Tabernacle, Ogden, Utah, by officials of the Mormon church, were defended by H. E. Skinner, president of the Utah branch of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America. The latter's defense was that "no respectable motion picture theatre owner has any use for the unclean motion picture, but all motion pictures should not be condemned because some are improper any more than a library should be condemned because a few books are bad."

President Skinner, talking for the motion picture theatre owners, referred to some of the adverse criticism that arose at the time the Arbuckle case came to the attention of the public. He showed where the theatre managers immediately banned the showing of Arbuckle pictures in their houses. He said that in all the condemnation of the motion picture industry there has been no encouragement and support to those who have struggled for the uplift of the industry.

In conclusion, President Skinner said: "Every show house in Ogden has been careful, I believe, to do all within the exhibitor's power to raise the standard of moral entertainment. We offer no apologies to the ones justly deserving condemnation."

At the fourteenth annual luncheon of the National Board of Review held at the Hotel McAlpin, New York City, Dr. Albert Shiels, one of the founders of the National Board of Review, declared the fundamental fault of the American-made film production to be "not indecency but a deplorable sentimentalism which is responsible for pictures not depicting life as it is—pictures in which all the villains have lots of money and all young women are beautiful." He further declared that while many foreign pictures were badly made and were coming here "in a missionary cause" and not because we did not have good pictures in America, yet the foreign production showed greater seriousness than the American product.

Harry Crandall Issues Statement On Washington Disaster

Mr. William A. Johnston,
Motion Picture News,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Johnston:

Having about regained my proper senses, which I more or less lost during the terrible Knickerbocker disaster, I feel that I would like to make a statement through your paper to all my brother exhibitors in America.

I want to say that I have never been so affected by anything in my life as by this catastrophe, and hope never to see anything like it again. This is the first trouble of any kind I have had in my fourteen years in the motion picture business.

I have labored day and night to build up what was considered by many one of the most complete chains of theatres in this section of the country. I also was fortunate in gathering around me a wonderful executive staff of young men, who worked untiringly for the comfort and best interests of the patrons at all times, and we have been fortunate, despite the terrible conditions all over the country, in keeping our theatres doing business and making money, but with all this system and all of the efforts that it was physically possible for us to put into our business, one of our very finest theatres, namely the Knickerbocker, suffered the collapse that is so well known. Now the question is, why?

It might be interesting to many to know that the first investigation, that of the coroner's jury, held practically everybody in connection with the building for the grand jury with the exception of myself. Although I was exonerated entirely, this does not lessen a certain load that is bound to be on my mind, for the reason that the theatre bore my name.

It might also be of interest to know that I was not really in on the original construction of the building, but took it over some time after it was completed. I do not say this to clear myself in any way, if I were responsible, because I know positively that Mr. Wagner, the builder, was one of the best builders in Washington. There is also no reason for anyone to think that the theatre was slighted in construction to save money, for the highest bidder was awarded the contract by reason of his being the most reliable. This theatre was built before the United States got into war, when good labor and material were plentiful and at a reasonable figure, and whereas I don't want to appear egotistical, I think any one who knows will agree that the Knickerbocker theatre could be considered at least among the ten best theatres in the United States. As to its clientele, something that I have never touched on before, it probably had the most eminent clientele of any theatre in America. That was unfortunate, for the reason that it made the calamity a national issue, as some of the most prominent people in this country were either hurt or killed in the disaster. The Knickerbocker was a theatre that catered to Congressmen and Senators, to Vice President Marshall, William Gibbs McAdoo, and many other high officials of the Government, as well as to all the diplomats of foreign countries. I simply bring this out to show that sometimes your wonderful clientele may be against you, meaning by that that when you have an unfortunate accident which would be more or less local under ordinary conditions, with a clientele like this it immediate becomes of national or even international importance. Being of a national character, it surely would have more or less of an effect on all exhibitors throughout the United States.

I feel heartily sorry that my name was in any way connected with a disaster (even though it was beyond my control) that was of such a nature as to affect (as I understand it has) the business of all my brother exhibitors throughout the United States, and hope that their business will quickly recover, as a thing like this may never happen again in a hundred years—and although a verdict has been rendered, the real cause of the collapse of the Knickerbocker has not been absolutely cleared up in my mind, and in the minds of many others.

After the collapse of the Knickerbocker I closed all my theatres for a period of five days, and no exhibitor can realize how I felt when the Metropolitan was reopened on the sixth day, to have the patrons cheer the picture when it went on the screen—it proved how loyal they were, and it would be of value to every exhibitor in this country to start now and gain the confidence of his patrons. I never knew how well I stood until after the calamity. We received thirty-three hundred letters and telephone calls from people in the District, offering their sympathy and help, and so far as I have been able to learn, not one person in Washington has held me in any way accountable for the accident, and they have tried to prove this by their wonderful attendance. The whole city seems to be solidly behind us, and that surely is something that an exhibitor should be proud of, because in times like this people are only too quick to charge the owner with neglect. I have had many relatives of those killed in the disaster come to my office in the most friendly manner to sympathize with me.

I want the exhibitors to remember that what happened to me is apt to happen to them at any time, and that it would be a wonderful thing for every exhibitor in America to have his theatre inspected by the best engineer it is possible for hm to get, so that he might avoid the very thing that I have gone through. This especially applies to the new and wonderful fireproof buildings, which is the kind the Knickerbocker was.

In closing I want to thank your paper for all the kind remarks that were made in my behalf, and also to extend my sympathy to every exhibitor in America who has been adversely affected by my troubles, and hope that such a thing will never happen again, and that business will soon be back to normal.

I also take this opportunity to publicly thank every exhibitor, film producer, manufacturer, star, trade paper, and everyone else who sent me such wonderful wires of condolence at the time when I needed them most.

With very best wishes and kindest personal regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,
H. M. CRANDALL.

M.P.D.A. Dinner Dance to Be Held March 16

Indications are, even at this early date, that the fourth annual dinner-dance of the Motion Picture Directors' Association, to be given this year in honor of Will H. Hays, will be one of the most elaborate and successful social events in the history of the Association.

The dinner-dance will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York, on March 16th. A novel entertainment is promised, a feature of which will be the filming of a two-reel picture of the ball and the screening of it later in the evening.

The M. P. D. A. invites all branches of the industry to participate in this welcome to Mr. Hays. Advance reservations for tickets and tables is requested.

A number of prominent stars, a number of whom are at present on the Coast, will attend, it is promised.

The Executive Committee in charge is composed of George L. Sargent, Chairman; Ashley Miller and John W. Noble.

The Reception Committee: Augustus Thomas, Chairman; Charles Brabin, James Viscount, George B. Seitz and Travers Vale. The Finance Committee: C. J. Williams, Chairman; E. M. Simpson, George Irving. The Floor Committee: Robert G. Vignola, Chairman; William F. Haddock, Harry Hillarde, Tom Terris and Del Henderson.

Kansas City Exhibitors' Co-operative Ass'n

Organization of the Exhibitors' Co-operative Association in Kansas City, the purpose of which is to improve film conditions in the Kansas City territory, was completed at a meeting last week. Organization work has been under way for the last six months. An affiliation for the booking of certain kinds of pictures, approved by the purchasing committee, is planned. The new organization will in no way blend with the work of the Missouri and Kansas state exhibitors' associations, but will co-operate with those organizations at every opportunity. Arrangements have been made with Joe Fox, president of the Phoenix Film Corporation, whereby three films will be accepted each month from that concern, provided they are approved by the purchasing committee.

These officers were elected: President, C. H. Burkey, Summit theatre, Kansas City, Mo.; first vice-president, H. A. McClure, Emporia, Kansas; second vice-president, S. E. Wilhoit, Springfield, Mo.; third vice-president, W. W. Wertenberger, St. Joseph, Mo.; fourth vice-president, J. W. Watson, Benton theatre, Kansas City, Mo.; treasurer, R. A. Shelton, Ashland theatre, Kansas City, Mo.

The purchasing committee: J. P. Everett, Paola, Kansas; chairman, S. A. Davidson, Neodesha, Kansas; H. A. McClure, Emporia, Kansas; R. G. Liggett, Kansas City, Kansas, and A. K. Doussad, Kansas City, Mo.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES—Exhibitors Divide In Opinions As to Box Offices Results

"Dangerous"

THERE is a great deal of danger to the industry in advocating personal appearances of stars before moving picture audiences. Undoubtedly, conscientious exhibitors, desiring to give unusual form of entertainment by the presentation of stars of the first magnitude, feel that in so doing they are in a sense popularizing the industry, all of which we acknowledge as true, and we ourselves have on many occasions featured the personal appearances of the stars of the first magnitude at our various houses, and quite successfully so.

The danger lies in defining or classifying the stars of first magnitude. The mediocre stars (actors or actresses) with a limited career, but with a wonderful publicity representative, inject themselves and by reason of a carefully defined campaign, excite the public mind, which most of the times is doomed to disappointment. I say this advisedly, because there is no particular attractiveness in just that type of moving picture actor or actress who, with a limited ability, appears before a packed house with a few ill-chosen words to say how glad that they are to be with them tonight, "and I think you have a lovely city," and "I wish that we could make pictures in your delightful town, because everybody is so nice to us," and then clumsily, not to say giddily, bow themselves off the stage. The unsuspecting public, believing that they are stars of prominence, makes a fuss over them; they become inflated with their own importance, and in a majority of cases go back and tell the producer what a wonderful success they have had, hoping to secure fabulous salaries, which they are not worthy of.

On the other hand, when the dignified and reputable star appears—and I speak of such delightful representatives of the industry as Clara Kimball Young and Elsie Ferguson—both of whom have gracious mannerisms and natural intelligence and ability to speak to an intelligent audience—I believe it does the industry a great deal of good. Then we have such representative actors as George Beban, Bert Lytell, Hobart Bosworth, William P. Carleton, and many others of the Class A type, that are qualified to appear before audiences and do credit to themselves and the industry. George Beban's recent tour with a condensed version of his "Sign of the Rose" played along with the picture, was unique, artistic and of a class that arrested the attention of the moving picture public throughout the United States.

These stars of the first magnitude are a credit to the industry and perhaps will do more to soften the opinions of the masses, that the moving picture industry is composed of the riff-raff, than anything else.

I personally visit Los Angeles and Hollywood several times a year and have a great many friends in the industry that I always deem it is a distinguished honor and pleasure to be with because their conduct is that of perfect ladies and gentlemen, and they are qualified to sit in any society. The few flappers and lounge lizzards that the industry must have of necessity to depict the realism of life in photo plays, even though a small minority, but sufficient to create a bad omen to the industry as a whole, are the types that we must keep away from public personal appearances and not encourage along those lines.

The producer must be held responsible for the type of stars that he permits to make personal appearances, and until such time as the producer pays attention to this angle, the industry will continue to be the object of slurs that it is not entitled to.

EUGENE H. ROTH,
California Theatre,
San Francisco, Cal.

"Depends on Conditions"

PERSONAL appearances of stars would be a fine thing if they worked for nothing.

This is my opinion in a nutshell of the personal appearance, and it is formed from first-hand observation. Stars undoubtedly draw many patrons into the theatres, but there is a question in my mind as to whether they increase business enough to warrant exhibitors in booking them and get from under, due to the large salaries demanded by the stars.

Your letter seeking comment on this subject reminds me of a story our publicity man told me on the occasion of a costly star's visit.

The publicity man was talking to a "tough editor." In seeking large space, the publicity man mentioned that the player was costing us a lot of money.

The editor gasped in surprise.

"Do you mean to tell me the stars ask money for appearing in person!" he said.

"Certainly they do, and good big money, too," replied the publicity man.

"That's news to me," retorted the editor. "I supposed the stars appeared in person for nothing, in return for the publicity they obtained."

To be perfectly frank, I question the advisability of personal appearances for the reason that they tend to destroy the illusion that surrounds any player on the screen.

Unless a star really has something to offer in the way of dramatic presentation, the public is disappointed. Mere speeches are of little value.

A few personal appearances, say about twice a year, are all any theatre ought to book, according to my way of thinking.

The question is open to argument, I will admit. If a manager can by reason of a personal appearance bring $1,000 more into his house for the week, it looks like good business to do so.

In closing, I would like to say that much of the success of the personal appearance depends upon the popularity of the star. The really big ones are bound to draw big houses; as to the others, the business is measured by their popularity, unless they have something out of the ordinary to offer their audiences. It looks to me like the star always gets the best of it on a personal appearance.

Yours very truly,
BENJAMIN C. FERRISS,
Director of Publicity,
Finkelstein & Ruben,
Minneapolis, Minn.

"Really An Evil"

I SAY "evil" advisedly, having played various stars of prominence and being in the position to know the after effects as well as the results. The principal objection against personal appearances, in my opinion, is that it disillusions the movie fans. Frequently the personal appearances do not measure up to the high standard of the motion picture theatre-goers' imagination, and naturally some personal appearances prove to be disappointments because of that fact. Only those stars that have had actual stage experience are able to interest their audiences. It is not sufficient for any star to get by on a reputation only. The one that makes the appearance must have a message or must be able to entertain, and very few of the motion picture stars can either entertain nor have they a message that interests the general public. Of course, there are exceptions to this rule—there are many stars that entertain delightfully. I can mention many of them who have visited our playhouses—Douglas Fairbanks, Wm. S. Hart, Clara Kimball Young, Bert Lytell, and a few others, but we have had some stars whose names I will omit here, who have made simply dreadful appearances. One star in particular has positively lost many admirers because of her poor appearance and her disinterestedness in pleasing the public. Motion picture stars are for motion picture work—there can be no denying this fact, and while they may be lions in the studio, they are meek lambs on the stage, and they have found that it is easier to hear the click of the camera than the applause of a multitude of people.

Then again, a star should be busy and not have time to maneuver around the country. In fact a newspaper in Buffalo remarked that things must be pretty slow where they make the pictures if these stars have time to galivant around the country. Of course, it was entirely different during the war when artists like Fairbanks, Pickford and Hart lent their services to the government to help to create patriotism and interest through the liberty loan campaign. And the public then realized that stars were making personal sacrifices and greeted them with acclaim. But nowadays the public know that a star would not make a personal appearance unless he or she was being well paid for it. To my way of thinking, a personal appearance cheapens the star. Then again there is the danger of feeding your patrons something that you neither care to nor cannot keep up. Therefore, it is best not to start something that you cannot continue.

I remember as a boy there was something mysterious about the stage—the lights, the scenery—was something to mystify you. I will never forget how I was disillusioned when I found that all I had seen, instead of being castles and palaces, was nothing but scenery and paint. So it is with the star. The people have built in their minds a forbidden thing—a personality that is beyond reach—and behold, here they suddenly discover that their hero is but flesh—with many defects, just as you and I.

In other words, stars, like children, should be seen and not heard.

H. B. FRANKLIN,
Shea Amusement Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Backfiring on Adverse Propaganda

Wm. A. Johnston,
Editor Motion Picture News,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York, N. Y.
Dear Mr. Johnston:—

During the past few months the motion picture industry has been cursed with some very undesirable notoriety following two regrettable events in which prominent screen personages figured.

Practically every newspaper in the country has spent the entire front page, and as many more pages as possible, with lurid stories, playing up unimportant details in seventy-two point headings, and injuring the industry to the extent only to be determined later.

Because of this I feel that you will be interested in the enclosed articles which have been published during the last few days through co-operation with the Detroit Journal, and I feel that it is the most constructive propaganda for the industry that has been used in any newspaper in the United States.

Following the appearance of one of the articles, I enjoyed a conference with Mr. H. Scott, Managing Editor, Detroit News, and Clarence Linder, Motion Picture Editor, Detroit Journal, and I am glad to call your attention to the excellent co-operation that they have given.

In order that the people of Michigan can hear the other side of the story, I have sent copies of these articles to every exhibitor in Michigan, and have made arrangements that he can purchase at cost a folder containing these articles. I feel, and have been informed by Mr. Scott that these articles were very well received by the motion picture going public who love the motion picture folk, and who were only too glad to read some constructive publicity concerning them.

It just seems to me that other newspaper editors over the country should be interested in similar articles, for I don't believe that it is their desire to be unfair to the industry, but, as Rev. Carl Dodd, Hollywood minister, has pointed out, virtue seldom gets on the front page of any newspaper, while the revels of some motion picture extra, or even some one prominent in the industry carries with it that news value which aids circulation.

I just wanted you to have these articles so that you could know that in Michigan we are receiving some excellent co-operation from at least a portion of the newspapers, and I cannot help but feel that this will be advantageous.

With the kindest personal regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Michigan.
H. M. Richey,
General Manager.

Operators Seek Regulation of Film Exhibitions

The moving-picture operators of Rhode Island, largely representative of the union, are to demand an investigation of the conditions under which moving picture shows are conducted in all sections of the State, as a preliminary step in a movement to procuring the passage of a State law to regulate film exhibitions. A committee has been appointed and a thorough investigation is being conducted.

The union, at a meeting held this week, voted that the members refuse to run films which were found to be defective and send such defective films to the office of the Fire Commissioners; to notify all persons who are known to own projection machines to hire only licensed operators to run them, and to call the attention of the proper authorities to the sale of inflammable film to children who own "toy" machines.

The operators declare that the majority of the theatres in the cities are properly equipped, but they hold that in halls, churches and schools uninspected machines are operated without fire protection by unlicensed and frequently by inexperienced operators.

Bill Would Broaden Power of New York Censors

The exact reading of a bill just introduced by Senator Clayton R. Lusk in the New York state legislature, broadening the authority of the State Motion Picture Commission, and which is of interest to producers and exhibitors, follows:

"The Commission shall have power to issue subpoenas or subpoenas duces tecum, administer oaths and examine witnesses under oath, to inspect and require the production of any books, records, papers or documents for the purpose of investigating any matter relating to the licensing or granting of permits for films, or relating to the exhibition of any identification matter required to be exhibited by law or the rules and regulations of said Commission, and any matter relating to violations of this act or the rules and regulations made by said Commission. Such subpoenas shall be issued under the hand of the Chairman and the seal of the Commission, and may be served by any officer or employee of the Commission or by any police or peace officer. Any person who shall omit, neglect or refuse to obey a subpoena, or who shall refuse to testify, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Shortcomings of the Press Book

The following letter, from a prominen Montreal newspaper man, contains some pertinent thoughts on the press book question:

William A. Johnston, Esq.,
Motion Picture News,
Dear Sir:—

Here's to Charles M. Stenson, in your issue of February 18! He's got the nail on the head in more than one point!

I have wanted for a considerable time to make a kick at the sort of thing which is being sent out as a press book in many cases. I hesitated, as I did not feel that I could very well do so, as at present I am only a species of deputy press agent for the above show, but I am a newspaper man, and the quality of the goods sent out as press matter makes me wonder if the men who get them up are really newspaper men themselves, or if, in case they are, they ever worked on anything outside a small town paper.

Take the following as a glaring particular instance. A press book comes along. The publicity man, not having seen the picture, depends greatly on it. The book opens with miles of stuff about the birthplace of the actors, the parentage of the authors, the qualifications of the scenarioist and a little about the story—not the story itself, but a story of how it came to be written.

Then follows a bunch of stories, with the flaring two and sometimes three-column headlines, "Send these to your editors—illustrate them with the cuts shown here (two and three-column) and they'll eat them up." This gives one to think furiously.

Then anything from a grace to a dozen of long-winded tales about different items in the productions and two or three little skimpy details of the production.

The cuts shown are usually so made as to permit of no additional matter in the body, without serious danger of utter spoiling by cutting.

Other press books are little else than boosts for the picture and aids in selling it, instead of being a help to the exhibitor or his ad man.

All press books are not alike, but many, far, far too many, fall down woefully. A bit of pepping up is wanted. It looks as though executives would do worse than ginger up their exploitation department.

P. S.: Credit is undoubtedly due the Metro publicity for their book on "The Conquering Power."

Pages 1362-1368

An Even Better Reviewing Service

This Week and Every Week—Pictures Reviewed from the Exhibitors' Standpoint.

New Releases Classified, Analyzed, Criticized in a Short, Comprehensive Manner.

Censor Law Repeal Is Discussed at Albany

Advocates of Both Sides Attend Hearing; Operators' License Bill May Pass

MOTION picture affairs continue to occupy the attention of New York State legislative circles. A hearing was held at the State Capitol on Tuesday, February 21st, to repeal the New York State Motion Picture Commission law, at which advocates of both sides attended and spoke for and against the proposed bill.

While the hearing was supposed to start at 2 o'clock, it was nearly 4 o'clock before it was finally under way. The fight to repeal the law was led by Thomas Dixon, representing the Authors' League of America and the author of "The Clansman," who declared that censorship was really putting the shackles on creative thinking. Continuing, Mr. Dixon said that censorship served the purpose of lowering the type and value of motion picture production.

Peter A. Brady, of the New York State Federation of Labor; Samuel I. Berman, secretary of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of the State, and Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, of New York, spoke in urging the repeal of the present law.

George H. Cobb, chairman of the New York State Motion Picture Commission; Joseph Levenson, secretary, and Canon Chase spoke in support of the law.

Mr. Levenson said: "In no state where motion picture regulation legislation has been enacted has it been repealed. The movement has spread over the country. The attitude of the industry has been one of opposition with an unwillingness to co-operate with the Commission to bring about changes in the law which would bring the industry more in harmony with the Commission. Motion picture regulation in this state is improving conditions for the theatre owners, but they are blind to their own interests. If it were not for the law, the slump in the motion picture business would have been a great deal worse than it is now."

During the hearing a lively tilt arose between Senator Walker and Canon William S. Chase, which was only brought to an end when Assemblyman Moore informed Canon Chase that the committee before whom the hearing was held, had absolute confidence in Senator Walker, although he was of the opposite party.

A hearing of the McKee bill, relating to the licensing of motion picture operators in first class cities of the state, was also held the same afternoon. There appeared to be little opposition to the measure.

Among the speakers in favor of the bill was Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, of the Bronx, who declared that exhibitors were against the bill on the grounds that it would add to the cost of their overhead and that they entirely forgot that the bill tended to make more safe the motion picture theatres of today, and that the bill would work to the good of the entire industry.

Samuel Kaplan, who is at the head of the motion picture operators in this state, declared that the bill would go far in making the theatres safe for everyone, and that his sole desire was to bring about the employment of licensed and experienced men.

The bill as it now stands serves to open the booths in the motion picture theatres in New York, Rochester and Buffalo, the first class cities of the state, to those who desire to learn the business, and without making it mandatory in any way for the owner of the theatre to employ them during the six months, while they are gaining first-hand knowledge of operating by actually working with an experienced licensed operator.

The sole opposition to the bill came from former Senator J. Henry Walters, of New York, associated with the Keith interests, and whose opposition apparently was mainly that it would interfere with the operation of projection machines in the homes.

PICTURES AND PEOPLE

(Continued from page 1336)

Acknowledged that motion pictures are uplifting, educating and entertaining. But Cleveland exhibitors—at least the three who run all-night shows—claim an added blessing for the silent drama. Seeking a reason for the increase in business, they found the so-called "floaters" of the city figured it cheaper to pay fifteen cents admission to a theatre, see pictures and get snatches of sleep, than it was to pay for a bed in a lodging house.

* * *

A Chicagoan writes in and take exception to a local newspaper advertisement of "Orphans of the Storm."

To-wit: "It (the production) took enough electricity to light Chicago for a day; enough building materials to erect a skyscraper; and has as many in it as pass a State street corner Saturday afternoon."

"If that is true," says the loyal Chicagoan, "it made an awful dent in the Federal Reserve."

* * *

JULES H. ROTHSCHILD, manager of the Strand theatre, Wilmington, Del., has undertaken two commendable tasks.

He is running a campaign to convince his patrons that if a picture is good it does not matter who is in it and is striving with might and main to counteract the ill-effects of the alleged news stories that are appearing in many papers, relative to the film industry and film people.

Mr. Rothschild's educational campaign is best explained by quoting from a recent letter.

Mr. Rothschild writes:

"I am taking articles to the papers telling of the educational advantages of the motion picture. My efforts have not stopped at this, for the mayor has been advised by letter that the screens are open for public information and enlightenment on topics of civic improvement and can be made use of by the public departments for the public welfare.

"The greatest opportunity for an exhibitor to be of useful public service is to cooperate with the board of education. This is more convenient for the neighborhood theatre which only opens at night. In my letter to the president of the board of education the educational advantages of the motion picture were explained.

"I informed him that part of the day could be given over to school children, under the supervision of their teachers, for visual education. Informed him also that the theatre, its facilities and equipment was at his service and that I would lend all the assistance at my command to make such an undertaking a success."

It is needless to relate that MOTION PICTURE NEWS approves of Mr. Rothschild's idea of co-operation with the people of his city, and especially commends his efforts to counteract the effect of alleged news stories that appear from time to time in the papers.

* * *

A LAWTON, Okla., exhibitor recently paid $300 plus for his luncheon. The "plus" went for the luncheon and the tip. Where the $300 went, nobody knows. When last seen it was reclining easily within the Dome theatre safe. After lunch hour, the safe was still there but not the three hundred. Judging from reports of the last few weeks, the yeggs have laid off the United Cigar Stores for a space and have turned to picking on the exhibitor—just as though he were not already being "relieved" of his cash sufficiently. Here's some of the story in brief for the last couple of weeks:

Ten reels of "Over the Hill," valued at $1,000, stolen from the College Playhouse, Seattle; $1,500 from the safe of the Ohio and American Theatre Co., Cincinnati; $600 from the safe of the Orpheum theatre, Minneapolis; $2,166 from the Garden theatre, Kansas City; attempt to blow the safe of the Isis theatre, Kansas City, frustrated; $150 from the Majestic theatre, East St. Louis; $2,000 from Century theatre, Brooklyn.

Brandt Denies Rumors of Break with Cohen

THE publication which appeared in a trade paper last week to the effect that there was a break in the harmonious relations that have always existed between Sydney Cohen, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' of America and William Brandt, president of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce, brought the following denial from Mr. Brandt, this week prior to his leaving for Albany to attend the State Convention of Exhibitors:

"I wish to deny most emphatically that Sydney Cohen and I have broken friendship. On the contrary, never have the two organizations, the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce and the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America more closely co-operated in constructive work for the benefit of the exhibitor. I deeply regret that at this time any impression of conflict between Mr. Cohen and myself and the two organizations we represent, should have become the topic of trade discussion. There is absolutely no truth in any of the rumors now extant. I have only to repeat that Mr. Cohen and myself are working together most harmoniously and I am certain that he will bear me out in this statement."

Canadian Exhibitors Hold Busy Convention

The many theatre managers at the second annual convention of exhibitors of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, which was held at Manitoba Hall, Winnipeg, February 15 to 17, decided to ask for an abolishment of the "war tax" on theatre admission tickets, and also took official objection to the exemptions from the ticket tax obtained by numerous charity, church and fraternal organizations—to the detriment of real theatres. The exhibitors decided to discourage the presentation of moving pictures in which the dignity of the law was travestied, and they also decided to ask for official action against the presentation of any pictures in structures which constituted a fire hazard, such as temporary buildings, halls with few exits and structures in which fire precautions were not installed.

On the motion of George Semper of Brandon, the exhibitors decided to negotiate with express companies for reduction in express charges on film shipments and to press for a return rate for films. The Saskatchewan exhibitors at the conference decided to organize their own Provincial organization, and a meeting of exhibitors is to be held at Regina, Sask., shortly.

Paramount Club to Hold Dance March 31

As the closing feature of the observance in New York City of the tenth anniversary of the feature motion picture, which will be celebrated all over the country throughout March, the Paramount Club, composed of the employes in the home office and New York exchange of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, will hold a dance Friday evening, March 31, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore.

Allen Merger Not to Alter Policy of Theatres Now

That the asorption of Allen Theatres, Ltd., by Famous Players Canadian Corporation, now under way, would not affect the policy of any affected theatre until the end of the present season at least, is admitted by Mr. N. L. Nathanson, of Toronto, managing director of the Famous Players-Canadian Corporation.

According to Mr. Nathanson, the need for economy entered largely into the reason for the acquisition of the many Allen theatres in Canada. The keen competition between the theatres of the respective organizations in practically all of the larger cities in the Dominion was now being eliminated but the individual policies of all houses would be maintained until the summer, he declared.

Mr. Nathanson announced that no special stock issue would be required to finance the absorption because the men identified with the Famous Players Canadian Corporation could take care of the financial end of the transaction themselves. The Allens held 51 per cent of the common stock of Allen Theatres, Ltd., and their chain of theatres from Quebec to Vancouver comprises over 40 houses. The combined circuits represent no less than 80 modern theatres. In Toronto there are 10 Allen theatres, practically all of which are large new houses. Famous Players-Canadian Corporation has nine theatres in Toronto.

Pantages' franchises for Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal are held by Mr. Nathanson. No disposition has yet been made of the Montreal franchise, but he would not say whether Pantages' vaudeville would be put into any of the theatres in Montreal which are or would be controlled by the Famous Players-Canadian Corporation. No change would be made for this season, in any event, he said.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Wiliam A. Johnston, Pres. & Editor
E. Kendall Gillett, Treasurer
George D. Gould, Managing Editor
Fred. J. Beecroft, Adv. Mgr.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant

Chicago Representative, L. H. Mason, 910 S. Michigan Ave.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, Suite 205, Baker-Detwiller Building, 412 West Sixth St.; 'Phone Pico 780. Subscription $3 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $5. Foreign, $8. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book. Western Union registered cable address is "Picknews," New York.

Copyright, 1922, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

Guild to Combat Vilifiers of Film Industry

THE INDEPENDENT SCREEN ARTISTS' GUILD, comprising forty of the best known producers and stars, has launched a defensive campaign against the vilification of the motion picture industry by certain Eastern newspapers. A statement issued by the Guild declares:

"Everyone who likes pictures and wants to see them improved should know that we screen artists are fighting to maintain our artistic independence. It's only a little while since a great movie trust had just about got control of the moving picture industry.

"The near-trust had most of the prominent stars and directors under contract. The artists had to work for it or nobody. The trust was getting so strong that it was able to force theatre owners to pay ruinous film rentals or go out of business.

"When we were making pictures for large organizations, tied down by Wall street finance, we didn't have the liberty of producing such films as our own instincts and experience dictated. We didn't even call our lives our own, bound down as we were by contracts full of 'joker' clauses. And the right to happiness certainly was not part of our daily business routine.

"The Independent Screen Artists' Guild is as yet a young organization, but we hope eventually to number every big producer and star of motion pictures in our ranks. At the present moment we are working hand in hand with the theatre men in First National to combat the falsehoods being circulated regarding motion picture people as a whole.

"We believe that the best means of counteracting the insidious campaign of vilification now being waged against motion picture people is to secure the support of the photoplay patrons of America by means of our messages on the screen."

In a wire addressed to Motion Picture News, Frank E. Woods, president of Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America requests that exhibitors all over the country be on the alert for attacks on the industry published in their local newspapers and that the theatre owners send to the Screen Writers' Guild, 6716 Sunset boulevard, Hollywood, Cal., clippings of such attacks, together with the name of the town and of the paper and the date under which the articles appeared.

Schiller to Become Loew General Manager

Ed A. Schiller, who for the past few years has been the Southeastern representative of Loew's Theatres, Inc., has been promoted to the position of general manager of Loew's theatres, and will have complete direction of all Loew theatres with the exception of Greater New York.

Watervliet, N.Y., to Permit Sunday Openings

The city council of Watervliet, N. Y., last week adopted an ordinance permitting motion picture shows in that city on Sunday nights. Prior to the passage of the ordinance, about 200 members of various church organizations in the city appeared before the council and voiced their protest.

In the Film Centers

Activities of Exchange Managers, Exhibitors, Salesmen and Others

St. Louis

Jack Weil reports that conditions in Indiana are on the upward trend. He made this statement after returning from a trip to Terre Haute, Vincennes and Evansville.

F. E. Pertle, Jerseyville, Ill., movie magnate, is on the trail of some auto thieves who stole his handsome new Marmon car from in front of the Fox exchange and then abandoned the car after wrecking it on the Lemay Ferry road in St. Louis County.

Paramount had several important callers last week. Among them was Lee Ball, district manager; Claud Saunders, of the Famous Players Lasky exploitation department, and J. E. McManus, Paramount Kansas City manager.

Jack O'Neil, of the city sales staff of Pathe has returned from a visit to Dallas, Tex. He went South to aid a sick friend.

Barney Rosenthal attended the Western premier of "Foolish Wives" at the Roosevelt Theatre, Chicago, last Wednesday. While there he arranged to have Miss Dupont, star of the picture, come to St. Louis when the feature is first presented to the movie fans of this city.

Out-of-town exhibitors who called at local exchanges this week included: Leo Keiler and Col. Levy of Paducah, Mayfield and Owensboro, Ky.; Harry Miller, Festus, Mo.; F. E. Pertle, Jerseyville; Joe Erber, East St. Louis; J. G. Burbank, Rolla, Mo.; C. F. Brady, Cape Gerardeau, Ill.

Cleveland

Charles E. Perry, local manager for the Select exchange tendered his resignation in order to become affiliated with the Chicago office of United Artists. Mr. Perry leaves for his new fields early next week. His successor has not yet been named.

E. Mandelbaum, president of First National Exhibitor's Company, of Ohio, is commuting from Cleveland to New York. No sooner is "Uncle Mannie" duly announced as arriving in Cleveland than he has left again for the Big City. He has been in New York all this week.

M. Goldman is the newly appointed manager of the Robertson-Cole exchange here. Mr. Goldman comes to Cleveland from Cincinnati, where he has been manager of the southern Ohio Realart exchange for the past three years.

Richard Deutch and Harry Whitehouse recently joined the list of local exchange managers. Deutsch and Whitehouse have opened an independent exchange called the Sun Feature Film Company, with offices in the Film Bldg., Payne Ave. and East 21st Street. Griffith's "Flower of the Storm," featuring Lillian Gish, and "Confession" are the two releases now being handled by them for the state of Ohio.

Dave Warner, president of the Dave Warner Film Company, of Cleveland, is now living in Detroit. Warner is handling "Why Girls Leave Home" and "School Days" for Michigan. His headquarters are 601 Jos. Mack Bldg.

Harry Charnas and Maurice Levensburger, of the Standard Film Service, have just returned from the director's meeting of the Federated Film Exchange in New York, and say they will soon have some interesting announcements to make.

Pen Sketches

John E. Kimberly

JOHN E. KIMBERLY after a long and eminently successful career in Buffalo's film colony, has gone in business for himself. "Honest John" as he is known throughout the territory, has resigned as manager of the Vitagraph exchange in the Queen City of the Lakes, to become financially interested in Nu-Art Pictures Corporation, 221 Franklin street, Buffalo, with the title of executive manager. Fred M. Zimmerman is president and general manager of the big state rights concern, which is now doing a thriving business in New York, with offices in Buffalo and Albany. Mr. Kimberly was manager of the old Buffalo World Film Company Exchange for over five years. Later he was appointed manager of the Pathe office and for the past two years, has been in charge of the Vitagraph headquarters, where he succeeded old Bill Allen, who is now with R-C Pictures Corporation. It is understood that under the new arrangement, Mr. Kimberly will take care of business in the Nu-Art office. Mr. Zimmerman is forced to be "on the road," so much that his end of the business was neglected. Mr. Kimberly will be ready to receive his many friends at his new stand, commencing Monday, February 27. C. W. Anthony, formerly assistant manager at the Pittsburg exchange, has been appointed manager of the Buffalo Vitagraph office, succeeding "Honest John." There is no more popular man in the industry than Mr. Kimberly and his many friends wish him great success in his new venture. Nu-Art is rapidly taking its place as one of the livest state right concerns in the country.

* * *

Col. W. T. Yoder

COL. W. T. (BILL) YODER is without doubt one of the best known film men in the entire South. His present position as Southern Division manager for Pathe has been acquired by untiring efforts in all departments of the industry. Although his home is in Dallas, Tex., a large part of his time is spent in Kansas City. Five years ago, Col. "Bill" came to Pathe and started out as a salesman. Later he was made branch manager at Dallas, Tex.—then division manager. Fifteen years in the motion picture business have given him a wide knowledge of both the distributing and exhibiting end of the industry and has enabled him to treat all matters pertaining to his duties in a fair and impartial manner. Col. "Bill" is a widower, but confidentially confided in a friend the other day that "single" life has lost its charms for him.

South Carolina

L. L. PROPST has become associated with F. L. Brown in the management of the Columbia Theater, Columbia, S. C. Mr. Propst is a native Columbian and prior to entering upon his present position was connected with the Atlantic Coast Line Railway.

H. R. Kistler, manager of the Strand Theater at Gaffney, S. C., for the past six months, has been transferred by Southern Enterprises, Inc., to Greensboro, N. C. He is succeeded at Gaffney by Bryan Humphries, who was manager of the Strand prior to Mr. Kistler's coming.

Sam Craver, for the past year manager of the Broadway Theatre at Charlotte, N. C., has gone to Winston-Salem, N. C., where he will assume charge of another motion picture theater owned by his father, R. D. Craver. Sam Craver is one of the youngest motion picture theater managers in the country, being still in his teens. R. D. Craver, Jr., brother of Sam, will have charge of the broadway in future.

Ollie A. Savin, for the past six months manager of the Piedmont Theater at Charlotte, N. C., has been transferred to Asheville, N. C., as manager of the Princess and Majestic Theaters there. H. E. Wiggins, formerly of Pittsburgh, where he was manager of the Gaiety Theater, will succeed Mr. Savin, it has been announced by Carl Bamford, manager of the local district for Southern Enterprises, Inc.

Kansas City

H. E. SCHILLER, Kansas City branch manager of Educational, has just returned from what he asserts has been the most successful trip ever made by him. Mr. Schiller called on exhibitors in the southern part of Missouri and Kansas, his main feature being to sell the picture, "The Battle of Jutland." Making six towns and bringing in six contracts would indicate that neither the battle of Schiller nor "The Battle of Jutland" met with much resistance. The towns contracting for the picture were Carthage, Mo., Parsons, Kan., Joplin, Mo., Webb City, Mo., Independence, Kan., and Pittsburg, Kan.

(Continued on following page)

In Film Centers

(Continued from preceding page)

Sam Stall, representative manager of Associated Producers, has been cutting a wide swath in the Kansas City territory lately with a block of seven productions, including "Molly O" and "Hail the Woman." Mr. Stall now holds the record in selling key centers, having closed all towns over 10,000 population in the Kansas City territory, with the exception of four, and is hitting the trail this week to close those.

Roy E. Churchill, Kansas City R-C manager, is firmly convinced that business is on the up-grade; at least it is showing a decided improvement in Kansas City, according to Mr. Churchill.

Two beautiful motion picture houses soon will be completed in Wichita, Kan. They are being erected by Miller and Chambers and Karl Hobitzelle of the Interstate circuit.

L. B. Douglas, formerly assistant manager of the Kansas City Universal branch, as well as owner of the Empire theatre, has again returned to the distributing end of the industry, acting in the capacity of city salesman for Crescent-Federated.

Phil Dunas, Celebrated Players Film Corporation of Chicago, is meeting with marked success in the Kansas City territory with "Why Girls Leave Home." Among his bookings last week were the Isis, Kansas City; Palace, Wichita, Kan.; Isis, Topeka, Kan., and the Grubel circuit, including six towns in Missouri and Kansas.

W. C. Haynes, Goldwyn representative out of Kansas City, asserts that if exhibitors out in the territory can be taken as a barometer, business is not only "picking up," but it has returned to a standard that is closely encroaching upon normalcy.

An agreement, whereby theatres in six towns will be handled as one unit, has been reached by Grubel brothers of Kansas City, Kan., and Jack Truitt of Sedalia, Mo. The theatres in the past have been linked by a vaudeville agreement, the houses being located in Joplin, Mo., St. Joseph, Mo., Sedalia, Mo., Moberly, Mo., Springfield, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan.

Buffalo

JOHN M. SITTERLY, one of the veterans of Buffalo's Film Row, and recently a member of the Nu-Art Pictures corporation staff, has joined the Select sales forces, succeeding "Andy" Sharick, who recently resigned to accept the secretaryship of the Chamber of Commerce in Gowanda, N. Y.

Ray Powers, office manager at Paramount, has received a letter from his old "boss" Harry E. Lotz, former Realart manager, stating that Mr. Lotz having acquired the Pennsylvania state rights on the Dempsey-Carpentier pictures, is moving from Cleveland to Pittsburg to establish an exchange.

Leser Wolfe of Paramount returned from Chicago where he attended the big screening party on "The Mistress of the World." Over 125 theatres have signed up for Paramount's anniversary weeks.

Harold Hughes has resigned from the Nu-Art sales staff. He had been covering the Southern Tier. Mr. Hughes is seeking a new connection. So is "Hub" Taylor, J. L. Cook, O. T. Schroeppel, etc.

W. A. V. Mack, manager of the Pathe exchange, is using a novel letter stunt to drum up business for the Brunet drive. Bill is getting out baby blue letters written in a decidedly feminine hand (by himself). The letter is marked personal and in each case begins "Dearest." Certainly when an exhibitor gets a "billet doux" such as this, he is going to sit up and take notice. Oh, yes, the letters are heavily scented. Bill and his "wrecking crew" pictured in a recent number of MOTION PICTURE NEWS expect to draw the big prize in the Brunet sales contest.

W. C. Fickeisen, former Merit manager, and Mell R. Edwards, formerly with several local exchanges, have organized the Ad-Art Photoplays, with offices at 386-390 Pearl street. They plan to make pictures with towns with local talents and tie-up the films with merchants in an advertising stunt.

Clayton P. Sheehan, George Rowell, Charlie Johnson, Fred Meyers, Jr., and other members of the Fox office, have received large checks from the home offices as bonuses for the excellent business done during the past year. Norman Sheehan, booker, has started for Florida for a rest. Ira Cohen, special feature representative, was in town last week.

Syd Samson of Grand & Warner has closed "School Days" for all the big cities in the territory. He signed up a number of exhibitors at the Albany convention. Harris Lumberg of Niagara Falls is showing the production at the Lumberg theatre in the Cataract city this week. Mr. Lumberg put over an avalanche of publicity on the production.

One of the business men along Film Row is Art Young, office manager at Nu-Art. Mr. Young, like Edison, does not believe in sleep. He thinks nothing of working 20 hours a day. Contracts are coming in so fast that Art has no choice but to sit in his chair all day and half the night. Keep your eye on Nu-Art.

Buffalo

N. I. Filkins, manager of the Merit exchange, is busy signing up the big theatres in western New York for personal appearances for Grace Davison. This star's feature "Love, Hate and Woman," was shown for a week at the Olympic, Buffalo. Mr. Filkins announces "Creation," the first of the series of stories based on "The Bible," going big throughout the territory.

Henry W. Kahn, Esq., manager of the Metro exchange, has engaged Howard Riehl to succeed Walter Price on the sales staff. Mr. Riehl was formerly connected with several Buffalo exchanges. He will cover the cities along the Southern Tier.

With about 125 theatres signed up for the two anniversary weeks, manager Allan S. Moritz bids fair to break last year's record for Paramount week. Lester Wolfe, special representative handling "The Mistress of the World," is attending a convention of salesmen working on this super-special, in Chicago. It seems that Mr. Moritz never complains about business. It's always good, he tells the NEWS representative.

So certain is W. A. V. Mack of winning the $1,000 check in the Brunet Drive that the Pathe exchange manager is looking over the new motor models.

Richard C. Fox, head of the Select office, is planning an Exhibitors' Week. We don't know just what the idea is, but "Dick" declares that he is guaranteeing a profit on every booking, which sounds reasonable enough. He is explaining the proposition to the exhibitor organizations in Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse. "Conceit," has been closed for all the key cities.

W. A. V. Mack has resigned as chairman of the publicity of the Buffalo Film Board of Trade as well as membership in other committees. He has found the duties of secretary are so heavy that they take up his entire spare time. Bernard D. Welte, executive secretary of the organization will accompany the club members to the Albany convention. The clubs of New York, Buffalo and Albany are planning a big get-together in the Capitol during the convention.

First National Exchanges

WILLIAM J. (BILL) REID has been appointed manager of the Associated First National exchange at Toronto, succeeding William J. Drummond, it was announced by Vincent J. McCabe, Canadian divisional superintendent for First National.

Manager Paul E. Krieger of the Louisville exchange, has engaged Paul Gray as short subjects salesman and to take care of exploitation work in the territory. Gray has been connected with the Moving Picture World, Wid's Daily and with Wid Gunning Pictures.

Manager Sam Y. Edwards, of the San Francisco office, recently spent three days in a hospital, undergoing repairs. He got out in time to put over First National Week on the Coast with a bang.

The new Albany First National exchange here is now operating at full speed, with Alec J. Herman at the helm. For three years Herman was salesman in the territory, and his promotion is considered well-won by the exhibitors hereabouts.

Manager W. E. Callaway, Dallas, is looking for larger quarters. He declares that the rapid increase in business is responsible.

W. E. Knotts, office manager, has been promoted to general manager of the Los Angeles exchange, succeeding David Bershon.

Charles W. Koerner, formerly a salesman working out of the Portland exchange, is the manager of the new Butte exchange. He has organized his staff and the exchange machinery is now running smoothly.

Cleveland

A. A. Schmidt in charge of Universal's Short Subject Department, and central western division manager, paid Cleveland a short call last week. Mr. Schmidt's family, including a wife and three children are living in Cleveland.

Jack Hays, one of the best known film salesmen in this territory, has joined the local Universal crew.

So has Jerry Steele. Steele is covering the northern part of the state for Universal.

M. J. Glick, who, until recently has been connected with the Cleveland Universal exchange in the sales department, has been made manager of Universal's exchange in Washington, D. C. Glick assumed his new duties this week.

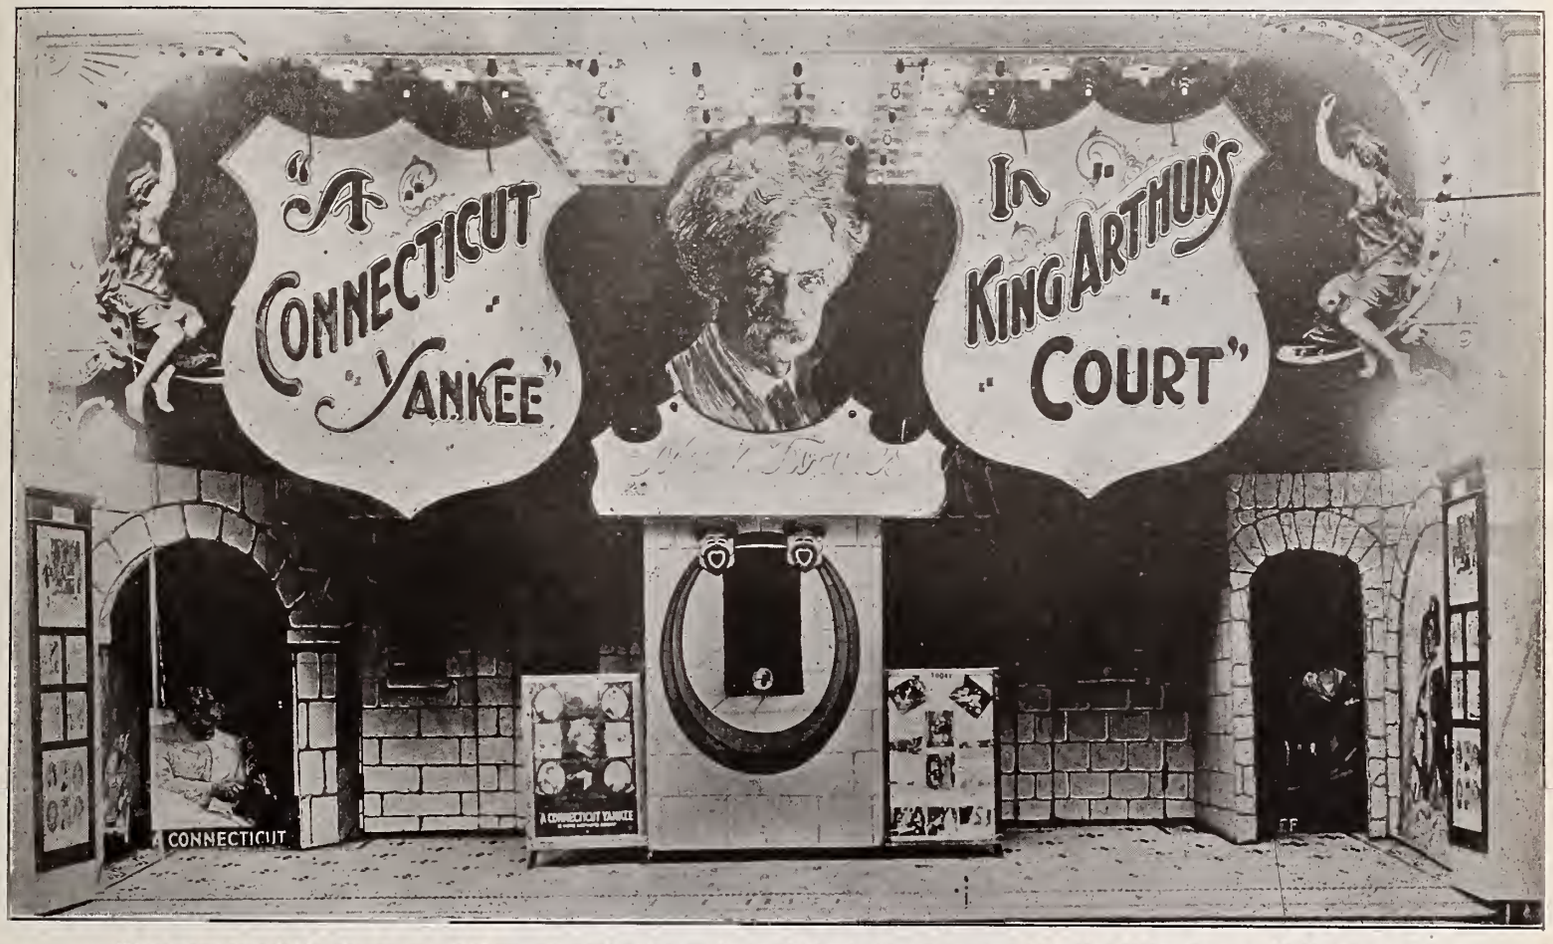
William Shapiro one-time manager of the Cleveland Fox exchange, is now connected with the Fox exchange in Pittsburgh.

Manager Paul Tessier of the local Pathe office, after his regular custom of promoting from the ranks, has just advanced J. W. Willett from the central poster department to the sales department. Willett is doing city work on the West Side.

E. Mendelbaum, president of the First National Exhibitors Company of Ohio, is back from a visit to New York, where important business was consumated.

C. E. Almy, local Metro manager wears a perpetual smile. The reason for which is a series of telegrams from satisfied exhibitors. Jack Greenbaum manager of the Opera House in Mansfield wired in that "Camille broke all house records on a four day run."

Exhibitors' Service Bureau—Pages 1347-1358



This attractive lobby front on "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court was used by the Globe theatre, McKeesport, Pa.

Advisory Board and Contributing Editors, Exhibitors' Service Bureau

Thomas D. Soriero, Strand theatres, Lowell.

Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.

George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.

H. C. Horator, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.

Edward L. Hyman, Strand theatre, Brooklyn.

Theo. L. Hays, Gen. Mgr. Finklestein & Rubin, Minneapolis.

Leo A. Landau, Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee.

Jack Kuhn, Loew theatres, Cleveland.

S. Barret McCormick, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Cleveland.

W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich.

E. R. Rogers, Managing Director, Tivoli and Rialto theatres, Chattanooga, Tenn.

G. E. Brown, Managing Director, Loew's Palace theatre, Memphis, Tenn.

Stanley Chambers, Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.

Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta.

R. B. Wilby, Supervisor of Southern Enterprises, Inc., Birmingham, Ala.

E. V. Richards, Jr., Gen. Mgr., Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.

F. L. Newman, Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.

Arthur G. Stolte, Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, Iowa.

Chas. Branham, Famous-Lasky, Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Lowell W. Calvert, Managing Director, Capitol theatre, St. Paul, Minn.

W. C. Quimby, Managing Director, Strand and Jefferson theatres, Fort Wayne, Ind.

J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.

Outstanding Features of This Week's Section

What a little "art work" and some discarded flats of a prison set will do is illustrated by the cut appearing above showing a lobby display on "A Connecticut Yankee."

Another nifty lobby decoration idea is explained b ythe cut appearing on page 1349 relative to the "Saturday Night" display originated by Manager Irwin, of the Imperial theatre, Columbia. S. C.

Fred S. Meyer, manager of the Palace theatre, Hamilton, Ohio, sets a pace in co-operative advertising by his stunt for "Reputation," described and illustrated on page 1352.

Providence, R. I., is the latest city to try out, with great success, the "Go to Theatre Week" stunt. A story appears on page 1352 relative to same.

The exhibitor who says his town is too big for home talent stuff is invited read Sid Grauman's "Barber Shop Contest" story on page 1353, and then cogitate.

George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.

Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.

Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

Louis K. Sidney, Managing Director, William Fox theatres, Denver.

Herbert J. Thatcher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.

Geo. Rotsky, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Montreal, Canada.

L. W. Barclay, Managing Director, Nemo theatre, Johnstown, Pa.

Phil. Gleichman, Managing Director, Broadway-Strand theatre, Detroit.

J. L. Johnston, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., of Texas, Dallas, Texas.

Fred S. Myer, Managing Director, Palace theatre, Hamilton, O.

C. C. Perry, Manager, Astor, Strand and Liberty theatres, St. Paul, Minn.

Nelson R. Bell, Publicity Director, Crandall's theatres, Washington, D. C.

L. L. Stewart, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.

Joseph Plunkett, Managing Director, Mark Strand theatre, New York.

Samuel Sivitz, Director of Publicity, Rowland and Clark theatres, Pittsburgh.

Ray Grombacher, Managing Director, Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash.

Ross A. McVoy, Manager, Temple theatre, Geneva, N. Y.

George Tooker, Manager, Regent theatre, Elmira, N. Y.

Ernest G. Stellings, Manager, Grand theatre, Wilmington, N. C.

Phil Gersdorf, Supervisor, Southern Enterprises theatres, Macon, Ga.

"Peacock Alley" decorations originated for the showing of this picture at the Plaza theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Irwin's "Saturday Night" Campaign

Imperial Theatre, Columbia, S. C., Stunts Bring Much Extra Business

A CAMPAIGN which interested a whole city was recently put over for "Saturday Night," by Manager C. W. Irwin of the Imperial theatre, Columbia, S. C.

Three weeks in advance a teaser campaign was started by the use of slides. The next novelty was a stage shadow box something new to the Imperial patrons.

A long piece of beaver board, the length of the screen and about two feet high, was boxed with a row of electric lights inside. "Cecil B. DeMille's Saturday Night" were the words cut out of the beaver board, the letters being covered with red paper.

While the slides featuring "Saturday Night" were run, the lights in this box were flashed on, the red flashing out so brilliantly as to make a profound impression on everyone in attendance. The screen of the Imperial stands about two feet from the floor. This box was placed below the bottom of the screen and so arranged that it could not be seen until the lights were flashed on.

Window cards were distributed and displayed one week in advance. Heralds were gotten out a week in advance.

Next a pretentious lobby display was arranged as shown by the accompanying cut.

This display consisted of a sort of frame transparency, the background was dark blue, night effect. Coney Island scenes of towers, steeples, ferris wheels, etc., were hand drawn cut out and presented in light colors against the dark blue background. The Coney Island scenes were illuminated by electric lights and by holes cut through the beaver board so that the ferris wheels, etc., were outlined brilliantly with rose miniature electric lights. These were also flooded with white lights from the foreground. At the base of this display and immediately in front of it, forming a bottom panel, was a row of figures cut out giving a black silhoutte effect and displaying prominently in miniature, the heads and shoulders of people in the crowd.

From the center of this display and attached to the ceiling of the Foyer, a cut out of a girl in a swing was arranged. Long streamers of various colored paper and ribbons and a number of balloons were arranged around the display, attached to the ceiling, further creating the effect of a carnival.

A fashion show was used as a prologue. It has been a custom to stage such an event as a part of the annual Palmafesta held at Columbia, but this year the celebration was abandoned so the Imperial took advantage of this fact and staged a fashion show of its own.

Six of the biggest merchants in Columbia cooperated and gave prominent displays of frocks and gowns to be shown at the Imperial in connection with "Saturday Night." Special cards were painted for each store and the merchants also announced the fashion show in their advertisements.

In the Fashion Show, nine local society girls took part, displaying frequent changes of frocks and gowns. One of the cuts on the opposite page shows a scene from Mr. Irwin's fashion show.

Cuts showing Mr. Irwin's exploitation appear on the following page.

Dorman Originates Nifty "Peacock Alley" Decorations

Manager Richard Forman of the Plaza theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla., made a tie-up with an exclusive women's shop in St. Petersburg, which furnished a collection of evening gowns, sport suits, lingerie, bathing suits, fans, millinery, etc., for a fashion show to be given in connection with the playing of "Peacock Alley."

All stores contributing any wearing apparel, also donated windows for displays, and cards announcing the fashion show to be given in connection with the picture were placed in all these windows. The shop that furnished the gowns agreed to pay for 50% of the newspaper advertising. The Society Editor of the newspaper published a special review of the fashion show to be given in connection with "Peacock Alley."

About twenty girls residing in Tampa were secured to display these gowns and this was also an added attraction.

Presentation was made effective by a suitable drop and stage decorations. Cards on an easel gave the name of each creation as the models made their respective appearance. A spot was also used which followed the models across the stage, changing colors at each different pose.

Another effective stunt was the announcement of the fashion show and "Peacock Alley" with a megaphone Friday night as the vaudeville crowd was pouring out of the theatre.

Heralds were also distributed announcing the fashion show in connection with the picture.

The lobby was also attractively decorated, with artificial flowers in urns and fastened on the rope which held two peacocks in place. A picture of Mr. Dorman's lobby decorations is shown by the accompanying cut.

Selected Mailing List Danidge's Best Bet

A selected mailing list is one of his best exploitation bets, reports T. Miller Danidge, manager of the Queen theatre, Durant, Oklahoma. Mr. Danidge uses a post card on which he prints in some detail his selling talk for whatever pictures the Queen has scheduled for the week.

Showing how the Forum theatre, Hillsboro, O., used cut-outs to special advantage as exploitation for "The Great Moment."

Looking for Something Special

YOU can secure just the picture you need. That is the work of "The Booking Guide." It will bring to your attention dozens of such productions—features and short-length releases suitable for all occasions. And it will tell you where to get them.

Homer Uses Two Good Publicity Stunts

Manager H. H. Homer of the Colonial theatre in San Diego, Calif., used a couple of good publicity stunts in connection with his presentation of his double bill of "The Playhouse" and "Good References." Hangers, printed in red ink, were attached to the doors of many of the business places throughout the city late Saturday night, so that they would be in place on Sunday morning for the passersby to see, reading as follows: "Closed for the Day. Gone to the Colonial Theatre to Have a Good Laugh at Buster Keaton in 'The Playhouse' and Constance Talmadge in 'Good References.' 1802 Side Splitting Laughs."

He also put out thousands of legal looking documents, bearing on the outside the words: "Summons, Court of Extra Session, State of California, County of San Diego, City of San Diego." Upon the inside the documents read: "Know by These Presents, that you are hereby summoned to appear personally between the hours of 12:45 p. m. and 9 p. m. at the Fourth Street Entrance between B and C or the Fifth Street Entrance between B and C for the purpose of securing evidence that the best entertainment at the lowest prices in San Diego is to be had at the Colonial Theatre.

"Hereby Fail Ye Not to bring this summons, together with the fine of 25c., which will entitle you to any seat in the theatre this week, excepting Saturday and Sunday, to witness an all comedy program featuring Constance Talmadge in 'Good References' and Buster Keaton in 'The Playhouse.'

"Judge of Good Entertainment,
"ATTEST: The Management of Colonial Theatre.

"Thousands Daily of Satisfied Patrons."

The legal appearance of the documents was accentuated by large red seals printed upon them.

Above
Lobby display on "Saturday Night," as described in the story at the left, concerning the campaign on this picture put over by the Imperial theatre, Columbia, S. C.
Left
A view of the Imperial's fashion show which served as a prologue to the picture

Illustrating by cut the prologue number which Sid Grauman, managing director of Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles, staged in connection with his engagement of "Boomerang Bill"

Here's a Simple Exploitation Stunt Worth Borrowing

Cloth labels about two by four inches on which had been printed "I'm Go'n'a See Bob and Bill and Æsop's Fables; also Pathe News, Harold Lloyd and Ruth Roland at the Strand theatre, Thursday," pinned on the coats of Young America at De Queen, Arkansas, was an exploitation stunt recently used by A. L. Middleton, manager of the Grand at De Queen.

The boys were each given a pass to the show if they would wear the labels about the streets. People stopped the youngsters to read the message, and the result was, Mr. Middleton states, "Big Business."

Mr. Middleton was starting a Ruth Roland serial and wanted to give the number a big send-off. The scheme worked to perfection.

Weinberg Uses "Tol'able David" Reviews in His Ads.

WHEN E. O. Weinberg put on "Tol'able David" at the Mark-Strand in Buffalo he played up the criticisms of the New York newspapers in his ads. All the reviews of the Gotham sheets praised the production in lavish phrases, which were inserted in the ads, which were changed daily.

This "I Accuse" display was used recntly at the Columbia theatre, Seattle, Wash.

Nice Lobby on "One Arabian Night" Everett's Latest

"One Arabian Night" was exploited consistently by J. H. Everett, manager of the Palace theatre, Marysville, Tenn.

Mr. Everett concentrated on a lobby display. A sky was made of black netting with stars and a half moon cut out and pasted on, these were gilded. Arabian cloth painted buildings were arranged on each side of the lobby. Behind the buildings, lights were placed to illuminate doors and windows. A cut-out of Pola Negri was made from a three sheet and placed in the center of the lobby. Lights in the lobby were blue.

Taxi Cab Ballyhoo for "The Sheik"

The taxi cabs of Marysville, Mo., were tied up to ballyhoo "The Sheik" when George Fuchs played the Paramount release at his Empire theatre.

There are ten cabs in town and big signs were placed on the back and on the windshield of each.

Fochs also arranged a parade of boy scouts to carry banners. All the important dry goods stores were tied up for co-operative windows.

"Conflict" Lobby Display Costs Little

WILLIS WARVELLE GRIST, manager of the Temple theatre at Ranger, Tex., recently put some zest into the lobby of his theatre with some special stunts on "Conflict."

Mr. Grist went to the outskirts of town, chopped off a few small branches of trees, brought them back to the theatre and sawed them into pieces out of which he spelled the name "Conflict." A touch of paint and some diamond dust gave the letters a snowy topping and when they were suspended from underneath the marquis and blue-white light rays reflected on them "Conflict" became interesting and legible at some distance. Then Mr. Grist made cut outs of Miss Dean's head, of a scene showing her making her way down a mountain stream on a log and of another closeup of Miss Dean and Rawlinson together and placed these on the top of the canopy with reflectors playing upon them. At night when the Temple front was lighted up that portion of town looked like it had taken a new lease on life and the crowd moved down that way.

Automobile Licenses Give Orpheum Management an Idea

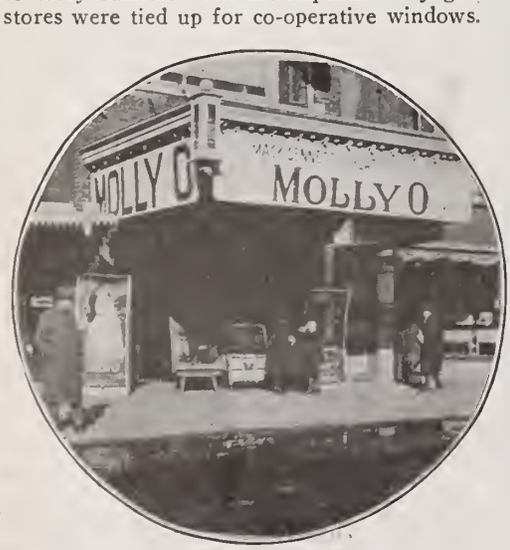
As an advertising boost the Orpheum theatre of Edmonton, Alberta, has been publishing various local automobile license numbers in its daily advertising space in the Edmonton newspapers, the owner of the car whose registration number appears in the displays being entitled to two reserved seats on the ground floor. The owner of the automobile is required to show his license card at the box office as proof of eligibility. The license numbers are changed daily. The result is that many people are watching the theatre advertisements closely.

"What Do Men Want?" Banne Used at Newark

Newark, N. J., was attracted by a huge banner in the skies over Market and Broad streets during the showing of "What Do Men Want?" at the Newark Theatre.

At night a searchlight played on the white canvas constantly, and with the black sky as a background the effect was tremendous.

This, with special newspaper publicity, was a part of a campaign that made the picture one of big interest and kept the Newark Theatre packed all week.



"Molly O" decorations by Jos. J. Jacobson manager of the Strand theatre, Marshalltown, Iowa.

Fort Worth Paper Helps Gould Exploit Feature

When "Why Girls Leave Home" was shown at the Hippodrome theatre, Fort Worth, recently, Manager Harry Gould hurried to the office of the Fort Worth Record, got the editor to permit the re-run of 10,000 impressions of a page feature story headed "Where Runaway Girls Run To," as told by Grace Humiston and illustrated by Gordon Barrick. The plate for the feature story was put on the press opposite that containing a half page ad about "Why Girls Leave Home" and another calling attention to Sunday features of the Record. For the advertising the paper got out of it the 10,000 copies cost Mr. Gould almost nothing, and for the distribution and interest the big feature herald created Mr. Gould had to pay but proportionately little. The hunch proved a mighty good tie-up, as the Hippodrome receipts proved.

Classy pastels used in the lobby of the California theatre, during the run of "The Glorious Fool"

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" ballyhoo put over by Harry Greenman, manager of the Fox-Liberty theatre, St. Louis

Many Novelties for "Don't Tell Every Thing"

Newspaper teaser classified ads reading—"Wanted, Women Who Don't Tell Everything" started the exploitation campaign on "Don't Tell Everything" at the Palace theatre, Maryville, Tenn.

When a number of women telephoned to the paper about the ad. they were referred to Manager J. H. Everett at the Palace.

Another of Mr. Everett's stunts was the use of teaser slides, the copy selected being the French, Spanish and Portuguese language "Tell what you must, but Don't Tell Everything."

Soda fountain clerks and drug store clerks were coached to say to customers "Don't Tell Everything."

Special cards were made to fit over the transmitters of local telephones in pay-stations and drug stores, reading "Don't Tell Everything" and these were put up two weeks in advance.

The standard reverse blotters were placed on every desk and table in colleges, high schools, etc., before school opened, the day before presentation.

Here is a cut that explains the ballyhoo which Harmon Yaffa manager of the Majestic theatre, New York, worked to good advantage on "Morals."

Myers Gets Stage Stars as Guests

SOL MYERS, manager of the Criterion theatre, Buffalo, pulled a good publicity stunt last week when he invited Jefferson De Angelis, Vivienne Segal, Marie Wells, Raymond Crane and others, principals of "The Merry Widow" cast, to occupy boxes at a matinee showing of "Foolish Wives." Advertised in advance by ads and special stories, the stunt attracted a capacity house. All the members of the cast attended.

Greenman Uses Novelty Ballyhoo for "Ten Nights"

Manager Harry Greenman of the William Fox Liberty theatre literally, figuratively and every other way made St. Louis sit up and take notice when he put "Ten Nights in a Barroom" across at the Delmar boulevard showhouse last week.

Beginning with a series of newspaper advertisements that were distinctly different, Greenman finished with a bang by invading the business sections of the city with a squad of ex-service men carryying banners advertising the show. Each man was dressed in his overseas uniform and had a sign pinned to his back as well as carrying a banner.

A comedy touch was added by a pair of "nuts" with a one-horse power "buggimobile" that blocked traffic wherever they went. The pair were attired in freakish white uniforms and were in themselves a knockout. Their buggy equipped like an early vintage automobile was pushed by the horse. The steering apparatus consisted of a hemp rope. A picture frame formed the wind shield. An aeroplane on the roof and a dove of peace were other laugh producers of the outfit. There were suitable signs announcing the film at the Liberty.

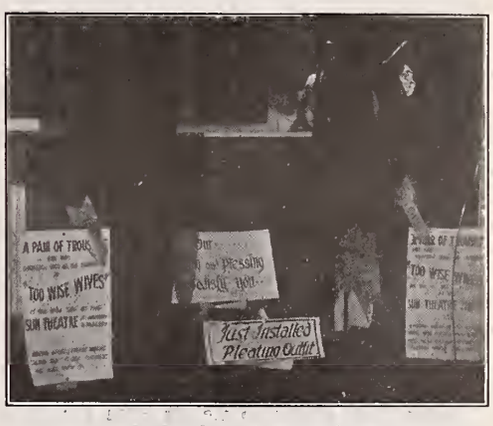
The advertising campaign in the newspapers opened with an open letter to prohibitioners and those who believe that prohibition is an infringement of personal liberty. Then came a blind ad "What Started Prohibition?" in which the picture's title did not appear. Appeals to the clergy, the chief of police and the city at large were included.

Patterson's Newspaper Campaign on "My Boy"

The rains descended and the winds blew, but the Metropolitan theatre, Atlanta, continued to play to capacity houses all week because Manager W. C. Patterson had made "My Boy" the medium of an intensive advertising campaign.

Pat put it up to the Atlanta Journal to use pictures of Jackie Coogan in the rotogravure section of the paper. Several poses of Jackie were used in the Sunday preceding the run. Specially written stories in all three Atlanta papers on Sunday and during the run gave new impetus and a specially drawn ad used in all papers of Sunday, three columns-ten inches, was more than usually effective. The newspaper advertising totaled for the week about 165 inches; the usual amount of billboard advertising, which is conservative for this house, and the attractive lobby completed the exploitation.

An exceptionally fine stroke was the distribution of 80,000 heralds, a distribution that reached a large proportion of Atlanta's amusement loving public. A special drive was made for school children. Boys distributed the heralds simultaneously on a given day from every school in the city as the children were dismissed for the day. The results were manifest in the box office.



This window display helped sell "Too Wise Wives" to the patrons of the Sun theatre, York, Neb., managed by C. A. Block

This cut shows the lobby display on "Room and Board" originated by the Strand theatre, Spartansburg, S. C.

"Reputation Week" Meyer's Latest Exploitation Stunt

Accompanying this story is a cut showing the lobby front and a display of articles placed in the lobby in connection with the campaign put over on "Reputation" when this picture played F. S. Meyer's, Palace theatre, Hamilton, O.

The lobby display cut is self explanatory. The other display was part of a "Reputation Week" which Mr. Meyer originated. Local merchants were induced to place samples of their product on exhibition in the Palace lobby, the idea being to display only those articles which had won a high reputation in Hamilton. The merchants and the theatre cooperated on the stunt to mutual advantage and profit.

Cooperative Ads for "Forever" Used at Elmira, N. Y.

The Mozart theatre, Elmira, N. Y., unloosened a full page co-operative ad for "Forever" that made the whole town stop and read.

Sixteen merchants lined up and each took a 1¼-inch ribbon extending clean across the page. The letters making up the name of the firm were jumbled around unintelligibly, and the trade slogan giving the clue to the identity of the merchant completed the display. Persons figuring out the correct names were given prizes.

The Mozart permitted the Advertiser to offer $15, $10 and $5 to the first three winners.

Orpheum Theatre, Flint, Secures Nine Window Tie-ups

NINE of the biggest merchants in the city of Flint, Michigan, were tied up with window displays by Charles Garfield, of the Orpheum theatre during and prior to the showing of "Why Girls Leave Home."

Music stores were linked up with the song bearing the title of the picture, phonograph and book stores, lingerie and candy shops and department stores were more than eager to tie up with the picture, according to Mr. Garfield.

"Room and Board" Lobby Lends Fine Atmosphere

OLD stage scenery, frequently discarded by improvident theatre managers, can be converted into excellent lobby display material, it has been discovered by Manager C. H. Amos, of the Strand theatre, Spartanburg, S. C. In making his lobby display for "Room and Board" Manager Amos merely trimmed some old stage scenery into the outline of a rugged castle that filled the lobby.

Providence, R. I., Stages "Go to Shows" Week

PROVIDENCE, R. I., is the latest city to observe a "Go to Shows" week. It was a complete success in every sense of the word. From an exploitation standpoint it proved what effective advertising can do. Every theatre in the city, and particularly motion picture houses, went to it heavy. They also consolidated in one big co-operative advertising campaign, and on the day preceding the opening of the new bills for the week, full page advertisements on "Theatre Week" were used.

It also brought out some new types of advertising as well, and at the same time showed that short reel subjects may be featured over the so-called big features, and the managers get away with it. Especially was this true of the Rialto and Emery theatres. Both houses—under the same management — played "Never Weaken." The Rialto is devoted to pictures, and the Emery to vaudeville, with one feature.

Local Merchants Help Addison Sell "Why Girls Leave Home"

H. E. Addison, of the Stone Opera House Binghamton, N. Y., just about monopolized th space in the Binghamton newspapers when h showed "Why Girls Leave Home." One o his best stunts was the page tie-up with loca stores, in which Mr. Addison offered 100 fre tickets as prizes to those who wrote the bes 25-word articles on the "ads" which they con sidered the best on the page. All the "ads" used the title of the picture in various forms Mr. Addison also put over a page story quoting various officials on the subject and persuaded one editor to run another page article on th menace of autos and roadhouses. A "Mystery Girl" contest also brought much free space fo the theatre. and, to cap the climax, Mr. Ston put out 500 one sheets and 35 24-sheet bill boards.

The cut in connection with the story accompanying explains how F. S. Meyer managing director of the Palace theatre, Hamilton, O., put over his engagement of "Reputation"

Showing a view of Sid Grauman's "Barber Shop" contest as explained by the accompanying story relative to the special number presented recently at Grauman's Million Dollar theatre, Los Angeles

Grauman Holds Barbershop Contest

Novelty Special Number at Grauman's Theatre, Los Angeles, Makes Big Hit

WHEREVER there are whiskers, beards or barber shops, success will meet a presentation such as Sid Grauman's "Twenty Minutes in a Barber Shop at the Alexandria Hotel (Los Angeles)," which he presented at the Grauman Million Dollar theatre during the week of February 6.

The interior of the shop in the fashionable Alexandria hotel was reproduced in detail. Twenty-five performers participated in Mr. Grauman's act. Several of the songs which were offered were parodies on popular pieces, written so that they met the immediate demands. Nothing similar to this presentation had been attempted in Los Angeles before, and, as a result, "word-of-mouth" publicity was not only produced, but cartoonists and special writers on the local newspapers devoted their features to the affair.

As the performers sang in chorus while the curtains were being drawn back, there came to sight four barbers who were industriously cutting hair, shaving, and singeing for patrons who occupied standard barber chairs; negro boot-blacks and porters shining shoes and polishing mirrors; and manicures busying themselves beside the chairs. At the edge of the stage on the right hand side sat a girl cashier with a cash register before her; on the left hand side sat another manicure. Barbers and manicures were attired in white uniforms. The finger nail experts proved to be song experts quartette and sang "Mother O' Mine" after which they brought forth uproars with darky strains. They mimicked four cats in a midnight fight. In the meantime patrons were filing in and out the shop while the cashier "rang up" the charges.

A customer entered, strode to a chair in which a young lady was having her curls brushed and after a second of consultation both joined in a series of ball-room dances. Then ensued a distinct feature. One of the patrons stepped forth with a large silver trophy in his hand, announced with gusto that the four barbers present were the shaving champions of their various cities and that they were to match their speed before the audience. The barber who first finished shaving his customer at the greatest number of performances during the week was to receive the silver cup. There entered the objects of the contest who ranged from a two-hundred-and-fifty-pounder to a gentleman with a beard which hung down a and gave solo, trio and quartette selections. A quartette of barbers followed with songs which fitted the atmosphere. More solos were offered by the manicures. The cashier at the right stepped to the center of the stage and executed a fancy dance. The colored porters formed a foot in length. The shaving contest followed. The idea was carried out easily. The heavy-weight gentleman always wore a bit of grease on his cheeks which his barber, presumably scraping his chin very rapidly, easily wiped off with his cloth. With talcum powder patted on the fat face generously, the winning barber's customer always appeared to have been thoroughly shaved. The act closed with the entire company singing in chorus.

Nashville "Dream Street" Exploitation Novel

The famous "Dream Street" stunt as exploitation for "Dream Street" was one of the stunts used by Manager Cantrell of the Knickerbocker theatre, Nashville, Tenn., recently.

Mr. Cantrell's "Dream Street" sign was at an important corner of the Knickerbocker. He erected an old relic of a gas post on the corner and a large candle was used to supply the illumination for the post. Day and night advertising for the picture was attached to the posts.

BUEL B. RISINGER
AT LIBERTY
MANAGING-DIRECTOR AND PRESENTATION ARTIST
PRODUCING-CONDUCTOR AND NOVELTY EXPERT
15 YEARS IN AMERICA'S REPRESENTATIVE THEATRES
"THE MOST THOROUGLY COMPETENT MAN IN THIS BRANCH OF THE PROFESSION, THAT I HAVE EVER BEEN ASSOCIATED WITH"
OCT. 15-21 MANAGER ASCHER'S CINCINNATI CAPITOL Eugene Quigley
GRAND THEATRE BLDG COLUMBUS, OHIO
AVAILABLE NOW
ADDRESS BUEL B. RISINGER ROOM 700

Rothafel Presentation of "Four Horsemen" Impresses

An effective interlude is being presented in connection with the showing of "The Four Horsemen," playing a two weeks' engagement at the New York Capitol theatre, and also an atmospheric prologue has been prepared.

The interlude is furnished by the singing of the Marseillaise by Miss Virginia Richards during a corresponding scene.

The prelude is an example of the showmanship and ingenuity of Mr. Rothafel. It is a combination of orchestral and pictorial effect and introduces something new in the way of prologues. The overture, which was written by William Axt, is comparable in construction to an operatic overture in that it introduces the principal themes of the score and offers a highly condensed and musical version of the story. It opens in a little French village drowsy under the setting sun. Pastoral music describes the peaceful scene with the ringing of the angelus as the people stop their work to worship. While the angelus is ringing, clouds come up rapidly and distant hoofbeats are heard. Louder and louder they come up, the storm clouds gathering thickly, and the battle hymns are heard. Then the curtain parts and the four dread horsemen are seen charging across the screen with the mingling of ominous calls. The scene fades away and one sees the little village devastated and ruined by the ravages of war, as the motif of Death is played.

Collins Makes Play for School Children With "Fauntleroy"

A SPECIAL play for the patronage of children was a feature of the exploitation campaign on "Little Lord Fauntleroy" put over by Manager E. E. Collins of the Palace theatre, Dallas, Texas. He had 1,500 small blotters printed with text that called attention to special children's prices and urged school children to attend in a body. Also a special matinee for children. To each teacher, city official and member of the school board he sent a personal letter about the attraction and also talked the picture over with officials. The result was splendid co-operation on the part of the schools and pupils and the otherwise conservative newspaper of the town opened its heart and gave the showing a record amount of publicity.

EXHIBITORS' REPORTS ON NEW RELEASE

What the Big Houses Say

EARLY RETURNS FROM WEEK RUN THEATERS

FAMOUS PLAYERS

Forever—

One of the most pleasing pictures of the year. Everyone liked it. Goods crowds all week. Splendid cast, well directed. (Middle West.)

Opened fair, but flopped, and was pulled off in middle of week run. Our audiences do not like "sad" endings. (East.)

Very good picture but not a heavy drawing card. (Middle West.)

Saturday Night—

Excellent picture, with a real all-star cast. Patrons liked it very much. A good drawing card. (Middle West.)

Though the picture was widely advertised and others of same type usually took very well, this picture only did fair business. It was expected to go big but was only ordinary. Audiences seemed to enjoy picture. (Middle West.)

Not as big as press-agented; did a fair business for ten days. (Middle West.)

Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford—

Not very good business. Did not seem to draw the women, although men attended in unusual numbers early in the week. Good picture. (Middle West.)

Just Around the Corner—

Picture and business both fair. (East.)

Her Own Money—

Picture and business both good. (East.)

Miss Lulu Bett—

We thought this a fine picture, but it did not go particularly strong with our audience. Played to average business for week. (Middle West.)

Moran of the Lady Letty—

Splendid feature. Rudolph Valentino and Dorothy Dalton add to its drawing power. Pulled big business. (Middle West.)

FIRST NATIONAL

Hail the Woman—

Three week run to big business and pleased patrons. (West.)

The comments were generally good, but business wasn't. (Middle West.)

Tol'able David—

A very wonderful feature, which attracted good business. Praised by everyone and got through a week run in fine shape. (East.)

A money-maker. The popularity of Richard Barthelmess in other pictures resulted in this production attracting good crowds for a week's run. (Middle West.)

Sowing the Wind—

A Harold Lloyd comedy, "The Big Idea," helped this one over the "rough spots" for a week's run, the receipts at the end of the week making a satisfactory showing. (Middle West.)

The Song of Life—

Good entertainment and seemed to please. Business good. (West.)

The Beautiful Liar—

Fair business. The star usually draws to a larger house, however. Picture took well with the ladies. (Middle West.)

My Lady Friends—

Entertaining little piece of froth. It doesn't do anything but mildly amuse. Fair week. (Middle West.)

Polly of the Follies—

A hodge-pot calculated to contain something bound to please everyone and drawn out fiercely in accord. Receipts average. (East.)

The Sky Pilot—

Nice attraction, opinion of majority who viewed it. Drew well during week. (Middle West.)

R. S. V. P.—

Charlie Ray rings the bell once more in this. Drew very well. (Middle West.)

METRO

Peacock Alley—

Knock-out of a picture with a plot that was fascinating; played to packed houses for a week. (Middle West.)

Big picture and big business. (East.)

An elaborate picture with a dazzling sartorial display which pleased the women. Drew the crowds. (Middle West.)

Good picture with good business. (West.)

A real money-maker. The picture did the liveliest week's business in several months. (Middle West.)

Four Horsemen—

Splendid picture, of course. This is second run here and prices were advanced to fifty and seventy-five cent scale, but couldn't handle the business the first week. Expect three or four weeks' run. (Middle West.)

Fightin' Mad—

Good for four days' run. No particular drawing attraction. (Middle West.)

Without Limit—

A fine picture that deserves being played up in spite of a story that is somewhat sensational. Business fair, increasing during run. (Middle West.)

A Trip to Paradise—

Picture gave general satisfaction. Hard to judge its drawing power as it was shown in a vaudeville house. Star well liked. (Middle West.)

The Fourteenth Lover—

This went across great in connection with Viola Dana's personal appearance. (East.)

GOLDWYN

Theodora—

A stupendous spectacle. Photographically a masterpiece. Pleased generally. Well-balanced advertising campaign, but attendance somewhat disappointing. Improved during week. (Middle West.)

The Glorious Fool—

A weak picture. It wasn't liked very well. Business was correspondingly weak, although an elaborate style show helped pull through the week. (Middle West.)

Doubling for Romeo—

Despite unusual strong competition this one more than held its own and drew well for a week's run. (Middle West.)

Grand Larceny—

Good picture with star who is popular with our audience. (Middle West.)

UNIVERSAL

The Guttersnipe—

Fine entertainment. Pleased my patrons. Good business. (West.)

The Shark Master—

Business fair. Rather good picture for this class. Did not draw any large crowds. (Middle West.)

The Scrapper—

Good picture both as regards entertainment and business. (West.)

Foolish Wives—

This is a one-week town, as the second seven days on this feature showed. It faces a third week. Business below average. (East.)

Headin' West—

Great. Couldn't take care of crowds on opening day, in spite of rain and sleet storm. Held up better than average all week. (Middle West.)

Cheated Hearts—

Went over very nicely. Tells interesting story, has strong cast and well directed. (Middle West.)

REALART

Nancy From Nowhere—

Bebe Daniels has a large following here, which always assures good business, the picture drawing well all week. (Middle West.)

Tillie—

Picture and business both good. (East.)

Her Face Value—

Good picture and fine business. (West.)

FOX

Connecticut Yankee—

A very fine production. Appeals to all, no matter what age or sex. Did so well that we held it over for a second week. (Middle West.)

Did an excellent two weeks' business. One of the best comedies for many months. (Middle West.)

The Roof Tree—

Fair picture though pretty much the same old thing. Fair business. (Middle West.)

WID GUNNING

What Do Men Want—

Capacity all week. A great box office title. Liked by patrons. (East.)

The most poorly constructed picture seen here in months. Only an average box office attraction. (Middle West.)

The Blot—

Drew poorly. Audience failed to rave and some patrons were disappointed. (East.)

PROGRAMS FOR THE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 19TH

With First Run Theatres

WIRE REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK CITY

Capitol Theatre—
Special—"Stars and Stripes" by Capitol Grand Orchestra; (b) "To a Wild Rose," sung by William Robyn, tenor; (c) "Cake Walk," presented by Alexander Oumansky and Thalia Zanou.
Current Events—Capitol News.
Vocal — "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," by Miss Caroline Andrews; flute obligato by Daniel Maquarre.
Novelty—And Women Must Weep —Educational.
Prologue—Overture and series of tableaux; (a) Minuet; (b) Paul Revere; (c) Minute Men at Lexington; (d) Solitude of George Washington.
Feature — Cardigan — Messmore Kendall.
Organ Solo—Nocturne in D Flat presented by Melchiorre Mauro-Cottone, organist.
Next Week — Grand Larceny—Goldwyn.

Mark Strand Theatre—
Overture—"The Force of Destiny," by Strand Symphony Orchestra.
Novelty—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow—Great American Authors series.
Instrumental—"The Zephyr" and "Caprice Viennois," by Madeline MacGuigan, violinist.
Current Events—Mark Strand Topical Review.
Feature—Penrod—Wesley Barry.

Cameo Theatre—
Overture—Andante Violin Concerto No. 4, by Cameo String Orchestra.
Current Events — Cameo News Events.
Organ Solo—"When Shall We Meet Again," by John Priest, organist; pictorial lyrics by Jerome H. Remick.
Comedy—Business Is Business—Sunshine.
Vocal—Russian Folk Song, Sung by Lydia Troubinina.
Feature — French Heels — Hodkinson.
Organ Solo—Komenoi-Ostrow by John Priest, organist.

Criterion Theatre—
Overture—"Reverie," by Criterion Orchestra.
Feature—The Loves of Pharaoh—Paramount.

Rivoli Theatre—
Overture — "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," by Rivoli Orchestra.
Current Events—Rivoli Pictorial.
Novelty—Clavilus Solo-color organ —with Thos. Wilfred, creator, at the instrument.
Feature—Her Husband's Trademark—Gloria Swanson.
Vocal—"One Fleeting Hour," sung by Susan Ida Clough, mezzo soprano.
Next Week—The World's Champion—Wallace Reid.

Rialto Theatre—
Overture—"Lenore No. III," by Rialto Orchestra.
Short Subject—The Young Painter —Mary Astor.
Instrumental—"Elegie," by Gaston Dubois, 'cello virtuoso.
Next Week—Love's Boomerang—Paramount.

Apollo Theatre—
"Orphans of the Storm" continued.

Central Theatre—
"Foolish Wives" continued.

Lyric Theatre—
"Turn to the Right" continued.

LOS ANGELES

California Theatre—
Musical—Symphony orchestra with program consisting of "The Second Hungarian Rhapsody," "Salut d'Amour," "Echoes from Past to Present."
Current Events — International News.
Cartoon—Joys and Gloom—Fowers.
Comedy—Hokus Pokus—Christie.
Novelty—Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Feature—A Blind Bargain.

Grauman's Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe Weekly.
Special—Four whistlers in a woodland set, with organ accompaniment, present numbers.
Educational—Urban's Movie Chats —Hodkinson.
Feature—Back Pay.

Symphony Theatre—
Current Events—Fox News.
Novelty—Bob and Bill release—Pathe.
Comedy—Snooky's Labor Lost—Federated.
Orchestra—The Sheik.
Feature—Sky High—Tom Mix.
Next Week—Same.

Clune's Broadway Theatre—
Novelty—Sport Pictorial.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Organ—Swanee Moon.
Feature—The Invisible Fear—Anita Stewart.
Next Week—A Virginia Courtship.

Superba Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Comedy—Table Stakes—Century.
Vocal—Let's Dance—Tenor Solo.
Feature — Golden Gallows — Universal.
Novelty — Second release of "Leather Pushers."
Next Week—Headin' West.

Kinema Theatre—
Novelty—Screen Snapshots.
Current Events — International News and Kinograms.
Musical—Concert by augmented orchestra with Victor Herbert as guest-conductor—Program includes selections from "Eileen," "Sweethearts," and "The Red Mill."
Feature — Love's Redemption — Norma Talmadge.
Next Week—Penrod.

Mission Theatre—
Cartoon—Vermin the Great.
Instrumental—Violin solo.
Feature—Foolish Wives.

Miller's Theatre—
Third week of "The Silent Call."

Alhambra Theatre—
Second engagement of "Molly O."

Tally's Theatre—
Second week of "Vendetta."

Grauman's Rialto Theatre—
Second Week of "Moran of the Lady Letty."

Loew's State Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Feature—Stranger Than Fiction.
Five acts of vaudeville.

CLEVELAND

State—
Current Events — Pathe News — Topics of the Day.
Polychrome—"The Land of the Beginning."
Cartoon—Muff & Jeff in "Stuck in the Mud."
Feature—"The Silent Call."
Specialty—"The State Follies," consisting of (a) Nature and Minuette, with chorus of thirty under the direction of Zimmerman; (b) Gale Sherwood and her singing orchestra in popular tunes; (c) Boy soprano; (d) Vocal Quartet; (e) Girl soprano; (f) Vocal solo with cello accompaniment.
Prologue—"In the Days of George Washington," under the personal direction of George Dumond, with a special curtain painted by Englander, with George Washington in replica. This consisted of a series of dances, including "The Valse Suite," "Colonial Gavotte," "Polka Classique" and the modern syncopated dance.
Next week—Rudolph Valentino in "Moran of the Lady Letty."

Allen—
Overture — "Memories of Yesterday," old-time songs arranged by Musical Director Philip Spitalny.
Current Events—Allenette.
Comedy—"Country Chickens," with Louise Fazenda.
Personal Appearance—Louise Fazenda in person.
Vocal—Tom Conkey, musical comedy star, in repertoire of his popular songs.
Feature—"His Nibs."
Prologue—"Town Hall Week," a regular rube act, with fifty people. There were the old apple orchard, the huskin' bee, the town hall doin's, the main street at night, and the "Black Crook" show in town. All done under the direction of S. Barrett McCormick.
Next week—"Grand Larceny."

Stillman—
Overture—"Fortune Teller," by Victor Herbert.
Theme—"Yankee Doodle Boy," by Geo. M. Cohan.
Scenic—"The Song of Arrow Head Lake."
Feature—"A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court." Second week.
Next week—"Turn to the Right."

Park—
Overture — "Lucia di Lammermoor."
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—Johnny Hines in "Torchy Takes a Chance."

SUPERBA
HERBERT RAWLINSON
STARTS TODAY SATURDAY
Harry Sweet in "Horse Sense"
A Veritable Cyclone of THRILLS!
"THE SCRAPPER"
Added Feature - Round ... of H.C. Witwer's famous Collier's Stories
"THE LEATHER PUSHERS"
Follow Kid Roberts in his quest for the Heavy weight Championship

This one on "The Scrapper" was a quarter page. The Superba is located at Los Angeles

Quarter page on "The Song of Life" by the Garrick theatre, Minneapolis

PALACE
ENTERTAINMENT
Commencing Today—the strangest pact a woman ever made with a man for one year of happiness!
Anita Stewart
in
"Her Mad Bargain"
Could You Blame Her———??
—Circumstances conspired to make her desperate—her beauty attracted attention—She Made a Mad Bargain!
CHARLIE MURRAY'S
"UNHAPPY FINISH"
Flash at the Organ
Playing "Out of the Shadows," and the News Weekly Complete the Bill.

Some nice work here in this display advertising "Her Mad Bargain" playing recently at the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kansas

Scenic—"Along the Rio Grande," Burton Holmes travelogue.
Feature—"The Seventh Day," with Richard Barthelmess.
Next week—"The Old Swimmin' Hole," with Chas. Ray.

Standard—
Current Events — International News.
Comedy — "Table Steaks," with Brownie the dog; Century comedy.
Feature—"The Gutter-Snipe," with Gladys Walton.
Next week — Frank Mayo in "Tracked to Earth."

MILWAUKEE

Alhambra Theatre—
Overture — Maritana — Alhambra Orchestra.
Comedy—Two Act Mermaid Comedy, "Step This Way."
Stage Novelty—"Song of India."
Weekly — Pathe News — Literary Digest Topics.
Feature—"Moran of Lady Letty" Rudolph Valentino.

Butterfly Theatre—
Weekly—Pathe News and Topics.
Feature—"Foolish Wives."
Special—Miss Dupont, Star of "Foolish Wives," appearing personally.

Strand Theatre—
Weekly—Kinograms and Topics.
Comedy—"Taking Chances."
Extra—Sidney Forbes Singing "Out of the Shadows" and "After the Rain."
Feature—Charles Ray, "The Barnstormer."

Merrill Theatre—
Overture—Merrill Orchestra.
Weekly—International.
Comedy—Mack Sennett Comedy, "Be Reasonable."
Feature—"The Bride's Play"—Marion Davies and Wyndham Standing.

Strand Theatre—
Overture—Ziegfeld Follies of '21.
Current Events—Fathe News.
Comedy—Step This Way.
Feature—Polly of the Follies.

Moon Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events — International Weekly.
Special—The Leather Pushers.
Feature—Sky-High.

Rialto Theatre—
Overture—Mignon.
Comedy—Hard Knocks and Love Taps.
Feature—Penrod.

Sun Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events—Universal Weekly.
Special—Prizma Pictures.
Feature—A Connecticut Yankee.

MONTREAL

Allen Theatre—
Here, There and Everywhere with the Allen Cameraman.
Overture—"Dance of the Hours," Ponchiello — "Down South," Middleton.
"Greenwich Village."
Allen Grand Organ—H. Lippman at the Console — "Coronation March," Meyerbeer.
Mary Miles Minter in "Moonlight and Honeysuckle."
Added Attraction—Excerpts from "Thais," Massenet.
(a)—"Meditation"—Violin Solo—David S. Levin.
(b)—Mirror Song—Mlle. Fanny Rezia, Soprano (From the Opera Comique, Paris).
Richard Barthelmess in "Tol'able David."
Next Week—"Thunderclap."

CINCINNATI

Walnut—
Overture—Il Guarany—With augmented orchestra and Creatore as guest-conductor.
Current Events—Pathe 15.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Novelty Cartoon—Aesop's Fables—Pathe.
Musical Number—The Rosary—Arranged by Creatore.
Feature—The Seventh Day.
Comedy—Fresh from the Farm—Christie.
Next Week—Just Around the Corner.

Strand—
Current Events—Fathe 16.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—Forever.
Next Week—Fool's Paradise.

Lyric—
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—Dream Street.
Next Week—Same.

Palace—
Current Events — International News.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—Her Mad Bargain.
Next Week—Law and the Woman.

Capitol—
Overture—Poet and Peasant—Capitol Symphony Orchestra.
Current Events — International News.
Musical Number — Trees—Joseph Schenke, tenor.
Feature — The Man from Lost River.
Comedy—Soothing Syrup—Scattergood Baines.
Novelty—Movie Chats.
Next Week—Night Rose.

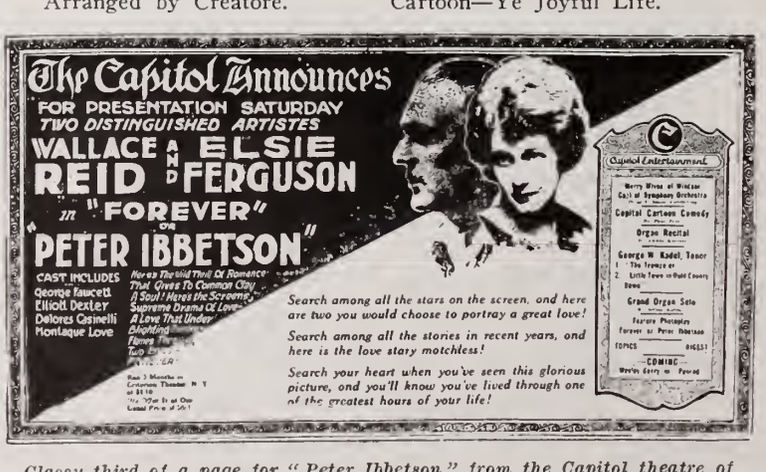
WASHINGTON

Moore's Rialto—
Overture — "Morning, Noon and Night."
Violin Solo—"To a Wild Rose."
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—Hokus-Pokus—Mermaid.
Feature—The Law and the Woman—Paramount.
Next Week—Her Husband's Trademark—Paramount.

Loew's Palace—
Special Attraction—Viola Dana in person.
Overture—Hungarian Rag Time.
Current Events — Pathe News — Topics of the Day.
Comedy—Zero Hour.
Feature—The Fourteenth Lover—Metro.
Next Attraction — White Oak — Paramount.

SEATTLE

Coliseum Theatre—
Overture—"Light Cavalry."
Current Events—Pathe News and Kinograms.
Cartoon—Ye Joyful Life.



The Capitol announces
FOR PRESENTATION SATURDAY
TWO DISTINGUISHED ARTISTES
WALLACE REID AND ELSIE FERGUSON
in "FOREVER" OR PETER IBBETSON" CAST INCLUDES
George Faucett
Elliott Dexter
Delores Cassinelli
Montague Love
Search among all the stars on the screen, and here are two you would choose to portray a great love!
Search among all the stories in recent years, and here is the love story matchless!
Search your heart when you've seen this glorious picture, and you'll know you've lived through one of the greatest hours of your life!
Capitol Entertainment
Capitol Cartoon Comedy Organ Recital
George W. Kadel, Tenor
Grand Organ Solo
TOPICS COMING

Classy third of a page for "Peter Ibbetson" from the Capitol theatre of Minneapolis

The F. and R. publicity staff at Minneapolis used this display to bill the run of "Penrod" at the State theatre

Feature—Penrod—Wesley Barry. Presented with a prologue in which "Herman" and "Verman" and "Penrod" are imitated in a song introduction to the feature. The stage setting is an alley scene.
Next Week—The Beautiful Liar.

Columbia Theatre—
Overture—Selections from "The Prince of Pilsen" and "While Miami Dreams."
Current Events — International News.
Cartoon—Andy's Cow.
Educational—Pathe Review.
Comedy—Circus Clowns.
Feature—Headin' West.
Special—Hoot Gibson appearing in person.
Next Week—The Black Panther's Cub.

Strand Theatre—
Overture—"Canzonetta" and "The Broken Toy."
Current Events—Kinograms.
Scenic—Lake Maggiore.
Cartoon—Shooting Fish.
Feature—Hail the Woman.
Next Week—Saturday Night.

Blue Mouse Theatre—
Overture — Selections from "The Fortune Teller."
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—"Why Girls Leave Home."
Next week—Return engagement of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Liberty Theatre—
Current Events—Liberty and Selznick News.
Scenic—Land of Beginning.
Comedy—Down and Out.
Special — Showing of Selznick's special of the first winter ascension of Mt. Ranier.

Vocal — Arthur Lemar singing "Montana."
Feature—Polly of the Follies.
Next weeek—White Oak.

CHICAGO

Chicago Theatre—
Overture—"An American Fantasy."
Specialty — Duet from "Madame Butterfly."
Scenic.
Organ solo—"They Call It Dancing." Jesse Crawford at the organ.
Literary Digest.
Specialty—The Dennis Sisters in Rose Land.
Feature—Constance Talmadge in "Polly of the Follies."
Comedy—"Monkey Shines."
Coming Feature—"Star Dust."

Tivoli Theatre—
Overture—"An American Fantasy."
Specialty—Bertram and Saxton, vocalists.
Scenic.
Organ solo—"Swanee River Moon." Milton Charles at the organ.
Literary Digest.
Prologue.
Feature—Jackie Coogin in "My Boy."
Comedy—"Step This Way."
Coming Feature—Forever."

Woodlawn Theatre—
Organ solo—"Hoo! Hoo!" Arthur J. Gutow at the organ.
Woodlawn Novelty—Screen Snapshots.
Woodlawn Pictorial Review.
Comedy—"One Stormy Night."
Overture—"Old Folks at Home and in Foreign Lands."
Feature—"Just Around the Corner."
Intermission—"After the Rain."
Coming Feature—Harold Lloyd in "Never Weaken."

Roosevelt Theatre—
Overture — "Pomp and Circumstance."
Feature—"Foolish Wives," starring Miss Dupont—2nd week.
Coming Feature—Nazimova in "A Doll's House."

Barbee's Theatre—
Pathe Topics.
Comedy—"Look Out Below."
Feature—"The Light in the Clearing."
Added Attraction—Personal appearance of Edna Wallace Hopper—2nd week.
Coming Feature—Harold Lloyd in "The Sailor Made Man."

William Fox
Termina
Double Feature Program
An Event in Newark!
World's Premier Showing of the William Fox Special Production
WILLIAM FARNUM
IN HIS GREATEST MASTERPIECE
"A Stage Romance"
From the World Famous Play by ALEXANDRE DUMAS
Direction HERBERT BRENON
Associate Feature
NORMA TALMADGE and EUGENE O'BRIEN
"By Right of Purchase"
Comedy - FOX NEWS - SPECIAL MUSICAL FEATURES

Premiere showing ad on "A Stage Romance" used by the Terminal theatre, Newark, N. J.

FOX-LIBERTY
DELMAR NEAR GRAND
CONTINUOUS TO-DAY 1 TO 11 P.M. BAL. 28¢ ORC. 39¢ CHILDREN UNDER 12-10¢
LIMITED ENGAGEMENT ONE WEEK
ARROW PRESENTS
THE SMASHING SUCCESS
TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM
THE GREATEST HEART INTEREST DRAMA THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN
A STORY THAT WILL LIVE FOREVER
ADAPTED FROM THE FAMOUS STAGE SUCCESS
Heart Touching Pathos-Delightful Humor-Charactors you know intimately, seen as they really are NOW PLAYING TO CAPACITY IN ALL EASTERN CITYS

Here is a hand-drawn display on "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" used by Harry Greenman, manager of Fox-Liberty theatre, St. Louis

Great Northern—
Feature—"Orphans of the Storm," featuring the Gish sisters—4th week.

Randolph Theatre—
Organ Selections.
Scenic.
Feature—Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley"—3rd week.
Coming Feature—"Turn to the Right."

Ziegfeld Theatre—
Pathe Topics.
Literary Digest.
Comedy—"The Dog and the Flea."
Feature—"Dangerous Toys."
Coming Feature—Poli Negri in "The Polish Dancer."

KANSAS CITY

Liberty Theatre—
Overture—"Love's Enchantment."
News—Pathe.
Comedy—"Aesop's Fables."
Organ Selections—Miss Susie Goff Bush and Miss Golden Eviston, organists.
Feature—"Hail the Woman," All Star Cast.
Next Week—"Hush Money."

Doric Theatre—
News—International.
Comedy—"Down and Out."
Organ Selections—P. E. Stephens, organist.
Feature — "The Glorious Fool," Helene Chadwick.
Next Week—"Jane Eyre."

Newman Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
Current Events—Newman News and Views.
Short Subject—"Ride on a Runaway Train."
Special Number—"Old Songs vs. New," musical novelty with four entertainers.
Organ Selections—Gerald F. Baker and Q. Landwehr, organists.
Feature—"Penrod," Wesley Barry.
Next Week—"Forever."

Royal Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
News—Royal Screen Magazine.
Special Number, Ford Rush, tenor, singing, "When Shall We Meet Again."
Organ Selections—Harry Frank and Miss Ella McGorty, organists.
Feature—The Song of Life, all star cast.
Next Week—Star Dust.

Twelfth Street Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
News—Screen Magazine.
Comedy—The Pale Face—Buster Keaton.
Organ Selections — Miss Hazel Webb and Miss Fay Shepherd, organists.
Feature—Habit—All star cast.
Next Week—My Lady Friends.

PHILADELPHIA

Stanley—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Scenic—An Order of Fish.
Comedy—A Rolling Stone—Educational.
Scenic Prologue in honor of Washington's Birthday.
Hope Hampton—Personal appearance.
Feature — Star Dust — First National.
Next Week—Tol'able David—First National.

Stanton—
Feature—Theodora—Goldwyn.
Next Week—Same.

Aldine—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Comedy — Little Miss Mischief — Century.
Feature — The Ruling Passion — United Artists.
Next Week—Foolish Wives—Universal.

Karlton—
Short Drama—The Ne'er to Return Road—Educational.
Feature—My Boy—First National.
Next Week—Same.

Arcadia—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Travel — Burton Holmes — Paramount.
Feature — Chivalrous Charley — Select.
Next Week—A Virginia Courtship —Realart.

Palace—
News and Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Comedy—The Sawmill—Vitagraph.
Feature — Travelin' On — Paramount.
Next Week — Peacock Alley — Metro.

Victoria—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Comedy—The Sawmill—Vitagraph.
Comedy—Women Must Weep—Electric.
Feature—The Invisible Fear—Peerless.
Next Week — "Fightin' Mad"—Metro.

Regent—
Cartoon—Stuck in the Mud—M & J—Fox.
Feature—Two Minutes to Go—Peerless.

Capitol—
News—Kinograms—Electric.
Comedy—Soup to Nuts—Masterpiece.
Feature—The Law and the Woman —Paramount.
Next Week—Lady Fingers—Metro.

BALTIMORE

Rivoli—
Overture—Little Boy Blue Selections.
Current Events—Rivoli News.
Special—Topical Review, accompanied on organ by Ernie Cooper and Henry Boehme.
Vocal—Maurice A. Wyatt, soprano —(a) Yesterday and Today—(b) Mr. Sandman.
Feature—Penrod—Freckles Barry.
Comedy—No Parking—Neal Burns and Helen Darling.
Next Week—The Seventh Day—Richard Barthelmess.

Century—
Overture—"Evolution of Dixie"—M. L. Lake.
Current Events—Century News.
Vocal—Justin Lawrie and Fernando Guarneri, singers—(a) Oft in the Starry Night—(b) The Star—(c) La Donna e Mobile.
Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty —Dorothy Dalton and Rudolph Valentino.
Comedy.

Strand—
Overture — Medley — M. Louise Jones, player.
Feature—Star Dust—Hope Hampton and James Rennie.
Comedy—Rich Man Poor Man.

New Wizard—
Overture—Classical Airs.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—Shadows of the Sea—Conway Tearle.
Comedy—His Smothered Love—Sennett.

A Picture Every Married Woman will see and Send Her Husband to see
California THEATRE
STARTING TOMORROW
Henrik Ibsen's World-Renowned Drama
A DOLL'S HOUSE
Comedy and Pathos with Love and Romance are Found in abundance in this tremendous photo-drama features
The Incomparable
Nazimova

Here is one of the quarter pages for "A Doll's House" used by the California theatre, Los Angeles

CECIL B. DE MILLE'S
"Saturday Night"
What Did You Do Last Saturday Night?
A Gorgeously Dressed Story of Two Strange Marriages That Shocked Society—Told As Only DeMille Could Tell It! With Its All-Star Cast! It's Thrilling! Its Wondrously Beautiful Gowns!
COMMENCING MONDAY
PALACE

Something good in a "Saturday Night" ad sponsored by the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kansas

Academy of Music—
Feature—Polly of the Country—Mildred Harris Chaplin.
Shubert Vaudeville.

Garden—
Feature—His Night at the Show—Charlie Chaplin.
Extra—White Hands—Hobart Bosworth.
Vaudeville.

Loew's Hippodrome—
Feature—Jackie—Shirley Mason.
Vaudeville.

INDIANAPOLIS

Circle Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Novelty—Literary Digest Topics.
Comedy—"Step This Way"—Mermaid.
Feature—"Hail the Woman."
Next Week—"Penrod."

Colonial Theatre—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Magazine—"Movie Chats"—M. P. T. O. A.
Comedy—"Stage Struck"—Pollard.
Special Music—American Harmonists and Liberty Entertainers.
Feature—"A Wide Open Town."
Next Week—"Pilgrims of the Night."

Ohio Theatre—
Feature—"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."
Special Music—Soloist and augmented orchestra.
Next Week—Same.

Loew's State Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Comedy—"The Skipper's Last Resort"—Toonerville.
Novelty Music—"The Voice in the Organ."
Tableaux—"Our Birthday Gift," commemorating first anniversary of the house.
Feature—"Forever."

MINNEAPOLIS

State Theatre—
Overture—"Pomp and Circumstance," by Edward Elgar.
State Digest—Consisting of Current Events, Pathe and International News strips, and "The Great Outdoors" and "Sports and Pastimes," Urban Movie Chats.
Musical Novelty—"Marie," a novelty organ specialty, with picture accompaniment played by E. J. Dunstedter.
Scenic—"Neighbor Nelly." A Prizma color subject.
Soloist—Loretta Sheridan, soprano, singing: (1) "Love's Garden of Roses," by Wood, and (2) "Miami Shore," by Jacobi.
Feature—Wesley Barry in "Penrod."
Organ solo—"Marche Slav," by Tschaikowsky; played by E. J. Dunstedter.
Next week—Norma Talmadge in "Love's Redemption."

Garrick—
Feature—"The Song of Life."
Comedy—Buster Keaton in "The Paleface."
Kinograms and local subjects.
Next week—Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley."

ST. LOUIS

Missouri Theatre—
Overture — "The Evolution of Yankee Doodle.
Missouri News.
Songologue and organ accompaniment.
Joe Rock Comedy.
Special—"The Soul of the Violin," with 35 juvenile violinists.
Feature Film—Betty Compson's "The Law and the Woman."

New Grand Central and West End Lyric—
Overture—"If I Were King."
News and Views.
Topics of the Day.
Acsop's Fables.
Comedy—Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton in "Rolling Stones."
Feature Film—Wesley "Freckles" Barry in "Penrod."

William Fox Liberty—
Overture—Liberty Orchestra.
Current Fox News.
Sunshine Comedy.
Mutt and Jeff Cartoon.
Feature—Zane Greys "Mysterious Rider."
Second Feature—Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro."

Delmar and Criterion Theatre—
Overture.
News and Views.
Comedy.
Feature—Marie Prevost in "A Parisian Scandal."

BROOKLYN

Mark Strand Theatre—
1.—Overture—Declaration of Independence — Laurendcan — Mark Strand Symphony Orchestra, Alois Reiser, conductor, with color ribbon effects from booth-number dedicated to First National Week.
2.—First National Week Film Message—Trailer explaining aims and objectives of First National Week.
3.—Outdoor Film—"Trailing the Coyote," from "Adventures of Bill and Bob" series.
4.—Solo—"A Rose, a Kiss and You" (Arthur)—Mary Fabian, soprano.
5.—Mark Strand Topical Review.
6.—George Washington Memorial—Costume-Musicale — Colonial interior setting with singers and dancers in colonial attire sing these numbers:—(a) "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby" (Clay), by Frederick Jagel, tenor—(b) "Lullaby" (Stout), by Florence Mulholland, contralto—(c) "I Fear No Foe" (Pinsuti), by Jackson Kinsey, baritone—(d) "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," by mixed quartette with dance interpolation by Sonia Serova and Edward Kunowitz.
7.—Feature—Hope Hampton in "Star Dust" (First National).
8.—Comedy Film—Larry Semon in "The Show."
9.—Organ Solo—"Where Dusk Gathers Deep" (Stebbins), by John Hammond and George Crook, organists.
Next Week—Marshall Neilan's "Penrod."

ST. PAUL

Capitol Theatre—
Overture—"Sakuntala," Opus 13—Karl Goldmark.
Topics of the Day.
Sunbeams—Prizma.

She wed not wisely but too well.
KATHERINE MacDONALD
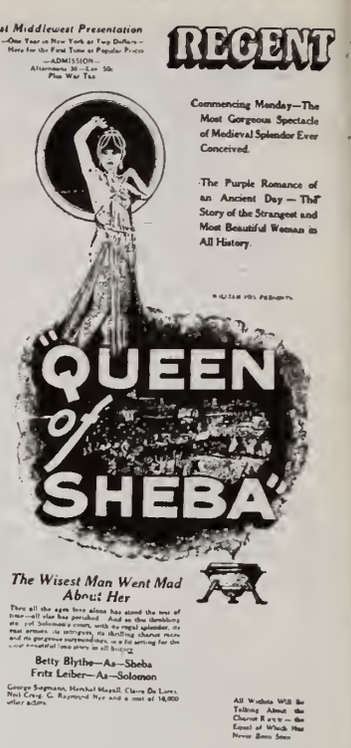
in
"Her Social Value"
A shop girl one day—the wife of a society man the next. That's her story. And after it comes another story, one that found this woman asking the question—
Which shall be broken—a man's life or a woman's heart?
MONDAY — TUESDAY — WEDNESDAY
Supporting Subjects
"The Policeman and the Baby"
"Love's Old Sweet Song" to a new melody
FOX NEWS
The Sign of Quality
Allen
ALLEN
SATISFACTION IN EXCELLENCE

Quarter page on "Her Social Value," the work of the Allen theatre, Brantford, Ont.



First Middlewest Presentation
REGENT
Commencing Monday—The Most Gorgeous Spectacle of Medieval Splendor Ever Conceived.
The Purple Romance of an Ancient Day—The Story of the Strangest and Most Beautiful Woman in All History.
QUEEN of SHEBA
The Wisest Man Went Mad About Her
Betty Blythe—As—Sheba
Fritz Leiber—As—Solomon

This one on "The Queen of Sheba" is from the Regent theatre, Wichita, Kan.

Capitol Digest—Pathe and International News. Official Urban Movie Chats.
At the Stage Door—Bendix Male Quartette and Anna Christie and Lee Gantzer, "Sally, Won't You Come Back?"—Ziegfeld Follies 1921.
Feature—Penrod.

BUFFALO

Shea's Hippodrome—
Overture—"American Festival"—Reisenfeld.
Stage Setting—George Washington.
Vocal—Gypsy sungs sung by Berne and Marlon.
Feature—A Prince There Was—Thomas Meighan.
Comedy—Paleface—Buster Keaton.
Current Events—Hippodrome Review.

Criterion—
Feature — Foolish Wives — Third Week.
Next Week—Orphans of the Storm

Loew State—
Overture—Medley of popular hits.
Current Events—Loew News.
Feature—The Conquering Power—Alice Terry.
Comedy—The Stork's Mistake—John Henry, Jr.

Mark-Strand—
Overture—"Good Morning Dearie."
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—The Lotus Eater—John Barrymore.
Comedy—Look Out Below—Harold Lloyd revival.
Special—Cain and Abel—Second of Bible series.

Academy—
Feature—For Your Daughter's Sake—Grace Darling.

Olympic—
Feature—The Grim Comedian.

Shea's North Park—
Feature—A Prince There Was—Thomas Meighan.
Comedy—Paleface—Buster Keaton.

Palace—
Feature—Doubling for Romeo—

NEWSY BRIEFS FROM CENTRAL FILM BELT

Chicago and the Mid-West

L. H. MASON, REPRESENTATIVE, 910 S. MICHIGAN AVE.

General Manager White, of Fox Film Corporation, presided at a sales conference held at Fox's Chicago headquarters this week, those being present including Manager C. E. Penrod, of the Indianapolis office; Manager E. F. Tarbell, of the Minneapolis office; and Clyde Eckhardt, manager of the Chicago exchange. Mr. White will hold similar meetings in Kansas City and other film centers before returning to New York.

Celebrated has taken over "Where is my Wandering Boy Tonight?" for Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana territory, and also added three Clara Kimball Young pictures to its list of important releases. The Young pictures include "Charge It," "The Worldly Madonna," and "What Do Men Know?" "Where is my Wandering Boy Tonight?" will have its premier Chicago showing at the Randolph, where it has been booked for an indefinite run, opening on April 2nd.

Ben Judell, formerly manager of the Mutual office in Chicago, was here from Minneapolis looking for a site to open a Chicago exchange. The title of his picture, "Purity," has been changed to "Innocence," according to Mr. Judell.

The Englewood theatre, formerly operated as a burlesque house, has been redecorated and is now operating under a new policy as a high class picture house. The first picture shown under the new plan was "Hail the Woman," and this feature will be followed by "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," and "Penrod."

"Seasonable Health Hints," a slide furnished by the Chicago Health Department, is being run in practically all motion picture houses and the commissioner of health, Doctor Herman N. Bundeson, regards the co-operation of the moving picture industry as of great assistance in combating the spread of colds and pneumonia. The Homan theatre on West Twenty-Sixth street, was closed by the health department for failure to keep ventilating apparatus in operation, following a warning from the department. It also was charged that chairs were permitted in the isle. L. Brecka is manager of this house.

Many friends of J. L. Campbell sympathize with him in the loss of his wife, who died from pneumonia and was buried Monday. Mr. Campbell has been working for Sidney Goldman, of the American Releasing Corporation for the past two years.

Doris May gets the money in "Boy Crazy," an R-C release, directed by William A. Seiter

The Paramount Pep Club, composed of executives and employees of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's Chicago exchange, will give a pre-lenten dance at Colonial Hall, Monday evening, February 27th. This little organization has held many social affairs during the winter but this dance promises to eclipse anything of a like nature that the organization has attempted.

One of the speediest sales ever made along film row was consummated this week between Sam Katz, of Balaban & Katz, and H. W. Given, district manager of Paramount. It took this pair just five minutes to sign contracts for Paramount pictures involving over one hundred thousand dollars.

Ralph Proctor has arrived from New York to take charge of the sales of "Foolish Wives," Universal's super feature, in the central west. This widely advertised picture opened its second week at the Roosevelt, Sunday, to splendid business, and indications are that it will make a record for attendance at this big loop theatre.

The Roseland State theatre, at 110th Street and Michigan Avenue, was opened on Wednesday night with a great crowd in attendance. I. E. Berkson, owner of the Avenue and Roseland theatres, and United States Marshal Robert R. Levy, of the Revelry theatre, are the principal owners of this new 2,100 seat house, which is an important addition to Chicago's first-class motion picture palaces. "Penrod" was the opening attraction.

Manager J. Boorde, of Hoppeston, is planning to open his new $80,000 picture theatre on March 6th. A number of Chicago exchange men and other friends of Mr. Boorde's are expected to be present at the premier performance.

Jack Burke, of Parkway theatre, has returned from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he has been enjoying his annual mid-winter vacation.

Manager Carl Harthill, of Reelcraft, has purchased the northern Illinois rights to the Franklyn Farnum series of western pictures from W. A. Smith Productions.

"A Sailor Made Man," Harold Lloyd's first comedy of feature length, has been booked into Barbee's Loop theatre for an indefinite run, starting February 26th. Admission prices will be raised from twenty-five cents, the present schedule, to seventy-five cents, during the run. Manager Barbee and Branch Manager H. O. Martin, of Pathe's Exchange, were hosts at a luncheon at the Illinois Athletic Club Tuesday, following which this feature was shown to local press and trade representatives. An extensive advertising campaign has been launched to put "The Sailor Made Man" over, including two hundred and twenty twenty-four sheets, and the use of large space in the newspapers. Lee Metcalf has been engaged to handle the advertising and exploitation of the feature.

The nine hundred and fifty seat Commodore theatre at 3105 Irving Park boulevard is completed and will be opened on February 27th, under the management of Louis Zoller. It is one of the handsomest neighborhood houses erected in Chicago and combines all the latest improvements in equipment, including a battery of new Motiograph De Luxe Projectors, which was installed by the Amusement Supply Company.

District Manager Herman Stern and Louis Laemmle, of Universal's Chicago exchange, will make a tour of Universal exchanges during April and will go as far west as Oklahoma City. H. O. Houlinger, well known film man, has been appointed as a special representative of Universal, in the central west, and will assist Mr. Stern in the management of the exchanges in that district.

Salesman Harry Baigh is once more working for Ike Van Ronkel, of Favorite Players.

According to reports received at Universal's Chicago exchange, Short Subject Manager Roy Alexander is entitled to wear a feather in his cap by the record he has made in selling the popular Leather Pusher series of two reelers in this territory, business he obtained being equal to that done by any other ten Universal exchanges.

Six more theatres were added this week to the list of Chicago moving picture houses which showed "Over the Hill" for a solid week, bringing the number up to forty-nine. Remarkable attendance records were made by practically every theatre which showed this big Fox feature in the Windy City and also in Milwaukee, and several of the houses have arranged for return dates.

Gunning Announces New Chicago Head

A number of changes and additions in the organization of Wid Gunning, Inc., is announced from the Gunning home office. William Saal, it is announced, has been appointed manager of Wid Gunning's Atlanta Exchange. M. F. Tobias is now in charge of the Gunning office in Chicago.

The Cincinnati office has acquired two representatives who are among the best known film men in that territory. John Seifert, formerly president of the Miami Valley Exhibitors' League and manager of the Rialto and Ideal theatres, Dayton, Ohio, has been appointed manager of the Gunning Cincinnati branch. He will be assisted in his work by H. T. Snowden.

Action Stills from Releases of the Week

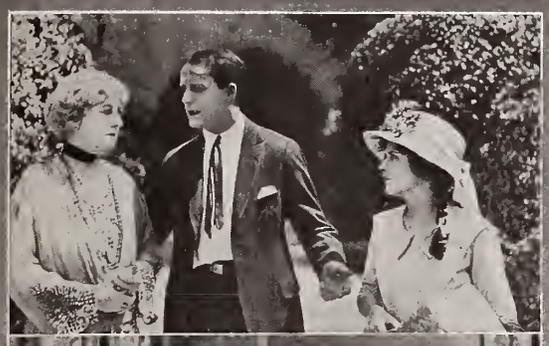
"Loves of the Pharaoh," a Paramount picture

"Cardigan," an American Releasing Corp. feature

"Beyond the Rainbow," an R-C release

"Her Own Money," Paramount

"The Rosary," Selig-Rork, First National



"A Homespun Vamp," a Realart-Paramount picture

"Her Husband's Trade Mark," a Paramount picture with Gloria Swanson

"A Wide Open Town," a Selznick picture starring Conway Tearle

Gladys Walton in "A Wise Kid," a Universal release

"Her Social Value," First National

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Beyond the Rainbow"
R-C Pictures—6800 Feet
(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

MR. CABANNE, in presenting "Beyond the Rainbow," gives a powerful argument for production in the East. He has assembled a remarkable cast—one which it would be difficult to duplicate on the Coast.

It is easy enough to know that the picture is good entertainment, but how to classify it is another matter. It starts like heart interest drama; then, when a girl is hired to make another girl jealous, we almost suspect farce. Then comes a murder mystery. This is the best part of the picture, for Mr. Cabanne holds a fine surprise for his climax of this sequence. He does not, however, attempt to establish any horror or fear. Instead he keeps injecting comedy, and emphasizing the ludicrous characters. The crime, it is finally discovered, was committeed by a man who has had himself handcuffed early in the evening, for fear of being accused of a petty theft which he suspects is to be attempted. A handcuff artist, he has freed himself to commit murder.

But Mr. Cabanne does not stop here. He resumes his heart interest drama, takes his characters into some snow scenes and stages a physical thrill for a finale. This theme supplies the title. An invalid little boy wants to go "beyond the rainbow."

The lack of compactness forces the introduction of very many characters. The production is so many-sided that it should have a very wide appeal, and if this is Mr. Cabanne's intent, he has succeeded admirably. His staging of the several incidents is very well done. The murder sequence by itself would make a splendid mystery picture. The cast, as can be seen from the list below, is of the highest class. Enough to say that each member does as well as we have a right to expect from him or her.

The Cast

Edward Mallory ..... Harry Morey
Marion Taylor ..... Lillian (Billy) Dove
Henrietta Greeley ..... Virginia Lee
Frances Gardener ..... Diana Allen
Louis Wade ..... James Harrison
Count Terrion ..... Macy Harlam
Mrs. Burns ..... Rose Coghlan
Dr. Ramsey ..... Wm. Tooker
Mrs. Gardener ..... Helen Ware
Mr. Gardener ..... George Fawcett
Esther ..... Marguerite Courtot
Inspector Richardson ..... Edmund Breese
Robert Judson ..... Walter Miller
Col. Henry Cartwright ..... Charles Craig
Virginia Gardener ..... Clara Bow
Bruce Forbes ..... Huntly Gordon

Produced by Wm. Christie Cabanne. From the story "The Price of Fine Feathers," by Solita Solano. Adapted by Mr. Cabanne and Miss Loila Brooks. Directed by Mr. Cabanne. Billy Tuers and Philip Armand, cameramen.

The Story—Pretty typist, to help invalid brother, attends ball with a strange man to make his fiancee jealous. Children at ball start excitement by sending notes: "Consult your conscience; your secret is common gossip." This is the cause of an attempted murder, of which the hero is accused. He is vindicated and the real criminal arrested. The hero befriends the little brother at an Adirondack sanitarium and saves the heroine when she is lost in the snow.

Classification—Mostly a "murder mystery" melodrama, ending with heart interest drama, and well seasoned with comedy touches throughout.

Production Highlights—An elaborate ballroom scene with some hundred couples dancing; the murder scene, staged in the dark; the "burning out" of the handcuffed man in a locked closet; sleighing scenes in a good snow locale.

Exploitation Angles—A fine opportunity for a teaser campaign is offered, making use of the note: "Consult your conscience; your secret is common gossip." The use of this fine catch line can be varied. Scenic effects and lobby displays are suggested by the title. Cast is another fine opportunity. George Fawcett and Rose Coghlan are old-timers known to thousands.

Drawing Power—Should be very wide. There is love interest, plenty of human interest, and excellent suspense in the murder sequence. Should be equally popular in any house, except those who demand physical thrills.

"Shattered Idols"
First National—5850 Feet
(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THIS spectacular, fast-moving drama offers several thrills, and action releasing a find brand of suspense. Because of its richness of incident, atmosphere, melodramatic movements, pathos, heart interest and the other elements which compose the story there is no reason to doubt its appeal for the average theatregoer. The players have been wisely chosen for the various impersonations and they have been splendidly guided by Edward Sloman, who has furnished a picture marked for its finished technique.

The theme is based upon self-sacrifice and naturally offers a fine vein of heart interest. Your sympathy is attracted to the little native girl who, because she is not accepted by English society, returns to India and incites the natives to rebellion. The picture mounts with a crescendo of exciting scenes, all of which are charged with appropriate atmosphere. Thousands of extras are used as idol worshippers in the sequance of the human sacrifice and the production indicates that everything has been done to make it vivid and memorable. The hero is hated by his mother because he is born a deformed weakling. He is sent to England to be educated but returns to the Orient to fall in love with a native girl, the betrothed of an idol. He marries her but she returns to her beloved India to incite the fanatics. Her husband follows and attempts to save her but she shields him and receives the fatal thrust.

The picture ends with the English girl finding the youth, whom she scorned, weeping over the slain girl's body. The weird scenes give it a deep interest for audiences everywhere.

The Cast

Sarasvati ..... Marguerite De La Motte
Rama Pal ..... William V. Mong
Lieut. Walter Hurst / David Hurst ..... James Morrison
David Hurst (child) ..... Frankie Lee
Jean Hurst ..... Ethel Grey Terry
The Judge ..... Alfred Allen
Liana Chichester ..... Louise Lovely
Colonel Chichester ..... Harvey Clark
Mrs. Chichester ..... Josephine Crowell
Dick Hathaway ..... Robert Littlefield
Ethel Hathaway ..... Mary Wynn
The High Priest ..... George Periolat
Rev. Dr. Romney ..... Thomas Ricketts

By I. A. R. Wylie. Scenario by Edward Sloman and Wm. V. Mong. Directed by Edward Sloman.

The Story—Hero, an English youth born in India, is hated by his mother because he is a deformed weakling. Becomes interested in native girl and when he returns from England after receiving an education, marries her. Takes her to England but society shuns her. So she permits Hindus to take her back to India where she incites the natives to rebellion. Her husband attempts to save her and his own life is imperiled. The girl-wife shields him and receives the fatal thrust. And the youth is broken-hearted.

Classification—Adventurous melodramatic r mance, tinctured with spectacular actions, thri and heart interest.

Production Highlights—Thousands of ic worshippers participating in human sacrific
David's exciting attempt to pillage sacr temple; his defense of his Hindu sweethea when natives attack them. Carries spectacul scenes marked for first rate atmospher Weird scenes give it deep interest. Acting cast very good. Able direction.

Exploitation Angles—Gives exhibitors chan to exploit local color for lobby display ar prologues. Thrills and spectacular scenes su gest ideas for "copy." Theme of self-sacrifi and noble love is appealing everywhere. Ca well known and competent. Great picture f atmosphere exploitation.

Drawing Power—Because of theme of sel sacrifice and noble love, story should draw wel
It carries spectacular appeal, rich action an heart interest. Will draw in every locality r gardless of tastes.

"The Cave Girl"
First National—Five Reels
(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THIS semi-humorous romance presents variation of the primitive love formul
Instead of representing a city-bred girl fin ing a cave-man for a mate in the wilds th authors have reversed the pattern. Othe wise the picture follows the regular, orthode channels, depending upon a wholesome story worked out logically, although coincidenc creeps in here and there to give it a dramati flavor. The heroine, the daughter of a scien tist, is living in the north woods and is mor or less ignorant of the artificial life of civ lization. It takes two reels to introduce th love interest and three more to bring some action which has to do with a rescu scene, fairly well staged.

Some may wonder how a canoe can glid forth in a swiftly moving stream dotted wit rocks without being smashed to pieces, es pecially when the occupant is unable to us the paddle. The romance enters when th youth, who has gone into the woods to avoi marital entanglements, discovers the cave gir stealing a ham from his host. A conflic develops between his mercenary fiancee an the primitive maid, the latter delighting i tormenting her at every opportunity. Thi touch reveals some delicate humor. Th offering is largely presented with exterior and the snow country of the Yosemite re veals some highly colorful backgrounds
When the hero learns that his fiancee is faith less, he wooes the cave girl, who is attired be comingly in a man's outfit. And he has oc casion to effect her rescue from an arbitrar villain. A tame fight ensues and the latter i duly punished. Then comes the rush of th youth to reach the girl before the canc tumbles over the waterfall. Teddy Gerar makes an appealing heroine. Her pouty ex pression wins quick sympathy.

The Cast

Margot, the Cave Girl ..... Teddy Gera
Divvy Bates ..... Charles Meredi
J. T. Bates ..... Wilton Tayl
Mrs. Georgia Case ..... Eleanor Hanco
Elsie Case ..... Lillian Tucke
Rufus Patterson ..... Frank Colem
Baptiste ..... Boris Karl
Prof. Orlando Sperry ..... Jack Abraha
Rogers ..... John Be

By George Middleton and Guy Bolton.

The Story—Treats of girl reared in primitiv surroundings who develops into a "child o nature." Heroine meets an attractive youth and through her colorful personality is able t steal him away from his fiancee—a girl wh een sacrificed upon the altar to please an ious mother. Story depicts conflict be- the two girls and emphasizes that civiliza- annot cope with primitive life.

ssification—Light comedy-romance.
duction Highlights—The conflict between ity-bred girl and the primitive maid of oods. A story strong in romance with tempt to inroduce much melodrama. A sequence showing hero punishing villain ushing to prevent heroine in canoe from over a high waterfall. Offers excep- snow scenes and a picturesque shot of a Mostly exteriors with clear photography. ling work of Teddy Gerard in title role.
ploitation Angles—This being a picture re- g a lot of snow it will be appreciated in ies which are denied this seasonal touch. nts winter season in the Yosemite. Au- are well known playwrights and featured has a big reputation in England. A e is provided to capitalize their names. The and theme offer possibilities because of y, romance, and the fact that it is a clean holesome story. wing Power—Should go well in most locality. Romance is pleasing and snow s highly colorful.

"A Wide Open Town"

Selznick—4650 Feet

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

TYPICAL high-class program feature is "A Wide Open Town," starring Con- Tearle. The story has been carefully ed and it is kept thoroughly interesting dward Montage's scenario and a cap- cast. It is of the "reform" variety, is never trite or dull. There is action rough its five reels and Director Ralph while he has no spectacular scenes with to impress, nevertheless knows how to the situations which are presented.
re is a child sequence to open the pic- It is an interesting incident, rich in s. The two newsboy pals, separate, oing to the reformatory, and the other, ng away to escape the orphan asylum. we come to the story proper. The re- tory lad is Conway Tearle, evolved by assing years into a "square gambler" iterary tendencies. The reform element town is trying to clean things up and mbler meets and is impressed with the ter of the mayor, played by Faire y. The gambler gives up his job when oss of the establishment tries to make eal his cards in a crooked way.
rle is allowed some action when the brings him back to the gambling hall d out a beating to those who have been ng the girl. The climax is good for the The mayor's daughter has been se- into the gambling hall, and the mayor's s party is due any minute. Tearle s the girl, but has to kill the chief gam- do it. He is given life imprisonment, e governor is none other but his old oy buddy. The picture has a Horatio touch, but has a wider appeal than the of this prolific author.
cast is satisfactory, with Faire Binney lly nice to look upon. Tearle handles pportunities as are given him in a cap- anner.

The Cast

ifford	Conway Tearle
forely	Faire Binney
Morely	James Seeley
son	Harry Tighe
tum	Claude Brooke
	Ned Sparks

ed by Selznick. Story by Earl Mitchell. o by Edward Montagne. Directed by Ralph Ince.
Story—"A square gambler" chucks his cause of his love for the mayor's r. He is trying to redeem himself. The plans a raid on the gambling den, but mblers kidnap the daughter so that she found in the den by the raiders. The e gambler" rescues her and kills the r in self defense. To save the girl's ion, he goes to prison, but the truth out, and the governor, an old boyhood cures his pardon.

Classification—Straight drama of redemption through love and self-sacrifice because of love. Action emphasized above romance.
Production Highlights—Truthful exteriors of a small residential city. Gambling den scenes. Thrilling raid by the police. Killing in the dark, explained later by flashback.
Exploitation Angles—Much can be made from the title, especially in small towns and cities. Agitation can be started over the evils of gambling. Faire Binney runs not far behind the star in popularity.
Drawing Power—Best in the small towns and cities. Will be well liked by the churchgoers. Should be entirely satisfactory as a program feature anywhere.

"Cardigan"

Messmore Kendall — American Releasing Corp.—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

A SLICE of the American Revolution is depicted in "Cardigan," adapted from Robert W. Chambers' stirring story. With much of the original atmosphere collected through the producers taking many of their exteriors around Johnstown, N. Y., those in charge have striven to make it authentic as possible. The story-interest is not as keen in the picture as in the novel, there being several jumps in the continuity and liberty has been taken with showing incidents of the time which sort of defy logic. For instance, the Colonists and Royalists living in Johnstown journey to Fortress Pitt, now Pittsburg, and double back, and even go to Boston with very little detail of the trips visualized. One knows they arrive in safety because of the subtitles.

The forepart of the story is taken up with planting the various characters and giving an inkling of the storm and stress of the period. This calls for much description. "Cardigan" is a romance colored by action which will excite and interest most anyone 100 per cent patriotic. It seems to us that more could have been done with the atmosphere. The hero enters into some vivid scenes when he is captured by the Indians. But you don't catch the suspense of the Chambers novel. It is as if the director spaced his scenes too carefully and allowed the introduction of too much arbitrary incident. The Indians are not good types and the Colonial scenes are too refined.

However, the picture carries some exciting sequences. There is a colorful battle when the Red Coats march on Lexington and Concord, and Paul Revere in his famous ride, will conquer every American. His horse steps as if it might be an ancestor of Man o' War. Again there is a stirring fight when Cardigan rescues the heroine from her oppressors, and the jail-breaking scene is a good one.

The Cast

Michael Cardigan	William Collier, Jr.
Silver Heels	Betty Carpenter
Sir William Johnson	Thomas Cummings
Captain Butler	William Pike
Lord Dunmore	Charles E. Graham
Marie Hamilton	Madeleine Lubetty
Lady Shelton	Hatty Delaro
Sir John Johnson	Louis Dean
The Weazel	Colin Campbell
Jack Mount	Jere Austin
Chief Logan	Frank R. Montgomery
Dulcina	Eleanor Griffith
Quider	Dick Lee
Colonel Cresap	Jack Johnston
Molly Brandt	Florence Short
Patrick Henry	George Loeffler
John Hancock	William Willis
Paul Revere	Austin Hume

By Robert W. Chambers. Directed by John W. Noble. Photographed by Max Schneider, John S. Stumar and Ned Van Buren. Produced by Messmore Kendall.

The Story—Treats in a romantic fashion the forepart of the American Revolution with hero, Michael Cardigan, an unwilling subject of the king, developing a love affair with the ward of the English governor. Youth is torn asunder from his young love and through fighting to regain her respect and confidence, he is almost burned at the stake. Learns of perfidy of Captain Butler and plot takes him into many exciting adventures with the Indians of the Iroquois nation.
Classification—Adventurous romance of the forepart of the American Revolution, picture being adaptation of Robert W. Chambers' novel of same name.
Production Highlights—Atmosphere revealing atmosphere of Colonial times around Johnstown, New York. Stirring ride of Paul Revere arousing the countryside; the fight on Lexington green between Colonists and redcoats. Cardigan's fight to rescue Silver Heels; his own escape from prison; youth's adventures with the Indians. The call to arms of the Minute Men.
Exploitation Angles—A well-balanced cast comprising some well known players, the author and his position in American literature. The fact that his Revolutionary series of novels are the best of their kind. The atmosphere, Paul Revere's ride and the battle of Lexington. The red-coats, the Indians who enlisted on the side of the British.
Drawing Power—Picture should draw well everywhere because of its appeal to patriotism. Children especially will find highly colorful.

"Tropical Love"

Playgoers-Assoc. Exhibitors—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

"TROPICAL LOVE," featuring Ruth Clifford, is a mild, yet interesting little picture, the plot of which, however, is a trifle too brief for the length of the production. Condensed into three reels it would carry more spontaneity and the fault of appearing padded would be eliminated. The title is the greatest factor of success from an exhibitor's standpoint. The interest created at various stages of the picture lapses occasionally, but the natural settings more than offset the few technical faults. The production was made in Porto Rico and the tropical country lends a vast amount of color and atmosphere to the feature, quaint buildings and native scenes offering splendid opportunities for exploitation.

The story concentrates upon a romance which begins when the Drifter and the Seeker form a partnership. The latter meets Rosario, not knowing that she is his daughter, left there a baby twenty years previously when a tragedy had shattered his mind. The girl is about to sell some land deeded over to her when the Seeker discovers gold upon it. The villain lures the girl to a cabin, the object being to force her to sell the land. The climax arrives when the Seeker and Drifter go to the rescue. The former is fatally wounded but lives long enough to learn that Rosario is his daughter and that she will be safe in the hands of the Drifter.

An obvious little story, but entirely wholesome. Miss Clifford makes an attractive heroine. Others who contributed good work are Reginald Denny, Huntley Gordon, Fred Turner, Ernest Hilliard, Paul Doucet and Carl Axzell.

The Cast

Rosario	Ruth Clifford
The Seeker	Fred Turner
The Drifter	Reginald Denny
Clifford Fayne	Huntley Gordon
Carlos Blasco	Ernest Hilliard
Miguel	Carl Axzell
Mercedita	Margaret Fitzroy
Pedro	Paul Doucet

By Guy McConnell. Scenario by Reginald Denny. Directed by Ralph Ince. Produced by Playgoers, Inc.

The Story—Heroine is daughter of a man who lost his mind when a tropical storm killed his wife and wrecked his home. He leaves his baby in a native church and twenty years later meets her, not knowing that she is his child. Girl is about to sell some land when a plotter endeavors to get it away from her. Her father and sweetheart go to the rescue and the former is fatally wounded. Before he expires he identifies his daughter and dies happy in the knowledge that she is in safe hands.
Classification—Romance laid in tropical country, revealing touches of melodrama, heart interest and sentiment.

Production Highlights—Being a romance laid in a tropical country the picture reveals some colorful backgrounds. Picture was taken in Porto Rico and the atmosphere is faithfully recorded. Pathos and heart interest center upon father finding long lost daughter but not knowing her identity until his dying moment. Little action, but plenty of romance. Some mystery building fair suspense. Ruth Clifford attractive as heroine.

Exploitation Highlights—Carries appropriate atmosphere in the shape of local color. Picture was made in Porto Rico which affords spectator real tropical country. Enhances the story and makes the action logical. Title good for advertising purposes. Cast fairly well known. Includes Fred Turner. Will be remembered for vivid performance in title role of Vidor's "The Jack-Knife Man." Reginald Denny, a popular leading man. Ruth Clifford, a pleasing personality for the featured role.

Drawing Power—With proper lobby displays and exploitation the picture will attract crowds, especially in neighborhood houses.

"Give Me My Son"

Geo. H. Hamilton, Inc.—State Rights—5 Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THIS is a welcome variation on the familiar mother-love theme because sticky sentiment is not emphasized to apply a heavy note of heart interest. The picture is almost tragic in places and its climax borders upon an unhappy ending which is totally unexpected. It tells simply and dramatically, with no recourse to false notes of humor—an element which would be entirely out of place, of a mother's search for her boy whom she has not seen since he was an infant. Taken away from her by an angry father who never encouraged her marriage she lives her life with the hope of some day finding him again.

A youth appears and to all intents and purposes he is the missing son. The mother encourages him, looks after him, and gives him tender devotion but he mistakes her attentions for an infatuation. The woman has a daughter by her second marriage and the youth falls in love with her. Finally it is revealed in a startling conclusion that her own boy perished years before. The situations are quite unusual and marked for some effective drama. There is heart interest a plenty, but of a quality which is genuine. The plot may be involved but it is coherent because the scenes are well handled to make the action thoroughly progressive.

Lesley Mason deserves credit for his able editing and titling. It is due to his careful arrangement of the sequences that the story maintains a steadily increasing interest. "Give Me My Son" is a Swedish picture. Naturally it is finely acted by a cast that squeezes every possible touch out of the dramatic situations. The scenes offer a welcome variety.

The Cast

Richard Brenner, a wealthy shipowner.
Bertha Brenner, his wife, played by Pauline Brunius.
Alice, their daughter.
Howard, the boy.
Anna, the old nurse.

Directed by John Brunius. Produced by Sewdish Biograph.

The Story—Woman makes a marriage disagreeable to her father. When son is born, the infant is taken away. The husband dies and the woman marries again and is blessed with daughter. Youth enters her life and she mistakes him for her long lost boy. Showers him with love and devotion which he mistakes for an infatuation. Boy falls in love with daughter Eventually woman learns that own son was killed.

Classification—Mother-love drama revealing heart interest of a logical kind. Mother finds son only to learn that he is not her child.

Production Highlights—Fine exteriors taken in Sweden thus offering variety of scene. Fine acting of Pauline Brunius who plays with considerable depth and understanding, and who is able to wear modern styles. Scene when mother is reunited to boy. Her anguish to learn that her son was killed years previously. Clever suspense.

Exploitation Angles — Mother love theme treated from a new angle. The fact that it is a Swedish picture, thus assuring patrons of splendid acting. Variety of scenes offering novelty to picturegoers. Good story interest and suitable suspense. The title for "copy."

Drawing Power—It all depends whether your crowd is willing to accept foreign players in a pathetic story bordering upon tragedy. Picture is strong in dramatic elements which will interest those patrons eager to get away from the stereotyped story. Title should attract. Exploiting the mother-love theme will arouse interest.

"Her Story"

Second National-State Rights—5 Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

AN interesting picture is put forth in "Her Story," which reveals the tragedy in the life of a young wife burdened with a past. Written and directed by Dion Titheradge, with his sister, Madge, being featured, it tells in dramatic shape her persecution as the heroine. After the introductory scenes are eliminated, which take a slap at yellow journalism it swings into a narrative style, the action being told in the shape of a general flash-back with occasional inserts of the wife acquainting her husband with the facts of her adventurous career to emphasize her story.

A convict has escaped from Sing Sing and finds safety in her boudoir although he is eventually captured. The heroine rushes to the city to stop the publication of the damaging evidence that the criminal is the man responsible for her persecution. Unable to accomplish her mission she explains all to her husband. It is a dramatic tale, starting out in a Russian port with the girl trusting a scoundrel who intrigues her into a mock marriage. The scene shifts to New York and the unhappy woman experiences a deal of sorrow before she meets her husband. The man who brought about the tragedy of her early life is convicted and is later revealed as a bigamist.

The action discloses several tense scenes which hold the interest notwithstanding that coincidence enters here and there. Particularly rich in suspense is the sequence showing the capture of the criminal at the manor of a wealthy resident of the community —the heroine being a guest at a masquerade ball. "Her Story" carries a definite appeal through its heart interest, melodrama, pathos and romance.

The Cast

Ralph Ashlyn.....C. M. Hallard
Mrs. Ashlyn .....Madge Titheradge
Oscar Kaplan .....Campbell Gullan

By Dion Titheradge. Directed by Dion Titheradge.

The Story—Woman is confronted by shadows of the past which she thought eliminated from her life. Rushes to stop publication and fails. So she proceeds to tell her terrible secret to her husband. Years previously she had been intrigued into a mock marriage, brought to New York and deserted. Finds employment and is happy when love comes to her. Then the man responsible for her persecution re-enters her life, but she has enough faith to inform her husband.

Classification — Domestic drama bordering upon tragedy. Reveals unhappy past of wife who tells her husband of her previous adventures.

Production Highlights—Appearance of well-known English actress in featured role. Scene in which criminal escapes and finds refuge in wealthy home where a masquerade ball is being given. His prison garb gets him by safely as one of the guests. His capture. Good story interest and novelty of production.

Exploitation Angles—Title and theme which detail the past of an unhappy woman. Plot indicates teaser campaign capitalizing title. Masquerade ball suggests mask dance for prologue. Opportunities for catch lines.

Drawing Power—Sure to please feminine fans everywhere. Essentially a woman's picture. Should draw well in neighborhood houses. Name of star doesn't mean much to the majority of American audiences. Good exploitation might attract a crowd which will like it as it contains dramatic elements.

"The Loves of Pharaoh"

Hamilton-Paramount—7565 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THE superlatives heaped upon Ernst Lubitsch for his masterly production of "Deception," are in order again with his newest achievement, "The Loves of Pharaoh." When the season is complete this spectacular drama of Egypt and the fall of a king will stand near the top. It carries color, bizarre sets, perfect atmosphere and detail, splendid acting, thrills in abundance, real dramatic incident and massive backgrounds against which are assembled thousands of extras. And from inception to conclusion the story mounts with a crescendo of action, revealing intimate slices of Oriental lust and passion, intrigue and deception, sentiment and real romance.

Many will remark upon its similarity to "The Queen of Sheba," since the theme and locale are quite identical. Where Lubitsch surpasses his previous pictures is in his effort to reveal cause and effect. Panoramic outlines for the sake of sheer spectacle, are quite eliminated in order to show thought as it passes through the minds of the characters. And here is where Paul Wegener as the Ethiopian king and Emil Jannings as Egypt's Pharaoh score with impressive studies. Henny Liedtke as the youth who saves Egypt and Dagny Servaes as the slave girl whose possession brings on a war also contributes noteworthy performances.

Massive are the sets, the throne room occupying a huge floor space. Spectacular is the scene when thousands of Ethopians swoop down over the hills in every direction to give battle to thousands of Egyptians. And Pharaoh falls. And Ramphis escapes his bondage to deliver his country and becomes the consort of the slave girl, now queen of the Nile. The spectacular appeal is caught by the spectator. Color and movement are everywhere.

The Cast

Pharaoh Amenes.....Emil Jannings
Ramphis.....Harry Liedtke
Theonis.....Dagny Servaes
Samlak, King of Ethiopians.....Paul Wegener
Makeda, his daughter.....Lyda Salmonova
Sotis, architect.....Albert Bassermann
High-priest.....Friedrich Kuehne
Menon, intimate to the King.....Paul Biensfeldt

By Norbert Falk and Hanns Kraely. Directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Produced by Ernst Lubitsch.

The Story—Samlak, king of the Ethiopians visits the Pharaoh of Egypt. Gives his daughter to cement friendly relations, but Pharaoh has eyes only for Theonis, a slave girl spirited away by Ramphis, an Egyptian, from the Ethiopian suite. Pharaoh thrusts the youth into bondage in order to separate him from Theonis. Samlak threatens war unless the Egyptian king gives up the girl. When the latter refuses to obey the Ethiopians give battle. But Ramphis delivers his country and Theonis is made queen of the Nile.

Classification—Spectacular drama of Egypt during reign of the Pharaohs. Passion, intrigue and romance dominating elements.

Production Highlights—Excellent acting of Emil Jannings, Paul Wegener and Dagny Servaes. Splendid direction. Massive sets and atmosphere. Throne room when Ethiopians arrive to pay homage; interior of secret tomb. The storming of the city by the Ethiopians; the battle. Authentic slice of Egyptian life and customs.

Exploitation Angles—Opportunities for colorful prologue. Fame of director and leading players.

Drawing Power—This one will draw better in large cities than in the towns. Certain to be appreciated by the discriminate who enjoy good acting. Special exploitation will probably attract them even in the small communities. Title carries drawing possibilities since it suggests glory of ancient Egypt. Will get over in big houses which feature extended runs.

"The Rosary"

First National—7045 Feet

(Reviewed by John E. Kennebeck)

A PICTURE embracing all the elements to stir the emotions—a picture calculated to reach the deepest chord of the heart through its human attributes is "The Rosary," inspired by the famous stage play by Edward Rose, which Bernard McConville has adapted. It contains a deep interest which carries the spectator along unconscious of time and place. Melodrama, pathos, romance, picturesque settings, thrills, spirituality, humanity—all these requisites are found here and make it a well nigh perfect achievement of its kind.

All its qualities are evenly balanced. The note of pathos is blended with stark melodrama and the action is so heightened that the patron watches the unfolding of the story with the deepest attention. The locale is a peaceful little fishing village which is upset by the malicious activities of one Kenwood Wright. There is a tremendous denouement when the cannery is blown up, with the brutal character discovered as the perpetrator of the deed. A posse sets out to capture him in a blinding storm. He seeks refuge in a church and the priest tries to hold off the mob to prevent bloodshed. From this scene the picture mounts with a crescendo of action unfolding scenes which sweep forward with vigorous power.

Jerome Storm's direction is masterly. The cast is a notable one, comprising Lewis Stone, as the priest; Jane Novak, as the heroine, and Wallace Beery, as the villain. A realistic drama is "The Rosary." There would be little talk of censorship if more of its type were produced.

The Cast

Father Brian Kelly	Lewis S. Stone
Vera Mather	Jane Novak
Kenwood Wright	Wallace Beery
Bruce Wilton	Robert Gordon
Widow Kathleen Wilton	Eugenie Besserer
Isaac Abrahamson	Dore Davidson
Donald MacTavish	Pomeroy Cameron
Captain Caleb Mather	Bert Woodruff
Alice Wilton	Mildred June
Skeeters Martin	Harold Goodwin

Play by Edward Rose. Scenario by Bernard McConville. Directed by Jerome Storm. Produced by Selig & Rork.

The Story—The little fishing village of Sandy Bay is upset over malicious activities of Kenwood Wright. The cannery is blown up and Wright is discovered as the perpetrator of the deed. A posse pursues him through a blinding storm. He seeks refuge in Father Brian Kelly's church. The hero's mother receives bullet intended for priest. While eluding posse, Wright plunges to death in swollen stream.

Classification—Adaptation of Edward Rose's famous play of same name. Human document with mixture of melodrama and heart interest, sentiment and pathos.

Production Highlights—Notable work of cast, particularly the performances of Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone and Jane Novak. Picturesque settings of fishing village; rush of posse through blinding storm after villain; a mother receives fatal shot intended for villain; the latter's plunge to death in swollen river. Suspense.

Exploitation Angles—Adaptation of famous play. Fine direction of Jerome Storm. Splendid work of cast—the principal players being well known. Vivid action. Spiritual motif. The song by Nevin to be used as musical theme.

Drawing Power—There is no question of this feature drawing in every locality—city and town and country village. Should be exploited weeks in advance.

"Her Social Value"

First National—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Pearl Gaddis)

KATHERINE MacDONALD as a salesgirl in a big department store—Katherine MacDonald as a society beauty who will not be accepted by the ultra-ultra set affected by her husband, and who gradually believes that she is ruining his career by "sticking to him"—thus you find the charming star in "Her Social Value." Nothing very original about it and quite a favorite plot the past few years. The story is a little far-fetched and overdrawn, though it has its moments when a flash of drama is revealed bringing with it a heart chord or two.

The star's undoubted beauty and her grace in wearing clothes—these will probably suffice with the audience who patronized the feature. Surely they will not be tempted, if they are dyed-in-the-wool fans, to revel in a dramatic feast. The star is not that kind of an actress. "Her Social Value" is entertainment of a type that proves popular with romancers. And Miss MacDonald has her following. So the picture is likely to get over in select neighborhoods.

You see the star finding her home life unendurable because of the vulgarity of her family and the unwelcome suitor thrust upon her. Adventure and romance arrive when a rich youth restores a purse which the heroine is accused of having stolen. You see the girl happily married but misery appears when she believes she has brought her husband to the brink of ruin. She even leads him to believe that she is unfaithful. The husband goes West ,suffers an illness and encounters a terrible accident. A final reconciliation restores the happy ending.

The Cast

Marion Hoyte	Katherine MacDonald
James Lodge	Roy Stewart
Clifford Trent	Bertram Grassby
Bertha Harmon	Betty Ross Clark
Shipley	Winter Hall
Joe Harmon	Joseph Girard
Gwendolyn Shipley	Lillian Rich
Leroy Howard	Vincent Hamilton
Ruth Lodge	Helen Raymond
Belle	Violet Phillips
The Baby	Arthur Gibson

By B. P. Fineman and J. A. Barry. Directed by Jerome Storm. Produced by Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corp.

The Story—Shop girl finds home life unendurable. Is accused of having stolen a purse from a customer, and is about to lose her position when young architect finds it. Meeting results in love affair and they are married. Believing later that she is the cause of ruining her husband's career she leads him to believe her unfaithful. He goes West, becomes ill and she nurses him back to health.

Classification—Romantic drama of shop girl who marries above her station. Her ideals bring much misery before happiness is found. Strong love interest.

Production Highlights — Katherine MacDonald's beauty and her grace in wearing clothes. Picture does not reveal any dramatic highlights. Cast is competent with players well known to steady patrons.

Exploitation Angles — Miss MacDonald's beauty is set off in close-ups and a variety of shots. Wears clothes in graceful manner. Well known cast including Roy Stewart, often a star in his own right. Plot improbable and if detailed will likely keep people away.

Drawing Power—This picture depends upon a high class patronage. Star is well liked for her beauty. Her pictures always need heavy exploitation. Mentioning cast might attract them. Title valueless.

"Her Husband's Trademark"

Paramount—5,101 Feet

(Reviewed by J. S. Dickerson)

HERE is a picture that registers pretty nearly 100 per cent. It has a well developed logical story, is flawlessly acted, carefully produced, presents the star in an exceptionally good role and develops at various times especially at the climax, plenty of action.

Clara Beranger wrote the story, Lorna Moon did the continuity and Sam Wood directed. All have done their work well. It is a picture that carries interest from the very first sequence and builds its suspense to the very last foot of film.

Gloria Swanson is presented in one of her most appealing roles, and she does it better than anything we can remember. She is ably supported by Richard Wayne, and Stuart Holmes. Mr. Wayne is especially good. His personality is distinctive; his acting flawless. Mr. Holmes, capable player that he is, has never appeared to better advantage.

Good sets, some extra fine scenic shots, excellent titles nice photography and artistic lightings where needed, with all minor roles played by a capable cast of types, also aid in making the production noteworthy.

There is plenty of variety to the offering, also lots of "clothes" and an occasional bit of comedy. Among the minor roles that deserve mention, is that of "Slithy" played by Lucien Littlefield and a bandit portrayed by Clarence Burton.

The Cast

Lois Miller	Gloria Swanson
Allan Franklin	Richard Wayne
James Berkeley	Stuart Holmes
Slithy Winters	Lucien Littlefield
Father Berkeley	Charles Ogle
Mother Berkeley	Edythe Chapman
Mexican Bandit	Clarence Burton
Henry Strom	James Neil

Produced by Famous-Players Lasky Corp. Directed by Sam Wood. Story by Clara Beranger. Continuity by Lorna Moon.

The Story—An unscrupulous New Yorker uses his wife's beauty and charm to promote his business affairs. To this end he throws her in the society of an old lover whom he desires to exploit in connection with oil property in Mexico. They fall in love with each other; the wife learns that she has been used as a catspaw, and frustrates the business deal. A Mexican bandit attacks the party, the husband is killed while the other two make a thrilling escape with the idea that later they will be married, implied.

Production Highlights—The general excellence of the story, pleasing portrayals of the various roles, Gloria's display of pretty clothes, some excellent Mexican locale scenic shots, a convincing fight on a stairway and a thrilling escape of the hero and heroine from the bandits.

Classification—Domestic drama until the last real or so when the production becomes exciting melodrama.

Exploitation Angles—The story, theme, intriguing title, star, melodramatic action of last reel.

Drawing Power—Suitable for any class of house, even where thrillers are ordinarily preferred.

"The Ghost City"

Associated Photoplays—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THAT Helen Holmes stages a "comeback" in "The Ghost City," a five-reeler exploiting the erstwhile serial star in adventurous outdoor action, will be surprising to many who thought that she had permanently retired. Far from it. Miss Holmes demonstrates that she still retains a knack for feminine dare-deviltry, which made her name a household word a few seasons ago. Undoubtedly it has been written with the star in mind, for every sequence, every incident revolves around physical action.

The story itself is weak insofar as any logical plot construction is concerned. It tells of a girl, vacationing on the Mexican border, being attracted by a mirage to an undiscovered silver mine and her adventures in foiling the villains determined to outwit her in gaining title to the property. There is a slight love interest woven into the melodramatic action, most of which exploits Miss Holmes, who again displays her skill in the saddle. "The Ghost City" relies upon a series of thrills, a few of which build good suspense, although the outcome of the plot is easily anticipated.

The star is the serial queen in this picture. She is compelled to engage in several encounters, indulge in hard riding and several other outdoor activities. The plot may be time-worn, but it carries enough melodramatic thunder to pass as more or less surefire. There is a burning of the shack in which the hero and heroine are imprisoned and the climax reveals a hectic fight on the edge of a cliff. The cast comprises Leo Maloney, Anne Schaefer, Leonard Clapham and Jack Connolly.

The Cast

Nada Mayhew.....Helen Holmes
Desert Meg.....Anne Schaefer
Jim Hendricks.....Leo Maloney
Bob Clark.....Leonard Clapham
Dick Carroll.....Jack Connolly

By George Rix. Directed by William Bertram.

The Story—Heroine is vacationing with her father on the Mexican border and is attracted by a mirage. Following it she journeys to a sparsely settled community and discovers a secret silver mine. Plot takes her through many adventures with villains. Girl outwits them with the co-operation of youth. She encounters many thrills before she triumphs.

Classification — Western picture detailing physical action of the outdoor variety. Melodramatic adventure throughout the footage.

Production Highlights—The work of Helen Holmes, who demonstrates that she has not forgotten her "stunt" activities during absence from screen. Heroine's many adventures in protecting herself from villains; the fight on the cliff, which brings the finish; the burning of the shack, with hero and heroine imprisoned.

Exploitation Angles—The name of Helen Holmes, which at one time was a household word for daring exploits. Her return to the screen in a vest-pocket edition of a serial. The rapid-fire action and physical encounters. The title and its possibilities.

Drawing Power—In localities where the western is supreme this picture will draw well. The name of the star and the fact that she returns to the screen is certain to inspire patronage among the dyed-in-the-wool fans. Not good for high class houses or for select neighborhoods, but certain to draw where public is not discriminate of screen fiction.

"The Wise Kid"

Universal—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

IF there is one star who is finding appropriate vehicles for expression—that star is Gladys Walton. Her personality fits exactly the type of role which she has been portraying of late—a type of role which may find her as some ragamuffin Pollyanna or East Side Cinderella. In "The Wise Kid" she portrays the part of a cashier in a cheap hash-house and develops a romance with a boob lover who drives a bakery wagon. The picture is mostly local color, revealing some sure-fire incident which has to do with entertaining the advances of a tea-hound. Thinking that he represents a Prince Charming in disguise she plays him against the honest clerk unschooled in the ways of society.

It takes five reels for the girl to discover that her new ideal is a four-flusher, and, obvious as the action is, it, nevertheless, spins along building a pleasant interest. The scene in which the heroine and the bakery boob return their simple gifts in a love tiff will doubtless be enjoyed by everyone who has experienced the throes of romance. The 24 karat fraud borrows money and attempts to steal from his employer and place the blame upon his rival. The girl, realizing his villainy, turns to her boob sweetheart, rescues him from jail and it is all over.

The action is helped by snappy titling and a genuine atmosphere. The restaurant scene and the simple interiors of the girl's boarding house—these and other sequences will be highly appreciated. Miss Walton plays her role with her customary verve and vivacity. David Butler, occasionally a star in his own right, plays the boob with understanding. He doesn't attempt to show comedy or exaggerate his scenes.

The Cast

Rosie Cooper.....Gladys Walton
Harry.....Hallam Cooley
Mr. Haverty.....C. Norman Hammond
Jefferson Southwick.....Henry A. Barrows
Jimmy Smith.....David Butler

By William Flavens McCutt. Scenario by Wallace Clifton. Directed by Tod Browning. Photographed by William Fildew. Produced by Universal.

The Story—Rosie Cooper is cashier in a cheap restaurant and among those whom she favors is Jimmy Smith, the bakery boy. Rose is a "wise kid" all right, but it takes her some time to see through a shiny young thin model gent by the name of Harry. The girl entertains his advances because he means romance to her. But he proves his shallow character and Rosie is glad to turn to Jimmy, the bakery youth.

Classification—Romantic drama revealing conflict of poor girl in love with two men—one from own station in life, the other from a higher level. Reveals much local color.

Production Highlights—Story which will be recognized as true. Conflict of love when girl is unable to decide, although finally throwing over her steadfast lover for shallow character. Love tiff when the sweethearts return their gifts. Local color and atmosphere. Miss Walton's adaptability for the role.

Exploitation Angles—Title is snappy and star is colorful. Miss Walton is finding good stories of late. Tale of romance and its conflict. David Butler, occasionally a star himself, appearing as leading man. Breezy captions.

Drawing Power—This picture will surely draw wherever Miss Walton is known. If she is not known in certain localities, picture is certain to appeal just the same. Will be liked in any city neighborhood. Local color will charm the small town audiences. Title and still of star will aid in collecting a crowd.

"Travelin' On"

Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Pearl Gaddis)

BILL HART bobs up here in a story of his own composition. Appearing in the role of his famous good-bad man, he has given his following a picture which, while of obvious design, is still novel enough in certain ideas to pass as something quite different. He is still the well known western "stranger," with a desperate past hinted at—but we don't recall having seen him before when he was sentimentally interested in the other man's wife and scheming all sorts of more or less vicious plans to entrap her.

"Travelin' On" may be recorded as a typical Hart production, which acted by another masquerading in "chaps" and toting a gun or two, would pass as something quite ordinary. There is nothing unusual in plot or action. However, the Hart fans are sure to enjoy it. The backgrounds are effective and the titles release some rather good comedy. Bill is excellent in the role of the stranger who confesses that he "takes what he wants." He arrives in town and covets the patient, long-suffering wife of the local parson, a reformed crook.

He rescues her from the dance hall proprietor and when her parson-husband holds up the stage coach to get money to finish building his church, is caught and about to be hanged—well you don't have to guess that the stranger shoulders the guilt and travels on. The storm scene is splendidly done, although unnecessarily prolonged. Ethel Grey Terry does good work as the parson's wife.

The Cast

J. B., The Stranger.....William S. Hart
Hi Morton, the parson.....Brinsley Shaw
Susan, his wife.....Ethel Grey Terry
Mary Jane, "The Toddler".....Mary Jane Irving
Jacko, the Monk.....By Himself
"Dandy Dan" McGee.....James Farley

By William S. Hart. Scenario by Lambert Hillyer. Directed by Lambert Hillyer. Photographed by Jeo August. Produced by Famous Players.

The Story—Hi Morton, a semi-fanatical parson and reformed crook, comes into Tumble Bluff, determined to convert it. Susan, his wife, is coveted by "Dandy Dan" McGee, owner of the local dance-hall. He is hampered in his efforts to build a church—and the Stranger arrives in town and also covets Susan. He rescues her from the saloon-keeper, and when her husband holds up the coach and is about to be hanged, the Stranger shoulders the guilt.

Classification—Melodramatic western carrying a strong romantic vein. Typical Bill Hart picture.

Production Highlights—Bill Hart as author in type of story which has made him famous. Combination of Hart and Hillyer know how to put over a western. Good action and fair suspense. First rate performance of Ethel Grey Terry as heroine. Dramatic storm scene. Effective backgrounds.

Exploitation Angles—Name of star whose following is immense. Lights and publicity concerning his appearance all that is necessary. Role of good-bad man—role that made him famous as best delineator of the Westerner. Title suggests quaint adventurer.

Drawing Power—The Hart fans whose numbers are legion will flock to see the star here. Is popular in the cities and small towns. Still retains his popularity. Fans know what to expect, so flock to see him.

"The Unfoldment"

Associated Exhibitors—Six Reels

(Reviewed by D. J. Gest)

A PHOTOPLAY which develops the psychology of the inner self is revealed in "The Unfoldment." There are many surprising features in the picture, not the least noticeable the return of Florence Lawrence to the screen. Let it be said that she retains the attributes that once made her popular. The offering unfolds an unusual plot which is well handled, directed and photographed. It is not a ballyhoo or spectacular film, but should have a strong home appeal. Thus to the people who flock to the neighborhood house—who go in search of amusement to "kill" an evening—it should find a healthy response.

Perhaps the title will be over the heads of many and with the careless passerby is apt to be taken as something heavy. If he cares to see the picture he will go away fully satisfied that he has witnessed good entertainment. The story revolves around an unkind fate which forces the heroine to work on the staff of a metropolitan newspaper where she is thrown into contact with all sorts of people—the self-centered owner; a despotic city editor and other unique and familiar types.

A counterplot discloses the romantic vein with the heroine's brother in love with a girl who suffers an injury which prevents her from walking. The newspaper woman writes a photoplay, "The Unfoldment," which shows each one to himself in his true light. A melodramatic flavor is introduced and a miracle results when the crippled girl recovers her power of locomotion. The picture may be overdrawn but it carries a punch.

The Cast

Katherine Nevin.....Florence Lawrence
Martha Osborne.....Barbara Redford
James Osborne.....Charles K. French
Charles McLaughlin.....William Conklin
Angus.....Albert Prisco
Mrs. McLaughlin.....Lydia Knott
Jack Nevin.....Raymond Cannon
"Mayor of Avenue A".....Murdock McQuarrie
Ted Peckham.....Wade Boteler

Scenario by James Caludwell and Reid Hustis. Directed by George Kern. Photographed by Allen Mohr and Edward Gehler.

The Story—Newspaper woman is thrown into close contact with all sorts of people and by seeing life is able later to influence people's lives. Her brother is in love with girl whose father does not encourage the affair. She suffers an injury. Newspaper woman writes a photoplay and witnesses discover their inner souls. Inspiration of story enables girl to walk again.

Classification—Dramatic heart-interest story which reveals psychology of the inner soul. Reveals much melodrama and a distinct romantic vein.

Production Highlights—Osborne surprises daughter with youth and attempts to beat him. Girl, in attempting to intervene, falls down stairs and is hopelessly crippled. Surprising portrayal of their inner souls as the principals witness the premiere showing of "The Unfoldment." This shows a motion picture within a motion picture. The climax when cripple, unaided, walks again. Good acting.

Exploitation Angles—This being an unusual plot will interest once people are inside. How to get them in is the question. Title won't do it. Should be exploited for human attributes, heart interest, powerful melodrama and fine acting. Cast familiar to steady patron.

"Her Own Money"

Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Peggy Park)

AN appropriate vehicle has been found to fit Ethel Clayton's personality and talent in "Her Own Money." Her last previous offerings have not done her justice from an emotional standpoint. But in this contribution by Mark Swan, a playwright who has been at the game long enough to know situation and climax, the star has a role which gives her some expression. There is nothing very emotional or exciting about the story. In its favor, however, is a decidedly refreshing note. And this after all is what makes the picture a satisfying one.

The plot is founded upon a wife's self-sacrifice and her old-fashioned ideals. She wants nothing better than a snug little home. By saving industriously, she is able to pull her lazy and extravagant husband out of a financial scrape. This is her first denial. The scene precipitates a quarrel and after a violent fit of temper her unappreciative spouse leaves her. So she becomes the working woman again. In due time she saves enough to purchase the cottage.

A surprise twist enters when it is discovered by the forsaken bride that her husband is already in possession. Naturally a reconciliation follows. The picture is marked for its intimate domestic touches which somehow seem to ring genuine. It preaches a little sermon without making itself obvious. Thus its appeal is made more effective. There are no morbid sex moments. The picture holds the interest without the added help of expensive settings and sartorial display.

The Cast

Mildred Allen.....Ethel Clayton
Lewis Allen.....Warner Baxter
Harry Beecher.....Clarence Burton
His Wife.....Mae Busch
Allen's Sister.....Jean Acker
His Sweetheart.....Roscoe Karns
Mr. Hazelton.....Charles French

By Mark Swan. Scenario by Elmer Rice. Directed by Joseph Henebery. Produced by Famous Players.

The Story—Young woman gives up her secretarial position to become wife of lazy and extravagant youth. She pulls him out of a financial scrape by saving her money. A quarrel ensues and he leaves her. So she becomes a working woman again and eventually saves enough to buy a home. When she goes to look over the house she finds her husband is already the owner. He asks forgiveness and there is a reconciliation.

Classification—Domestic romantic drama in which wife practises self-denial to capitalize upon her ideals. Story carries conflict.

Production Highlights—The acting of Ethel Clayton. Total absence of any morbid sex material. Clean and wholesome story carrying genuine touches of life. Good plot interest well developed.

Exploitation Angles—Not much to plot which is very simple. But story is real and offers fine sermon. Indicates teaser campaign with title and theme. Miss Clayton in effective role. Author and scenarist are well known playwrights.

Drawing Power—This one will have to be shown to select audiences of refinement to be appreciated. Good for society houses everywhere. Good moral established. Should appeal to young married couples and exhibitors should map out their campaign to attract them. Where star is known, people will patronize.

"Pardon My Nerve"

Fox—4092 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

ADOPTED from a regulation pattern with the characteristic flavor of the western revealing gun-play and the other accepted ideas, "Pardon My Nerve," reaches the screen as Charles (Buck) Jones' latest opus. It provides weak entertainment because the action centers upon a single shooting scene with the identification of the villains. The interludes are taken up with planting characters and atmosphere. The ever-present gambler and his vicious henchmen, the dance hall girl, who provides a refreshing touch because she is not placed in a honky-tonk scene, the careless stranger, who discovers that she is a woman and not a plaything of passion, and the ranch owner's daughter—these familiar types are present. They have been shaken up a bit, but they find their places.

When the heroine's father becomes the prey of gamblers and a skinflint lawyer, it is the hero who rides to the rescue and punishes the ringleader. The latter's followers kill him and attempt to fasten the guilt upon the cowpuncher. But his innocence is established and the picture is over. Many of the scenes are crude because the picture carries little story interest. Hence the director has been forced to build it up with regulation stuff, and his action is draggy as a result. Jones has a trick horse like Mix's. And the animal will win admiration. There is also a dog who knows a thing or two. In fact the climax pivots around him and his detective work is a big aid to the sheriff.

Jones engages in a fight scene which is not hefty enough to color a western. The acting is adequate with the possible exception of Otto Hoffman who plays the lawyer as if he might be a Dickens' character. The scenes are few, with long shots, exposing scenery, entirely eliminated.

The Cast

Racey Dawson.....Charles (Buck) Jones
Molly Dale.....Eileen Percy
Henry Dale.....Robert Daly
Bill McFluke.....G. Raymond Nye
Jack Harpe.....Joe Harris
Nebraska Jones.....William Steel
Luke Tweezy.....Otto Hoffman
Marie.....Mae Busch

By William Patterson White. Scenario by Jack Strumwasser. Directed by Reeves Eason. Photographed by Geo. Schneiderman. Produced by Fox.

The Story—Cow-puncher wanders into town and saves dance-hall girl from injury at hands of vicious gambler. Meets the ranch-owner's daughter whose father is persecuted by gambler and his henchman. He rides to the elder man's rescue but the father is killed. Suspicion points to hero as assassin of gambler but his innocence is established by a dog who brings in the evidence.

Classification—Familiar type of Western based upon overpowering of villains whose scheme is to foreclose mortgage. Usual gun-play and romance.

Production Highlights—There is nothing conspicuous in the shape of outstanding features in this offering. Cast does good work with one or two exceptions. Few long shots.

Exploitation Angles—Title suggests comedy and exhibitors should make plain that it is western. Jones is liked in some communities. Plot too old to present many opportunities for novel advertising. Eileen Percy in cast. Trick horse and dog.

Drawing Power—This one will doubtless be run on double feature day. Does not contain any story interest. Program houses might find it profitable where westerns are enjoyed. Star and Miss Percy should draw where known. Better in small towns than in cities.

"A Homespun Vamp"

Realart-Paramount—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

JUST as its title indicates this picture features May McAvoy as a truly rural, homespun vamp, a little drudge, who after she suffers unpleasant experiences, is able to find love and happiness. The picture is cut to order and made to measure, so that it will fit the personality of the star. Some will catalogue it in its separate cubby-hole as a familiar formula—that of the quaint pathetic orphan who smiles when the shadows are the darkest. There is exacted from the spectator enough sympathy to make the oering successful regardless of its naivete of plot and characterization.

For once the city folks are held up as possessors of human qualities while the homespun characters are depicted as more or less mean and crabby. One sees two harsh old "nicks" browbeating their orphan niece into many unpleasant slavery tasks. She is compelled to entertain an engagement with a hand-picked yokel and when the crabby uncles depart to purchase things in a neighboring town the story picks up its substance and reveals a pleasant romance and no little humor. The girl, sensing the tragedy about to engulf her, brings about a scandal by secreting a strange man from the city—a youth accused of robbing the postoffice. While the real thief is apprenhended the scandal is enough to compel the uncles to marry her off to the city fellow. He promises to have the marriage annulled.

The romance is delicately treated and furnishes a mild surprise when the heroine uses her ingenuity to rescue him from the clutches of a passionate admirer. In order to test his love she gives an alarm of fire to see if she will be rescued in preference to her rival. Naturally she wins. The marriage is annulled to be followed by a second one. The picture reveals some first rate atmosphere and some homely touches. Miss McAvoy fulfils the demands of the role and her support is adequate.

The Cast

Meg Mackenzie.....May McAvoy
Stephen Ware.....Darell Foss
Joe Dobbs.....Lincoln Stedman
Mrs. Dobbs.....Josephine Crowell
Donald Craig.....Charles Ogle
Duncan Craig.....Guy Oliver
Mrs. Ware.....Helen Dunbar
Beatrice Carlisle.....Kathleen Kirkham

By Hector Turnbull. Scenario by Harvey Thew. Directed by Frank O'Connor. Photographed by Hal Rosson. Produced by Realart.

The Story—Country Cinderella drudges for a pair of stingy uncles. A loutish yokel lover forms an excellent foil to a city sweetheart who appears and rescues the girl from her distress, though his path to happiness is not smooth. The uncles, seeing what they think is a compromising situation, compel the man to marry her. He is under suspicion as a thief, but clears himself. Marriage is annulled but contracted again when youth and girl discover themselves deeply in love.

Classification—Rural comedy-drama depicting orphan girl finding happiness by never losing faith in romance. Picture reveals sufficient local color and sentiment.

Production Highlights—The acting of Miss McAvoy, who reveals a quaint and colorful character sketch. Cast is good, the work of Charles Ogle, Guy Oliver and Josephine Crowell standing out conspicuously. Rural touches revealing plenty of local color and comedy. Surprise touches in climax.

Drawing Power—Picture, being rural comedy-romance, is certain to please the average theatregoer of the neighborhood house. Will even draw well in small towns because the atmosphere is authentic and not unduly stressed. Miss McAvoy, if performance in "Sentimental Tommy" is remembered, will act as magnet if name is prominently featured in lights.

"Midnight"

Realart-Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THEY have tacked a nifty title on Constance Binney's latest release. The man in the street is liable to mistake it for a crook melodrama or a mystery farce. However he takes it he is certain to accept it as first rate entertainment—what with its fair degree of suspense, the charming backgrounds, the rather novel twist to an old idea, and the clever work of the cast. Miss Binney asserts her pleasing personality in a role which calls for much romantic expression and an opportunity to flash some emotional characteristics.

Harvey Thew's plot takes up the marriage, made in haste and repented at leisure, and shows an aristocratic girl suffering the pangs of disillusionment when she finds that her husband is a worthless scamp. The heroine is too young and spirited to mope about her tragedy. Furthermore, that is not Miss Binney's way. So she smiles and engages in a flirtation with the youth of the adjoining estate. This title is used as an art background to illustrate the captions, a clock with the hands pointing to midnight suggesting some suspense. It also forms the base of the climax as the heroine elopes with the Senator's son and is married promptly at the stroke of twelve.

Then her fugitive husband appears to put over a blackmailing scheme. The girl is horrified to find his dead body upon her return to the house. But the butler saves her from being a bigamist by declaring that he shot him at ten minutes to twelve. The romantic element is dominant throughout the major part of the action. It is well directed and photographed, the exteriors being genuinely enchanting.

The Cast

Edna Morris.....Constance Binney
William Morris.....William Courtleigh
Dodd.....Sidney Bracey
George Potter.....Arthur S. Hull
Bishop Astor.....Herbert Fortier
Grace Astor.....Helene Lynch
Senator Dart.....Edward Martindel
Jack Dart.....Jack Mulhall

By Harvey Thew. Directed by Maurice Campbell. Photographed by H. Kinley Martin. Produced by Realart.

The Story—Young girl contracts a hasty and unwise marriage with scapegrace. He disappears and is given up for dead. Later girl falls in love with worthy young man and they elope and are married at midnight. Returning home, the bride is horrified to discover dead body of her former husband. Butler shoots him for attempted burglary. His death occurs at ten minutes of twelve thus saving girl from bigamy.

Classification—Romantic drama of a hasty marriage which results in disillusionment. Develops complications when bride falls in love with worthy youth.

Production Highlights—Charming acting by star and good work by Jack Mulhall, Edward Martindel and William Courtleigh. Beautiful exteriors. Novel twist to climax as husband, thought dead, returns and is killed.

Drawing Power—This one is a good bet for the select neighborhood. Will be enjoyed by feminine fans. Star has a definite following and story is certain to be appreciated in small towns. Not big enough for the larger houses.

"Woman, Wake Up"

Associated Exhibitors

(Reviewed by Elsie Loeb)

A PICTURE revealing a wealth of action, much of which is of the outdoor variety and some of which presents society interiors, is "Woman, Wake Up," starring Florence Vidor. It is a feature that exposes a progressive plot with something doing most of the time. It is a story that is ever moving forward to well worked out conclusions. The spectator is certain to note that it contains adventure, adequate thrills, elaborate indoor and cabaret sets, as well as charming exteriors. The plot is plausible and applies to both men and women who find difficulty in adjusting themselves to the newly married state. The sub-titles are particularly snappy.

Miss Vidor gives a conspicuously good performance in the role of the mountain girl who is so old-fashioned that her husband leaves her. Not being one of the jazzy creatures and decidedly plain in her dress, she stands a poor chance in the city against the super-sophisticated types. However, the family friend takes her out to cabarets where she learns to dress and "do the steps." A dramatic touch is next introduced when the husband is inspired to jealousy. Eventually he learns to appreciate his wife's fine qualities.

"Woman, Wake Up!" judging from its plot, has been used several times upon the screen. Just at present there is a vogue in presenting this type of story. The cry for jazz and more jazz has become a timely one. And the boys and girls with the scripts are having little trouble in reaching the producer. However, this is beside the point. The picture carries enough highlights to succeed. It isn't a knockout, by any means, but a decidedly entertaining feature.

The Cast

Anne Clegg.....Florence Vidor
Monte Collins, her husband.....Louis Calhern
Henry Mortimer, the family friend...Charles Meredith

By G. B. Manly. Directed by Marcus Harrison.

The Story—An aeroplane accident brings Monte Collins to the mountains where he is rescued by Anne, a native girl. While convalescing he falls in love and they marry. In the city Monte tires of her because of her old-fashioned appearance and manners. The family friend takes her out to cabarets where she learns to dress and dance. Eventually a reconciliation is effected when the husband appreciates her fine qualities.

Classification—Adventure-romance tinctured with dramatic moments. Presents martial conflict because of wife's inability to keep pace with husband.

Production Highlights—Action from beginning to end. Aeroplane accident and a forest fire in introductory reels. Beautiful exteriors taken in the vicinity of the Cataline Islands off the California coast. Progressive plot. Charming interiors. Acting of Florence Vidor.

"A Motion to Adjourn"

Arrow-State Rights—Six Reels

(Reviewed by D. J. Gest)

WHILE the plot of this picture is a familiar one, it being the old tale of a self-sacrificing youth shouldering the guilt of a weak brother, nevertheless it is entertainingly presented. Certainly it carries an appeal to the finer sentiments and aside from its influence upon the conscience there is enough balance to keep it from being a lesson in mannerly deportment. Indeed the comedy element is refreshing in its novelty and does much to add the interest. Two players in the cast are well known—Roy Stewart and Marjorie Daw. And they fulfil the demands of their roles in adequate fashion.

The youth who performs the self-sacrifice strikes out for the West. When the tramp who steals his clothes is killed, the hero naturally is considered dead. A comedy spirit enters when he arrives in a Western community and is initiated into the "Onery and Worthless Men of the World." He meets the girl who is caught in a compromising situation when she hides in his bed during the battle for the gold-dust. This melodramatic moment arrives when his club-fellows plan to rob him.

The girl is sent East to boarding school and the coincidence of the sequence is established when she recognizes the picture of her hero—the youth being the brother of her room mate. A family reconciliation is effected. The picture reveals some good Western action which moves along briskly enough to keep one interested. The backgrounds suffice in dealing out a colorful sample of first rate atmosphere and photography.

The Cast

Silas Warner, a wealthy broker.....Harry Rattenburg
Silas, Jr., eldest son.....Roy Stewart
Archie, youngest son.....Sidney D. Albrook
Louise, the daughter.....Evelyn Nelson
Doc Bleecker, owner "Stagger Inn"..Norval McGregor
Sally Bleecker, his daughter.....Marjorie Daw
Valentine, the maid.....Peggy Blackwood
Joe Selinsky, the Desert Rat.....William Carroll
Jim, the bartender.....Charles King
Faro Dan.....Bill White
Butterfly Kid.....Jim Welsh

By Peter B. Kyne. Directed by Roy Clements.

The Story—Youth shoulders guilt of brother when the latter steals father's securities. Driven from home, his clothes are stolen from him by a tramp who is later killed. Thus youth is given up for dead. Wanders into western town, meets the daughter of hotel keeper and inherits claim of old prospector. The girl hears of plans to rob him and is compromised. Sent East to finishing school she recognizes youth as brother of her room-mate. Family reconciliation follows.

Classification—Romantic drama of self-sacrificing youth who encounters adventures and romance before shadows in his life are replaced by sunshine. Has comedy twist.

"Welcome to Our City"

S. A. Pictures Corp.-State Rights—5100 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

A WELCOME farce-comedy containing all the characteristics which spell snappy entertainment is "Welcome to Our City," featuring Maclyn Arbuckle. This able player, remembered for his sterling character study of the Prodigal Judge in the picture of that name, demonstrates his pantomimic ability in terms that cannot be questioned. Years of experience upon the stage have equipped him with a finesse, a polish that should make his services in wide demand. He is an ideal choice for the role of the good-natured visitor in our midst who becomes the victim of a frame-up so that he may relent and permit his son to marry a chorus girl.

Arbuckle dominates the action. His humor is so abundant, his mobile expressions so unconsciously funny that even though the plot carried no spice at all he would be able to lift it and make it enjoyable. But the fact that it is rich in humor and situation makes it doubly attractive. The incident is well conceived and executed in true farcical measure, there being no lapses in the action which flows along like a well oiled machine. Much of this credit belongs to Robin Townley for his able direction. With a well prepared scenario from the hands of Basil Dickey, the director has brought out the whimsical touches, emphasizing the sparkling situations with the correct tempo.

The scenes are productive of humor, but so are the characters. And they all fit perfectly in the pattern. The chivalrous hero attempts to aid a young woman in distress and finds himself in a deal of complications before he is able to square himself with his wife. There is no apparent let-down in the scheme, the action building humorous scenes in consecutive order. "Welcome to Our City" will be accepted as one of the most delightful offerings of the season. It is charmingly acted and adequately staged.

The Cast

Jim Scott.....Macklyn Arbuckle
Geraldine.....Bessie Emerick
Luigi.....Fred Dalton
Agnes Scott.....Bessie Wharton
Richard Scott.....Jack Crosby
Eleanor Scott.....Gertrude Robinson
Bert Scott.....Charles Holleman
Dolly.....Joyce Fair
The Maid.....Gene Baker

By George V. Hobart. Scenario by Basil Dickey. Directed by Robin H. Townley.

The Story—Treats of a good-natured, middle-aged man who comes to the city with his wife and becomes the victim of a frame-up. He goes in search of adventure and helps a weeping woman in distress. Suffers a deal of embarrassment before he is able to square himself with his wife. His son establishes the frame-up so that his father will consent to his marrying a chorus girl.

Classification—Domestic farce-comedy exploiting a visitor to the city who becomes compromised.

Production Highlights—The excellent interpretation of Macklyn Arbuckle as a visitor to the city. Reveals true comedy talent and gives one of the best performances of the season. A gifted farceur. Company excellent. Story carries novel situations.

Exploitation Angles—Title possesses great value for any kind of "copy" or stunts. Star well known throughout country. Old-timers will remember his role in Ade's "The County Chairman." Coming into popularity after his work in "The Prodigal Judge." Fast and funny farce-comedy traveling on high.

Drawing Power—Is good for any house that appreciates snappy farce-comedy. First class houses should book it. Might acquaint patrons with a real actor if they don't know his ability. Exploited for title and star should give the exhibitor a good bet. Needs campaign to put it over, after which there should be no trouble in collecting a crowd. A great bet for the downtown house.

TERRITORIAL SALES AND PURCHASES

In the Independent Field

STATE RIGHT AND EXPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

Ben Wilson, who has arrived in New York to deliver Arrow some of his productions, which will be released by them

"Story Most Necessary" Says Ben Wilson

Ben Wilson, the West Coast producer, is now in New York having brought with him the first prints of several productions upon which he, his staff of directors, writers, actors, actresses and photographers have been busy during the winter months.

Mr. Wilson is one of the most experienced motion picture men in the world, with a list of successes the secret of which lies in the care which he always gives to the stories of his pictures.

"The public," says Mr. Wilson, "demands strong matter on the screen, by which I mean dramatic situations arising out of the play of the elemental passions. They want powerful heart interest, probable stories based upon occurrences of ordinary life.

"The older the pictures become in public knowledge, the more people take the photography, the spectacular, one might even say the acting for granted, and the more they are asking, What sort of story is it? The paths are strewn with the wrecks of million dollar productions for they have failed and are failing to attract because of their plots."

Hurst with Neal Hart

Paul Hurst, the well known director, has joined the staff of the Wm. Steiner productions at San Antonio, Texas, to direct Neal Hart in his new series of five-reel western feature pictures, Mr. Steiner is with the company and as soon as "The Lure of Gold" is completed, will leave for New York.

"Wandering Boy" Success

Second Week at Criterion Proves Better Than First for Equity

THE best way, according to Equity, to judge the box office power of an attraction, is to watch its drawing power during the second week of its run. After proving popular during its first week at the Criterion theatre, the Equity feature, "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-Night," opened its Monday show of the second week with a record attendance. On Tuesday and Wednesday it was equally good, and on Thursday, states Equity, the coldest day of the year in New York, a long line was waiting outside the theatre in the bitter weather. On Friday evening two policemen were required to handle the crowds.

This proves, states Equity, that while a huge advertising campaign attracted attention to the picture before its opening, it was the word of mouth advertising which filled the theatre during its second week. People waited until hearing reports of the feature from those who had attended during the first week of the run.

"No better test for any picture could possibly exist than mouth to mouth advertising," said J. I. Schnitzer, president of Equity. "It either makes or breaks your pictures. If you've got the goods it don't take long for the public to find it out, and when you do, you can count yourself across. If you haven't got the goods, then either one of two things must happen. Either you've got to literally pour money into advertising to get 'em in or take your loss and keep quiet.

"When you've got to stick baek every dime you take in, into advertising to keep your picture alive, then you've got a beautiul 'dyed-in-the-wool' failure, and the quieker you pull out the better.

"We would have given almost any price to have retained the Criterion theatre for a third or fourth week showing. Just the time we had them coming in droves, the lease expired and we had to make room for the next one that was practically stepping on our heels to get the Criterion. Simply proving that a winner is a winner and all that's necessary to get the money is to let your public know what you've got.

"They will carry the advertising message themselves, and the longer your picture plays the less advertising money need be spent on it if it's the goods, which in the case of 'My Wandering Boy' proved itself to be. Sales on the picture are progressing faster than any state rights production relcased in the history of the industry."

Equity reports inquiries still coming in from territories already announced as sold with other inquiries coming in from buyers in all quarters of the country. Special grand opening exhibitions are being planned for the pictures in all parts of the country the latest being Ben Amsterdam in the Phil. Territory.

Warner Bros. Buy "Brass"

Charles G. Norris' Popular Novel to Be Put in Production in Fall

THE screen rights to "Brass," Charles G. Norris' popular novel, have been purchased by the Warner brothers, according to an announcement this week. Production of the novel will be begun early this fall. This purchase is said to be the forerunner of several other big screen stories from popular sources to be acquired by the Warner organization. Hundreds of thousands of copies of this novel are said to have been sold, and the publishers, E. P. Dutton & Co., report a steady and increasing demand throughout the country.

"Brass" tells the story of the much married and the much divorced. It preaehes the doctrine that a marriage cannot be annulled. The real worth and test of the novel lies in the fact that its characters are real, red-blooded human beings, and in this respect it is speeially suited for adaptation to the screen. Another feature of the story is Mr. Norris's conviction that a girl should accept her first proposal, and that whatever men draw in the matrimonial lottery should not be changed by asking fate for another chanee.

It is expected that Harry Rapf and Will Nigh, producer and director respectively of "Why Girls Leave Home," "School Days," featuring Wesley Barry, and "Your Best Friend," with Vera Gordon, will bring forth "Brass."

William Alexander, president of Alexander Film Corp., and Eillie Norwood, character of "Sherlock Holmes," which will be released by Alexander

Anchor Films to Distribute from Coast

With an administrative and sales personnel eomposed of persons with long experience in the independent field, the Anchor Film Distributors, Inc., Morris Schlank, president, has begun its eampaign to make Los Angeles a distributing centre, as well as the producing capital of motion pictures. In a statement issued to the trade press Mr. Schlank says: "My associates and myself have arrived at the eonclusion that, by distributing productions direct from the west coast we would accomplish more for the producer in a financial way and could give exhibitors better pictures at a cheaper rate than concerns operating from the east, with their tremendous overhead expense. The many abuses in picture distributing which west coast producers have found to be a draw-back in securing financial support, will be eliminated by the Anchor entirely, or combatted from the start.

Market Interested in Mayer "Travelaughs"

The decision of Hy Mayer to release on the State Rights Market his "Travelaughs" which for more than a year have been an exclusive feature of the program of the Capitol Theatre, New York, and on which various program releasing companies have approached Mr. Mayer time and again, has aroused much comment throughout the fields.

With the announcement that the "Travelaughs" were to be States Righted, offers began to come in with greater rapidity than has ever been recorded by C. B. C. on any single reel and several of the more important territories are practically disposed of already, it is stated.

Larry Semon and some of his friends in his new Vitagraph comedy, "The Show"

Glavey Makes New Series

Edmund Lowe Engaged for Lead in New Nick Carter Featurettes

WHAT promises to be a remarkable series of featurettes is now in the course of production by the Glavey Productions under the personal supervision of John J. Glavey.

Mr. Glavey, who owns the motion picture rights to the famous Nick Carter's stories, has undertaken to make the second series of these well known sleuth pictures at the request and solicitation of State Right buyers throughout the country, who see in these stories an opportunity greater from every viewpoint than has been their lot in some time past.

To portray the role of Nick Carter Mr. Glavey has contracted for the services of the famous Broadway star, Edmund Lowe. Mr. Lowe is now starring in "Desert Sands," New York's newest sensational success. Mr. Glavey has not stopped at this coup; he has engaged Diana Allen to support Mr. Lowe in the role of "Patsy." Nick's first assistant, and has added new laurels to his organization by assembling other film celebrities with world wide reputations and who include the following: Anders Randolph J. Thornton Baston, Charles Eldredge, Bernard Siegel, Charles Slattery, John Carney, David Wall and Jack Newton.

For the production of these Nick Carter featurettes Mr. Glavey has leased the Este Studios and this week completed his first featurette.

Alexander Hall one of the youngest and rising directors in the industry, has been retained by Mr. Glavey as director in chief.

The camera man is Al Liguori, who has established an enviable reputation through his work with Cosmopolitan Productions.

To Finish Serial March 15

"The Jungle Goddess" to Be Ready Then; Work Started on Episode 13

LATEST reports from the Selig studios, where the Colonel is working day and night shifts on the production of his new chapter picture, "The Jungle Goddess," which the Export & Import Film Co., Inc., will distribute on the independent market, indicate that the entire fifteen episodes of the serial will be completed by March 15th.

Work on the thirteenth episode has now started. Chapters eleven and twelve are almost completed. The titles of the first twelve episodes have been definitely decided upon. Following the first three already announced there are: Episode 4, "The Terror Ship," in which Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke, the co-stars, leave the African jungles and board an animal trader bound for India; Episide 5, "Wild Beasts in Command," wherein the cargo of jungle animals is liberated and overrun the ship; Episode 6, "Sky High With a Leopard," in which the ship is wrecked on the shores of India. A thrilling battle in an airplane caps the climax of this episode. Episode 7, "The Rajah's Revenge"; Episode 8, "The Alligator's Victim"; Episode 9, "At Grips With Death"; Episode 10, "The Leopard Woman"; Episode 11, "The Soul of Buddha," and Episode 12, "The Jaws of Death."

The names of the remaining three chapters have not as yet been decided upon. It will be noticed that in chapter eight, Selig will again use the alligators which he made famous by his spectaeular scene in "The Lost City," his previous serial.

Exhibitors' Ass'n Formed

Kansas City Showmen United: Several Arrow Pictures Approved

A NEW organization, known as the Exhibitors' Co-Operative Association, has been formed in Kansas City. At the first meeting, held there Monday, February 6, officers were elected for the coming year and various committees appointed.

The object of this association, as has been authoritatively given, is to better film conditions in this territory. And it is also its intention to effect an affiliation for the booking of certain classes of pictures approved by its purchasing committee.

A deal was made with Joe Fox, president of the Phoenix Film Corporation, whereby the Exhibitors' Co-Operative Association will accept three pictures a month for distribution through Phoenix. At the meeting Monday James Oliver Curwood's "The Girl from Porcupine," "Hills of Hate," featuring Jack Hoxie, and Peter B. Kyne's "A Motion to Adjourn" were accepted. All of the above are Arrow releases.

The following officers were elected: President, C. H. Burkey, Summit theatre, Kansas City, Mo.; first vice-president, H. A. McClure, Emporia, Kas.; second vice-president S. E. Wilhoit, Springfield, Mo.; third vice-president, W. W. Wertenberger, St. Joseph, Mo.; fourth vice-president, J. W. Watson, Benton theatre, Kansas City, Mo., and treasurer, R. A. Shelton, Ashland theatre, Kansas City, Mo.

The Purchasing Committee consists of the following: J. P. Everett, Paola, Kas., chairman; S. A. Davidson, Neodesha, Kas.; H. A. McClure, Emporia, Kas.; R. G. Liggett, Kansas City, Kas., and A. K. Boussad, Kansas City, Mo. On this committee, one member drops out every thirty days and is replaced by a new appointee.

The following members were present at the meeting: W. O. Burkey, Chas. H. Burkey, A. K. Boussad, Guy Shriner, J. W. Watson, M. J. Glauder, Barney Shultz, J. W. Stockdale, R. A. Shelton, Richard Stedman, of Kansas City, Mo.; R. G. Liggett, Kansas City, Kas.; S. A. Davidson, Neodesha, Kas.; J. P. Everett, Paola, Kas.; H. W. Carson, Osawatomie, Kas.; L. A. Wagner, Eureka, Kas.; Wm. Wagner, Independence, Kas.; H. A. McClure Emporia, Kas.; Jack Johnston, Augusta, Kas.; Fred Feess, Parsons, Kas.; C. A. Rehm, Winfield, Kas.; S. E. Wilhoit, Springfield, Mo.; Maurice Jencks, Junction City, Kas.; Wm. Thacher, Salina, Kas.; M. G. Kirkman, Hays; Phil Kreiger, Arcadia; Barney Hatke, Sabetha; C. C. Sterritt, Kinsley; Raymond Gear, Florence; C. N. Ewing, Arkansas City, and Mark Wilson, Chanute.

New Pacific Film Release

Author L. V. Jefferson Makes Debut as Producer With "Forest King"

AN additional release this month by the Pacific Film Company, John J. Hayes, manager, of Culver City, Cal., is the first independently produced L. V. Jefferson outdoor feature, "The Forest King," featuring Lillian Hall and Reed Chapman, supported by a well chosen cast.

With "The Storm King" L. V. Jefferson makes his first bow as a director-producer. An original screen author and adaptor of note, Mr. Jefferson claims to have written his best story for "The Storm King," which contains a plot that took five years to conceive and polish. Mr. Jefferson will be remembered as the adaptor of B. B. Hampton's Zane Grey photoplays, among which was "Desert of Wheat." He also wrote the screen version of "The Kentucky Colonel" for the National Film Corporation of America. His last successes were all five of the Irvin Willat stories for Hodkinson release. Mr. Jefferson is also an original writer of note, with years of experience in practically all of the larger Hollywood studios behind him.

The various locations used in filming "The Forest King" took the Jefferson production unit over many miles of California territory and into the great redwood forests north of San Francisco, where the principal scenes of "The Forest King" were photographed.

John J. Hayes of Pacific says he is so well pleased with the premier Jefferson feature that he has contracted for an additional five, to be produced this year.

Word has been received by Mr. Hayes from his New York representative, Julius Singer, and his field staff, that bookings for "The Girl from Rocky Point," with Ora Carew, and "The Able Minded Lady," with Henry B. Walthall, tend to demonstrate that business is on the upward grade, especially in industrial centres.

Varied Exploitation for Russell Feature

"Shadows of Conscience," the seven reel American classic produced by Russell Productions, Inc., admits of so many different exploitation angles that each state right buyer has devised something entirely original for the theatres in his district, announces Russell Productions.

The W. P. Gaskell Enterprises, owners of the rights to the film in Wisconsin, have arranged an elaborate herald for its exploitation as a road show. The herald is larger than those usually put out, even for unusual attractions, being a four page affair, ten by twelve inches in size, printed in brilliant red and black. There is a minimum of reading matter in the herald, the feature being more forcibly exploited by means of almost a score of stills from the play.

Friedman Buys Young Pictures from Equity

EQUITY announces another big sale of territory in the independent market this week—this time on the latest Clara Kimball Young pictures. These pictures were sold to the Celebrated Players Film Corporation of Chicago, of which J. L. Friedman is president. The productions involved are "Charge It," "What No Man Knows" and the latest Clara Kimball Young picture, "The Worldly Madonna," which has not as yet been released. The territory consists of Indiana and Illinois.

Mr. Friedman also closed for territory on the big Equity special, "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-Night?" and reports from the offices of the Celebrated Players Film Corporation reveal a booking of a minimum of not less than two weeks at the Randolph theatre, of the Jones, Linick and Schaefer combination of Chicago.

Novel Exploitation for Co-Star Features

Franklyn E. Backer promises an innovation in exploitation methods for his all-star, or as he terms it, co-star series, being handled by independent exchange franchise-holders as Amalgamated Productions. An elaborate two-color press book for "The Greater Duty" has just been completed, which outlines and illustrates the new idea method of bringing before the public the fact that the producers claim exceptional merit for the new G. M. Anderson production.

Advantage is taken of the casting of four well known players in the same picture to give each one of the notables one day of the time used to advertise the production. On this day he is featured as the big star of the drama. How best to do this is carefully outlined in the press book.

Pyramid to Produce in Astoria Studio

So as to have adequate space for the building of its second super attraction, the "Queen of the Moulin Rouge," Pyramid Pictures this week entered into contract with the J. P. and M. B. Construction Company of New York City, whereby the Astoria studios at 75 Mill street, Astoria, Long Island, would be taken over by Pyramid for the time needed in the building of "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge."

While Ray C. Smallwood, who has just finished "My Old Kentucky Home," is busy casting for Pyramid's second attraction, everything is ready at the Whitman Bennett Studios in Yonkers, where Kenneth Webb is making every effort possible to hasten Pyramid's third production, "The Mayor's Wife," in which Betty Blythe will be starred.

Comedy Attractions vs. Fillers

Stromberg Tells Why the Demand Exceeds the Supply

THAT superior, finely produced and wholesome comedies are becoming an insistent industry and public vogue, with demand far exceeding supply, is the digest of a detailed résumé of nationally investigated conditions, issued this week by Hunt Stromberg, who has withdrawn from the active production of the Doris May pictures to become the head and sole owner of his own independent producing organiaztion, with headquarters now established at the United Studios in Hollywood.

Under a new independent policy of production, Stromberg's first acquisition is Bull Montana, who, placed under a long-term contract, is to be starred in a series of elaborately produced two reel comedy attractions.

"Direct contact and intimate correspondenee with exhibitors and other authorities identified with the selling division of pictures reveals an excessive demand for two or three reel comedy attractions of the better class," says Stromberg.

"It is an established fact that while the industry is literally 'swamped' with dozens of brands of celluloid going out under the guise of 'comedies,' the majority of exhibitors, and particularly the first run theatres, have a most difficult problem in solving the comedy situation. A questionnaire which I recently issued broadcast brought a satisfactory number of intelligent replies. It disclosed the very important fact that a significant percentage of the larger first-run theatres catering to select showmanship and discriminate patronage are compelled to fill their programs with short subjects or prologues of questionable value and appeal, simply because the real need and desire for a bang-up comedy attraction was incapable of fulfillment. I repeat 'attraction,' because the enterprising exhibitors insists, or should insist, that every unit on his presentation should be sufficiently alluring and attractive to serve as a real entertainment feature, rather than as a 'filler' to make up a specified time schedule.

"The tremendous success of Harold Lloyd, Mack Sennett and Buster Keaton as comedy attractions bears concrete evidence of the facts at hand. There are, of eourse, other comedies and comedians proving of practieal worth to the box-office, but the natural question is: 'How many other comedies or comedians really make themselves felt at the box-office—as a tangible money-making asset to the showman?'

"The answer can best be supplied by the exhibitors themselves who, as their box-office proves, can point to very few comedies that actually jump profits.

"Many thinking exhibitors accustomed to a keen analysis of the pictures they play instantly sense the trouble with the comedy-releases of the day. They know that time, thought, preparation and a firm knowledge of 'mob psychology' is lacking in many so-called comedies. They also know that many producers positively side-track, ignore or don't know the immense responsibilities connected wtih comedy productions. The attitude sometimes prevails—and the exhibitors know it—to the effect that 'Oh, well, it's only a short-reel comedy—anything will go!'

"My investigations also disclose a lamentable 'sameness' in the average run of two reel comedies. There is little that is new and novel to keep pace with the discreet and 'shopping' motion picture public.

"The problem, therefore, is to regard two reel comedy seriously. To know, as exhibitors and the trade certainly know, that the field for comedy is as broad and big as the comedies themselves make it.

"Plausibility of story and humanness of charaeterizations ean and must be worked in as a foundation for the laugh situations, 'gags' and thrills to follow. The humor must be natural and original. The entire production must stand out as something delightfully diverting and wholesome. And unless a comedy becomes an actual money-making attraction, to be billed and exploited as such, its mission has failed.

"It is upon this platform that Bull Montana shall be launched as a star in his own right. Montana's worth as a definite, tried-and-true attraction is second to none in the whole industry. This is not a personal opinion, nor a publicity catch. It is an absolute fact, because the exhibitors and newspapermen have, by their own choice and business judgment, made Bull Montana one of the novelty idols of the show world."

Ora Carew telling Frederick Becker, her director, how she likes the script of "The Girl from Rockpoint," a Pacific Film release

"Felix" Cartoons Sold in Two Territories

Following close upon the heels of the announcement of the formation of the independent producing and distributing unit headed by Miss M. J. Winkler, and the subsequent acquisition by the company of the series of twelve "Felix" cartoon comics, animated by the Pat Sullivan studios, comes her first announeement with respect to the sale of her product in two large independent territories.

The series of twelve "Felix" eartoons have been disposed of for Greater New York and northern New Jersey to the Elk Photoplays, Inc.

Joseph Friedman, general manager of the Celebrated Players Film Corporation of Chicago, also closed this week for the series of "Felix" cartoons for physical distribution throughout Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

Miss Winkler is at present in the midst of other deals involving the disposition of the "Felix" cartoons for important territories.

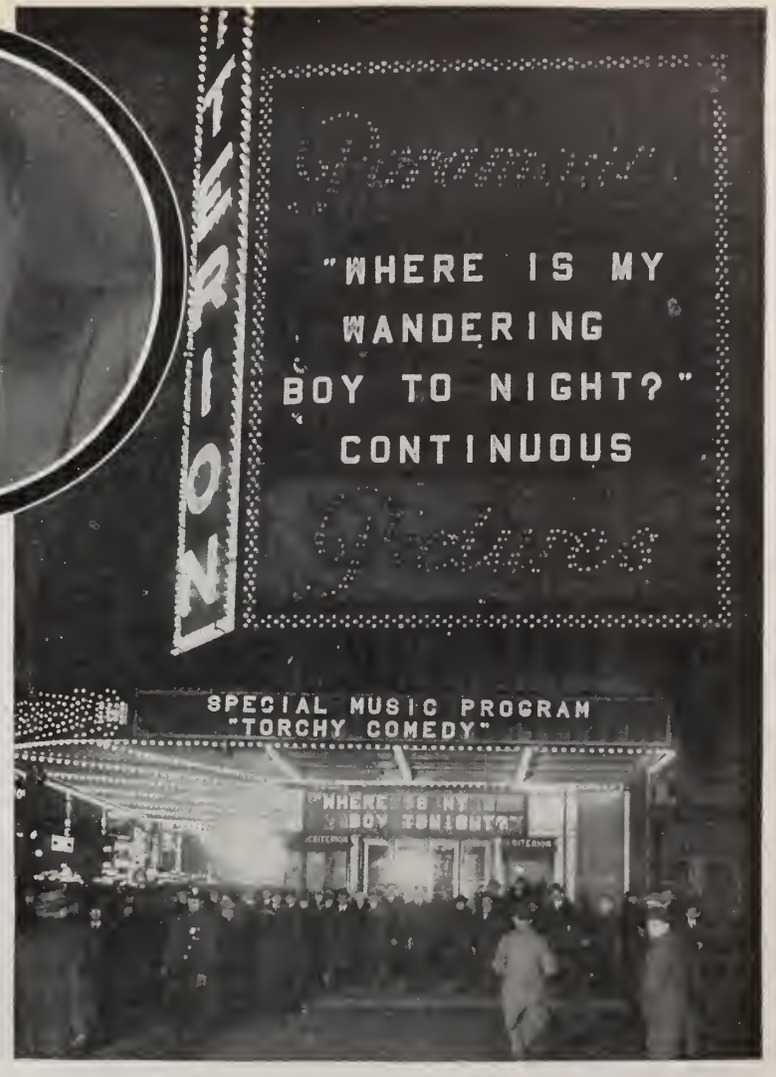
Sport Review Illustrates Winter Sports

The Sport Review, edited by Grantland Rice, and produced by Jack Eaton for Artelass Pictures Corporation, and released by Goldwyn, continues on the high plane of excellence of the first of these bi-weekly releases, announces Goldwyn. The newest sport review is called "Winter Pep" and illustrates in graphic fashion timely manifestations of the sporting instinct in mankind. The winter sports illustrated were taken in Montreal and at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks.

New Prisma Subjects

Prizma, Incorporated, announces three new subjects for release at once on its regular short subject service in Prizma color; "Away Dull Care," a picture of outdoor sports in various parts of the world; "Seeing the Unseen," a study of minute organisms, including two inches of living matter from the bottom of the ocean; and "Nippon," a new eolor study of Japan.

Times Square Night Scene at 44th St. & B'way



Overflow crowds requiring four uniformed policemen to keep the crowds in order

"We told you so"—

and what we said is true—

We told you that we had a winner

—a genuine smashing box office winner in "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" . . . we told you it would go over and play capacity . . . we told you it's what the public wants . . . And we have proven every statement . . . At the Criterion Theatre, N. Y., directed by Hugo Riesenfeld, the picture drew crowds that at one time required four special police to handle . . . and this while competitive B'way houses were playing to half their regular business . . . and we've gone still further in proof of its bigness, for the latest news at the time of the [illegible] announcement, is that

Jones, Linick & Schaefer, Chicago—have booked

"Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" for an indefinite run in their Randolph theatre in Chicago. . . . No exhibitor nor exchangeman in America but knows that in order to do business with Jones, Linick & Schaefer, you've got to have the genuine merchandise. . . . pictures that get the money into the box office without any 'ifs' nor 'ands' nor 'buts'. . . . and every film man knows that Jones, Linick & Schaefer are as shrewd judges of the drawing power of pictures as any combination in the entire industry.

Exhibitors,—Communicate with your exchange as follows for playing dates on "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" New York State and N. New Jersey territory, Commonwealth Pictures Corporation, 729-7th Ave., New York City (Upstate offices, NU-ART Pictures Corporation, Albany, No. 4 Clinton St.—In Buffalo, NU-ART Pictures Corporation, 221 Franklin St.), E. Penn. and S. New Jersey, Master-Piece Film Attractions, 1329 Vine St., Phil. New England States, Federated Film Exchange of N. E., 48 Piedmont St., Boston, Mass. Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, Celebrated Players Film Corporation, 810 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. and 172 Second St., Milwaukee, Wis. Canada, Stephenson Attractions, Ltd., 28½ Adelaide St., E. Toronto. In Wash., Ore., Mont., Idaho, N. Mex., Wyo., Utah, Colo., Alaska, Arrow Photo Plays Co., Denver, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

EQUITY

Pictures Corporation, Aeolian Hall, N. Y.

Director W. Hughes Curran, "Big Boy" Williams, and their company on location during the filming of "Blaze Away," the first of the series to be released through DiLorenzo Productions, Inc.

Di Lorenzo Release March 1

"Blaze Away" Stars "Big Boy" Williams, Directed by W. Hughes Curran

FOLLOWING the recent announcement of the incorporation of Di Lorenzo, Inc., comes word that their first production, "Blaze Away," the first of a series of six special five-reel productions starring "Big Boy" Guinn Williams and directed by W. Hughes Curran, will be ready for release to independent exchanges on March 1.

"Blaze Away" is an original story by Bruce Boteler, a graduate of Princeton University and long a valued member of the scénario departments of Thomas H. Ince and Fred Niblo.

"Big Boy" Williams's leading lady in this production is Molly Malone, whose work in the support of such stars as Will Rogers, Tom Moore and Frank Mayo will be remembered.

The career of Guinn Williams in pictures has been short but meteoric. From his first introduction to pictures by Will Rogers, his vital and winning personality and his great gifts as an actor and a daring athlete have brought him quickly into a prominence which culminated in a starring contract with the Frederick Herbst Productions, which is the producing unit whose productions are being distributed by Di Lorenzo, Inc.

W. Hughes Curran, the director of the series, has had a rapid rise in the industry. After graduating from Fordham University, New York, Mr. Curran started his career in that city, where he was connected with Ordynski, the noted Russian producer of stage successes, in the direction of such famous stars as John Drew, Jane Cowl, Viola Allen and Robert Mantell. From this association it was a quick step to pictures, in which profession Mr. Curran was first associated with the Edison Company. Coming to Los Angeles, Mr. Curran was engaged by Thomas H. Ince for duties with the old Triangle Company. Mr. Curran was associated with Charles Ray and William S. Hart for many years.

Big "Ten Nights" Success

Further Sales and More Successful Openings Reported by Arrow

'TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM" is continuing its uninterrupted record of successes everywhere, announces Arrow. W. E. Shallenberger, President of the Arrow Film Corporation, this week not only announces a number of successful openings, but several important sales.

The picture played at the Mark Strand theatre, Albany, N. Y., last week to record business and according to wires received at the Arrow's home office, opened to a wonderful business in Fox's Washington theatre, Detroit, Fox's American theatre, Denver, and J. W. & W. J. Dusenberry's Grand theatre, Columbus, Ohio.

Among the many sales closed on this attraction are listed the territory comprising northern New York State, where the picture was purchased by Mr. S. H. Burce for the Courtney Theatre Co. William Conn, President of Premier Pictures Corporation, Charlotte, N. C., secured the picture for North and South Carolina, while J. J. Goodstein secured the rights to Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Alaska for the Arrow Photoplay, Incorporated, of 1753 Welton Street, Denver, Col. Palmore and Homand of Baltimore, Md., secured the picture for Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia, while the territory comprising western Pennsylvania and West Virginia was contracted for by Albert A. Weiland for the Standard Film Exchange of Pittsburg, Pa.

Dr. Shallenberger points out that in spite of the cry of bad business, not only among exhibitors but exchange men, a picture of the calibre of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be eagerly sought after by independent exchanges and will prove a profitable investment.

"His Nibs" Wins in Detroit

Exceptional Production Makes Fine Impression at Premiere

THE enthusiastic reception accorded "His Nibs," the Exceptional Pictures Corporation production in which Charles (Chic) Sale is starred, at its pre-view exhibitions, and the prediction that it would be a great public and box office favorite, has been fully borne out where the comedy-novelty has been released, claims Exceptional.

One of the recent showings was at the Colonial theatre in Detroit, and as well as drawing crowded houses, the feature elicited most enthusiastic comment from the critics of the leading newspapers, the Detroit Free Press carrying the following comment: "'Chic' Sale, whose characterization of the typical stage rube made him a vaudeville headliner for years, is shown on the screen at the Colonial this week in 'His Nibs,' the first photoplay he ever made. It is one of the most refreshing comedies seen since the advent of the cinema, clean and mirth-provoking and so absolutely different from the usual slap-stick comedy as to make its appearance as an event in the history of the photoplay.

"Sale is the same rube we have chuckled over on the vaudeville stage. Shown as the proprietor of the Slippery Elm Picture Palace, he is operator, chief announcer, janitor and head usher, enacting the various roles himself. He takes upon himself the job of editing the film sent him and cuts out the titles, claiming the people read them out loud and annoy the patrons. In place of the titles he lectures as the play proceeds, and his comment on the action is good for a laugh a minute. He doesn't believe in the usual fade-away with the heroine in the hero's arms, so he cuts the picture at the end of the fight where the hero bests the villains. 'The balance of the picture is too mushy,' he says. 'They get married and live happily forever more, and that is all you need to know.'"

The Detroit News reviewed the picture as follows: "Just as he is on the stage, Charles (Chic) Sale, in his first motion picture, is a whole show, a three-ring circus in himself. 'His Nibs,' which is making a visit to Detroit this week at the Colonial theatre, shows that there are rare possibilities in Sale as a film comedian, and any time he is ready, Chaplin, Keaton, Lloyd and the rest will probably be glad to move over and make room on the bench."

Critics Greet "Cardigan"

American Releasing Corp. Opens in New York to Capacity Business

"IT is high time that we had a motion picture like 'Cardigan' in which justice is done to the birth of the American republic," is the significant way in which the New York Herald hails the arrival of Messmore Kendall's presentation of Robert W. Chambers' famous historical romance, distributed by American Releasing Corporation and forming the backbone of Samuel L. Rothafel's All-American Week at the Capitol theatre, New York.

"Cardigan" opened to the biggest Sunday business in months at the Capitol, according to the distributors. Going further, the New York Herald scores its point heavier by saying that "after the deluge of foreign pictures spectators will come to feel that the whole American nation and especially the younger generations would love their country more deeply were the history and romance of the American Revolution portrayed as effectively as has been done in "Cardigan.'"

Officials of American Releasing Corporation feel that they have opened the career of this new Walter E. Greene—F. B. Warren sales organization with the most effective and powerful first release that has ever come into the possession of any new organization. For two weeks prior to its opening at the Capitol "Cardigan" has been heralded only by a skillfully constructed trailer and by three days of advance newspaper advertising in New York. At its opening Sunday matinees the theatre with its 5,100 seats played to turnaway business and at night several thousand persons were turned away. When the last night audience was seated the ribbons were still up at the rear of the house and as many persons were still standing as the police and fire laws of the city would permit.

"'Cardigan' seems quite authentic as to settings and costume," says the critic of the New York Times who hails this romantic melodrama as being full of "Colonials, Red Coats, Indians and action. It accepts the national tradition that all Tories were villains and all rebellious Colonists were heroic figures and finds it a fitting background for a melodrama based on the difficulties and dangers through which two young patriots pass before they get the villains out of the way and make ready for the minister."

QUALITY PRINTING

Our experienced workmen bring out the best in your negative—Perfection insured by complete equipment and personal attention.
Quick Service - - - - - - - - - - - Moderate Prices

PEERLESS FILM LABORATORIES

1109 South Boulevard Oak Park, Ill.

First National "Anniversary Week" Section

FIRST NATIONAL has asked us to state here our candid opinion of its place in this industry.

And we cheerfully do so, stating in print what we have frequently said and would now say to any exhibitor who asked us the question.

First: a fundamental policy of First National has been the encouragement of independent production.

The production map would be quite different today if First National had not entered this field.

We know, by contact, of many a producer who made his picture and brought it to New York in the hope that First National would accept it.

We know of many a director and many a star who create independently their pictures today largely because of First National.

First National provided a market and therefore a necessary incentive to individual creative effort in picture making.

And the future of this industry will always depend—very largely—upon this same widely developed creative effort.

Secondly, First National doesn't say: we are right and that is all there is to it. Its policy is not that of arbitrary judgment and action.

On the contrary its attitude is this: we are embarked upon a cooperative development, one that necessarily embraces forces that may be combative.

The institution belongs to its members.

Its welfare, therefore, is the welfare of the individual members.

Its policy therefore is one of conference and readjustment so that common and satisfactory ends may be arrived at.

These are two solid and very large planks under any motion picture organization.

Wm. A. Johnston.

Optimism Prevails Among Franchise Holders in Their Outlook for Coming Year

COURAGE, confidence and enthusiasm for the coming months of 1922 form the keynote of the attitude which prevails among the franchise holders of Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

The "Go-After-It-and-You'll-Get-It" attitude toward business is most emphatically expressed by Harry Crandall, of Washington, D. C., who declares that "there is just as much money for exhibitors today as there ever was but the exhibitor must get out and hustle for it."

"In my opinion the outlook for the coming year is very good," says Mr. Crandall, "and the one thing the exhibitors must not do throughout the country is to allow themselves to be stampeded into a general reduction of prices.

"The motion picture price as it stands today comes nearer to giving one hundred cents on the dollar in the way of entertainment than any other form of amusement, and there are two things that positively will not go together, and they are a reduction of price (with consequent reduction of film rental) and increase in the quality of shows—and to my way of thinking increased quality of shows is the most essential thing to the future success of the industry and is the exhibitor's only hope.

"There is just as much money in the business for the exhibitor today as there ever was, only it is distributed a little more thinly on account of the many large houses that have been built in recent years. Under present conditions the exhibitor can no longer take the road of least resistance to make money, but he must get down to it and hustle for every dime he gets, and take advantage of every opportunity and increase his efforts in every manner possible to make his house the most popular one."

Harry T. Nolan, original franchise holder of Denver, hits out straight from the shoulder and talks to his fellow exhibitors. Says he:

"1922 will be a year of the survival of the fittest. Producers, distributors, or exhibitors who cannot set, or keep up with the pace will pass out of the picture business through inefficiency, misjudgment or over-investment. More than half of the producers formerly with us have gone out of business through these causes. Those who have survived through talent and genius should be encouraged to continue so that we may all progress and capitalize our confidence in each other. Good pictures are the only ones now that get results and I am sure that from a survey of our 1922 program and prospects for the coming year that First National will have a greater number of real specials than ever before in the history of the business and every one of them real money makers."

"Good times may be several blacks away," declares Jack Truitt, of Sedalia, Mo., "but they're surely coming.

"I find myself comparing this week with the same one of last year, also analyzing why business was good during such a week and light on another one, and I want to say with all fairness and frankness, that most of my good weeks have been with First National pictures and from my analysis, find that First National had on an average of three box office attractions to all the balance of my services combined.

"I value my franchise as one of my best assets and many times have I relieved my mind of worries, by the protection a First National Franchise affords."

"It's a year of big stories," says Sol Lesser, of Los Angeles.

"It is with a sense of extreme optimism that I view the coming of the year 1922; its unlimited possibilities for the motion picture industry in general and for the prospects of the greatest year the industry has ever known.

"It is my firm belief that the industry is more firmly established throughout our great nation than ever before and there are several predominating factors for this, namely; the splendid productions that have flashed across the 1921 screens, particularly those of the Associated First National Circuit, the brilliant aggregation of stars now making such wonderful pictures for First National and the unswerving faith in our great organization."

"Forget 1921 and look to 1922," counsels Colonel W. S. Butterfield, of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

"I am thankful to state that the outlook in Michigan which is recognized as the automobile state of the universe, is brighter, and while we don't look for any big things in the production of automobiles for 1922, we do look for a steady growth of business which should be satisfactory to all of us who have made the readjusting period.

"As to the style of pictures the public desire; it has been thoroughly proven during the past year of hard times that the public will pay their money to see a first-class well-constructed picture with a consistent story and that smacks of real life, and it is a positive fact that the First National-produced pictures, as a whole, have been along this line and I am pleased to note that the producers are realizing this and, from all appearances are inclined to make less productions but better ones."

"Lift every screen offering out of the commonplace," is Joe Bauer's message from San Francisco.

"I consider the day has arrived when producer and exhibitor alike must exert every effort to lift each screen offering out of the commonplace—the producer building his story so that it reaches a peak that proves of vital interest to the audience—the exhibitor to employ every theatrical effect that will tend to impress the patrons of its worth. The day of the 'pretty' screen story has gone; the punch must be added; of course by that I do not mean a bombastic flurry in each story, but a sort of a snapper in the main theme that will make the audience realize they are not looking at the usual jellyfish variety of film story.

"Productions like 'Hail the Woman,' 'Molly O' 'The Silent Call' and of like calibre are the lash that will keep a steady stream of shekels flowing into the box office window."

"Get set for a showman's year," is the slogan of A. R. Zimmer, Maryville, Kan.

"If the year just passed had as its slogan '1921 will reward fighters,' the coming months would justify '1922 WILL REWARD FIGHTERS, ONLY," says Mr. Zimmer.

"1921 saw the passing of the 'program picture' in our theatre—the day has passed when we can simply announce a picture with music, and expect the rush crowds of the loose money days just gone.

"Bigger and better pictures, and longer runs, have come into their own at last. We have, only recently, abandoned a one-price policy, and will gladly raise the admission for any picture that has the box-office merit to justify the advance."

John H. Kunsky, original franchise holder of Detroit, who has just opened the new 4,500 seat Capitol theatre in that city, declares:

"I have seen the schedule of the productions for the next two or three months and, in my opinion, they will be superior to anything marketed by any other producer or distributor organization in the world, which certainly speaks well for those in charge of our Association and for the future profits of our franchise holders. I consider my franchise my most valuable thing I have in connection with my theatre operations and feel positive that all sub-franchise holders will feel the same as they continue to share financially in the benefits derived from the steady influx of high grade productions."

"To me the prospects for 1922 look exceptionally bright," writes A. H. Blank, original franchise holder of Des Moines. "We have secured a line-up of stars and producers who are the most prominent in our industry and these men and women have promised to give us their very best.

"I sincerely believe that First National will be the salvation of many exhibitors. In the past we have successfully combated the attempts of large film corporations to force us to play their product at rentals which spelled ruin and with the excellent pictures which we have coming from the season of 1922 we can still be more independent."

Colonel Fred Levy, original franchise holder of Louisville, Ky. is not only enthusiastic about the past year but confident of the present one.

"To my mind, Associated First National Pictures, Inc., has made wonderful progress during the year 1921. This year has been one which contributed more to the actual stabilization of Associated First National and its activities than any several years heretofore."

"What the public wants is good pictures at reasonable prices," is the conviction of Emanuel Mandelbaum, original franchise holder of Cleveland, Ohio. "You find where an exhibitor has followed this policy, he has succeeded much better than those who have showed a cheaper quality of pictures with added attractions. Instead of adjusting our expenses to our incomes, many of us have added extra burdens in the way of prologues, vaudeville, musical acts, extra music, etc., which we expected would stimulate business. The additional receipts, however, did not warrant this extra expense and did not stimulate a healthy condition; it only aggravated the situation. Expenses should be reduced with a view to possible reduction of admission prices, which would stimulate business to a greater extent than additional attractions."

Tributes to First National as a stabilizer of the industry and a "rock of Gibraltar" to the exhibitor are plentiful. Joseph Stern, of Newark, N. J., operating seven theatres in Newark, Bloomfield and Kearney, writes:

"As a holder of six franchises in the state of New Jersey, I find the franchise with all its faults a blessing to me. The 1921 pictures that First National put out had a very good average, and the avoidance of the strain of dickering when buying pictures separately against a competitor was surely welcome to me."

Frank Durkee, of Durkee's Palace and five other theatres, Baltimore, Md., declares:

"As we review the past year, 1921, through our moving-picture eyes and study the reverses our business has encountered, we cannot help but feel and look to First National for many of our brightest hopes and expectations for the new year."

Harry Thornton, of the Gaiety Theatre Company, Springfield, Ill., is unmistakably enthusiastic in his outlook.

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to state," says Mr. Thornton, "to the holders of First National franchises that the outlook for the coming year is exceedingly good."

"Ray for First National Week!"

CHARLES RAY

Presented by Arthur S. Kane in "The Barnstormer," "Gas, Oil and Water," "The Deuce of Spades," "Smudge," and one other—Five

FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTIONS on the open market. Available to all theatres

CHARLES RAY PRODUCTIONS, INC.

JOHN M. STAHL, Producer-Director

LOUIS B. MAYER

Presents

JOHN M. STAHL PRODUCTIONS

Associated First National Attractions

CURRENT RELEASES:

"The Child Thou Gavest Me"

"The Song of Life"

Now in Production: "One Clear Call"

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

R.A.WALSH

The Man Who Made

"KINDRED OF THE DUST"

WITH

MIRIAM COOPER

Produced by R. A. Walsh Productions, Inc.

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

HOPE HAMPTON

As She Appears In Her Next Production,
"The Light In the Dark."

This Talented and Beautiful Star Is Constantly Adding New Friends to Her Legion of Admirers.

Miss Hampton's Latest Success, "STARDUST," Suggested by FANNY HURST'S Story of That Name, Is Making Box-Office History.

DISTRIBUTED BY ASSOCIATED FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES, INC.

A New Katherine MacDonald—a new and higher standard of merit—better stories, bigger productions, greater exploitation possibilities—

That is the promise for 1922 of

"PREFERRED PICTURES"

already fulfilled in

The Beautiful Liar
The Infidel
The Woman's Side
Domestic Relations

Don't book them until you see them—then play them as soon as you book them.

PREFERRED PICTURES, INC.

B. P. SCHULBERG, Pres.

Executive Offices
576 Fifth Ave., New York

Studios
Los Angeles, Cal.

SELIG-RORK

Offer

THE ROSARY

—that great dramatic symphony of human emotion
—with an unexcelled all-star cast:
Lewis Stone, Jane Novak, Wallace Beery, Robert Gordon, Eugenie Besserer, Dore Davidson, Mildred June, Bert Woodruff, Pomeroy Cannon and Harold Goodwin.
Original story by Bernard McConville inspired by the theme of Edward E. Rose's stage play. Directed by Jerome Storm.

Associated First National Pictures, Inc.—Distributors
Released on the open market. Available to all exhibitors.

—Read what that great San Francisco showman Eugene Roth says about THE ROSARY

William A. Johnston's editorial in Motion Picture News recently on "The Rosary" brought the following telegram from Eugene H. Roth: "Your splendid editorial on 'The Rosary,' produced by Selig-Rork, arrested our attention, with the result that we had the world's premier showing at our Imperial Theatre on January 23rd. The box office verified your good judgment and ours. 'The Rosary' is splendidly cast and superbly directed and is proving a high class entertainment for all classes."

—Read what the San Francisco critics say—about the premiere of THE ROSARY at the Imperial Theatre.

THE CALL:

Another picture which is destined to score a success in every nook and corner of the land, for it will appeal to all manner and classes of audiences, had its first showing on any screen at the Imperial yesterday.

It is "The Rosary," an original story for the screen, but inspired by the famous stage play of the same name, a story of plain people and told by dynamically powerful episodes that will find an answering throb in the heart of every film fan.

"The Rosary" is a great "audience" picture. It was evidently written to do just exactly what it will do—please, and please unmistakably the picture goer from every walk of life. It is frankly melodramatic in spots, its heart appeal will find an answering throb in the hearts of its viewers, and its humor is of the homely sort that will bring a smile to the lips and a glad feeling to the soul.

And it is an example of rare judgment in the selection of cast. For every character in it is distinctly a type.

Lewis Stone gives a wonderful performance as the priest which is in fact the principal role of the story.

THE BULLETIN:

"The Rosary" began its world premiere showing yesterday to crowded houses at the Imperial. The stage play of Edward Rose, upon which the film is based, enjoyed a wide success in America.

Without any preachment, rather clothed in the most delightful of romances—the love of two young couples—the drama is an eloquent example of how readily the distinctions of race and creed can be wiped away through a love of humanity.

THE CHRONICLE:

Good and evil wage a decidedly vigorous battle in "The Rosary," now being given its world premiere at the Imperial, and faith, both peaceful and militant, wins an equally decided victory

Lewis Stone plays Father Brian Kelly, kindly priest and vigorous man. Stone makes him a well-balanced character, neither too remote nor too worldly. Jane Novak has just the touch of spiritual gentleness needed for Vera, and Robert Gordon is an admirable selection for young Bruce Wilton.

Wallace Beery handles the villain's role with a nice sense of its gradual development. Eugenie Besserer, Dore Davidson, Mildred June and other well-known players complete a carefully chosen group.

THE DAILY NEWS:

It looks as if Selig-Rork had a winner in the picture, which has all the elements that go to make a popular success—humor, pathos, a happy love affair, fine charactered men and women, justice for evildoers.

A very excellent cast, evenly balanced and capable, is headed by Lewis Stone as the priest.

THE EXAMINER:

World premiere of THE ROSARY reveals a play of beauty and melodrama.

The principal roles are faultlessly played every one of them.

Father Kelly, his non-conforming friend, Isaac Abrahamson, and the old sea captain give the greatest value to the play, being a trio of extraordinary interest in unique brotherhood and exemplifying a beautiful phase of village life. The romance of the play is skillfully and dramatically interwoven, and it holds interest constantly.

GLANCE AT THIS

list of pictures

It tells more effectively than could be expressed in fifty pages of words, what Marshall Neilan Productions represent to the exhibitor.

It also immediately establishes a record for consistency in the production of entertainment that brings big profits to the box office.

"Penrod"
"Dinty"
"Go and Get It"
"The River's End"
"Don't Ever Marry"
"Bob Hampton of Placer"
"Bits of Life"
"Fools First"

Distributed through First National

Count the Cost of Your Picture First

These First National Stars and Producers are now proving the plan.

Joseph M. Schenck
presenting
NORMA TALMADGE
CONSTANCE TALMADGE
and BUSTER KEATON
is doing it.

J. L. FROTHINGHAM
is doing it.

ALLEN HOLUBAR
presenting
DOROTHY PHILLIPS
is doing it.

RICHARD WALTON TULLY presenting
GUY BATES POST is doing it.

SOL LESSER presenting JACKIE COOGAN
is doing it.

WHY NOT YOU?

CO-OPERATION
in PRODUCTION

The new united plan of co-operative production control, studio-space, organization and production facilities are available at a flat fee per picture with labor on an hourly basis, at cost, and material at wholesale cost.

The rental rate is determined in advance and is based on the class of production and the number of pictures to be made. So the producer knows at once how much his picture will cost. This is business sense!

UNITED STUDIOS, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

M. C. LEVEE
President

JOHN EMERSON and ANITA LOOS

present

Their Own Production

"RED HOT ROMANCE"

A First National Attraction

"I've made my fortune insuring the King's life. Let's get married."
"Carissima! Let's start a revolution and kill the King."
"Now be reasonable, King. If they find you were broke!"

Here's a Few of Their Other Pictures:

for CONSTANCE TALMADGE

"Polly of the Follies"
"Woman's Place"
"The Virtuous Vamp"
"In Search of a Sinner"
"The Love Expert"
"Dangerous Business" for DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

"The Americano"
"Wild and Woolly"
"Down to Earth"
"Reaching for the Moon"
"His Picture In the Papers"
"In Again, Out Again"

First National's Four Year Record of Box-Office Attractions

FROM its earliest days, First National has been recognized and relied upon by exhibitors as a constant and regular source of sure box office attractions. This statement does not mean that every First National attraction has been a 100 per cent. record-breaker. It does not mean that First National has given to the exhibitor an uninterrupted series of "world's greatest pictures."

It does mean, however, that First National attractions, from the beginning to the present, have maintained a higher consistent average of entertainment value, by the testimony of the exhibitors who have played them, than any other distributing organization—and that First National can probably show more "record breakers" and "smashing hits" to its credit than any other single organization.

Let's go back into history for a moment. It isn't so long ago since "My Four Years in Germany," the film dramatization of James W. Gerard's remarkable narrative of his experiences as ambassador to Berlin, electrified motion picture audiences everywhere, and became, during its day, the most talked-of war picture in America. That was one of the first of First National's big pictures. At least three other important contributions to the pictorial side of the war were made by First National. The first two were "Pershing's Crusaders" and "Italy's Flaming Front." Both were features of the allied armies in action, made from official picture archives, and released while the war was at its height, to meet and satisfy the demands and interests of the moment. The third, more sensational than the others and unique in content and character as a film document, was "Auction of Souls," the picturization of the Armenian massacres by the Turks during the Great War, and made from the story of the youthful eye-witness and survivor of these massacres, Aurora Mardiganian. It was almost a foregone conclusion that this picture would have the startling success that it did, and that its appeal to all classes of audiences would be phenomenal.

But while Firt National was earning incidental distinction as a disseminator of authentic motion picture documents on fundamental phases of the great conflict that was then engaging the attention of the entire world, it was becoming equally conspicuous in fulfilling its major function as a purveyor of high-class entertainment to the theatres and the public of the United States.

The furore created by the first two Chaplin comedies, "A Dog's Life" and "Shoulder Arms" hardly needs to be recalled to the exhibitors who played them. The expressions of satisfaction that have been received from all over the country at the announcement recently that First National would re-issue these classics, and their two immediate successors, "Sunnyside" and "A Day's Pleasure" are evidence that these inimitable pictures are as fresh in the minds of the exhibitors as if they had played them only last week.

"Red Hot Romance," an Anita Loos-John Emerson production, released through First National

Shortly afterward began the mobilizing of the various series of star attractions which have given First National a unique position in the distributing field. Mary Pickford, Anita Stewart and Jack Pickford appeared under the First National banner, and among their productions were some of the most conspicuously successful, not only of that season, but of their entire careers. "Daddy Longlegs," Mary Pickford's initial First National attraction, ranks high among the box office successes of motion picture history. Although Anita Stewart had then been absent from the screen for some time, "Virtuous Wives," her first production, proved her a prime favorite almost over night. "In Old Kentucky," which came along soon afterward, was one of those sure-fire box office successes that exhibitors still talk about wherever they foregather. Both "In Old Kentucky" and "Daddy Longlegs," by a coincidence, were directed by Marshall Neilan—this, of course, being in the days before "Dinty," "Go and Get It" and "Bob Hampton."

Constance Talmadge appeared as a scintillating star on the First National horizon about this time. The brilliancy of such comedies as "A Temperamental Wife," "A Virtuous Vamp," "In Search of a Sinner" and "Two Weeks" created a tremendous demand for these feature laugh-containers, and secured her the position she has held so easily as Americas foremost comedienne.

With "The Thunderbolt," Katherine MacDonald made her debut as a star and as "The American Beauty," following this with "The Beauty Market." "The Turning Point," "Passions Playground," "Curtain" and others that served as apt vehicles for her signal loveliness.

Not long after Connie became a First National attraction, Norma Talmadge, then and since acknowledged as America's most accomplished and most versatile screen actress, added her strength to the growing array.

"A Daughter of Two Worlds," "The Woman Gives," "Yes or No," and "The Branded Woman," were the first four of the distinguished line of photoplays which Miss Talmadge gave to the American public through First National.

Charles Ray productions were presently added to the attractions available to First National exhibitors, the first of these being "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," a screen adaptation of the George M. Cohan musical comedy success.

Marshall Neilan had earlier demonstrated his ability as a producer of First National attractions in his creation of "Daddy Longlegs" and "In Old Kentucky"—so much so that it was only natural that he should devote his entire time to pictures of this calibre, once such a distributing outlet as First National was available. "The River's End," his first special production, has a double significance in First National history. It was a sensational box office success, leaping into the first rank almost immediately, and it was the first "franchise picture" to be offered the franchise holders by Associated First National Pictures, which had just been formed to supplant First National Exhibitor's Circuit. "Dinty," "Go and Get It" and "Don't Ever Marry" came immediately afterward. "Dinty" proved from the start a "bell-ringer" at the box office, and a picture that became a favorite among showmen because of its exploitation possibilities. Moreover, it made Freckles Barry, the "Penrod" of 1922, a national screen favorite.

The year 1921 was an exceptionally fruitful one for First National franchise holders on the score of box office attractions. "Passion" was the first of "The Big Five" to reach the theatres after the opening of the year, and instantly became a box office favorite. "The Kid," Charlie Chaplin's six reels of joy, started its career of smashing box office records early in the spring, and by the summer had demolished everything in sight. More than two hundred and fifty prints were required to fulfill the demand for the picture; more than thirteen hundred booking days in Greater New York were rolled up; between fifteen and twenty theatres in first-run cities played "The Kid" from ten days to six weeks.

Other outstanding successes of the past year—it is impossible to do more than enumerate them—were "Peck's Bad Boy," starring Jackie Coogan; "Sowing the Wind," the Anita Stewart special; "The Oath," the R. A. Walsh special; "The Child Thou Gavest Me," the John M. Stahl production, with "Itchie" Headrick; "The Old Swimmin' Hole," Charles Ray's production from the James Whitcomb Riley poem; "Bob Hampton of Placer," Marshall Neilan's dramatization of the Custer Massacre; "The Sky Pilot," King Vidor's production of the Ralph Connor novel; "Man-Woman-Marriage," Allen Holubar's special, and Norma Talmadge's "The Sign on the Door."

The opening of the fall season brought with it the announcement that First National would thereafter distribute the entire output of Associated Producers, which added another twenty-five features to the programs of the First National exchanges, and brought the productions of Thomas H. Ince, Mack Sennett, Maurice Tourneur, J. L. Frothingham, J. Parker Read, Jr., and H. O. Davis into closer connection with First National franchise holders.

"The Divorcee" Given Special Pre-View

Producer Joseph M. Schenck, Norma Talmadge and Constance Talmadge were hosts to J. D. Williams, general manager of Associated First National Pictures, and Mrs. Williams at a special preview of Constance's latest photoplay, "The Divorcee," held Friday night at the California theatres, Venice. Mr. and Mrs. William pronounced "The Divorce" Constance's finest picture.

First National Offers Exceptionally Fine Array of Box-Office Attractions

LOOMING over the horizon are a series of pictures which First National believes will eclipse even those attractions bearing its trade mark which have made such sensational box office records since the inception of the company. The current releases of the company have been exceptionally excellent and have won the practically unanimous praise of critics everywhere, and the quality of the coming productions promises such a high calibre of entertainment that capacity houses are looked for universally.

"Bigger and Better Pictures"—the aim of the First National—is the principle which has imbued all the independent producers, directors, stars and minor employes, and all are straining every effort to carry it out. The past and current releases, remarkable as they were, are but milestones showing the progress made by the independent producers, in elevating the standard of motion pictures.

Probably no other picture has won such a chorus of encomiums as "Tol'able David," Richard Barthelmess' initial starring vehicle for First National release, and it is credited with breaking many house records. The stark simplicity of the story, the tense, vivid acting and the strength of the story have combined to make it a masterpiece. It was directed by Henry King and adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story by Joseph Hergesheimer.

The next Barthelmess production will be "The Seventh Day," written by Porter Emerson Browne and directed by Mr. King.

Under the auspices of Producer Joseph M. Schenck, Norma Talmadge has embarked on a plan to make only pictures of a superlatively high standard. Mr. Schenck has announced his intention of sparing no expense or effort in this direction, and he has carried out the new plan in the production of "Smilin' Through," which was one of the most successful plays on the legitimate stage. In every way, the picture is a remarkable one. The cast includes Wyndham Standing, Harrison Ford, Alec B. Francis and Glenn Hunter.

Even more spectacular will be her next picture, "The Duchess of Langeais," which is now being produced in Hollywood. The sets being constructed for this production are declared to be the largest ever filmed, some of them representing the exterior and interior of the palace at Versailles.

Marshall Neilan's current offering is "Penrod," based on the famous Booth Tarkington stories, and it is meeting with extraordinary success in the first run theatres. The star of the production is "Freckles" Barry, who makes an ideal "Penrod Schofield" and portrays in vivid manner the trials and tribulations of the average American boy.

Neilan is now making "Fools First," a Saturday Evening Post story. Featured in the cast are Richard Dix, Claire Windsor and Claude Gillingwater.

"Red Hot Romance," which played two highly successful weeks at the Criterion theatre in New York, was written and produced by that talented pair, John Emerson and Anita Loos. It is delightful satire, and an innovation in motion picture making.

"Polly of the Follies" is the current Constance Talmadge production, and it likewise was written by Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos. Constance is now at work on the Pacific Coast on "The Primitive Lover," a sprightly comedy with a dramatic twist. In the cast are Harrison Ford, and Kenneth Harlan. Sidney Franklin is directing it.

Guy Bates Post, one of the most famous of actors on the legitimate stage, will make his screen debut as a First National star in "The Masquerader," in which he played many years on the stage. It will be produced by Richard Walton Tully, the writer and impressario of a number of notable successes on the boards. Supporting Mr. Post are Herbert Standing, Barbara Tennant, Marcia Manon, Lawson Butt, Kenneth Gibson, E. M. Kimball and Ruth Sinclair. James Young is handling the directorial megaphone.

In addition to the two reel comedies bearing his name, Mack Sennett is producing feature length subjects. "Molly O," his current production, is one of the "high spots" of the season. His next will be "For Love or Money," which is packed with laughs and thrills. Next in order will be "Suzanna," starring Mabel Normand, now in the course of production.

"Hail the Woman," the Thomas H. Ince masterpiece, which has created more favorable comment than most pictures within a decade, will be followed by a series of productions from the Ince studios, which is destined to make box office history.

The first of this series will be "Skin Deep," the story of the reclamation of an enemy of society as the result of a facial transformation by plastic surgery, and the love of a good woman. Lambert Hillyer directed the story, and the cast includes Milton Sills, Florence Vidor, Marcia Manon, Frank Campeau, Charles Clary, Joe Singleton and Winter Hall.

The next Ince feature will be "The Hottentots" featuring Douglas MacLean, the most elaborate and funniest comedy Ince has ever produced. The cast includes Madge Bellamy, Truly Shattuck, Lila Leslie, Dwight Crittenden and Raymond Hatton.

The third of the series will be "Jim," a highly dramatic story of the California plains, San Francisco and New York. It is an original screen story by Bradley King, with Milton Sills, Marguerite De La Motte and John Bowers in the cast.

"The Brotherhood of Hate" is an Ince drama of the Kentucky hills, with Lloyd Hughes playing an important part, aided by Marguerite De La Motte and Frank Keenan. Lambert Hillyer is the director.

Maurice Tourneur is now producing "Lorna Doone," from R. D. Blackmore's immortal novel. The settings will be elaborate and include a replica of Westminster Abbey and Doone village in England a century ago. The featured players are Madge Bellamy, Frank Keenan, John Bowers and Donald MacDonald.

The next Hope Hampton production to follow "Star Dust," the famous tale whose picturization has been highly successful all over the country, will be "The Light in the Dark," declared to be a novel peculiarly adapted to filming. It is now in the course of production.

Encouraged by the great success of their first dog story, "The Silent Call," featuring Strongheart," a Belgian police dog, Laurence Trimble and Jane Murfin, the producers and authors, have begun work on another picture in which this canine actor will be "starred."

Among the current productions, which are meeting with unprecedented popularity, are "My Boy," in which little Jackie Coogan is starred, and the Selig-Rork production, "The Rosary," an original story based on the theme of the famous song.

"Pay Day" will be the next contribution of Charles Chaplin who is keeping the nature of the production a dark secret. "Pawned" is the subject which will reach the screen from the J. Parker Read, Jr., studio.

John M. Stahl is now at work on "One Clear Call. "One Clear Call" is laid in a small Southern town, where two men of strangely contrasting natures are in love with the same woman. The cast is of all-star calibre, including Henry B. Walthall, Claire Windsor, Milton Sils, Irene Rich, Joseph J. Dowing, Shannon Day, Fred Kelsey, Annette De Foe, Doris Pawn, Donald McDonald and Albert McQuarrie.

J. L. Frothingham is to contribute "The Man Who Smiled" on the spring schedule. Allen Holubar, the creator of that massive spectacle, "Man-Woman-Marriage," one of the real successes of the screen, is to make two more pictures for First National. The first of these is "The Soul Seeker," starring Dorothy Phillips.

In "The Beautiful Liar," the first of a new series to be released, Katherine MacDonald plays a dual role—that of an actress and stenographer. The plot is distinctly original and novel, and it is enhanced with some extraordinarily good acting. "The Woman's Side," the second of the series, is a political drama, filled with exciting moments. The tense drama is offset by some rare touches of humor. In "The Infidel" Miss MacDonald has a role unlike anything she has attempted before. An adventuress, who has become an agnostic because of the wrongs suffered by her mother at the hands of her father, a minister, she eventually reaches a South Sea Island. She becomes a willing tool in a conspiracy to rob the natives, but rights matters after a desperate battle against odds, and marries the man she tried to ruin.

The next picture in which Anita Stewart will be seen is "A Question of Honor." The picture, filmed in the Sierras, has some remarkable scenic shots. "The Woman He Married" and "Rose o' the Sea," both of which are based on stories of rare strength and appeal, are others in which this star will entertain movie fans.

Miriam Cooper, the pensive young star, will be seen in "Kindred of the Dust," picturized from the famous novel by Peter B. Kyne. It was produced by R. A. Walsh, who gave "The Oath" to the screen and thereby added fresh laurels to his name.

There will be five Charles Ray features, which are to be released on the open market plan. These include "The Barnstormer," "Gas, Oil and Water," "The Deuce of Spades" and "Smudge.' The fifth of the series has not yet been titled.

Buster Keaton, who has made the best comedies of his entire career since he joined the First National fold, will come to bat regularly with his mirthquakes. In the immediate future there are "The Paleface' and "Cops."

The Mack Sennett short comedy forces are working at a high rate of speed turning out the two-reel gloom chasers which have made Sennett internationally famous as "the comedy king." Chief among his fun-makers is Ben Turpin, the gent of the criss-cross eyes. And there are Billy Bevan, the nervous fun-manufacturer, and his pretty foil, Mildred June. Under their auspices will be seen "The Duck Hunter," "On Patrol," "The Robin's Nest" and a host of others still unnamed.

Motion Picture News
Booking Guide
Is Next Issued in March
Order Your Copy NOW

We sincerely thank the thousands of exhibitors who so splendidly supported First National Anniversary Week—our fourth birthday.

We acknowledge our debt of gratitude to the independent stars and producers who provided the pictures of a quality so high as to justify their exclusive showing on the screens of so many of the nation's finest theatres.

We learn as we grow

Our ideal is to justify our existence as an organization by the service we render to both the independent exhibitor and producer.

Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

NORMA TALMADGE'S

next release

"SMILIN' THROUGH"

is approximately 8 reels

A First National Attraction

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

DICK BARTHELMESS

"TOL'ABLE DAVID" is now proving its box office worth. Next, "THE SEVENTH DAY," the romance of a New York girl and a Maine fisher lad.

A First National Attraction

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Gov. Miller of New York saw it, then said:

"I think it is beautiful. It depicts the human emotions of conflict and yet is clean. I particularly enjoyed the scenic beauty."

INSPIRATION PICTURES, INC.

present

A drama of youth gone wild. Made 'midst the scenic splendors of Yosemite Valley.

"THE CAVE GIRL"

with TEDDIE GERARD and capable supporting cast, including Charles Meredith and Boris Karloff

FROM THE STAGE SUCCESS BY GUY BOLTON AND GEORGE MIDDLETON

Distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Released on the Open Market

Available to All Exhibitors

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Scenes from Current First National Releases

Scenes from current First National releases: Top row, from left to right, Constance Talmadge in "Polly of the Follies"; centre, Hope Hampton in "Stardust"; right, "The Rosary," a Selig-Rork production. Centre row, left, Wesley Barry in "Penrod"; right, Mabel Normand in "Molly O." Bottom row, left, Richard Barthelmess in "The Seventh Day"; centre, Jackie Coogan in "My Boy"; right, "Hail the Woman," a Thomas H. Ince special

Stars, Producers and Studios Associated with Making of First Nat'l Pictures

Katherine MacDonald Production

DURING 1921 Katherine MacDonald made rapid strides up the ladder of popularity, and her productions have scored decided hits. Many of her pictures have been classed among the most successful from the box office standpoint, and 1922 finds her firmly entrenched in the hearts of the millions of motion picture theatre fans.

"Stranger Than Fiction," "Her Social Value" and "The Beautiful Liar" are among her recent releases which have found favor with the "fans," and those planned for the future are to be made greater in every respect. In order to find the proper vehicles for this star, the Preferred Pictures Corporation, the producers of the MacDonald series, have organized a special scenario reading staff, which is making an intensive search for the best stories obtainable from any source.

The pictures in which the "American Beauty" will appear during the current year include "The Woman's Side," a political drama; "The Infidel," a thrilling tale of the South Sea Islands and the bounding main; "Domestic Relations," depicting the contrast between the classes; and "Conquer the Woman," said to be an exceptionally strong plot.

John M. Stahl Unit

John M. Stahl has made an enviable record in the short time he has been an independent producer under the Louis B. Mayer banner. He has produced three pictures thus far, and each of them has met with unusual success.

"The Woman in His House" was the first. The second of these, "The Child Thou Gavest Me," has broken records in many of the theatres, and has won the praise of critics everywhere as a production without a superior. Enacted by an all-star cast, the perfect direction and acting and a powerful story have combined to make it excellent entertainment.

Katherine MacDonald, beautiful First National star, in "The Infidel"

A scene from Norma Talmadge's new release for First National, "Smilin' Through"

"The Song of Life," which also contains an all-star cast, is duplicating the success of the first Stahl production, and has drawn an avalanche of bookings. It has received the endorsement of many prominent women as a tale of real life, with heart appeal and a gripping plot.

Mr. Stahl is now at work on "One Clear Call," another story of "life as it is." A Southern town is the locale of the action, and thrilling incidents and a tender love story abound in the script.

Hope Hampton Company

Hope Hampton is now at work in her New York studio on "The Light in the Dark," declared to be one of the strongest stories ever written from the viewpoint of picturization. It contains situations which have never been shown on the screen, and unusual success is predicted for it.

"Star Dust," Miss Hampton's current feature, has created a furore in film circles. Its showing was at the National Theatre in Louisville, Ky., where it proved so popular that it was held over for a second week. It has been just as successful in other cities where it has been shown thus far. Miss Hampton has been making personal appearances in the larger cities in connection with the showings, and in this manner has added considerably to her popularity.

"Stronger stories; perfect pictures," is the announced policy of the Hope Hampton Productions for the future.

Marshall Neilan Unit

Nineteen-twenty-one was a "Neilan Year," for nearly all of the productions bearing his name which reached the screen proved extraordinarily successful. Neilan has reached the status where his name on a production has as much potent drawing power as that of the most famous stars, because the public knows that his pictures are entertainment in the 'nth degree.

Starting with "Bob Hampton of Placer," the 1921 releases have set new marks for popularity with the fans. This massive spectacle was one of the year's biggest money makers. "Bits of Life," which followed it, demonstrated the master directors' versatility and daring, for it was a feature production containing four separate stories. Next came "The Lotus Eater," starring John Barrymore, and it, too, is now making history in the theatres as one of the most unusual of attractions. But, strong as all these were, Neilan's current picture, "Penrod," based on the famous stories by Booth Tarkington, is expected to exceed them all. "Freckles" Barry is the star of this tale of American boyhood, and all in all it is one of the most remarkable pictures ever filmed.

Neilan is now engaged in directing "Fools First," and has some gigantic plans in prospect for the future.

R. A. Walsh Company

R. A. Walsh, the producer of "The Oath," contributed "Serenade" to the First National schedule during the fall of 1921, with Miriam Cooper and George Walsh in the leading roles. It was a tale of Old Spain, and it won considerable praise for its vivid acting and general excellence of settings and directions.

His current production is "Kindred of the Dust," a picturization of the famous Peter B. Kyne novel of the same name, which ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Walsh is now engaged in seeking stories and has announced his intention of producing only "Big" pictures hereafter.

Selig-Rork Productions

Selig-Rork have entered the dramatic feature field with "The Rosary," an original story based on the theme of the famous song. It has been well received in the first run houses, where the strength of the story and of the all-star cast have proven highly entertaining.

Emerson-Loos Features

John Emerson and Anita Loos, the best known "team" of photoplaywrights in the business, have become producers also, and have made their bow in that capacity with "Red Hot Romance," a picture which satirizes the "mushy romantic" type of drama. This talented pair is at present turning out further stories with the intention of undertaking the production of them also.

Charles Ray Productions

The Charles Ray studio is without a doubt one of the busiest places in filmdom, for the star is one of the hardest working in the business. He is now engaged in producing his last picture for First National release, in the meantime editing and cutting another.

United Studios

With its acquisition by a group of motion picture producers, headed by Joseph M. Schenck, the United Studios in Los Angeles, formerly the Brunton Studios, have become the center of the film production activities on the West Coast. Containing the largest indoor stages known, the studios are in great demand by independent producing units, and are practically "sold out" constantly.

Many of the largest of productions made in recent years were filmed in this mammoth plant, which is now housing some embryo masterpieces. The Norma Talmadge and Constance Talmadge productions are now being made in the studios, as well as "The Masquerader," in which Guy Bates Post will make his screen debut.

Anita Stewart in "The Woman He Married," a First National release

Special Service Section on

"The Jungle Goddess"

"THE JUNGLE GODDESS" is a wild animal serial, in which nearly five hundred of the best performers of Col. William Selig's zoo and a large cast of players, headed by Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke, appear in fifteen episodes of two reels each.

The production is a thriller on the order of Colonel Selig's previous serial pictures, "The Lost City," and "Miracles of the Jungle." It is directed by James Conway, photographed by Harry Neuman and Ed Beesley. The story is by Agnes Johnston and Frank Dazey, both well established scenarioists, and responsible for such successes as "Checkers" and having written for such players as Fairbanks, Pickford and Charles Ray.

Besides the leading players, Miss Field and Mr. Van Dyke, the cast is composed of well selected types and capable people. Marie Pavis plays a mother role, H. G. Wells is a character heavy, while Olin Francis, George Reed, William Platt have important parts as members of the savage tribe where the heroine is kidnapped. Vonda Phelps plays "Lady Betty" in the first sequences.

The story is of the heiress of a wealthy English nobleman, kidnapped through the connivance of an avaricious uncle, thrown into the basket of a stolen army balloon, drifting for days and finally landing in the heart of the African jungle.

There she is found by the friendly chief of a tribe of savages and grows up to "The Jungle Goddess," causing the savages to substitute kindliness for the wicked and idolatrous worship taught by the native witch doctors. This, of course, gains her the enmity of the witch doctors. Her boyhood sweetheart, now grown to manhood, sets out in search of her, and finds her with the jungle tribe. After a series of thrilling adventures he rescues her and they escape through the jungles of Africa, during which they have encounters with wild animals and savage tribes, the witch doctors being responsible for much of the trouble.

Exploitation Possibilities

Exploitation of "The Jungle Goddess" is a matter where there may justly be a decided difference of opinion. If you have played "The Lost City" and "Miracles of the Jungle" then your problem of getting patrons interested in "The Jungle Goddess" should be easy. All you will have to do is to plug away with your advertising until you let everybody know that this is another from the same source as the above mentioned productions and convince them that it is as good or better. In fact, Colonel Selig's serials have made a reputation for themselves.

However, if you didn't play the productions mentioned, you will need to spend some time, effort and money, probably, to get the production off to a big start, a most necessary thing in assuring a successful run for a serial.

It has become a well accepted exploitation rule in starting a serial, to hunt around for something that can be sold to every fan for the first episode even if an actual loss is shown. Of course what you use for this purpose depends on how much money you feel you can afford to spend and what you have pulled in the past.

It is always safe to direct exploitation for a serial largely to the children. They like the thrills, and in this case especially the wild animals will have a great appeal.

For this particular class of patronage, we suggest such stunts as contests, ballyhoos, stunt shows, like the potato, horseshoe, and tin can shows, animal cut-outs, balloon ascensions, etc.

A contest that would be appropriate would be one that dwells on the history of the savage races, showing their customs, characteristics, religion, etc. In this sort of a contest it is reasonably easy to tie up with a newspaper and get a lot of free publicity for the picture and considerable institutional exploitation for your theatre.

As a ballyhoo, the "savages" and wild animals of the picture offer suggestions. Suppose you build a float with all the stuffed or wild animals you can find grouped on it and a reasonable number of "savages" made up to look as near to the real thing as possible. In some sections getting real colored people for the float will go all right.

In dressing the lobby, there is a fine idea in the scenes showing the idol the natives worship. With papier-mache and chicken wire it would be possible without any great expense to duplicate this idol, even to the "clutching hand." The rest of the display should be of the tropical variety, waving palms, jungle stuff, stuffed wild animals, and cut-outs from the stock paper showing the Selig zoo animals in action.

In presentation, it is not usual to attempt any effects with a serial production, but in this case an advance prologue in which you use cut-outs, jungle shrubbery and a tropical canvas as a background can be recommended. This same idea can be carried out in window displays, too.

In newspaper advertising, perhaps the best way of selling this picture to anyone except young America, it should be billed as a thriller, with plenty of scene stills used to illustrate the selling talk. Big space should be used for the opening episodes and the feature played on the bill subordinated. For catch lines and selling talk, stress the action, thrills, animals, without paying much attention to the actual plot, or the cast unless some of the players are more than usually popular.

Co-operative newspaper ads are possible on this production and a good scheme in connection with this idea would be the distribution of tickets in some manner other than just the ordinary "free show."

Scenes from the early episodes of "The Jungle Goddess" which will give a good idea of the action and animal stuff in the serial

ADVANCE VIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

Live News From Producers

WHAT THE MAKERS SAY ABOUT PICTURES

Screen Artists Guild Well Represented

IN Los Angeles five theatres presented attractions made by members of the Independent Screen Artists' Guild during First National Week, February 18-25.

At the Kinema theatre Norma Talmadge in "Love's Redemption" was the feature. At the Alhambra Mabel Normand in Mack Sennett's "Molly O" resumed the long run it began recently at the Mission theatre. At Clune's Anita Stewart was seen in "The Invisible Fear," while at Loew's State theatre Katherine MacDonald was the star attraction in "Stranger Than Fiction." "The Silent Call," H. O. Davis' unique photoplay, in which "Strongheart," the famous wolf-dog, is the star, was featured at Miller's theatre during First National Week.

Convict's Story Wins Wide Publicity

The amazing amount of publicity which has been credited to Herbert Rawlinson's next Special Attraction, provisionally called "Peterman," has induced Universal to make an unusual departure. "Peterman" was written by Louis Victor Eytinge, the famous life prisoner in the Arizona State Penitentiary.

From his prison cell he has been sending all over the world to newspapers, magazines and individuals who are interested in his remarkable story information about this photoplay. In addition to that, the story of how he came to a full realization of the fruitlessness of his misspent life is carried in the current issue of Outlook Magazine. This story was the outcome of Outlook's offer of a prize for a six-hundred word letter on the turning point in an individual's life.

Gladys Walton Stars in "Second Hand Rose"

Gladys Walton, working in harmony with a strong cast of players under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham, has achieved an appealing and human characterization as the pathetic figure, "Second Hand Rose," in a story that is not by any means a typical comedy drama, states Universal. It is full of pathos and the real "kick" of drama, a picture that calls for more real histrionic ability than any vehicle Miss Walton has ever had.

Hammons Goes to Coast

Conferences with Branch Heads en Route to Shape Production Policy

E. W. HAMMONS, president of Educational Film Exchange, Inc., left New York on Saturday, February 18, for a trip to the coast and a tour of many of Educational's branch exchanges, that will require at least six weeks. While in Los Angeles Mr. Hammons expects to close most of his contracts for next year's product for Educational, as well as to discuss the possibility of Educational taking over later the distribution of several popular series of pictures.

Mr. Hammons's plans called for stops in Chicago and Kansas City on his way West to conduct regional sales conventions such as the one held in New York for the Eastern branch managers on Monday, January 30. Henry Ginsberg, domestic sales manager, left New York with Mr. Hammons and was to accompany him this far, leaving him at Kansas City for the South, where he will visit several exchanges.

The Chicago district convention was held on Monday and Tuesday, February 20 and 21. Among the district managers present were: I. M. Schwartz, manager of the Chicago exchange; H. R. Skirboll, Cleveland; O. E. Watson, Cincinnati; M. H. Starr, Detroit; Harry Hollander, Minneapolis; H. J. Fitzgerald, Milwaukee; Carl T. Lieber, Indianapolis, and Lee Goldberg, Louisville.

Mr. Hammons and Mr. Ginsberg went on to Kansas City after the two-day session, where the third and final convention of the series was held on Wednesday, February 22, with the following in attendance: H. E. Schiller, Kansas City; Harry Hynes, St. Louis; C. L. Peavey, Omaha; A. W. Kahn, Des Moines; E. J. Drucker, Denver.

Immediately after this meeting Mr. Hammons departed for Los Angeles. Here he will spend two weeks in conference with producers and the management of the Educational branch.

"Our product next year probably will be much the same as this year," said Mr. Hammons before leaving New York. "Of course, our negotiations with producers depend largely on the sentiment of the branch managers expressed at the conventions. These meetings were called for the purpose of getting an accurate consensus of the opinion of exhibitors, as obtained by the managers in the various districts. They have been making a close study of the exhibitors' requirements and of their attitude toward various subjects, so that, I believe, I will arrive in Los Angeles with a pretty accurate knowledge of what the exhibitors want most in the way of short subjects next year. I expect to be guided by their needs in any changes made in our product."

More Economy Necessary

Readjustment Period Still Exists Declares Paramount Chief

"I AM principally interested in bringing about a better economic condition in the production of Paramount pictures," was the reply of Adolph Zukor to Los Angeles interviewers who questioned him as to the purpose of his present visit to Paramount's West Coast studios. Mr. Zukor recently arrived at Hollywood with Sidney R. Kent, the company's general manager of distribution, to consult with First Vice-President Jesse L. Lasky on the matter of productions for release next fall.

"Like every other industry," said Mr. Zukor, "the motion picture business is today going through a period of readjustment. While we know and fully realize the insistent public demand for better pictures, and that its taste has been developed to accept only the best, it is also incumbent upon producers to realize the necessity for curtailing unnecessary productional extravagance. This, however, must be accomplished without affecting the quality of the productions in the slightest degree, and we are prepared to meet the conditions and maintain that quality for which Paramount has always stood pre-eminent."

Concerning the agitation against the film industry at this time as a result of the recent untoward happenings, Mr. Zukor has the following to say:

"We all deplore the recent unfortunate occurrences, but I have the utmost faith in the men and women in the profession who are working earnestly and giving the best that is in them.

This is a big industry but I am sure that the percentage of wholesome, God-fearing men and women must be as large as among those engaged in any other line.

"Sailor Made Man" in Forty-Nine Day Run

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS announces what is claimed to the establishment of a new world's record for the continuous showing of a comedy production in one theatre. The announcement follows the completion of a forty-nine day run of Harold Lloyd's "Sailor-Made Man," at the Symphony Theatre in Los Angeles. During this engagement the picture occupied a feature position on the program.

The Symphony Theatre openly announced that it was out to beat the long-distance mark established by the previous Associated-Lloyd comedy, "Never Weaken," which ran for forty-four days. Previous to that time the honor was held by Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms," for six weeks at Tally's theatre.

Strong Century Array for March Release

Julius Stern, president of Century Film Corporation, who has just arrived on the Coast reports that considerable work has been accomplished at the studio since his last visit.

An unusual number of comedies are scheduled for release in March and the Century lot is working full time with a little extra thrown in for good measure. There is a steady demand for the Century two-reeler in its improved form and at same low prices.

Lee Moran's release is "Upper and Lower." Harry Sweet is starred in "One-Horse Town" and "Two of a Kind." Baby Peggy is featured in "Peggy Behave," and Brownie is the hero of "Mutts," a canine comedy.

Mabel Normand to Star in Spanish Role

Mack Sennett is producing "Suzanna," a period costume play typical of California in the days of 1833, with Mabel Normand in the stellar role. The story, the plot, the costumes and the atmosphere are all Spanish, which gives the selfish little Mabel opportunity to throw off the Irish mask she wore in "Molly O" and to assume the more romantic and picturesque character she will portray in "Suzanna."

F. Richard Jones is directing the production, assisted by the same staff which aided so materially with "Molly O'." The continuity and production will be personally supervised by Mack Sennett.

A scene from the feature soon to be released by Metro, "Missing Husbands"

Fox Names March Releases

"A Stage Romance," Starring Wm. Farnum, Heads List of 5 Features

FOX FILM CORPORATION'S list of March releases include productions featuring William Farnum, Charles Jones, Shirley Mason, Johnnie Walker, Edna Murphy and Al St. John.

Heading the list of feature presentations is "A Stage Romance" with William Farnum. "A Stage Romance" is the story of a spirited chapter in the life of Edmund Kean, the great English tragedian. The picture was directed by Herbert Brenon and the screen version adapted by Paul H. Sloane from Alexandre Dumas' famous play. Among the prominent actors supporting Farnum are Holmes Herbert as the Prince of Wales, Paul McAllister as Count Koefeld, Etienne Gerardot as Salomon, and Peggy Shaw as Anna Damby. Myrta Bonillas appears as the Countess Koefeld.

Dustin Farnum's production will be "Iron to Gold," from the story by the noted author of western tales, George Owen Baxter. It concerns the life of a gold prospector who has been dealt with unjustly by his partner and who, in his search for revenge, is diverted into the righteous path by his love for the woman married to a false friend. The cast includes Margaret Marsh, William Conklin, William Elmer, Lionel Bellamore, Glen Cavender and Robert Perry.

"Pardon My Nerve," written by William Patterson White, will be the March vehicle for Charles Jones. It deals with a wandering boy whose romantic nerve enables him to save the fortune of a beautiful girl and win her love. Jones is capably supported by Eileen Percy, Mae Busch, G. Raymond Nye and Joe Harris.

In "The Ragged Heiress," Shirley Mason essays the role of a motherless girl whose father has been sent to prison and whose future is left to the case of parsimonious and scheming relatives. The story is by Jules Furthman. Harry Beaumont directed.

"Extra! Extra!" the Murphy-Walker picture, presents an intensely absorbing story of newspaper life and carries the co-stars through a series of lively experience in which, of course, romance develops between them.

The Clyde Cook release will be "The Studio Rube." The Sunshine Comedies are "The Barnstormer" and "The Shcik."

Arliss Scores in "Philly"

Reviewers Praise Actor's Work in His "Ruling Passion" Role

GEORGE ARLISS in "The Ruling Passion" scored a sweeping success in the new Aldine theatre, Philadelphia, opening there on Monday, February 20. The newspaper critics commented almost without exception on the marked difference between this comedy and the previous work done by Mr. Arliss on the stage and in photoplays.

Messrs. Fred D. and Maurice E. Felt, owners and directors of the Aldine, through Manager Ray C. Browne, furnished an excellent program to accompany the feature. Charles P. Garde, director of publicity for Felt Brothers' Enterprises, did not exceed his usual total in advertising, the management relying in no small degree upon the popularity of the star in the Quaker City.

The Philadelphia North American said: "'The Ruling Passion,' starring George Arliss, which is the feature at the Aldine this week, may safely be called a perfect picture. For refined and refreshing entertainment it would be exceedingly difficult to find a picture as flawless and at the same time as interesting as this one. . . . Arliss, without doubt, stands alone in the screen world. The camera has in many cases effectively ironed out any individuality or artistic ability of legitimate artists, but Arliss, instead, brings all of the intelligence and fineness, for which he is so famous, to the screen without the slightest mitigation."

The Evening Public Ledger said: "Some film fans express a dislike for the intensely serious or unusual; that barred 'The Devil' for them. Others are averse to costume pictures; that kept them away from 'Disraeli.' Both were great pictures, dominated by a really great actor, as supreme on the screen as he is on the stage. Now, this same star is featured in a picture that is neither serious nor costumed. Instead, it is a rollicking, smile-fetching comedy, and if the fans do not like it they brand themselves as forever wabbly and wavering in their tastes."

The Public Ledger said: "Those who remember the many dignified and distinguished roles played in his day by George Arliss will be somewhat surprised to find him in his new picture at the Aldine, 'The Ruling Passion,' as an overalled keeper of a California garage. He is quite as successful in this portrayal as he has been in his many other varied characterizations on both the stage and screen. It has accuracy, convincing qualities, picturesqueness and a genial comedy atmosphere."

Vitagraph Feature Finished

"The Man From Downing Street," Starring Earle Williams, Ready

THE latest motion-picture of Earle Williams, entitled "The Man From Downing Street," has reached Vitagraph's Brooklyn plant from the West Coast studios where it was completed a couple of weeks ago.

While "The Man From Downing Street" was at first regarded only as a working title for this picture, queries sent to Vitagraph branch managers and exhibitors resulted in the retention of this title for a final one.

The star appears in a role which will delight his admirers. In addition to the natty costume of a British officer, Williams has adopted the brillian and bizarre garb of an East Indian Rajah. The story calls for its hero to enter upon a mission in which a disguise is necessary. His errand is to discover a leakage of English code messages. For this purpose Williams appears in the aristocratic English and Anglo-Indian social circles as a Rajah in search of the clue which will clear up a mysterious leak from that famous street from which England governs her far-flung possessions.

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

LUDWIG G. B. ERB
PRESIDENT

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

MOTION PICTURE
DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF

TELEPHONE AUDUBON 3716
203-211 W. 146TH ST.
NEW YORK CITY

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

An action still from "Tracked to Earth," starring Frank Mayo. Released through Universal

Universal Signs New Comedy Players

Roy Atwell and Ethel Ritchie, popular players of comedies and comedy dramas, have been signed by Universal and are co-starring in Star Comedies under the direction of Craig Hutchinson.

Their first effort is in a burlesque on motion picture life, entitled, "A Movie Mixup." The fun that comes along with the serious business of making pictures will be shown.

Supporting players are Laura La Plante, Charles L. King, J. B. Russell and C. M. Belcher.

Goldwyn to Film Kathleen Norris Story

Kathleen Norris, who was placed under contract to write screen stories for Goldwyn some months ago and who spent several weeks at the Culver City studios studying screen technique, recently put the finishing touches to her new novel, "Sis," which is about to be serialized in one of the national women's magazines. The filming of Kathleen Norris's new story will be started shortly by Goldwyn.

"The Man Who Smiled" Is Completed

Producer J. L. Frothingham is personally supervising the final cutting and titling of his latest production for release through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., temporarily titled: "The Man Who Smiled." It is a comedy drama full of heart interest and enacted by an all-star cast including William V. Mong, Marcia Manon, Mary Wynn, Eddie Sutherland, little Bruce Guerin and others.

Paramount Announces Change of Titles

Announcement is made by Paramount that "The Crimson Challenge" has been finally decided upon as the title of the Dorothy Dalton picture recently completed by Paul Powell under the working title of "Tharon of Lost Valley."

The title of the George Melford production recently started under its original name, "The Cat That Walked Alone," from the novel by John Colton, has been changed to "The Woman Who Walked Alone."

"Foolish Wives" for Capitol

Two Weeks' Run for Feature at Big B'way House

AFTER negotiations which had been carried on by telegraph between S. R. Rothafel and Carl Laemmle, Universal announces that its super-Jewel, "Foolish Wives," will play at the Capitol theatre for the week of March 5th. Negotiations were not conducted over the matter of price, but the matter of date only. Mr. Rothafel states Universal was extremely anxious to have the picture for two weeks and was able to play the picture the last week of March and the first of April.

Mr. Laemmle, however, was very anxious to release "Foolish Wives" for the New York territory as early in the Spring as possible. Furthermore, he was mindful of his promise to exhibitors that he would not road-show or unduly exploit "Foolish Wives" before giving it to exhibitors. For that reason, states Universal, he was willing to interrupt the picture in the very midst of its popularity at the Central and let Mr. Rothafel have it for one week—after which it would go to the hundreds of exhibitors who are clamoring for the picture in New York City. In order not to interfere with the Capitol booking, it was thought wise to terminate the run of the picture at the Central on Sunday, February 26th.

Although the Priscilla Dean Jewel, "Wild Honey," will not be ready for release in the exchanges for some time yet, the Universal will put this latest Dean picture into the Central for a pre-release run on Monday, February 27.

"Wild Honey" has just come into the New York office and is considered by Universal a greater picture even than "Conflict" was. "Wild Honey" was directed by Wesley Ruggles from Cynthia Stockley's novel of England and South Africa.

In this production Miss Dean has the services for the first time on the screen of the two Beery brothers. Noah Beery plays the villain in the first part of the picture, and when Lady Vivian gets lost in South Africa she meets up with Wallace Beery in the person of an uncouth slave driving half-cast teamster. Others in the cast are Robert Ellis, the leading man; Lloyd Whitlock, Percy Challenger, Carl Stockdale and Landers Stevens.

"Wild Honey" will run indefinitely at the Central.

In addition to the booking at the Capitol, Universal announces the early showing of "Foolish Wives" at the Imperian theatre, San Francisco, for five weeks; the Lyric theatre, Minneapolis, for three weeks; the Garrick theatre, St. Paul, for two weeks; the Lyric of Duluth; the Eckel theatre of Syracuse; the De Luxe theatre of Utica, and the Olympic of Watertown, N. Y., also the Broadway theatre of Tulsa, Okla.

The openings at the Criterion in Buffalo, the Roosevelt in Chicago, and the Mission in Los Angeles, and the Butterfly in Milwaukee have been record breakers in these several localities for enthusiasm and capacity.

Edward Armstrong, who attended the opening at the Mission theatre, which was the most magnificent ever pulled off in Los Angeles, telegraphed the next morning as follows:

"Presume others have wired you reference opening 'Foolish Wives' Mission theatre last night. Most auspicious opening history Los Angeles. Crowds completely blocked traffic. Necessary to have police handle crowds most critical audience ever assembled both professional and layman. Applause during and at finish of picture. Everyone agreed should be greatest box office attraction ever released because everyone goes away talking about picture. Hundreds turned away at ten thirty this morning. Line half block long waiting buy tickets. House opened eleven o'clock. At eleven thirty house full."

Harry Hait, manager of the Butterfly theatre in Milwaukee, wires:

"Opened with 'Foolish Wives' today. How to express the success of same I do not know, as the picture went over greater than anything ever before attempted in this city. Forced to close the box office several times in order to keep traffic from being blocked. There is no question that Mr. Laemmle's great expenditure will come back several times, as he is deserving of same. The picture pleased everybody and there is no question of today's success being continued."

Assd. Exhibitors' Mar. Releases

First Florence Vidor Vehicle Heads List of 3 Features

THE releases of Associated Exhibitors for March include features which are declared to be of unusual value. The first is "Woman, Wake Up," on March 5th, in which Florence Vidor makes her debut as a star in her own right. She is supported by George Meredith and Louis Calhern. "Woman, Wake Up" is in six reels and is announced as a high class drama of splendid appeal to all first run theatres and in perfect keeping with the high quality and popularity which has characterized Florence Vidor's features.

On March 12th comes "Don't Doubt Your Wife" with Leah Baird and a special cast, which includes Edward Peil, Emory Johnson, Mathilda Brundage and Katherine Lewis. This is announced as a heart interesting story of marriage and divorce, in which the jealousy of a husband wrecks a home, and drives an innocent wife to the discovery of a new solution for the divorce evil.

Associated Exhibitors say that Miss Baird's extravagant gowns, the intimate nature of the story and the appeal of its emotional moments, combine to make "Don't Doubt Your Wife" an exceptional audience picture.

March 19th is announced as the release date of "Lady Godiva," taken from the famous poem by Lord Alfred Tennyson. This is a Wistaria Production, and is said to be an unusual production. Added to the fundamental appeal of the well known poem and the name of Alfred Tennyson, is the visualization of his work transferred to the screen, "with all the pomp and pageantry, all the historic detail, all the sumptuous costumes of the court and the vast throngs of retainers; in short, a perfect and amazing reproduction of England in the eleventh century," declares Associated Exhibitors. The entire action is built around Lady Godiva's ride through the town of Coventry, which has been done with the delicacy of Alfred Tennyson's genius, it is declared, and the subtitles, which are exquisitely hand-colored, have been taken direct from his poem.

Associated Exhibitors say that their March schedule is in line with their policy of providing first run theatres with attractions which are based on box office value and which have such a diversity of interest to make them suitable for every theatre. They point with pride to the acquisition of their new star, Florence Vidor, to the intimate human appeal of the Leah Baird feature, "Don't Doubt Your Wife," and to the splendor of the great spectacle "Lady Godiva."

EVERYBODY LIKES 'EM
PERCY & FERDIE
HALLROOM COMEDIES

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
VITAGRAPH
ALBERT E. SMITH PRESIDENT

A scene from "The Man from Downing Street," a Vitagraph picture, starring Earle Williams

"Peacock Alley" in Demand

Wide First-Run Showings; Extended Engagements for Mae Murray Film

ONE week runs proving insufficient to accommodate the picture-goers in the major cities of the country desiring to see Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley," engagements for the exhibition of this Metro release, presented by Robert Z. Leonard, have in practically every case been extended, according to word from the Metro headquarters in New York.

Representative instances this week of holding over "Peacock Alley" for prolonged periods of exhibition are those of the Stillman theatre, Cleveland; the Columbia theatre, Washington, D. C., and the State theatre, Los Angeles. In all three playhouses more than a capacity business was done, it is declared. "Peacock Alley" was given on the screens of all three of these photoplay palaces for two weeks.

The list of first-run houses in key cities to book "Peacock Alley" is growing faster than it can be complied. Among the latest to sign up this feature, which was chosen by B. S. Moss for the opening attraction at his beautiful new Cameo theatre in New York, are the following:

The Republic, Jacksonville, Fla.; the Howard, Atlanta, Ga.; the Strand, Birmingham, Ala.; the Mozard, Elmira, N. Y.; the Regent, Rochester, N. Y.; Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo; the Strand, Binghamton, N. Y.; the Strand, Providence; the Strand, Worcester, Mass.; the Strand, Taunton, Mass.; the Colonial, Brockton, Mass.; the Palace, Lawrence, Mass.; the Empire, Portland, Me.; the Capitol, Springfield, Mass.; the Majestic, Hartford, Conn.; Poli's, Meriden, Conn.; the Park, Boston; the Imperial, Pawtucket, R. I.; the Colonial, Haverhill, Mass.; the Auditorium, Dayton, O.; the Rialto, Louisville, Ky.; the Walnut, Cincinnati; the Majestic, Columbus; the Rialto, Charleston, W. Va., and the Stillman, Cleveland, O.

Two Paramount Releases

Pola Negri and Bebe Daniels Star in Features to Be Issued Feb. 26

TWO features are on the release schedule of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, for February 26, Pola Negri in the UFA production, "The Red Peacock," released as a Paramount picture, and Bebe Daniels in the Realart picture, "A Game Chicken."

"The Red Peacock" is the second modern drama in which Miss Negri has been presented to American audiences. Originally seen here only in big spectacular productions, she was revealed, however, as an motional actress of great force and charm. This impression was strengthened by her work in "The Last Payment," recently released by Paramount. In "The Red Peacock" she is said to have still greater opportunities for the exercise of her emotional talent.

The story is said to be not unlike that of "Camille." It was written under the title of "Poor Violette," and the work of Hanns Kraly. It attracted much attention in European dramatic circles and when it was decided to adapt it to pictures, Paul Stein, one of the foremost European directors, was chosen to produce it.

Nina Wilcox Putnam, one of the best known American fiction writers, was the author of "A Game Chicken," the Realart picture in which Bebe Daniels is starred. Fred Myton wrote the scenario and Chester Franklin directed.

Doris May in "Boy Crazy"

Film Set for March 5th Release Said to Be Unusual Comedy Drama

R-C PICTURES announces "Boy Crazy," starring Doris May, for release on March 5th. The picture, according to advices from the R-C headquarters, presents a greater number of genuinely laughable comedy situations than any other production which Miss May has yet appeared in.

The scenes of the story are laid in the little town of "Santa Barbara," which is distinctly a nine o'clock town. Miss May as Jackie Cameron, is away ahead of her town as to vim, vigor and virility. She develops more means for waking the people up than a Chamber of Commerce could devise.

Her father is on the verge of failure in his merchandising business, because he is away behind the times even for his slow-going town. He owes more money than he can ever hope to get, to the richest old penny-pincher in that part of the country—Old Man Skinner.

Along comes J. Smythe and opens an up-to-date gown shop, which threatens to take away what little business Jackie's father has left. Then Jackie gets a real inspiration. She induces her father to let her run the business. She refits the store on borrowed money, and reopens it as a haberdashery shop—for cash only. The young men and the old men flock to her new shop, even as the women flock to Smythe's place, with the result that business is good, and there is fair prospect of lifting the mortgage.

But unusual complications develop that throw a thrill into the story. Jackie is kidnapped by two desperadoes in mistake for Skinner's daughter. There is a thrilling rescue in which Jackie herself captures the villains, with Smythe's help, and she claims the reward that Skinner has offered for the arrest of the crooks who robbed his safe.

Fred Gambold has the role of Mr. Cameron, Jackie's father; Jean Hathaway plays the mother role; Frank Kingsley has the role of Tom Winton, an inept suitor; Harry Myers, of "A Connecticut Yankee," has the role of J. Smythe; Otto Hoffman has the "mean man" role of Mr. Skinner; Gertrude Short adds a strong comedy element as Evelina Skinner; Eugenia Tuttle is Mrs. Winton, mother of Tom; while Ed Brady and James Farley appear as two as villainous cutthroats as ever graced a screen in the roles of the kidnappers.

William A. Seiter directed "Boy Crazy" from a scenario written by Beatrice Van. The length is five reels.

Better Prints—Right Price

Let American Film Laboratories do your film printing. Our staff of experienced men pay close attention to getting the very best possible results from your negatives.

Our extensive organization and large capacity make it possible for us to give you the very best at no greater cost.

The central location of our plant enables us to make quick delivery. Express-train service direct to you cuts all time waste.

Let us prove our statements on your next order.

Developing Printing
Tinting Toning
Editing
Titling

Ordinary film reduced to American Standard Safety size.

(Absolutely fire-proof film passed by all fire underwriters.)

Laboratory capacity one million feet per week.

American Film Co. Inc. Laboratories
6229 Broadway
Chicago, Illinois and London, England
S. S. Hutchinson, President

American 10 Points:

1.—QUALITY. Prints known for brilliancy and clearness. Expert staff, trained by years of experience, assures highest quality prints obtainable.
2.—REPUTATION. Gained in 10 years of experience.
3.—RESPONSIBILITY. A concern of strong financial standing.
4.—LOCATION. In the proper geographical location, assuring quick delivery anywhere.
5.—EQUIPMENT. All of the most modern obtainable.
6.—CLEANLINESS. Within two blocks of Lake Michigan. Away from dirt and dust.
7.—SAFETY. Plant approved by City of Chicago and Board of Fire Underwriters.
8.—PROMPTNESS. Accustomed to serve exacting requirements.
9.—PRICES. Reasonable and competitive.
10.—GUARANTEES. Write for our unique guarantee of quality work.

Critics Laud "A Doll's House"

Viola Daniel and Earl Rodney in a scene from "'Twas Ever Thus," an Educational-Christie comedy

Nazimova's Acting Is Hailed as Best She Has Ever Done

PRAISE for the star and her splendid acting, for the high-class work of the entire cast, for the direction, photography and settings, and for the close adherence to the original story, is given by newspaper and trade journal critics to the Nazimova film version of Henrick Ibsen's "A Doll's House" the first independent production of this celebrated actress for United Artists Corporation, which had its initial Broadway showing at the Strand theatre, New York.

"There are many points of interest in the screen version of 'A Doll's House'," said Heywood Brown in the New York World. "In the closing scenes of the picture Nazimova did as fine acting as we have ever watched. It is an interesting performance throughout."

"One cannot tire watching the untiring Nazimova," wrote Joseph Mulvaney in the New York American. "She is an artist in pantomime scoring a deep impression with every lightning-like change of mood."

"The Nazimova picture is good food for the eyes," said the critic for the Daily News. "Nazimova's performance is, as always, highly entertaining and as richly colored as a batik screen."

"Nazimova pleases in the screen version of 'A Doll's House,'" said the reviewer for the New York Herald, "and shows to advantage in the screen adaptation of Ibsen's play. When the wife realized that the husband thought primarily of himself, despite his pampering of her, one saw the shadow of disillusionment in Nazimova's face, and watched 'a silly little lark' turn to a woman before one's eyes."

"Nazimova is quite sincere and appealing, and her face has taken on real charm," wrote the reviewer for the New York Sun. "She set forth the story of the butterfly wife who won her emancipation with a simplicity and directness that make 'A Doll's House' one of the unusual pictures of the year—one which every woman will demand to see, as her natural right."

"Nazimova in 'A Doll's House' is one of the very good reasons for going to the Strand theatre," said the New York Globe's review. 'Nazimova acts the part of the childish but self-sacrificing and finally rebellious wife with an undeniable authority and conviction. Praise is due also for the worthwhile results attained in this picture to Charles Bryant, the director."

"One cannot doubt the sincerity that inspired Nazimova in her efforts to transfer Ibsen to the silver-sheet in 'A Doll's House,' said the New York Evening Mail critic. "She has entered into the presentation of the Ibsen play via the silent drama with enthusiasm, and the cast which supports her was unquestionably imbued with the same earnestness that actuated her. 'A Doll's House' treats the marriage question in a most unique manner."

"Nazimova is a creature of shimmering emotionalism in 'A Doll's House,'" wrote the critic for the New York Evening Journal. "She is a child-woman, now somersaulting over sofas, lurking in leopard rugs beneath a table cover to pounce out on her two chuckling children; now torn with fear that her deception of her husband will be discovered. Fearless, unafraid, vibrant and beautiful with the spirit of youth; harrowed into a hag-like aspect with dread of calamity. Alan Hale, as superficial, unappreciative husband, makes much of his part, and serves to stir Nazimova to unguessed depths of her art—for she acts in this picture as she has not acted before on screen or stage."

"The Rosary" Praised by University Staff

Through the courtesy of Joseph Desberger, manager of the Associate First National exchange at St. Louis, "The Rosary," Selig-Rork's production, was shown to the faculty of St. Louis University. Following the showing, the educators issued the following statement:

"After reviewing 'The Rosary,' we feel free to recommend this film to all as a very interesting entertainment, and one that combines true sentiment with high spiritual values.

"Faculty of St. Louis University."

The story of "The Rosary" is an original one by Bernard McConville and is based on the theme of the famous song. It is meeting with exceptional success everywhere, being held over for one week during a recent showing in San Francisco.

August Ilg, manager of the Wonderland Theatre in Lorain, O., has booked "The Rosary" for a run during Lent, and many other showmen have done likewise, as the production is one that will be particularly appealing at this season.

Wm. DeMille Plans Four Trips East Per Year

Henceforth William de Mille will make four round-trip journeys between Hollywood and New York each year. The Paramount producer is now in New York on the first trip of 1922.

This traveling schedule is the result of the new arrangement existing between William de Mille and his scenarist, Clara Beranger. The producer will continue to produce photoplays in California but they have agreed that more satisfactory results can be obtained if Mrs. Beranger remains at her home in New York, where she will write the scenarios which Mr. de Mille will subsequently produce on the other side of the continent.

By this arrangement, the scenarist is enabled to see the New York stage productions and keep in close touch with the publishers in order that William de Mille may have the first call on the best stories of the season.

Changes in Selznick News Staff

L. J. Darmour Is Named Editor; Innovations Are Promised

SECRETARY DAYID O. SELZNICK, in his capacity of managing director of Selznick News, has appointed Lawrence J. Darmour and Lewis Allen Browne as heads of the editing staff of the reel. Mr. Darmour will be editor and Mr. Browne news editor.

Mr. Selznick also announces the appointment of E. V. Durling, formerly editor, as sales manager for the news reel. Thomas A. Ruddy, as special representative, and Dan Hart, as laboratory representative, complete the staff of the News.

Secretary David O. Selznick has been gradually assuming direct personal control of the News, and now takes hold as active publisher and managing director. He will devote much of his time to it in future, and promises several pronounced changes.

One of these changes, recently made, was the adoption of the new and unique sub-titles, which have created much talk throughout the country. The idea has been enlarged upon, and in its new form marks a still further advance in news reel make-up.

The second announcement of the development of the reel concerns the women's fashions. These will continue to be arranged by the noted authority, Sally Milgrim, but instead of being posed without any view to artist-photographer, Alfred Cheney Johnston, to direct and pose this feature. Also, beautiful women, renowned for their style, will be used in place of mannikins. The combination of Sally Milgrim and Alfred Cheney Johnston is one that is bound to be popular with women all over the country.

Selznick News will further cater to women's patronage by the inauguration of women's supplement. This is again something entirely new in a news reel. Part of the reel will be devoted to subjects of particular interest to women. It may be stated, however, that care will be taken to choose material that will not bore the men. This is shown by the fact that the women chosen for the fashions and the artistic manner in which they are posed, will be such that they will be of universal interest.

L. J. Darmour is one of the oldest men, in point of service, in the news reel publishing business. He was the editor of the old Gaumount News, and joined Selznick as associate editor. The news of his promotion will be welcomed by his many friends amongst the cameramen and others throughout the business.

Lewis Allen Browne has never before been connected with a news reel, but he has had wide experience both in newspaper work and motion pictures. He was for ten years editor-in-chief of a Boston paper before entering the picture business. He has been with Selznick for three years and is responsible for many scenarios, etc., etc., etc.

E. V. Durling is also well known in the business and his appointment to the new and highly important position as sales manager for the News is well merited.

Mary Astor Opposite Eugene O'Brien

In this new vehicle for Selznick release Eugene O'Brien will have Mary Astor as his leading woman. The picture temporarily titled "John Smith" was put into production last week at the New York studios of the Selznick organization.

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
VITAGRAPH
ALBERT E. SMITH PRESIDENT

WAKE UP!
YOU'E PASSING UP A BIG BET IF YOU'E NOT TYING UP TO PERCY & FERDIE
HALLROOM COMEDIES

Results of Thos. Ince's World-Wide Survey

"THE picture public is a more efficient censorship authority than the censors themselves.

"The star system is in descent.

"Motion pictures are growing in public popularity.

"Pictures are safer for developing minds than the run of newsstand fiction.

"The picture theatre which selects its entertainment carefully is an influence for better citizenship."

These important facts are brought out in the first compilation of answers resulting from a world-wide survey of motion pictures conducted by Thomas H. Ince. They are established by answers, received by the research department of the Thomas H. Ince Studios, Culver City, Calif., from editors of newspapers and magazines in every part of the world where American motion pictures are exhibited.

They prove, most opportunely at a time when the whole motion picture business has been severely maligned, that motion pictures are exerting, in almost every community in the world, a tremendous influence for good citizenship and that the motion picture theatre itself is a power for good in its community.

Despite the fact that the columns of newspapers have been filled with the scandals of Hollywood and that the sensational press has run wild with its stories about the picture industry, it seemed very clearly to be the personal opinion of the editors themselves that the motion picture, as an institution, is a very positive force for betterment.

Mr. Ince submitted a set of thirty questions to the editors of newspapers and magazines in an effort to determine the public attitude toward pictures and the public reaction to various types of pictures. He announced at the time the questionnaire was issued that he was addressing his queries to the editors of newspapers and magazines because, of all professions, the editor was most closely in touch with the public taste.

The survey is announced as an unqualified success. The response to the questionnaire has been unanimous. In every instance keen interest and a spirit of cooperation have been revealed. The answers themselves, however, show a wide variance. Yet, while there are many sides presented to the same question and a variety of answers and as many differences of opinion as there are types of human nature, Mr. Ince believes that the results of the survey will make it possible to know very definitely what the public wants in its motion picture entertainment and education, and what the public really thinks of motion pictures.

Thomas H. Ince

One of the most important facts established by the results of the questionnaire is the descent of the "star system" which has been cherished at great expense by many producers since the early days of the motion picture industry.

While it has been more or less established during the last two years that the public would accept big pictures without outstanding stars, the Ince questionnaire is the first systematic effort that has been made to establish beyond dispute the new tendency on the part of the public.

To the question: "Does the public want productions featuring star players or productions featuring the story?" 790 answers were received. The result is a preference for story over star by a margin of 368 to 252. Of the total number of answers 170 were either non-committal or gave answers that were not in reply to the query.

More than fifty per cent of those who favored the star system declared that the story was fast gaining in popularity, that the star was not the sole attraction but a suitable and interesting story was also essential to perfect motion picture entertainment.

The consensus of opinion on the part of those who expressed a preference for stars was not that the public went to the theatre because of a particular desire to see the star but because the announcement of a certain player insured, in almost every case, a well acted and altogether enjoyable entertainment. They also emphasized the importance of the star in the public mind because of the fact that certain stars usually appear in certain types of pictures and for that reason the public knows what to accept in the production.

Many of those who answered in favor of the star qualified their statement with the word "unfortunately," and added that the story was rapidly commanding greater attention. The majority of those listed among the noncommittal answers, gave as their comment the fact that both the star and the story was essential, but these answers were not counted because the question sought to differentiate clearly between star and story.

The responses to the question give a smashing blow to the stock argument of censorship reformers who contend that the public cannot be trusted to censor for itself. The verdict was overwhelming. The question on this point was: "Do picturegoers make a more efficient censorship authority than a politically controlled committee?" The answers were: Yes, 245; No, 62; non-committal, 77.

Among other questions on which the answers have been tabulated, and the results, are the following:

"What has been the influence of the motion picture on home and community life during the past ten years?" Favorable influence, 490; unfavorable influence, 122; non-committal answers, 107.

"Does visualization of wholesome stories of life bring out appreciation of finer things in minds that probably would never be affected by any other agency?" Favorable answers, 731; unfavorable, 23; non-committal, 54.

"Is the motion picture theatre where productions are carefully selected an influence for better citizenship?" Yes, 695; No, 42; non-committal, 58.

"Is the popularity of motion pictures increasing in your community?" Yes, 522; No, 152; non-committal, 108.

"Do you consider the present high standard of screen drama more safe for minds in progress of development than the run of fiction literature offered for sale on news stands?" Yes, 376; No, 172; non-committal, 210.

"Is the general complaint of the screen treatment of well known stories justified?" Yes, 386; No, 294; non-committal, 131.

"Will the motion picture find its great field in being purely a visualized creation or will it be an imitation of a known stage play or novel, or historical incident?" Visualized creation, 369; imitation, 124; non-committal, 172.

The high esteem in which the motion picture is held as an institution is revealed throughout the answers as no other previous expression heretofore voiced.

The statistical department of the research bureau at the Thomas H. Ince Studios is continuing the compilation of answers, and it is expected confidently that the forthcoming reports will reveal many more facts of considerable importance to the motion picture industry.

Maude George Wins Favor in "Foolish Wives"

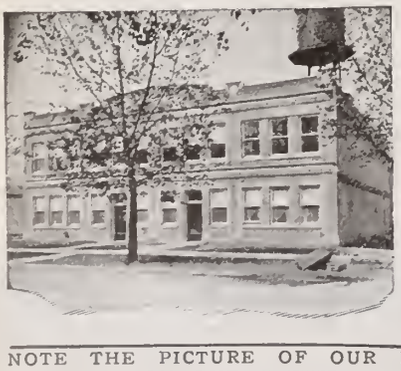
Maude George, whose work as Olga Petchnikoff in Universal's "Foolish Wives" won such favorable mention, claims California as her birthplace, but calls New York home.

Miss George, who is a cousin of Grace George, the dramatic star, was born in Riverside, some sixty miles from Universal City, and received her education at the Girls' Collegiate School in Los Angeles. However, during most of her dramatic career she lived in Manhattan and is satisfied to be called a New Yorker.

When the late Nat C. Goodwin arranged to appear in several photoplays he insisted that Miss George play in his support, and thus came about her debut before the camera. Among her most successful productions might be mentioned "Idle Wives," "Roads of Destiny," "Even As You and I," "The Midnight Stage" and "The Devil's Pass Key."

WE HAVE BEATEN ALL RECORDS

FOR 308 SUCCESSIVE WEEKS WE HAVE PRODUCED "THE PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES TRAVEL-PICTURES" FOR WORLD-WIDE DISTRIBUTION BY THE FAMOUS-PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION



THE BURTON HOLMES LABORATORY

7510 NORTH ASHLAND AVE., CHICAGO

WE ARE IN THE FILM BUSINESS TO GIVE COURTEOUS, QUICK, EXPERIENCED SERVICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS: A "QUALITY PRODUCT" FOR A REASONABLE PRICE AND TERMS TO YOU

PRODUCERS PLEASE NOTE:

WE HAVE THE SAFEST VAULTS IN THE WORLD FOR STORAGE OF YOUR NEGATIVES.
PRINT IN 1000-FOOT LENGTHS AND KEEP NEGATIVES ON 1000-FOOT REELS, THEREBY MINIMIZING DANGER OF SCRATCHING BY UNNECESSARY HANDLING.
ARE IN CENTRE OF THE FILM-USING COUNTRY. THIS MEANS SPEED AND ECONOMY IN DISTRIBUTION.
HAVE THE LARGEST "TRAVEL-FILM" LIBRARY IN THIS COUNTRY. WE CAN THEREFORE FURNISH "CUT-INS" OF FOREIGN COUNTRIES, CITIES, PEOPLES, INDUSTRIES, NATIONAL DANCES, SPORTS, ETC., TO GIVE TRUE "LOCAL COLOR" TO ANY "FEATURE" YOU ARE PRODUCING. WHY SPEND THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS IN BUILDING A "FAKE" WHEN YOU CAN BUY "THE REAL THING" AT SO MUCH A FOOT FROM US? (SEE "THE SHEIK.")
MAKE PICTURES—DEVELOP, PRINT, TONE, TINT, TITLE, EDIT, "'N' EVERYTHING."

NOTE THE PICTURE OF OUR LABORATORY; IT IS AS FIRE-PROOF AND CLEAN AND EFFICIENT ON THE INSIDE AS IT LOOKS ON THE OUTSIDE.

OSCAR B. DEPUE IS IN PERSONAL CHARGE.

'Four Horsemen" Sets Record at Capitol

PLAYING to audiences of 20,000 persons a day, and surpassing the house records of the world's largest motion picture .theatre, Metro's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," went over big in the first week of its showing at the Capitol Theatre, New York, despite the disadvantage of snowstorms and extremely cold weather.

The second week's business, not yet fully computed as this is written, promises to raise still higher the attendance record set by "The Four Horsemen" during the first seven days of its triumphant return to Broadway.

Filming "When Knighthood Was in Flower"

Robert G. Vignola has begun the actual shooting of scenes for "When Knighthood Was in Flower," the extra special production, starring Marion Davies, which will be released by Paramount as a Cosmopolitan production. The interior scenes are being made at the International studios in New York, and no attempt will be made to take the exteriors until spring when the weather permits.

According to Mr. Vignola's plans, "When Knighthood Was in Flower" will be the biggest motion picture he has ever made. In all probability, it will be released in ten reels.

Joseph Urban, famous scenic artist who designed the settings for "Enchantment," and "Beauty's Worth," Mr. Vignola's last production which is scheduled for March release, will supervise the settings for "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

Mr. Vignola's assistant will be D. P. Carle, and the camera work will be handled by Ira Morgan.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

February 18, 1922

THE LITTLE MINISTER, with Alice Calhoun.—In all my years in this business I never received so many favorable comments, so much free spoken praise on any picture. It's there. It has a punch like dynamite. One of the greatest pictures of all times, and I've played the biggest of the big. This wonderful production is bound to make Alice Calhoun a big drawing card wherever played, and Dicky Daniels, the "Freckles" of this picture, is a riot. Watch this kid! Business excellent. Sir James Barrie's name a big factor, and story well known. Brother Exhibitors, there are two versions of this picture, but this is the big one, the one that will get the money and please 100 per cent. Don't fail to book it, and put it over as one of the biggest things in the history of motion pictures.—C. E. Waughop, Scenic theatre, Detroit, Mich.

P. S. This is a long report, I know, but having made such a big success with this picture, right in the midst of the toughest winter on record, I want to pass the good word along to every exhibitor that reads the HERALD.—C. E. W.

The Silver Car, with Earle Wil-

Pathe Wins Much Publicity

Try Outs at New York Hippodrome Get Liberal Spread in Daily News

THE first fourteen days of February registered a generous measure of newspaper publicity for the Pathe organization. The feat was accomplished through a double tie-up with the Hippodrome management and the Daily News in New York in the screen beauty try-outs at the big Hippodrome. The final choice of the judges rested with Winnifred Verina, who was immediately signed up for a prominent part in forthcoming Pathe serials.

By concentrating the selection upon some two hundred of the attractive and well-trained girls employed by Charles B. Dillingham in the current Hippodrome show and in his musical comedy success, "Good Morning, Dearie," the entire field of contestants was available from the beginning for personal display of their qualifications and for screen tests. In this way the elimination process was much more efficiently, expeditiously and fairly accomplished than through the customary practice of initial representation by photographs.

This arrangement also was calculated to offer extra opportunities to interest newspaper readers in the successive stages of the try-outs. In order to insure liberal daily publication of the progress of the contest, with pictures of the contestants, the tie-up was made with the Daily News, whose very large circulation is supplemented by those of several important newspapers in other cities to which its leading features are syndicated.

Commenting on the huge success of the contest, including the final public ceremony on the Hippodrome stage, Monday morning, February 13, before an enthusiastic audience that filled the big auditorium, Paul Brunet said:

"Big newspapers are always looking for news events of popular interest which develop fresh angles from day to day, but it is unusual for all of them to 'spread' on these serial news stories. It's a sort of specialty taken up by one in particular, the rest contenting themselves with giving their readers general results. In this instance the Daily News, with its liberal display of pictures and its large circulation, was the logical choice for a newspaper tie-up. It responded most efficiently with a serial news story of the contest in fourteen daily episodes filled with genuine Pathe serial interest for its multitude of readers."

Chaplin Subject Completed

Comedian Sticks to His Original Character in New Film, "Pay Day"

"PAY DAY" is the title of Charlie Chaplin's latest comedy, which has just been completed. Chaplin is now personally assembling and cutting the film at his Hollywood studios, and within a few weeks the new picture will be shipped to the New York office of Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

The star has not attempted to compile a story with a plot and all of that sort of thing in making "Pay Day." But it is a production replete with the cleverest kind of fun yet uncovered by Chaplin, declares First National. "Pay Day" is an original story by Chaplin and besides starring in it, he is also responsible for the direction.

Throughout the entire action of "Pay Day" Chaplin sticks to his original character. Just what he does will remain a secret until the film is exhibited for public entertainment. During the preparation of "Pay Day" the great secrecy was maintained by Chaplin and the members of his organization. With a few exceptions visitors were excluded from the studio grounds while the comedy genuis was in action before the camera. The majority of the scenes were filmed at night. "Pay Day" is the seventh production made by Chaplin for Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Edna Purviance, who has been leading woman in the Chaplin organization for more than six years, has the leading feminine role in "Pay Day," although her part is small in comparison with what she has been called upon to do in the past. This is due to the nature of the picture.

Mack Swain, who joined the Chaplin forces during the making of "The Idle Class" and who for many years was one of the best known screen characters throughout the world, is ideally cast in "Pay Day." He is an excellent foil for Chaplin and shares much of the limelight of the production.

Sydney Chaplin, brother of the star of "Pay Day," has been active in the company during the progress of the production. Others in the cast are Phyllis Allen, Henry Bergman, Loyal Underwood, John Rand and Allon Garcia.

Irene Castle in Pathe Playlet for Mar. 5

"Sylvia of the Secret Service" is the latest Pathé playlet which has been scheduled by Pathé for release the week of March 5th. Irene Castle and an all-star cast, including such well-knowl players as Elliott Dexter, Eric Von Stroheim, Macy Harlan, J. H. Gilmore, T. Wigney Percival and Suzanne Willa. The offering is a re-edited feature success containing in its three reels all the mystery, thrills and romance of its original form. George Fitzmaurice directed the production which was adapted by Philip Bartholomae from the original story by Joseph H. Trant.

Short-Subject Programs for Educational Week

A FORCEFUL "broadside," arranged so as to provide in concise form vital information which the exhibitor will want to have about Educational Pictures, is one of the special helps being prepared by Educational in connection with Educational Pictures Week, which has been set for April 16 to 23, inclusive.

One side of this sheet will present photographs of the leading characters playing in pictures released by Educational, while on the other will be given a list of Educational Pictures available.

Eight suggested short subject programs will be a feature of this "broadside." These will include diversified programs, so arranged as to offer a suitable short subject entertainment for any theatre, no matter what its general policy, whether it favors light entertainment, with plenty of fun, or the heavier, more serious subjects.

Comic Favorite in Emotional Role

From comic roles to emotional leads is a big step. In Universal's "Foolish Wives," Dale Fuller accomplished this difficult feat and made the part of the maid one of the outstanding characters of the production.

Heretofore, Miss Fuller had played comedy parts both on the screen and stage, and it was with much misgiving that she accepted the tragic role. Von Stroheim finally convinced her that she was the type and could play the part. The result more than proved his conviction.

On the stage Miss Fuller played the comedy role in "The Flirting Princess" with Harry Bulger; in William Ziegfeld's "The Girl in the Kimona"; with Murray and Mack and in stock in Boston and Brooklyn. Being a California girl, born in Santa Anna and educated in Mills College in Oakland, she returned home for a visit in 1915. There she met Charles Murray and joined the Sennett forces appearing in the laugh winners for three years. Later, she appeared in other well-known quality comedies. Since her dramatic triumph she has received many new offers and her next move is being watched with considerable interest.

"Grand Larceny" Booked for N. Y. Capitol

Goldwyn's new big society photo-drama, "Grand Larceny," adapted from Albert Payson Terhune's famous short story of the same title, has been booked for one of its earliest showings at the Capitol theatre, New York, next week.

Wallace Worsley directed the production and the cast includes Elliott Dexter, Claire Windsor, in the opposite role. Others in the cast are Richard Tucker, Tom Gallery, Roy Atwell and John Cossam.

"Boy Scout" Serial Is Begun by Universal

DURING one of the preliminary conferences between Will H. Hays and the leaders of the motion picture industry, at which conference Carl Laemmle and R. H. Cochrane were present, Mr. Hays asked why the producers did not make a number of pictures along certain educative and institutional lines. He asked particularly why they did not make a comprehensive Boy Scout picture which would bring into proper relief the wonderful work being done by this organization among the boys of this country. Mr. Laemmle and Mr. Cochrane immediately resolved to adopt this advice of Mr. Hays. As a result they have already started at Universal City preliminary work on the serial. In connection with the new serial Mr. Laemmle spoke as follows:

"It will be our greatest and most heartfelt endeavor to make this serial as typical of scouting as it can possibly be made. We are earnestly seeking the assistance of the Boy Scout authorities and leaders, not only to prevent our producing on the screen something which will be colorless, neutral, neither helpful nor harmful, but to assist us in producing something which will be of actual assistance to this vitally active American organization."

Robt. Bruce "Wilderness Tales" at N.Y. Capitol

The Robert C. Bruce "Wilderness Tales," the remarkable new series of single-reel pictures in which this famous scenic artist has combined scenic beauty with novel and entertaining stories, sometimes whimsically comical, sometimes intensely tragic, had their premiere at the Capitol Theatre, in New York, during the current week of February 19.

"And Women Must Weep," the first of this series to be released by Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., was on the Capitol's program, and was announced with a special poster prepared to present some of the exceptionally favorable comments made about these pictures by critics and editors both in and out of the motion picture industry.

Lloyd Hamilton Starts Sixth of His Series

Lloyd Hamilton has begun work on the sixth of his comedies in the Mermaid series for Educational. This is the final picture of this season's program featuring Hamilton. Jack White is at work on the sixth of the Jack White productions and has one more to make. These pictures are featuring Lige Conley.

Hamilton is supported in his new comedy by Irene Dalton, as leading lady, and will have a cast including many other popular comedians.

Tribute to Hodkinson Films

St. Louis Club Women Land "Light in the Clearing" and "Jane Eyre"

THE Hodkinson product has again scored heavily with the St. Louis public, according to advices received from Mr. G. I. Bradford, sales manager of the Hodkinson branch in that city, who is in receipt of a communication from the president of the Federation of Women's Clubs of St. Louis, in which recent Hodkinson pictures, "Jane Eyre" and "The Light in the Clearing," are hailed as two of the screen's cleanest and most artistic productions.

The letter addressed to Mr. Bradford by Mrs. John S. Payne, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs of St. Louis, follows:

"The Federation of Women's Clubs of St. Louis wish to express their appreciation of the fine spirit of co-operation shown us by the management of the Delmar theatre, Mr. Hector Pasmazoglu, who is making every effort to give to the people of St. Louis an artistic clean entertainment such as 'Jane Eyre' and 'The Light in the Clearing,' which the club women were given an opportunity of seeing at advance private showings. Naturally the box office must be the only way of determining the demand for such pictures and while we believe the vast majority expect spectacular effects, we believe the the production of clean pictures can be made profitable if we make the sermon or lesson preached of sufficient entertainment in the telling. People go to picture shows for pleasure and amusement and the Federation of Women's Clubs have no intention or desire to take pleasure from any class, but rather to encourage the producer in giving to the public a higher standard of life story combined with the scenic excellence which the above named pictures portray.

"Very cordially yours,
"Mrs. JOHN S. PAYNE,
"President Federation of Women's Clubs."

"Glorious Fool" Scores Hit

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Story Is Praised by Los Angeles Reviewers

GOLDWYN has another big hit in "The Glorious Fool," Mary Roberts Rinehart's first story written directly for the screen, the reviews published in the Los Angeles newspapers indicate. This photoplay, featuring Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix and directed by E. Mason Hopper, had its first showing at the California theatre, Los Angeles, last week.

The Times said: "'The Glorious Fool' is an antidote for depression. It excites a genial feeling of good will towards the world. It is filled with most amusing incidents, and the acting is replete with life and humanness."

The Examiner said: "Mary Roberts Rinehart's sense of humor bubbles on indefatigably in 'The Glorious Fool,' a comedy that is downright funny, and a jolly little picture."

The Herald: "After a series of sex films with little or no plot, it is a pleasure to find a picture which unfolds a really interesting story, with regular people as characters. And when the story is one of humor, in which the comedy situations are created without undue exaggeration, it is all the more enpoyable. Such a picture is 'The Glorious Fool.'"

The Express: "Pageants are impressive because of massed crowds and lavish scenic investiture; comedies divert for the moment, but films touch the heart that delineate existence within our ken. Mary Roberts Rinehart deserves credit for a vibrant page torn from life's well-thumbed book; she evokes a flesh-and-blood personnel animated by surging complexes. Her comedy, 'The Glorious Fool,' is like a scintillant butterfly winging its way through mazes of sunshiny laughter-evoking subtitles."

The Record: "'The Glorious Fool' is a true classic; a tremendous depth of feeling, a dramatic tenderness is achieved without the use of moss-covered 'thrillers.' And there is a love story, replete with kindly pathos and interwoven with delightful humor."

"Mae Busch, "U" Star, an Australian

Mae Busch, who plays Vera Petchnikoff in Von Stroheim's "Foolish Wives," the Universal Special Production, was born in Australia. At the age of eight years she was sent to America and educated at St. Elizabeth's Convent in Madison, New Jersey.

She left there at sixteen to become leading lady for Eddie Foy in "Over the River." Some time later Miss Busch was playing a vaudeville engagement in Los Angeles when Foy called on her in her dressing room, and through him she obtained a motion picture contract for comedies. Most of her earlier experience was gained in the laughgetters, but henceforth she will devote her talents to the more serious work in the silent drama. Her list

Ingram Productions Are Box-Office Rivals

"The Conquering Power," the Rex Ingram production for Metro, is closing in as a box office attraction upon "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," according to word from the Metro offices. Its showing in Detroit last week at the Adams Theatre brought business very close to the house record made during the run of "The Four Horsemen," it is declared.

Well-Known Conductor Negotiating Contract

Buel B. Risinger, well-known conductor and last year presentation director at Aschers' Cincinnati Capitol, has recently spent several weeks in Columbus, Ohio, where he has been in close touch with Max Stearn, owner of the proposed new Capitol Theatre of that city.

Mr. Stearn formerly owned the Majestic in Columbus and when he first inaugurated the present-day policy of high class musical presentations with the pictures shown at the Majestic Mr. Risinger was engaged to conduct the orchestra. This was in 1917 and Mr. Risinger retained his position until Mr. Stearn sold the Majestic in 1920, when he resigned and accepted a similar post at the Southern theatre, later leaving to direct the presentations and orchestra at the Cincinnati Capitol.

Two More Talmadge Revivals by Selznick

Two revivals of the Talmadge pictures will find a place in the distribution plans of Select for the ensuing six weeks—Norma, in "By Right of Purchase," released February 20th; and Constance in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," to be released March 10th.

Margery Land May, now a member of Selznick's scenario staff, wrote "By Right of Purchase" and it was directed by Charles Miller at a time when Lewis J. Selznick was making the Talmadge girls screen stars. Of particular interest to showmen will be the fact that Eugene O'Brien appears as Norma's leading man.

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" was based on the stage play by Augustus Thomas and was directed by the late Walter Edwards. Edith Kennedy furnished the scenario. The supporting company has Harrison Ford as leading man.

EXHIBITORS HERALD

February 18, 1922

THE LITTLE MINISTER, with Alice Calhoun.—In all my years in this business I never received so many favorable comments, so much free spoken praise on any picture. It's there. It has a punch like dynamite. One of the greatest pictures of all times, and I've played the biggest of the big. This wonderful production is bound to make Alice Calhoun a big drawing card wherever played, and Dicky Daniels, the "Freckles" of this picture, is a riot. Watch this kid! Business excellent. Sir James Barrie's name a big factor, and story well known. Brother Exhibitors, there are two versions of this picture, but this is the big one, the one that will get the money and please 100 per cent. Don't fail to book it, and put it over as one of the biggest things in the history of motion pictures.—C. E. Waughop, Scenic theatre, Detroit, Mich.

P. S. This is a long report, I know, but having made such a big success with this picture, right in the midst of the toughest winter on record, I want to pass the good word along to every exhibitor that reads the HERALD.—C. E. W.

The Silver Car, with Earle Wi...

FEATURE RELEASE CHART

Productions are Listed Alphabetically and by Months in which Released in order that the Exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need. Short subject and comedy releases, as well as information on pictures that are coming will be found on succeeding pages. (S. R. indicates State Right release.)

OCTOBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
ross the Divide	Special Cast	Pathe
ter the Show	Special Cast	Famous Players	6 reels	Oct. 15
l's Fair in Love	Special Cast	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 12
nazing Lovers, The	Special Cast	Jans-S. R.	5 reels
rricade, The..	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Oct. 15
e My Wife	Max Linder	Goldwyn	6 reels	June 25
ind Hearts	Hobart Bosworth	First National	6 reels	Nov. 5
ring Him In	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Nov. 12
e of Becky	Constance Binney	Realart	6 reels	Oct. 22
arge It	Clara K. Young	Equity-S. R.	6 reels	June 11
nderella of the Hills	Barbara Bedford	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 5
ay Dollars	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
ngerous Curve Ahead	Helene Chadwick	Goldwyn	6 reels	Oct. 15
wn of the East	Alice Brady	Realart	6 reels	Oct. 22
rything for Sale	May McAvoy	Realart	5 reels	Oct. 8
olish Age, The	Doris May	Robertson-Cole	5 reels	Oct. 22
otlights	Elsie Ferguson	Famous Players	6 reels	Oct. 15
x, The	Harry Carey	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 26
ur Seasons, The	Kineto Review	Urban	4 reels	Oct. 8
om the Ground Up	Tom Moore	Goldwyn	5 reels	Oct. 22
rments of Truth	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Sept. 10
od and Evil	Lucy Doraine	Wid Gunning, Inc.		Sept. 24
Straight	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Oct. 15
im Comedian, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Feb. 4
r Social Value	K. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
gh Heels	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Oct. 22
Accuse	Special Cast	United Artists	8 reels
am. Miss Revell, The	Alice Lake	Metro	6 reels	Sept. 10
visible Power, The	House Peters	Goldwyn	6 reels	Oct. 8
kie	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 17
igment	Special Cast	World-S. R.	6 reels	Oct. 8
dyfingers	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels	Oct. 22 dy from Longacre, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
an's Home, A	Special Cast	Selznick	6 reels	Oct. 8
an and Woman	Diana Allen	Jans.-S. R.	5 reels	Sept. 3
trimonial Web, The	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	5 reels	Nov. 5
sterious Rider, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels	Oct. 29
ght Rose, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Feb. 25
body's Fool	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels	Oct. 29
e Arabian Night	Pola Negri	First National	10 reels	Oct. 1
derly, The	Special Cast	Pathe	5 reels
rdon My French	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 7
rted Curtains	Henry Walthall	Warner Bros.—S.R.	5 reels	Oct. 29
ter Ibbetson	Elsie Ferguson	Famous Players		Oct. 29
or Relation, A	Will Rogers	Goldwyn	6 reels
verty of Riches	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Dec. 10
imal Law, The	Dustin Farnum	Fox	5 reels	Oct. 1
teenie,	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Oct. 1
ge of Paris, The	Miss Du Pont	Universal	5 reels	Oct. 3
d Courage	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Oct. 8
p Van Winkle	Thos Jefferson	Hodkinson		Oct. 29
ough Diamond, The	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 12
adows of Conscience	Russell Simpson	Russell	7 reels	Oct. 15
adow of Lightning Ridge, The	Snowy Baker	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Sept. 24
ark Master, The	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Sept. 10
n of Wallingford, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph	8 reels	Oct. 29
ranger Than Fiction	Catherine M'D'nald	First National	6 reels	Dec. 17
eed Girl, The	Bebe Daniels	Realart	6 reels	Nov. 26
ramp, The	Sessue Hayakawa	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Nov. 12
eodora	Rita Jolivet	Goldwyn		Oct. 29
ree Musketeers	Douglas Fairbanks	United Artists	12 reels	Sept. 10
ree Word Brand	William S. Hart	Famous Players	6 reels	Oct. 8
underclap	Special Cast	Fox	8 reels	Aug. 31
opical Love	Special Cast	Asso. Exhib.	6 reels	Mar. 4
ust Your Wife	Kath. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Feb. 11
engeance Trail	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Sept. 24
hat Love Will Do	Murphy-Walker	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 18
oman's Place	Constance Talmadge	First National	5 reels	Oct. 29
rong Woman, The	Olive Tell	Graphic—S. R.	6 reels

NOVEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
lf's Button	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feb. 25
ne of Little Smoky	Asso. Exhib.	Special Cast	5 reels	Feb. 4
onnie Briar Bush, The	Special Cast	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
ucking the Line	M. (Lefty) Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 19
all of the North	Jack Holt	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
onflict	Priscilla Dean	Universal	7 reels	Nov. 5
onquering Power, The	Special Cast	Metro	7 reels	July 16
r. Jim	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
nchantment	Marion Davies	Paramount	6 reels	Nov. 12
alse Kisses	Miss duPont	Universal	5 reels	Nov. 19
ather Tom	Special Cast	Asso. Ex.
idelity	Special Cast	Aywon—S. R.	5 reels
otfalls	Special Cast	Fox	7 reels	Sept. 24
or Your Daughter's Sake	Grace Darling	I. W. Film—S. R.

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Guilty Conscience, A	Antonio Moreno	Vitagraph	5 reels
Her Face Value	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Nov. 19
Hunch, The	Gareth Hughes	Metro	6 reels	Oct. 22
Hush Money	Alice Brady	Realart	6 reels	Dec. 10
Iron Trail, The	Special Cast	United Artists	7 reels	Nov. 19
Jane Eyre	Hugo Ballin Prod.	Hodkinson	7 reels	Oct. 29
Jolt, The	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Knight of the West, A	Olin Francis	W.B.M. P'play—S. R.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Ladies Must Live	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Dec. 3
Last Trail, The	Special Cast	Fox	6 reels	Feb. 11
Light in the Clearing, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love Never Dies	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love, Hate and a Woman	Grace Davison	Arrow—S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Lure of Jade, The	Pauline Frederick	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Nov. 19
Man From Lost River, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Jan. 28
Man of Stone, The	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
Millionaire, The	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 12
Molly O	Mabel Normand	First National	6 reels	Dec. 3
Old Oaken Bucket, The	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Our Mutual Friend	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Dec. 10
Possession	Special Cast	R-C	6 reels	Nov. 12
Rainbow	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	5 reels	Dec. 24
Riding With Death	Buck Jones	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Right Way, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.—S. R.	6 reels	Nov. 12
Sheik, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels	Oct. 29
Silent Call, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Nov. 26
Silent Years	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 3
Sin of Martha Queed, The	Special Cast	Associated Exhib		Dec. 3
Single Track, The	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Feb. 4
Steelheart	Wm. Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Sept. 24
Sure Fire	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Nov. 5
Ten Nights In a Barrom		Arrow—S. R.		Feb. 4
There Are No Villains	Viola Dana	Metro	6 reels	Sept. 3
Tol'ble David	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Twice Born Woman, The		Asso. International	6 reels
Way of a Maid, The	Elaine Ham'rstein	Selznick	5 reels	Feb. 25
What Do Men Want?	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	6 reels	Nov. 26
The Wonderful Thing	Norma Talmadge	First National	6 reels	Nov. 19

DECEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
All For a Woman	Special Cast	First National		Dec. 17
Ashamed of Parents	Special Cast	Warner Bros.—S. R.	5 reels
Ashes	Special Cast	East C'st Prod.-S.R.	5 reels
At the Stage Door	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 24
Better Man, The	Snowy Baker	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Dec. 24
Bride's Confession, A	Rita Jolivet	Graphic—S. R.	6 reels
Cameron of the Royal Mounted	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Jan. 21
Cheated Hearts	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
Chivalrous Charley	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Dec. 10
Conceit	Special Cast	Selznick		Dec. 17
Crossing Trails	Pete Morrison	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Desert Blossoms	Wm. Russell	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
Devil Within, The	Dustin Farnum	Fox	6 reels	Dec. 3
Don't Tell Everything	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 24
Duke of Chimney Butte	Fred Stone	R-C		Dec. 10
Eden and Return	Doris May	R-C		Dec. 31
Every Man's Price	Grace Darling	Burton King—S. R.	5 reels
Exit the Vamp	Ethel Clayton	Famous Players	5 reels	Feb. 4
Fifty Candles	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Dec. 31
Fightin' Mad	Wm. Desmond	Metro	5 reels	Nov. 12
Fire Eater, The	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
First Love	Constance Binney	Realart	5 reels	Jan. 28
Flower of the North	Henry B. Walthall	Vitagraph	7 reels	Jan. 28
Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 17
Hail the Woman	Special Cast	First National		Jan. 14
Hardest Way, The	Fannie Ward	Joan-S. R.	5 reels
Hole in the Wall, The	Alice Lake	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 10
Idle Rich, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 12
Infidel, The	Cath'rine M'Donald	First National	6 reels
Last Payment, The	Pola Negri	Famous Players		Jan. 28
Little Minister, The	Betty Compson	Famous Players		Jan. 7
Lotus Eater, The	John Barrymore	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Love Charm, The	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Dec. 24
Lucky Carson	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 14
Making the Grade	David Butler		5 reels	Jan. 14
Man Who Paid, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Marry the Poor Girl	Carter De Haven	Asso. Ex.	5 reels
Morals	May McAvoy	Realart		Jan. 14
My Boy	Jackie Coogan	First National	5 reels	Jan. 7
New Disciple, The	Pell Trenton	Federated Produc.	7 reels	Dec. 31
No Defense	William Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Jan. 28
Parisian Scandal, A	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 3
Paste Board Crown, A	Special Cast

(Continued on following page)

(Continued from page 1403)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Playing with Fire	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Polish Dancer, The	Pola Negri	Levinson-S. R.
Power Within, The	Special Cast	Pathe		Jan. 28
R. S. V. P.	Charles Ray	First National		Dec. 24
Rigoletto	Special Cast	Romayne	6 reels
Road to Arcady, The	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Ruse of the Rattler, The	J. P. MacGowan	Asso. Ex.	5 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Lion, The	Hobart Bosworth	First National		Jan. 21
School Days	Wesley Barry	Warner Bros.-S. R.	6 reels	Dec. 17
Sin Flood, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn		Jan. 21
Tears of the Sea	Special Cast	Asso. Inter.—S. R.	5 reels
Trail of the Law	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro		Jan. 21
Unconq'red Woman, The	Ruby de Remer	Pasha Film C'rp.-S.R.
Under the Lash	Gloria Swanson	Famous Players	5 reels	Oct. 29
Virginia Courtship, A	May McAvoy	Realart	5 reels	Feb. 4
Western Firebrands	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Whatever She Wants	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
White Oak	William S. Hart	Famous Players	5 reels	Nov. 12

JANUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Across the Dead Line	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 14
Any Night		E. Coast Prod.—S. R.
Any Wife	Pearl White	Fox		Feb. 18
Barnstormer, The	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Beautiful Liar, The	Kath. MacDonald	First National		Feb. 25
Billy Jim	Fred Stone	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Feb. 18
Bride's Play, The	Marion Davies	Paramount		Jan. 28
Determination	Special Cast	U. S. Pic. Corp.-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Don't Get Personal	Marie Prevost	Universal	11 reels	Jan. 14
Doubling for Romeo	Will Rogers	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 5
Fool's Paradise	Special Cast	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 21
Foolish Wives	Special Cast	Universal	7 reels	Dec. 24
Fountain of Youth	Special Cast	Graphic-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Fourteenth Lover, The	Viola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
French Heels		Hodkinson	5 reels	Feb. 4
Game Chicken, A	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels
Gleam O' Dawn	John Gilbert	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 14
The Guttersnipe	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
Half Breed, The		First National
Handle with Care	Grace Darmond	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Feb. 11
Heart's Haven		Hampton-Hodkinson
His Nibs	Charles (Chic) Sale	Exceptional	5 reels	Oct. 22
Jungle Adventures		Exceptional	4 reels	Oct. 1
Just Around the Corner		Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 14
Lane That Had No Turning, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 21
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 28
Little Eva Ascends	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
Little Minister, The	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	6 reels	Dec. 31
Love's Redemption	Norma Talmadge	First National	5 reels	Jan. 21
Miss Lulu Bett	Special Cast	Paramount		Dec. 31
Nancy from Nowhere	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 11
Oh Mabel, Behave		Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Orphans of the Storm	Special Cast	D. W. Griffith		Jan. 14
Peacock Alley	Mae Murray	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 24
Penrod	Wesley Barry	First National	5 reels	Feb. 25
Prejudice	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.		Feb. 4
Prince There Was, A	Thomas Melghan	Paramount	5 reels	Nov. 26
Received Payment	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 21
Reckless Chances	J. P. McGowan	Assoc. Exhib.	5 reels	Feb. 4
Rent Free	Wallace Reid	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 6
Roof Tree, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 6
Shadows of the Sea	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Jan. 14
Shattered Dreams	Miss du Point	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Should a Wife Work?	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 18
Sky High	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 31
Slippery McGee	Special Cast	First National
South of Suva	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels
Star Dust	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels	Dec. 31
Ten Nights in a Barroom	Special Cast	Arrow-S. R.		Feb. 4
Three Live Ghosts	Special Cast	Paramount		Jan. 14
Tillie	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 rels	Feb. 25
Too Much Married	Mary Anderson	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Too Much Wife	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 28
Trailin'	Tom Mix	Fox	7 reels	Dec. 10
Two Kinds of Women	Pauline Frederick	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Dec. 24
Unfoldment, The		Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Feb. 25
Vendetta	Pola Negri	Commonwealth		Dec. 31
White Hands	Hobart Bosworth	Wid Gunning	7 reels	Feb. 11
Wife Against Wife	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Why Announce Your Marriage?	Elaln Hammerstein	Selznick		Feb. 4
Winning with Wits	Barbara Bedford	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 21

FEBRUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Able Minded Lady, The	H. B. Walthall	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
Across the Border	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
At the Sign of the Jack O'Lantern	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels	Jan. 28
Back Pay	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 4
Beyond the Rainbow	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	5 reels	Mar. 4
Bigamist, The	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels
Boomerang Bill	Llonel Barrymore	Famous Players	6 reels	Feb. 18
Broadway Peacock, The	Pearl White	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 25
Call From the Wild, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Call of Home, The	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	5 reels	Jan. 28
Cave Girl, The		First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Chasing the Moon	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 18
City Feller, The	Cullen Landis	Goldwyn	5 reels
David and Jonathan	Madge Titheridge	Second National-S. S.	6 reels
Diamond Carlisle	Clark-Cornelius		5 reels
Doll's House, A	Nazimova	United Artists		Feb. 25
Double Stakes	Gladys Brockwell	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Forest King, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Girl from Rocky Point, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Glorious Fool, The	Helene Chadwick	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 21
Golden Gallows, The	Miss Dupont	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 18
Golden Gift, The	Alice Lake	Metro	6 reels	Dec. 17
Grand Larceny	Elliot Dexter	Goldwyn
Headin' West	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 4
Her Daughter-In-Law	Vera Gordon	Warner Bros.-S. R.	6 reels
Her Mad Bargain	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels	Jan. 21
Her Own Money	Ethel Clayton	Paramount	6 reels	Mar. 4
Hills of Missing Men	J. P. McGowan	Asso. Exhibitors	5 reels
Homespun Vamp, A	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels	Mar.
I Defy		Arista-S. R.	6 reels
If You Believe, It's So	Thomas Meighan	Paramount	6 reels
Julius Caesar	Special Cast	Geo. Kleine		Feb. 1
Kindred of the Dust	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feb. 1
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 2
Life's Greatest Question	Roy Stewart	C. B. C.-S. R.
Little Miss Smiles	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Feb.
Living Lies	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		reels
Love's Boomerang	Ann Forrest	Paramount	5 reels
Luxury Tax, the	Mabel Ballin	Hodkinson	5 reels
Man to Man	Harry Carey	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 1
Midnight	Constance Binney	Paramount	5 reels	Mar.
Moran of the Lady Letty	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 1
My Old Kentucky Home	Special Cast	Pyramid-S. R.	6 reels
One Glorious Day	Will Rogers	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 1
Polly of the Follies	Constance T'lm'dge	First National	5 reels	Feb. 2
Prodigal Judge, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph		Feb. 1
Question of Honor, A	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels
Red Hot Romance	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Nov. 1
Right That Failed, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 1
Rise of Roscoe Paine, The	Irene Castle	Hodkinson	5 reels
Rosary, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feb. 2
Ruling Passion	George Arliss	United Artists	6 reels	Feb. 4
Saturday Night	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 4
Seventh Day, the	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	5 reels
Shattered Idols	Special Cast	First National	5 reels
Smiles Are Trumps	Maurice Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 11
Smilin' Through	Norma Talmadge	First National	6 reels
Song of Life, The	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feb. 25
Splendid Lie, The	Grace Davison	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Strength of the Pines	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
Through a Glass Window	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels
Travelin' On	William S. Hart	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 25
Truthful Liar, The	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels	Jan. 21
Voice in the Dark, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Welcome to Our City	Macklyn Arbuckle	S. A. Pic. Corp.-S. R.	5 reels	Mar. 4
When Love Is Young	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.	6 reels
Where Is My Wandering Boy?	Special Cast	Equity-S. R.		Feb. 18
Whispering Women	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		5 reels
White Faith	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels
Why Men Forget	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Feb. 4
Wide Open Town, A	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Mar. 4
Woman's Side, The	Kath'rine M'Donald		5 reels
Your Best Friend	Vera Gordon	Warner Bros.-S. R.	5 reels

MARCH

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Beyond the Rocks	Gloria Swanson	Paramount	5 reels
Blaze Away	Big Boy Williams	Herbst-Lorenzo-S. R.	5 reels
Bootleggers		Producer's Security	6 reels
Bought and Paid For	Special Cast	Paramount
Boy Crazy	Doris May	R-C Pictures	5 reels
Brenda's Heritage	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Cardigan	Special Cast	Am. Releasing Corp.	6 reels	Mar. 4
Cat That Walked Alone, The	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount	5 reels
Channing of the Northwest	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels
Come On Over	Colleen Moore	Goldwyn	5 reels
Divorcee, The	Const'nce Talmadge	First National	5 reels
Domestic Relations	Kath'rine M'Donald	First National	5 reels
Don't Doubt Your Wife	Leah Baird	Assoc. Exhib.	5 reels
Elope If You Must	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels
Extra, Extra	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels
Fools First	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Friday or Monday	Kath. M'Donald	First National	6 reels
Gas, Oil and Water	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Glass Houses	Viola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Feb. 25
Green Temptation, The	Betty Compson	Paramount	5 reels
Heart Specialist, The		Paramount	5 reels
Her Husband's Trademark	Gloria Swanson	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Her Story	Madge Titheradge	Second Nat.-S. R.		Mar. 4
His Back Against the Wall	Raymond Hatton	Goldwyn
Human Hearts	House Peters	Universal	6 reels
Impulse	Neva Gerber	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
I Can Explain	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Feb. 25
Insinuation		Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.	5 reels
Iron to Gold	Dustin Farnum	Fox	5 reels
Island Wives	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels
Kissed	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Light in the Dark, The	Hope Hampton	First National	5 reels
Loves of Pharaoh, The	Special Cast	Paramount		Mar. 4
Magnificent Ambersons	Jean Paige	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man from Downing Street, The	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man from Home, The	Kirkwood-Nilsson	Paramount	5 reels
Man Who Smiled, The	Special Cast	First National	5 reels
Man With Two Mothers, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Masquerader, The	Guy Bates Post	First National	6 reels
Miss Paul Revere	Special Cast	Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.
Mr. Pim Passes By	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Night, Riders, The	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Over the Border	Betty Compson	Paramount	5 reels
Pardon My Nerve	Chas. (Buck) Jones	Fox	5 reels	Mar.
Prisoner of Zenda, The	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels
Proxy Daddy, The		Paramount	5 reels
Red Challenge, The	Special Cast	Paramount	5 reels
Rose of the Sea	Anita Stewart	First National	5 reels
Rounding Up of the Law	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Skin Deep	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Smudge	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Sonny	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels
Stage Romance, A	William Farnum	Fox	7 reels	Feb. 2
Suzanna	Mabel Normand	First National	5 reels
That Lass o' Lowries	Priscilla Dean	Universal
Tracked to Earth	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 2
Vermillion Pencil, The	Sessue Hayakawa	R-C	5 reels
Wall Flower, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Watch Your Step	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Way Back, The	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels
Wild Honey	Priscilla Dean	Universal		Mar. 1
Wise Kid, The	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Mar.
Woman Wake Up	Florence Vidor	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Mar.

Comedy and Short Subject Releases

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Wise Kid, The	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels
Woman He Married, The	Anita Stewart	First National	5 reels
Woman, Wake Up	Florence Vidor	Asso. Exhib.	5 reels
Woman's Woman	Special Cast	Russel Clark Syn	6 reels
World's Champion, The.	Wallace Reid	Paramount	6 reels
Adviser, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 19
After the Dough	Sid Smith	Federated Film	2 reels	Aug. 20
Applicant, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Back Yard, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Barnyard Cavalier, A	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 24
Bashful Lover, The	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Battling Torchy	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Be Reasonable		First National	2 reels
Bell Hop, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels	Jan. 7
Blacksmith, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Blockhead, The		First National	2 reels
Blue Sunday	Lyons and Moran	Universal	2 reels	Aug. 13
Boat, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Bright Eyes	Ben Turpin	First National	2 reels
Broker, The	Luplno Lane	Fox	2 reels
Chauffeur, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Dec. 31
Chums	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Circus Clowns	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 11
Cops	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Coming and Going	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Country Chickens	Louise Fazenda	Educational	2 reels
Country Style	Folly-Pacific		1 reel
Dead Language	George Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Decorator, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Dog Doctor, The	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Dumb Bell, The	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Eat and Be Happy		Educational	1 reel	Sept. 5
Edgar's Country Cousin	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
Edgar's Feast Day	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
Edgar's Hamlet	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
Exit Quietly	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 8
Family Affair, A		Century	2 reels	Dec. 24
Fast and Furious	Al. St. John	Fox	2 reels
Fat and Sassy	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Fireside Brewer, A	Louise Fazenda	Famous Players	2 reels	Nov. 27
Flivver Tracks	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Fly Cop, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Fooi Days	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Jan. 7
For Love or Money		First National	2 reels
Fresh From the Farm	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 26
Get-Rich-Quick Peggy	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels
Get the Hook	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Golfing	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Gone to the Country	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Oct. 8
Hands Up	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Happy Pest, The	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hard Luck	Buster Keaton	Metro	2 reels
Hennessy of the Mounted	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
High and Mighty	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
High Life	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels	Oct. 8
His Home Sweet Home	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
His Unlucky Berth	Bert Roach	Universal	1 reel	Sept. 3
Hokus Pokus	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Holding His Own	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Horse Sense	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Hound of Tankerville	Otis Harlan	Educational
Idle Class, The	Chas. Chaplin	First National	3 reels	Oct. 1
In and Out	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
In at the Finish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
It Pays to Exercise	Sennett	Paramount	2 reels
Kiss and Make Up	Earle Rodney	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 3
Late Hero, The	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Late Hours	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
Little, But Oh My	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Little Miss Mischief	Baby Peggy	Pathe	2 reels
Loose Change	Paul Parrott	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 18
Love and Doughnuts	Ben Turpin	Associated Prod	2 reels	Dec. 10
Love and War	Johnny Savo	Fox	2 reels
Love Egg, The	Louise Fazenda	Educational	2 reels	Sept. 10
Made in the Kitchen	Special Cast	Associated Prod	2 reels
Messenger, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Monkey Shines	Educational		2 reels	Feb. 11
Mother's Lamb	Billy Quirk	Reelcraft	2 reels
Movie Mix-Up		Universal	1 reel
Muddy Bride, A	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels
Mummy's Nightmare	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Mysterious Stranger	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Never Weaken	Harold Lloyd	Associated Exhib	3 reels	Oct. 29
Nick-of-Time Hero	Special Cast	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 5
Nobody Home	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
No Parking	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 17
Now or Never	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Nuisance, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
On Location	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
On the Jump	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
One Stormy Knight	Dorothy Devore	Educational		Feb. 4
Pale Face, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Pals	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Passing the Buck	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Peaceful Alley	Monty Banks	Federated	2 reels
Peggy, Behave!	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels
Perfect Villain, A		Fox	2 reels	Dec. 10
Playhouse, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Playing Possum	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels	Dec. 3
Please Be Careful		Fox	2 reels	Feb. 4
Rambling Romeo, A	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Rearing to Go	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rent Collector, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Rich Man, Poor Man	Paul Parrott	Pathe	1 reel
Rough and Tumble	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Roped and Tied	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rural Cinderella, A		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Saving Sister Susie		Educational	2 reels	Nov. 12
Sailor Made Man, A	Harold Lloyd	Asso. Ex.	4 reels	Dec. 3
Sand Man, The	Eddie Boland	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 20
Sawmill, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
School Days	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Schoolday Love		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Shore Shapes		Universal	1 reel
See America First	Mack Swain	Herald Prod.	2 reels
Shipwrecked Among Animals		Universal	2 reels	Feb. 4
Should Husbands Do Housework	Harry Gribbon	Universal	1 reel	Oct. 8
Show, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Simp, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 30
Sleeping Sickness	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Slow But Sure	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Small Town Stuff	Al. St. John	Fox	2 reels
Society Dogs	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Solid Concrete	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Speed	Tweedy	Reelcraft	2 reels
Stage Hand, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stage Struck	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Feb. 11
Star Boarder, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stars and Stripes	Sid Smith	Federated	2 reels	Dec. 3
Step This Way		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Stick Around	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Stolen Glory		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Storks Mistake		Educational	2 reels	Oct. 1
Straight from the Farm	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels
Straphanger, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Strikes to Spare	Bobby Vernon	National Ex
Sunless Sunday		Educational	2 reels
Table Steaks	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Teddy's Goat		Universal	2 reels	Dec. 24
They're Off	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Torchy a la Cart	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 12
Torchy's Frame-Up	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Torchy's Promotion	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Torchy Takes a Chance	Johnny Hines	Educational		Jan. 7
Torchy Turns Cupid	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Toreador, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Oct. 1
Touchdown, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Trouble Hunter, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Up and At 'Em	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Upper and Lower	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Vagrant, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 1
Watch Your Wallet	Eddie Boland	Universal	1 reel
Week Off, A	Chas. Dorety	Universal	2 reels	Oct. 8
Well I'll Be	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Winning Wallop	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Years to Come	Snub Pollard	Pathe	2 reels	Feb. 18
Young and Foolish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Zero Hero	Gaylord Lloyd	Pathe	1 reel	Oct. 8

Short Subjects

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Title and Star
Adopting a Bear Cub (Pictograph)		Goldwyn	1 reel
Adventures of Sheriock Holmes (Drama)		Alexander-S. R.	2 reels	Feb. 11
Along the Rio Grande (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
And Women Must Weep (Scenic)		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 11
As Old as the Hills (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
At the Damascus Gate (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
At the Wailing Wall (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Babyhood (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Bashful Suitor, The (Drama)	Mary Brandon	Hodkinson	2 reels	Dec. 24
Battle Against Odds (Eddie Polo, W. Dr.)		Universal	2 reels
Battle of Jutland, The (Noveity)		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Bear Hunting in California (Adventure)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Beauty Spots of America (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Beggar Maid, The (Drama)	Mary Astor	Triart Film	1 reel	Oct. 8
Beyond the Trail (Wes. Drama)	Tom Sanchi	Pathe	2 reels
Bible, The (Serial)	Special Cast	State Rights	12 Episodes
Birds of Crags and Marshes (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Bonnets of Auvergne (Scenic)	Bruce	Educational	1 reel	Jan. 7
Bonnie Scotland (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Breaking Through (Serial)	Carmel Myers	Vitagraph
Capturing Lions by Aeropiane (Novelty)		Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
City, The (Scenic)		Wid Gunning	1 reel	Dec. 10
Code of the West, The (West. Drama)		Texas Guinan	2 reels	Nov. 5
Combatting the Elements (Noveity)		Kineto Review	1 reel	Nov. 12
Could Columbus Discover America? (World Wanderings)		Educational	1 reel	Sept. 24
Cow Puncher's Comeback (W. Dr.), Art Acc.		Universal	2 reels	Sept. 24
Creation (Sacred Films)			4 reels
Crowning King Blizzard (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Cupid, Registered Guide (Drama)	Edgar Jones	Pathe	2 reels
Dawn to Dusk in Egype (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Death Trap, The (West. Dr.), Tom Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels
Emerald Isle, The (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Family Album, The (Sketchograf)		Educational	1 reel
Felix Saves the Day (Cartoon)		Winkler-S. R.	1 reel	Feb. 11
First Families of America (Noveity)		Paramount	1 reel
From Dawn to Dusk in Egypt (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Jan. 28
Grandfather's Clock (Noveity)		Kineto Review	1 reel	Jan. 28
Great American Authors (Kineto Series)				Nov. 19
Heart of Doreon, The (Drama)	Tom Santschi	Pathe	2 reels
Heritage of Hate, The (Eddie Polo, W. Dr.)		Universal	2 reels
Holy City, The (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Honor of Rameriz (West. Dr.),	Tom Santschi	Pathe	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hope Diam'd Mystery (Ser'l),	Grace Darmond	State Rights	15 episodes
Hunting the Sea Wolf (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Hurricane Hutch (Serial), Chas. Hutchison		Pathe	15 epi'des.	Aug. 13
Imposter, The (West. Drama), Tom Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels
In Old Granada (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel

(Continued on page 1422)

COMING PRODUCTIONS LISTED

ALEXANDER FILM CORP.

Adventures of Sherlock Holmes
(Fifteen two-reel features)

AMERICAN RELEASING CORP.

Destiny's Isle (Special Cast)
My Old Kentucky Home (Special Cast)
The Cradle Buster (Aleen Hunter)
The Lying Truth (Special Cast)
Belle of Alaska (Jane Novak)
Jan of the Big Snows (Special Cast)

ARISTA FILM CORP.

Prejudice
When Love is Young (Zena Keefe)
I Defy

ARROW FILM CORPORATION

Impulse (Neva Gerber)
The Innocent Cheat (Special Cast)
Ten Nights in a Bar Room
A Yankee Go-Getter (Neva Gerber) 5
Devil-Dog Dawson (Jack Hoxie) 5
The Star Reporter (Billie Rhodes) 5
A Motion to Adjourn (Daw-Stewart) 5
SPEED COMEDIES
(One Released Every Week)
MURIEL OSTRICHE COMEDIES
BLAZED TRAIL PRODUCTIONS
ARROW-GERBER PRODUCTIONS
NORTHWOOD DRAMAS
SERIALS

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

HAROLD LLOYD COMEDIES
He Who Hesitates
A Sailor Made Man 4
FEATURES
Hills of Missing Men (J. P. McGowan)
Don't Doubt Your Wife (Leah Baird)
Clansmen of the North
Woman, Wake Up
Lady Godiva
Sunshine Harbor (Margaret Beecher)

ASSOCIATED PHOTOPLAYS

Soul of a Woman (Jane Novak)
Crossing Trails (Pete Morrison) 5
Ghost City (Helen Holmes) 5

AYWON FILM CORPORATION

Across the Border (Big Boy Williams)
The Master of Beasts

C. B. C. FILM SALE CORP.

Life's Greatest Question (Roy Stewart)
CARNIVAL COMEDIES
(Two Reels Twice a Month)
HALL ROOM BOYS COMEDIES
(Two Reels Twice a Month)
SCREEN SNAPSHOTS
(One Reel Twice a Month)
STAR RANCH WESTERNS
(One Two-Reeler Every Two Weeks)

CLARK-CORNELIUS CORPORATION

Living Lies
Diamond Carlisle

R. CLARK SYNDICATE, INC.

Miss Paul Revere
Insinuation
Woman's Woman
The Love Slave (Lucy Doraine)
The Two Orphans
The Offenders (Margery Wilson)

EAST COAST PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Feb.—The Greater Duty
Jan.—Any Night

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.

SHORT SUBJECTS
Cold Feet (Christie Comedy)
Hokus Pocus (Christie Comedy) 2
'Tis the Bull (Christie Comedy) 2
Oh, Promise Me! (Christie Comedy) 2
And Women Must Weep (Bruce Scenic) 2
Monkey Shines (Campbell Comedy) 2
Schoolday Love (Campbell Comedy) 2
Stolen Glory (Campbell Comedy) 2
A Barnyard Cavalier (Christie comedy) 2
SELIG-ROBK PHOTOPLAYS
CHRISTIE COMEDIES
MERMAID COMEDIES
PUNCH COMEDIES
TORCHY COMEDIES
CAMPBELL COMEDIES
CHESTER COMEDIES
VANITY COMEDIES
GAYETY COMEDIES
SKETCHOGRAFS
BRUCE SCENICS
CHESTER OUTINGS
CHESTER SCREENICS
CINAL FILMS—SLOW SPEED
KINOGRAMS

EQUITY PICTURES CORP.

Where Is My Wandering Boy? (Special Cast)

EXCEPTIONAL PICTURES CORP.

(Releasing Arrangements to be Announced Later)
Mister Antonio (Otis Skinner)
Grumpy
Jan., 1922—His Nibs (Charles (Chic) Sale)

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO., INC.

The Jungle Goddess—Selig serial 15 episodes
Starring Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP.

PARAMOUNT
(April Releases)
When Knighthood Was in Flower (Marion Davies)
Blood and Sand (Rodolf Valentino)
Our Leading Citizen (Thomas Meighan)
The Gilded Cage
The Young Diana (Marion Davies)
A Stampede Madonna (Jack Holt)
The Ordeal (Agnes Ayres)
The Dictator (Wallace Reid)
Val of Paradise (Jack Holt-Bebe Daniels)
Tharon of Lost Valley (Dorothy Dalton)
(March Releases)
The Cat That Walked Alone (Dorothy Dalton)
The Green Temptation (Betty Compson)
The Man From Home (Kirkwood-Nilsson)
The Proxy Daddy
The Red Challenge
The World's Champion (Wallace Reid)
Beyond the Rocks (Gloria Swanson)
Bought and Paid For (Agnes Ayres)
Over the Border (Betty Compson)
The Loves of Pharaoh (Special Cast)
Her Husband's Trademark (Gloria Swanson)
(February Releases)
One Glorious Day (Will Rogers)
If You Believe It, It's So (Thomas Meighan)
Her Own Money (Ethel Clayton)
Boomerang Bill (Lionel Barrymore)
Travelin' On (Wm. S. Hart)
Moran of the Lady Letty (Dorothy Dalton)
Saturday Night (Special Cast)
Back Pay
Mistress of the World (Serial)
REALART PICTURES
The Truthful Liar (Wanda Hawley)
The Heart Specialist
Midnight (Constance Binney)
Through a Glass Window (May McAvoy)
Tillie (Mary Miles Minter)

FEDERATED FILM EXCHANGES

CHESTER COMEDIES
(Once a Month)
HALLROOM BOYS COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
JOE ROCK COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
SCREEN SNAPSHOTS
(Twice a Month)
Miracles of the Jungle
(Fifteen-Episode serial)

FIDELITY PICTURES CORP.

FEATURES
12 WITWER COMEDIES (CHAS. DELANEY)

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES

The Kiss (Betty Compson)
The Duchess of Langeais (Norma Talmadge)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
Smilin' Through (Norma Talmadge)
The Divorcee (Constance Talmadge)
Fools First (Special Cast)
Friday or Monday (Katherine MacDonald)
Gas, Oil or Water (Charles Ray)
The Light in the Dark (Hope Hampton)
The Man Who Smiled (Special Cast)
Rose o' the Sea (Anita Stewart)
Skin Deep (Ince Special)
The Woman He Married (Anita Stewart)
Sonny (Richard Barthelmess)
Lost and Found (Jackie Coogan)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
One Clear Call (Special Cast)
The Masquerader (Special Cast)
Lorna Doone (Special Cast)
Pawned (Special Cast)
Domestic Relations (Katherine MacDonald)
The Deuce of Spades (Chas. Ray)
Smudge (Chas. Ray)
The Seventh Day (Richard Barthelmess)
Someone to Love (Ince Prod.)
Suzanna (Mabel Normand)
The Hottentot (Ince Prod.)
Jim (Ince Prod.)
Wooden Spoil (Ince Prod.)
Finding Home (Ince Prod.)
Bellboy 13 (Ince Prod.)
Her Mad Bargain (Anita Stewart)
Kindred of the Dust (Walsh Prod.)
Shattered Idols (Frothingham Prod.)
Polly of the Follies (Constance Talmadge)
The Barnstormer (Charles Ray)
The Rosary (Special Cast)
The Song of Life (Special Cast)
White Faith (Hope Hampton)
The Beautiful Liar (Katherine MacDonald)
Slippery McGee
The Half Breed
COMEDIES
My Wife's Relations (Buster Keaton)
For Love or Money (Sennett)
Cops (Buster Keaton) 2
The Blockhead (Sennett)
The Pale Face (Buster Keaton) 2
Be Reasonable (Sennett) 2

FOX FILM EXCHANGES

FEATURES
Pardon My Nerve (Chas. Jones)
Nero (Special Cast)
Iron to Gold (Dustin Farnum)
A Stage Romance (William Farnum)
Chasing the Moon (Tom Mix)
Smiles Are Trumps (Maurice Flynn)
The Broadway Peacock (Pearl White)
Strength of the Pines (William Russell)
Elope If You Must (Eileen Percy)
Extra, Extra! (Walker-Murphy)
Any Wife (Pearl White)
COMEDIES
Hot Dog (Clyde Cook)
The Studio Rube (Al. St. John)
The Broker (Lufino Lane)
Straight from the Farm (Sunshine)
West Is West (Sunshine)
MUTT AND JEFF CARTOONS
FOX NEWS
(Twice a week)

GOLDWYN EXCHANGES

THIRD GROUP OF RELEASES

Glorious Fool, The	5,392
Man With Two Mothers	4,423
His Back Against the Wall	4,680
Watch Your Step	4,713
Doubling for Romeo	4,304
Wallflower, The	5,228
Grand Larceny	5,228

HODKINSON CORP., W. W.

Golden Dreams (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
The Rise of Roscoe Paine (Irene Castle)
At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern
Feb. 19—The Luxury Tax (Mabel Ballin)
Feb. 12, 1922—Hope (Triart Pictures Corp.)
The Grey Dawn (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
Jan. 22, 1922—Heart's Haven (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
Jan. 8, 1922—French Heels (Hol-tre Pictures, Inc.)

McGOVERN & EGLER

SHORTY HAMILTON SERIES
Apr. 10—Ride 'Em Cowboy 2
Mar. 27—Grit 2
Mar. 13—Pony Boy 2
Feb. 27—Let-'er-Go Gallagher 2
Feb. 13—Pep 2
Jan. 30—The Runt 2

METRO PICTURES CORP.

The Phantom Bride (Bert Lytell)
Mar. 20—I Can Explain (Gareth Hughes)
Mar. 13—The Prisoner of Zenda (Special Cast)
Mar. 6—Glass Houses (Viola Dana)
Feb. 27—Turn to the Right (Special Cast)
Feb. 20—The Right That Failed (Bert Lytell)
Feb. 6—The Golden Gift (Alice Lake)

NATIONAL EXCHANGES, INC.

Welcome Children (Special Cast)
Shadows of the West (Hedda Nova)
KINETO REVIEW
(One Reel Issued Weekly)
SERIALS

PACIFIC FILM COMPANY

The Girl from Rockypoint (Special Cast) 5
The Forest King (Special Cast) 5
The Voice in the Dark (Special Cast) 5
Double Stakes (Gladys Brockwell) 5
The Able Minded Lady (Henry B. Walthall) 5
The Call From the Wild (Frankie Lee) 5
The Fatal 30 (Special Cast) 5
FOLLY COMEDIES
(Starring Geo. Ovey and Vernon Dent—One reel each)

PATHE EXCHANGES

SERIALS
Go Get 'Em Hutch
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Chas. Hutchinson)
White Eagle
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Ruth Roland)
The Sky Ranger
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Geo. B. Seitz and Juanita Caprice)

(Continued on page 1422)

NEW THEATRE
CONSTRUCTION & EQUIPMENT
PROJECTION DEPARTMENT CAMERA

P. M. ABBOTT - - - - - - - - - - - TECHNICAL EDITOR

Colored Lighting Provides Most Artistic Effects for Stage

Illuminating Devices May Be Divided Into Two Main Groups

By A. L. POWELL, Edison Lamp Works

The field of lighting in which color has had the widest application, and in fact, the only place until very recently, where advantage has been taken of its possibilities is on the stage. The skilfull stage director has long realized that color was its very best means of securing artistic results. His experience has taught him many of the principles of proper lighting, principles which the merchant or industrial plant engineer would do well to observe.

For example, we never see a brilliant, powerful, glaring light source on the stage. Footlights, border lights, floods, etc., are invisible to the audience. The stage manager knows that unshielded lamps distract the attention, fatigue and annoy, yet the merchant will have powerful lamps hanging in the middle of the show window, or over the counter, preventing the passerby or shopper from seeing the goods on display. In the work shop, we see bare lamps hanging in the field of view over the machine tool, introducing an accident hazzard, temporarily blinding the worker and promoting severe eye strain.

Where the stage artist finds it necessary to have a chandelier, portable lamp, bracket or fixture as a part of the setting, he is clever enough to provide merely enough light in this to render it luminous and does not depend on it for the actual illumination of the stage. single glaring light will destroy the most pleasing set.

In order that the picture may appear natural, the mechanism of the lighting is entirely concealed from view. One does not even see the reflectors or lamp housings, they are masked by some part of the scenery. The merchant, on the other hand, in his show window, even though he equips lamps with opaque reflectors, allows these to be visible instead of concealing them by a valance.

But to return to our subject, let us con-

(Continued on page 1414)

Footlights

Modified lighting offers the very best means of securing artistic results on the stage. Mr. Powell discusses the desirable equipment for the stage, the variety of mechanical means through which the desired effects may be obtained and also the principles to be considered when choosing the type of lighting for a particular production. For certain productions lighting conditions as they exist in nature are most effective, while again it may prove advantageous to use exaggerated modified lighting.

In this article a detailed study of the footlight is made, including its advantages and limitations.

In Mr. Powell's last article of this series, which will appear in next week's issue, the discussion of the various mechanical phases of stage lighting will be continued. This will include the border, proscenium, strip, bunch and spot light and sciopticon.

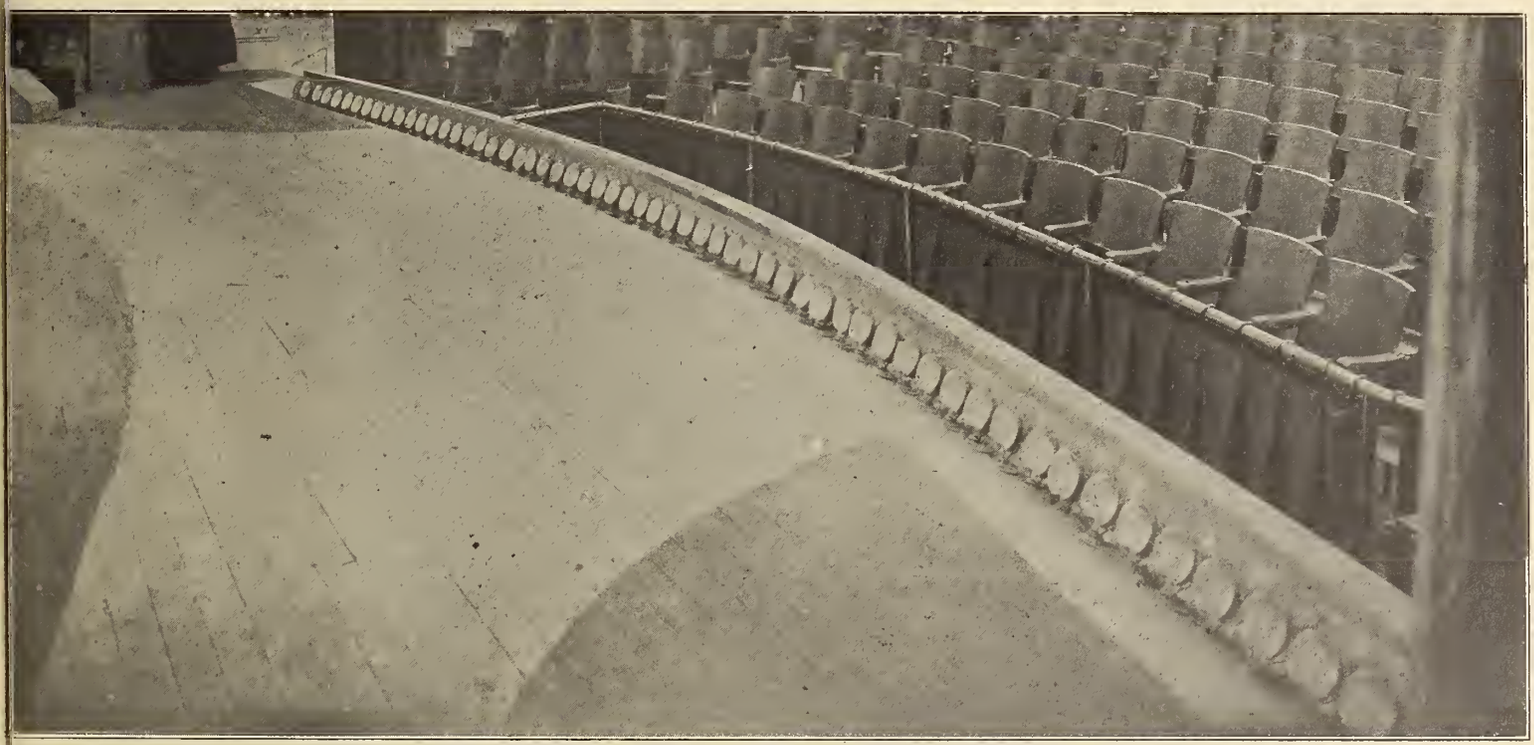

Figure 1—View of footlights employing individual mirrored glass reflectors

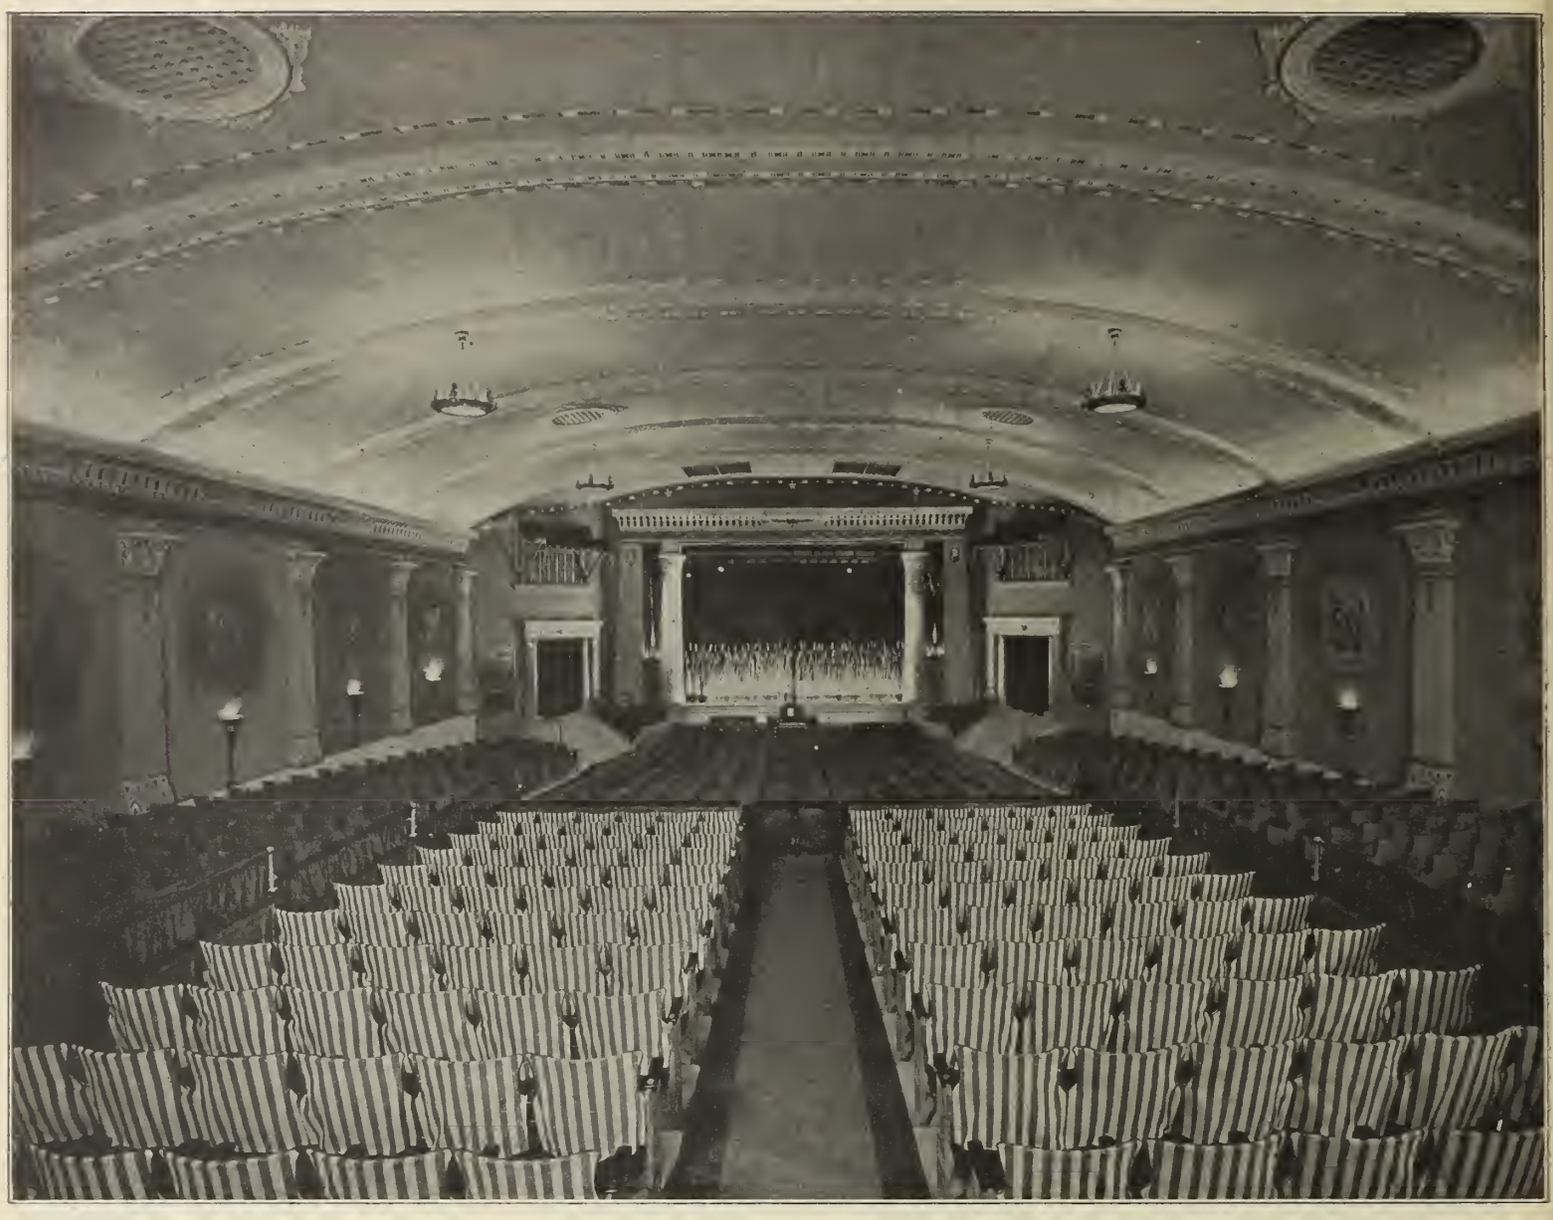

Auditorium of Vermont theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., in which prevails a pleasant homelike atmosphere. The stage decorative scheme is Egyptian.

Los Angeles Has New Artistic and Distinctive Amusement Palace

Many attractive features fulfill every need of patrons.

The Vermont Theatre is located at Vernon and Vermont, Los Angeles, Calif. It is a brick structure with terra cotta embellishments, costing $150,000, with 1,000 seating capacity. The owners are Messrs. Glenn Harper, Charles Lundlade, and H. Nystrom. Mr. Harper is manager.

The entire decorative scheme from the lobby to the stage is Egyptian, with the Egyptian colors yellow, red, blne and gold, predominating in the wall decorations. The foyer is decidedly out of the ordinary. At each end are two rest rooms with large fireplaces facing the foyer, giving the appearance of great distance and space. The richly decorated foyer is sobered with heavy black curtains at the doorways, edged with gold, and specially made Egyptian furniture of black and white. The carpets are also black and gray, 27-inch stripes, and smaller stripes in the rest room at the end, running in the opposite direction. The main auditorium is one of the most beautiful decorated in Los Angeles. Between the huge pilasters, with heavy copings of brightly colored designs, are bronze hierogliphics lighted by bowls of colored lights. The fixtures are of opaque glass, with Egyptian figures prominently seated on the edges. At the rear of the house below the operating booth, two huge lions rear on their haunches in front of a background of palms and ferns, almost completely hiding the operating aperatures. The loges occupy the center back of the house, and are enclosed and the seats covered with black and white striped covers. The curtains on the stage are unique in every particular. A heavy black velvet curtain, embellished with gold bullrushes is the main curtain.

A shadow curtain of black with gold design comes next. Then a very striking red velvet curtain with a half moon of silver across it and gold Egyptian figures thereon, comes next.

The theater is equipped with gas radiators, whose value has been fully demonstrated. The house is easily warmed, and also well ventilated—the typhoon system having been installed.

The Robert Morgan organ has already caused much comment on its wonderful tone. It is a $30,000 organ. The house is fully wired with intercommunicating phones to all parts.

Two Powers 6 B machines have been installed. The length of the throw is 120 feet, but special lenses make a picture of great distinction.

The most unusual feature about the theater is the Nursery. Upstairs has been installed a large nursery, fully equipped with swings, etc., and with a large plate glass window, from which the screen can be easily seen. Babies no longer disturb the patrons, as the mother can be comfortably seated in rocking chairs with baby, and yet enjoy the show.

Another feature is the auto park at the side of the building, with a capacity for two hundred machines, free to the patrons of the theatre.

Credit Due Mr. Burroughs

In the issue of February 25th, the article appearing on page 1278, "Competent Engineering Necessary to Insure Safety in Theatre Construction," was written by Mr. Robins Burroughs, an engineer who specializes in theatre construction. Mr. Burroughs has been very much interested in the recent Washington disaster, and has been spending a great deal of his time in investigating the same, as he is credited with a great deal of experience in theatre engineering.

IT'S A Barton ORCHESTRAL ORGAN

The Barton Console in the CRYSTAL THEATRE, Chicago
Schaefer Bros., Owners

This magnificent Barton has paid for itself long ago in the increased profits it has made for the Crystal Theatre. Barton Organs are so sturdily built they virtually last as long as the theatre itself, and earn dividends many years after the cost has been wiped off the books.

You Can't Dance to a Dirge!

Obviously not! Yet some exhibitors, skillful in other matters of showmanship, expect equally impossible results from the music they have in their theatres. Music for pictures, to be right, must be suitable to the action and temperament of the films. Because the Barton Orchestral Organ supplies every kind of beautiful music, with completely satisfying volume and in variety that knows no end, it is considered by successful exhibitors to be the greatest permanent feature in any theatre.

With the exclusive Barton Divided Manual, the Barton Organ is the most versatile theatre organ ever built, regardless of cost. And it is the lowest priced real theatre organ in the world.

You can own a Barton more easily than you imagine—prices and terms meet you more than half way—write for details.

BARTOLA MUSICAL INSTRUMENT CO.
314-316 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

The Egyptian design is carried throughout the entire house and is used very effectively in the artistic rest room of this New Vermont theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.

Push 6 Months Apprenticeship Bill

President Samuel Kaplan, Edgar T. Stewart, local representative, Alfred J. McKosker, press representative of Local 306, New York City, left for Albany February 20th to attend a hearing on February 21st before the Affairs of Cities Committee of the Assembly who are holding a hearing on the six months apprenticeship bill introduced into the Assembly by Joseph McKee.

These representatives of 306 were accompanied to the hearing by James P. Holland, president of the State Federation of Labor and Peter J. Brady, Chairman of the Educational Committee of the State Federation of Labor, Judge Jeremiah Mahoney, counsel for 306, and Sheriff Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx.

Each of these representatives talked before the committee for the passage of the bill. As an endorsement for this project they had in their possession letters signed by Hery D. Fayer State Industrial Commissioner and also John Kenon, Chief of the Fire Department of New York City.

President Samuel Kaplan and Financial Secretary Harry I. Sherman of Moving Picture Machine Operators' Local 306 returned to New York last Sunday after having visited Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo. These gentlemen timed their visits in the three cities to be present at the meetings at the Executive Boards of the Locals in the cities mentioned, and have brought back with them considerable constructive data which combined with that of the New York Local spells advancement in union operation and better service to the exhibitor.

Lobby Fixtures Cost $4,500

The Center Amusement Co., Newark, N. J., will open their new 1,500-seat house. A special feature of this house is the lobby display; the ticket booth, frames, etc., costing $4,500, installed by Libman-Spanjer Corp.

Youngstown's New Capitol to Have Simplex

W. C. Denny, live wire manager of the Cleveland office of the Argus Enterprises, Inc., writes that one of the most complete of the numerous installations made by his office this winter is that of the new capitol Theatre, Youngstown, Ohio, which is scheduled to open on the eighteenth of February. The seating capacity will be 1,300.

The equipment installed in the projection room consists of two Type "S" motor driven Simplex Projectors, Snaplite Lenses, Peerless Arc Controls, G. E. Generator Set, Spotlight and a motor driven Rewinder. A Minusa Gold Fibre and Aislelites were also a part of the theatre equipment installed.

Mr. Denny also announces an unusual order secured from the Board of Education, Madison, Ohio, for a Simplex Projector, Transverter and a Minusa Screen which are to be installed in the High School by March 1st.

The above concern also recently installed in the new 1,800-seat State theatre, Columbus, Ohio, two Simplex Projectors and a G. E. Generator Set while the Royal Theatre of the same city was equipped with Simplex and a Minusa Screen.

Watch for loose ends of carpets, rugs that slide, and other obstructions which may trip the unwary and lead to damage suits or unkind words about your theatre.

By no means allow smoking in your theatre if you can prevent it. Some owners go so far as to post notices; also insist the employees refrain from carrying matches.

Always consider the comfort and welfare of your patrons, it pays in the long run.

POWER'S G. E. LAMP

KEPT IN SUCCESSFUL, CONTINUOUS AND PRACTICAL OPERATION FOR EIGHT MONTHS

INSTALLED JUNE, 1921

CENTRAL, BROADWAY, NEW YORK
UNIVERSAL FILM PRESENTATION HOUSE

ANDREW J. COBE
MANAGER & DIRECTOR

CENTRAL THEATRE
BROADWAY AT 47TH STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Information about Power's G.E. Lamp

February 4th, 1922.

Nicholas Power Company,
90 Gold Street,
New York, N.Y.

Gentlemen:

I can recommend very high the Power's G.E. High Intensity Lamps furnished by you which I have been using at the Central Theatre for several months.

They have a very high quality of light and are wonderfully constructed. I find that they give better results with the amperage which I have been using than any other lamp in the market. As far as I know, any practical operator can operate one even though they require attention on the part of the operator in order to get the best results.

Very truly yours,
Andrew J. Cobe
Manager.

"FOOLISH WIVES"

THE MILLION DOLLAR PICTURE
PREMIER SHOWING AT THE CENTRAL THEATRE WITH

POWER'S PROJECTORS

AND

POWER'S G. E. HIGH INTENSITY ARC LAMPS

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
INCORPORATED
EDWARD EARL, PRESIDENT
NINETY GOLD ST. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Vermont theatre, Los Angeles, Cal. On the left is shown the spaceous lobby strikingly beautiful in its simplicity. The cosey little room on the right permits the parents to view the picture in privacy with their small children

American Projection Society Annual Dinner Great Success

St. Valentine's Party Given in Honor of Jack Buchardt

The American Projection Society put over another successful affair, on Tuesday, Feb. 14, at the Astor Hotel.

Promptly at midnight in the Rose Room, one hundred of the members, their guests and friends sat down to eat, then stood up to oblige the photographer.

The occasion was the annual dinner of the Society and named after the right hand of good old Dan Cupid—St. Valentine, and given in honor of Jack (Valentine) Buchardt, the treasurer of the Society practically since its incorporation.

The dinner that followed was a good one, the entertainment arranged, staged and acted by the Society members only digested the dinner by the laughter process. Dancing followed until daylight chased them all home.

Seated at the guest table in addition to "The Valentine" were Mr. J. H. Auerbach, Mr. E. S. Porter, Mrs. E. S. Porter Miss A Porter, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Cassard, Mr. S. L. Rothafel, Mr. Hugo Reisenfeld, Mr. T. H. Richardson, Mrs. Potter and Mrs. MacLellan.

During the course of the dinner a number of telegrams were received and read off by the Committee, they were sharp hits by some sharp wits, and caused considerable merriment at the expense of the victim named.

The program make up follows including an original poem written expressly for and dedicated to the A. P. S. by Miss Martha Wilchinsky, of the Capitol Theatre Staff.

THE MAN IN THE BOOTH

Any evening when you're at a picture show
On the screen you see some folks you'd like to know:
  There's the hero, hair so sleek,
  And the girl so sweet and meek
And the two-gun man who shoots 'em in a row.
But there's a chap who's just as worthy as the rest
And you can wager that he always does his best,
  For he's winding, always winding;
  And he's grinding, always grinding—
But you never see—in truth—
The Man in the Booth.

One by one they get the plaudits of the crowd,
And they bow as the applause rings long and loud—
  All the dancers and musicians
  And the singers and magicians
Get a welcome that is sure to make them proud.
But there's one who never comes into his rights,
For he's hidden far away from all the lights.
  Yet he's ready, always ready;
  And he's steady; yes, he's steady:
None could find him but a sleuth—
The Man in the Booth.

Now tonight the usual order is reversed
And a different kind of show we have rehearsed;
  Our attempts to entertain
  We trust won't be in vain
As into public view we suddenly burst.
There's someone whom you've never met before
And tonight he takes the center of the floor.
  He's awfully glad to meet you,
  In Valentine's name to greet you—
He's none other than—forsooth—
The Man in the Booth.

American Projection Society annual dinner, Hotel Astor, in honor of Jack Buchardt

Saxe House at Kenosha, Wis., Installs Bartola Organ

The Saxe enterprises of Milwaukee are installing the largest pipe organ in Wisconsin in the new $400,000 theatre now under construction at Kenosha, according to Dan Barton, general manager of the Bartola Musical Instrument company. Mr. Barton has just returned from a trip throughout Wisconsin in company with Special Representative H. H. Haven and reports business conditions in that state showing a marked improvement. The signing of contracts for three new organs brings the total number of Barton's in use or being installed in Wisconsin up to 52.

The organ being installed at the Kenosha house is fitted with a divided manual and has been furnished with a complete orchestral division giving the instrumentation of a large symphony orchestra. Specially constructed organ lofts on either side of the stage will house the organ.

Another house to be fitted with a Barton organ is the Grand Opera House at Appleton, Wis., which was purchased recently by F. W. Fischer, the Madison exhibitor and who also operates two theatres in Illinois.

Grand Opening of New Orpheum

The Cosmopolitan Advertising & Amusement Corporation opened the New Orpheum theatre, North Avenue, Flora, Illinois. The ventilating is one important feature of the theatre and is of great value to every one' health, allowing a complete change of air every three minutes.

Announcing the Fastest Film ever manufactured

EASTMAN NEGATIVE FILM

Super Speed

Super Speed Film practically eliminates under-exposure. It is ideal for ultra-speed, slow-motion photography; for interiors that are poorly illuminated; for dull days on location.

When unfavorable conditions spell failure, Super Speed Film spells Success.

Price 4½ cents per foot, perforated

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

Colored Stage Lighting

(Continued from page 1407)

sider the mechanisms that are available or standard for stage lighting, how they work, what they do, why they are useful and how they can be applied. With a knowledge of these features one can readily adapt them to the requirements of a particular problem.

Colored light, from any of the equipment, can be obtained by the methods outlined in the first article of this series. Where relatively small lamps are employed the superficially colored bulb (dipped lamp) is probably the most generally applicable. For equipments using large lamps, the gelatin or glass color screen is necessary. It is suggested that the reader review this part of the subject to have clearly in mind the advantages and disadvantages of the methods of obtaining colored light (see January 28 issue).

The desirable equipment for a stage will depend on the type of production likely to be given, but it is evident that proper lighting effects are of the greatest assistance in rendering any sort of theatrical performance an artistic success. Adequate provision should be made when the building is erected for a sufficient number of circuits, flexible control and supporting means for auxiliary apparatus.

For certain types of productions, one should reproduce as nearly as possible, lighting conditons as they exist in nature, at the same time enable the audience to see clearly the actors and setting. On the other hand, many of the stagings of the present day are of, what might be termed, an imaginary type and it is even possible to improve on natural lighting by skilfully applied artificial illumination. No doubt some of the most pleasing results are secured when bizarre effects are attempted and combinations of colors used which do not exist in nature. In doing this one is not violating any of the fundamental principles but merely taking advantage of the available media for expression and producing something interesting, striking and pleasing to the eye.

To accomplish these things, it is necessary to have available light from many different directions of various colors and facilities for changing the direction of light, as well as the quantity or intensity.

Stage lighting devices may be divided in two main groups. Those for providing general illumination and those for providing localized lighting. In the first group fall the foot, strip, proscenium, and border lights; in the second, the bunch and spot light and sciopticon.

The footlight directs a rather strong light from below. It intensifies the facial expression and assists to a great degree, in holding the attention of the audience. However, such lighting tends to reverse natural shadows, and while still a very important factor, does not occupy as prominent a place as in the early days of the art. Some of the most artistic productions of recent years have been well lighted without the use of footlights. It is doubtful whether this practice should be universally applied and it is well to provide suitable footlights for use when necessary. The actor must take into consideration whether or not strong footlighting is in use and adjust the make-up to compensate for the reversal of shadow effects.

The footlight in common use consists virtually of a sheet metal trough painted white and fitted with porcelain receptacles closely together. In many cases the design of this has been given but little consideration and the distribution of light secured is not of the most desirable character. In other instances the lamps are visible to persons sitting in the balcony and hence the equipment is open to severe criticism. An inverted form of foot light with the lamps burning base up and concealed by an overhanging ledge overcomes this difficulty, but is somewhat more expensive in construction. The white paint finish where employed should be renewed at periodic intervals to maintain its reflecting properties at as high a value as possible. Where colored lights are mingled promiscuously in the footlights, purity of color is impossible for much of the light is modified in passing through adjacent bulbs either directly or after being reflected.

At best the old style footlight is an inefficient unit. A new type is coming into use as pictured in figure 1. It employs suitably constructed mirrored glass re-

(Continued on page 1419)

SERVICE

Projection—Ventilating—Heating—Fire Prevention
Theatre Furnishings—Construction Material—Music—Lighting

Motion Picture News is in a position to advise any theatre owner on any equipment problem.

We are in contact with all the manufacturers.

Our Technical Department is at your service.

Consult us if you need advice or help.

—BEST FOR 39 YEARS PAST—

NEWMAN

BRASS LOBBY FRAMES

FOR POSTERS AND PHOTOS

Classy Display Frames in Finishes Which Require Little or No Polishing.

Used to Splendid Advantage in Over 10,000 Theatres in the U. S.

Write for catalog "N"

THE NEWMAN MANUFACTURING CO.

416 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio

Chicago Branch, 68 W. Washington St.

There are other laboratories, but there is only one where you can get

Empire

PRINTS

EMPIRE LABORATORIES, Inc.

Phones BRYANT 5437 5736

723 7th Ave., N. Y. City

MONSOON

HEATING VENTILATING COOLING

Let the theatre ventilation specialists tell you how —

Send Today for Booklet 7

MONSOON COOLING SYSTEM INC.

1476 BROADWAY NEW YORK, N.Y.

H. ROBINS BURROUGHS

M. AM. SOC. C. E.

CONSULTING ENGINEER

Structural Investigations and Reports on Existing Theatres

469 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

BARGAIN!

FOR IMMEDIATE TURNOVER

400 ft. capacity Pittman Professional, mahogany case, Pittman claw intermittent, regular and trick crank, outside reflecting focusing device, film register, direct finder, 50 MM. F:3.5 Tessar lens, focusing mount, all adjustments. Outfit perfect. Worth $300.00; our price, $125.00.

Wire 25% deposit and balance on examination.

BASS CAMERA COMPANY

109 No. Dearborn St. Dept. 111 Chicago, Illinois

P. S.—Write Bass. Let him solve your camera problem for you.

About 50% More Illumination

No. 2 GUNDLACH PROJECTION LENSES are made in focal lengths from 4½ inches up and compared with No. 1 size lenses they transmit about 50% more light in the same focal lengths.

The image is uniformly sharp from center to margin and reproduces all the tone values of the film.

These lenses are unsurpassed for Mazda light source.

Sold by all dealers subject to approval

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

GUNDLACH-MANHATTAN OPTICAL COMPANY

853 Clinton Ave., So. Rochester, N. Y.

FREE PROFESSIONAL COPIES

TWO MELODIOUS THEMES

I WANT MY MAMMY	WHEN SWEETHEARTS WALTZ
BALLAD	BALLAD
By Louis Breau	By Cal DeVoll

BELWIN

INCORPORATED

701 Seventh Ave.

New York, N. Y.

National Anti-Misframe League Forum

Dear Editor:

Will write a few lines to let the members know that I am still alive and working at the same theatre. I am still reading the NEWS and think it is getting better every day. I will send in a letter soon and pictures of my projection. I am trying to make my both better each day. I have two Simplex machines. I have been chief projectionist at the Richmond Theatre here for the past five years. I am also vice president of our Local No. 619 of the I. A. T. S. E., Alexandria, Va. Our President is S. A. Dale, Chief Projectionist, Idle Hour Theatre of this city. About the new membership buttons, I think it would be good to get a better button and hope that all of the members will feel the same way about it. I am sending you a photo of myself and will send you some of my booth soon. Wishing you and all of the members the best luck,

Very truly yours,

F. JONES, Chief Projectionist,

Richmond Theatre, Alexandria, Va., N. A. M. L. No. 1094.

Dear Editor:

Now I am not much at writing, but I have a few problems I would like to have some of my brother operators help me with.

My trouble is this. Last week we moved our screen to the front of the stage, which gives me a throw of 90 feet, with the screen in the old position the throw was 98 feet, and

Fred Jones

Mr. Hill, of the U. S. Army Silver Sheet, I was using a 5-inch lens, while the new position takes a 4½-inch lens.

At first my picture was as sharp and clear as you could find anywhere.

Now my picture is getting blurred and smoky and I can find no remedy for it. I clean my condensers and lens every day, althoug have been using the same condensers for o a year. My shutter is in the same position always. The only place I can figure it is my light.

Any help that the N. A. M. L. members c give will be appreciated. I have a few inve tions of my own that I will send in lat as I don't want to take up too much space.

Come on, N. A. M. L. members! Let's ma it 100%. Abolish the old dirty, ragged, streak and greasy film. Dump it in the rubbish hea along with the operator who will persist using the punch and scissors to ruin a filr Punching or cutting holes in film is like pu ting scars on your own face. The film com panies won't send you good prints.

Will let you hear from me again soon.

Yours,

I. W. NANCE.

White Grand Theatre, Conway, Ark.

Brother Nance states that his picture wa sharp and clear when first this change wa made. Therefore we can assume that the ele ments of the optical system themselves ar okay. Probably in cleaning the objective len the units were removed and were not put back properly, some one may be in backwards o the like.

Another thing, a 4½-inch E. F. Objective lens at a throw of 90 feet gives a 18.1 by 13.6 foot

(Continued on page 1418)

Film Fires Are Brief But They Offer Wonderful Entertainment

presents a very interesting talk on the prevention of film fire. Not only is the discussion of much value through the constructive criticism, but it also carries that touch of humor we all enjoy.

"This week we are going to talk about film fires. Our talk will be brief: Film fires themselves are brief, but they are wonderful entertainment, for the fire department, while they last. As a matter of fact there is very little to be said about the fires themselves and even less that can be done about it; the only safe rule being to grab whatever films are still intact and move to a cooler climate.

"But quite a bit may be said about prevention, so the better part of our talk will be devoted to that phase of the subject. Too much emphasis cannot be put on prevention, when we remember there is no cure.

"I am going to touch very lightly upon that class of carelessness which might be regarded as plain suicide—such, for instance, as piling seven reels on the floor in front of the machine to save going after them each time, smoking around the machine or rewind, and using the revolving shutter to knock the ashes off the cigarette. Such things are seldom found around our theatres; and if they were, this effort would not help matters, for it is directed to the man who cares—who doesn't know all the finer points of fire prevention, but who is willing to learn.

"The first rule is, of course, to keep the films under cover—never have a film exposed in the booth except in threading the machine or rewinding. If you have no regular film cabinet, use the shipping case, or promote a G. I. can from some place—any kind of a fire-proof container is better than charred regrets.

"There is a popular impression that once the film is placed in the machine everything is jake. After some experience with every known make of projecting machine, I am forced to say that nothing is further from the truth. Of course, there has been some improvement since the day when the film ran from an open spindle through the machine and into a canvas bag, but the modern fire prevention devices depend for their efficiency upon the intelligence and carefulness of the operator. Magazines are good things, but are worthless unless closed; fire rollers are great, too, but if the floating roller happens to be gummed up and doesn't drop against the film, the fire could ask no better highway to genuine trouble.

"Then there are the fire shutters and so-called fire 'traps.' If the machine stops, down goes the fire shutter, and no damage is done. What could be sweeter? And burning out a frame now and then won't hurt, the trap will get it before it reaches either loop. But listen—what if the film stops, but the machine keeps running? Suppose the film seemed to be in good shape, so you just slapped a reel or two over on the rewind and considered everything O. K. and there happened to be a place where the sprocket holes were A. W. O. L. for an inch on both sides. When that spot reaches friend intermittent sprocket, the film will stop, but not the machine. In fact the machine will be very busy piling up prospective trouble in the form of a two or three-foot upper loop, so that when the film in the gate goes up there will be plenty of film on hand above to entertain the fire.

"Let me tell you about a fire that happened in Atlanta not long ago. A projector of standard make was running a film which was considered in fair shape and the operator was busy at something else and expecting no trouble, but a patch pulled lose in the gate, leaving the upper part of the film exposed. That part was figured out later from the fact that there was no burnt film on the lower sprocket. No one knows to this day, how more than a frame went out—perhaps the heat buckled the film a bit, and that held the gate far enough to let the fire out. Anyway it got out, made short work of the upper loop right into the magazine and the first announcement of anything wrong came when the upper magazine blew open. A Pyrene was emptied into the magazine, but the operator realized that the job was hopeless, so grabbed the film, which was in the other machine and beat it. The rewind table was on the other side of the fire, so the reels over there had to go. All in all the total cost was 6,000 feet of film and a couple of machines. The booth was really fire tight, and a heavy iron door suspended upon a fusable cord through the top of the booth, kept the audience in ignorance of what was really going on. But the wreckage inside was enough. I wish every operator in our theatres could have seen it—there's nothing that sends home the idea of fire prevention like a view of the havoc wrought by a few thousand feet of celluloid and a good start.

"So watch this side of the business always—see that your films are under cover, and that the various fire prevention devices on the projector are in working shape. And if you have a tiny fire, kill it while it's young—it won't stay young long. The best plan is to get away from the other film; if the fire occurs at the aperture plate, break the loops and stamp out the burning ends. And if it gets away from you, save as much of the rest as you can, and then try to keep the trouble inside the booth."

For Better Projection —Better Definition—Flatter Field—Greater Contrasts—Brilliant Illumination.

BAUSCH & LOMB CINEPHOR
The New Projection Lens

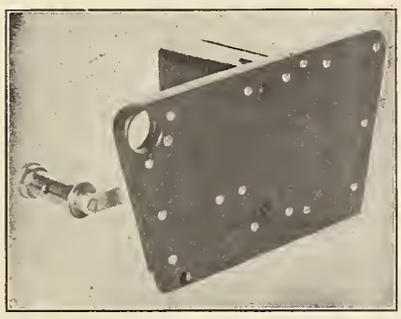
Write for interesting literature.

BAUSCH & LOMB OPTICAL CO.
St. Paul Street, Rochester, N. Y.
New York Washington Chicago San Francisco London

Leading American Makers of Photographic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Apparatus (Balopticons), Ophthalmic Lenses and Instruments, Photo-Micrographic Apparatus, Range Finders and Gun Sights for Army and Navy, Searchlight Reflectors, Stereo-Prism Binoculars, Magnifiers and other High-Grade Optical Products.

PERFECT CHANGE-OVERS EASY WHEN USING THE BEHLEN FILM SIGNAL

The Behlen Signal gives two electric warnings timed fifty feet apart. Never fails. No more worry at change-overs. Every experienced projectionist who has a pride in his profession will appreciate the Behlen Signal.



Special Offer Price
$7.50 Each

The regular price of the Behlen Film Signal is $15.00 each. We have inaugurated a ninety day, nation-wide sales campaign and expect to put hundreds of these signals in use in every part of the United States. To accomplish this purpose we have made a special price of $7.50, each.

Send a Trial Order

Mail us your remittance at once for $7.50 and a Behlen Signal will be shipped the same day via parcel post. If this signal does not meet with your entire approval after thirty days' use, return the signal and your money will be refunded. When ordering please state make of projectors used.

Powers or Simplex

When ordering Behlen Change-Over Signals please state whether you have Simplex or Powers projectors. Different models of the signals are required for each of these makes of projectors.

Behlen Signals in Every Theatre Everywhere—Our Motto for 1922

C. C. RUSH ENTERPRISES
GREENVILLE, S. C.

The New Era Organ

This pipe organ has in truth made possible a new era of music for the medium and smaller sized theatre. EVERY OWNER IS A SATISFIED OWNER.
(Write for Literature)

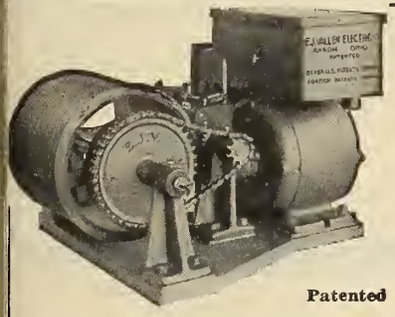
THE MARR & COLTON COMPANY, Inc. - - - WARSAW, N. Y.
Also Builders of Famous Marr & Colton Concert Organ



The Vallen Automatic Curtain Machine

Noiseless Positive
Foolproof Economical
Guaranteed

Patented

SEE OUR CATALOGUE IN SWEET'S

Necessary equipment, including track, for a straight draw curtain installation, furnished with machine without additional charge.

E J. Vallen Electrical Co.
85 So. Canal St. Akron, Ohio

BAY STATE FILM

Positive - RAW STOCK - Negative

Manufactured by BAY STATE FILM CO.
Sharon, Mass.

Distributors:
Bay State Film Sales Company, Inc.

Room 1114
220 West 42nd St.

Phones: Bryant 6808

Made in America

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 345 WEST 39TH ST. NEW YORK CITY
1044 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS, LA. 255 NO. 13TH ST., PHILADELPHIA PA. 64 W. RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

N. A. M. L. FORUM

(Continued from page 1416)

picture, which seems rather large for the theatre, if the 90 feet represents the length of the house.—EDITOR.

Gentlemen:

Like Brother Shollenberger, I have never written to the News yet but I have been reading of what the other fellows had to say with interest. I have been a member of the N. A. M. L. for going on two years. I am operating in a small town theatre and have been here for three years. I have two Simplex machines. I want to tell you that I surely have found some helpful information in the Forum and I think that every operator should belong to the League, and here's my hopes that some day some of these "Don't care how they return films" operators will get together and return them in good condition. It seems that most of them don't know how to make a patch, or else they know how and won't do it, and of course the small town operator must stand the bumps of it all. At present the best films I get are from Fox. The prints are in the finest condition. I have a few ideas at hand but I think that I have said too much now and I will wait until next time. I would be pleased if you would notify me when you get those brass league buttons, as I want one of them.

Yours truly,
PATSY CORDI,
Member Number 1516.
Victor Theatre, Derry, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I received membership card of the League this a. m. and am writing to inform you that I have changed theatres since my last letter. I am now electrician and projectionist at the Howard theatre, a combination road show and picture house, where I was employed from 1910 to 1916. This house is very well equipped for a road show house, having two type S Simplex projectors, two Kleigle spot lamps, General Electric 50-50 generator. Motor rewinder with a light under glass for inspecting film, and last but not least, the manager subscribes to the Motion Picture News, which he passes to me weekly, as I enter all interesting articles in my scrap book. The film we use here from the Paramount Exchange comes in very good condition so far and that which is bad leaves here O. K., minus punches, scratches, etc.

Will write more when I get settled.

Respectfully,
R. FREEMAN,
Member Number 1628.
Howard Theatre, 7th & T Sts., N. W., Washington, D. C.

DEAR EDITOR:

I am enclosing a membership application for my assistant, who has been very anxious to join since he has found what great things the league is doing.

I have only been a member a short time myself, but in that time I have certainly been helped by the various articles in the forum.

Projectionists:

The News will solve technical problems, gratis.

In regards to a new membership button, I certainly believe it would be the thing. As I am one of those who have joined since the old supply has been exhausted, I feel that I represent all those in the same fix when I say that we would all be willing to pay a small sum for a really worth while button.

Very truly yours,
LLOYD E. YODER,
Member No. 1562, Chief Projectionist.
Grand Theatre, Salem, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Please find enclosed my application for membership in the National anti-Misframe League. I am operator at the Alimar theatre. The Alimar is a $35,000 theatre and opened November 20th. There are 528 seats on the main floor and 222 in the balcony. It is a fine theatre for Live Oak, as there are only 500 population here. I read every copy of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS and find a lot of help in it for operators. Hoping to receive an early reply to my application,

I am yours truly,
FRED MINTER.

Dear Sir:—

Just a line to let you know that I am still alive and a league member. Have been acting as chief projectionist for Saxes Amusement Enterprises at Oshkosh, Wis., for the past month. With best regards to the League I will close, hoping to hear from you.

Very truly yours,
FRANK M. GETCHEL,
Member Number 390.
292 Main St., Oshkosh, Wis.

NATIONAL ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE PLEDGE

AS a motion picture projectionist who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the projection-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in first-class condition. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy all misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother projectionists and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Blank for New League Members

Member's Name.....

Home Address.....

Theatre.....

Name and Address of Theatre Manager.....

.....

NATIONAL ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE. N A M L

NO MORE RAZOR BLADES, WET COTTON, ETC.

To make a good joint the emulsion must be entirely removed and film properly scraped before cement is applied.

All this the OTT COMBINATION MOISTENER AND SCRAPER does to perfection

BE CONVINCED—ORDER NOW Price $1.00 by mail

OTT SALES COMPANY

524 Fifth Avenue Room 1107 New York City, N. Y.
Telephone Vanderbilt 9795
DEALERS WRITE

MINUSA
Gold Fibre Screens

HARRY M. CRANDALL'S chain of seven theatres—Washington's Foremost Amusement Enterprise—have always used Minusa Screens exclusively. Ask him why?

Samples and literature upon request

World's Largest Producers of Motion Picture Screens.

MINUSA CINE SCREEN CO. 2665 MORGAN ST. SAINT LOUIS MO.

(Continued from page 1414)

flectors behind individual lamps. These are efficient, conceal the light sources from view of the audience and prevent mixing of color. While an installation of this character is of relatively high first cost, yet the saving in power consumption due to increased efficiency of utilization soon offsets the initial investment. The future will no doubt see much more of this type of equipment in service.

At least four and preferably five circuits should be provided for the footlights, so that red, green, blue and unmodified (white light) may be available, with the fifth circuit for amber or "steel blue." The common practice is to provide red, blue, amber and white circuits, but as pointed out in the introductory articles, red, green, and blue are the primary colors and a mixture of red and green will give us the yellow or amber light. Many of the very best effects cannot be obtained if green is not available and vice-versa some of the most artistic results are secured in those theatres where the electrician or scenic artist understands the fundamental principles and uses green light in its proper place.

The footlights should be divided into at least two sections and preferably three, rather than having one circuit run the entire width of the stage. With this sectional arrangement one-half may be darkened and the other half light—one-half may be of one color and the other of some other tint. With the three section arrangement, it is evident that still greater flexibility can be secured.

Business Offerings

EXPERIENCED ORCHESTRA LEADER (Violinist), having his own accompanist and large repertoire for pictures, is open for engagement. Free to go anywhere. Could also take over full charge of theatre. Highest references. Address Marcel Verney, 62 St. John St., Quebec, Canada.

MOTION PICTURE OPERATOR, 15 years' experience, wants position where high class projection is appreciated. Can come at once. Address Barney Ludesher, 114-116 West 47th Street, care Cornell Hotel, New York City.

No. 7217 Basket filled with flowers, each $.75; per dozen, $7.50.

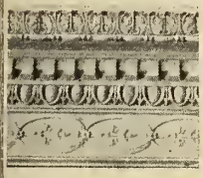
Write to-day for my SPRING CATALOGUE No. 7 of Artificial Flowers and Decorative Plants mailed FREE FOR THE ASKING.

FRANK NETSCHERT
61 Barclay St. New York, N. Y.

Plastic Relief Ornaments

Ornamental Lighting Fixtures

Distinctive Designs



We are equipped to manufacture special designs from architectural drawings. Let us estimate on your requirements.

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE

No Job Too LARGE, or Too SMALL

SERVICE QUALITY
PRICE

The National Plastic Relief Company
328 Main St., Cincinnati, Ohio

PHONE BRYANT 3605
UNIQUE SLIDE CO. INC.
Highest Quality Lantern Slides
717 SEVENTH AVE., NEW YORK.

Rebuilt Motion Picture Machines
Results—Same as new Machines

Motiograph 1002 D	-	-	$185.00
Motiograph 1002 A	-	-	165.00

Everything for the exhibitor
MONARCH THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
228 Union Avenue Memphis, Tenn.

GUARANTEED REBUILT PROJECTORS
We have a complete line of all makes Rebuilt Machines. Guaranteed by the oldest and most reliable Supply House in the Motion Picture Business.
Write today for complete list.
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
We are the oldest Supply House in the motion picture trade
746 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Write today for our latest bulletin

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service
We rent lists of or address contemplated of existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving of from 20 to 50% in postage, etc.
MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
244 West 42nd St. Phone, Bryant 8138 New York
Addressing Printing

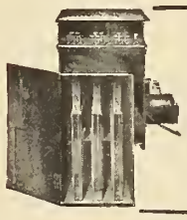
Save $300 to $1500 Annually
NEW G-E MAZDA EQUIPMENT
Foremost and Largest Distributors in the World
EASTERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.
Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

THEATRE MANAGERS ATTENTION
When in need of first class organists or piano soloists, call or write
CHICAGO MUSICAL SERVICE BUREAU
Specialising in Organists and Pianists for Motion Picture Theatres only.
We have the largest list of high class experienced organists in the country.
20 East Jackson Blvd., CHICAGO
Phone Wabash 6818



LATEST ACHIEVEMENT
In Ticket Selling Machines
THE NEW 1922
AUTOMATICKET REGISTER
Send for prices and full particulars
AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER CORPORATION
1782 Broadway New York

FOR COLOR EFFECTS USE

For 5-10 W. and 25-40 W. Lamps

Reco Hoods
Made of Natural Colored Glass
Colors show Beautiful and Brilliant and are Permanent Far Ahead of Dip and Less Costly
REYNOLDS ELECTRIC CO.
2650 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill

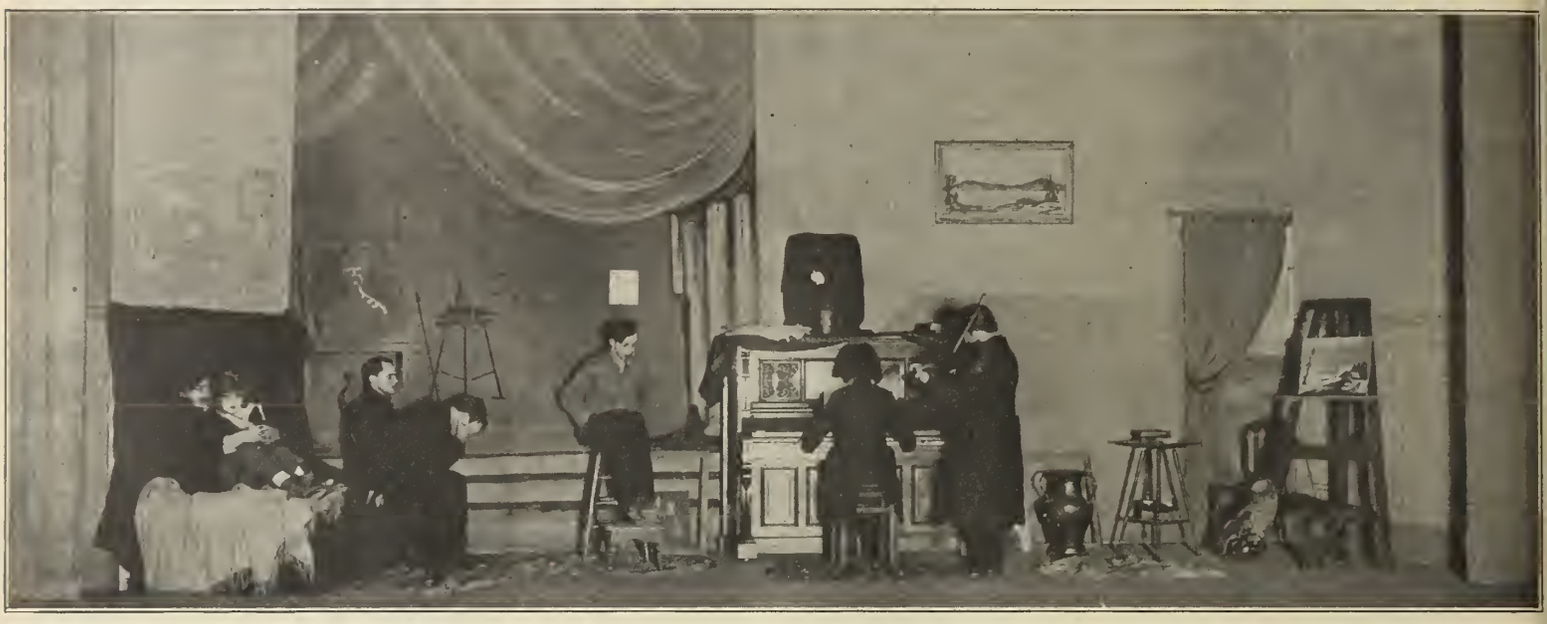
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE AND LEGITIMATE THEATRES

22166 Moving Picture by States, per M.	$5.00
1219 Film Exchanges, for List	7.50
196 Manufacturers and Studios	3.50
419 Machine and Supply Dealers	4.00
3674 Legitimate Theatres U. S. and Canada	25.00
810 Vaudeville Theatres	7.50

A. F. WILLIAMS
166 W. Adams Street Chicago

FOR BETTER MUSIC
THE FOTOPLAYER
THE AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY
64 E. JACKSON BOULEVARD, CHICAGO, ILL.
109 GOLDEN GATE AVENUE, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Music and the Picture



"The Bethoven Sonata" as reproduced in the flesh in a series of twelve musical creations based on the lives of famous composers as told by the accompanying story concerning the Kinema theatre, Los Angeles

Music for Non-Atmospheric Drama

Joseph Sainton, Detroit Broadway - Strand Conductor, Explains His Ways of Working

WHAT are you going to do with the society dream? You play more drawing-room and ball-room pictures than anything else, and how are you going to pick a musical setting for a non-atmospheric drama?

Joseph Sainton, music director of Phil Gleichman's Broadway-Strand Theatre, Detroit, has shown one way of doing it in his score of "Don't Tell Everything."

"Pictures like 'The Little Minister' and 'Forever' are easy," Sainton says. "The former is Scotch, and you can find appropriate settings in any collection of highland melodies, 'Forever' or 'Peter Ibbetson' is mid-Victorian. It is a ballad-picture. 'Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms' and 'Robin Adair' are typical of the numbers to make up accompaniment.

"But what are you going to do with a picture like 'Don't Tell Everything,' which has polo games, dances, yachts, and motors, and everything else suggestive of the era of jazz?" Mr. Sainton best answers that by the cue-sheet which he furnished THE NEWS.

Generally speaking his partitur is a combination of unfamiliar, very rare and very common themes. It varies from the vaguely suggestive to the definitely descriptive. In one place he introduces a theme which casts only an exotic spell. In another he plays music as definite as Sousa's "Under the Double Eagle" to indicate a march.

"Don't Tell Everything" is not an oddity among pictures. It has a love story. So, naturally, the interwoven melody is a love theme. It appears and re-appears from time to time. The love of the bejewelled and begowned heroine and the polo riding hero of "Don't Tell Everything" had to have a modern note. Sainton took Ted Browne's "Sighing," an excellent example of the kind of balladry Broadway composers are turning out.

So much for the theme. For the rest of the score, Mr. Sainton showed rare judgment. His picture is a spectacle meant to please. It was not a drama to envelop and control the emotions. The director, therefore, had to avoid Wagner, Chopin, Liszt, and Schubert, and keep to the lighter stuff.

There are festivities at the polo field when the picture opens, so a transparently simple jig-movement from Carl Stanley's Romantic Suite is used. The Morgan home, the well-kept estate of the heroine, is introduced to something as soothing as Bendix's Southern Reverie. This is Sainton's use of the "very familiar," "to be definitely descriptive."

The first love scene occurs at the title, "And So the Sun Stood Still," and the love motif is then introduced.

However, the tranquility of the nuptial state is marred by a singularly energetic person, the other leg of the triangle, Jessie Ramsey. Her motif, which follows her throughout, is Zoecnik, "The Moving Hour," a sprightly phrase in 2/4 time.

After a 20 minute rest period the orchestra resumes at the "dawn" scene, playing "Morning" from Gruenn's "Hero and Leander" suite. This was part of Mr. Sainton's scheme to be suggestive without being definite.

At the title "The End of a Perfect Day," Stinton uses the obvious Carrie Jacob Bond's "A Perfect Day." He knew his audience was 100 per cent. familiar with it. It was meant to be plainly descriptive.

One of the cleverest passages was the skirmish between the wife and the amorata for the man, begun under the sub-title; "The Best Generals——"

To suggest the pertness, piquancy, and sauciness of the beginning of this fight, Victor Herbert's "Badinage" was played. It was like the opening shots of a battle. Later when the contest developed in intensity a full-throated opera, "L'Oracolo," by Francisco Leoni was drawn upon. The love theme occurs several times before the end of the picture, interspersed with light ballet music. This occurrence, interruption, and recurrence made a swift and effective summary of all that went before.

Among the other selections was Frederickson's arrangement of a galop, Fiazza del Popolo; Durrand's Chaconne; Lake's "The Tempest," to indicate a storm; and Friml's "Love Song."

Kinema Copies Famous Paintings

THE Kinema Theatre, Los Angeles, is presenting a series of twelve musical interpretations based on the lives and works of great composers.

Famous paintings of musical history have been selected as the background for the presentations. A series of beautiful art slides first are shown, giving a brief history of the particular painting for that week. The composer after whom the painting was created is then shown via the slide route and the Kinema Symphonic orchestra then gives a brief selection from that particular composer. After this a slide showing the famous painting is flashed on the screen and immediately afterwards, the curtains part showing the exact replica of the canvass in the flesh.

The first of the series was patterned after the famous "Kroetzer Sonata" which features the composer Beethoven. The second was taken from the canvas "The Discovery of Handel." In both instances, the stage settings were exactly as in the canvas and the artists made up to impersonate the figures of the paintings.

The accompanying cuts show pictures of the first two of the series as they were presented on the Kinema stage.

New Operatic Stage for Hamburg

The City of Hamburg is prepared to build a new stage upon the existing auditorium of the opera house, at an expenditure of 15,000,000 marks. The present stage is said to be old-fashioned and behind the times in its technical arrangements.

Jessen's Studio Notes by Wire

FOX

All the cast with the exception of the "vamp" role have been selected for "A Fool There Was," an Emmett J. Flynn production. The cast includes Irene Rich, Mahlon Hamilton, Lewis Stone, Marjorie Daw, William V. Mong, Harry Lonsdale, Wallace Macdonald, and Muriel Frances Dana. The vampire will be chosen from the number of screen tests submitted to the Fox forces.

Lynn Reynolds is directing Tom Mix in "Clean Up Sudden." The cast includes Patsy Ruth Miller, Bert Sprotte, Sidney Jordan, Joe Harris, Al Fremont, Earl Simpson, Thomasina, the eight-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mix, who is Victoria Ford.

FIRST NATIONAL

Charles Ray's latest First National subject has been titled "Alias Julius Caesar," a golf comedy of errors. The cast includes Barbara Bedford, as the female lead, William Scott, Harvey Clark, Robert Hernandez, Carl Miller, Milton Ross, Phillip Dunham, Eddie Gribbon, Gus Thomas, Bert Afford, Tom Wilson and S. J. Bingham.

UNIVERSAL

Director Edward Laemmle, with one-hundred people, requiring fourteen passenger coaches and a freight train of baggage, left Sunday for Yermo to make scenes of the building of the Union Pacific Railroad for "The Days of Buffalo Bill." Yermo is two hundred miles northeast of Los Angeles, among deserted mining towns.

"The Golf Insect," a comedy, is being made by Craig Hutchinson with Roy Atwell and Ethel Ritchie.

Director William Watson is making "The Minute Man," with Neely Edwards.

After making the fire scenes, Reginald Barker will have completed "The Storm."

Tod Browning and Stuart Paton are working on new stories.

"That Lass o' Lowrie's" has been finished.

Malcolm Boyland took "The Peterman," starring Herbert Rawlinson, to Arizona state prison last week, where it was shown to Louis Victor Eytinge, the author, who is a life prisoner, and other prisoners.

LASKY

Rollin Sturgeon will direct "Val of Paradise," adapted by Will Ritchie from Vingie E. Rose's original story. Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels will be co-starred.

The cast supporting Agnes Ayres in "The Ordeal" includes Conrad Nagel, Edna Murphy, Clarence Burton and Edward Sutherland. Paul Powell is directing and the continuity is by Beulah Marie Dix.

"The Gilded Cage," starring Gloria Swanson under the direction of Sam Woods, will be put into production next week. David Powell will play opposite the star.

James Cruze, with the Wallace Reed company, is near Mexicali for South American scenes of "The Dictator," the Richard Harding Davis play.

Betty Compson and Director Penrhyn Stanislaws and company are coming back from four weeks in the snow at Truckee.

Alfred Green has started filming the George Ade original story, "Our Leading Citizen," starring Thomas Meighan. Lois Wilson is opposite the star and Theodore Roberts is in the cast. The continuity is by Waldemar Young.

ROACH

The final scenes for the Lloyd comedy have been photographed. The title has been changed to "Grandma's Boy." The subject will be previewed in five reels.

The Snub Pollard comedy is finishing its last single reel subject. Next week the company will start on its series of two reelers under the direction of William Beaudine.

Jean Havez has written words and music for a song on Lloyd's "Grandma's Boy."

Harold Lloyd's "A Sailor Made Man" closed an engagement at the Symphony theatre in Los Angeles last Sunday after 405 showings to approximately 150,000 people.

HERE AND THERE

Burston Films gave a preview of "According to Hoyle," starring David Butler, on Friday of last week. The supporting cast includes Helen Ferguson, Phil Ford, Harry Todd, Hal Wilson, Fred Butler and Buddy Ross. Distribution is to be handled by the Western Pictures Exploitation Company.

The Hugh B. Evans feature, with an all-star cast including Roy Steward, Marjorie Daw, Johnny Walker and Wallace Beery, has been titled "Ridin' Wild." It was directed by Robert Thornby. It is now being edited.

Goldwyn announces the purchase of the Katherine Norris story, "Sisters."

Charles Gerrard has been called to New York to play in Cosmopolitan's "When Knighthood was in Flower."

Shirley Mason as she appears in "The Ragged Heiress," a William Fox release

"Baking Better Bread" a Rothacker Film

The Rothacker practical picture division has produced a one-reel film, "Baking Better Bread," for the Washburn-Crosby Company. In a simple, yet thorough, manner the picture teaches the future brides of America just how to make delicious bread—not eventually, but right now before graduating from their present homes. It will be screened before boys and girls' bread clubs in various states and also before domestic science classes.

Striking Winter Views in Pathe News 14

From "sunny California" comes scenes of a 36-inch snowfall pictured in Pathé News No. 14 that rarely exist in parts of the United States where they would naturally be looked for in February. At Bakersfield, Cal., touring automobiles are seen "marooned" in drifts that bury all but their tops. Boy Scouts are seen hiking up mountainsides near Spokane, Wash., on snowshoes where night winds blow the mercury down to 20 degrees below zero.

Theatre Folk at Showing of Farnum Film

Players from the Lambs Club, New York, and other actor friends of William Farnum, were guests of the Fox star at a private showing of "A Stage Romance" on Wednesday evening of last week. The occasion marked the return of Mr. Farnum to the screen after nearly a year's vacation.

Among those present were William Mack, William Courtleigh, Walter Lawrence, Lionel Adams, George Hobart, Harry Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herbert, Frank Belcher, Fritz Williams, Frank Lalor, Jed Prouty, Gus Weinberg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Case, Percy Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. Nash Martinette, Jack Deveraux, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Corrigan, Jack King, Frank Mayne, Larry Evans, Mrs. Farnum, Miss Anna Belle Armstrong, Mrs. Charles Slater, Bob Middemas and Everett Shinn.

Pathe Names Releases for March 5th

PATHE announces its release schedule for week of March 5th. The list is augmented by the latest offering of the "Bill and Bob" series, titled "Mysterious Tracks." The capture of an Australian Koala bear is shown in this subject. "Sylvia of the Secret Police" is the title of the next Pathe playlet. This picture presents Irene Castle as the star. George Fitzmaurise directed.

"On the Jump" is the title of the latest re-issued one reel comedy starring Harold Lloyd. Bebe Daniels appears opposite, and "Snub" Pollard also plays a prominent part. "Pardon Me" is the current Hal Roach comedy, featuring "Snub" Pollard. Marie Mosquini appears opposite Pollard.

"The Cave of Peril" is the tenth episode of "White Eagle," starring Ruth Roland. New thrills and hazardous feats mark this chapter of the Pathe serial. "The Tiger and the Donkey" is the title of the current animated cartoon of the "Aesop's Film Fables" series.

Pathe Review No. 145 includes views of the haunts and customs of the Pueblo Indians, interesting comparative views of old New York and the city of the present day, a slow-motion novelty titled "The Family Yawn," and a Pathecolor presentation called "The Gem of the Desert."

Title of Glenn Hunter Vehicle Is Changed

Announcement has recently been made that the Tuttle-Waller production, "Apron Strings," featuring Glenn Hunter, has been retitled and will soon be released as "The Cradle Buster." Glenn Hunter, who is also appearing with Billie Burke in "The Intimate Stranger," is supported by Marguerite Courtot, William Tooker, Beatrice Morgan, Mrs. Pat Foy, Townsend Martin, Lois Blaine and Osgood Perkins. The production was directed by Frank W. Tuttle, assisted by Walter R. Sheridan, and Fred Waller, Jr., is responsible for the photography.

DeMille to Start New Subject in 3 Weeks

Cecil B. DeMille is back in Hollywood from his extensive European tour and is expected to start preparations for the production of "Manslaughter," his forthcoming Paramount picture, within the next three weeks.

Paul Iribe, art director for Cecil B. DeMille productions, who accompanied the producer on his European tour, returned at the same time. He has already consulted with Jeanie Macpherson, scenarist of "Manslaughter," on the matter of stage settings and he has announced that he plans to introduce a number of ideas acquired abroad into the art work on this Paramount picture.

COMING RELEASES

(Continued from page 1406)

SHORT SUBJECTS

Feb. 12—The Villain in Disguise (Aesop's Fables)..2/3
Feb. 5—The Fox and the Grapes (Aesop's Fables).2/3
Feb. 5—Dangerous Trails (Bill and Bob series).. 1
Jan. 29—The Miller and the Donkey (Aesop's Fables) 2/3
Jan. 22—The Bear and the Bees (Aesop's Fables)..2/3
Pathe Playlets (15 features—3 reels each).....

COMEDIES

Full of Pep (Pollard).....1
Call the Witness (Pollard).....1
Our Gang (Pollard).....1
Feb. 12—Stage Struck (Pollard).....1
Feb. 5—Blow 'Em Up (Pollard).....1
Harold Lloyd Reissues.....

NEWS REELS

Sundays—Topics of the Day.....
Wednesdays—Pathe News .....
Saturdays—Pathe News .....

PHOTOPLAY SERIALS CORP.

The Mysterious Pearl—15 episode serial starring Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber.....

PIONEER FILM CORP.

The Crimson Cross (Van Dyke Brooks).....
Beyond the Crossroads (Ora Carew).....
The Leech (Claire Whitney).....

PRIMEX PICTURES CORP.

His Pajama Girl.....5
Power 5
Your Daughter and Mine.....6
The Lonely Trail.....5
The Door That Has No Key.....6
Eternity 6
Smiles (series of 26 single reel novelty comedies).....
Twelve single reel Indian dramas.....

PRODUCERS SECURITY CORP.

The Great Alone (Monroe Salisbury).....
The Wolf's Fang (Wilfred Lytell).....5
The Bootleggers.....5
The Soul of Man..... 7
Squire Phinn 5
Welcome to Our City..... 5
Mr. Bingle 5
Mr. Potter of Texas..... 6
Irving Cummings Series..... 2
Clasy Fitzgerald Series..... 2

PYRAMID PICTURES, INC.

The Mayor's Wife (Betty Blythe).....
The Queen of the Moulin Rouge.....

ROMAYNE SUPERFILM CO.

The Toreador .....
Rigoletto .....

R-C PICTURES CORP.

The Son of the Wolf (Special Cast).....
The Bigamist (Ivy Duke).....
Gay and Devilish (Doris May).....
The Woman Breed (Pauline Frederick).....
The Glory of Clementina (Pauline Frederick).....
The Vermillion Pencil (Sessue Hayakawa).....
Boy Crazy (Doris May).....
Why Men Forget.....
The Call of Home (Special Cast).....
Feb. 19—Beyond the Rainbow (Cabanne).....

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

FRANK BRAIDWOOD SERIES
AL JENNINGS SERIES
HELEN GIBSON SERIES
FRITZI RIDGWAY SERIES
CAPITOL FILM COMPANY
NEAL HART SERIES
LESTER CUNEO SERIES

SECOND NATIONAL PICT. CORP.

Her Story (Madge Titheradge).....
Mr. Pim Passes By.....
The Night Riders.....
Brenda's Heritage .....
David and Jonathan (Madge Titheridge).....

SELZNICK (LEWIS J.) ENT.

Sink or Swim (Owen Moore).....
Reckless Youth (Elaine Hammerstein).....
The Prophet's Paradise (Eugene O'Brien).....
The Referee (Conway Tearle).....
Channing of the Northwest (Eugene O'Brien).....
A Wide Open Town (Conway Tearle).....
Love's Masquerade (Conway Tearle).....

SELECT PRODUCTIONS
WILLIAM J. FLYNN SERIES
CHAPLIN CLASSICS
SELZNICK NEWS
REPUBLIC FEATURES
SERIALS

STOREY PICTURES, INC.

Shadowland Screen Review—1 reel every 2 weeks.
Burlesque Photoplays—2 reels every month.

TRUART FILM CORPORATION

BURLINGHAM ADVENTURES

Across the St. Gothard Alps.....
A Borneo Venice.....
Island of Surprise .....
Monkey Land Up the Barito River.....
An Alpine Ride Up the Sranzerhorn.....
Jungle Belles of Borneo.....
An Arctic Hike on the Great Aletsch Glacier.....
A Wedding Feast Among the Borneo Dayaks.....
Perilous Ascent of the Zinal-Rothorn.....
Pelican Island .....

UNITED ARTISTS CORP.

Salome (Nazimova).....
Fair Lady (Special Cast).....
The Ruling Passion (George Arliss).....
A Doll's House (Nazimova).....

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGES

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

Under Two Flags (Priscilla Dean).....
Human Hearts (House Peters).....
The Storm (Special Cast).....
Peterman (Herbert Rawlinson).....
Mar. 13—The Wise Kid (Gladys Walton).....
Mar. 6—Wild Honey (Priscilla Dean).....
Mar. 6—Tracked to Earth (Frank Mayo).....
Feb. 27—The Golden Gallows (Miss Dupont).....
Man to Man (Harry Carey).....
Feb. 13—Headin' West (Hoot Gibson).....5

SERIALS

The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Harry Myers)
With Stanley in Africa.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Geo. Walsh and Louise Lorraine)
Winners of the West.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Art Acord)

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Jan. 1, 1922—Foolish Wives (Stroheim).....

COMEDIES

Mutts (Century).....2
Beware (Star).....1
A Movie Mix-Up (Star).....1
Peggy, Behave! (Century).....2
Upper and Lower (Century).....2
The Bottle Baby (Star).....1
A One Horse Town (Century).....2

UNIVERSAL DRAMAS

The Girl of the West (La Plante-Lincoln).....2
Trickery (Dorothy Woods-Hal Goodwin).....2

NEWS AND MAGAZINE REELS

Tuesdays—International News..... 1
Fridays—International News 1
Fridays—New Screen Magazine (Universal)..... 1

VITAGRAPH EXCHANGES

FEATURES

The Shangraun (Pauline Starke).....
The Man Hunter (William Duncan).....
The Sheik's Wife (Special Cast).....
Gypsy Passion (Special Cast).....
The Magnificent Ambersons (Jean Paige).....
The Man From Downing Street (Earle Williams)....
Island Wives (Corinne Griffith).....
The Prodigal Judge (Jean Paige).....
Flower of the North (Henry B. Walthall).....

COMEDIES

The Show (Larry Semon).....
A Charmed Life (Jimmy Aubrey).....
The Sawmill (Larry Semon).....

SERIALS

Breaking Through .....
(Starring Carmel Myers and Wallace MacDonald)

WARNER BROS.

Your Best Friend (Vera Gordon).....
School Days (Wesley Barry).....

SERIALS

Shadows of the Jungle.....15 episodes
Miracles of the Jungle.....15 episodes

MONTY BANKS COMEDIES

(One released every month)

WID GUNNING, INC.

White Hands (Hobart Bosworth).....

POST NATURE SERIES

(One Every Two Weeks)

SHORT SUBJECTS

A Bear, a Boy and a Dog.....2053 ft.
Puppy Days..... 959 ft.
Robinson Crusoe Hours..... 966 ft.
The Good Things of Life.....
(Weekly Single Reel Release)

WESTERN FEATURE PROD., INC.

A Western Demon (Wm. Fairbanks).....
Hell's Border (Wm. Fairbanks).....

SHORT SUBJECTS

(Continued from page 1405)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length Reviewed
Juggernauts of the Jungle (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Jungle Goddess, The (Serial)		Exp. & Imp.-S. R.	15 episodes. Feb. 4
King of the Circus (Serial), Eddie Polo		Universal	18 episodes
Lake Maggiore (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Last Hops, The (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel....Sept. 3
Leather Pushers, The (Drama)		Universal	2 reels....Jan. 28
Let's Go—To the South Seas (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel.....Dec. 10
Life History of Frogs and Toads (Educ.)		Kineto Review	1 reel....June 11
Liquid Gold (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Lochinvar of the Line (Drama), Edgar Jones.		Pathe	2 reels
Long Live the King (Mutt and Jeff Cartoon)		Fox	1 reel
Lorraine of the Timberlands (West. Dr.), Tom Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels...Oct. 8
Lost a Yodel (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Major Jack Allen Wild Animal Pict. (Adven.)		Pathe	1 reel
Mountain Lion (Bill and Bob Series)		Pathe	1 reel....Aug. 20
Movie Chats		National Ex.	1 reel
Music in the Air (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel....Aug. 20
My Lady of the Pines (W. Dr.), Mary Astor.		Pathe	2 reels...Sept. 10
Ne'er to Return Road (Dr.), Wallace Berrey.		Educational	? reels...Oct. 8
Neighbor Nelly (Romance)		Prizma	1 reel....Jan. 28
Netting the Leopard (Wild Animal)		Pathe	1 reel....Sept. 24
New Wine in Old Bottles (Educational)		Educational
Nice and Cannes (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel....Oct. 1
Night Attack, The (Drama)		Universal	2 reels....Feb. 18
No More Gasoline (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Northern Trail, The (Drama)		Educational	2 reels
Old and New England (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel.....Dec. 10
Old Dynamite (Special)		Universal	2 reels....Dec. 3
Old Moose Trails (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Painters' Frolic, The (Mutt and Jeff Cartoon)		Fox	1 reel....Aug. 20
Pageantry in India (Scenic)		Kineto
Panama (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Pathe Review No. 120		Pathe	1 reel....Sept. 10
Pigs and Kava (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Policeman and the Baby, The (Drama)		Educational	2 reels
Polo (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Primitive Life in Tennessee (Scenic)		Kineto	1 reel.....Feb. 4
Purple Riders, The (Serial), Joe Ryan		Vitagraph	15 episodes. May 7
Pyrenees and Wooden Legs (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Ranger's Reward, The (Drama) Art Acord		Educational	1 reel....Feb. 18
Ranger, The (Scenic)		Sunset-Burrud	1 reel.....Feb. 11
Quaint Holland (Scenic)		Universal	2 reels
Roaring Waters (West. Drama), Geo. Larkin.		Universal	2 reels...Sept. 27
Ropin' Fool, A (Will Rogers, W. Dr.)			2 reels....Nov. 26
Roping the Black Panther (Wild Animal)		Pathe	1 reel
Rural Java (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Santa Fe—The City Different (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Science at Home (Kineto Review)		National Ex.	1 reel
Secret of Butte Ridge, The (W. Dr.), T. Sanchi.		Pathe	2 reels....Feb. 4
Seeing San Marino (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Seven League Booters (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Seville in Fair Time (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
So This is London (Scenic)		Prizma	1 reel.....Feb. 4
Spirit Wrestlers (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel.....Aug. 6
Stamboul (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Striking Tires, The (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	1 reel
Strolling Minstrels (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel.....Oct. 29
Sweet Heart (Western Drama), Billy West.		Joan Film	2 reels
Terror Trail (Serial), Eileen Sedgwick		Universal	18 episodes
Texas of the Mounted (Drama)		Texas Guinan	2 reels....Nov. 13
Thrills (Sport Topic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Too Much Overhead (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Trip of U. S. S. Idaho (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Trip Through Film Land, A (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	2 reels...Dec. 31
Vegetarians (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Village Life in Switzerland (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Wanderlust (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Wanted, an Elevator		Educational	1 reel
Was Darwin Right? (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Watching the Wayands (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Water Babies (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
White Mouse, The (Drama) Lewis Stone		Educational	2 reels....Nov. 5
Wild Men of Borneo (Adventure)		State Rights
Wings of the Border (Western Drama)		Pathe	2 reels
Winners of the West (Serial), Art Accord		Universal	18 episodes Oct. 1
With Stanley in Africa (Serial) George Walsh.		Universal	18 ep'sdes. Feb. 11
Young Painter, The		Hodkinson	1 reels

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

Simplex

Representative Theatres Everywhere

choose

SIMPLEX PROJECTORS

Here Are A Few Recent Installations:

GOTHAM THEATRE
3,000 SEATS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

STATE THEATRE
1,800 SEATS
COLUMBUS, OHIO

$2,500,000

LAFAYETTE SQUARE THEATRE

4,000 SEATS

BUFFALO, N. Y.

HARVEY THEATRE
2,000 SEATS
WOODLAWN, PA.

ATHENS THEATRE
1,000 SEATS
DE LAND, FLA.

$1,000,000

POLI THEATRE
WATERBURY, CONN.

IMPERIAL THEATRE
1,300 SEATS
ASHEVILLE, N. C.

KINGSBRIDGE THEATRE
1,600 SEATS
NEW YORK, N. Y.

MERIT WINS!

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317-29 East 34th St.--New York

Rothacker-Aller Laboratories, Inc.
Hollywood, California

Anita Stewart
in
"A Question of Honor"

Louis B. Mayer presents
Fascinating Anita Stewart
In "A Question of Honor."
Directed by Edwin Carewe.

A Ruth Cross story adapted
By Josephine Quirk—Art
Titles by Frank F. Greene—
Technical Director, B. Darling.

Edwin Carewe direction—
Robert B. Kurrle photography—
Mayer-made, with First National Exploitation.

Rothacker Prints.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

Founded 1910
by
Watterson R. Rothacker

MARCH 11, 1922

Motion Picture News

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Dominates the Field

BOOKING GUIDE

Exhibitor Comments, Not Ours:

"Best asset my desk has ever seen."

H. J. Ludeke,
Ludeke Theatre,
St. Peter, Minn.

"Enclosed find one dollar for next two copies. I should not want to miss them."

Winderman & Jacobson,
Whitehouse Theatre,
2 Hipple Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Next Issue Out in March—
Covers Preceding Six Months—
ALL Pictures—Full Treatment—
Indispensable to the SMALL HOUSE

SEE PAGE 1496

VOL. XXV No. 12 — Entered as Second Class Matter, October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879 — PRICE 20 CENTS

Published Weekly—$3.00 a year

Los Angeles — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Chicago

Success,

comes with

"Determination"

The sensation of 1922

LEE-BRADFORD

701 7TH AVE.

BIGGER — than the seven wonders of the world

The Temple of the Hermit in "The Mistress of the World" is twenty-seven feet higher than the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

The set representing the Great Wall of China covers more territory than the Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

The secret Treasure Room of the Queen of Sheba is larger than the Temple of Diana.

The Temple of Ophir is larger in all its dimensions than the Great Pyramid.

The arena in which the steel-melting machine is demonstrated seats 7,000 more people than the Coliseum of Rome.

The underground tunnel is longer than the Catacombs of Alexandria.

The statue of the Sacred Dog of China is more enormous than the ancient Colossus of Rhodes.

FOUR mighty motion pictures representing the summit of cinema achievement.

In spectacle, in thrill, in number of persons engaged, in money and time spent, these pictures dwarf every other entertainment in the history of the world.

Each one is complete in itself, and forms a full evening's entertainment.

No. 1 "The Dragon's Claw"
No. 2 "The Race for Life"
No. 3 "The City of Gold"
No. 4 "Saved by Wireless"

From the novel by Carl Figdor.
Directed by Joe May

Hamilton Theatrical Corporation presents

"The MISTRESS of THE WORLD"

with MIA MAY

A series of four
Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, President
NEW YORK CITY

UFA PRODUCTION

Paramount's
Tenth Birthday
1912 MARCH IS THE MONTH 1922
SUN. MON. TUE. WED. THU. FRI. SAT.
1 2 3 4
5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18
19 22 23 24 25
30 31

4708 exhibitors have already made their bookings for Paramount's Anniversary Month.

They know that March will be the biggest month in the history of the industry.

And they want to get their share of the profits.

Every man, woman and child in the country knows all about this birthday celebration.

Newspaper advertising in 904 cities has told them about it.

Three full pages in the Saturday Evening Post have told them about it.

Five million souvenir booklets have told them about it.

It's not too late to get your share!

Make your bookings now!

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR President
NEW YORK CITY

WHY?

Does W. C. QUIMBY, Proprietor of the Jefferson Theatre, Fort Wayne, Ind.

show

Paramount Pictures

HERE'S WHY!

Here are Some Current

Paramount Pictures

CECIL B. DEMILLE'S "Fool's Paradise"
By Beulah Marie Dix and Sada Cowan. Suggested by Leonard Merrick's story "The Laurels and the Lady."

ELSIE FERGUSON and WALLACE REID in "Peter Ibbetson" ("Forever")
A GEORGE FITZMAURICE production. Based on the novel by George Du Maurier and the play by John Nathan Raphael. Scenario by Ouida Bergere.

GLORIA SWANSON in "Her Husband's Trademark"
By Clara Beranger. Directed by Sam Wood. Scenario by Lorna Moon.

GEORGE MELFORD'S "Moran of the Lady Letty," with Dorothy Dalton. Cast includes Rodolph Valentino.
By Frank Norris. Scenario by Monte M. Katterjohn.

"ONE GLORIOUS DAY" with Will Rogers and Lila Lee
By Walter Woods and A. B. Barringer. Scenario by Walter Woods. Directed by James Cruze.

POLA NEGRI in "The Red Peacock," UFA Production

BETTY COMPSON in "The Green Temptation"
From the story by Constance Lindsay Skinner. Directed by William D. Taylor. Scenario by Monte M. Katterjohn and Julia Crawford Ivers.

WALLACE REID in "The World's Champion"
From the play "The Champion" by A. E. Thomas and Thomas Louden. Scenario by J. E. Nash. Directed by Philip E. Rosen.

WAY back in the Stone Age of the Motion Picture business I bought "The Prisoner of Zenda," starring James K. Hackett. This was one of the very first Famous Players productions.

The salesman assured me that I could charge advance prices for this attraction. So I doubled my prices, for the first time, and—I was fined one hundred dollars and costs for overcrowding my theatre!

From that day to the present I have used all the Paramount Pictures released, and they have at all times been the solid foundation of my business.

There is a "well-tailored" atmosphere in Paramount Pictures which makes them distinctive. The quality is consistent. They please patrons who are always half sold in advance by the national advertising campaign.

I have dealt with the Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, Indianapolis and Detroit exchanges, and in all these years of business association I have always received the fairest treatment and an almost perfect service.

These are the reasons why I show Paramount Pictures.

(Signed) W. C. QUIMBY,
Proprietor Jefferson Theatre, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, President
NEW YORK CITY

What the "Weekly Film Review" says about "CARDIGAN"

AMERICAN HAS GREAT INITIAL RELEASE IN "CARDIGAN."

The American Releasing Corporation has picked an eminently worthy initial release in "Cardigan," a Messmore Kendall production based on the novel by Robert W. Chambers.

"Cardigan" is a good picture, interpreted by a good cast, enjoying the foundation of a good story, with the embellishment of beautiful settings. But "Cardigan" stands apart because it is the first all-American patriotic historical drama. The author has chosen a momentous epoch in American history—the beginning thereof—that trying period when our forefathers chafing under English tyranny, laid the foundation for liberty and freedom with that first fervid resistance of the British Regulars at Lexington. And the story by that same token will be recognized as an American classic. There could be no more fitting moment for it to reach the market—with reformers decrying the industry and the people who are a part of it, with proponents of censorship equally ready to apply the scissors or the torch, it is good to find a picture at once delightfully entertaining, wholesomely pleasing, nobly dramatic, and historically correct.

EDITORIAL FROM "WEEKLY FILM REVIEW"— ATLANTA

Messmore Kendall
presents

CARDIGAN

The First American Historical Production
From the Famous Novel by
ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
Directed by John W. Noble

The romantic story of a youth and a maid drawn by chance into the dramatic struggle for American Independence

American
RELEASING CORPORATION
WALTER E. GREENE, President F. B. WARREN, Vice-President

15 W. 44th St. N.Y.C.—Phones: Vanderbilt 7078-9

MESSMORE KENDALL'S PRODUCTION

CARDIGAN

(American Releasing Corporation)

VIVID AMERICAN HISTORCIAL DRAMA.

Michael Cardigan	William Collier, Jr.
Silver Heels	Betty Carpenter
Sir William Johnson	Thomas Cummings
Walter Butler	William Pike
Lord Dunmore	Charles E. Graham

Here at last is a vivid and powerful story of the birth of American freedom! And it is a classic that will take rank with the historical dramas that endure for all time. When Robert W. Chambers wrote "Cardigan" he built a glowing piece of fiction upon a vital foundation of history; he verified incidents and played strictly to fact whenever a question of history was involved. The result is an authentic document, and a dramatic one. D. W. Griffith immortalized a period of American history with his matchless "The Birth of a Nation," and because he represented without prejudice and without bitterness the issues at stake and the means by which two warring factions sought satisfaction, his picture to this day has not found an equal in the hearts of American people.

"Cardigan" goes back even further and visualizes the most momentous step in America's development—her stand for liberty and freedom, her defiance of British tyranny! And while the big historical situations give vast momentum and burning impetus to the production, there is the tender romance which runs through the story—the honorable love of Michael Cardigan, son of the forests, for Felicity Warren, called "Silver Hells" by the Indians. There are inspiring scenes where the noble Chief of the Cayugas comes in sorrow before his white brothers to ask justice for his people.

The production abounds in action; in swift moving incident; the growing distrust of the Colonists for the Royalists; the oppression that brought defiance, and war, and finally freedom.

The famous midnight ride of Paul Revere is made an integral and very vital part of the story; we see the organization of the Minute Men, little bands who pledged themselves to stand ready at a minute's notice to rise up for their country.

The magic password, "God save our country," distinguished the Colonist, whose first love was for America, from the Royalist, who of an unscrupulous king, continued to say, "God save our king."

It is history animated by drama, and drama charged with colorful romance, and romance fired by patriotism. It is amazing that so much could have been crowded into seven reels. That single picture contains more history than the average reader would cover in weeks.

"Cardigan" is destined to become a classic of the screen because every patriotic American will love it. It shows the splendid spirit that dominated American manhood in those days of unequal strength and uncertain allegiance. Michael Cardigan, even his boyhood days, disclosed the finer fibre of which the race is made. He is the ideal of American boyhood—brave, courageous, honorable, reverent and tender.

William Collier, Jr., makes an admirable Cardigan, fulfilling every requirement of the youthful hero and proving likewise capable of the heavier part later on. Betty Carpenter is an appealing Felicity—at times provocative, demure, aggressive, but at heart sweet, womanly and lovable. The entire supporting cast is above the average.

Next to William Collier and Betty Carpenter, credit for excellent delineation must go to William Pike, who has the unlovely role of Walter Butler, and to Charles E. Graham, who discloses a Lord Dunmore ready to betray the Colonists to their enemies.

April Sixteenth Begins

A Week of Unusual Interest For YOU

It is Educational Pictures Week for thousands of motion picture theatres on this continent.

Progressive exhibitors all over the United States and Canada will run from April 16 to 23 many of Educational's short subjects to give you unusually diversified and well-balanced programs.

Many of the greatest showmen will present short-subject programs made up exclusively of the quality short subjects for which Educational is famous. Thoughtful exhibitors will select from this list:

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

"TORCHY" COMEDIES

MERMAID COMEDIES

CAMPBELL COMEDIES

"SCENICS BEAUTIFUL"
and
WILDERNESS TALES
By Robert C. Bruce

SKETCHOGRAFS-CARTOONS
By Julian Ollendorff

KINOGRAMS-NEWS WEEKLY

and specials like

THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND

All the above motion pictures are advertised in theatre entrances by posters and lobby cards displaying our trade-mark of guaranteed entertainment quality.

When you see it

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Go in---
It's the Sign of a Well-Balanced Program!

EDUCATIONAL
FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E. W. Hammons, President

THIS AD

will appear Thursday,
April 13th, in

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

It announces

EDUCATIONAL PICTURES WEEK

April 16—23 to

12,000,000 PEOPLE

WE will give FREE to any exhibitor a striking one-sheet poster that links up with our National Advertising, and that will help you get your portion of these 12,000,000 patrons into your Theatre.

ASK OUR NEAREST BRANCH NOW

to send you this FREE poster.

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U. S. Pat Off.

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E. W. Hammons, President

What would it mean to your box-office for your leading newspaper to publish FREE ads like this?

Not simply a single display, but a complete campaign before the picture is shown and during its run—

Backed by columns of prominently displayed and FRONT PAGE publicity that will direct every reader's attention to your theatre—

Because it is a tie-up with "GRAND LARCENY," Goldwyn's sensational society drama that newspapers will welcome.

Would this ad-and more like it interest you? Read it carefully.

"A Woman Who Can Be Stolen From One Man— Can Be Stolen From Another"

Her husband found Kathleen in the arms of his friend. Yet there was no wrong of hers.

Annixter would not listen and drove her to Clive with that warning—that suspicion.

She married the other man, but her first husband's words magnified every act of hers until he was crazed with jealousy.

Then the second husband found her alone with the first—accused her—just as unjustly.

These were the two men who had sworn to cherish her—She turned to the door—

One of them asked:

"And then will you come back to him—or to me?"

And she answered:

"WHO KNOWS?"

So the film story ends. What became of Kathleen? Did she find a career—make her own way? Did she find another—a trusting love? Or did she accept a plea of forgiveness—and from which of them?

The Evening Sun

Offers $200 for a Sequel to this Picture

There are no conditions except that the Sequels must be limited to 500 words and must reach the Evening Sun office before Monday, March 3rd.

$100 will be paid for the best answer, $50 to the second, etc. Write on one side of the paper only and carefully print your name on the first sheet.

In the meantime read the stories appearing daily in the Evening Sun. They may help you.

Address all replies to "WHO KNOWS?" Editor, the Evening Sun.

GOLDWYN presents

GRAND LARCENY

by ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE directed by WALLACE WORSLEY

with ELLIOTT DEXTER and CLAIRE WINDSOR

See it at Empire Theatre starting Monday

Read the details of this big idea on next 2 pages!

It's a big money-making idea
Tie up this publicity with

1

Send to your Goldwyn Exchange for Service Book and Contest Press Sheet. Study them both carefully.

You cannot yourself effectively sell anything until you yourself are convinced of its worth.

Better still, if you will arrange to see "Grand Larceny"—you will surely be filled with enthusiasm.

THEN

2

Then go to the editor of the livest newspaper in your city—assure him that you have the most amazing photo-drama ever shown.

Tell him the story—with the emphasis on the ending.

Point out that you are not asking him to give you something free, but sharing an idea that will stimulate his circulation as well as your attendance.

NEXT

Newspapers are seeking ideas like this
They realize its reader interest value

With only average advertising and ordinary effort, "Grand Larceny" is an exceptional box office magnet.

With its amazing story and sensational ending advertised by you at their face value, "Grand Larceny" should be your greatest success of months.

But with your leading newspaper behind it—giving the sort of publicity money could not buy, you have the exploitation opportunity of years.

Write your GOLDWYN Exchange today fo vith a real picture sensation.

GOLDWYN'S "Grand Larceny"

3

Suggest that his paper conduct a contest offering prizes for the best answer.

Prizes are the only outlay. Ample material is supplied by Goldwyn to start it. The hundreds of replies will carry it on.

Ask the paper to announce the contest a few days before your showing — the prize award at its end.

Never fear that the paper will fail to see the reader appeal.

HERE IT IS

"WHO KNOWS?" WEEK can be made the Big Week of the Season for the Theatre Manager Who Knows Outstanding Picture and Exploitation Values.

It's an idea that is bringing such returns that Goldwyn wants all showmen to share it.

4

KATHLEEN VAUGHN had been raised a hothouse flower — wondrously beautiful.

EVEN AFTER SHE MARRIED she craved admiration — innocently enough.

JOHN ANNIXTER neglected her for business, and his blindness and her trust opened the way for another.

SHE WAS THE INNOCENT victim of a trick — her husband would not listen — drove her into eager, waiting arms.

SO SHE MARRIED BARRY CLIVE — with Annixter's warning: "A woman who can be stolen from one man can be stolen from another."

CLIVE NEVER FORGOT. Crazing suspicion magnified each act of hers. When he found her with Annixter HE accused. With arms outstreched they watched her leave them both.

?

ONE OF THEM asked: "And then will you come back to me — or to him?" On the threshold she replied:

"Who Knows?"

What Did Kathleen Do?

Did she make her own way in the world of business?

Did she find another whom she loved — and who really trusted her?

Or did she return to one of them — to which?

Then Follow the Details of the Contest as Arranged by the Paper.

pecial "Grand Larceny" Contest Press Sheet

A Godsend

Two Big Winners wh

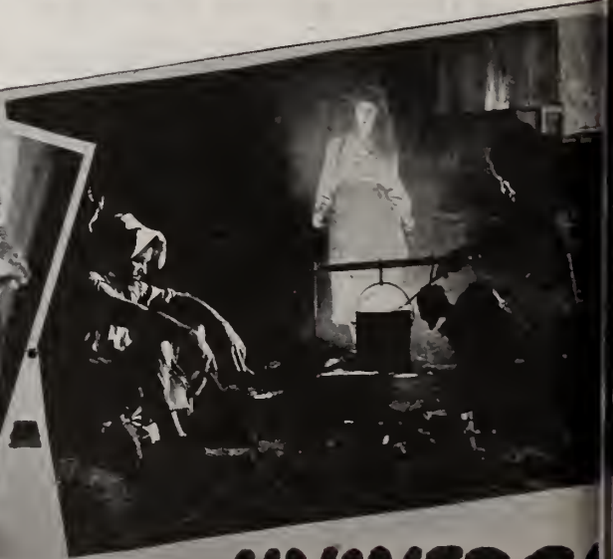
ONE IS A SMASHING big picture of adventure an romance with the world's most dynamic actress an your best box office bet—PRISCILLA DEAN—in th star's role. You wanted—have got to have—BI STUFF! Here it is—book it NOW and stop worrying

CARL LAEMMLE offers

PRISCILLA DEAN

IN

"WILD HONEY"



Story by CYNTHIA STOCKLEY

Directed by WESLEY RUGGLES

de Luxe UNIVERSA to Exhibitors

ney're Needed Most!

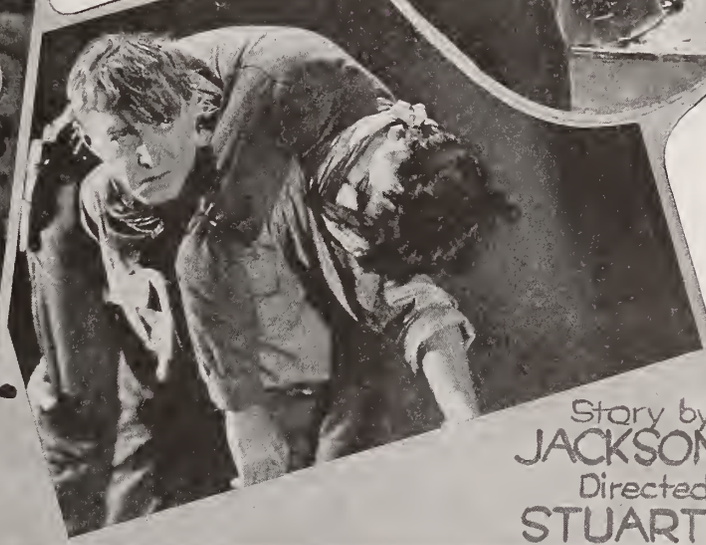
THE OTHER is a terrific drama of adventure in the Far West, with the greatest Western hero the screen knows in the leading role. HARRY CAREY, star of the box office knockout, "The Fox," has made another bigger and better picture. Book it NOW—and stop worrying!

CARL LAEMMLE offers

HARRY CAREY

IN

"MAN to MAN"



JEWEL de Luxe

Story by JACKSON GREGORY

Directed by STUART PATON

Carl Laemmle presents

"The Adventures of ROBINSON CRUSOE"

The World's Most Marvelous Chapter-Play

NEVER in screen history has there been so sure a bet as this—the picture of the story that everybody in the whole world knows—and when we say this we include the best and biggest theatres in the land. Get clean rid of the idea that your grown-up audiences won't like this because it has the name of a serial. This is not a serial—it is a Chapter Play—a Continued Feature—cast, storied and staged with exactly and precisely the same care and lavish expenditure as a Jewel Production. See your Universal Exchange now as to viewing the first episodes. Featuring—

HARRY MYERS
as "Crusoe," with Noble Johnson
as "Friday," supported by Josef Swickard
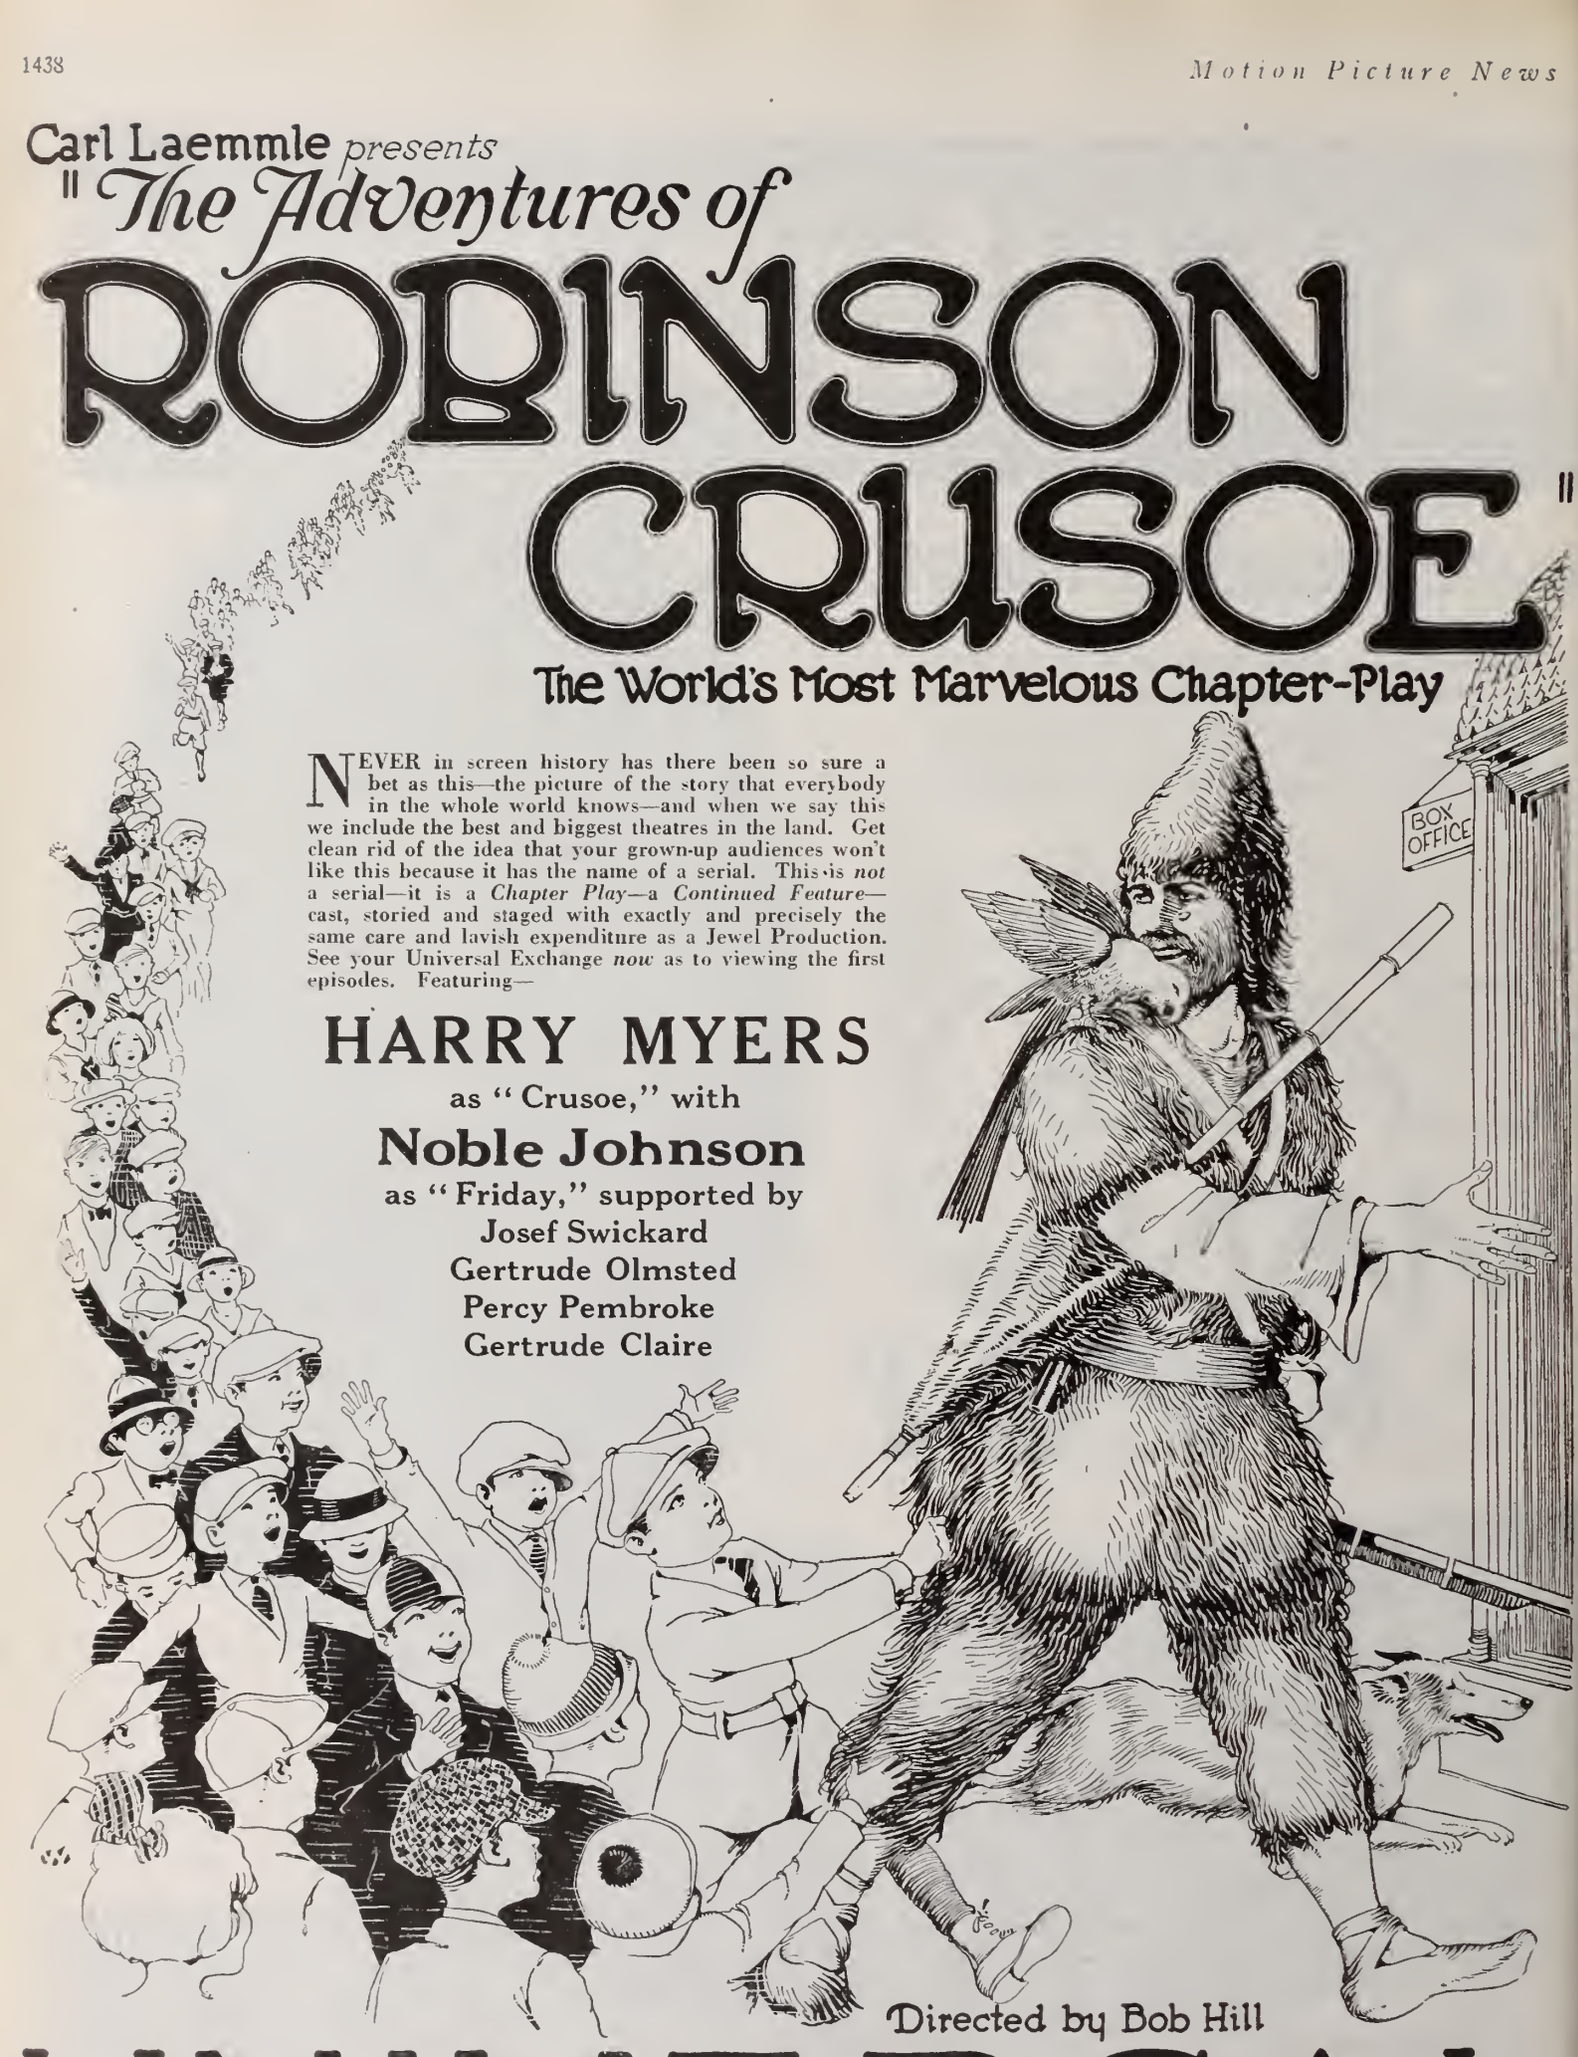
Gertrude Olmsted
Percy Pembroke
Gertrude Claire



Directed by Bob Hill

UNIVERSAL

FROM
ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
DISTRIBUTED THROUGH PATHÉ EXCHANGE.

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVE FOR ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
SIDNEY GARRETT

FOR MR. EXHIBITOR RUSH!

"HANDLE WITH CARE"

CONTENTS — GRACE DARMOND,
HARRY MYERS, JAMES W. MORRISON,
PATSY RUTHMILLER, WILLIAM COURTLEIGH,
LANDERS STEVENS AND WILLIAM AUSTIN
IN A COMEDY DRAMA FULL OF MIRTH AND GUARANTEED BOX OFFICE APPEAL.

AN AL AND RAY ROCKETT PRODUCTION

Leah Baird Productions Inc. presents

"Don't Doubt

With Leah Baird

An intimate drama of married life, portraying with vital power the pettiness of jealousy, the folly of stubbornness and the evil of doubt. Directed by James W. Horne and played by an all-star Cast. A wonderful entertainment for men and women alike.

Your Wife„

A Woman's Problem and a Man's Solution!
A feature throbbing with public interest!
An attraction with a tremendous box office pull!

Distributed by Associated Exhibitors through Pathé Exchange, Inc.

Foreign Representative for Associated Exhibitors
Sidney Garrett

Franchise Features

The Clark-Cornelius Franchise is meeting with unprecedented success

Emile Chautard's
"LIVING LIES"

Adapted from Arthur Somers Roche's Saturday Evening Post Story and Produced by Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, producers of "The Miracle Man."

Back of this picture is all of the great advertising value of the Saturday Evening Post, the genius of Emile Chautard and a picture that has the elements of a great success.

George Cheseboro

in a series of eight

NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE PRODUCTIONS

Eight big wholesome stories wonderfully produced by Milburn Morante and seething with the action and atmosphere of the forests of the great northwest. They represent a quality of amusement that has a wide appeal.

Leo Maloney

in a series of twelve, two reel

TEXAS RANGER FEATURES

The success of this series throughout the country has known no equal for short subject material. Mr. Maloney is considered the peer of horsemen and delineators of western roles.

These and eleven other features are included in the unusual Clark-Cornelius Franchise proposition for independent buyers.

CLARK-CORNELIUS CORPORATION
117 West 46th Street New York City

A Stupendous Production entirely surrounded by mammoth audience value

"THE ISLE OF ZORDA"

JULES VERNE'S

Mystery Novel adapted from "Mathias Sandorf"

Pathépicture

TRADE MARK

"THE ISLE OF ZORDA"

FIRES
the Blood!

THRILLS
the Heart!

PRESENTED BY LOUIS NALPAS

Pathépicture

JULES VERNE'S

Mystery Novel
Adapted from "Mathias Sandorf"

Supreme!

Because

1. Jules Verne's name is known to every reader of fiction.
2. The "Isle of Zorda" is a Monte Cristo tale with the throb of romance and the thrill of adventure.
3. It has the most sensational escape from a prison, set on the pinnacle of a precipice.
4. It has the lure of Oriental intrigue and the charm of beautiful women.
5. It is gay with the revelry of Monte Carlo. Its luxury and lavishness is matchless.
6. It has a slave market scene that is the acme of French artistry.
7. Its dramatic climaxes are peak high and the acting is peerless.

Book it for a Long Run!

CROWD your Lobby!

EXPLOIT this Special!

Pathépicture

TRADE MARK

DIRECTED BY HENRI FESCOURT

"THE ISLE OF ZORDA"

JULES VERNE'S

Mystery Novel

Speaks the language your box-office loves to hear.

Pathépicture

TRADE MARK

Distinctive Productions, Incorporated presents

GEORGE ARLISS

in

"The Ruling Passion"

From Earl Derr Biggers' story in "The Saturday Evening Post"
Harmon Weight Director — — — — Forrest Halsey, Scenarist
Harry A. Fischbeck, Photographer — Clark Robinson, Art Director

Six reels of continuous chuckling with a genuine laugh every little while — The inimitable George Arliss supported by an all-star cast — A story of youth, love, and mirth that sparkles with wit and humor.

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION

MARY PICKFORD • CHARLIE CHAPLIN • DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS • D.W GRIFFITH

HIRAM ABRAMS • PRESIDENT

Why?

has

SECOND NATIONAL PICTURES CORPORATION

in an exceedingly brief period become one of the

MOST IMPORTANT

Distributing Concerns in the Country?

Why?

The Quality of Entertainment
Provided by

"THE NIGHT RIDERS"
"HER STORY"
"DAVID AND JONATHAN"

is

Why.

Second National Pictures Corp.

140 West 42nd Street New York

SELZNICK PICTURES
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

S-h-h--!

NOT SO LOUD!!!

We've told you before that the current series of Constance Talmadge Revivals comprised the six greatest pictures ever made by this talented comedy star. Public opinion everywhere supports this claim. And now another straight tip:--"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" is by far the greatest of the six. Get us? You bet you do, and you'll do well to clinch the booking for an early date

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
presents

CONST TALMA

IN

"MRS. LEFFINGWELL'S BOOTS"

From the Play by Augustus Thomas--Directed by Walter Edwards

WHY?

Motion Picture News since the first of the year has carried exactly 120 more pages of paid advertising than its nearest competitor——

149¼ more pages than the next competitor——.

And 189 more pages than the third competitor.

THE REASON?

The NEWS delivers RESULTS!

That's the answer—and whole answer in a nutshell.

And, year in and year out, the shrewdest advertising men in the business attest the soundness of this claim by placing the greatest volume of their advertising appropriation in the pages of the NEWS.

The News Alone Covers the Field

A story that has everything together with a big star

Heart Interest

William Fox presents

DUSTIN FARNUM

in

IRON TO GOLD

Suspense

Thrills

Delicious Comedy

Novelty

The romance of a square man with a price on his head~

STORY BY George Owen Baxter
DIRECTED BY Bernard Durning

FOX

The Fox Exchange
News for you

SALES

beginning March 1st

Big Special

OVER THE HILL

SHAME with John Gilbert

THE LAST TRAIL
William Farnum in

PERJURY

QUEEN OF SHEBA

FOX
INDEPENDENCE & STRENGTH

Wire, Write or call

Manager has regarding a new POLICY

for the Nine Pictures:

THUNDERCLAP with Mary Carr

A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT

FOOTFALLS

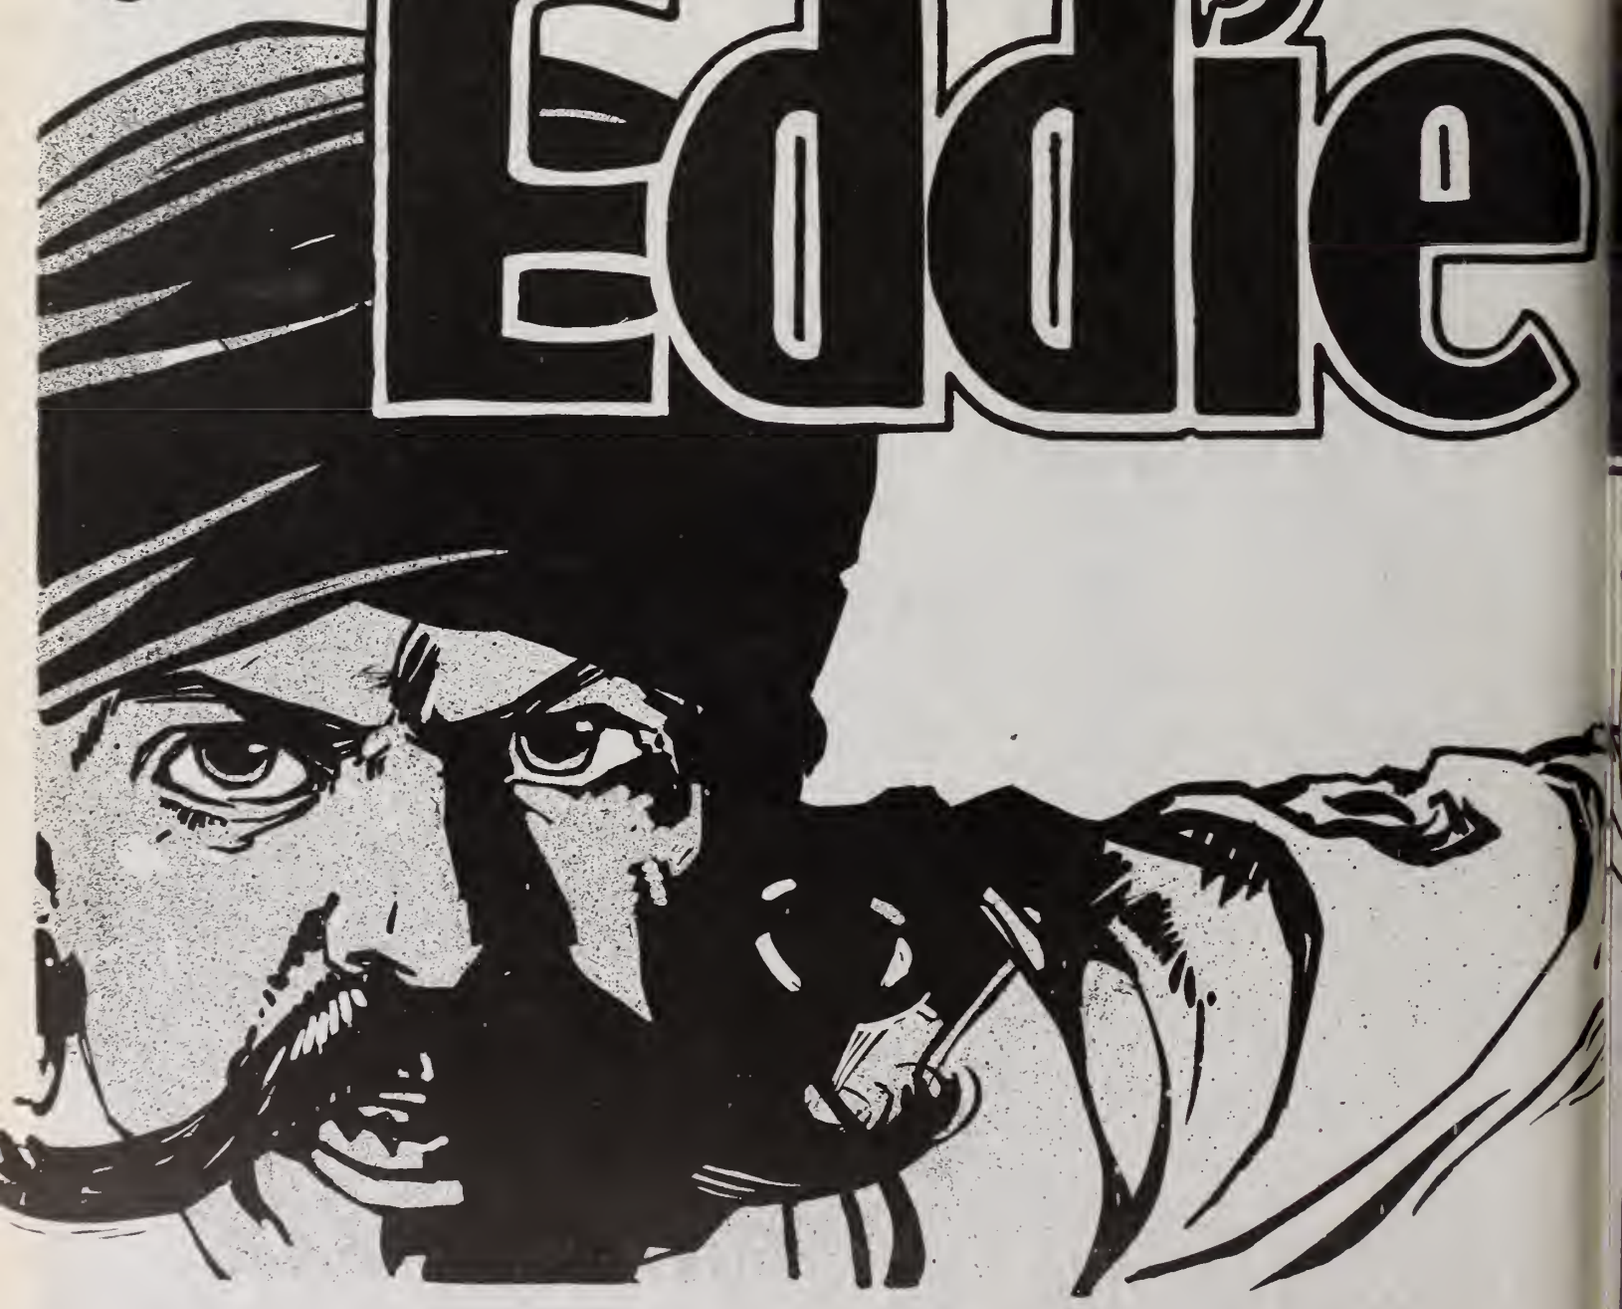
A VIRGIN PARADISE

Fox Film Corporation

Coming! The Serial -the Monarch

The mightiest serial box

Eddie



Tremendous

of them all!

office star in the business

Polo

in

Capt. Kidd

The monarch of them all—EDDIE POLO—in unquestionably the greatest serial subject yet conceived for a chapter play. Imagine what Polo can do with the story of Cap't Kidd. Imagine the tremendous punches, the thrilling adventure, the sensational romance and simply electrifying smashes such a story, with Polo, means to Exhibitors. Polo's name alone on any theatre front now means top money to exhibitors on serials, and with this wonderful story of Polo's own choosing, with his own cast and his own director,—Exhibitors can expect something huge, extraordinary, amazing, and a whale for the box office. Watch and wait. Keep your eye on Polo ads. Something bigger, newer, better, different is coming. State right buyers and exhibitors, communicate immediately with the

EDDIE POLO SERIAL CORPORATION, 121 WEST 39TH STREET, NEW YORK

! ! ! ! !

"We greatly appreciate the hearty co-operation we are receiving from your departments. Our only complaint is that the results we are getting from our advertising in the News is so good that it is continually upsetting our plans, causing a continual enlargement, many times before the plan can be put into effect.

Very truly yours,

Stanley Ryan,
Rush Enterprises,
Greenville, S.C."

(Extract from an unsolicited letter)

The News Alone Covers The Field

BUSINESS REPORTS!

A picture that is smashing records

BROKE ALL RECORDS

"Broke all box-office records and also attendance records. It was put in for a week provided business warranted. It stayed."—Horn Bros. Jewel Theatre, Fremont, Ohio.

HELD FOR SECOND RUN

"Broke attendance records. A great picture from a box-office standpoint. Audience enthusiastic. Held it for second run because crowds were so great."—Mr. Hegman, Queen Theatre, Austin, Tex.

SMASHES EVERY RECORD

"Smashed all box-office and attendance records. Registered strong approval and interest with our patrons."—Herbert H. Johnson, Luna Theatre, Lafayette, Ind.

GREAT AUDIENCE PICTURE

"Most powerful audience picture of the year."—Stanley Chambers, Palace Theatre, Wichita, Kas.

BIGGER THAN MIRACLE MAN

"Proclaimed by many a bigger picture than 'The Miracle Man' and 'Way Down East.' Many saw it two and three times. Big Business."—Ralph Blank, Garden Theatre, Davenport, Ia.

WAKES UP A TOWN

"Woke up the town. Very good business. Patrons enthusiastic." — Joseph Neiser, Majestic Theatre, London, Ohio.

BIG BUSINESS

"Good business. Newspapers praised it and audience liked it."—Harry Hart, Butterfly Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.

Speaking of

Thomas H. Ince's

presentation of his American drama of to-day by C. Gardner Sullivan,

HAIL THE WOMAN

Directed by John Griffith Wray; Photographed by Henry Sharp; Supervision of Thomas H. Ince

Distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Released on the Open Market

A Smashing Drama

Inspiration Pictures, Inc.
Present

The

CAVE

Here's Some of the Thrills

Hunting Lodge set afire in mid-winter, imperiling six lives.

Half-breed kidnaps beautiful white girl.

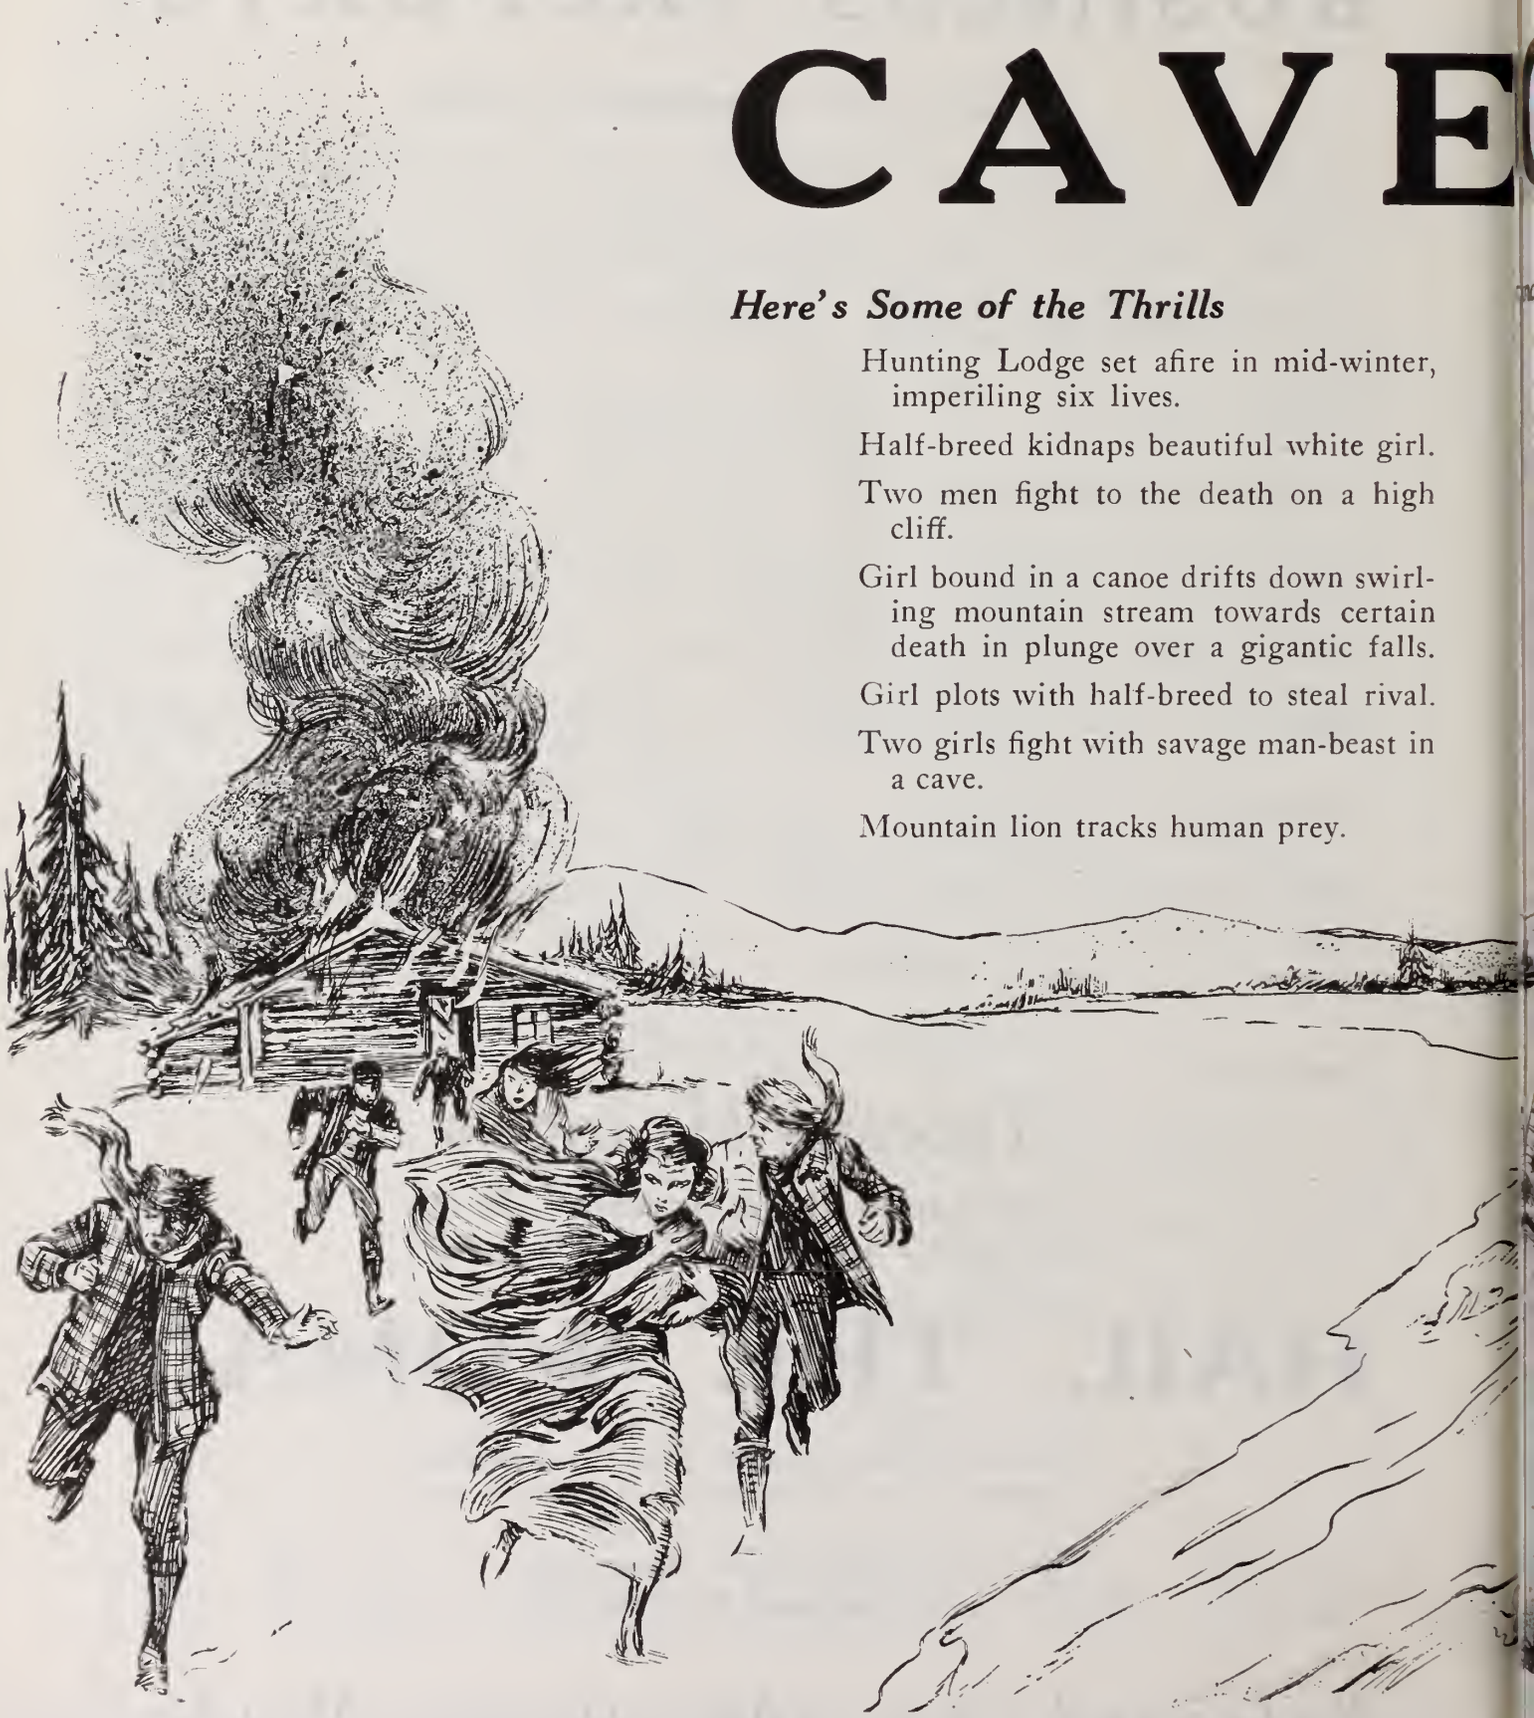
Two men fight to the death on a high cliff.

Girl bound in a canoe drifts down swirling mountain stream towards certain death in plunge over a gigantic falls.

Girl plots with half-breed to steal rival.

Two girls fight with savage man-beast in a cave.

Mountain lion tracks human prey.



Released on the Open Market

of Infinite Thrills

From the Stage Success of Guy Bolton and George Middleton

GIRL

nd Here's Some More

Canoe chase down dangerous rapids where a mis-stroke means death.

Humans battle for life in terrific blizzard.

Primitive girl trapped in a den.

Man plunges hundreds of feet over a cliff to his death.

Gorgeous scenes in the Yosemite in mid-winter.

And many more thrills in this battle for life and honor in the wilds.

Distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

"The Most Joyous Bit o

Every critic agrees it is the best work of that unbeatable Trio — Constance Talmadge, John Emerson and Anita Loos

BEST COMEDY EVER SHOWN

"John Emerson and Anita Loos have poured about all the wit and nimble fancy they possess into this production—which means it is about all the screen can hold—or any of the spectators who see it. If it does not smite your funny bone you might as well give up trying to laugh. It's just about the most pithily joyous bit of comedy ever unveiled, and if this be screen art let's have loads more of it."—New York Sun.

MISS TALMADGE'S BIGGEST PICTURE

"The versatility displayed by Miss Talmadge in this picture is remarkable. We can recommend it as good entertainment. It is one of the best things Miss Talmadge has done."—New York World.

THEY LAUGHED UNTIL THEY WERE HYSTERICAL

"For originality, quaintly humorous situations with never a flagging moment and pungent satire, these experts in comedy have never surpassed this product. Any producer would be happy to turn out anything so turbulently funny. Evidence that it is about the most hilarious photoplay of the season was furnished at the Strand by audiences that laughed until almost hysterical. There is the grandest skit on Caesar and Cleopatra that ever made history look alive. Even the ushers laughed." —New York Herald.

BETTER THAN YOU COULD IMAGINE

"It is much better than anything you might expect. We can promise you unalloyed joy. The funniest thing John Emerson and Anita Loos ever did."—New York Tribune.

DELIGHTFUL—WITH A WEALTH OF FUN

"Excellent entertainment — bright and amusing burlesque, with a wealth of fun. Delightful bits of humor that win you instantly. Constance is charming." —New York Morning Telegraph.

MOST NOVEL AND SPRIGHTLY IDEA

"As novel and sprightly an idea as any we have ever seen in screen comedy. Miss Talmadge plays with sprightly energy." — New York Globe.

MISS TALMADGE IS IRRESISTIBLE

"It's thrilling, with Constance just as irresistibly clever as only she can be."—New York Journal.

OUR IDEA OF REAL ENTERTAINMENT

"This is our idea of honest-to-goodness cinema entertainment. John Emerson and Anita Loos are to be congratulated on writing a movie that contains laughs and bubbling situations."—New York Evening World.

FUN THAT CAN'T BE EQUALLED

"An ideal role for Miss Talmadge. Situations that cannot be equalled. A sure-fire angle that will receive response from every household—a source of enjoyment." — New York Evening Telegram.

It's Her Biggest Picture

Comedy Ever Screened!"

—New York Sun

This picture made one of the biggest hits of the year at the Big New York Strand. The vast throngs that crowded the Broadway house laughed until they wept. As the New York Herald reviewer said: "They laughed until almost hysterical. Even the blasé ushers laughed.

Joseph M. Schenck
Presents

Constance Talmadge

in

"Polly of the Follies"

By John Emerson and Anita Loos

Photographed by Roy Hunt
Technical Directors:
Willard M. Reineck and Lawrence Hitt

A First National Attraction

7 Reels of Joy and Laughter

Watch!

The first print of Norma Talmadge's biggest picture, "Smilin' Through," is expected to arrive in New York early in March

8 Reels of Storm and Sunshine

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Motion Picture News

The Exhibitor's Responsibility

THE cashier of the First National Bank in a western town writes us:

"I enclose you article which appeared in St. Louis Globe-Democrat, issue Feb. 19th.

"You will notice special marked part of this article which to my mind clearly outlines the trouble with the picture business today.

"You perhaps have read this article; however, I will pass it on to you for what it might be worth.

"I have owned and operated the entire shows of this town for a great many years and my belief is that unless pictures are cleaned up it will only be a matter of time with us small town fellows.

"I shall be pleased to hear from you along this line."

The paragraphs marked by him are as follows:

"The real trouble is that the business is in the hands of a few men-producers who have a strangle grip on the art, the morality and the freedom of individuals connected with the industry. These men think they can make money by giving pictures which are below the morality of the general public.

"Of course, you know, there are two publics—the theatre-going public and the rest of the public as a whole. This little group of producers claim they have a personal liberty to exploit the morality of their group and thus undermine the morality of the rest of the country. The seriousness of this is shown by the fact that they are undertaking to dominate politics in order to maintain this right on the ground that they are being attacked by those who represent the morality of the country as a whole."

We are glad of the opportunity to answer hese statements of Canon Chase. We are quite amiliar with them; we know of their origin; nd, we feel, that we know something about Canon Chase, having seen the gentleman in ction a number of times.

The statement that the picture business is in he hands of a few men was made at Albany bout a year ago when a final hearing on the censorship bill was had before Governor Miller. It was made by H. D. H. Connick, then chairman of the Finance Committee of Famous Players-Lasky. Mr. Connick's intentions were probably good enough: but they were better than his knowledge of the picture business. He was arguing that the producers were fully able to control pictures—without outside censorship, and, to clinch his argument, stated that four companies only, Famous Players-Lasky, Goldwyn, Metro and Fox, practically controlled production. The statement was a considerable surprise to every picture man present. It was as untrue as unfortunate. No one knows its utter falsity better than the heads of the four companies mentioned—no one except perhaps their own sales managers—and directors.

We happened to be sitting near Canon Chase when Mr. Connick's rash statement was made; and the glee manifested by this veteran lobbyist was altogether too unholy to befit a man of the cloth.

He immediately made this untruth his war-cry. Later, when the trade, harassed as it was—and is—by other unfair fighters, indicated that the screen would fight back if the politicians and reformers didn't quit, Canon Chase grabbed these equally rash utterances and had a member of Congress introduce a bill demanding an investigation of pictures as a political menace.

The trouble with Canon Chase and other professional reformers is that they don't want the truth. It is their business to fight; and the unfair way is the way they prefer. Canon Chase doesn't know the first thing about the production or distribution or exhibition of pictures. And he doesn't want to know. Exaggerations, untruths—the more sensational the better—are the chosen weapons of his kind of warfare.

The writer has been an earnest student of this business for nine years. He has no brief, here, for anyone in the business; and his sole motive is to see the picture and the picture industry get a fair deal before the bar of public opinion.

He wishes to state emphatically and conclusively that there is no control of production by one or four or any number of producing firms or individuals. There never has been and the great probability is there never can be such centralized control. If any monopoly ever occurs in the production of pictures there won't be any need for Canon Chase's reform bureau —for the very simple reason that pictures will lose any hold upon the public mind that could be extensive enough to call for censorship.

If Canon Chase is honest, and if he has the first rudiments of economic experience and intelligence, he can quickly convince himself of these facts. But, we repeat, he doesn't want the truth.

* * *

We will not attempt here to defend pictures. Our own opinion is that production has advanced far in this business. Production has been more highly developed than distribution; distribution is far less efficient and far more wasteful. We make pictures better today than we sell them.

But we do know this: that pictures are a commercial enterprise; they must be made to pay; and, therefore, pictures are pretty much what the public wants. If not, the picture loses heavily; that's all.

Pictures may not suit Canon Chase; they may not suit a certain small portion of the publib; but, by and large, they do suit most of the public.

If Canon Chase were to make all the pictures his way, or the way of this small element of the public or the way of the few individuals whom Canon Chase wants appointed as censors of pictures, it would take all of John D. Rockefeller's wealth to pay the losses.

* * *

Another thing—and the most important thing of all:

The character of pictures today is very largely up to the exhibitor.

And again, if ever the production of pictures gets into the hands of a few persons, a monopoly in other words, it will only be b cause the exhibitor permits it.

He is the big end of this business. Not mer ly is his investment greater than the produce and distributors by four to one, but he is th purveyor to the public. It is he, or it shoul and can be he, who determines the policies c production and the character and quality c production.

* * *

There is just one thing that will keep picture right and that will prevent monopoly in pr duction—

And that is an open market.

And it is the exhibitor only who can mak and maintain an open market.

* * *

Just what does an open market mean?

It means open buying—selection.

The exhibitor, we will say, knows his public feels constantly their whims and desires. H buys what they like. And with an open marke he has a free hand to select here and there wha he wants, what his public wants. He doesn' let the distributor do it for him; he doesn't le himself be so loaded up that he can't always b free to buy what he wants. He's a free agent or he should be a free agent. And this marke will be open just to the extent that he is an remains a free agent.

We don't want a closed production market we don't want even a narrow productio market. And, of course, we won't have one You can control a great many things, but yo can't control public taste on the one hand an on the other you can't control creative brain and impulse.

But between these two great forces—what th public wants in pictures and what pictures ca give the public—stands the exhibitor as th deciding force. The production market will b wide or narrow as he makes it—as he runs hi own business or lets some one run it for him It is he who can make or break the independen producer.

His responsibility is a big one; and he must realiz it. By his ability to select pictures for his public, an by his insistence upon such selection, he can determin the quality of pictures and the make-up of the indus trial machine that supplies the pictures.

Wm. A. Johnston.

Index to General and Departmental News

DEPARTMENTS

Editorial, General News and Features....1463-1473
Notes of the Chicago Field.... 1474
Exhibitors' Service Bureau....1475-1490
What the Big Houses Report....1491
Programs of the First Run Houses....1492-1495
Reviews of Short Subjects.... 1497
Action Still from the Week's Releases....1498-1499
Feature Reviews....1500-1503
News of the Independents....1504-1507
News from the Producers....1508-1517
New Theatre, Equipment and Construction....1519-1534
Music and the Picture.... 1536
Information on All Releases....1537-1541
Studio Notes from the West Coast.... 1542

GENERAL NEWS AND FEATURES

Wm. A. Johnston's Editorial....1463-1464
Plan for National Convention Continue.... 1466
Pictures and People—an intimate chat of men and affairs.... 1467
American Federation of Labor Opposes Censorship.... 1468
Chicago Exhibitors Act for Lower Rentals.... 1469
What the Exhibitors Think of Personal Appearances.... 1471
News from the Exchange Centres....1472-1473

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Grand Larceny" (Goldwyn).... 1500
"The Barnstormer" (First National).... 1500
"Love's Boomerang" (Paramount).... 1500
"For Those We Love" (Goldwyn).... 1501
"Wife Against Wife" (First National).... 1501
"Father Tom" (Associated Exhibitors).... 1501
"The Family Closet" (Associated Exhibitors).... 1502
"The World's Champion" (Paramount).... 1502
"Wild Honey" (Universal).... 1502
"False Fronts" (Bradley Feature Film).... 1503
"A Poor Relation" (Goldwyn).... 1503
"Boy Crazy" (R-C Pictures).... 1503

STATE RIGHT ANNOUNCEMENT

Many Sales Reported on "Determination".... 1504
Forthcoming Second National Releases.... 1504
Burr Makes Statement on Carewe Feature.... 1505
Another Sale on "Wandering Boy" Reported.... 1506
Teriss Begins New Picture.... 1507
New Series for Balshofer.... 1507
"His Nibs" Scores in Cleveland....1507
Contents of Latest Official Movie Chat....1507

PRODUCER ANNOUNCEMENTS

Current Paramount Issues.... 1508
Selznick March Releases.... 1508
Gunning Has Ten New Features.... 1509
"False Fronts" Well Received in Cleveland.... 1509
First National Subjects Completed.... 1511
"Loves of Pharaoh" Going Big.... 1511
Goldwyn Subjects Ready.... 1512
"Lady Godiva" Due Soon.... 1512
Florence Vidor's First Starring Picture.... 1514
"Gypsy Passion" at New York Strand.... 1515
Pathe Releases of March 5th.... 1517

ACCESSORY DEPARTMENT

Operation and Function of Appliances for Stage Lighting.... 1519
Mexican Theatres Make Rapid Strides.... 1522
Radio Phone in Theatres Proves Successful.... 1524
National Anti-Misframe League Forum.... 1530

1,000,000 Corporation to Run Chain in Mid-West

A new $1,000,000 film corporation, cked by some of the most reputable film en in the Middle West, has been or- nized in Kansas City. The Capitol En- rprises, as the new company will be own, is headed by Samuel Harding, ner of the Liberty and Doric theatres, ansas City, and will build, buy, and oper- e a chain of motion picture theatres in e Middle West.

Options have been procured on theatres several cities in Oklahoma, Missouri d Kansas. Other houses, on which con- uction will begin this spring, will be an- unced later. The new company, capi- ized at $1,000,000, will operate in cities 75,000 population or more.

"There are a number of these cities hich have no first-class motion picture uses," Mr. Harding said. "It is the rpose of the new organization to give ese cities not only first-class theatres, t first-run films, with the same type of esentation accorded them in the largest ies."

Other officers of the new company are: il Ryan, former general manager of As- iated Exhibitors, vice-president; Dave rding of the Liberty theatre, secretary d manager; Harry Taylor, former man- er of Kansas City's Pathe exchange, di- ting manager.

Law Placing Deposit in Trust Fund Held Void

THREE Federal judges sitting in Omaha, Neb., on February 27, declared void the state law requiring motion picture exhibitors to place in trust funds in Nebraska banks money collected as advance payments for films contracted for.

The decision was handed down in a test case filed by Goldwyn. Attorney General Davis said the case would be appealed. President C. R. Pramer, of the M. P. T. O. of Nebraska, presented to the state attorneys information concerning the theatre owners' side of the the trust fund law.

In handing down the decision, Robert E. Lewis, of Denver, judge of the Circuit Court, preface his remarks with the statement that both he and Judge T. C. Munger, of Lincoln, agreed that law covered cases properly belonging within police power of the state. Judge Woodrough, he stated, was of the opinion that the law constituted an interference with an individual's constitutional rights, while Judge Munger expressed the same opinion and further declared that it offended against interstate commerce law.

James E. Rait, Omaha attorney representing the state, argued that the law had been passed to benefit close to five hundred theatre men and to protect investors whose funds had been subjected to grave abuses in Nebraska.

The case was followed with close interest by film men all over the country as other states have similar laws on their statute books. Deposits by exhibitors in Nebraska have been as high as four hundred thousand dollars annually, explained President Pramer in behalf of the Nebraska M. P. T. O.

Theatre-Owners of Western Pennsylvania to Convene

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Western Pennsylvania will hold their annual convention at Pittsburgh, Penn., April 10th, 11th and 12th. Many subjects of vital importance are to be discussed; delegates are to be appointed for the national convention; a program for the presentation of proposed adverse legislation is to be adopted; new clauses in contracts detrimental to the industry generally are to be considered. A report from President Casper, of the year's activities will be read. The term of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer and three directors expires on June 1st. Election to fill these offices will be held; a banquet on the evening of April 12th will terminate the convention.

Mr. Sydney Cohen, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, will attend the convention. There will also be present many other prominent organization men, and it is hoped also to have an address from Senator James J. Walker.

All members are urged to be present, as every theatre has a vote, and is entitled to a voice in the deliberations. The Board of Directors also extends an invitation to all exhibitors who are not members to attend this convention for the purpose of acquainting them with the activities of the organization, and also with the many problems which confront our industry, and which they may not have had called to their attention, not being members.

M.P.T.O. Convention Plans Going Forward

New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., Indicated as Convention Headquarters

DEFINITE arrangements are rapidly being made by the Committee of Arrangements for the national convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America in Washington, D. C., on Monday, May 8th. In a statement issued during the week by W. A. True, chairman of the Arrangements Committee, the New Willard Hotel is announced as the convention headquarters. Mr. True further urges theatre owners to act at once in the arranging of hotel reservations through the M. P. T. O. of A. headquarters in New York or through the secretaries of their state organizations. The statement follows in full:

"The annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America will be held in the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., the week of Monday, May 8, 1922. Definite arrangements for this convention were made at a recent meeting of the National Board of Directors and Executive Committee in Washington, and all indications point to this being the largest gathering of theatre owners ever held in the United States.

"It is very essential that every motion picture theatre owner in the country attend this convention. One week spent in the work of advancing the interests of our business in this way will be the most profitable line of effort we could possibly put forth. Events which have transpired and more listed to soon occur in the motion picture industry, makes it of supreme importance that motion picture theatre owners maintain a closely organized front. Certain elements in the industry tend to cast discredit upon it and to a degree alienate public sentiment from us. The theatre owner, coming in contact with millions of people daily, can alone restore to our business complete public confidence. The Washington convention in this relation promises results of the most gratifying kind.

"This convention will afford all motion picture theatre owners in the United States an opportunity to meet with the Senators and Congressmen from their states and districts. It will enable them to view national legislation in the making and impress upon all connected with this wonderful work the importance and utility of the motion picture theatre in aiding every division of government in advancing constructive and helpful programs of every kind. It will bring to the attention of the highest public officials in our country the wonderful publicity powers of the motion picture theatre and at once establish in a nation-wide sense the fact that this Screen Press of America, of which we are the custodians, is one of the greatest public assets in the United States.

"Theatre owners are now making a determined fight to eliminate the unjust music tax and to set aside injurious legislation of different kinds, and by showing the highest officials in the country the true status of our business place the motion picture theatre in the same position before the public as the newspaper.

"Come to Washington for this convention, theatre owners. Let us have complete representation from every state and congressional district.

"The convention headquarters will be at the New Willard Hotel. One of the big features will be an accessory exposition, affording a review of all elements associated with the projection and presentation of motion pictures.

"Theatre owners should act at once in making hotel reservations. This can be done through the convention committee at the offices of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, 1482 Broadway, New York, N. Y., or through your state presidents or state secretaries. This feature is very important. Special railroad rates will be obtained. Announcements along this line will be made later.

"W. A. True, Chairman Convention Committee, Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America.

"Committee: W. A. Steffes, Minneapolis, Minn.; W. D. Burford, Aurora, Ill.; John Manheimer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; E. M. Fay, Providence, R. I.; A. Pramer, Omaha, Neb.; E. T. Peter, New York, N. Y.; A. Julian Brylawsky, Washington, D. C.; Glenn Harper, Los Angeles, Calif.; D. A. Harris, Pittsburg, Pa.; J. Ritter, Detroit, Mich.; H. B. Varner, Lexington, N. C., and Ralph Talbot, Tulsa, Okla."

Advertising That Offers a Selling Idea to Exhibs

GOLDWYN has four pages in this issue advertising its latest release, "Grand Larceny." The advertisement not only announces the picture and gives the needed information, but it goes a big step beyond that and tells the exhibitor how to sell the picture to his public. A good selling idea is offered.

This is the kind of trade paper advertising the exhibitor wants, the kind the distributor needs, and the kind the trade paper should have to be of best service to the industry it serves.

We hope and believe that this piece of copy marks a new era in trade paper advertising; and we congratulate the Goldwyn Corporation upon its enterprise.

We shall have a good deal to say of this kind of merchandizing copy in the future.

WM. A. JOHNSTON.

"A Weekly Help"

"We have profited greatly from the suggestions we have received from your valued paper during the past year and I feel that I should pass to my brother exhibitors any ideas that have helped us."

JOHN B. SNIDER,
Grand Theatre.
Bessemer, Ala.

Kansas Exhibs to Convene March 27 at Wichita

After several changes in plans, definite arrangements for the semi-annual convention of the M. P. T. O. of Kansas have been announced. The convention, which is expected to be the largest and most important in the history of the organization, will be held March 27 and 28 in the Hotel Lassen, Wichita, Kansas. Attorney-General Richard Hopkins of Kansas, counsel for the M. P. T. O. K., who is a candidate for governor of Kansas, will be the guest of honor at the convention.

Aside from the music-tax problem, the labor-law fight, pertaining to Sunday opening, will be a much discussed question. H. H. Motter, collector of internal revenue, will address the exhibitors on technical matters regarding admission taxes. Many other high state officials, as well as other important men of the Middle West, will be in attendance.

The music tax case against M. Van Praag, president of the Kansas exhibitors, which now seems headed for the United States Supreme Court, will be another question of vital importance which will come up at the convention.

Minnesota Exhibitors to Convene April 11th

First call for the annual convention of the Minnesota division of the M. P. T. O. A. has been sounded by President W. A. Steffes. The gathering, which is to be held in Minneapolis April 11 and 12, will be the greatest in the history of the organization, according to Mr. Steffes.

Election of delegates to the national convention at Washington will be one of the main features of the assemblage.

"Your magazine has been a wonderful help to us in putting over the pictures."—J. C. CROUCH, Manager, Princess Theatre, Troy, Ala.

PEOPLE AND PICTURES

SIDNEY OLCOTT summarizes a two months' trip abroad with these interesting conclusions:

That Germany is determined to play a leading part in the film world; and Germany is fast going about it. America has nothing to fear from present-day German or other continental dramas and comedies. They are unsuited to American audiences; excepting only the historical dramas. But Germany actually contemplates the making of "American" pictures—using American players, types, clothes and even going into the construction of American scenery, houses and streets. The cheapness of labor makes possible this ambitious construction program.

That the continent offers a wonderful field for new and modern picture houses and picture exploitation.

Mr. Olcott met Albert A. Kaufman in Berlin, saw in Paris "The Scream of the Eagle," a great picture of the Napoleonic period, and worked in Italy on the production plans of one of the several big pictures now in the making there.

* * *

"Prosperity begins on March 16!" So, at least, believes George Irving—and somehow, whether we agree with him or not, the enthusiasm he evinces strikes a sympathetic chord. Inspiration is a sinew of strength that accomplishes wonders and Mr. Irving is confident that Will Hays will act as an inspirational fount. An interesting letter—on page 1470.

* * *

Claud Saunders

WITH just one idea—albeit a sound one—to sell, Claud Saunders, director of Paramount exploitation, sent thirty aides to the managing editor of leading newspapers in every section of the country.

"Motion Pictures are of more interest to people than baseball. Why can't the pictures have a better 'break' in the news?"

That, in brief, was the argument submitted to the editors. And it convinced—convinced to the extent that fifty-five executives of the Fourth Estate have written Mr. Saunders and gone on record promising to "open up" their columns for motion picture news.

* * *

TWO facts, at least, well worthy of note, stand out in the closing of "Foolish Wives" at the Central thetre on Feb. 26, after a seven-week run prior to its opening, at popular prices, at the Capitol.

One is that the picture played to audiences that paid their way in. The other that the sponsors of the picture didn't keep it running until it had eaten up the money which found its way to the box office in the early days of the engagement.

If any exhibitor has misgivings relative to the box office value of the picture because "Foolish Wives" was continued only seven weeks while others have been held many more, he should regard certain facts.

The number of people who will pay $2 to see a picture, no matter how big it may be, even on Broadway, is growing more limited every day. The public knows that in due time every attraction that has merit is going to be available at one of the theatres devoted to pictures and even at their neighborhood house. They refuse to come across. And that's a fact, as a number of producers have found to their sorrow.

* * *

Arrivals: Adolph Zukor and S. R. Kent from Los Angeles, where conferences on production have been held with Jesse Lasky, George Fitzmaurice, Mrs. George Fitzmaurice (Ouida Bergere) and Tom Geraghty from Europe.

Departures: George Mooser, bound for Shanghai, to establish United Artists headquarters in the Far East; Frederick E. Shoninger, formerly of Inter Ocean, headed for Europe on a personal mission for Carl Laemmle.

* * *

WE'VE been looking over some two hundred letters from motion-picture fans during the past week. Part of our job as one of the judges in the R-C Pictures Contest, which provides for attractive awards to the writers of the best letters on R-C subjects. The task afforded us a rare opportunity of scrutinizing, individually and en masse, the workings of the "Fan Mind." What struck us particularly in the course of our inspection was the fan's knowledge of and insistence upon Technique in the picture. He was interested in the star or the players, of course! He liked a story with suspense and action, certainly! But if the hero appeared, serene and immaculate, in the next scene following that in which he and the villain had spilled blood and clothing all over the set, how the "Fan Mind" did protest True-to-life! That was the prominent factor which the writers again and again emphasized in telling what they thought of a certain picture. We've got an idea to sell. Why not make some of our directors judges in just such contests as this one? We think they'd learn a lot about fan psychology.

* * *

BUT two months old—and going strong—the Cameo Theatre, just off Broadway at 42nd Street, is attracting wide attention in film circles and a capacity patronage. Proving beyond all manner of doubt that there is always room for a house presenting high class entertainment in a high class way. "Peacock Alley," "The Flower of the North," "The Prodigal Judge" and "French Heels" have successfully played the new theatre.

* * *

Will Hays visits Miami Studios, at Hialeah, Florida. From left to right: Glenn H. Curtiss, Will H. Hays, E. G. Sewell, manager of Miami studios, and T. J. Bevis, construction manager of Miami studios

Watterson R. Rothacker

WATTERSON R. ROTHACKER acknowledged one of the foremost advertising men in the industry, is responsible for another work on motion picture advertising which is just off the press. Those who have seen advance proofs say it is a comprehensive contribution to the advertising library.

It will be remembered that Mr. Rothacker evolved the "Miles of Smiles" idea which gave thousands of doughboys "over there" the thrill of seeing loved ones on the screen, and that prior to entering the film laboratory field he produced advertising pictures for a number of years.

A. F. of L. Goes on Record as Opposing Censorship

WHILE in session in Washington, D. C., on February 24th, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor went on record as opposed to governmental censorship. This action followed an appeal by Peter J. Brady, chairman of the education committee of the New York State Federation of Labor, who appeared before the council as the representative of unions in the amusement trades. The declaration approved by the Council follows:

"In the recent past efforts have been made to secure both state and federal legislation providing for government censorship of moving pictures. These proposals have had the support of a number of well-meaning persons who really desire to protect the children of the country and to promote a sense of high morality. However, there is involved in the proposal something more than is generally appreciated.

"Motion pictures are something more than an instrumentality for recreation. They are an agency for education, for dissemination of current information, comparable in many respects to the daily press and the public forum. They have a determining influence in directing and educating public thought and opinion. Motion Pictures supplement the spoken and written word by a powerful appeal to the mind through the eye.

"Since motion pictures are a means of expression and have become established as an agency supplementing our older methods, they must be protected by the same guarantees of freedom that have been bestowed upon oral utterance and upon the press.

"Freedom of speech is inseparable from free institutions and the genius of a free people. This freedom must be protected against abuse by holding the individual responsible for his utterances. Legal restriction in advance of presentation limits research, investigation and inquiry for broader and deeper truths.

"It has ever been the theory of the few that people can be made to be good by law. This same theory underlies the efforts of those who propose government censorship. By establishing either state or federal boards of review motion pictures, it is proposed to present to the public only such things as they may be permitted legally to see. This is putting very dangerous authority in the hands of a few for it enables the board of review to restrict and determine the very fountainheads of information."

Universal Ass'n Holds Its Second Entertainment

E. H. Goldstein, newly-elected president of the Universal Association, was one of the guests of honor at the employees' organization's second entertainment, held in the Universal home office projection room, Thursday, February 23. Local and imported talent combined to present a program of more than usual excellence.

The feature of the evening's program was a sketch written and acted by members of the home office force. This was a two-act satire on motion picture adaptation, narrating the metamorphosis of a home-and-mother sob story into a blood-and-thunder serial.

Film Industry Asked to Aid in Relief Drive

The theatre colony and moving picture field, as well as concert artists, vaudeville units and all others interested in the theatre, have been pressed into the service of the Theatrical Committee of the New York Campaign to raise $5,000,000 for the relief of the Jewish war sufferers.

On March 12th there will be monster benefits at the Times Square and Liberty theatres, and a number of the most important headliners of both the Keith and Shubert circuits are expected to be in attendance. Tickets will sell for $10 and boxes for $1,000. Some time during the week, day yet to be arranged, a monster Movie Ball is scheduled to be held at the Astor, which is expected to be attended by several important stars, male and female, who are now in the East. Efforts are being made to secure the presence of Doug and Mary.

Showgirls will invade Wall Street, selling tickets, and Equity has been asked to furnish attractive young women who will sell programs and other features in the lobbies of the various theatres.

A number of members of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce are arranging for special performances to be held in their houses during the drive, and the first special matinee of this kind will be held at the Gabel theatre, 116th Street and Fifth Avenue, on March 7th.

Tennessee Exhibitors Form State Organization

At a meeting held last week in Nashville, Tenn., and at which approximately fifty-five theatres were represented, "The Tennessee Associated Theatres" was organized. A constitution and by-laws were drawn and officers chosen to act until June, when permanent officers will be elected to serve for an entire year.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Wiliam A. Johnston, Pres. & Editor
E. Kendall Gillett, Treasurer
George D. Gould, Managing Editor
Fred. J. Beecroft, Adv. Mgr.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant

Chicago Representative, L. H. Mason, 910 S. Michigan Ave.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, Suite 205, Baker-Detwiller Building, 412 West Sixth St.; 'Phone Pico 780. Subscription $3 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $5. Foreign, $8. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book. Western Union registered cable address is "Picknews," New York.

Copyright, 1922, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

Los Angeles' Civic Bodies Unite Against Vilifiers

INCENSED at the numerous attack made on Los Angeles and Hollywood and particularly the film people, civi organizations of Los Angeles and nearb cities have united to carry on a strenu ous publicity campaign of defense, unde the guidance of prominent members c the Screen Writers' Guild of the Author League of America.

The fictitious stories of the specia writers of Eastern and Middlewest news papers will be answered by such well known writers as George Ade, Rupe Hughes, Rob Wagner, Judge Ben S Lindsey, Will Payne, K. C. B., and man others who are now residents of Holly wood and Los Angeles, or who have dur ing the past year spent considerable tim there in connection with motion-pictur work.

The Screen Writers' Guild has appoint ed Harvey Thew, former New Yorl World newspaper-writer, who has been i the West for the past five years as scena rio writer, to serve as manager of th campaign of defense, and he has alread taken up the work and story by story as signed a writer of note to answer it.

Resolutions indorsing the film people a good citizens and stamping the many sen sational stories as false have been adopt ed by many organizations, including Hol lywood Chamber of Commerce, Los An geles Chamber of Commerce, Hollywoo Realty Board, Woman's Club of Holly wood, and the Los Angeles City Coun cil.

Recent Incorporations in State of New York

Nine companies incorporated in t motion picture business in New York sta during the past week, these corporatio representing a total capitalization $146,000. The largest company fili papers with the Secretary of State duri the week was the Gilmar Amusement Co poration, capitalized at $50,000, and ha ing as directors Henrietta and Nels Rosenthal, and Julius Jacobs, of Brookly Other companies incorporating include:

Up-Lift Film Corporation, Syracu $30,000, L. M. Mitchell, James C. S right, T. W. Southwick, Syracuse; N tional Titleart Studios, Inc., $10.0 Israel, Albert and Etta Shapiro, N York City; Newton Amusement Co., In $15,000, Max Gottlieb, Theodore Gutma Mathilde Singer, Brooklyn; Arthur Horwitz Vaudeville Acts, $5,000, Arth J. and Joseph Horwitz, H. S. Hechheim New York; Concord Film Co., In $1,000, Rosie, Edward and Isidore Bel man, Brooklyn; Park Enterprises, In $25,000, Gabriel Rubino, Joseph Ros Louis Mandia, New York; Kempson Pi tures Corporation, $500, J. L. Kempn Louis Jacobson, M. A. Kiraly, New Yor Exhibitors Poster & Supply Co., In $10,000, Harry Schlitt, Samuel Bra Brooklyn; Abraham Schneider, N York.

Chicago Exhibitors Act for Lower Rentals

Determined Effort Made to Secure Immediate Adjustments; To Solve Cases Individually

URTHER action toward securing lower film rentals was taken at a meeting of exhibitors last week in haffer's projection room, Chicago.

The meeting was called by the comttee of thirty, which has been carrying a quiet but efficient campaign to secure justment in cases where theatre owners e felt to be paying too much to exanges, and an unusually large crowd ard the report of the committee and ve them a vote of confidence and proval of the work done to date.

It was the sentiment of the meeting that th Lent coming on, which is always a or season for theatres, only immediate justment of rentals could save many eatres from severe losses, and it was ted to make a determined effort to have justments made within one week.

Exhibitors holding red cards, issued by e committee, were instructed to persony call on exchanges immediately to ure reductions.

It was further arranged that in cases here the exhibitor and exchange maner could not arrive at an agreement, at an adjustment committee, consisting W. D. Burford, John Silha, J. B. belka, L. Seigel and S. Selig, should be lled in, the adjustment committee havg arranged to work in pairs and be on e job, two at a time, at all hours during e week the conferences are to be held that they will be immediately available.

W. D. Burford, of the committee of irty, made a report to the meeting of nferences he had held with various exchange managers in Chicago, who, in every instance save one, had made promises to co-operate in bringing down rentals to a fair basis, where just cause for complaint was proved to exist. A resolution was passed by the meeting commending the spirit exhibited by the managers and thanking Mr. Burford for the time and good work done by him. Another resolution was passed unanimously refusing to book pictures from one exchange until its manager agrees to change his policy.

That fair dealing was to be the basis of all claims for reductions was made plain by the speakers at the meeting, and it was impressed on exhibitors that efforts to use questionable methods in getting reductions will be discountenanced as strongly as any disposition on the part of exchange men to refuse to do the right thing.

Another thing stressed by the speakers was that where price reductions are secured, exhibitors must use all pictures contracted for promptly.

It was pointed out that it would be impractical to ask for any general flat reduction, but that each individual case of an exhibitor would have to be considered on its merits and film prices fixed after taking into consideration the revenue and earning capacity of the house in question.

As a basis for the campaign to reduce prices, a questionnaire had been sent to members of the organization in Illinois, and at time of writing 432 had been filled out and returned. A tabulation of these questionnaires shows a decided variation in the number of complaints against exchanges, 30 per cent of those doing business with one exchange complaining of high rentals, against 74 per cent against the highest exchange.

Another meeting has been called for March 3rd, at which time a report of the results of the campaign to reduce prices will be heard and any necessary action against exchanges refusing to co-operate will be decided upon.

Plans Are Perfected for A. M. P. A. Dinner

PLANS for A. M. P. A.'s Naked Truth Dinner, to be held at the Hotel Biltmore, New York City, March 25, are being rapidly perfected. Postmaster Will H. Hay gave evidence of his intention to be present at the dinner by forwarding a check for his ticket last week to President C. L. Yearsley of the A. M. P. A. It is expected that Mr. Hays will return in time from his scheduled brief vacation at Palm Beach, following his resignation from the Cabinet on March 4, to attend the dinner and entertainment. Other prominent officials outside of the industry are also expected.

Harry Reichenbach is preparing a special act in which he not only takes the leading part but which he collaborated in writing. Sound proof walls, it is said, are being installed for Nat Rothstein who has a monologue, written by Victor Shapiro, excoriating the industry and wiping the glamor from some of the best known trade marks and slogans in film circles. An act by members of the Green Room Club will also be a feature of the program.

Record Business Marks First National Week

5,932 Houses Participated in Event; Number of Days' Bookings Reported at 25,057

IRST NATIONAL WEEK, which opened on February 18th, came to a close on February 25th with a cord-breaking volume of business on the oks of the company. It was the most ccessful event of its kind ever staged by sociated First National Pictures, Inc., e total bookings being double those tained during the various territorial rst National Weeks of 1921, it is dered by the home office of that organiztion.

Reports from many of the theatres ich had booked solid with First tional attractions stated that business s better during the period than in any ek within recent history. The theatres ich participated in the celebration of rst National Week numbered 5,932, of ich 2,785 booked First National attracns solidly throughout the period. The al number of days bookings is reported reach 25,057.

Never before has an anniversary week of this nature been put over in such an immense way, declares a statement from the home office. The following telegrams from First National exchange managers evince the enthusiasm which First National Week aroused:

Louise Bache, Washington: "All exhibitors who were booked solid claim that it has been their best week since they have been in business. This shows wonderfully under the depressed conditions."

E. J. Hayes, Buffalo: "Out of maximum three hundred and ninety theatres this whole territory six hundred twenty-one days booked."

J. F. Cubberley, Minneapolis: "Biggest week's business in history of Minneapolis office, and we believe biggest week's business ever enjoyed by any exchange."

L. L. Hall, Sale Lake City: "Only two of the twelve downtown theatres were not booked solid. In two theatres gross rentals exceeded expectations one hundred and fifty per cent."

L. O. Lukan, Seattle: "Total number days entire territory more than doubled last year."

R. H. Haines, Cincinnati: "Barthelmess had honor of playing two first run houses Cincinnati. 'Seventh Day' at Walnut, 'Tol'able David' at Family. Family theatre changed fixed policy of several years' standing to play 'Tol'able David' as second run attraction."

W. E. Knotts, Los Angeles: "The only reason did not have more booking days did not have available features for many of the theatres."

J. S. Skirboll, Pittsburgh: "Business throughout territory very big."

A. J. Herman, Albany: "Exhibitors well pleased with First National Week and told us we should have had a week right along."

(Continued on page 1470)

A High Voltage Faith Current

From A Reader

William A. Johnston,
Motion Picture News,
729 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. C.
Dear Mr. Johnston:—

It's a pretty big order to say that "Prosperity begins on March 16th," but here and now I make that prophecy.

You know that despite all the war losses and destruction, the big thing that is holding us back is "lack of faith," and faith is mostly imagination. How often do we read of troops retreating in disorder. Suddenly a man dashes up on a white horse and shouts, "Follow me ! !" A second's hesitation—then a yell, and back they go, rushing over every obstacle. They are no stronger than they were a moment before, but a leader appeared who grabbed a bunch of Faith out of the ether, and that Faith, like an electric current whose circuit has been completed, coursed through the veins of every soldier in the troop.

That's what is coming now. No one has been able to connect the faith current up to date, but I have a hunch that the white charger is dashing up with the man on horseback who will raise the flag and turn on the switch.

I'm writing this to you because I want you to enthuse with me over the possibilities that will be in the air, ready to be electrified, when Will Hays is introduced at the Motion Picture Directors' dinner and ball on March 16th. A neutral hand has got to complete the vital current that now is lying dormant in the wires, and here is a hand that is strong enough to be guided by "Right." And once the current is on, the machine will go, yes, even the old, abused machine that we have been using all these years only needs a few connections and corrections and it will go.

I asked the postmaster in the little town of Bayside, L. I., how the new Postmaster General was doing. He replied:

"I don't know what he is doing, but I have never seen anything like the loyalty and pep that has hit the department since Hays has taken hold; and I have been on the job for a generation."

Probably the producers enlisted Hays to help their own business relations by securing the most prominent organizer in the country, but they have started something bigger than that. And when this man who pulled sixteen million votes to his party shows the industry that it can't climb hills unless its car hits on all six cylinders, then we will be ashamed to play the game under the old rules of "each branch for itself," and we will get together in a new co-operation. So I hope you and the other trade papers will rally round the flag and help, with your shouts, to spread the faith that is on the way.

I haven't any doubt that the dinner and dance at the Astor will be a tremendous success from the standpoint of numbers. The reservations so far indicate that it will be the largest ever, but that won't help the trade one bit unless on that night a new inspiration is born, and if Will H. Hays can father it he won't have to do another thing during his whole term to earn his salary—but guide that spirit. That's the big thought. Hammer it in. Morals and censors and rentals and waste and all the rest of our troubles will take care of themselves if we all follow the flag, and I'm hoping that you will come out over your own signature and tell the boys that a Presbyterian Moses has arisen. You know the proverb about a prophet in his own country—and here's a prophet come to lead us, from a field that we never dreamed would work with us.

So don't let us worry about what he is going to do. That isn't the important thing. The thing is, with what spirit is he going to do it, and are we so saturated with ourselves that we can't trust a man who has proven himself a leader ? I say, No! And here's the prophecy again:

"The new flag of Faith is to be raised at the Astor on March 16th, and the current of inspiration turned on. Shout !—'One for all and all for one.' Let's go! —Camera. Sincerely yours,

George Irving.

South Carolina Senate Has Passed Movie-Tax Bill

The South Carolina Senate passed the long-discussed movie-tax bill on February 24, after one of the most strenuous sessions of the year. The bill as passed by the Senate is vastly different from that offered in the state legislature, but the new measure is said to be entirely in accord with the wishes of the author of the original bill, Edgar A. Brown, of Barnwell County.

The measure passed by the Senate provides for a graduated direct tax on theatres. This tax ranges from $30 per annum for theatres in towns up to 2,500 population, to $180 per annum for theatres in towns of 50,000 or more.

The recently formed association of motion-picture theatre-managers of the state made a strong fight on the tax measure, but it was generally conceded that the fight would be in vain in view of the announced determination of the South Carolina solons to pass every measure that might tend to increase the state's revenue from taxable sources.

Wire Briefs from Coast

Richard Rowland was in Los Angeles for four days during last week and left for the East on last Sunday. W. W. Hodkinson is scheduled to leave for New York this week.

The Western Motion Picture Advertisers will hold their annual "Wampas" Frolic and Ball at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, March 15th.

Raymond Cannon will make a series of twelve single-reelers at the Fine Arts studios. Cecil Holland will be featured.

Direct Appeal to Counteract Press Scandals

DIRECT, straight-from-the-shoul combating of the yellow newspa scandal propaganda is illustrated by enterprising Aurora Theatres Compa Inc., or Aurora, Ill. To counteract evil of the sensationalism given the Tay case in the Chicago press, the Aur Company appealed direct to their patr through the medium of a small, four-p pamphlet, which was sent to more th nine thousand homes in the Fox Ri Valley.

The Bulletin was titled, "Read t Facts," and on the inside appeared an e torial demanding fair play for the moti picture people. The official police repo on the Taylor case were reprinted, one which accused the newspapers of "pu lishing anything and everything" on t case. "If it was necessary," conclud the bulletin, "for the motion picture th atres to obtain patronage by the sa methods that some of the Chicago da papers are using to obtain readers, t theatre owner would close up on his ov accord in disgust."

J. J. Rubens, treasurer of Aurora th atres, appeals to exhibitors to take simil methods of counteracting the evil effec of sensational newspaper stories.

Arbitration Board Confirm Operators' Wage Cut

A decision which is expected to ha important bearing on wage developmen in the moving picture business in Cana was handed down by the Joint Council Industry at Winnipeg, Manitoba, an arb tration board in the case of Operator Local 299 vs. Starland theatre, in whic the operators were appealing against reduction in wages by the management the Starland. The board confirmed th reduction of $5 per week in the scale an ordered that it be effective until Augu 31, 1922.

The reduced scale is made retroactiv to January 1, when the theatre reduce the pay.

First National Week Result

(Continued from page 1469)

Due to the offer of First National t send nine exhibitors to Los Angeles fo a week's trip to the studios, with al expenses paid and a "dollar a week" a salary for the best ideas carried out i exploiting First National Week, showme throughout the country inaugurated sensa tional stunts to advertise the week. The First National advertising department i now receiving, preparing for submission t the trade paper exploitation editors a judges, and judging these exploitation ideas. Announcement of the winners will be made within the near future.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES—
OPINIONS ON BOX OFFICE RESULTS OBTAINED

"Hurtful to All Concerned"

It is my opinion that a personal appearance of motion-picture stars not only hurts them individually, but hurts the entire industry. In almost every case where a star makes a personal appearance the public before whom that star appears is very much disappointed in the personality of said star.

A great many of our motion picture heroes and heroines are very pleasing in silent photography, but nine out of every ten with whom one comes into personal contact, rather brings about the effect of shattering an ideal.

The biggest majority of them who make personal appearances are really incapable of properly addressing themselves to the public and are uncouth in their general characteristics when they get to associate with people.

Please do not construe this to apply to all of them, because it does not, but now that the personal appearance "stunt" has become the vogue, a number of so-called stars whom one never heard much about before, are rushing out to appear personally in public, and the character of these so-called stars is such that it really lowers the standard of the higher class ones who either do not appear in public at all, or when they do appear, are of such a different element that they cannot be compared in the same breath.

Personally, I have yet to find one appearance in my experience where the public has not been disappointed in the star.

I will not say that I have not found one case, because I think there is just one exception and that is, namely, Wallace Reid and he has appeared such a few times that I would not call him one of the "personal appearance" stars.

While I think it is perfectly all right for a man like Wallace Reid or a woman like Norma Talmadge to lend their presence to the opening of a great big beautiful theatre now and then and appear just one time, I cannot approve of the commercialized appearance "stunt" of the stars who appear three and four times a day or a week.

I am sure that they lower their dignity in doing so and they are not fooling the public, because the public know they are being paid for their appearance and that it is strictly a dollar and cent proposition, and not only do they disappoint the public by their personality, but I think that they lower the standard of the entire motion picture industry by so doing.

Very truly yours,

LEO A. LANDAU,
Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee.

"A Nebulous Luminary Best"

Exhibitors in the past have generally accepted the personal appearance tours of the average film stars as an indication of the waning of their popularity. But now that stars of greater magnitude are lending their charms to enhance the box office possibilities of their productions by appearing before the footlights, here is evidence of the ancient theory being in the discard.

There has always been more or less speculation as to the advisability of a star stepping out of her enchanted chamber of celluloid to the less romantic realm of reality. Observation has disclosed that those in the past who sought the opalescence of the footlights, flickered out soon afterwards. Of course, there have been exceptions as is the case in most things.

An immediate benefit to the box office results from personal appearances. The public—always more or less morbid in their curiosity—without regard or thought for disillusionment, rush to see them. The descendant star twinkles in his or her best manner. Maybe his or her voice is not as the admirers had fancied. Maybe the personality that radiated from the screen is not so evident in this new firmament. What happens? The worshippers have lifted the veil of fancy to find reality too cruel an artist. For isn't it true that things are never as they seem and what fascinates us most we never know much about?

A star may be a "dear" or a "darling" before the footlights to the fawning public, but the chances are when she is again seen in her celluloid fairy land, the mystery of her is no longer a mystery, and by the same token is interest in her lessened. There is little doubt but what the motion picture public will be drawn closer to the stars which keep themselves as nebulous luminaries.

The personal appearance is a great stimulant to the box-office—an added attraction that invariably makes a "GO" of even the average attraction. But—whether or not the industry as a whole benefits thereby is the question. It seems however that the relationship of the screen hosts and the public should be confined to the celluloid medium, for then there can be no opportunity for the shattering of idols and the imaginary spheres within which the motion picture fan has held them.

The motion picture is distinctly one thing and the legitimate stage another. We find the public has builded far more colorful ideas around the motion picture personage than it has the artist of the spoken drama. This seems to be the answer to public appearances.

A star twinkles best in its own firmament. The things of life that remain beyond the pale of reality fascinate us most. Conserve the star in all the splendor and mysterious trappings with which the public has cloaked her; keep her nebulous, because fewer stars are appearing in the motion picture firmament and their popularity should in nowise be jeopardized.

E. R. ROGERS,
Tivoli Theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn.

"Injurious"

Small stars of the motion picture firmament descend to earth?

Small exhibitors open their theatres to the personal appearances of men and women whose fame has been acquired in the production side of the industry, and, if so, to what extent, and what will be the ultimate effect?

Like all questions, this one has two sides. Arguments may be set forth to prove the value of these appearances, for the reason that the benefit, if any, is tangible, and is shown by increased receipts during the visit of the star, at least. On the other hand, the damage, if any, is bound to be intangible, and will not be reflected until later, or whenever another production in which this particular star is featured shall be shown. And then there are many things to which a falling off in business at that particular time might be attributed—to the weather, competing attractions, etc.—and it might not occur to the exhibitor that his loss of business on the picture should be laid to the fact that the star had previously made a personal appearance at his house.

But it is the opinion of the writer that personal appearances of stars, if persisted in, will work an injury to the industry, at least from the exhibitors' standpoint. In the first place, few stars have a good stage presence—their screen personality is much more attractive than is their personal appearance before an audience.

Then, too, few screen stars have had stage experience; few have the necessary stage mannerisms, or even the voice necessary to put across a ten-minute monologue when face to face with an audience. Occasionally there is an exception to this rule, the exception serves only to prove the rule. A case in point is that of Douglas McLean, who appeared in person at one of our theatres. Not only was his visit well received, and receipts during his stay unusually good, but business showed a definite increase when his next release was shown at this same theatre, the increase being computed by comparison with other pictures, before and since, and with the same week during previous years.

After all, it is the combination of the picture and the star of the picture that attracts. It is proof of the old Shakesperian truth that "the play's the thing." Pictures are, in fact, the most realistic form of drama the world has ever known, and every effort has been made to maintaint his realism. The screen, and the screen alone, is able to show real life, in natural scenery and environment. An audience will resent, even to the point of withholding its patronage, any attempt at disillusionment. Shatter the ideals that have been builded around the favorite screen stars of the day; let your patrons know that these stars are just ordinary humans, after all, and you will then destroy one of the greatest attractions the screen has today. And giving your patrons a close-up of these stars in the flesh will do that very thing.

That the producers have already decided the public should not be disillusioned is shown by the fact that it is now almost impossible to gain admission to any of the leading studios. Formerly it was an easy matter for anyone to go through. Just try to get in now.

It is our opinion, based on close observation for a number of years, that personal appearances will not permanently benefit the producer or the exhibitor, much less the star.

Yours very sincerely,

STANLEY N. CHAMBERS,
Theatrical Enterprises,
Wichita, Kan.

In the Film Centers

Activities of Exchange Managers, Exhibitors, Salesmen and Other

Cleveland

PAUL TESSIER, manager of the Cleveland Pathe exchange, has a way all his own for stimulating business. He tried it out the month of January and it worked like a charm. It's a local sales drive, with prizes for the winner. The contest is based on the percentage of new business in each territory. The prizes consisted of $125, contributed by the men themselves at the rate of $5 per man, by the manager and by the home office. There were nine salesmen in the contest, six short subject men, and three feature men. H. E. Smith, of the Toledo territory, won the short subject prize, beating his nearest competitor by two per cent. Lew C. Thompson won the feature prize. Tessier is delighted with the results of the contest. "It peps up a bad season," he says, and makes a good average for the year.

W. B. Frank, sales manager for Associated Exhibitors, was in town last week. Frank is on a tour of exchanges.

A. H. Toffler has joined up with the local Pathe sales force again.

An amalgamation between the local First National exchange and the local Goldwyn exchange was announced this week when it became known that Johnny Himmelein, of First National's Ohio sales army, and Miss Mary McAndrews, Goldwyn Manager Kimes' secretary, had consolidated that personal and film interests. Himmelein is one of the best known film men out this way, and his marriage is a matter of common interest.

Charles Perry is not leaving the managerial post of the local Select office, as was previously announced. Perry has decided to stay in Cleveland.

Phil Selznick was in New York last week. Beside getting the Ohio distribution rights on "Oh Mabel Behave" and "Yankee Doodle, Jr.," he succeeded in annexing a beautiful dose of grip. Although not noticeable, Phil has dropped off at least ten pounds.

R. C. Goldman, the new manager for Robertson-Cole out this way, has been making a get-acquainted tour of the territory this week.

Kansas City

C. A. MADDOX, manager of the Vitagraph office at Oklahoma City, Okla., has resigned and is in Kansas City. Mr. Maddox, who formerly was assistant Vitagraph

(Continued in Last Column)

Pen Sketches

Samuel Werner

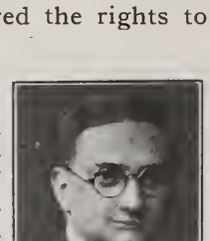
THIS introduces Samuel Werner, president of the United Film Service, dean of the St. Louis film exchange managers and a man of character and ability. Identified with the industry for fourteen years.

Back in 1910, when the movies were still in swaddling clothes, Werner was largely instrumental in merging four of the leading film exchanges in St. Louis, two license exchanges and two so-called trust offices, under the name of the Swanson-Crawford Film Company. This transaction marked an epoch in the business and attracted national attention. The exchanges affected were O. T. Crawford Film Service, Western Film Exchange, Swanson Film Company and Werner Film Exchange. Werner became a director and secretary of the merked exchang.

In the latter part of 1914 Pat Powers, who recently became the moving spirit of the Robertson-Cole organization, induced Werner to become president of the St. Louis Film Exchange. Later he organzed the United Film Service Exchange of which he is now the head.

In 1920 Werner acquired the St. Louis franchise for Federated Exchanges, and in addition has secured the rights to many leading independent productions.

* * *



Alec J. Herman,

ALEC. J. HERMAN, manager of the new First National branch office at Albany, N. Y., which is under the supervision of the New York exchange, is one of the youngest exchange heads in the business. Although he confesses to but 28 summers, he has demonstrated his ability to carry the heavy responsibility which has been thrown on his shoulders.

Herman started his career in the film industry with the Fox organization, of which he was special representative at the time he left it to join Firs Naional. He was assigned to the Albany territory, covring it for three years with so much success that he attracted the attention of his superiors and won the managership when the new office was created.

Herman is extremely popular with the exhibitors in his territory, and they swamped him with congratulations upon his promotion.

* * *

Mrs. A. H. Sessions, one of the best-known woman film executives in the industry, has been appointed manager of the W. W. Hodkinson branch in New Orleans, effective on January 26, according to an announcement from the Hodkinson offices this week.

Mrs. Sessions is recognized as the pioneer woman executive in the industry, and during the many years that she had been connected in an official capacity in various branch offices, has built up a reputation that is surpassed by but few men in the business.

For several years Mrs. Sessions was manager of the World Film branch in Atlanta. Later she became manager of the Republic branch in Atlanta and when the Republic branch was closed Mrs. Sessions went on the road as special representative for one of the large distributing companies. She is well known throughout the South, both in the Atlanta and New Orleans territories.

manager at Kansas City, announce that he expects to become affiliate with a Kansas City exchange i the near future.

A special appeal has been sen out to exhibitors in the Kansa City territory by Harry Grahan manager of the Kansas City Path branch office, requesting exhib tors to use unusual care in selectin subjects just at present, due to th "mud slinging" which has fo lowed the recent coast traged "Topics of the Day," and simila subjects, are good antidotes fc blue law encroachments, Mr. Gra ham believes.

The Kansas City Fox office i preparing to move into its ne quarters at Nineteenth and Wyan dotte street. The news office wi afford much more space and bet ter working conditions. Exhibitor have been urged by Manager Jame M. White to send in their accessor orders early in order to avoid pos sible confusion.

Songalogues old as the motio picture industry itself, have bee given a new "twist" and are bein used by Frank L. Newman at hi Newman theatre, Kansas City, t great advantage. Each week popular song is selected, the word of which are flashed on the screer and, accompanied by the New man's 40-piece orchestra, patron are invited to join in on the choru —and they do, with enthusiasm.

Tommy Taylor is the latest addi tion to the selling force of th Kansas City office of the Sterlin Pictures Corporation. Tommy i obtaining no small number o bookings on "Burn 'Em U Barnes" and "The Call of th North."

"Sold out" was the report of W Benjamin, Universal salesman ou of Kansas City, who returned fron a trip to the key cities in the Kan sas City territory last week. Al "Bennie" has to do now is to si around and wait until the releas of "Foolish Wives"—then fo more contracts.

Charles Sears, president of th M. P. T. C. Missouri, and H Jones of Marshall, Mo., have pur chased all the motion pictur houses in Nevada, Mo., a town o 10,000 population, and are plan ning to book a large number of th best first run pictures for the the atres, which are six in number Mr. Sears, whose home is i Brookfield, Mo., will move t Nevada.

H. L. Craig, who recently joine the Robertson-Cole "knights of th road" out of Kansas City, is send ing in an abundance of contracts ccording to Roy E. Churchill, ranch manager. Mr. Craig is raveling in Northern Kansas.

(Continued on following page)

In the Film Centers

(Continued from page 1472)

The following changes in management and new theatres have een announced in the Kansas City erritory the last week:

Novelty theatre, Winfield, Kan., urchased by J. H. Thomas from . A. Rehm; Royal theatre, Benonville, Ark., opened by M. J. Kilbourn; Royal theatre, Pitcher, Okla., reopened by J. W. Cotter and enamed the Gayety; Isis theatre, Waterville, Kan., construction tarted by R. E. Berner; Mozart heatre, Kansas City, reopened by . Walker.

Buffalo

A NEW Joint Arbitration Board has been appointed by the uffalo Film Board of Trade. W. . V. Macfarland, manager of the Pathe xchange, is chairman. Other embers are: Richard C. Fox, elect; Robert T. Murphy, Pioneer, nd John E. Kimberly, Nu-Art ictures. In the future meetings ill be held Monday afternoons at o'clock in the Fox exchange reening rooms.

Paul Shaver likes John Kimber-. He started in the business with m at the old World Film exange. He went with him to athe. He followed him to Vitaaph and now he is fighting beside m at Nu-Art Pictures. Talk out loyalty. Paul is Nu-Art's w salesman.

Hank Kaufman, chief inspection ooker for Pathe, was a visitor last eek, so was Robert B. Smeltzer, astern district manager, and E. Eschman, general sales manager. Mary Walters has succeeded vina Hoffman as strenographer Pathe. She upholds the beauty putation of the office.

Commissioner John H. Mealil is ing to put over a $10 tax on all ose who use the city parks for lf purposes. Eddie Hayes, of rst National, Allan Moritz, of ramount, Tom Brady, of Hodson, and other film men who eld wicked pill sticks are downst over the proposal. They swear ey will give up the golf before e ten dollars.

Lee Gainsboro, who has been th various companies all over the ntry during the past 15 years, s joined the Buffalo United tists' staff, and is dividing the ritory with P. H. Smith, acding to an announcement by M. Markowitz, exchange manager.

More than 100 exhibitors have cided to come to the rescue of e Henry W. Kahn by booking tro product during Kahn week, arch 26-April 1.

Clayton F. Sheehan, district manager for Fox, gave a dinner last Monday evening in honor of Mary Carr, who was in Buffalo for the opening of the new Lafayette Square theatre. Dick Fox, of Select, arranged to have Mayor Frank X. Schwab pose at the station with Niles Welsh for Selznick News. Mr. Welsh was also in town for the opening.

R. H. Clark was in Buffalo for a conference with E. J. Hayes and staff at First National. F. J. McKenna short subject manager, has recovered from his recent illness and is now back on the job.

H. L. Taylor, better known as "Hub," has been engaged by Sydney Samson, manager of the Grand & Warner office, as a salesman.

H. E. Hughes, formerly with Nu-Art, is now a member of the Goldwyn office boosters. Manager George A. Hickey says business is booming.

W. C. Fickeisen, former Merit manager, and Mell R. Edwards, well known film salesman, have organized Ad-Art Photoplays, Inc., with offices at 386 Pearl street. They plan to make industrial film.

Canada

LEO DEVANEY, of Toronto, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, Limited, in Canada, has been elected president of the Ontario Film Exchange Managers' Association. Mr. Devaney graduated from the newspaper ranks in Toronto a number of years ago to become Toronto branch manager for Fox.

Max Doolittle, of New York, representing the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, was a recent visitor in Winnipeg, Manitoba, where he co-operated with the Dominion Theatre in exploiting the presentation of "The Golem," starting February 20.

The Canadian Exhibitors' Exchange, Limited, an exchange organization established on a co-operative basis by exhibitors in Ontario, has taken out a Quebec Provincial charter to incorporate its branch business at Montreal, Quebec.

Louis Jacobs, representing Canadian Universal at Vancouver, B. C., recently conducted a private screening of several episodes of "Leather Pushers" in the screen room of the local exchange building before a gathering of Vancouver sporting editors.

Robert Myers, who has been with Vitagraph for a number of years, has been appointed Western Canadian manager of Standard Films, Limited, with office in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Ted Hardcastle, Louis Goodman and Jean Arsen, well known in film exchange circles in Western Canada, have organized a company at Winnipeg to produce topical pictures.

Harold L. Pfaff, with Associated First National Pictures in Eastern Canada for two years, has become booking manager with Canadian Educational Films, Limited, at Toronto.

Famous Players Film Service, Limited, has secured the releasing rights in Canada for "The Better 'Ole," which has already played a number of leading theatres throughout the Dominion under the direction of the Anglo-Canadian Picture Plays, Limited.

Famous Lasky Film Service, Limited, Toronto, has arranged to conduct a special Paramount campaign in Canada starting March 4 to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the establishment of Paramount.

Leon J. Bamberger, formerly of Minneapolis, has been appointed exploitation representative for the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Limited, Toronto, and will cover the whole Canadian territory.

Maurice Davis has been appointed manager of the Montreal branch of the Regal Films, Limited, in succession to S. H. Decker, who has been transferred. James Pearson, formerly with the Specialty Film Import, Pathe branch in Montreal, has been made office manager of Regal's Montreal branch.

John Levitt, salesman with the Famous Players Film Service, Montreal, has married Miss Miriam Decker, sister of S. H. Decker, former Montreal representative of Regal Films, Limited.

L. E. Ouimet, of Montreal, president of the Specialty Film Import, Limited, has returned to Montreal, after visiting California. Mr. Ouimet states that he is considering a plan for the producing of pictures in Canada. His company represents Pathe in Canada.

Carl Weeks, brother of George W. Weeks, recently installed in an important post at Paramount headquarters in New York, has been appointed Winnipeg manager of the Famous Lasky Film Service, Limited.

Morris A. Milligan, of Winnipeg, former Western manager of Famous-Lasky Film Service, Limited, has been appointed Toronto manager for Paramount and chief assistant to Mr. W. A. Bach of Toronto, general manager for Canada of Famous-Lasky.

Roy Tash has rejoined the staff of Filmcraft, Limited, Toronto, after spending about six months in the States. Filmcraft is producing "Camera Classics," a new short-subject series, which is being released by Educational Pictures.

W. R. Marshall, of Vancouver, B. C., formerly handling Select releases in British Columbia, has been appointed Vancouver branch manager of Fox Film Corporation in succession to Mr. W. Wootten.

Des Moines

MISS JEAN BOWEN, of the Film Board of Trade of Omaha, which also covers Iowa, visited the exchanges in Des Moines on her way to New York, where she will be in the foreign department of Fox Film Company. Miss Bowen found no knockers against her knickers.

Mr. G. E. Ackers, of the Paramount Sales Department, visited Harry Hunter, manager of the Des Moines exchange. He will be back again next week.

Miss Hazel Douglas contributes the news from the Des Moines exchange to the Paramount Pep Magazine.

M. F. C. Anderson, for two years assistant cashier at the Famous Players exchange Des Moines, was promoted to head cashier with the Pathe exchange.

Ralph Proctor is expected shortly to exploit "Foolish Wives" in Des Moines and Iowa.

H. D. Baumeister, of the Pathe Exchange, Des Moines, visited Davenport, and was taken ill there. He shortly recovered.

The Pathe Exchange is very busy getting ready for Brunet contest between the exchanges for the month of March.

Miss Gladys Caplan, who two years ago was employed in the Famous-Players Exchange, returned last week as biller.

Mr. Haines of the Universal Exchange, visited the southern part of the state and reported that sales are going fine in Iowa.

New England

THE Breed theatre, motion picture house, at 16 Main street, Norwich, Conn., conducted for the past six years by Murray J. Zuckerman and Herman S. Goldfadden, has been sold to Joseph Goghby of New York and Philip Isper of Norwich. The new owners will conduct the house along the same lines that have made it recognized as a representatively modern motion picture house in that section of New England.

The new owners intend to make a number of improvements in the house, a general overhauling to be inaugurated in the near future. The present orchestra, of which James F. Drew is leader, has been engaged by the new owners. Mr. Isper was formerly one of the best known restaurant proprietors in Norwich.

William Cotter, assistant manager of the Broadway theatre at Springfield, Mass., has been appointed manager of the Strand theatre at Westfield, Mass. Mr. Cotter succeeds Edwin L. Knight.

NEWSY BRIEFS FROM CENTRAL FILM BELT

Chicago and the Mid-West

L. H. MASON, REPRESENTATIVE, 910 S. MICHIGAN AVE

Cecil Maberry, for the last year manager of Goldwyn's Chicago exchange, has left for New York to take up his duties as vice-president and general manager of Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, to which important post he has just been promoted. Mr. Maberry made a splendid record in Chicago as he had in other territories managed by him for Goldwyn, and carries the good will of hundreds of exchange men and exhibitors with him on his departure. Harry Lorsch, formerly assistant to Mr. Maberry at the Chicago exchange, and at present manager of the Omaha office, has been appointed manager of the Chicago office as successor to Mr. Maberry. Ben Reingold has been transferred to Omaha, where he will become manager. Sam Sherman, for some time salesman, connected with the local exchange, has been made sales manager.

R. C. Seery, of Illinois Associated First National, is proudly exhibiting a handsome diamond studded watch, presented to him by Mack Sennett as a token of appreciation of the splendid business done with Sennett's pictures, through the local office of First National.

A painful accident, which will incapacitate him for some time, happened to R. Funk, popular Universal salesman covering Northern Indiana and Eastern Illinois, on Sunday, when he slipped on an icy sidewalk and broke his leg below the knee. Following the accident Mr. Funk was taken to his home at 531 Surf Stret, Chicago, where he is reported doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The Exhibitors Supply Company has moved its executive offices from 537 S. Dearborn Street, to the sixth floor of the building at 825 S. Wabash Avenue. Exhibitors Supply has taken a long lease on this big building, which was formerly occupied by the American Wall Paper Company, and in May will also move its sales department, now located at 845 S. Wabash, to this building. Work of remodeling and renovating the building is now under way and Exhibitors plan to have one of the finest office and sales buildings in the country.

Plans for a $200,000 theatre, store and office building, to be erected at the corner of Elston and Keystone Avenues, containing a one thousand seat theatre, two lodge halls, nine stores and nine offices, have been completed by Architect Arthur Howell Knox, for Robert Pottinger, the owner. There will be a theatre entrance on both Elston and Keystone Avenues, according to the plans, and work on the structure is to start as soon as possible.

George W. Thomas has opened a new motion picture theatre at Thomas, Illinois, a small farming community center which has been without theatre representation heretofore.

Miss Dupont, who has been making appearances at the Roosevelt, in connection with "Foolish Wives," made an unexpected personal appearance at the Blackstone Theatre last week, where Frank Bacon is playing "Lightnin'." Miss Dupont was invited to witness the play from back stage and when the curtain went up found herself one of the crowd in the court room scene.

Ernest L. Crandall, of the New York Board of Education, is attending the National Educational Association Convention and Exposition in the Leiter Building, Chicago, this week, and through the courtesy of Universal, gave a number of addresses and showed educational reels in Universal's projection room. Universal was also represented at the exposition, where it had a booth and featured its new historical serials, such as "Winners Of The West," which created much favorable comment among the educators in attendance.

Max Schwartz, well known film salesman, is now traveling the southside for Manager Brimmer, of Vitagraph. Max, for some time past, has ben connected with Frank Zambrino's organization and has a very wide circle of friends in the business.

"The Prodigal Judge," one of Vitagraph's best bets, is going over big at the Ziegfield Theatre and has been booked into the Castle Theatre, where it will open March 12th.

Herman Stern, district manager for Universal, is in Kansas City this week where he will supervise the moving of Universal's Kansas City exchange into its new and larger quarters. Before returning to Chicago, Mr. Stern will visit several other cities where Universal maintains exchanges.

The Globe Theatre at Monticello, Illinois, has reopened after being closed for some weeks, under the management of Joe Allman, well known around Chicago as a film salesman.

Manager Nafziger has taken over the Lyric Theatre at Washington, Illinois, which he recently purchased from Frank Steimle.

The first trade showing of "Wild Honey," Universal's big, new feature, is scheduled for Friday at Aryan Grotto. Manager Lesserman believes this is one of the best box office attractions to be released by his company this year and he expects exhibitors to do a big business with it.

Andrew Karzas is head of the corporation which has taken out a permit for a $500,000 building to be known as the Grande Palais des Danse. It will be erected by the Woodlawn Theatre ompany, at the southeast corner of Cottage Grove Avenue and 62nd Street. C. W. and George L. Rapp are the architects. It is said that the hall will accommodate three thousand persons and will be one of the most beautiful in the world.

Charles Rogers, general manager in charge of distribution of Robertson-Cole, presided at sales conference, here this week, which was attended by managers from Robertson-Cole exchanges in the central west.

The Commodore, the palatial new theatre at 3105 Irving Park Boulevard, opened Wednesday night, March 1st, in charge of Manager Zahler. It is one of the most beautiful houses in Chicago and its furnishings and equipment were a revelation to the large crowd which attended the opening.

R. C. Williams has completed plans for a seven hundred seat house, which will be erected immediately at Streeter, Illinois. Mr. Williams hopes to have the house opened early in the Fall.

J. R. Levee, of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has arrived in Chicago from New York. He will install a system of sales efficiency particularly devoted to exhibitors in this territory. Mr. Levee had been handling the non-theatrical department at the New York exchange of Famous.

Manager Eddie Silverman, of Select, is proud of the record made by the Chicago exchange, which is one of the two exchanges in the country to rank over the one thousand mark on the company's efficiency record, New York being the one exchange to lead it.

The Chicago Paramount Pep Club, composed of executives and employees of the Local Famous Players-Lasky exchange, gave a pre Lenten dance at the Colonial Ba Room, Monday night, which wa a great success. It is the first gen eral social event given for som years by the film people and record crowd, including many ex hibitors, enjoyed the evening Manager Given was on hand wit his staff and all were kept bus giving the glad hand.

Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company had an interesting displa at the National Educational Asso ciation Exposition in the Leite Building this week, and visiting educators are much interested i the big, new Motiograph De Lux Projector and the special schoo machines on exhibit. One of th school machines was mounted on tripod equipped with casters whic enabled the machine to be move easily from place to place, and an other projector suitable to mount ing on a table, was shown. The standard mechanism of these ma chines and the small and compac lamp houses of the school model evoked particularly favorable com ment.

"Foolish Wives" continues to do a big business at the Roosevelt Theatre, where it is in its third week. The box office receipts or the third Sunday of its run were within fifty dollars of the firs Sunday, which broke all house records at this big Ascher house.

Earl Silverman has been promoted to head booker of First National exchange. He is a brother of Eddie Silverman, manager of the Selznick exchanges in Chicago who is the youngest man to hold down a managerial job in the Windy City.

Otis Skinner Play Popular in Chicago

Otis Skinner, America's foremost romantic actor, and under contract to the Exceptional Pictures Corporation to appear in a picturization of Booth Tarkington's "Mister Antonio," opened an indefinite run in Chicago on February 6th. Mr. Skinner's stage vehicle for this season is "Blood and Sand," a dramatization of the Ibanez novel of the same name, and he has met with nation-wide approval of his brilliant interpretation in the role of the Spanish hero of the bull ring.

As soon as Mr. Skinner completes his tour in "Blood and Sand," he will begin the filming of "Mister Antonio," which is one of his favorite characters, and which he played on the speaking stage for three years.

Lobby Display That Can Be Duplicated At Small Cost

This lobby display for "You Can't Believe Everything" is the work of J. Wright Brown, manager of the Rialto theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.

Advisory Board and Contributing Editors, Exhibitors' Service Bureau

Thomas D. Soriero, Strand theatres, Lowell.

Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.

George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.

H. C. Horator, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.

Edward L. Hyman, Strand theatre, Brooklyn.

Theo. L. Hays, Gen. Mgr. Finklestein & Rubin, Minneapolis.

Leo A. Landau, Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee.

Jack Kuhn, Loew theatres, Cleveland.

S. Barret McCormick, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Cleveland.

W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich.

E. R. Rogers, Managing Director, Tivoli and Rialto theatres, Chattanooga, Tenn.

G. E. Brown, Managing Director, Loew's Palace theatre, Memphis, Tenn.

Stanley Chambers, Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.

Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta.

R. B. Wilby, Supervisor of Southern Enterprises, Inc., Birmingham, Ala.

E. V. Richards, Jr., Gen. Mgr., Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.

F. L. Newman, Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.

Arthur G. Stolte, Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, Iowa.

Chas. Branham, Famous-Lasky, Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Lowell W. Calvert, Managing Director, Capitol theatre, St. Paul, Minn.

W. C. Quimby, Managing Director, Strand and Jefferson theatres, Fort Wayne, Ind.

J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.

George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.

Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.

Outstanding Features of This Week's Section

As an idea for an inexpensive lobby display the above on "Don't Tell Everything," is worth inspecting.

The Arcade theatre, at Jacksonville, Fla., did some fine exploitation for "A Sailor-Made Man." Inspect cut and story on page 1476 for the details.

Joseph Plunkett got around the child labor law with his prologue for "Penrod" with one of the best novelties ever presented in New York. The cut and story on page 1478 will explain the number.

What a live wire exploiter can do is told by the cut and story on page 1480 relative to the campaign for "Theodora" put over by W .R. Ferguson.

Getting the co-operation and attention of Young America in connection with the showing of "Penrod" is explained b ythe story about the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, recent party. See page 1481.

Just what results can be accomplished by the use of a paint brush and some beaver board in the way of an attractive lobby front is told in the cut on page 1486, showing "The Three Musketeers" display recently used by W. E. Drumbar, manager of the Riveiera theatre, Knoxville, Tenn.

Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.

Louis K. Sidney, Managing Director, William Fox theatres, Denver.

Herbert J. Thatcher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.

Geo. Rotsky, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Montreal, Canada.

L. W. Barclay, Managing Director, Nemo theatre, Johnstown, Pa.

Phil. Gleichman, Managing Director, Broadway-Strand theatre, Detroit.

J. L. Johnston, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., of Texas, Dallas, Texas.

Fred S. Myer, Managing Director, Palace theatre, Hamilton, O.

C. C. Perry, Manager, Astor, Strand and Liberty theatres, St. Paul, Minn.

Nelson R. Bell, Publicity Director, Crandall's thetres, Washington, D. C.

L. L. Stewart, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.

Joseph Plunkett, Managing Director, Mark Strand theatre, New York.

Samuel Sivitz, Director of Publicity, Rowland and Clark theatres, Pittsburgh.

Ray Grombacher, Managing Director, Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash.

Ross A. McVoy, Manager, Temple theatre, Geneva, N. Y.

George Tooker, Manager, Regent theatre, Elmira, N. Y.

Ernest G. Stellings, Manager, Grand theatre, Wilmington, N. C.

Phil Gersdorf, Supervisor, Southern Enterprises theatres, Macon, Ga.

Lobby display and ballyhoo for "A Sailor Made Man" the work of the Arcade theatre, Jacksonville, Fla. Both stunts are described in th accompanying story

Hill Builds Novel Lobby Display

"A Sailor Made Man" Exploitation at Jacksonville Attracts Attention

"A SAILOR MADE MAN" campaign that draws a prize comes from Jacksonville, Fla., where Albert B. Hill, manager of the Arcade theatre, has recently played this picture.

Following is Mr. Hill's report on the campaign made to Lem Stewart, director of exploitation for Southern Enterprises.

"One week in advance we started our campaign by having all ushers dress in white sailor uniforms, with the white hats and blue neckerchiefs, wearing the goggles typical of Harold Lloyd. This of course attracted attention so much that frequent comments were offered by the patrons. These uniforms were worn through the entire run of picture. The cashier also wore hat and goggles and the doorman wore blue navy uniform.

"Saturday morning a special boys and girls matinee was run, with 1,000 Lloyd caps distributed and going like wildfire. A special lobby display was constructed (shown by accompanying cut), the idea being to construct the deck of a ship.

"On deck were life preservers, and ring buoys. We had port and starboard lights to add to its effectiveness. On each side drops were used painted to represent the ocean, and to make it complete rope rails were constructed which made it very realistic. Stanchions reaching to the ceiling supporting dark blue awning set off the lobby quite effectively. Two large coils of 3/5 line were placed at advantageous points in the display, completing a lobby that without a doubt proved its effectiveness in receipts.

"As a ballyhoo, an old cut down white automobile was borrowed for a ballyhoo. On this we constructed two sails one reading 'Harold Lloyd in A Sailor Made Man,' while the other read 'Arcade Now.' With this stunt every square inch almost, of Jacksonville was covered. This stunt proved very effective while the cost was very reasonable. A duck placed on this auto brought forth many laughs.

Don't Take Chances

THE other fellow has played it. Let him tell you what he did with it—how he did it. "The Booking Guide" and your "News File" will tell you. Exhibitors everywhere have proclaimed "The Guide" a real service. Are you letting it work for you?

"A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" ballyhoo put over by the Garrick theatre, Minneapolis

Many Sides Campaign Put Ov for "Conquering Power"

Exploitation of "The Conquering Fower" the Rialto theatre, Charlestown, W. Va., beg with a generous use of display advertising the newspapers prior to the opening and dur the engagement included a ballyhoo that tracted the attention of Charlestown reside

A man wearing the costume like that of "P Grandet" of the picture pushed a cradle c taining money bags about the streets. A sign which was printed "Love's enemy is insid explained the tie-up.

The local boy scouts were enlisted in the vertising campaign and the youngsters dis buted more than ten thousand throw-awa Tie-ups with book stores were arranged, merchants featuring copies of "Euge Grandet."

Widespread interest in the showing v aroused by the use of a novel essay contest

"Over the Hill" Campaign Interests Louisville

The profitable tie-up with the telegraph co pany which has been a feature of "Over Hill" and "The Old Nest" campaigns w used for the first-named picture by E. Forr Young, publicity director of the Rialto theat Louisville, Ky., with the usual satisfacto results.

The telegraph company placed a desk in Rialto lobby and in return for this privil sent out 700 local messages to a selected furnished by Mr. Young.

A screening for invited guests prior to regular opening was productive of the us newspaper publicity and word-of-mouth adv tising.

"Go To Theatre Week" Held at Richfield, Utah

ANOTHER "Go To Theatre" week is reported from Richfield, Utah, where the Kinema Consolidated Theatres, Inc., have recently staged a campaign with success.

There is only one theatre in Richfield —the Kinema—but this did not stop President A. L. Stallings of the Kinema Company in the undertaking, although it did make the stunt more expensive.

The Kinema's "Go To Theatre" week was primarily a voting contest, in which weekly tickets, good for a certain number of votes, were sold by the aspirants of a trip to California.

Page advertising in the local papers, heralds, etc., were also used to exploit the campaign.

Carroll Stages Exceptional "Peacock Alley" Campaign

Asheville, N. C., will remember "Peacock Alley" for some time to come, thanks to Manager J. V. Carroll, of the Imperial theatre in that city.

Manager Carroll's campaign on the picture was a very thorough one, beginning well in advance of the play date, with advertising paper, slides shown on the screen, etc.

His lobby was a beauty. Two immense vases —beautiful examples of the Grecian period— flanked the entrance of the lobby and over these was a cut-out of a peacock. In the front of the theatre, forming a sort of archway, were two more peacock cut-outs—the peacocks facing each other, with their tails spread. There were plenty of stills, one-sheets, three-sheets, and the like, to give point to this generous display of peacocks.

In addition to his lobby, Manager Carroll formed a tie-up with one of the smartest shops in town, and they declared a Peacock Day— which was, of course, the opening day of the picture's showing, which proved quite successful. This shop dressed its windows in peacock feathers, displaying gowns, wraps, coats, hats and even lingerie of peacock blue. This was an unusually beautiful display, and each of these two windows had a cut-out of a peacock, and a set of 11 x 14 stills from the picture.

And Asheville is still talking about "Peacock Alley."

(Above)
Lobby display on "The Fox" by the Liberty theatre, Council Bluffs, Ia.
(Left)
Ballyhoo used by the Liberty to exploit "Conflict"

The Standard Theatre, Cleveland, knows how to make a lobby attractive. This display for "Headin' West" commands the attention. Hoot Gibson, the star, dominates the display and the cut-out pointing to the box office adds a novel touch to the general effect. The lobby had a noticeable effect on the box office receipts during the run of the feature.

Tie-up Page on "What No Man Knows" Put Over by Barnette

E. J. Barnette, the hustling young manager of the Victory theatre at Waco, Texas, put over a good newspaper-merchants tie-up on his presentation of "What No Man Knows." The Waco News-Tribune lined up the merchants for the contest and the theatre gave $10 in gold and passes to showings of the picture for the most logical sales talks submitted to the merchants for their goods following the publication of the tie-up page. Each one of the nine merchants' ads which made up the co-operative section started off with the title of the picture, "What No Man Knows," for a catchline, and followed up with copy about the particular store or line of goods advertised. The theatre prizes were to those who made the greatest sales improvement on the merchants' copy and some exceptional catchlines, sales talks and logotypes were brought out by the test. The idea only helped the picture considerably but brought the theatre into good favor with both merchants and newspaper.

Novel Lobby Decorations Used at Milwaukee

ASCHER'S MERRILL THEATRE, Milwaukee, has a space above the entrance which changes with every picture.

Manager Ralph Wettstein used black gauze cardboard figures, and the jiggy ghost idea from the Lindlar lobby. The cardboard phantoms danced from the ends of strings behind the thin black curtain. Flanking the display were cardboard lamp-posts with real incandescents and globes.

"Over the Hill" window display by the Ogden theatre, Ogden, Utah

Gill Exploits "Hail the Woman" at Manhattan, Kan.

While in Manhattan, Kan., last week, laying out a campaign on "Molly O" and "Hail the Woman," H. G. Gill, director of publicity for the Kansas City First National office, took advantage of an excellent opportunity to hand the fans in that section some real publicity, in connection with the showing of "Hail the Woman." The picture was shown at Glenn Dickinson's Marshall theatre.

In addition to a 16-foot case island window in the largest and the most popular store in the city, in which a reproduction of the woman with outstretched arms and in flying robes, there was a special screening arranged for twenty of the prominent club women of the city. With the women viewing the picture from a critical standpoint, there came favorable criticisms from all but two of them. With the two adverse viewpoints, Mr. Gill "floated" a strong newspaper article that made it plain to theatre followers that an excellent opportunity was at hand for them to place their judgment against these picked few, and for them to see the picture and get the facts first handed. The stunt worked well.

Plunkett's "Penrod" Prologue Big Novelty

The cut appearing herewith will explain the unique prologue number which Joseph Plunkett, managing director, originated for his recent showing of "Penrod" at the New York Mark Strand Theatre.

Mr. Plunkett's first idea was to stage a prologue that would employ the services of a number of youngsters, but the New York State law forbidding the appearance of children under sixteen on the stage without a permit from the Children's Aid Society stood in his way. It was then that he conceived the idea of using puppets, the "heads" to be those of the popular Mark Strand Male Quartette and the "bodies" of the Punch and Judy show variety.

Slits in the curtain, where the puppet heads should be, enabled the members of the quartette to put their heads through, their faces made up for the parts and rest them on the shoulders. The puppets' arms were manipulated also from the back by the insertion of the quartette's arms.

Thus the audience saw, from left to right, the characters of Penrod, Verman, Herman and Sam, seated with utmost jollity and singing "Under the Copper Moon" and "Jungle Joe." Had it seen the back view it would have been agreeably surprised at the transition, invention and sheer ingenuity.

Tasty use of a cutout of Katherine MacDonal in exploiting "The Beautiful Liar" at th Majestic theatre, Portland, Ore.

Many Sided 'Three Musketeers' Campaign Put Over

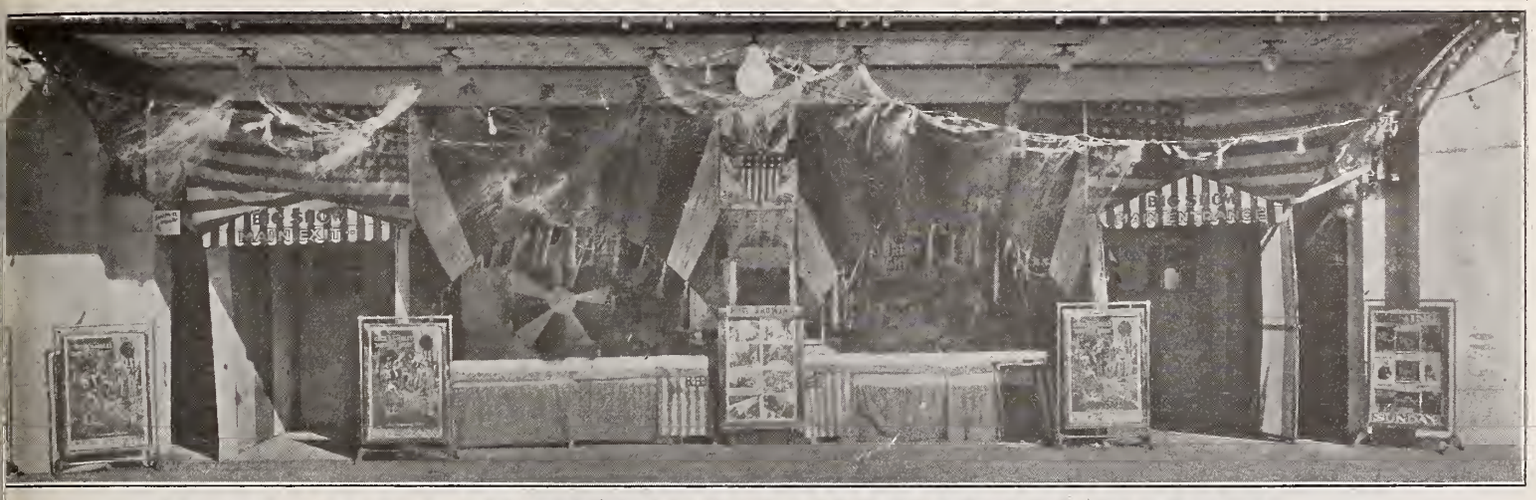
Assistant Manager Robert C. Frost of th Victory theatre, Tampa, Fla., started his cam paign on "The Three Musketeers" two week in advance of the showing with the usual "A for One and One for All" catch lines.

Besides the usual advertisong space, he use quite a little extra and worked up a one-pag tie up with local Merchants on the opening da of the local showing. The Merchants are i the habit of giving an occasional Dollar Day an Mr. Cooley worked the tie up along that lin with the big heading at the top of the pag "All for $1 and $1 for All." In the center o the page was the theatre ad and surrounding i the ads of the merchants.

The entire lobby was canopied under the ceil ing with an immense French Tricolor. On th side of the box office, a cut-out of the grou from the twenty four sheet was used. In fron was a trellis with live vines growing around i and a couple of Aborvitea trees on either sid of the trellis. On the floor reflecting on th cutout were bunch lights in soft shades of colo

Three men dressed in "Musketeer" costume and mounted on steeds that had "pep" as sisted in putting over the picture.

These two cuts and the accompanying story explain the novel and ingeniously constructed prologue number which Joseph Plunkett, managing director of the New York Mark-Strand theatre, presented for "Penrod"



Showing the "Saturday Night" lobby decorations when this picture played the Strand theatre, Tampa, Fla.

Ambulance Latest Ballyhoo for "Connecticut Yankee"

Manager J. C. Hartman of the Rialto theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla., discovered a means of attracting a crowd to his house which exhibitors have apparently overlooked. It was during the showing of "A Connecticut Yankee in Arthur's Court," that Hartman evolved this new and successful plan.

Hartman rented a private ambulance. It was large, white automobile and carried a blatant siren which attracted the attention of everyone within several blocks of its path. Several times during the afternoon and evening perforances of the engagement the ambulance was driven at high speed through the main streets of the city, and each time finally wound up its noisy trip at the Rialto theatre. An ambulance always draws a crowd, and this was no exception. As soon as a large, curious throng had assembled a man attired like the "Sir Boss" of the picture stepped from the rear of the conveyance and hung a square-shaped sign on the side of the car bearing this legend:

"Prompt service for those who laugh themselves sick. 'A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court.' Now showing."

In the intervals between the ambulance's wild journeys, "Sir Boss," with his silk hat, rolled trousers, and lace-fringed cloak, paraded about the business portion of the city with a sign on his back advertising the production.

Football Field Lobby Displays Dorman's Latest Stunt

Two dozen nails, eight rolls crepe paper various colors, four pieces lumber, 1 x 48 feet long, was the total equipment with the exception of one twenty-four sheet and a small banner used by Manager Richmond Dorman of the Rheil theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla., to construct an attractive lobby display on "Two Minutes to Go."

The display was erected on the canopy over the entrance to the theatre. It was constructed to represent a miniature gridiron. The twenty-four sheet with Charles Ray in a crouched position, served as a background. The goals were decorated with the colored crepe paper.

In the center of the miniature field a small banner was erected with the words "BIG GAME HERE TODAY AND SATURDAY. CHARLEY RAY AS QUARTER BACK FOR THE HOME TOWN TEAM."

Colored paper streamers were hung along the edge of the canopy, adding considerably to the attractiveness of the display.

Bathtub Stunt on "Saturday Night" Used Again

OLLIE BROWNLEE, manager of the Palace theatre at Muskogee, Okla., placed a white enamel bath tub, borrowed from a local plumbing establishment before the box office and on the sidewalk the days he played "Saturday Night" with a sign reading, "This is 'Saturday Night,'" and created a lot of curiosity in his picture by so doing.

Mr. Brownlee also used three men dressed in masks and long white capes as a street ballyhoo on "Three Live Ghosts" and stirred up his community a bit. The ghosts paraded in different directions and met every so often on some prominent corner where they so lined up that the costume lettering spelled "Three Live Ghosts."

Harrison Grabs Free Publicity in Atlanta Georgian

Manager De Sales Harrison of the Howard Theatre recently grabbed off a nice slice of the back page of the Atlanta Georgian when he planted a story, illustrated by a three-column cut, on how valuable a factor in a theatre's success the ushers are. The story carried a four-column head that read: "Theatre Ushers Taught Manly Art—Howard Establishes Unique Class"; and the cut showed a picture of two of the Howard ushers in ring attire.

The yarn was entertaining and made the finest kind of institutional advertising for the Howard.

A view of the prologue number on "The Silent Call" presented by S. L. Rothafel at the New York Capitol theatre

Fine Lobby Display on "Saturday Night"

C. D. Cooley, general manager of the Consolidated Amusement Company, Tampa, Fla., gave "Saturday Night" a beautiful lobby display for its four days' showing at the Strand theatre.

The entire lobby was completely covered with bright-colored cloth. Both the entrance and exit of the theatre was built out to the sidewalk after the style of a "main entrance" to a circus. The box office was in the center of the lobby and on one side a miniature Ferris wheel was built. There were little seats, with doll occupants, and many small electric lights of different colors. The wheel was kept revolving by a clock work motor.

The other side of the box office was built like a "booth," with charming ladies in attendance, who threw serpentine and kept the passersby in good humor. The marquee was decorated with streamers and colored lights, and extending clear across the street were two lines of colored lights. All of this gave the theatre the "carnival air" and attracted big business, in spite of some very disagreeable weather.

"Theodora" Prologue Pleases Seattle Audiences

When the Strand theatre, Seattle, played "Theodora" a few weeks ago, Manager H. B. Wright presented Seattle motion picture audiences with one of the highest class prologues that has recently been seen in any Seattle picture house.

A specialty dancer, and until recently a headliner on several vaudeville circuits, presented her "Danse Artistique," and as an encore, "The Grecian Maid's Bridal Dance." Both were costumed and produced to coincide with the costuming and production of the feature picture.

The sides of the stage were decorated with huge Grecian pillars, to resemble the Roman Coliseum. In place of special scenery, the dancer made her entrance before a scene from the photoplay itself. This was accomplished by using an enlarged, colored still from the picture, which was flashed on the screen during the dance. The effect was practically the same as would have been given by regular scenery. A spotlight was trained upon the dancer all during her dances.

The prologue was billed by Manager Wright in all the newspapers and poster advertising equally with the feature picture. An attractive musical interpretation by the Strand orchestra, under S. K. Wineland, also aided materially in the success of the prologue.

This was a ballyhoo used for the showing of "Molly O" when this picture played the Modjeska theatre, Milwaukee.

Empire Pulls Many "Theodora" Stunts

Exploitation Campaign at Montgomery Gets Interest of All and Sundry

MANAGER H. C. FARLEY, Miss M. R. Gannon of the publicity staff, co-operating with W. R. Ferguson, Goldwyn exploiteer, put over a unique and thorough exploitation campaign on "Theodora" when this picture played the Empire Theatre, Montgomery, Ala.

The lobby was draped with flags of all nations, specially designed banners, streamers, compo cut-out hangers and compo strips painted yellow and white on black.

In one of the display cases in front of the theatre was placed a three-sheet with copy reading: "Free admission to those who can match wits with Theodora. Can you solve the problem below?" Below were fifteen small squares with the figures 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9, each figure repeated three times. Descriptive matter underneath read: "Add six of the above figures to total 21. One figure cannot be used more than three times. Pass your solution into the box office before 3 p. m., Feb. 10."

Across wide Montgomery street large cut-out letters spelling "Theodora" were suspended under the large electric Empire sign. The letters were painted bright red with white outline and illuminated at night.

A chariot made of old wheels and tongue and covered with compo was driven through the city's principal streets for two days by an expert woman driver.

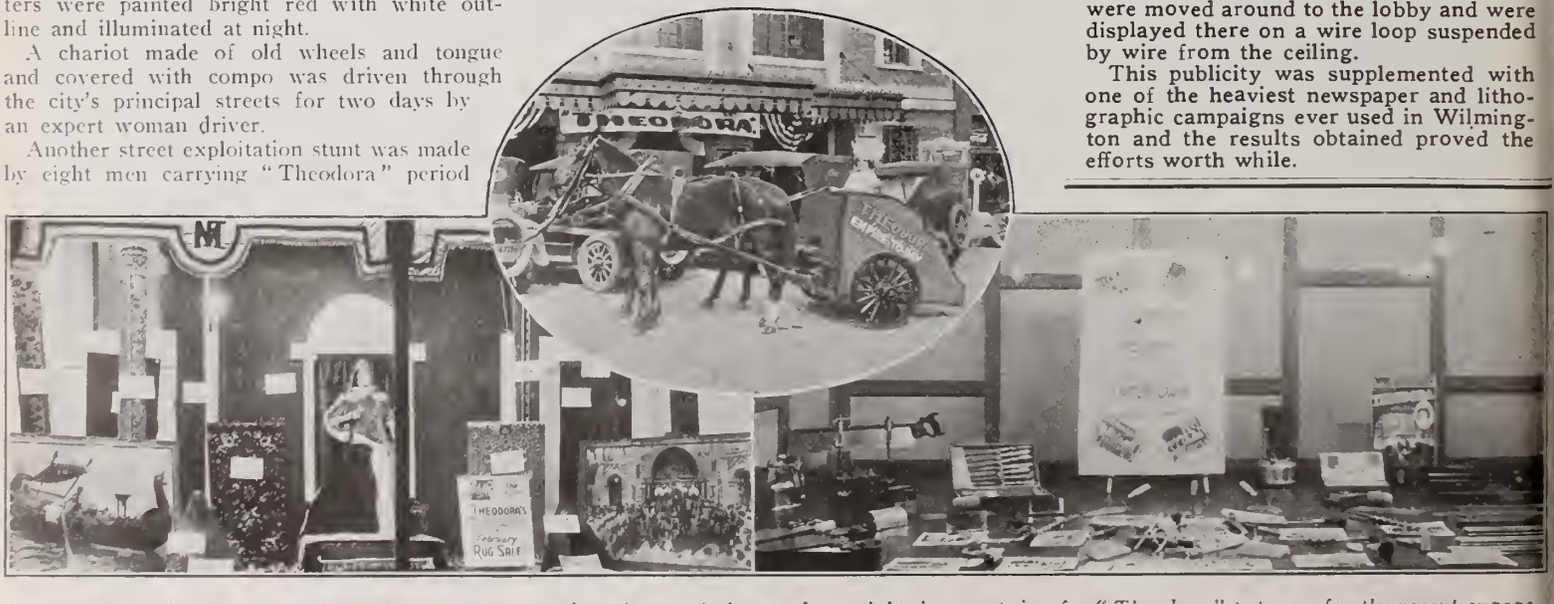
Another street exploitation stunt was made by eight men carrying "Theodora" period banners, following the band in the parade for Neil O'Brien's Minstrels.

Large banners were suspended from buildings on the corners of principal streets, intersecting Court square, the heart of the city. One hundred one-sheets were placed on the front of street cars.

Several window displays were obtained, including a tie-up with one of the finest department stores in the city.

Another unique tie-up was made with a hardware store. The window was completely rearranged with an up-to-date assortment of tools. A card read: "1400 years ago it took centuries to build palaces, temples, arenas, forums, hippodromes, etc., but to-day modern tools have enabled builders and architects to rebuild these same structures in two years' time for Goldwyn's great screen spectacle, 'Theodora,' at the Empire Theatre, starting Thursday, Feb. 9."

The orchestra of the theatre, under the leadership of F. G. Woodruff, arranged a special score, opening with "Masaniello." During the arena scenes a "trio in brass" furnished a very effective number.



Explaining by illustration portions of the story appearing above relative to the exploitation campaign for "Theodora," put over for the recent engagement of this picture at the Empire theatre, Montgomery, Ala.

Identical Campaigns on "Ha the Woman" Go Big

Two different motion picture theatres in tv different towns, under entirely different ma agements, has just played "Hail the Woman using the same exploitation methods, and bo of them report excellent business, so the meth must be good.

Here it is, as it has just been done simu taneously at the Strand Theatre, Akron, l James Dunlavy, and at the Dome Theati Youngstown, by Joe Trunk, under the firs hand guidance of J. S. Toland, publicity ma ager for First National in Ohio.

Beginning three weeks in advance of tl showing of "Hail the Woman," the theatres ra a trailer announcing the coming of the pictur its nature, its superiority, and also telling th public that on the Sunday two weeks prior t the engagement every tenth person enterin the theatre would receiv a spcial invitation t attend a private screening of "Hail th Woman," to be held the following week.

On the Sunday indicated, at both theatre mentioned, every tenth purchaser of tickets fc the current attraction received an engraved ir vitation to attend the private screening. O the reverse side of the invitations were place wherein the guest was asked to fill in his nam address and opinion of the picture.

After the screening, these opinions, with sig natures attached, were used as advertisement The Youngstown papers carried half a doze of them a day, boxed, and scattered all throug the editions. The Akron papers, likewise. Alsc slides were made of the opinions expressed a the screening, and these were run at all per formances, both at the Strand in Akron an the Dome in Youngstown.

Bain Gives "Peacock Alley" Fine Exploitation

D. M. BAIN, of the Howard Wells Amusement Company, with George W. Bailey, manager of the Victoria theatre, Wilmington, N. C., put "Peacock Alley" across to excellent business recently.

Approximately two weeks in advance a teaser campaign was started, the copy referring to the dates and days only. Then the Sunday before the Thursday opening two live peacocks were secured from a farm near Wilmington, and these, with a suitable background, were displayed in the best window in the town.

At the opening of the show the birds were moved around to the lobby and were displayed there on a wire loop suspended by wire from the ceiling.

This publicity was supplemented with one of the heaviest newspaper and lithographic campaigns ever used in Wilmington and the results obtained proved the efforts worth while.

Lobby decorations for "A Home-Spun Vamp" used by the Capitol theatre, Macon, Ga.

Lieber's Exploitation for "Penrod"

Circle Theatre, Indianapolis, Pulls Many Stunts on Neilan's Latest Picture

FOUR THOUSAND little feet, bearing bodies surmounted by two thousand freckled faces, marched through the downtown streets of Indianapolis Saturday morning, Feb. 25, in the crowning feature of Director Ralph Lieber's exploitation of "Penrod," shown at the Circle in conjunction with "First National Week."

Circle employees and police marshalled the freckled youngsters—they had to have at least ten "sun spots" to get in—at University Park, just north of the business district, and then led them to a special performance of "Penrod." The stunt got some bang-up publicity, which was fed by the printing of coupons in newspaper ads. several days in advance. Each boy and girl had to present one of the coupons, bearing a statement of the number of freckles on their faces, at the theatre door.

The coupons also called for guarantees that the freckles were not painted on. If a youngster had freckles in summer and not in winter he was admitted upon a summer photograph. The boy or girl with the most freckles was offered a $5 bill and an autographed picture of Wesley Barry. The dailies got a good laugh out of the fact that the winner testified his father and mother had counted the spots on his face for an hour and a half the night before the show and had to give up.

Thirteen other prizes were given.

Four by ten feet banners, announcing "We're on our way to the Circle to see 'Penrod,'" were carried by the marchers. The parade was five blocks long.

This was only one feature of the campaign, which was one of the most extensive the Circle has put across.

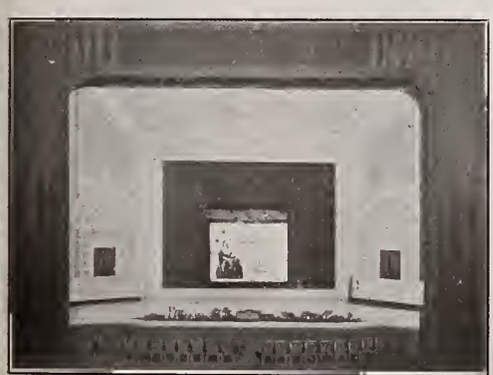
A week before "Penrod" opened Booth Tarkington, author of the "Penrod" stories, and Mrs. Tarkington were guests at a private showing given by Mr. Lieber. Newspapers got half columns of good copy out of Mr. Tarkington's comments on the films and anecdotes upon the material from which he built his stories. It was his first view of the film.

Mr. Lieber scored another unusual point when he got the Board of School Commissioners, who ordinarily are very wary about lending their influence to commercial enterprises, to indorse the film and give permission to the Circle to notify teachers that such approval had been given.

Book and department stores tied-up in windows, the most unique being a miniature reproduction of the Circle boxes and stage shown by the W. K. Stewart Company in a display of Tarkington books. Windows and mention in their newspaper ads. were given by L. S. Ayres and the New York Store, department stores. The book stores also sent out 10,000 heralds of the film in mail packages.

Outdoor publicity included use of billboards, 500 one-sheets, and street car front boards.

Screen advertising ran for three weeks and newsptaper copy one week in advance of the showing.



Miniature reproduction of the Circle theatre, Indianapolis, used as a window display on "Penrod" as told by the accompanying story

Hill Plans to Combat Effects of Bad Weather

Manager Hill of the Arcade theatre, Jacksonville, Fla., featured a thoroughly complete sales campaign for "Saturday Night," including the standard methods of accessory and newspaper advertising. The high-point of this week was that Hill planned his campaign in advance and then carried the plan to conclusion . . . the only way to sell or advertise anything economical and with assurance.

Then—these additional methods were used to advantage.

Ten insert cards were displayed in prominent locations, the windows of drug stores and cigar stores.

Four 11 x 14 specially painted cards, and six 22 x 28 speeially printed cards were displayed in selected spots such as hotels, etc.

A special telephone operator was engaged to telephone a selected list of people recalling to them the merits of this attraction and requesting them not to let the bad weather prevent them from seeing it.

Heralds were placed in all the automobiles passing over the toll bridge to the races, which is the only way these automobiles can reach the race track. There being a race that day, special permission was obtained to stop all cars and place these heralds, which is the first time such permission has been granted.

Some of the freckled prize winners in the "Penrod" exploitation put over by the Circle theatre, Indianapolis

Lobby front on "The Silent Call" designed by the management of the Palace theatre, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Excellent "Peacock Alley" Campaign

Majestic Theatre, Columbus, Uses Many Exploitation Ideas in Selling the Picture

THE Majestic Theatre, Columbus, Ohio, used an elaborate lobby display in its exploitation and publicity campaign for "Peacock Alley."

The most striking and unusual effect seen in a long time was a fairly good-sized shadow box, arranged with one side as a window with opened shutters. The opening was prettily draped with a curtain material, while artificial flowers were twined around the edges of the opening. In the window was a cut-out of Mae Murray and Monte Blue, the leading man in "Peacock Alley." Concealed lights illuminated the figures, and the effect was genuinely that of looking through the window of a house and seeing two lovers embracing each other. The display was placed on two pedestals and occupied a position in the front of the theatre just back of the side-walk line.

A large cut-out taken from the poster, showing Miss Murray in the peacock gown, towered over the top of the box office. Cut-outs of peacocks were placed over the two side-walls of the lobby and panels over the entrance and exit doors leading into the lobby. These were not poster cut-outs, but beautiful color creations by the house artist.

Two street lamp-posts directly in front of the theatre were used to good advantage. Two large cut-outs of a hand, with the index finger pointing in towards the theatre, were fastened on these posts. These bore the wording, "To Peacock Alley. Don't Park Here."

Over the top of the canopy there had been erected a shadow box with the name of the star and the picture, and on top of this was a transparency frame containing a pose of Miss Murray in the peacock gown. This was a cut-out from the posters. Lights inside of both frames effectively displayed the lettering and cut-out.

Oil paintings of Miss Murray in various poses, as well as scenes from the picture, were neatly arranged around the lobby, while artistic poster creations containing scene stills from the picture held forth in the lobby poster frames.

Window tie-ups were secured and photographs of the star and play attracted attention from shoppers, all of which proved beneficial to the theatre's box office.

Carpenter Tries Out Stunt Stuff on "Speed Girl"

GEORGE CARPENTER, manager of the Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake City, and his advertising director, A. A. Campbell, recently went in for the stunt stuff to exploit "The Speed Girl."

A local automobile salesman was attired to represent Bebe Daniels and sent about the streets to emulate "The Speed Girl" of the picture.

After violating all the traffic regulations of Salt Lake City, the "speed girl" was finally landed at police headquarters. Then the story came out. The papers labeled the stunt news and ran an account of what had happened on the front pages.

The salesman had been dressed in the latest styles and prevailing spring colors and his crepe knit gown and henna sport coat made him into a good impersonation of a girl.

"Bob Hampton" Campaign Directs Appeal to Schools

GEORGE R. MOORE, owner and manager of the Lion theatre, Bellevue, Ohio, got the kids interested in "Bob Hampton of Placer" by assuring their teachers that there was more to be learned about Custer's last fight in a single "seeing" than there possibly could be in a week's reading of history.

A special matinee was arranged for "after school."

As is always the case when one gets the "kids," Moore also got the "elders." The youngsters, upon leaving the theatre, were so enthusiastic that the Lion commenced doing a business that made Moore think of old times.

"Mysterious Rider" Exploitation at Jacksonville Goes Big

The accompanying cuts explain the exploitation which Guy A. Kenimer, manager of the Imperial theatre, Jacksonville, Fla., put over for his showing of "The Mysterious Rider."

The lobby front was built of "slabs" from a sawmill located near the city and the cost of material was only $1.75. The saddles, bridles and rope were borrowed from the man who did the ballyhooing. The rifles were rented from a pawn shop.

The doorman, cashier and ushers were all togged out in Western regalia and the whole expense of the stunt outside the "mysterious rider" was $7.75.

"Coney Island" Lobby for "Saturday Night"

Frank H. Burns, manager of the Phillips theatre, Orlando, Fla., used a lobby display as his principal exploitation idea for "Saturday Night."

A Coney Island effect was gained by the installation of various colored lights, balloons, etc. Bill-boards and heralds were also used to good effect.

This lobby front on "Morlas" is by Manager E. E. Collins, of the Palace theatre, McAlister, Okla.

Farrar Sells His Local Merchants and Editor an Idea

Several days before "The Fortune Teller" was due to play at the Orpheum theatre, Harrisburg, Ill., Steve Farrar, manager of the theatre, slipped down to the Harrisburg Register and sold the editor an idea, with the result that soon after "Do You Believe in Spiritualism?" was the query that greeted readers of the Register as they unfolded the first page of the paper. Reading further they learned the paper was offering special prizes for the weird experiences of the readers. The town was informed that it was about to be visited by one of the most famous fortune tellers, and advised to turn to page 5 to learn details of the contest. Page 5 was an interesting tie-up of advertisements from leading Harrisburg merchants with the ad of the Orpheum theatre in the center of the page. Each ad had some reference to dreams, ways of telling how your sweetheart is true and similar stunts.

The whole proposition went over in grand style and large crowds greeted "The Fortune Teller" at each performance."

Putting on "The Iron Trail" in El Paso

When J. M. Edgar Hart, manager of the Palace theatre, El Paso, Texas, played "The Iron Trail," he worked up a lobby display that was of material aid in putting the engagement over to a crowded house and good box-office results.

Mr. Hart obtained some ties and rails from the Interurban railway company, made a cut-out from the twenty-four sheet, got some specially painted beaver board, cut a hole in the center of the boiler front shown on the twenty-four sheet, and put in a 100 watt lamp with a special condenser, which threw bright light rays clear across the street. Then he fastened a small locomotive bell to the rear of the smoke stack. This bell was rung by a string which ran back to the top of the box-office, and then down so that the ticket seller could ring the bell every time a ticket was sold.

Mr. Hart kept his lobby lights subdued, using red and green lights, instead of white ones, so that the lobby cut-out stood out and attracted a lot of attention. In spite of extremely cold weather for El Paso, the picture went over exceptionally well.

This is the "Mrs. Bill Hart" ballyhoo which the Palace theatre, El Paso, Texas, used to exploit "Three Word Brand"

This cut shows a window display (above) and the lobby display (insert) used by the Twin City theatre, Cheviot, O., to exploit "Molly O"

Inexpensive Lobby Idea on "Sailor Made Man"

IN exploiting "A Sailor Made Man" B. B. Garner, manager of the Casino theatre, Lakeland, Fla., concentrated his efforts on a lobby display.

He placed a rowboat in the lobby, took blue crepe paper and tacked it around the lower part of the boat. He then placed a nine-foot pole in the center of the boat on which he fastened a line which extended from one end of the boat to another, on which he strung small flags of the various nations. In the center of the boat, he placed a cut-out of Lloyd taken from the six-sheet and it conveyed the idea of being a small ship with Harold Lloyd the center of attraction. The inexpensive stunt got great results.

Cooley Uses Teaser Ads on "Don't Tell Everything"

About a week before the showing of "Don't Tell Everything" at the Victory Theatre, Tampa, Fla., Manager Cooley had one inch, single column teaser ads reading

S-H-H-
Keep it a Secret.
"Don't Tell Everything"

scattered about through the local papers.

Slides, with about the same reading, were run in all of the five theatres operated by the Consolidated Amusement Co., after every show. All this created quite a little talk. Ushers and door men were quizzed as to the meaning and could come back with the reply, "Ah: We Don't Tell Everything." Business was big on this picture, which proved that the advertising had the desired effect.

Miniature House in Lobby Advertises "Rent Free"

When Wallace Reid in "Rent Free" recently played at the Palace theatre of Dallas, Manager Raymond Willie had a miniature house built by his art department and put in the lobby for display. The little house was illuminated from within by small lights, the front door stood ajar and three people (representing the three principal characters of the play) were to be seen within. On top of the roof was a small sketch of Wally Reid painting a sign on an easel. The sign read "Next Week Wallace Reid, with Lila Lee, in 'Rent Free.'"

Mr. Willie also had a number of miniature bill boards made (size 8 inches by 15 inches) advertising "Rent Free" and coming attractions, the Palace art department painting special miniature twenty-four sheets, dates and borders for each of the little stands. The miniature twenty-fours were placed in the theatre lobby and in various furniture and hardware store windows where they caused considerable comment. Mr. Willie also advertised his attraction in the want ad columns and used some attractive newspaper advertising, prepared by J. L. Johnston, to call attention to his attraction.

How Waverly, N. Y., Sold "Over the Hill"

The management of the Loomis Theatre, Waverly, N. Y., decorated its lobby several days in advance of the opening of "Over the Hill," with the same excellent results which other exhibitors using similar decoration have experienced.

The display consisted mainly of large-lettered banners placed over the front of the house and in the entrance way, and so arranged as not to confuse the coming attraction with the one on the current program.

Further exploitation was in the form of heralds "planted" with the daily newspapers of Sayre, Pa., which circulate in Waverly. This was necessitated by the fact that Waverly has no dailies of its own. The cost of distributing the heralds was four passes to the show.

By printing 1,000 large paper marketing bags and having the town's leading baking and grocery stores distribute them with their sales of food on Saturday prior to the opening of the feature, virtually every family in the community was made aware that "Over the Hill" was coming to the Loomis.

Here is a picture of the "A Sailor Made Man" ballyhoo used by B. B. Garner, manager of the Casino theatre, Lakeland, Fla.

This is the outfit that was used in advance of the showing of the first episode of "Winners of the West" at the Pershing theatre, Joplin, Mo.

All Seattle Reads Interview with Queen of Sheba

With the assistance of a Fox representative, Manager H. E. Daigler of the Blue Mouse theatre, Seattle, Wash., "pulled" one of the most clever newspaper interviews ever attempted by an exhibitor.

By special arrangement with the editor of the News, a feature story writer was instructed to write an interview with the Queen of Sheba, with the pretense that the royal charmer had appeared in the flesh at the Blue Mouse theatre. The special writer was one whose name was popular in the city, and the fact that he wrote the story lent added publicity to the production's run.

To illustrate the interview, an artist was engaged to super-impose the picture of the feature writer on a close-up of Betty Blythe, the Queen in the film. In this way the effect was produced of the newspaper man actually interviewing the Queen of Sheba at the Blue Mouse.

The story and "faked" photograph were printed on the theatre page of the paper, occupying two and a half columns of space. The headline read: "Interviewing a Queen—Boalt Talks to Her as She Performs on the Screen at the Blue Mouse theatre."

Novelty Window Card Frame Used by Granada Theatre

The Granada Theatre, San Francisco, has put out an artistic window card frame, using it first for Paramount's "The Little Minister."

It resembles a theatre frame with two pillars supporting the top border. It greatly enhances the effort.

Greenman Tries Out Novelty Ad Idea

Harry Greenman, manager of the William Fox Liberty theatre, St. Louis, obtained considerable publicity for his showing of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" by inserting in ad form an open letter to the local chief of police, in the St. Louis papers.

The letter requested that special details of police be assigned to serve at the Liberty during the run of the picture to take care of the crowds expected.

The ad was unusual enough to attract a great deal of attention.

Huge Rolling Pin and Snappy Catch Line LobbyDisplay

The exploitation which H. B. Clarke, manager of the Capitol theatre, Macon, Ga., devised for "Too Much Wife," enters the highly original class.

Beaver board was used in making a large rolling pin which when placed in position covered the box office of the theatre.

At the top of the rolling pin the title of the picture was painted in large letters, and at the bottom a snappy little catch line caught the eye of many a passer by, which read as follows:

"A Spicy Tale of Married Life that Distills More Laughs than a Home-Brewers' convention."

This little catch line caused much comment, and attracted much attention.

One of the daily ads was set up in the form of a rolling pin, which helped to tie up the comedy idea.

Lavender Ribbon and White Lace Make Dainty Lobby Display

Henry P. Nelson, manager of the Capitol Theatre, Elizabeth, N. J., decorated his lobby attractively for his showing of "Lavender and Old Lace."

The display consisted of over a hundred yards of lavender ribbon and an equal number of yards of exquisite white lace. The lavender ribbon and lace was draped on the walls of the lobby and festooned from the ceiling, while lavender and lace curtains were hung at the entrance and exit doors.

Tie-ups with several women's clubs and the Y. W. C. A. were put over for the "Lavender and Old Lace" showing. Thursday night was Y. W. C. A. night. The house split the receipts with the Y. W. C. A. for its building fund and the theatre was packed. Thursday night is usually an off night for the Capitol, but Manager Nelson generally finds some way of forcing the attendance.

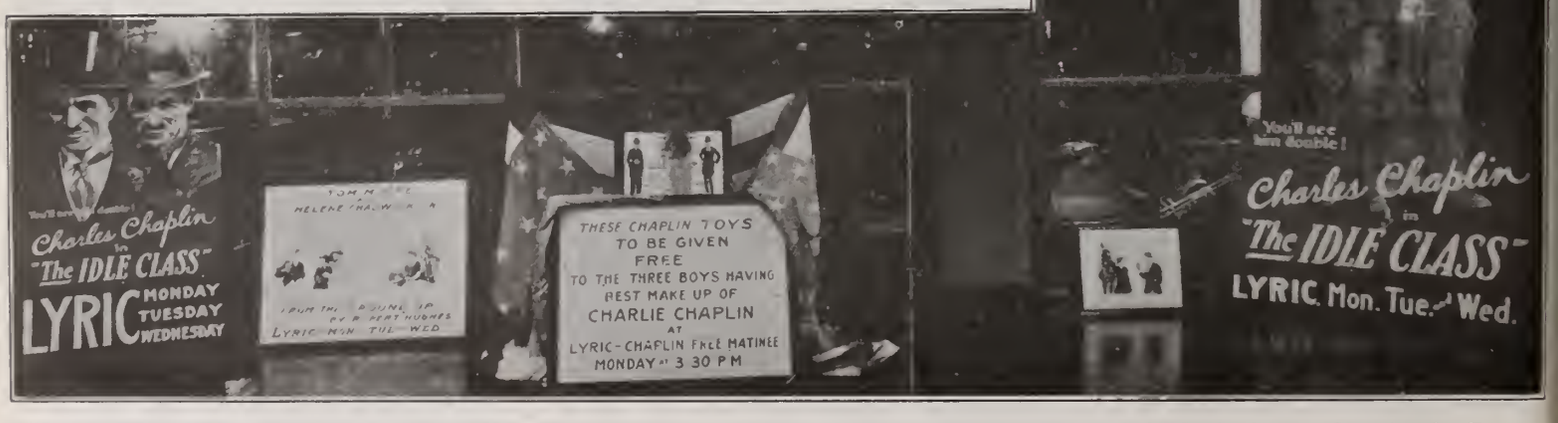
The Elizabeth papers devoted nearly a half column each to a description of the lobby and praise of Mr. Nelson's ability as a showman. The latter has been in the show business for more than fifteen years. He has a speaking acquaintance with more than half of his patrons and most of the credit for the success of the Capitol is attributed to this fact.

Illuminated Cut-out Lacey's Latest Stunt

A stunt that stopped all pedestrians on Washington street, Portland's principal thoroughfare, was worked by Manager Frank A. Lacey, of the Majestic theatre, for "The Beautiful Liar."

The Majestic is on a corner and its lobby opens on both the principal thoroughfares and a side street. On the latter side of the lobby, Mr. Lacey set up a large 24 sheet cutout of Katherine MacDonald, rigged three 500 watt electric flood lamps in front so that the rays illuminated the cutout with a flare of colored light.

The accompanying cut will give a fine idea of the effects Mr. Lacey achieved.



Here is a picture of a window display on "The Idle Class" as arranged by Ray Whitfield, manager of the Lyric theatre, San Angelo, Texas

Dancers who appeared in a prologue arranged by Manager M. C. O'Hare of the Princess theatre, Sious City, Ia., for "One Arabian Night"

Beck Makes Salt Lake City Sit Up

Exploitation Campaign for "My Boy" and "Molly O" Recent Events at the National

NORMAN E. BECK, director of publicity and exploitation for the Swanson Theatre Circuit, operating several ouses in Utah and Idaho, made a "killing" ith "Molly O" and "My Boy," two pictures hich followed one after the other at the merican Theatre in Salt Lake City.

On "Molly O" Beck landed the fronts of all ie street cars in town. Ten thousand personal ostals were sent out. Twenty-four-sheet stands the number of 30 were used and a tie-up ected with department stores, music stores, ioe stores and grocers. The newest thing orked out by the "Molly O" showing was the usic store tie-up. To every sheet of "Molly O" usic sold during the week a coupon was atched, which was good for one afternoon adission. So popular did the coupons become, ch holder of one bringing a friend with him ho paid, that the stunt is now worked every eek. Whatever song hits are featured by the rchestra are the ones carrying the free couons at the music store. The newspaper copy as good-sized and artistic in layout.

Following "Molly O" came "My Boy." Beck ed up a cartoon contest from the press book ith one of the papers and got well over a thouand replies from kiddies anxious to see oogan free. The day before the opening of ie showing at the American, Beck staged a ecial morning matinee for kids only.

Fifteen hundred children appeared at the ecial matinee and everyone talked Coogan all eek. Just as the kids got out from the special atinee fifty street hustlers appeared with a nsational extra announcing "Wuxtra! All out Jackie Coogan," and the noon crowds on ie main streets "ate them up" at a smile per opy. The sheet was an exact replica in size id appearance of the leading paper of the wn, and the entire stunt was paid for the sale the back page of the four-page paper to an tomobile concern who had just taken on a new line. Beck got more publicity from the kicks the real paper made about the stunt than perhaps he got from the stunt itself, for the paper had to make explanations that it was a press agent's racket and not a paper stunt.

Beck pulled another special kids' matinee on the Saturday closing the week. This time he presented each kid with a Jackie Coogan whistle, the gift of Coogan himself, so the announcements read.

"Man's Home" Campaign Excites Wilmington, N. C.

ERNEST G. STELLINGS, of the Grand Theatre, Wilmington, N. C., conducted an excellent campaign on "A Man's Home" when it played there recently.

Starting about four weeks in advance of the opening the serialization of the story was published in the leading Wilmington paper and then a teaser campaign was started two weeks in advance of the opening. Then two women's clubs approached Mr. Stellings and asked for a showing of "What's the Limit," and this was secured for showing with the feature picture. There were four women's clubs and the Women's Voters' League also behind the showing of the short subject and when boosting this attraction they also mentioned "A Man's Home" in connection and when the showing date arrived they turned out in a body to see both attractions. They also had the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the entire public school system behind the showing, boosting it for all they were worth.

Mr. Stellings also arranged for an entire page hook-up on the picture and the ads were rewritten by readers of the paper and published again the Sunday preceding the opening of the picture. This gave Mr. Stellings two pages of advertising, consisting of about thirty-five ads in which "A Man's Home" appeared at least once.

This exploitation was supplemented with a big billboard and newspaper campaign and the attraction proved to be exceedingly successful.

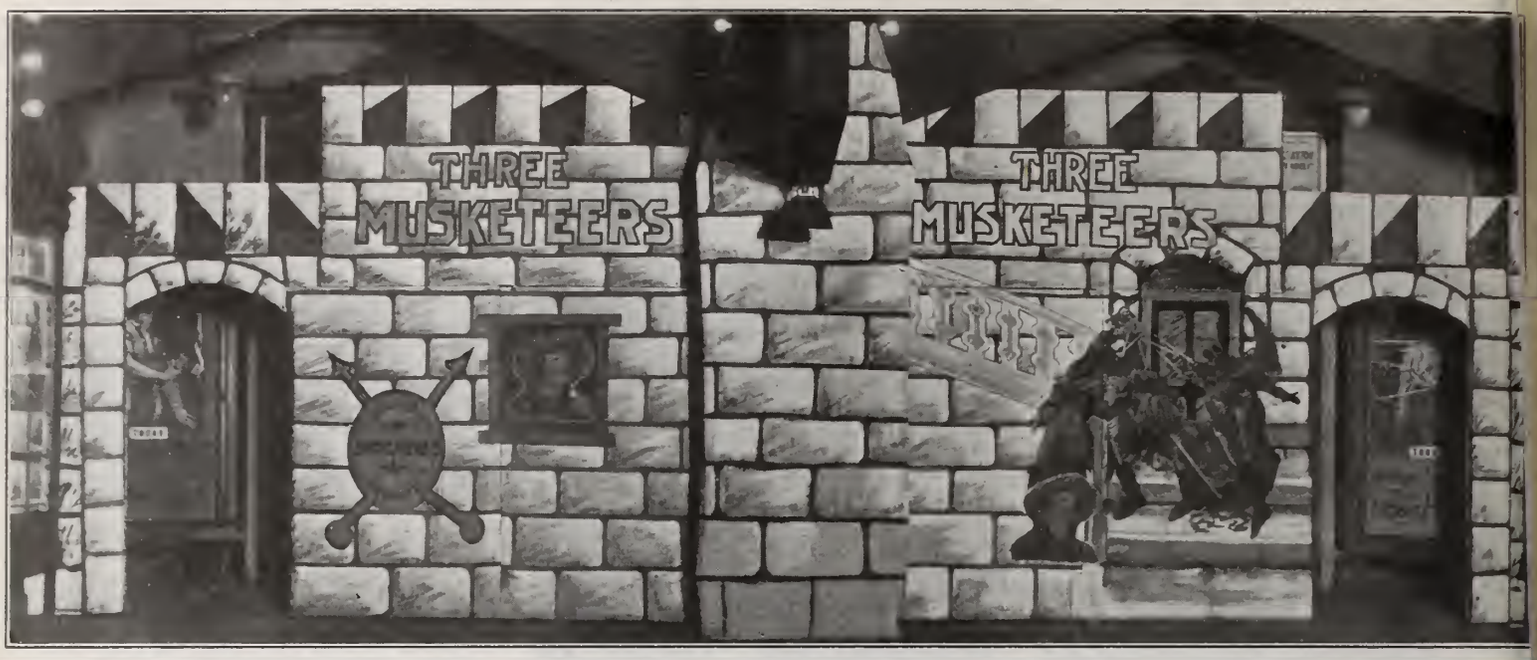
Another Theatre Tries Out "Potato Matinee"

A potato matinee was a recent success at the Stoneham theatre, Stoneham, Mass.

Manager Hutchinson offered prizes for the largest potatoes and admitted school children at a special price of eight cents and one potato.

The stunt went over for a lot of word of mouth advertising and also was considered good copy by the local newspapers.

Two lobby cards by E. G. Stellings, manager of the Grand theatre, Wilmington, N. C.



This lobby front on "The Three Musketeers" designed by W. E. Drumbar, managing director of the Riviera theatre, Knoxville, Tenn.

"Bashful Suitor" Prologue Presented by Cincinnati Theatre

A NOVEL prologue was employed at Ascher's Capitol theatre in Cincinnati last week during the run of "The Bashful Suitor." The backdrop was of white silk with a moon in the upper right hand corner. The cloud machine produced the effect of clouds intermittently hiding the view of the moon. The prologue opened with two Dutch boys and two Dutch girls with their arms about one another looking at the moon, following which they sang a little Dutch folk song called "Jeannette and Her Wooden Shoes." They sang one verse and two choruses followed by a wooden shoe dance, which was in turn followed by another verse of the song.

Personal Letter Method of Exploitation Used for "Silent Years"

Raymond W. Cort, operating the Isis theatre, Blackfoot, Idaho, stimulated the interest of his patrons in his engagement of "Silent Years" by sending out a personal endorsement letter. The letter compared the picture to "Humoresque" and "Madame X" as to quality, and on its second page carried a synopsis of the story and the high lights of the production.

Illustrating the story appearing here with relative to the prologue for "The Beggar Maid" presented by the Capitol theatre, Cincinnati

How Young Sold "Saturday Night" to Dyersburg

T. W. Young, manager of the Frances theatre, Dyersburg, Tenn., followed a "Saturday Night" exploitation suggestion originating with Lem Stewart, exploitation director for Southern Enterprises for a miniature "park" lobby display, in putting over his engagement of this picture.

Mr. Young borrowed from the local ten-cent store three sets of toy-tinkers. From these Young made a merry-go-round and a double swing. These park fixtures were illustrated with small lamps, eight small globes in each series. Three series of lamps were used. The merry-go-round was propelled or blown around by a small electric fan.

Mr. Young's campaign, however, did not stop with a lobby display. Tack cards printed "Saturday Night" were used on lamp-posts and also attached to sharp pointed sticks and scattered through various yards and vacant spots about town. They were distributed by Mr. Young and three boys on the Saturday evening before the picture opened the following Wednesday, being distributed after 12 midnight.

On Sunday afternoon the local soda fountain mirrors bore the following sign: "What Did You Do Last Saturday Night?"

An attractive window display was also arranged in a well located store window. Plenty of heralds topped off Mr. Young's campaign.

Crown Theatre, Mobile, Decorates Lobby for "Old Nest"

FOR the showing of "The Old Nest" at the Crown theatre, Mobile, Ala., a pleasing lobby display was constructed.

Above the wainscoting a large tree-branch, held in place by ropes fastened to a chandelier chain. On the branch was built a large bird's nest, while in the nest was a miniature house.

Apple trees in bloom were placed on either side of the box office and colored enlargements of the stills used freely.

The showing of "The Old Nest" was advertised extensively on the billboards and in the newspapers.

Hyman Stages Washington Birthday Number

A COSTUME-MUSICALE commemorated the Washington birthday anniversary at the Brooklyn Mark Strand, and served as an integral of the First National Week observation given under Managing Director Edward L. Hyman's guidance.

Washington's family circle was reproduced as nearly like the originals as possible, an old painting being used to aid in the impersonation, which was made by opera singers and dancers in colonial costume, including powdered wigs, large buckled slippers, knee breeches, etc.

The scenic set was a colonial baronial hall, with crystal center chandelier and wall candelabra, with members of Washington's family seated cozily about.

San Diego Theatre Present "Trip to Paradise" Prologue

In connection with the showing of "A Trip to Paradise," Manager H. H. Homer of the Colonial Theatre, San Diego, Cal., put on a prologue symbolique, a company of five participating in the pantomime, with a tenor vocalist interpreting, the prologue ending with the "Dance of Destiny," by Fritzie Mann. The settings for the prologue were sent from the Metro Studios in Hollywood.

Edward L. Hyman's "Washington Family," a recent feature of the First National Week show at the Brooklyn Mark Strand theatre

A window display on "The Sheik" which advertised the showing of this picture at the Knickerbocker theatre, Columbus, O.

Civic Aid on "Our Mutual Friend"

Blue Mouse Theatre, Minneapolis, Gets Cooperation From Teachers' League and Dickens Week Boosters

WHEN you can get a whole city to back a picture in connection with a public movement of widespread interest, you ave about achieved the limit in constructive xploitation. And that is just what was done or "Our Mutual Friend" for its engagement Minneapolis.

The picture was timed to play at the Blue louse Theatre in that city during a "Dickens Veek," designated by educational, literary and vic organizations. This was made the occaon for raising funds for the Minneapolis eachers' League, and every element in the city tched in to boost the picture, sell tickets for and thus help along the worthy movement.

Increased admission was charged and the achers' organization profited largely from this crease, while the theatre gained public goodill, even more valuable than the actual box fice returns, which were substantial, and tually assured long in advance of the opening "Our Mutual Friend."

The Minneapolis Journal helped materially the campaign by starting an essay contest nong high school and public school pupils and e general public, giving $200 in prizes for the st answers to the questions: "The Character I iked Best in the Story," and "Why I Enyed 'Our Mutual Friend.'" Stories were disayed every day on the first page of the newsaper, each article featuring the name of the eatre, and the date of the engagement of the cture.

The women of Minneapolis personally saw it that the tickets for the showing were sold. block of 5,000 tickets was accepted by the ubwomen, and quickly disposed of to merants, professional men, school children and eir parents, and generally by means of house house tours.

Book stores and other shops throughout Minneapolis were enlisted in the campaign, and through tie-ups, helped to put over the drive for funds.

Young Gets Mercantile Cooperation on "The Wonderful Thing"

In exploiting his showing of "The Wonderful Thing," Manager T. W. Young of the Frances Theatre, Dyersburg, Tenn., tied up with a local department store which was pushing an advertised line of corsets. A window display featuring the corsets and "The Wonderful Thing" stills and other advertising was arranged. In the center of the window, a little to the front, there was a large card calling attention to the fact that "Norma Talmadge wore this brand of corset in 'The Wonderful Thing,' Frances Theatre (playing dates), etc."

Local Merchants Help Gallagher Sell His Picture

GERALD GALLAGHER, manager of the Palace theatre at Fort Smith, Ark., recently boosted business on "Just Around the Corner," when he went the rounds with an advertising solicitor for a local newspaper and got "side street merchants" to tie-up on a full page newspaper ad. Gallagher split up his three column ten-inch display and put a small irregular edged piece of the ad in each one of the merchants display to assure him that his copy would be read, then he offered tickets as prizes for the first twenty-five correctly put together copies of the Palace ad. The full page newspaper page contained details of the contest a seven-column head which played up the title of the picture and eleven different pieces of merchants' copy. Over a hundred ads were pasted together by interested Fort Smithians and Gallagher has sold the idea of future tie-ups to both newspaper and merchants of his town in addition to helping his picture along more than a little.

Great Tie-up with Paper Put Over by Minneapolis Exploiteers

An illuminating example of alertness on the part of publicity men is furnished from St. Paul, Minn., where the Finkelstein and Ruben publicity department tied up with the two largest papers in the city on a beauty contest.

The newspapers started the beauty contest in the effort to choose five queens for the annual October Sports Carnival. One of the queens at the conclusion of the carnival was to be named queen of queens.

The F. and R. boys hopped onto the beauty contest the day after it was announced. They offered the queen of queens a chance to get into the "movies" through the co-operation of Associated First National Pictures and Marshall Neilan.

As a result of the tie-up the Capital theatre in St. Paul, finest of the F. and R. string, benefitted by twenty front page stories.

To cap the climax the publicity men talked the newspaper into having the queen of queens chosen from the five district queens on the stage of the Capitol.

The tie-up jammed the Capitol for two shows on the night the queen was chosen and other F. and R. houses got the overflow.

The incident of the choosing of the queen of queens marks the first time that a St. Paul newspaper has tied up with a commercial institution to the extent of allowing such an institution to benefit directly on a proposition which was conceived and carried out purely as a piece of newspaper enterprise.

Showing three recent stunts in exploitation put over by George A. Rea manager of the Forum theatre, Hillsboro, O., in putting over "Outside the Law" and "Conflict."

Three views of the nine window display tie-ups which Charles Garfield, manager of the Orpheum theatre, Flint, Mich., secured for his engagement of "Why Girls Leave Home"

Unique Idea in Window Cards Originated by Dallas Theatre

A unique idea in window cards was executed by the management of the Washington theatre, Dallas, in connection with the exploitation campaign for "Queen of Sheba."

The cards were displayed in windows throughout the entire city and attracted unusual attention because of their semi-teaser form. On the cards no mention was made of the title of the picture, the center bearing merely this legend: "The Most Divinely Beautiful Woman in the World."

Six stills showing the Queen of Sheba in various poses surrounded the message. Underneath was the name of the theatre and the statement that the picture was being held over for a second week. The semi-teaser posters, with their superimposed stills, were extremely effective in bringing added attendance to the Washington theatre.

Niagara Falls Exhibitor Presents Artistic Prologue for "The Sheik"

D. H. Finke, manager of the Bellevue theatre, Niagara Falls, N. Y., is introducing stage settings and prologues to the Cataract City with much success. His most recent art work is shown herewith, depicting "The Arabian Beggars" set used in connection with "The Sheik."

With a color mixture of four combinations on two-four lever control dimmers, Mr. Finke was able to light this set in a striking manner. During the unveiling of the setting, a quartet attired in Arabian costumes sang appropriate numbers. The background as well as the figures were brilliantly lighted.

Ballyhoo which Manager Charles H. Amos of the Strand theatre, Spartansburg, S. C., used on "The Mysterious Rider."

Masked Horsemen Ballyhoos for "Mysterious Rider"

A MASKED horseman, clad in sombre black and mounted on a coal black charger, proved one of the best bits of exploitation ever conceived by Manager Charles H. Amos, of the Strand theatre, Spartanburg, S. C. The "Mysterious Rider" was provocation for this stunt.

It chanced that the "Mysterious Rider" came to town almost coincidentally with several stories of alleged Ku Klux activities, and wherever the masked horseman, silent as a centaur, appeared crowds gathered. Manager Amos' simple exploitation packed the Strand throughout the picture's stay.

Jackie Coogan Imitators Interest Seattle Fans

In exploiting "My Boy" when it played at the Liberty theatre, Seattle, recently, Manager Leroy V. Johnson got the picture off to a good start by his clever use of a "Jackie Coogan Contest" run in conjunction with the Seattle Star, an evening daily.

For seven full days before the film showing began, the Star, and the Liberty screen, carried publicity stories on the coming contest. Each day the Star printed a picture of Jackie Coogan in his original costume from "The Kid." The stories went on to explain that Manager Johnson was giving three cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 in gold, to the three boys who dressed most nearly like the illustration.

By ten o'clock Saturday morning, the day the picture opened, over two hundred contestants, attired as Jackie Coogan, in old baggy trousers, rough-neck sweater, enormous cap, and tattered shoes, were gathered in front of the Liberty. Among the contestants were several girls. Some contestants even brought garbage cans along, to more nearly coincide with the stills that were used to advertise the necessary make-up.

In the presence of newspaper photographers, motion picture cameramen and the general public, the three cash awards were made under the direction of a newspaper judge, after which the two hundred odd contestants filed into the theatre to witness the first performance as guests of the management.

The enthusiasm of the young audience knew no bounds, and Manager Johnson believed that the newspaper and word-of-mouth advertising "My Boy" received in Seattle from the contest, more than repaid him for the slight expenses of the contest. The photograph shows the three prize winners. All other contestants were similarly attired.

Dignified Street Stunt for "Over The Hill"

Manager Pearce of the Tudor theatre, New Orleans, gave a recent run of "Over the Hill," valuable publicity by the use of inexpensive street work.

Engaging an old man, at $3 a day, to lead a small trick dog borrowed from an idle vaudeville act about the streets of New Orleans, constituted the entire idea. The dog carried a small blanket-banner announcing that it was on its way "to see 'Over the Hill' at the Tudor Theatre," and performed various tricks wherever it was led by the old man. The animal was called upon to go through a series of turns and twists on its tour through the city and drew large crowds of interested spectators.

The fact that the man was neither attired in comic costume nor adorned with signs lent dignity to the little bally-hoo.

A beaver-board lobby display decorated the Tudor front.

Another Big Newspaper Tieup for "Ladies Must Live"

Philadelphia joins Washington, Boston, Baltimore and Wichita in the list of cities where the "Ladies Must Live" newspaper tieup was successful.

The Stanley theatre tied up with the Philadelphia Record, which donated papers to unemployed women, who sold them and kept the full profits.

Each woman wore a black gauze mask over the upper part of her face, and a banner which read:

It's Paramount That Ladies Must Live.

Here are three "My Boy" prize winners in a contest staged for this picture by Leroy Johnston, of the Columbia theatre, Seattle, Wash.

This lobby display on "Conflict" was originated by Frank Bligh, manager of the Liberty theatre, Salem, Ore.

Houston Exhibitor "Shoots" City from Air

To stimulate business in a regular program release recently played at one of the Houston, Texas, theatres City Manager C. A. MacFarland engaged a cameraman to take views of Houston from a government aeroplane which ascended from Ellington aviation field close by. When the camera-bearing plane was directly over the business section of the city at a busy noon hour he released 10,000 small heralds and special slips advertising "The Idle Class" and the coming of "Saturday Night" to the Queen theatre. Heralds which told where the bird's eye views of the city were to be shown and when, were also released from the plane and a hundred slips personally signed by Mr. McFarland served as free admission tickets to the showing. Of the hundred passes signed, Mr. McFarland redeemed 94, which proved that the method of distribution was effective.

Heralds on "Idle Class" were also distributed among public school children during recess time and during the noon hours for several days during the presentation at the Queen.

Mr. McFarland has been taking advantage of the rotogravure section published by the Houston Chronicle recently, and in addition to his regular layouts on the moving picture page of the Sunday issues has secured two and three current photos in the roto section as well. The Chronicle rotogravure section is the only one in Texas and has the largest circulation in its district.

Illustrating the "Three Live Ghosts" lobby display story appearing herewith, put over by the Gem theatre, Palestine, Texas

Noble's Lobby on "Three Live Ghosts" Wins Prize

MANAGER T. H. NOBLE, of the Gem theatre, Palestine, Texas, scored a hit with a freak lobby display on "Three Live Ghosts" when he rigged up three ghostlike dummies above the entrance doors, attached them to the doors with pulleys, put a bicycle pump on each dummy, a flashlight behind each ghost's cutout eyes and a connecting copper plate directly below.

Every time anyone went in or came out o fthe theatre the three ghosts lowered about five inches and their eyes lighted up and as the doors closed they hopped back to normal position and blew an odd whistle on little pipes placed in their mouths and given air pressure by the inverted bicycle pumps. The dummies were placed in front of a black background and proved so attractive that the lineup before the box office kept them hopping merrily as it wended its way into the theatre.

Mr. Noble made the display out of bits of wire, copper, old pumps, old cutouts flashlights and by his ability to do his own mechanical and electrical work managed to complete the stunt for an actual cost of $3.

Sheba's Chariot Draws Crowds in La Crosse, Wis.

La Crosse, Wis., is one of the hundreds of mid-western cities the inhabitants of which get their only opportunity of seeing an ancient chariot when the circus hits town every two or three years. Accordingly, when the Majestic theatre booked "Queen of Sheba," the management took advantage of the public's chariot hunger and satiated it.

With two sturdy steeds to draw the odd vehicle and a toga-bedecked driver to guide it, the bally-hoo was sent through the three or four main streets of the town to the steady sound of a siren on the roof of the theatre building.

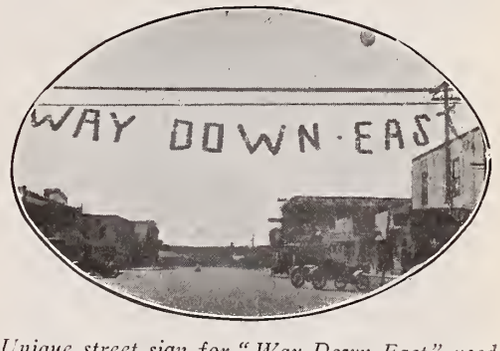
The stunt brought a large portion of the inhabitants to view it, and the sound of the siren made everybody curious as to its cause and purpose. The aggressiveness of this small-town exhibitor was rewarded materially in the form of enlarged box-office returns.

Simple but Effective Campaign on "Way Down East"

Manager R. C. Frost of the Victory theatre, Tampa, Fla., began his exploitation campaign on "Way Down East" ten days before the opening date of the engagement.

It was started with a small one column ad and gradually worked up to an ad of three columns, ten inches on the opening day of the show, and then decreased during the running of the picture. Card heralds were printed from two column pumpkin mats and attached with rubber bands to the sides of street cars. They were also hung on all the door knobs in town, attached to all steering wheels of automobiles and the use of a new Studebaker car was obtained which was covered with banners, had a bugler and announcer in the car. The car was obtained free of charge.

In the lobby, the pumpkin idea was carried out. On the top of the marquee, two immense pumpkins about six feet in diameter, were placed on each side of the electric sign announcing the picture. The entire lobby was hung with pumpkins, which were made of cedar strips covered with yellow cheese cloth. In the back of the lobby was the entire cast in the picture, leaning over a rail fence. This was made from the twenty-four sheet. Behind the cut-out was a drop curtain woodland scene. On the floor between the cut-out and the wood drop, were a number of red lights which gave the effect that the characters of the play were leaning over the fence at sunset.



Unique street sign for "Way Down East" used by W. W. Grist, Jr., manager of the Temple theatre, Ranger, Texas, and described in the accompanying story Advance stage setting for "The Man from Lost River" used by the Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.

Exploiting "Theodora" at Greensboro

Ferguson and Jack Cunningham Set Fast Pace in Selling Goldwyn Spectacle

EVERY angle of exploitation and presentation was worked to the limit by W. R. Ferguson, Goldwyn Service representative, and Manager Jack Cunningham when "Theodora" played at the National Theatre, Greensboro, N. C.

For the presentation, a speaker garbed as a college professor gave a three-minute descriptive talk on the picture. This was immediately followed with a solo by a young lady in Roman Empress regalia, seated on a throne, in palace setting. At the closing of her song a baritone singer (who was also the prologue speaker) appeared as Andreas, lover of Theodora, singing a duet, accompanied by two Italian instrumentalists with guitar and mandolin (clothed in Oriental costume), and by an orchestra of fifteen pieces, under Director Hollowell, who elaborated on the original "Theodora" musical score.

Beautiful changing light effects in every part of the auditorium added attractiveness to the presentation.

The lobby was treated with special one and three-sheet poster paintings, and on the marquise large cut-out letters and decorative cloth banners were placed.

Ferguson devised a new street stunt reproducing Theodora's royal carriage (or sedan), with all its pomp and ceremony; draperies, silks, rugs and cushions, with attractive young lady costumed as Theodora, reclining on them under the canopy. This carriage was carried through the principal streets by two young men dressed as Roman warriors. During show time it was placed in front of the box office, making a very attractive lobby display. This contrivance was made out of old boxes and compo board; the decorations were secured from the property man back stage; the young lady was an attache of the theatre and willingly gave her services. The whole stunt did not cost over ten dollars.

The usual chariot led the sedan parade through the streets.

An excellent window display, secured by tie-up with a local hardware store.

An extra heavy amount of newspaper space and a strong billboard, window sniping campaign, spiced with thousands of flyers, novelties and throwaways, impressed the name of "Theodora" upon the public and gained the desired results.

Parisians Exploit Pictures with "Stamping Machine"

IN Paris they have something the American exhibitor ought to get hold of—the stamping machine.

It is a contrivance that imprints letters into the ground with a calcimine finish.

It was used this month when "Lilaine" played at the Odeon Theatre. "Lilaine" is not a new picture, but your old friend "The Gilded Lily."

Stills Used After Their Lobby Term Has Expired

MANAGER DWIGHT L. HILL, of the Pickwick theatre in San Diego, Cal., has found and utilized a special value in the stills which are furnished by the exchanges, aside from the value of display in the lobby of his house. Each week he takes the series of stills, places each in a neat frame, bearing the Pickwick's name, and distributes these about the city in the windows of various business houses with which he has an arrangement. The frames, on small easels, take up but little space, but act as continuous advertisement for the Pickwick's attractions.

Thatcher Builds Advance Stag Setting

HERBERT J. THATCHER, manager of the Strand theatre at Salina, Kan., believes that an atmospheric stage setting helps put a photoplay across with his patrons and devotes much time and attention to making such settings attractive.

When he booked "The Man from Lost River" he got six or eight spruce trees about fifteen feet high and arranged them on the stage. At the right was a little log cabin, with a four-pane window looking out toward the audience. On the door was tacked the skin of a silver fox.

A white back drop indicated snowy wastes and the trees were touched with artificial snow.

Youngstown Children Help Sell "Little Lord Fauntleroy"

A week's engagement of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" was made intensely successful at the Park theatre, Youngstown, O., by means of intensive advance work. The city was billed with twenty 24-sheets, four hundred 1-sheets and liberal quantities of other paper and cards. An advance trailer was run during the week before the engagement, which opened on February 5th.

A school children's question and answer contest was conducted with the distribution of 10,000 answer blanks. On February 6th, a party of 415 school teachers attended a showing of the film.

A list of 1,000 prominent lovers of art and music were circularized with a special reminder of the high artistic value of Mary Pickford's interpretation of the Frances Hodgson Burnett book.

On February 6th the announcement of the prize awards in the children's contest was made from the stage by Charles A. Leedy, a popular Youngstown newspaper man and nationally known humorist. Daily advance notices of the picture's engagement had been run by the press for a full week before the opening date, and a strong advertising campaign was conducted during the picture's run, featured with a full page co-operative ad in the Vindicator of February 5th.

A representative of United Artists conducted the campaign in colaboration with Joe Shagrin.

Lobby display and ballyhoo used by Manager Guy A. Kenimer of the Imperial theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.

EXHIBITORS' REPORTS ON NEW RELEASES

What the Big Houses Say

EARLY RETURNS FROM WEEK RUN THEATERS

FIRST NATIONAL

Penrod—
Oh. for more pictures like it. Peal upon peal of laughter from all sections of the house continuously. Not a dull moment throughout. Capacity for week. (Middle West.)

Fine picture. Drew good crowds that took a slight slump with cold weather. Washington's Birthday and holidays crowded houses. Picture has general appeal. (Middle West.)

Jamming the doors. Held for second week. (East.)

All the comments very excellent. Business splendid. (Middle West.)

Fine business with this picture. Pleased audiences. (West.)

A sure-fire box office attraction. Wesley Barry has a large following here and the picture did a capacity business the first week. (Middle West.)

Splendid kid picture; plenty of laughs; good box office attraction. (Middle West.)

Polly of the Follies—
Best Constance Talmadge picture to appear in some time. Full of pep and laughter. Went over big. (Middle West.)

Not as big as expected; did fair business for week. (Middle West.)

Fine picture with good entertainment. Business above average. (West.)

Hail the Woman—
Patrons considered this one an excellent picture and it drew exceptionally well for a week's run. (Middle West.)

Good picture and fine box office value. (West.)

Star Dust—
Pleased. Receipts average. (East.)

Fair picture. Good business. (East.)

My Boy—
Jackie is popular at this house and our patrons liked "My Boy" very much. Played to good business. (Middle West.)

Good picture. Fair business. (East.)

The Invisible Fear—
Good picture. Business good during run. (West.)

Bad picture and bad business. (East.)

Love's Redemption—
General dissatisfaction. Audience restless. Picture fair. (Middle West.)

Picture went over big. Patrons said it was great. Big business. (West.)

The Seventh Day—
Fair picture. It was moderately well liked. Consequently we did only fair business. (Middle West.)

An average picture and box office attraction. (Middle West.)

The Rosary—
Business just fair but thought not because of picture which was played up especially to Catholic element though it could as easily be played up to Protestants. Free showing of picture to priests and children of Catholic school. (Middle West.)

The Great Adventure—
Comedy feature which will draw generally if it is made plain that it's not a highbrow feature. Took well with audiences. Good show. (Middle West.)

The Kid—
Good business on second run. Advise against advertising it as a kid's show. (Middle West.)

Two Minutes to Go—
Bad picture. Busines bad. (East.)

The Silent Call—
It's a great picture. We had capacity houses all week. The drawing power of the picture was a surprise to us. (Middle West.)

The Lotus Eaters—
Fair business with slump with cold weather. Audience divided in its opinion of the picture. Some liked it because it is so different while others thought it "awful." (Middle West.)

The Yellow Typhoon—
Business fair. (Middle West.)

The Cave Girl—
Fair picture, fair business. (Middle West.)

The Song of Life—
Only an average business with this one due mostly to unusually strong competition and unfavorable weather. (Middle West.)

Habit—
This one is better than the average domestic problem pictures. A good business for a week's run. (Middle West.)

FAMOUS PLAYERS

The Law and the Woman—
Betty Compson sent them home satisfied. This is one of the most entertaining pictures of the year. Excellent plot, well directed and acted with perfect photography. Drew excellently. (Middle West.)

A good picture which did not draw more than average business. (Middle West.)

The Ghost in the Garret—
Really quite good business on second run. Comedy seems to appeal and this has plenty. Children like this. (Middle West.)

Just Around the Corner—
Fine feature but a little sad for average audience. Did good business. (Middle West.)

Travelin' On—
Bad picture and bad business. (East.)

Forever—
One of the greatest love story films ever shown here. Drawing big crowds. (Middle West.)

Moran of the Lady Letty—
This went across pretty good. Receipts pleasing. (East.)

A Prince There Was—
Went over good. but credit must be given Keaton's "The Paleface" for the line at the box office. (East.)

Back Pay—
Good entertainment in this picture and seemed to please my patrons. Business good. (West.)

UNIVERSAL

A Parisian Scandal—
A very pleasing picture although Miss Prevost has done better work. Patronage satisfactory. (Middle West.)

Foolish Wives—
Business flivvered on the third week. (East.)

The Guttersnipe—
A real thriller. We crowded the house with thrillers. Although off the main thoroughfare we attracted big business. (Middle West.)

With Stanley in Africa—
Serial which received fair business at start. Easy to exploit. (Middle West.)

Golden Gallows—
Fine picture which brought good business. (West.)

Headin' West—
Fairly entertaining and fair business. (West.)

FOX

Counecticut Yankee—
Splendid production. Did exceedingly well for us for two weeks. (Middle West.)

One of the biggest hits of the season; played to full houses throughout week; good for two weeks. (Middle West.)

Sky-High—
Mix's best; played to big houses for week. (Middle West.)

Shame—
Some liked it and some did not. Business nothing extra. (Middle West.)

GOLDWYN

Man From Lost River—
This is a fine outdoor story. Business here was poor. (Middle West.)

Not much of a story, but excellent acting and settings. A fair box office value. (Middle West.)

The Glorious Fool—
Helene Chadwick is fast gaining popularity here and the picture played to good crowds for a week. (Middle West.)

Theodora—
Big spectacle. Business fair. (East.)

A Blind Bargain—
Good picture and good business. (West.)

METRO

The Hunch—
Business fine in vaudeville house. Audience went wild over some of the comedy scenes in the picture. (Middle West.)

Extravagance—
May Allison, the star is quite popular. This picture was generally well liked when played up from comedy element. Business just fair. (Middle West.)

The Conquering Power—
This production stood them up most of the week. Audiences greatly enjoyed it. (East.)

SELZNICK

Shadows of the Sea—
Fair, both as regards receipts and attendances. (East.)

Chivalrous Charley—
Mediocre picture and box office value. (East.)

Remorseless Love—
Picture well received though general business was poor. (Middle West.)

HODKINSON

The Mysterious Rider—
Here is a Western that will please any audience. Has fine plot and snap throughout. Business very good. (Middle West.)

Pilgrims of the Night—
Very good picture. Good business. (Middle West.)

The Light in the Clearing—Feature pleased our audiences and we played to better than average business for week. (Middle West.)

UNITED ARTISTS

The Mark of Zorro—
Still is a stellar attraction. In many respects Fairbanks' best work. A fine box office feature. (Middle West.)

Dream Street—
A fine picture which is held for second week. (Middle West.)

R-C PICTURES

Silent Years—
Good picture if played up right, keeping in mind the book, "Mam'selle Jo," from which it is taken. (Middle West.)

The Sign of the Rose—
Did big business, due to the interest created by personal appearance of George Beban and company and the novelty act they put on, acting the entire fifth reel of the play. Picture pretty good. (Middle West.)

VITAGRAPH

Where Men Are Men—
Western of fair production. Should have had better business than it did, however. (Middle West.)

STATE RIGHTS

His Nibs—
Couldn't manage the crowds. Stopped selling tickets every night. Ran extra performance during the day. Picture's a scream. Great attraction for us and broke all attendance. (Middle West.)

Intrigue—
Pola Negri does not seem to be especially a drawing card. Business just fair. (Middle West.)

Vendetta—
Two weeks' run went very well. (West.)

Ghost City—
Good program picture where western types are popular. Business was fair. (Middle West.)

Why Girls Leave Home—
Two weeks' run to good business and pleased audiences. (West.)

The Lotus Flower—
An entertaining feature which opened strong, but closed weak at end of seven day run. (East.)

For Your Daughter's Sake—
Business as poor as the picture. (East.)

Should a Wife Work?—
More pictures like this and exhibitors will have to work—at some other job. (East.)

Dempsey-Carpentier Fight Pictures—
Probably the best fight pictures ever taken. They offer a better view than a ring-side seat, according to those who know. (Middle West.)

The Girl from Porcupine—
This picture has plenty of action and good comedy relief. Played to excellent business for week. (Middle West.)

Why Girls Leave Home—
Propaganda picture; however, did a fair business for a week. (Middle West.)

PROGRAMS FOR THE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 25TH

With First Run Theatres

WIRE REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK CITY

Overture—"Pique Dame," played by Rivoli Orchestra.
Current Events—Rivoli Pictorial.
Cartoon — The Dancing Doll — Fleischer Out-of-the-Inkwell.
Instrumental—"The Clavilux (color organ) with Thomas Wilfred.
Feature—The World's Champion—Wallace Reid.
Ballet—Russian Dance, by Victorina Krigher.
Comedy—The Saw Mill—Larry Semon.
Next Week—The Mistress of the World—First of the series—The Dragon's Claw.

Central Theatre—
Overture—"Il Guarany," played by Central Orchestra.
Current Events.
Comedy—Peggy, Behave—Baby Peggy.
Special—(a) "Carmena," sung by Daisy Nowicki; (b) "Souvenir," played by Ignace Nowicki, violinist: (c) "Before We Say Goodnight," soprano solo with violin obligato, by Daisy and Ignace Nowicki.
Feature—Wild Honey—Priscilla Dean.

Capitol Theatre—
Overture—"Tannhauser," Capitol Grand Orchestra.
Divertissement—(a) "Valse Minute," presented by Mlle. Gambarelli; (b) "The End of a Perfect Day," sung by William Robyn, tenor; (c) Mazurka from "Coppelia," with Alexander Oumansky and Doris Niles.
Current Events—Capitol News.
Instrumental—"Hungarian Fantasy," played by Lilly Kovacs, pianiste.
Feature—Grand Larceny—Goldwyn.
Instrumental—"The Sousaphone Polka," solo for the tuba.
Educational—Such Is Life 'Mong Alpine Sports—Mayer Travellaugh.
Next Week—Foolish Wives—Universal-Jewel.

Mark Strand Theatre—
Overture—Selections from "Tannhauser," played by Strand Symphony Orchestra.
Educational—Taking the Air—Goldwyn Sport Review.
Danse—Folk Dances, by Tartakof's Russian Dancers.
Current Events—Mark Strand Topical Review.
Vocal Prologue—Sung by Richard Bold, tenor, and Ethel Best, soprano.
Feature—Polly of the Follies—Constance Talmadge.
Comedy—The Saw Mill—Larry Semon.
Next Week—The Sheik's Wife—Vitagraph.

Criterion Theatre—
Loves of Pharaoh continued.

Apollo Theatre—
Orphans of the Storm continued.

NEWMAN
THEATRE
Starts Today—
A mammoth entertainment that gives a new meaning to 'Saturday Night.'
All the crash and tingle of the sin-dest melodrama! All the poignant heart-tugs of life's supreme adventure of love! All the gorgeous color that glows through every picture made by Cecil B. DeMille. All of this—and more!
Cecil B. DeMille's PRODUCTION
"Saturday Night"
For Pleasure—
For Thrill—
For Heart-tug—
Newman Concert Orchestra
Leo F. Forbstein, Conductor.
Paramount Picture

Here's a snappy display used by the Newman theatre, Kansas City, to advertise "Saturday Night."

LOS ANGELES

California Theatre—
Current Events—Fox and International News and local events.
Special—Face to Face with Japan—Fox.
Symphony concert presenting "Rakoczy March," "Fantasia Napolitana," "Kentucky Blues" and other numbers.
Novelty—Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Feature—The Flower of the North—Vitagraph.
Next Week—Watch Your Step.

Tally's Theatre—
Overture—Medley of popular airs.
Novelty—The Cradle of Civilization—Super Feature Co.
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—Nobody—First National.
Next Week—Carnival.

Superba Theatre—
Current Events — International News
Comedy—Upper and Lower—Century.
Novelty—How to Fly. With personal appearance of an aviator giving a demonstration of the art.
Feature—Headin' West—Hoot Gibson.
Next Week—Tracked to Earth.

Grauman's Theatre—
Scenic — Neptune's Neighbors — Prizma.
Cartoon—Invisible Ink.
Novelty—Song writer sings a new number, "Dimples."
Feature—The World's Champion—Wallace Reid. At the end of the fourth reel the screen is raised and a one round boxing match takes the place of the fistic encounter of the film. The curtain is then dropped and the film continues.

Kinema Theatre—
Overture—"Dance of the Hours."
Novelty—Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Special—A Night in Hawaii. A Hawaiian song and dance number with a stage setting showing the eruption of a volcano.
Current Events—Kinograms and International.
Feature—Penrod—Wesley Barry.
Next Week—R. S. V. P.

Pantages Theatre—
Feature—The Swamp.
And Pantages vaudeville.

Loew's State Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Feature—The Idle Rich.
Five acts of vaudeville.

Symphony Theatre—
Second week of "Foolish Wives."

Grauman's Rialto Theatre—
Third week of "Moran of the Lady Letty."

Mission Theatre—
Second week of "Foolish Wives."

Miller's Theatre—
Fourth week of "The Silent Call."

Clune's Broadway Theatre—
Extra—Campbell of the Mounted—Irving Cummings.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Organ—"Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."
Feature—A Virginia Courtship—May McAvoy.
Next Week—A Game Chicken.

SEATTLE

Coliseum Theatre—
Overture—Remich Reminiscences—Medley of popular airs arranged by Conductor Kay and sung by a male quartette.
Current Events—From Pathe and Kinograms.
Scenic—Silver Harvest.
Comedy—Exit Quietly.
Feature—The Beautiful Liar.
Next week—Under the Lash.

Columbia Theatre—
Overture—"Blue Danube Waltz" and "Chinese Lullaby."
Current Events — International News.
Comedy—Upper and Lower.
Feature—The Black Panther's Cub.
Next week—Golden Gallows.

Strand Theatre—
Overture—Selections from "Naughty Marretta."
Current Events—Kinograms.
Cartoon—Why Adam Walked the Floor.
Feature—Saturday Night.
Next week—Same bill.

Blue Mouse Theatre—
Second week of "Why Girl's Leave Home" and complete bill as last week.
Coming—Return engagement of "The Four Horsemen."

Liberty Theatre—
Current Events—Liberty and Selznick News.
Comedy—Torchy Takes a Chance.
Vocal—Billy Lloyd singing "Swanee River Moon."
Feature—White Oak.
Next week—Law and the Woman.

PITTSBURGH

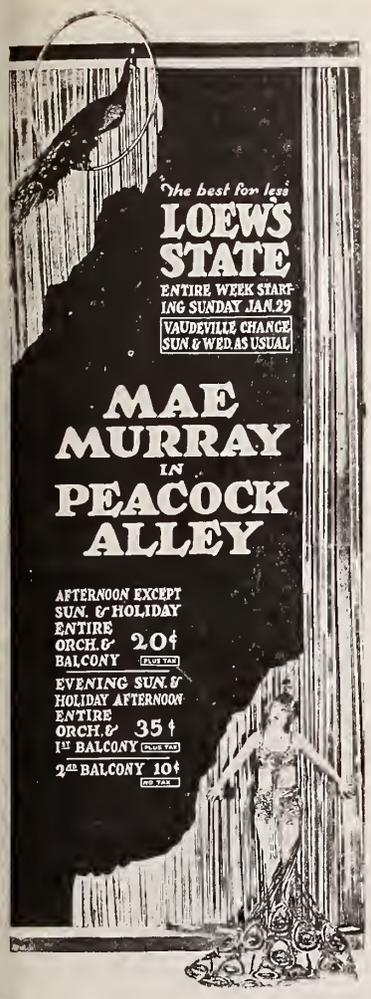
Olympic Theatre—
Current Events—Kinogram.
Specialty—Pathe Review.
Feature—Back Pay.
Comedy—Clean and Dry.
Next week—Moran of the Lady Letty.

Grand Theatre—
Current Events—Grand News Weekly.
Novelty—Topics of the Day.
Feature—The Seventh Day.
Comedy—The Show.
Next week—French Heels and Women's Place.

Loew's Lyceum Theatre—
Current Events — Loew's News Weekly.

ALHAMBRA
THIS WEEK
BEBE DANIELS
in
"NANCY from NOWHERE"
The fanciful story of an orphan girl who fell in love with a rich man's son and won him in spite of tremendous odds.
EXTRA! THE COMEDY RIOT
"PLEASE BE CAREFUL"
A SUNSHINE FARCE
FOX NEWS WEEKLY

"Nancy from Nowhere," display sponsored by the Alhambra theatre, Indianapolis.



The best for less
LOEWS STATE
ENTIRE WEEK START-ING SUNDAY JAN. 29
VAUDEVILLE CHANGE SUN. & WED. AS USUAL
MAE MURRAY IN PEACOCK ALLEY
AFTERNOON EXCEPT SUN. & HOLIDAY ENTIRE ORCH. & BALCONY 20¢ PLUS TAX
EVENING SUN. & HOLIDAY AFTERNOON ENTIRE ORCH. & 1ST BALCONY 35¢ PLUS TAX
2ND BALCONY 10¢ NO TAX

Here is the way the Loew's State of Salt Lake City advertised "Peacock Alley."

Feature—By Right of Purchase.
Comedy—Put and Take.
Next week—Not announced.

Cameraphone —
Current Events—Selznick News.
Feature—Eden and Return.
Comedy—The Show.
Next week—Moran of the Lady Letty.

Alhambra Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—Peacock Alley.
Comedy—The Adviser.

Duquesne Theatre—
Second week of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

State Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—Molly O
Comedy—By Heck.
Next week—Schooldays.

Savoy Theatre—
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—Trailin'.
Comedy—The Vagrant.
Next week—Thunderclap.

Liberty—
Current Events—International News.
Feature—The Seventh Day.
Comedy—By Heck.
Next week—Thunderclap.

Regent Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—A Certain Rich Man.
Comedy—Free and Easy.
Next week—Women's Place.

Blackstone Theatre—
Current Events—International News.
Feature—Peacock Alley.
Speeial attraction—Miss Florence Lloyd, a pupil of Carl Heinrich from Kidney's Studio of Dancing, in an especially arranged prologue, "The Peacock Alley Dance."

Aldine Theatre—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Feature—Tracked to Earth.

CLEVELAND

State—
Current Events—Pathe News—Topics of the Day.
Cartoon—Mutt and Jeff in "The Last Shot."
Comedy—A Funny Face Comedy.
Special attraction—"A Trip to Honolulu"—an all-Hawiian act, including a real Hula dancer, an Hawiian Ballet, an Hawiian trio, vocalists. In addition there was Sierra Elona, a real Indian girl, doing a Jazz Indian Dance and singing Indian melodies. Elaborate Hawiian setting painted by Englander. The Gale Sherwood orchestra, as tourists, partake in the Hawiian show, with singing and orchestral novelty features.
Vocal—Helen Synder, in a program of popular songs.
Feature—"Polly of the Follies," with Constance Talmadge.
Next week—"Moran of the Lady Letty," with Rudolf Valentino.

Allen—
Overture—"Euryanthe," by C. M. V. Weber, followed by three jazz encores.
Current Events—Allenette, selections from various news sources.
Comedy—Larry Semon in "The Show."
Prologue—(a) "The Melody Mill." Dutch setting, with big mill from which come the company of singers and dancers. Also a male quartet. (b) "A Scene in Black and White," done by Zimmerer. A setting for "Pierrot's Love Song," a fantasy sung by Thomas Conkey, of musical comedy fame, with a dance prelude by Marjorie Lee and Richard Maxwell.
Personal appearance—Lew Cody tells stories and gives interesting fifteen-minute entertainment.
Feature—"Grand Larceny," with Elliott Dexter and Claire Windsor.

Stillman—
Overture—Selections from Victor Herbert's Operettas.
Comedy—"'Twas Ever Thus."
Feature—"Turn to the Right."
Next week—"Fool's Paradise."

Park—
Overture—"Stony Island," an orchestral novelty arranged by Musical Director M. J. Spitalny.
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—"The Happy Pest," with Al St. John.
Feature—"The Old Swimmin' Hole," with Charles Ray.
Next week—"Law and the Woman."

Standard—
Current Events—International News.
Comedy—"Upper and Lower," with Lee Moran.
Feature—"Tracked to Earth," featuring Frank Mayo.
Next week—Miss DuPont in "Golden Gallows."

MILWAUKEE

Alhambra Theatre—
Weekly—Pathe News—Topics—Educational.
Stage Novelty—In Blue Bird Land.
Musical Selections—Alhambra Symphony Orchestra.
Comedy—Larry Semon—The Bell Hop.
Feature—Fannie Hurst's Back Pay.

Butterfly Theatre—
Weekly—Butterfly News and Views.
Special—Miss Dupont, star of Foolish Wives, appearing in person.
Feature—Foolish Wives.

Strand Theatre—
Weekly—Pathe News.
Special—Prologue—Wesley Barry in person, appearing in the prologue, supported by an all-Milwaukee cast of Child Players.
Feature—Penrod—with Wesley ("Freckles") Barry.

Merrill Theatre—
Weekly—International News—Topics.
Incidental music by the Merrill Orchestra.
Comedy—Funny Faces.
Special—Drawing Cards, Goldwyn's Complete Sport Review.
Special—The Leather Pushers (round two), from H. C. Witwer's stories in Collier's.
Feature—The Man from Lost River.

BROOKLYN

Mark Strand Theatre—
Overture—"Alessandro Stradella" (Flotow), Brooklyn Mark Strand Sympony Orchestra, Alois Reiser, director.
Flower Song scene from "Carmen" (Bizet). Arranged and directed by Managing Director Edward L. Hyman. Stage set was cafe interior with dancing girl atop table. Carmen through her wiles seeks to keep Don Jose from his duty. Dmitry Dobkin, tenor, as Don Jose. Sonia Serova, danseuse, as Carmen.
Post Scenic—The City.
Violin Solo—"Spanish Dance No. 8" (Sarasate). Madeline McGuigan, violinist.
Mark Strand Topical Review.
"La Boheme" (Pucceini). Singers in evening dress, with organ accompaniment only. Carlo Ferretti, baritone, and Frederick Jagel, tenor, sing, "Ah Mimi, s'en est Alle."
Feature—Wesley Barry in Penrod.
Orgon Solo—"March of the Toys" (Schminke). John Hammond and George Crook, organists.
Next Week—Fannie Hurst's Back Pay.

BUFFALO

Shea's Hippodrome—
Overture—Selections from "The Merry Widow."
Vocal—Songs by Irving and Jack Kaufman, Victrola stars.
Feature—Rent Free—Wallace Reid.
Comedy—A Sailor Made Man—Harold Lloyd.
Current Events—Hippodrome Review.
Next Week—School Days.

It Took Two Years to Find a Greater Picture Than "Humoresque" ——Here It Is——Commencing Monday at the Regent

—A Cosmopolitan Paramount Production

"JUST AROUND THE CORNER"

—By FANNIE HURST

Just a tired slip of a girl—crushed by a burden at home too big to carry. Filled with a love too big for the man who had won it. Lured by dreams too big to come true.—Around her the night—and New York. What awaited her "just around the corner?"

REGENT

This is one of Stanley Chambers' ads for "Just Around the Corner." The Regent theatre is located at Wichita, Kansas

Criterion—
Feature—Orphans of the Storm—D. W. Griffith.

Loew State—
Overture—Popular Song Medley.
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—The Sign of the Rose—George Beban.
Mr. Beban appearing in person with entire cast in the picture, presenting the action of the four reel on the stage. The film picks up the fifth reel.
Comedy—His First Honeymoon—Monty Banks.
Next Week—Charlie Murray in person.

Mark-Strand—
Overture—"Over the Hill" score.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—Over the Hill—Second run.

New Lafayette Square—
Feature—Thunderclap—Shown in connection with personal appearance of Mary Carr. Theatre policy is pictures and vaudeville.

Olympic—
Feature—The Way of a Maid—Elaine Hammerstein. The Last Chance—Franklyn Farnum.
The Olympic has changed its policy from vaudeville and pictures to straight pictures, showing a double feature bill. The house is operated by the same company that runs the new Lafayette.

Academy—
Feature—A Daughter of Eve.

Shea's North Park—
Feature—Rent Free—Wallace Reid.
Comedy—A Sailor Made Man—Harold Lloyd.

DALLAS

Overture—"Sons of Scotland."
Specialty Reel—Annette Kellerman—The Art of Diving.
Topics—Pathe.
Kinogram.
Scenic Pathe Review.
Feature—Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley."
Special Prologue.
Neiman—Marcus Spring Fashions—30 living models in Style Show.
Exit March—"Stars," by Van Alstyne.
Next Week—Wallace Reid and Elsie Ferguson in "Forever."

Old Mill Theatre—
Claire Windsor in "What Do Men Want."
Fox News.
Larry Semon in "The Saw Mill."
Jazz band selections.

ST. LOUIS

Missouri Theatre—
Overture — "Wagneriana." Missouri Symphony Orchestra with Isadore Cohen conducting.
The Missouri News.
Vocal Solo — Miss Sherry Louise Marshall, coloratura soprano.
Comedy—Larry Semon in The Fall Guy.
Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty—Featuring Dorothy and Rudolph Valentino.
Coming Week—Fool's Paradise.

William Fox Liberty—
Overture—"Light Cavalry," Liberty Orchestra.
Fox News.
Mutt and Jeff cartoon.
Sunshine Comedy — Sheriff Nel's Come Back.
Feature—William Farnum in The Stage Romance.

New Grand Central Theatre—
Overture—"Mingon," New Grand Central Concert Orchestra with Gene Rodemich conducting.
News and Views.
Organ Solo—"She's a Mean Job," Oscar H. Jost, organist.

Showing an ad on "Saturday Night," used by the Rialto theatre, Tacoma, nearly a page in size, and featuring the melodramatic angles of the picture.

The Milwaukee first run of "Penrod" is at the Strand theatre and this is one of the displays in the Sunday papers

Topics of the Day, accompanied by Rodemich's hit, "By the Pyramids."
Musical Feature — Excerpts from Cottage scene of "Martha," featuring "This Is Your Future Dwelling," quartette. "Surprised Am I," solo quartette; "The Last Rose of Summer," solo; "Like a Dream," solo, and "Good Night," quartette.
Feature Film — Constance Talmadge in Polly of the Follies.
Comedy—The Cat and the Swordfish, an Aesop fable.
Coming Attraction — 'Way Down East.

West End Lyric—
Overture—David Silverman's Concert Orchestra.
News and Views.
Aesop Fable — The Cat and the Swordfish.
Feature Attraction — Rex Beach, America's foremost novelist in person.
Feature Film — Rex Beach's The Iron Trail.

Criterion, Delmar and Congress Theatres—
Overture and organ recital.
Current News Reels.
Comedy.
Feature—The Golden Gallows.
Add attraction at Criterion—Back of the Button.

INDIANAPOLIS

Circle Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Novelty—Literary Digest Topics.
Novelty—Out of the Inkwell—Max Fleischer.
Feature—Penrod.
Next Week—Her Mad Dream.

Ohio Theatre—
Feature—The Horsemen of the Apocalypse—Second week.
Next Week—Same.

Loew's State Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Special Music—"Il Trovatore" overture featuring usherettes in the "Anvil Chorus."
Comedy — The Whirlwind — Joe Rock.
Novelty—Screen Snapshots.
Feature—Shame.
Next Week — A Connecticut Yanke.e.

Colonial Theatre—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Novelty—Movie Chats.
Comedy—Hal Roach.
Feature—Pilgrims of the Night.
Next Week—The Call of Home.

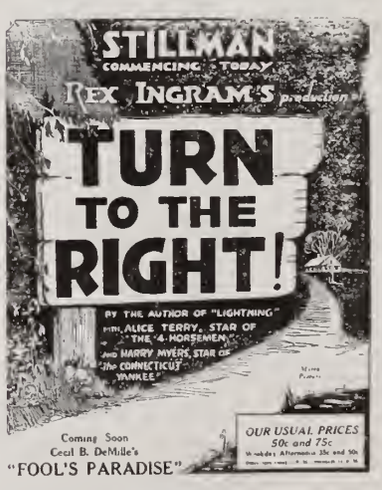
MINNEAPOLIS

State Theatre—
Overture—"Naritana," by W. V. Wallace.
State Digest—Composed of Pathe and International News strips.
Musical—Bendix Male Quartette singing favorite popular selections.
Comedy—On Patrol—A Billy B. Van comedy.
Feature — Norma Talmadge in "Love's Redemption."
Organ Solo—Played by E. J. Dunstedter.
Added Attraction—Five days only—Spring style revue with 20 models. Through arrangement with local department store.
Next Week—Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trademark."

Strand—
Feature—Helen Jerome Eddy and James Kirkwood in "The Forbidden Thing."
Comedy — Mack Sennett's "Be Reasonable."
Vocal—Art White and Gene White introducing popular hits.
News Events—International News.
Overture — "Always," played by Dick Long's Jazz Boys.
Next Week—Ethel Clayton in "Her Own Money."

Blue Mouse Theatre—
Feature — Pauline Frederick in "Two Kinds of Women."
Comedy—Larry Semon in "The Show."
News Events—Pathe News.
Musical — Louis Swain on the Robert Morton organ. (No orchestra.)

New Garrick Theatre—
Feature—Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley."
Comedy—The Gumps and Sketchographs.



For the Cleveland showing of "Turn to the Right" displays of this character are being run by the Stillman theatre

News Events—Pathe News, Kinograms and local events.
Organ Solo—Played by Leonard Leigh.
Next Week—Richard Barthelmess in "The Seventh Day."

BALTIMORE

Rivoli—
Overture—"Old Folks at Home" and "In Foreign Lands."
Current Events—Rivoli News.
Specialty—Topical Review, accompanied on organ by Ernie Cooper and Henry Boehme.
Feature—Penrod—Second week.
Comedy—Fool Days—Al St. John.
Next Week—The Seventh Day—Richard Barthelmess.

Century—
Overture—"Maytime."
Current Events—Century News.
Vocal—Justin and Lawric and Fernando Guarneri in operatic selections.
Feature—Forever — Wallace Reid and Elsie Ferguson.
Comedy.

Strand—
Overture — Medley — M. Louise Jones, player.
Current Events—Strand News of the World.
Feature—Twin Bed—Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven.
Comedy—The Goat—Harold Lloyd.

New Wizard—
Overture—Popular Airs.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—By Right of Purchase—Norma Talmadge.
Comedy—Those Athletic Girls—Mack Sennett.

Garden—
Feature—Chasing the Moon—Tom Mix.
Vaudeville.

Academy of Music—
Feature—The Jack-Knife Man—King Vidor.
Shubert vaudeville.

New—
Feature—Boomerang Bill—Lionel Barrymore.

Parkway—
Feature — Midnight — Constance Talmadge.

Loew's Hippodrome—
Feature—The Fox—Harry Carey.
Vaudeville.

Picture Garden—
Feature—Intrigue—Poli Negri.

KANSAS CITY

Liberty Theatre—
Overture—"Echoes from Liberty Theatre," compiled and arranged by Aug. C. Rose.
News—Pathe.
Comedy—Aesop's Fables.
Short Subjects—The Leather Pushers."
Organ Selections—Miss Susie Goff Bush and Miss Golden Eviston, organists.
Feature — Hush Money, Alice Brady.
Next Week—Grand Larceny, Elliot Dexter.

Doric Theatre—
News—International.
Comedy — Pardon Me, Snub Pollard.
Organ Selections — P. E. Stevens, organist.
Feature—"Jane Eyre," special cast.
Next Week — Boomerang Bill, Lionel Barrymore.

Newman Theatre—
Overture — Special musical setting in conjunction with prologue.
Current Events — Newman News and Views.
Organ Selections—Gerald F. Baker and Q. Landwehr, organists.
Special Number—Atmospheric prologue with Lillian Crossman and Frank Ridge and interpolated dance divertissement by pupils of Cranston School of Music.
Feature—Forever, special cast.
Next Week—Her Husband's Trade Mark, Gloria Swanson.

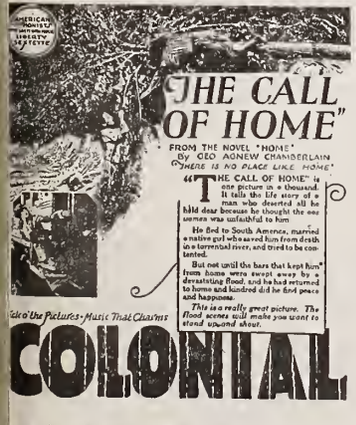
Royal Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
News—Royal Screen Magazine.
Comedy—The Bell Hop, Larry Semon.
Organ Selections — Harry Frank and Miss Ella McGorty, organists.
Feature—Three Live Ghosts, special cast.
Next Week—The Lotus Eater, John Barrymore.

Twelfth Street—
Overture—Popular selections.
News—Screen Magazine.
Organ Selections — Miss Hazel Webb and Miss Fay Shepherd, organists.
Double Feature—My Lady Friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven; The White House, special cast.
Next Week — The Barnstormers, Charles Ray.

DES MOINES

Des Moines Theatre—
Prologue — Music from "High Jinks," by Des Moines Theatre Orchestra, led by Harry Struble.
Comedy—The Pale Face, with Buster Keaton.
News—International.
Review—Literary Digest News.
Special Scenic — Woman Must Weep, presented with special orchestration.
Feature — The Seventh Day, with Richard Barthelmess.
Coming — Smilin' Through, with Norma Talmadge.

Strand Theatre—
Special Music—"Leave Me with a Smile," organ solo, by F. Donald Miller.
News—Educational Kinograms.
Comedy—Straight from the Farm, with Al St. John.
Feature—All's Fair in Love, with Richard Dix.
Next Week — Foolish Paradise, with Conrad Nagel.



Here is one on "The Call of Home" at the Colonial theatre, Indianapolis

Palace Theatre—
Comedy—The Bottle Baby.
Feature—Sky High, with Tom Mix.
Next Week—The White Oak, with W. S. Hart.

Sherman Theatre—
Feature—At the Stage Door.
Next Week—The Conquering Power, with Alice Terry.

OMAHA

Strand Theatre—
Overture—Force of Destiny.
Current Events—Pathe News.
Comedy—Bright Eyes.
Feature—A Prince There Was.

Moon Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events — International News.
Comedy — Seven Years' of Bad Luck.
Feature—Flower of the North.

Rialto Theatre—
Overture—Jazz selections.
Special—George Getsey singing "Ten Little Fingers."
Current Events—Rialto News.
Feature—Molly O.

Sun Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Special—Prizma pictures.
Feature—A Connecticut Yankee.

CINCINNATI

Walnut—
Overture—William Tell (Creatore arrangement)—Walnut orchestra; Creatore, guest conductor.
Current Events—Pathe 17.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Cartoon—Aesop's Fables—Pathe.
Musical number—Minuet (Boccherini)—Walnut orchestra.
Feature—Just Around the Corner.
Next week—Not given.

Strand—
Current Events—Pathe 18.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—Forever—Second week.
Next week—Fool's Paradise.

Palace—
Current Events — International News.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—The Law and the Woman.
Next week—The Idle Rich.

Capitol—
Overture—Maritana—Capitol Orchestra; Theodore Hahn, Jr., conductor.
Current Events — Capitol News Events.
Musical Number — Cutie — Capitol Jazz Unit.
Comedy — Mutt's "Brownie" Comedy.
Vocal Solo—Allah's Holiday—Eleanor Walker, soloist. Oriental setting in background.
Feature—The Night Rose.
Next week—The Prodigal Judge.

CHICAGO

Tivoli Theatre—
Overture—"The Flying Dutchman."
Literary Digest.
Specialty—Vernon Stiles, vocalist.
News Weekly.
Organ Solo—"They Call It Dancing," Milton Charles at the organ.
Scenic—Vacation Land.
Specialty—Dennis Sisters singing "Rose Land."
Feature—Forever.
Comedy—Bright Eyes.
Coming Feature—Love's Redemption.

Woodlawn Theatre—
Organ Solo—Granny.
Woodlawn Novelty—Screen Snapshots.
Woodlawn Pictorial Review.
Comedy—Battling Torchey.
Overture—"Azora."
Feature—Charles Ray in "R. S. V. P."
Intermission — The Whole Night Through.

Roosevelt Theatre—
Overture — "Pomp and Circumstance."
Feature—Foolish Wives, starring Miss Dupont—3rd week.
Coming Feature—Nazimova in "A Doll's House."

Great Northern—
Feature—Orphans of the Storm, featuring the Gish sisters—5th week.

Randolph Theatre—
Comedy—Wet and Warmer.
Feature—Turn to the Right.
Coming Feature—Charles Ray in "The Barn Stormers."

Barbee's Loop Theatre—
Pathe News.
Pathe Topics.
Serial—White Eagle.
Feature—Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man."
Coming Feature—One Man in a Million.

Ziegfeld Theatre—
Pathe Weekly.
Literary Digest.
Comedy—The Bear and the Bee.
Feature—The Prodigal Judge.
Coming Feature—Pola Negri in "The Polish Dancer."

Pantheon Theatre—
Overture — "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."
Feature—The Sea Lion.
Comedy—Never Weaken.
News Weekly.
Scenic.
Coming Feature—Back Pay.

PHILADELPHIA

Stanley—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Cartoon—"The Original Movie"—Tony Sarg.
Feature—"Tol'able David"—First National.
Next week—"Moran of the Lady Letty"—Paramount.

Stanton—
Feature—"Theodora"—Goldwyn.
Next week—"Turn to the Right"—Metro.

Aldine—
Feature—"Foolish Wives"—Universal.
Next week—Same.

Karlton—
Feature—"My Boy"—First National.
Next week—"Her Husband's Trademark"—Paramount.

Arcadia—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Screen Snapshots No. 20—Masterpiece.
Comedy—"'Twas Ever Thus"—Electric.
Comedy—"Arrow Head Luke"—Masterpiece.
Feature—"A Virginia Courtship"—Realart.
Next week—"Miss Lulu Bett"—Paramount.

Palace—
News and Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Smiles No. 2—Masterpiece.
Feature—"Peacock Alley"—Metro.
Next week—"Saturday Night"—Paramount.

Victoria—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Comedy—"Fool Days"—Fox.
Short Subject—"Law and Order"—Goldwyn.
Screen Snapshots No. 20—Masterpiece.
Feature—"Fightin' Mad"—Fox.
Next week—"A Stage Romance"—Fox.

Regent—
Smiles No. 2—Masterpiece.
Movie Chats—Hodkinson.
Cartoon—"First Shot"—Mutt and Jeff—Fox.
Feature—"Her Face Value"—Metro.
Next week—"The Golden Gift"—Metro.

Capitol—
News—Kinograms—Elec.
Comedy—"False Alarm"—Fox.
Short film—"The City"—Elec.
Feature—"Alias Ladyfingers"—Metro.
Next week—"Peter Ibbetson"—Paramount.

WASHINGTON

Moore's Rialto—
Overture—"La Traviata."
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—'Twas Ever Thus—Christie.
Scenic—The City—Post Nature.
Feature — Her Husband's Trade Mark—Paramount.

Loew's Palace—
Feature—The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse—Metro.

Loew's Columbia—
Current Events — International News.
Comedy—A Rambling Romeo.
Feature — Three Live Ghosts — Paramount.

MONTREAL

Allen Theatre—
Here, There and Everywhere with the Allen Cameraman.
Overture—"Pere De La Victoire"—Marche Militaire Francai. "Summer Evening" — Waldtenfel.
"A Sailor's Hornpipe," arranged and staged by Mrs. Geo. Rotsky. A scenic entitled, "The Log of La Viajera" is projected on the screen and the last scene fades on to a drop showing a boat slowly docking at the wharf and a lighthouse illuminated in the distance, then a male quartette is heard in the distance singing "When the Bell in the Lighthouse Rings Ding Dong," getting louder and louder and then gradually dies away. The drop is then illuminated slowly, representing the coming of dawn, until the whole stage is lit up and a sailor—M. Stepanoff—(late partner of Pavlowa)—dances a very fascinating "Sailor's Hornpipe" dance. This number went over very big and was a novelty in itself.
Comedy—The Love Egg.
"Serenade," Shubert. Phillip Pelz, cornet soloist.
Feature—Thunderclap.
Next Week—Jazz-a-Week, with Luigi Romanelli's famous jazz band.

Ask Yourself:—

WHY BUY the Booking Guide?

You are booking pictures some time after release—where do you look them up? Where do you get information about them?

The BOOKING GUIDE is the only place.

If you have booked a picture and want to advertise it where do you turn for help?

The BOOKING GUIDE is the only place.

When a SALESMAN comes in and makes wild statements, how do you check him up?

You cannot do it except with the BOOKING GUIDE.

Enclosed find $1.00 in payment for the next two issues of the BOOKING GUIDE.

Name_____

Theatre_____

Street_____

Ci_____

State_____

Seating Capacity_____

Next Issue—MARCH

Contains all information on pictures released during previous six months

Following Issue—
SEPTEMBER

Issued every six months

Reviews of Latest Short Subject Releases

"The Paleface"

(Buster Keaton Comedy—Two Reels)

BUSTER KEATON qualifies as a redskin. Make no mistake about it. That stoical xpression of his fits the type exactly. When e appears on the reservation in his pursuit of ugs he discovers that the braves are having roublesome times with a gang of land sharks.)ne can appreciate the embarrassment of the ituation when the Indians vow to kill the first ian to step upon their property. Buster is onchalant in his chase of the elusive bug. The edskins don't know what to make of him—/hether to accept him as some eerie personality rom the happy hunting ground or an eccentric ut. However, they don't waste any time. Bet-er burn him at the stake and destroy the vidence.

Buster is tied to the post but is surprised o discover that he can lift it from the ground. 'he wood is heaped about his feet, but through mploying some hokum he manages to elude ie flames. He escapes and finds shelter in an ld cabin where he makes himself a suit of . V. D.'s of asbestos paper. His solemn mien rouses laughter as the braves storm the doors. When he is re-captured and given up to the ames the suit refuses to burn. The Indians op their wild dancing and regard him as some upernatural power. So they elect him "little hief." In company with the big chief he leads ie tribe against the land sharks. A complete ictory is won and Buster is happy when he akes an Indian girl as bride.

Keaton certainly has fun here. "The Pale-ace" is a knockout for comedy. The laughs re many and they arrive spontaneously. There s no studied effort employed to add a happy ioment. Indeed the comedian seems to have n inexhaustible supply of new gags. His omedies possess ideas broadly burlesqued and ney should be in constant demand. Even the ndians will laugh at this one. Released through 'irst National—MATTHEW TAYLOR.

"'Twas Ever Thus"

Christie Comedy—Two Reels—Released through Educational Exchanges, Inc.)

THE female impersonation idea, always good for a number of sure-fire gags, provides ie material for this Christie laugh-maker. 'iora Daniel is featured.

A dead man's will provides that his daughter iarry the son of his old pal. This son is a owboy, so in order to discourage him, the girl iakes herself as homely as possible. But the owboy is none other than the Apollo-like Earl odney, and the young lady regrets her mis-ake and takes a trip to Arizona. The cowboy as memories of a homely girl, and dresses one f his ranchmen as a woman, telling him that e is now a "wife." Here is where the hokum tarts. The girl, now sweet and pretty, has een deceived and refuses to be undeceived. he comes upon the cowboy beating his "wife." 'hen a pair of twins are introduced. Finally ie "wife" becomes mixed up in an honest-to-oodness fight, and loses his wig and dress.

Mr. Christie introduces some old fashioned ountry square dances that the old-timers will ke. The complications are good for some iughs, but a few situations are overworked.—IATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"The Silver Harvest"

(World Wandering Series—One Reel—Released through Educational Exchanges, Inc.)

THE "silver harvest" consists of sardines—millions of them. The place is the coast of Portugal. We follow the sardine from the ocean to the inside of the can. In all it is an exceedingly interesting reel, for it combines some unusual foreign types of fisherfolks with factory scenes which reveal new wonders. Lumbering oxen draw in the nets from sea. It is said that twelve million sardines are caught in one haul. They are carried to the factory, sorted, cleaned, sprinkled with salt, and finally placed in the oven. A machine chops up tin with remarkable rapidity so that everything is ready when they come out steaming. Feminine hands pack them and they are crated for shipment.

The subject is a splendid example of combining education with splendid entertainment.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

Official Urban Movie Chat—Third Issue

(Produced by Kineto Company—Distributed Through Hodkinson Exchanges)

A BATTLING alligator is the star actor in this third issue of the official M. P. T. O. reel. While the man who wrestles with him does not get screen credit, his work could well be envied by the most reckless of serial stars. The two battle in the water, and the animal snaps his mammoth mouth at lightning speed and slashes his tail about with equal fury. This is the Nature Study section of the reel.

The reel starts with some scenes from the Bronx River, which can be more beautiful than most of the residents of the County of the same name even realize. The Household Hints show an ostrich egg and how it is converted into a delectable omelet. For the Science section there is shown the Yerkes Observatory and its huge apparatus for star-gazing.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Nan of the North"

(Ben Wilson-Arrow Film Corp.—Fifteen Episode Serial)

BEN WILSON, who knows serial construction and production from start to finish has duplicated past thrillers with "Nan of the North." This is the serial which was produced at Yellowstone National Park recently. No more beautiful background could be selected for any picture, and it is especially suitable for serial work because of its variety. There are precipices, gulches, forests, snow clad mountains and rushing streams, enough to go round for fifteen episodes and then some.

"Nan of the North" is quite up to the average of the serials of today, and should find a ready market in the houses which consistently use this type of entertainment. It is evident, from the three episodes witnessed, that the thrills are there in all shape and forms. The action is chiefly of the "shoot-'em-up" variety. There is hardly any let-up. There is a band of bandits and their nefarious leader; a member of the Northwest Mounted, and the girl. In one episode a whole troupe of Mounted Police join in to stage a miniature battle. The bandits are in search of a fallen meteor, which contains some chemical element more powerful than the combined forces of radium, electricity, steam and gasoline. The locale is some place in northern Canada.

Ann Little is the vigorous, long-suffering heroine. Leonard Clapham is the hero, who presents an unusually pleasing appearance in addition to his energy in the stunt scenes. Then there are Joseph Girard, Hal Wilson, Howard Crampton, J. Morris Foster and Edyth Stayart completing the cast.

"Nan of the North" should bring them back week after week. Each episode ends with the leading characters in the conventional tight place. It is evident that the villians are bad enough, and the others heroic enough to keep the action up at the same pace until the final episode.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Horse Sense"

(Century Comedy-Universal—Two Reels)

THAT animals are providing realism and entertainment cannot be denied. Not being camera conscious or gifted in the art of make-believe they perform in a highly natural manner—a manner which might be imitated by several people masquerading as Mansfields and Bernhardts. Harry Sweet uses a clever horse to put this effort over. Tomfoolery is engaged in as he mounts the steed, for he takes a particularly long time to climb aboard. And he only rides to the next house.

This is the point where some imitations of Doug and Mary are offered. The scene then shifts to a steamer. The heroine's father is desirous of sending the girl away to keep her from Harry. But he follows despite the efforts made to prevent the journey. The skipper, the mate and the furious father all assist in supplying the hokum—LAURENCE REID.

"The Open Wire"

(Universal-Western Drama—Two Reels)

THIS Universal two-reeler, starring Eileen Sedgwick, is a convincing story based upon the activities of crooks and a newspaper investigation. The heroine, a reporter, is assigned to interview the president of a company and succeeds in having the stenographer give her the list of the stockholders. To score a complete "beat" she follows them home for they are planning a get-away. The paper, learning of the crooks and the girl's predicament (she has been made prisoner) hustle their star reporter who rescues the heroine and brings the crooks to the long arm of the law.

It is a real scoop for the paper and the romance comes at the finish when the star reporter wakes up in the hospital and discovers his co-worker at his side. The title has its meaning in the sequence showing the girl attempting to phone the story to the city editor. She is prevented by the villains and when the receiver drops the boss realizes that something is wrong. So he sends for the police. The offering gets away from the stereotyped western and flashes some snappy action and a zippy conclusion. There is something doing every minute.—LAURENCE REID.

Action Stills from Releases of the Week

Priscilla Dean in "Wild Honey" (Universal)

Tom Wise in "Father Tom," Playgoers-Associated Exhibitors

Doris May in "Boy Crazy," an R-C release

Scenes from "Love's Boomerang," a Paramount picture

"Grand Larceny," a Goldwyn picture.

Wallace Reid in "The World's Champion," a Paramount picture

"The Family Closet," Playgoers-Pathe

"Marry the Poor Girl" (First National) with Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Grand Larceny"

Goldwyn—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THERE is just enough variation to this story of the triangle theme to give it a sustained interest for the sophisticated spectator. It makes a bid for feminine patronage through a question asked at the conclusion. And because the figure of the wife is drawn to exact sympathy there is no doubt that it will please those who might be placed in a similar situation. The author has allowed himself to appear almost brutal in his denouement. After carefully planting the idea that a holier-than-thou husband insists on the full penalty for a crime, this prosecuting attorney is drawn into amarital estrangement which compels him to be consistent in his ideals.

He has married a flirtatious girl who allows herself to become compromised. The scene is innocent enough but when the husband returns home—a tried and true scene because of its dramatic possibilities—he acts utterly boorish. He doesn't resort to physical action, but to subtleties. He suggests to his rival that if a wife can be stolen from one man, she can be stolen from another. He also imparts some vicious advice to his better half. And leaves her. Not a word of explanation does he allow her to make and when she becomes the wife of the other man the prophecy is fulfilled, principally through jealousy. This may be adding a smart twist to an old idea, but it seems to us is like making a bid for drama founded upon shallow premises.

The two men are pictured as unworthy of being called gentlemen, and the wife makes out that she is a piece of bartered property chiefly because she does not stand up for her convictions. These figures consequently become arbitrary—puppets in a marionette world. "Grand Larceny" offers some good advice, is well constructed, handsomely staged, well lighted and perfect in technical details. It also is excellently played by Elliot Dexter and Lowell Sherman who are made the sufferers as the woman, dear to them, calmly walks out of their lives.

The Cast

Kathleen Vaughn.....Claire Windsor
John Annixter.....Elliot Dexter
Barry Clive.....Lowell Sherman
Franklin.....Richard Tucker
Thad.....Tom Gallery
Harkness Boyd.....Roy Atwell
Emerson.....John Cossar

By Albert Payson Terhune. Scenario by Bess Meridith and John Kenyon. Directed by Wallace Worsley. Produced by Goldwyn.

The Story—Wife of flirtatious disposition encourages affair with friend of husband. The situation is innocent enough but husband returns home and places wrong construction upon scene and gives up wife to the man, warning both that larceny in home exacts heavy penalties Result is disaster for the triumvirate since love and faith are sacrificed.

Classification—Domestic triangle with husband releasing wife to his rival. Carries some new twists to old situations. Sophisticated story in every respect. Hits tragic note.

Production Highlights—Dramatic twist to eternal triangle. Acting of Lowell Sherman and Elliot Dexter. Careful lighting. Rich society sets. First rate titles suggesting, perfectly, sophisticated atmosphere of story.

Exploitation Angles—Some novel twists to old situation of triangle theme. Expert lighting. Work of Elliot Dexter and Lowell Sherman, pair of able actors. Title for exploitation campaign. Reputation of author. Contains moral value. Penalty which accompanies crime of grand larceny.

Drawing Power—Since this is picture of eternal triangle it will draw best in select communities. Would appeal more in high class houses. Society drama pleasing to feminine patronage. Dexter and Sherman assure patrons of good acting. Will go over heads of those who like stories in the "raw."

"The Barnstormer"

Chas. Ray-Kane-First National—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Charles Larkin)

OVERDONE hokum marks Charles Ray's latest picture, "The Barnstormer." The star directed this himself and if it is a sample of his directorial ability he should stick to the acting end of the business. Admirers of Ray on looking at the beginning of the feature will be delighted to find that their favorite has once more returned to his justly famous type of rural character delineation—but alas, fond hopes are crashed to the ground as Charlie soon leaves the atmosphere of "the sticks" and plunges into an uninteresting interpretation of a stage struck "hick" which is overdone in many spots.

As Joel Utility, the country Mansfield, Ray does a lot of posing and there is a lot of valuable footage devoted to close-ups. This may go good with the star's many feminine fans in the towns, but blase city folks certainly will not beat down the theatre doors to see it. The plot is almost conspicuous by its absence. The stage-struck yokel tinkers around with make-up and various properties. His attempt to look like Shylock takes up most of one reel and the rest of the action guides him through exaggerated buffoonery. He becomes a handy man with a road show and doubles in the orchestra and distributes hand-bills. The romance enters when the company is booked for a week in a tank town.

The climax comes when a masked bandit appears and forces Joel who is the "orchestra" to pass the hat for the valuables. A reward is offered and the yokel captures the villain as well as the storekeeper's daughter. There are some comedy moments when the company visits the yokel's town and plays to an audience of eight persons, most of whom leave in the middle of the performance. The action drags from beginning to end, the result of trying to make a three-reeler into one of feature length.

The Cast

Joel Utility.....Charles Ray
His father.....George Nichols
His mother.....Blanche Rose
Manager.....Lionel Belmore
Leading Lady.....Florence Oberle
Leading man.....Wilfred Lucas
Carpenter.....Phil Dunham
Theatre owner.....Gus Leonard
Emily.....Charlotte Pierce
Her pa.....Lincoln Plumer
Nut.....Bert Offorn

By Richard Andres. Directed by Charles Ray. Photographed by George Rizard.

The Story—Country yokel is stage struck and with aid of makeup book and various properties attempts to look like characters in book. Gets job with road show as handy man and finally graduates as extra actor. In a week stand he meets a girl and develops a romance. Bandit tries to hold up the audience but hero captures him and wins reward, as well as store-keeper's daughter.

Classification—Rural comedy-drama featuring stage-struck youth. Borders on the slapstick.

Exploitation Angles—Title and star. Plot gives exhibitor ideas to stage fitting prologue. It also suggests street ballyhoo. However, Ray can draw them in without much stunt campaign.

Drawing Power—This is a weak effort and will disappoint those who expect more from star. Blase city folks will not attend unless they want plenty of hokum and slapstick. Will appeal to star's feminine fans in the towns. Title and "paper" will entice patrons. Exhibitors should go easy on superlatives

"Love's Boomerang"

Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THERE are enough plots and counterpl s in "Love's Boomerang" to fill a ser L One's attention is distracted from follow g the romantic adventures of the artist and s adopted daughter while an assortment of c fusing scenes are held up to the light. T e central theme is interesting since it shows a old idea refreshened with some plausible - cident. Mawkish sentiment does not intru , nor is there any recourse to planting sy - pathy for the heroine by stressing her pathe childhood. It is our impression that if picture were simplified in plot it would carr a greater appeal.

For one thing it carries an inhuman ch - acter represented to be the orphan's fath . He has no scruples in regard to implicati g the girl on a charge of murder, but is c - science-stricken when he realizes that he v l have to testify against her. This counterp t takes him through many crude situations, t majority of which have to do with schemi g to inherit a young man's wealth and fr - trate a vicious blackmailer. The girl, fi t shown as a tiny youngster, is taken to Frar by the artist and is sent to a convent to educated. It is when she returns a few ye a later that she meets the youth and marr him, principally to save him from his wea - ness for drink. The situation is carefu planted that he will die from over-indulgen . And after his death the artist informs the g that he is not her father—that his love is e - tirely different from a paternal one. The t happy incident concerning her arrest is placed by a happy ending.

The story is difficult to follow because its many sub-plots. But in its favor is a r markable display of backgrounds, the dire tor sparing no expense to collect charmi exteriors. There is some good circus atm sphere and technically the production is t good for such weak material. David Pow and John Miltern are excellent in their r spective roles. The same may be said f Ann Forrest. They will have to share honc with "Bunty" Fosse who as the tiny t gives the most natural performance ev offered by a youngster.

The Cast

Perpetua.....Ann Forr
Perpetua, as a child.....Bunty" Fo
Brian McCree, an artist.....David Pow
Russell Fenton, a crook.....John Milt
Monsieur Lamballe.....Roy Byf
Madame Lamballe.....Florence Wo
Saville Mender.....Geoffrey K
Stella Daintry.....Lillian Wall
Christian, a convict.....Lionel Darag
Madame Tourterelle.....Ollie Em
Jane Egg, a circus rider.....Amy Willi
Auguste, a clown.....Tom Volbecc
Corn Chandler.....Frank Stanm
Mrs. Bugle.....Ida Fa
Perpetua's Mother.....Sara Sam

By Dion Clayton Calthrop. Scenario by Jo phine Lovett. Directed by John S. Robertsc Photographed by Roy Overbaugh. Produc by Famous Players.

The Story—Orphan girl is adopted by arti taken to France where both become associat with circus. Later she is sent to a conve to be educated and upon her release retur to England where she meets youth and marr him. Artist informs her he is not her fath Meets her real father and ultimately lear that he is plotting against her. Husband d and artist offers his love.

Classification—Romantic drama detailing a ventures of orphan girl adopted by artist. D velops melodramatic flavor when girl finds he self implicated in a murder. Love triumpl

Production Highlights—Exceptionally fi trayal of youngster by "Bunty" Fosse, who charming and natural in poses. Splendid feeling put in work by David Powell and Ann Forrest. Beautiful backgrounds revealing enchanting views of English and French country life. Careful lighting.

Exploitation Angles—Opportunity to stress appealing study of orphan girl adopted by artist. Work of "Bunty" Fosse, David Powell, Ann Forrest and John Miltern, the latter three well known to American audiences. Novelty of scenic backgrounds. Direction of John Robertson, who directed "Sentimental Tommy" and other pictorial achievements. Circus atmosphere.

Drawing Power—Good for first class houses featuring full week runs. Appealing study of adopted orphan sure to attract sympathy with audiences everywhere. Picture a better bet for refined neighborhoods than for factory districts. Needs exploitation. Better for cities than for small towns.

"For Those We Love"

Goldwyn—5752 Feet

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

THERE is just enough variety of situation and climax to this melodrama to carry it away from conventional channels. While the major theme is one of self-sacrifice it develops a deal of physical action which balances the qualities of sentiment and pathos. "For Those We Love" contains picturesque characterization, one of the figures splendidly interpreted by Lon Chaney, being of the "bravado" type. This actor's gift for pathos is keenly emphasized and when he rescues the girl from various dangers he inspires the greatest sympathy. The picture offers suspense, aplenty, mingled with spectacular thrills, while just enough pathos and cheer are included to strike a proper chord.

There is nothing in the offering which could arouse the ire of a "sane" censor board, yet the story is one that borders on the "thriller" type at several stages. Taken as a whole, a striking human atmosphere prevails throughout. Most of the action centers around a gambling resort in a small town with the self-sacrifice note manifesting itself when the picturesque gambler rescues the heroine from drowning. The friendship resulting from this praiseworthy deed causes scandal and worries the girl's fiance. The remainder of the story has to do with straightening out the complications revealed when the heroine's brother steals a sum of money from his father's employers and loses it in the resort. The gambler jumps to the rescue again when the proprietor insults the girl. In revenge the owner attempts to have the youth arrested. But he is spirited away and hidden in a questionable retreat. The disciples of virtue in their attempt to square the boy plan to rob the proprietor. In the escape the youth is killed. And the villain is threatened by the gambler unless he swears that the young man was killed while trying to capture burglars.

The picture gives Betty Compson and Lon Chaney most of the opportunities, although Frank Campeau has moments to reveal some picturesque villainy as the proprietor of the gambling resort. The romantic element is mostly dominated by the melodramatic highlights. The climax is certain to appeal to the average patron.

The Cast

Bernice Arnold.....Betty Compson
Jimmy Arnold.....Richard Rosson
George Arnold.....Harry Duffield
Vida.....Camille Astor
Dr. Bailee.....Bert Woodruff
Johnny Fletcher.....Walter Morosco
Bert.....George Cooper
Frank.....Frank Campeau
Trix Ulner.....Lon Chaney

By Perley Poor Sheehan. Directed by Arthur Rosson. Produced by Goldwyn.

The Story—Gambler rescues girl from drowning and resultant friendship causes her fiance considerable worry. Her brother steals sum from father's employers and loses it in gambling resort. The girl is insulted by the proprietor when she asks for the money. He attempts to have youth arrested but the latter is safely hidden. An attempt is made to rob the resort and the youth is killed. But the gambler forces the owner to swear the boy gave up his life in an effort to capture burglars.

Classification—Human interest drama revealing strong note of self-sacrifice. Contains generous share of melodrama and some romance.

Production Highlights—The acting of Betty Compson and Lon Chaney, with good support furnished by Richard Rosson and Frank Campeau. Thrilling climax. Pathos and cheer which are admirably balanced. First rate atmosphere and creditable action.

Exploitation Angles—Well known author who has contributed many stories to magazines and the screen. Work of Betty Compson, who has developed real ability. Splendid portrayal by Lon Chaney. Opportunity to feature their names in human interest drama. Thrills should attract lovers of action. Title suggests chance to link up with teaser campaign.

Drawing Power—The picture, if properly handled, cannot fail to draw well in most every community, although it has greater appeal in small cities and towns than large cities, catering to full week runs. Should be exploited for human interest and thrills and names of players.

"Wife Against Wife"

First National—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

IT is a question as to which excels in actual dramatic merit, George Broadhurst's play, "The Price," or the film version, "Wife Against Wife." Certainly as a creator of sympathetic sentiment among audiences, the picture is by far superior to the legitimate presentation. "Wife Against Wife," in one respect, is like a great many other features, exciting a feeling of depression near the climax, but sending the audience out the door—"glad it ended that way." As the title indicates the plot takes up the conflict of two women for the love of a man. Naturally this calls upon the author and director to point some strong contrast.

Sympathy is always extended for the downtrodden character and Pauline Starke, especially gifted to interpret pathos, makes an excellent choice for the little artist's model. At no stage of the action does she resort to overdrawn tactsics or strained facial pantomime, so often found in productions of this type dependent upon psychological processes of thought. There is no hectic drama visible in the picture. It simply details platonic love carried on by an artist residing in Paris for his French model. His wife wires him to return to New York and the girl soon follows and becomes heartbroken to discover that her ideal is married.

The conflict develops another angle when the heroine creates a friendship for the physician called in when the artist is seized with a fatal illness. It is the latter's dying wish that the girl marry the doctor. And when she follows his request the action precipitates a quarrel between them due to the jealous disposition of another admirer. A reconciliation is affected through the employment of their child. The selfish ambition of a loveless wife and a girl's true affection are held up for excellent comparison. The ending is slightly different from what might be expected, thereby adding interest to the plot. Good sets mark the picture which is well acted throughout.

The Cast

Gabrielle Gautier.....Pauline Stark
Stannard Dole.....Percy Marmont
Dr. Ethan Bristol.....Edward Langford
Mrs. Dole.....Emily Fitzroy
Florence Bromley.....Ottola Nesmith

By George Broadhurst. Scenario by Dorothy Farnum. Directed by Whitman Bennett. Produced by Whitman Bennett.

The Story—American artist residing in Paris develops strong friendship for French model. Girl is heart-broken when she follows him to New York and discovers that he is married. Heroine develops love for physician who is called in when artist is seized with fatal illness. She obeys latter's dying wish to marry doctor. Artist's widow inspires another girl with jealousy and a quarrel ensues between husband and wife. Reconciliation follows, brought about by their child.

Classification—Heart interest drama touching the conflict between loveless wife and affectionate girl for love of a man. Adaptation of George Broadhurst's play, "The Price." Strong love interest.

Production Highlights—Fine acting by Pauline Starke and Percy Marmot in opposite role. Strong dramatic conflict carrying good, sound moral. Excellent details. First rate production. The romantic flavor. Pathos surrounding life of central character.

Exploitation Angles—Perhaps this title will attract. Certain to be more of a magnet than original. Miss Starke and Mr. Parmont well known to steady picturegoers. Value of conflict and moral established. Shows the power of fine friendship. Needs heavy campaign. Author well known as successful playwright. Indicates prologue suggesting artists' studio—with character at work.

Drawing Power—This one possesses good, sound moral tone certain to be appreciated by all thinking people. Not so good for the masses. Should be shown in select houses. Needs campaign, drawing attention to plot and its values. Names of author and leading players should be well advertised.

"Father Tom"

Playgoers—Associated Exhibitors—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

"FATHER TOM" might be termed a simple, yet complicated, story of rural life. It is simple in that it is noticeably lacking in many of the impossible turns and twists of present day screen plots, yet complicated inasmuch as the audience is kept guessing until the final fade-out. The interest is never allowed to lag.

Tom Wise, in the role of "Father Tom," a typical small town, benevolent clergyman, is the one big feature of the production. His personality is excellently adapted to the character which he portrays.

This delightful rural drama is a story which might easily occur in any small town. It involves the wrath of a wealthy widow upon her more democratic son who is in love with an orphan girl, and the friendship for all by the kindly Father Tom. Besides the love interest, action and interest is aroused over the mortgage which rests upon the church, which is about to be foreclosed. The winning of a race by the girl's racehorse—her only possession—which clears the horizon financially. Father Tom is instrumental in bringing the romance to a happy ending.

"Father Tom" might well be called a relief from the time-worn problem play. It does not send patrons away with additional mental burdens, but it is a welcome tonic for the tired shopper and business man. Tom Wise's supporting cast is entirely capable.

The Cast

Father Tom.....Tom Wise
Margie.....Nancy Deaver
Bob Wellington.....Alexander Clark
Mrs. Wellington.....Ray Allen
Mrs. Martin.....Myra Brooks
H. Clarence Dalton.....Harry Boler
Mary.....May Kitson
Jim Colby.....James Hill
The Constable.....James Wallace

Directed by John B. O'Brien. Story by Carl Krusader.

The Story—A son quarrels with his wealthy mother, but is kept from leaving home by Father Tom, the priest. Father Tom also befriends Margie, an orphan, saving her first from arrest and later from the "heavy" of the picture. The tyrannical mother is about to foreclose her mortgage on the church, when Margie's only possession, a race horse, wins his race and earns the necessary money. The ending is happy.

Classification—A rural drama revolving about the character of Father Tom, but with plenty of romance and action. Not entirely a character study.

Production Highlights—The rescue of the orphan girl from the hands of the constable; her second rescue from the villain by Father

Tom; the stealing of the race horse; the winning of the race; the villain's discomfiture.

Exploitation Angles—Tom Wise, veteran stage comedian that he is, is a box office figure to be reckoned with. The title suggests a delightful character study, but the fact that there is plentiful action and romance in the picture should be emphasized.

Drawing Power—The picture can, in no way, draw adverse criticism, and will win the support of the majority of patrons, especially in small towns.

"The Family Closet"

Playgoers-Assoc. Exhibitors—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

OCCASIONALLY there comes along a picture which is of unusual interest to members of certain professions, but which still carries a strong appeal for the average public. "The Family Closet" is just such a picture. While newspaper men and politicians will find an individual attractiveness in the production, the theme and action are such that the stamp of approval will be forthcoming from any patron who loves a smoothly developed plot with adequate suspense. There is no outstanding star, yet each member of the cast is unusually well suited to his or her part in making the screen version of the Satevepost story, "Black Sheep," even more interesting than the original itself.

Mistaken identity, political intrigue, conflict and romance are intermingled in a clever fashion, incidentally providing an abundant field for valuable exploitation of the offering. Although the character of Charles Purcell, newspaper editor, is just a trifle overdnawn, no one outside a newspaper office could detect it. The story swings into its intrigue early and builds a sustaining interest to the climax. The plot hinges about a scar upon a man's face. The central figure is involved in a libel suit and a crooked editor employs his henchman to obtain damaging evidence. Blackmail takes issue here and hush money is doled out regularly until the man who started the libel suit reveals himself minus a beard. Result? No scar. The crooks are forced to leave town and the political quarrel is forgotten.

Romance enters for the happy ending. The youthful lovers have been kept apart by the estrangement of their parents. "The Family Closet" lacks no details essential to a story of this type. It should be box office "knock-out" prior to an election campaign.

The Cast

Alfred Dinsmore.....Holmes Herbert
Louise Dinsmore.....Alice Mann
Ned Tully.....Kempton Greene
J. Wesley Tully.....Byron Russell
Mrs. Tully.....Josephine Frost
Charles Purcell.....Walter Ware
Denis J. McMurty.....John Dillon
Lowell Winthrope.....Verne Layton
John Colby.....Walter Lewis
Mrs. Dinsmore.....May Kitson

By Will Payne. Directed by John B. O'Brien. Produced by Ore-Col Film Corp.

The Story—Politician refuses to withdraw his libel suit against the leader. Crooked editor employs henchman to obtain evidence against office seeker. Proof is almost established that the politician has participated in a crime. He wears a beard. The identity rests upon a scar on the chin. The crooks demand hush money but are forced to leave town when politician establishes his innocence. Political quarrel is forgotten and children of opponents are reunited.

Classification—Political intrigue serving story carrying well developed plot and suspense. Mystery and romance are intermingled with other melodramatic elements.

Production Highlights—Well sustained plot, strong in suspense. Political intrigue invariably fascinating to spectator. Reasonable plot, well handled. Even work of cast. Mystery element.

Exploitation Angles—The fact that it is an adaptation of popular magazine story. The political intrigue which is certain to appeal to all voters. If election campaign is on, picture will be a good bet. Title doesn't mean much as a seller. Should be advertised for its intrigue, mystery and suspense.

Drawing Power—Will be liked in small towns and cities. Good for daily change of program. If exploited for its political intrigue and "campaigned" for its lively incident and action will draw. Will be appreciated where an election campaign is being conducted. Should be shown in thriving communities who understand something of scheming politicians.

"The World's Champion"

Paramount—5030 Feet

(Reviewed by J. S. Dickerson)

IN spite of the fact that Wally is scarcely the type for his role and gets few acting opportunities, "The World's Champion," an adaptation of the stage play, "The Champion," in which Grant Mitchell appeared last season, will probably be called first-class entertainment by the fans, especially the female of the species.

The reason for this is that the picture is constructed from sure fire material and relates a story that appeals to Americans of all ages and regardless of sex.

There is an overbearing and stuck-up English nobleman as a villain, more snobbish Englishers to be taken down a peg, a pretty but poor English heroine who is a regular fellow and an erstwhile English young cub who became an American citizen and a prize ring champ.

Then, in developing the story, no opportunities are lost to stimulate our traditional antagonism for caste, lords, ladies, aristocracy and snobbishness. There is even a little flag waving.

Wally's role presents him as the youngest son of an English bounder who gets in dutch with his pater, is licked by his rival for the hand of a fair lady and finally emigrates to America. The story revolves about him but several of the cast have better parts, and one at least, William J. Ferguson as the butler, makes his role stand out to better advantage by clever acting.

Lois Wilson is the heroine and is really entitled to co-starring honors.

The picture marks the promotion of Philip E. Rosen from cameraman to director, with results entirely satisfactory, the adaptability of the material supplied being considered. There are rather too many titles but this was unavoidable.

The Cast

William Burroughs.....Wallace Reid
Lady Elizabeth.....Lois Wilson
John Burroughs.....Lionel Belmore
George Burroughs.....Henry Miller, Jr.
Mrs. Burroughs.....Helen Dunbar
Rev. David Burroughs.....Leslie Casey
Lord Brockington.....S. J. Sandford
Butler.....W. J. Ferguson
Mooney.....Guy Oliver

Produced by Famous Players-Lasky Corp. Story by Thomas Louden and A. E. Thomas. Scenario by J. E. Nash. Directed by Philip Rosen. Supervised by Thomas Buchanan.

The Story—The younger son of an aspiring English family, after a row with the local lord and his pater emigrates to America where he becomes the middleweight ring champion of the world. There had been a girl, Lady Elizabeth, to whom he was partial and who acted as if the regard was mutual. On returning home, he finds Lady Elizabeth social secretary for the family. The course of true love runs smoothly until his prize fighting fame is known, then Lady Elizabeth has a change of heart and the family feeling themselves disgraced, order him out. But, his being a champ., appeals to a lot of local big bugs in a different way and the family and the girl take him back as a hero instead of a scamp.

Classification—Romantic comedy with a prize fight sequence and a pleasing plot.

Production Highlights—Work of W. J. Ferguson, careful development of the plot, manner of appealing to American audiences, some good incident, notably a scene where the hero goes outside for his second encounter with his rival.

Exploitation Angles—The story, and the fact that it was a successful play, A. E. Thomas's name as one of the authors, the star and several members of the cast, especially Lois Wilson and W. J. Ferguson, the prize fight sequence (rather tame) and the bit of flag waving.

"Wild Honey"

Universal—6422 Feet

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

CONSIDERED as a thriller, "Wild Honey" has had few equals in this season's output. Priscilla Dean continues to enhance the reputation she started with "The Virgin of Stamboul" as an energetic star, and Universal continues to give her stories that sweep to a climax of fierce, stupendous action. This time it is a breaking dam, and a flood. The waters swirl down into the valley, mountain high. The doll-like figures flee before it, are caught, tossed about, helpless. A few underwater shots The man and woman drift at lightning speed with the current. Then the rescue from ashore. It is breath-taking because of the realism; astounding because of the daring and magnitude of it all.

But as a screen story, "Wild Honey" is not so perfect. The drama is secondary to the thrills. One villain after another enters the story to provide action and suspense It is a story manufactured to permit the thrills, but so forceful is the action that coherence and dramatic development are of minor importance to the audience themselves.

Priscilla Dean's big opportunities are in the action scenes and her vigorous personality is much in evidence. The Beery brothers, Noah and Wallace, both heavies, die the death of heavies in the course of the picture. Both are excellent. Robert Ellis is a capable hero. Director Wesley Ruggles is well able to stage both the London and South African scenes. His location for the flat veldt, his types of South Africans, and his attention to detail, establish the atmosphere of the region perfectly.

The flood sequence, a masterpiece of its kind, in addition to the few preceding bits of action, which are of the highest standard, make "Wild Honey" a picture that they will talk about—when they are able to get their breath again.

The Cast

Lady Vivienne.....Priscilla Dean
Henry Porthen, a new-rich social-climber..Noah Beery
"Freddy" Sutherland.....Lloyd Whitlock
Sir Hugh, Lady Vivienne's father..Raymond Blathwayt
Ebenezer Leamish.....Percy Challenger
Joan Rudd, Porthen's secretary.....Helen Raymond
Wolf Montague.....Landers Stevens
Kerry Burgess.....Robert Ellis
"Buck" Roper, a renegade.....Wallace Beery
Liverpool Blondie.....Carl Stockdale
Repington.....C. J. Frank
Koos.....Harry DeRoy

Directed by Wesley Ruggles. Scenario by Lucien Hubbard. Photography by Harry Thorpe. Story from Cynthia Stockley's Novel. Produced by Universal.

The Story—Lady Vivienne balks at her grandfather's efforts to marry her off to a society "lowbrow." When he tries to ensnare her he is killed by a jealous woman. Years later Lady Vivienne visits South Africa to inspect some holdings of her late grandfather. She is rescued from a bandit by a young homesteader, and with him endures the dangers of the bursting dam, which is accomplished by a wealthy South African, also her suitor.

Classification—Melodrama, spelt with capital letters. Romance is not neglected, but is of minor importance of the action.

Production Highlights—The murder of the villain who seeks to abduct the hero; her escape from the scene; Lady Vivienne's plight when lost in the veldt; her capture by the bandit and rescue by the hero; her dash to the rescue of her lover, and finally the stupendous flood scenes.

Exploitation Angles—Honeycombs attracted considerable attention in the lobby of the Central theatre in New York. The flood scenes are the biggest force in the picture. Patrons can be promised their greatest thrill and will not be disappointed. Priscilla Dean's reputation as a star. The names of the two great heavies—Wallace and Noah Beery. Cynthia Stockley's popular novel.

Drawing Power—Tremendous where they like the "action" or "Western" type of picture; a thing to wonder at by even those who like the sugar-coated and romantic stuff.

"False Fronts"

Bradley Feature Film—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Elsie Loeb)

"FALSE FRONTS" as its title indicates, is a story of shame and pretense. Written by S. Barrett McCormick, the Cleveland impresario, the feature reveals that a showman, having his hand on the pulse of the public, is able to give that same public what it wants. He has contributed a feature which doesn't pretend to be anything novel in theme. It is just a tale of regular people and will appeal on that account to movie audiences everywhere. Certainly it will be enjoyed by every member of the family because it details common faults and extolls honesty. The title itself uncovers great exploitation possibilities and it should draw like a magnet regardless of the entertaining qualities of the picture.

The director is to be commended for making a simple, progressive drama. There are no repetitious details, the plot unfolding easily and naturally. Pictorially it offers some telling "shots" emphasizing a number of lavish sets, not a few of which are exceedingly vital. And it carries a fine vein of interest and suspense culminating in a stirring climax. The plot treats of the psychology of sham and pretense as encountered in life of normal youth. This young man is forced to give up a college career because of his father's sudden death. He returns home to discover that his only heritage is a fine name and a healthy crop of debts. The remainder of the story shows him finding himself—adventures which take him through distressing incidents before he locates the road to love and happiness. The plot takes him to New York and Butte, Montana, and destiny introduces the romance in the figure of a girl, the daughter of a nouveau riche widow.

The story carries elements of heart interest, pathos, romance, thrills, rich incident and considerable local color.. It tugs at the finer senses because it approaches the bed-rock of human nature. The acting is splendidly taken care of by Frank Losee in a character role, Barbara Castleton as the heroine, and Edward Earle as the youth. All contribute performances marked by sincerity and understanding.

The Cast

Keith Drummond.....Edward Earle
Madelyn Claire.....Marjorie Kemble
John Lathrop.....Frank Losee
Helen Baxter.....Barbara Castleton

By S. Barrett McCormick. Directed by Samuel R. Bradley. Produced by Bradley Feature Film Corp.

The Story—Treats of aristocratic youth who leaves college at his father's death. Learns that his only heritage is a fine name and a number of debts. He goes to New York and travels road of least resistance and becomes social ion. Ultimately gets into debt and strikes out for West where he finds regeneration and character. Love affair developed in metropolis is renewed and happiness is his reward.

Classification—Human interest drama with emphasis placed upon character building. Carries strong dramatic flavor and adequate romance. Treats of sham and pretenses of a hypocrite world.

Production Highlights—Remarkable fine line of human interests. Logical sequences to story which will be recognized as real. Fine acting by Frank Losee, Barbara Castleton and Edward Earle. Progressive plot revealing good incident and stirring climax. Strong love interest. First rate atmosphere and local color. Luxurious sets.

Exploitation Angles—Title, particularly, will act as magnet. Has great exploitation possibilities. The fact that it is a wholesome type of story featuring a plot appealing to every class of patron. Human interest. The three principal players who never fail to contribute good performances. The fact that a motion picture impresario wrote the script. The logical story with its incident and climax. Theme which indicates a snappy "copy" campaign.

Drawing Power—This will appeal and draw every locality regardless of type of patron. Strong human interest story logically worked out will be appreciated by all classes. Title will get them in. Should be "campaigned" for wholesome plot, heart interest and values of drama. Good for a week run or for daily change.

"A Poor Relation"

Goldwyn—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

THERE is no question about this feature being a typical Will Rogers offering. The title suggests as much. It is when you are made acquainted with him in another homely, quaint, genial character that you appreciate that no one else but the poet "lariat" of the screen could have fitted the role.. "A Poor Relation" is Will Rogers from stem to mizzen. Which is to say that he puts it over in his peculiar way—that homespun, droll, semi-pathetic way which expresses his personality. The star has no equal in balancing pathos with humor. He shades these elements so that they dovetail perfectly. A pathetic expression will flit across his face, to be followed by some quizzical look. It is a lovable role, this character of a quaint inventor, Noah Vale, who shares his garret with two adopted orphans. He forces many a laugh and excites frequent sympathy in his labor to perfect his invention. When it is finally returned to him as utterly worthless —well, you can imagine the pathos of the situation. This character sketch is punctuated with some mild melodrama which introduces a shady partner of Vale's wealthy relative.. The latter's secretary is discharged for proposing to the rich man's daughter and the quaint inventor takes him under his wing.

There is a twist to the story when the old fellow turns to writing and the youth finds a market for his work. The love interest is renewed and the inventor is happy to discover that he is getting on in the world. The plot progresses smoothly and savors of the natural incidents of every-day life. "A Poor Relation" is well acted and directed. It is blended with genuine emotion and wholesome comedy.

The Cast

Noah Vale.....Will Rogers
Miss Fay.....Sylvia Breamer
Johnny Smith.....Wallace MacDonald
Sterrett.....Sydney Ainsworth
Mr. Fay.....George Williams
Scallops.....Molly Malone
Rip.....Robert DeVilbiss
Patch.....Jeanette Thebaol
O'Halley.....Walter Perry

The Story: Old inventor shares his garret with two adopted orphans. Laboring night and day to perfect an invention, he appeals to wealthy relative for financial aid. The model of machine is stolen by rich man's partner, who is told by experts that the invention is worthless. Relative's secretary becomes interested in inventor and succeeds in marketing the old man's stories. Youth marries sweetheart despite her father's protest. The orphans are well cared for.

Classification: Heart interest character sketch revolving around quaint inventor. Typical Will Rogers story. Adaptation of play of same name.

Production Highlights: Quaint and appealing performance of Will Rogers, who is inimitable in such a role. His acting, or rather his interpretation, dominates story. Work of supporting cast. Smooth continuity and good photography. Wholesome humor and charming pathos. Total absence of "strained" situations. Everyday incident.

Exploitation Angles: Title suggests good "copy" to arouse interest in homely type of human being. Adaptation of well known stage play. Peculiar style of Will Rogers, who is exceptionally well fitted to play the leading character. Wholesome comedy and genuine emotion. Molly Malone, Slyvia Breamer and Wallace MacDonald in cast. Opportunities to get out the older generation who remember original play.

Drawing Power: Should go wherever Will Rogers is popular. Emotion, pathos and humor make picture highly attractive.

"Boy Crazy"

R-C Pictures—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

A POLITE little comedy is "Boy Crazy," starring Doris May. There is nothing very humorous about the story, the various scenes, characters and titles unfolding an obvious line of action, none of which are marked by any mirth provoking qualities. It is so frail or brittle that compressed into three reels the picture would contain a compactness and a spontaneity which is largely absent through scenes which are over-emphasized. To those still in search of romance —be they approaching middle age—the picture will carry some appeal. But it is too naive—too smacking of high school antics to interest beyond a given point. And that point is reached about the third reel.

The heroine is a vivacious, temperamental, spirited flapper who delights in having a host of youthful swains at her beck and call. She encourages them in a lackadaiscal way until a worldly man visits the town and opens a modiste shop. Upon this situation the entire story hinges. If he can dabble in a feminine enterprise, the personable flapper reasons that she can succeed with a haberdashery shop. She wears knickers and other masculine trimmings and certainly succeeds where her old-fashioned father failed. A melodramatic finish is added to give it a punch. A shyster lawyer is about to foreclose, but the hero and the girl save the family income by outwitting the kidnappers.

There are some pleasant incidents—for example, when the heroine horrifies the passer-by by posing behind an underwear advertisement, and the flirtatious scenes between the girl and the modiste. The sets are attractive enough and the staging is up to modern requirements. Doris May plays her part to the manner born and sets off her personality with some pleasing costumes. The title is nifty enough to catch the eye.

The Cast

Jackie Cameron.....Doris May
Mr. Cameron (her father).....Fred Gambold
Mrs. Cameron(her mother).....Jean Hathaway
Tom Winton.....Frank Kingsley
J. Smythe.....Harry Myers
Mr. Skinner.....Otto Hoffman
Evelina Skinner.....Gertrude Short
Mrs. Winton.....Eugenia Tuttle
The Kidnappers.....Ed Brady and James Farley

By Beatrice Van. Directed by Wm. A. Seiter.

Produced by Hunt Stromberg.

The Story—Girl has host of youthful admirers and encourages them until a male modiste opens a shop across street from her father's store. Thereupon she conducts a shop catering to the masculine trade. This is to get even with the new merchant. Develops a love affair with him and together they save her father from a shyster lawyer.

Classification—Farce-Comedy relating romantic adventures of love-struck girl. Finale reveals touch of melodrama.

Production Highlights—Twist to plot when heroine opens a man's shop because hero has effrontery to conduct a dressmaking salon. Very little comedy. Good photography. Clever work of Harry Myers as male modiste.

Exploitation Angles—Title indicates advertising campaign featuring snappy teasers and catch lines. Star who is frolicking in farcical roles. Harry Myers as leading man. Will be remembered for work in "A Connecticut Yankee." Modern twist to plot. Suggests comedy prologue.

Drawing Power—Will draw in select or refined houses, appealing principally to flapper set. Needs strong bill surrounding it to get over successfully. If presented alone will need heavy exploitation. Should be booked on heavy nights such as Saturday or Sunday. Harry Myers, if remembered for previous performances, should attract a crowd. Not good for factory districts. If you have double feature day, book the picture.

TERRITORIAL SALES AND PURCHASES

In the Independent Field

STATE RIGHT AND EXPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

Stromberg Names Staff for Montana Comedies

A PERSONAL production staff composed of several of the foremost film craftsmen of the West Coast is announced by Hunt Stromberg, producer of the comedy specials to star the far-famed Bull Montana.

The directorial berth is to be occupied by Mal St. Clair, for many years associated with the Sennett studios as director of Mack Sennett comedies, and more recently director for Buster Keaton and the Carter De Havens.

Rex Taylor, well known writer of originals and continuities, has been engaged for the scenario staff, with Pliny Goodfriend assigned to first camera and Steve Evans to second. Frank Kryger is to officiate as assistant director.

Production on the first Bull Montana comedy, "A Ladies' Man," is scheduled to start next week, with Hunt Stromberg, who wrote the initial story to fully exploit the humorous and human talents of his star, personally supervising and co-directing.

Warner Serial Produced on Stupendous Scale

Produced on a stupendous scale, the Warner Brothers fifteen episode animal serial, "A Dangerous Adventure," starring Grace Darmond, is nearing the final stages of completion at the west coast studios, according to S. L. Warner under whose direction the serial is being made.

Of the many massive sets that have been erected for the serial, in order to lift it above mediocrity, the building of a massive jungle idol is said to have taken clay modellers and carpenters fully a month to build. Hundreds of people were used in this scene, in addition to practically all of 2,500 animals leased from the Al G. Barnes circus.

Backer Returning After Coast Conference

Franklin E. Backer has left Los Angeles on his way to New York after a conference with Amalgamated Pictures Corporation producers. He is bringing back with him three two-reel negatives about to be released in connection with the features.

Mr. Backer will stop over at almost every key city in his trip across the continent, and will visit most of the Amalgamated franchise holders handling the G. M. Anderson product.

"Determination" is Sold

Washington Run Brings Many Buyers; Big Opening at Syracuse, N. Y.

THE two weeks' run of "Determination" at Tom Moore's Garden Theatre, Washington, D. C., and the excellent results it brought at the box office, resulted in many sales of territory on the picture, announce Lee and Bradford Corporation, which is state righting the big feature.

Shortly after the opening at Washington Messrs. Hershey and Tucker purchased the State of West Virginia and are now road showing "Determination" throughout the territory. During the course of the second week of the run the Western Pennsylvania territory was disposed of. The feature was sold to Messrs. Jones and Adams, who opened at the Nemo Theatre, Johnstown, Pa., on February 20th to exceptional business. They report that their prints are booked solid until the first of May.

Mr. Mills and Mr. Berkowitz, of the Elk Photoplay Company, New York, made a special trip to Washington to see the picture, and while there bought the New York and Northern New Jersey territory. Another buyer who purchased the picture after its phenomenal record at Washington was Dave Segal, of Royal Pictures, Philadelphia. His territory includes Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey.

The Washington territory was sold almost immediately. Mr. Thomas, of the Strand Film Company, will distribute the picture in the District of Columbia and adjoining territory.

Lee and Bradford opened "Determination" at Syracuse, N. Y., on February 26th, at the Empire theatre, to the most remarkable business that theatre has ever done. More than 5,000 people saw the picture at the opening Sunday, and it was necessary to call out the police to care for the crowds who insisted upon trying to see the picture when the house was filled to capacity.

Future Second Nat'l Films

Forthcoming Features to Differ in Theme From First Offerings

INTERESTING sidelights on the appeal of motion pictures, the predominant form of entertainment in the world, are given by the reception of two of the first three releases by Second National Pictures Corporation. This concern selected two pictures of distinctly different types but both featuring Madge Titheradge, well known to New York patrons of the speaking stage.

The first release, "David and Jonathan," from the novel by E. Temple Thurston, is a modern story of love and adventure, with a fire at sea and a fight with a panther on a desolate island among the thrill-producing incidents. On the other hand, "Her Story," written especially for Madge Titheradge by her brother, Dion Titheradge, and directed by him, is a story of the "flash-back" type, beginning with the conclusion of the action and presented in the form of a narrative by the wife in explanation of the discovery of an escaped convict hiding in her boudoir.

Scores of exhibitors in key cities booking both these features have expressed widely varying opinions in regard to the two pictures, according to officials of Second National. One letter from a theatre manager in Boston lauds "David and Jonathan" as a "big smash" and "sure fire box office winner," and comments casually upon "Her Story," as a "good picture." Another from the same city calls "David and Jonathan" a "fine picture of its kind" and proceeds to discuss "Her Story" at length, declaring that "it grips the interest in the first moment and holds it to the last minute when Betty finishes her story."

The third release by Second National is distinctly different from either of the other two. "The Night Riders" is a story of the Northwest, the scene being laid in the cattle country on the slopes of the Canadian Rockies. In this Maudie Dunham, Albert Ray and Andre Beaulieu are featured.

The fourth release will be "Brenda's Heritage," featuring Marjorie Villis, James Knight and Bernard Dudley, known to fame for their work in "Romany," a Gypsy picture, which proved highly popular in all parts of the country. Later releases will be "Mr. Pim Passes By" visualization of the successful stage play; "Little Dorritt," from the famous Dickens story; "The Garden of Resurrection," "The Skin Game," "A Lady of Quality," "Our Maggie," and "The Famous Mrs. Thompson."

Arrow Photo Plays Co. Buys Young Series

EQUITY PICTURES this week announces the sale of five Clara Kimball Young productions to Joe Goodstein of the Arrow Photo Plays Co. of Denver, Seattle and Salt Lake City. This deal includes "Hush," "Straight from Paris," "Charge It," "What No Man Knows," and the latest picture, "The Worldly Madonna."

Mr. Goodstein states that Clara Kimball Young is very popular in his territory, and that he expects to get under way a novel exploitation campaign. Bookings for the series have already begun through the Denver, Salt Lake and Seattle offices of Arrow Photo Plays.

Shallenberger Leaves on Business Trip

W. E. Shallenberger, President of the Arrow Film Corporation left New York on Tuesday for a brief trip, taking in Columbus Ohio, where "Ten Nights in a Barroom" played to capacity audiences at the Grand theatre; Detroit, Mich., where Dr. Shallenberger will see the premier at the Allen theatre of "False Fronts," locally produced feature, and then to Chicago, Ill., and Toronto, Canada. It is expected that Dr. Shallenberger will be gone about ten days. During his absence W. Ray Johnston, vice-president and general manager of the Arrow Film Corporation remains in charge of the office.

Screen Snapshots Shows Movie Home Life

In line with a belief they have always held, Jack Cohn and Louis Lewyn, producers of Screen Snapshots, the single-reel novelty offering which gives the public glimpses of film stars a close range, will offer an innovation in the next issue of this series.

They have prepared for this issue a special subject, of which the introductory title reads: "What the unthinking public believes Hollywood is like;" and which shows scenes showing, in a fantastic way just how ridiculously unbalanced is the public opinion of Hollywood. Then comes a title "And this is what it really looks like"—after which come scenes made at various times on various streets and in homes in Hollywood—not specially posed, just any scenes, showing the quiet houses, exterior and interior of many of the leading producers directors, and film players.

Lucy Fox, Billy Quirk and Matthew Betz in a scene from Pyramid's "My Old Kentucky Home," to be released through the American Releasing Corporation

Carewe Film in Production

Burr Denies Rumors That "I Am the Law" Was Ever Offered for Sale

IN order to offset any rumors that "I Am the Law," the first of the Edwin S. Carewe all-star productions featuring Kenneth Harlan, Alice Lake, Rosemary Theby, Noah Beery, Wallace Beery and Gaston Glass has already been completed and offered to one of the large national distributing corporations for nation wide release, C. C. Burr, president of Affiliated Distributors, Inc., and producer of Johnny Hines in "Burn 'Em Up Barnes," made public the following statement:

"It has come to my attention that rumors have been afloat stating that 'I Am the Law,' which Edwin S. Carewe is now directing on the coast has been offered in completed form to one of the large interests for distribution and release. This statement is absolutely untrue, first because 'I Am the Law' has not yet been completed, and secondly because this big production is being made exclusively for the independent market and will be released exclusively through Affiliated Distributors, Inc. As an instance I might state that states-rights territory has already been sold to First National Exchange of Pittsburgh and others whose names I shall announce to the trade shortly.

"It is extremely disconcerting to hear these ungrounded rumors at this time because Bernie Fineman, Benny Zeidman, Edwin Carewe and I pooled our resources to obtain the above mentioned stars at great cost primarily to do our share in the general rejuvenation of the independent market. The 'kickers' in the independent field were bewailing the fact that there were no real productions in the state-right market, and it was in order to help offset this unwarrantable complaint that the Edwin S. Carewe Pictures Corporation was formed with the sole purpose of filming pictures for independent release that were good enough to play the very best first run houses in the country. This production will be in line with the high calibre of other big independent releases that have gone big like 'Burn 'Em Up Barnes,' 'Where Is My Wandering Boy To-night?' and 'School Days.' Very often a picture is made and then offered to the larger interests for release. Where the picture is a good one it's chances for acceptance are good, but most often these productions after having been shopped around are offered to the state-right market where it has its ultimate consumption.

"So far as 'I Am the Law' is concerned I wish to emphatically state that it has never been offered to any of the large interests because as soon as it is completed it will be released through my own organization, namely Affiliated Distributors, Inc. We have never tried to peddle 'I Am the Law' to the big interests, and exchangemen can be positively assured that 'I Am the Law' with it's record breaking cast and big story will be theirs if they want it. Our future rests with the independents, for it is they we are catering to."

Many Two Week Runs for "School Days"

The Warner Brothers production, Gus Edwards' "School Days," featuring Wesley Barry, is said to be doing such record breaking business that many of the theatres throughout the country, including the Strand, Milwaukee, Newark theatre, Newark, N. J., and Walnut, Cincinnati, have held the feature over for a second week.

The fact that these theatres have held the Warner production is said to be due to the picture's exploitation possibilities. Practically every town or city showing the feature is taking advantage of the Warner slogan, "Advertise with Music," and the prologue possibilities with local talented youngsters.

Anchor Selling Campaign

Morris Schlank Offers Varied Program for Independent Buyers

WITH thirteen features and two series of comedies for independent exhibitors to choose from, Morris R. Schlank, president of the Anchor Film Distributors, Inc., has begun his selling campaign of Anchor-distributed productions from his Los Angeles headquarters.

J. A. Kent is now on a selling tour embracing all territory east of Chicago, while P. B. Dana is handling the west of Chicago districts. Both report excellent progress, states a communication from Mr. Schlank.

The titles of the Anchor productions now offered are "The Heart of Lincoln," portrayed by Francis Ford; "Another Man's Boots," and Ivor McFadden Production, "Tell Tale Eye," "Broken Hearts," "The Stranger of the Hills," "Threads of Destiny" and the first two of a series of four race-track screen dramas starring petite Peggy O'Day —"They're Off" and "Thundering Hoofs." A series of five other features, with one of the best known stars in the leading roles, will be announced as soon as prints are made.

The comedy program offered by Anchor comprises twelve fun films featuring Little Napoleon, said to be the greatest of the chimpanzees and produced by Mr. Schlank personally, and twelve two-reel "Anchor Comedies" featuring Jack Richardson, the comedian. The last named subjects are now in production.

Another series of "great author" series to be released by Anchor will be produced by Ivor McFadden from Saturday Evening Post stories written by Eugene Manlove Rhodes, the first of which will be "Dwellingplace of Light," with Robert Gordon, of "The Rosary" fame, in the stellar role.

Clean Advertising Assured

Pacific Film Bans Salacious Ads in Exploiting All Their Releases

BELIEVING that salacious advertising of pictures is always harmful to the industry, Julius Singer, eastern representative of the Pacific Film Company, announces that same degree of cleanliness will mark the publicizing of the releases of this company, as is in the features themselves. Mr. Singer is of the same opinion as a writer in a New York paper recently, who blamed not so much the directors for the evil of censorship as those who advertised and titled the pictures.

Pacific Film is now offering "The Able Minded Lady," "The Girl from Rocky Point," "The Forest King," "The Fatal 30" and the Folly Comedies. These last named, the comedies, have been sold on the state right market to the following concerns: The Merit Film Company, New York; 20th Century Film Co., Philadelphia; Celebrated Players Film Corp., Chicago; Midwest Distributing Co., Milwaukee, Wis., Reliance Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.; Quality Film Corp., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Peerless Film Service, California; Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland, Ohio; Greater Features, Seattle, Wash.; Federate Film Exchange, Omaha, Neb.; Fine Art Pictures Corporation, St. Louis, Mo.; Independent Film Exchanges of America, Denver, Colo.; Standard Film Corp., Kansas City, Mo.; Eltabran Film Company, Atlanta, Ga., and the Eastern Feature Film Co., of Boston, Mass.

"The Able-Minded Lady," adapted from the story in the Saturday Evening Post by Wm. R. Leighton starring Henry B. Walthall is a scintillating farce of the breezy West. Walthall is cast as a happy-go-lucky cowboy who is engaged by a masculine female to work on her ranch, Breezy, which is his name, crosses his finger every time the ranch-woman talks of love. There are many humorous situations all through the story.

"The Girl from Rocky Point" has elicited high praise by all who have seen it. It is a beautiful story taken by the sea with Ora Carew in the leading role. Walt Whitman has an important part.

"The Forest King," a red blooded story of the great out-of-doors laid in the valley of the Giant Redwood where a man is measured by the good he does—and not by his money.

"The Fatal 30" is also in great demand, states Mr. Singer.

Mr. State Rights Buyer—Listen!

Pat Sullivan, my boss, has just made a contract with Miss Winkler to star me in a series of twelve cartoon comics. I am the only trained cat in the movies—and oh boy, can I act. For information about my new distributing arrangement, drop a line to

M. J. WINKLER

220 W. 42nd St. New York

Third M.P.T.O. Reel Is Filled with Interest

The making of an omlet from an ostrich egg is shown in the "Household Hints" department of the third issue of the Official Urban Movie Chats of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America. There are also some beautiful scenic shots of the Bronx River, New York City, which affords more delightful views than most people imagine. The Yerkes observatory in Wisconsin is shown and glimpses of its marvelous instruments. The Nature study includes scenes of an alligator at bay.

"The Jungle Goddess" Rumors Unfounded

Despite the fact that several national distributors have offered to take over "The Jungle Goddess," Col. Selig's spectacular wild animal serial in which Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke are co-starred, and rumors regarding the outright sale of this serial notwithstanding, Mr. Louis Auerbach, of the Export & Import Film Company, owners of the world rights thereon, states that his company will stick to its original intention of state righting the fifteen episode chapter picture which is now close to completion at the coast studios of Selig.

Warner Bros. Give Up New York Exchange

Harry M. Warner, of Warner Brothers, announces that he has disposed of his interest in the New York exchange to Bobby North, who also held an interest in the enterprise. The transaction, according to Mr. Warner, also included the taking over by Mr. North of the Federated franchise.

The future plans of the Warner organization will center chiefly on production activities. Wesley Barry, by arrangement with Marshall Neilan, has been seured for two more productions, "Rags to Riches," and "Little Heroes of the Street." Charles G. Norris' popular novel, "Brass," has been purchased for production early this fall, and it is said that another popular novel by one of America's foremost writers will also be purchased.

Carewe - Burr Feature Sold in Pittsburgh

An indication of the trade's confidence in C. C. Burr was emphasized this week when First National Exchange of Pittsburgh contracted to buy "I Am the Law," the first Carewe-Affiliated release for its territory, despite the fact that production on this feature has not yet been completed. Coming as it does at this time, such an announcement is extremely heartening to those independents who know the needs of their market and are bending all their efforts to meet those needs, believes Mr. Burr.

New "Wandering Boy" Sale

Buyer of Equity Feature Believes This Is the Day of Melodramas

JOE GOODSTEIN, of the Arrow Photo Plays Co., of Denver, Seattle, and Salt Lake City, is the latest purchaser of Equity's "Where is My Wandering Boy To-Night." Mr. Goodstein and his general manager J. A. Conant arrived in New York last week and the sale was consummated immediately. Mr. Goodstein's territory includes Washington, Idaho, Utah, Oregon, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Alaska.

Mr. Goodstein is of the opinion that the show business runs in cycles and now is the cycle of the old time "mellers"; and that melodramas with heart punch and a good story is the money getter of the present day.

"I wasn't so sure about this picture," said Mr. Goodstein, "until I got a veritable flood of requests from exhibitors in the western territory asking for information as to whether I would be likely to handle this production in the western states. It is not unusual to receive letters from exhibitors asking whether I will handle certain big pictures, for exhibitors in our territory look to us for the winners. But I never got as many requests as for this picture 'Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight.' Exhibitors to whom I never sold a dime's worth of film, communicated with me saying that if I secured this picture, they would book immediately."

"The plans for exploitation of 'Where Is My Wandering Boy' are the most elaborate the Arrow Photo Plays Co. have ever laid out," said Mr. Conant. "We are going to put this production across unlike anything ever handled by Arrow. The picture is there 100 per cent up to our expectations and backed by the exploitation prepared by the Equity staff in connection with some of our own original ideas, no exhibitor that plays this picture and that uses the material in prospect but what will make a real clean up."

Both Messrs. Goodstein and Conant were highly enthusiastic over the prospects of the production and another selling record was established by Equity for it took just exactly thirty minutes from the time of the arrival of these two gentlemen in the Equity offices to close the deal.

Holds Morning Matinees

Columbus, O., Theatre Shows "Four Seasons" to Children on Saturday

DURING the engagement of "The Four Seasons" last week at the Southern theatre in Columbus, O., the theatre management held four special Saturday morning showings at 9, 10, 11 and 12 o'clock, before the regular theatrical performances, so that the school children could be taken care of. A special admission price of 10 cents prevailed at these early matinees.

The Columbus, O., State Journal in commenting on these arrangements for the school children in the theatres goes on to say:

"'The Four Seasons' is a picture that justifies superlatives. It may be called the oddest picture ever made, since the drama is enacted by all the birds, animals and insects of nature's kingdom, while the skies, woodlands, forests, streams, mountains, plains, brooks and nests provide the background. That the drama overwhelms one with its awe-inspiring scenes cannot be denied. That it at times soars with an intensity of purpose as the scheme of life is challenged, is forcefully emphasized a score of times. Each animal has its peculiar gift of expression. And this orchestra of strange sounds goes on unceasingly through eternity.

"The frail of the species may be singing a swan song. For a wolf can hear the shrill call of the doe. And birds trap themselves sometimes. Nature is cruel, too. But the animals have an instinct which lessens the cruelty. The will to live causes them to work unceasingly in providing shelter. Spring ushers them into the world. The pollywog grows into a frog before summer has passed. The chicken leaves its shell. The hatching season has arrived. The warmth of soil and sun brings the woodchuck from his hole. And they thrive and multiply. And autumn discovers the weaker forces preparing to leave the earth life. Thus the scheme goes on about us. Meanwhile the backgrounds are being changed by unseen forces."

"The Four Seasons" is the four-reel nature classic produced for Kineto by Raymond L. Ditmars and released through the Hodkinson Exchange.

Barth with Associated Screen News

E. G. White, general manager of The Associated Screen News, Inc., has made the announcement of the appointment of Gus Barth as head of the selling branch of the Associated.

Mr. Barth has been sales-manager for the Claremont laboratory for the past two years and is well known throughout the trade. The Associated Screen News since its reorganization in October last has gradually assumed a very prominent place in the laboratory field.

Nurnberg Heads Pacific Publicity Staff

Victor ("Vic") Nurnberg, formerly head of the advertising and publicity staff of Reelcraft and other companies, has been appointed head of the advertising and publicity forces of the Pacific Film Company of Culver City, California. He will also act as personal representative to Julius Singer, Eastern head of the Pacific.

Another "Great Authors" Picture on B'way

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, of "The Great Authors" series, produced by the Kineto Company, is charming audiences recently at the Strand Theatre where all of the series are playing their national-pre-release engagements.

National distribution of this series on "The Great Authors" is being handled by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. There are twelve subjects in the series, each dealing with a great American author and each complete in a single-reel. They are being released one every month.

The picture of Longfellow gives a complete story of his life and dramatizes portions of "The Village Blacksmith."

"School Days" Chosen for Benefit Show

Through an arrangement made by Harry M. Warner, of Warner Brothers, with the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert, Gus Edwards' "School Days," featuring Wesley Barry, was shown at the Astor theatre, New York, on February 26th for the benefit of more than 200,000 kiddies both rich and poor. The benefit is being given for the Kiddie Club Country Fund, founded by Eleanor Schorer of the New York Evening World. Many screen luminaries made personal appearances.

A. E. Cobb Leaves Arrow

Agnes Egan Cobb, who has been associated with Arrow Film Corporation for the past year, has severed connections with that firm and will take up the duties of general sales manager of the Concord Film Co., Inc., with offices in the Mecca Building, New York.

Goldwyn Short Subjects Make Ideal Fillers

Goldwyn's two new series of short subjects, The Sport Review and Goldwyn Graphics, have now been on the market for four months and the corporation has had time to find out just how the exhibitor regards these program fillers.

The demand for them was very big from the start and has kept increasing as each new subject was issued. Exhibitors have found their patrons greatly interested in both the sport and the travel reels, states Goldwyn. They applaud them as much as they do the feature photoplays screened on the same program.

Perrin to Be Starred in Sea Stories

Jack Perrin, the well known screen player of heroic roles, will be starred by Campbell Productions in a series of six famous sea stories, according to an announcement made by the Anchor Film Distributors, Inc., which will release this series on the independent market.

"The Innocent Cheat" an Arrow Release

MUCH interest has been aroused over the announcement of the forthcoming release of "The Innocent Cheat," a special attraction being distributed on the State Rights market, by the Arrow Film Corporation. This picture is one of the big specials released on the State Rights market, by Ben Wilson, who is also the producer.

The story is from the pen of J. Grubb Alexander. Mr. Wilson has given a capable cast to the interpretation of the story, with such well known favorites as Roy Stewart, Kathleen Kirkham and Sidney de Gray.

"The Innocent Cheat" is the story of mother love, unusually big in its appeal, with a tremendous dramatic climax, it is said.

The picture abounds in magnificent scenery and has some fine photography.

Second "Felix" Cartoon Is Completed

Pat Sullivan, producer of the series of "Felix" Cartoon Comics which Miss M. J. Winkler is distributing on the state rights market, announces the completion of his second release. "Felix At The Fair" is the title of this subject, and it is said to contain as many laughs as there are feet in the film.

"Felix At The Fair," it is announced, will be available for release on the independent market the latter part of the present week.

New Territory Assigned by Second National

Second National Pictures Corporation has completed a deal with D. E. Oglesby and W. V. De Farley, for the distribution of the twelve special productions and feature releases, now controlled by the concern, in North and South Carolina, withdrawing this territory from the region to be covered by the Atlanta exchange.

A thrilling moment from "Taking Chances," a Phil Goldstein production, in which Richard Talmadge is starred

New Series for Balshofer

William Fairbanks Will Be Featured in Eight Pictures a Year

ANOTHER working unit has been put into the producing field by Mr. Fred J. Balshofer, veteran producer of the motion pictures industry. Mr. Balshofer has signed Wm. Fairbanks for a period of three years. He will make eight pictures a year featuring Fairbanks in stories of the big outdoors.

Mr. Balshofer is not a stranger to the stories of the outdoors, although he has confined his efforts of recent years to special productions of the society type. After many years of creating new stars in polite drama, Mr. Balshofer once more has turned his attention to the big outdoors; but with new views anent the subject. He proposes to put upon the screen artistic outdoor stories, with the human element doing natural human things and injecting high drama as occasion demands, for the purpose of entertainment.

"All life is attended by drama," said Mr. Balshofer in discussing his new plans. "But it is real drama and many times more vivid than the fictional work of the artificial force socalled thrills in pictures. I believe the time has come to inject into the moving picture productions artistic scenic values and careful drama. It is time the rough, unnatural edges were removed from the productions.

"We are making many of these stories in the heart of the lumber camps, the Kentucky Blue Ridges and the Big Pines, and are packing into places where a motion picture camera never has been previously. Virgin locations, massive and beautiful will be visited for the different releases."

The first release of this series will be ready in May and will be made under the supervision of Mr. Balshofer.

Terriss Begins New Picture

Star Pictures Announces Dolores Cassinelli as Star of New Film

TOM TERRISS has begun work at the Peerless studios in Fort Lee on a modern society drama for the Star Pictures Productions Company, of which Harry Cahane is general manager. Major Fiorella H. LaGuardia, formerly president of the Board of Aldermen of New York City, is general counsel of the company.

The pictures made by this company are to be known as Tom Terriss Productions. The first, written by Solita Solano, was adapted by Mr. Terriss. The working title is "The Challenge." The featured player is Dolores Cassinelli, "the Cameo Girl." Rod LaRoque, well-known screen actor, is leading man. Others in the cast are Warner Richmond, Frank Norcross and Jane Jennings.

The assistant director is Rodney Hickcock, who was David W. Griffith's assistant for two years. Hal Sensenich, who photographed "Over the Hill," is the cameraman.

"The Challenge" is the fifty-third picture directed by Mr. Terriss, whose last previous work was done for International Film Service Company. The director has had a career thronged with adventure and achievements. Born in London, the son of the late William Terriss, one of the foremost actors of his day, Tom Terriss grew up in the atmosphere of the stage.

Mr. Terriss insisted upon following a stage career despite the fact that his father had chosen another calling for him. After his father's death he appeared in Great Britain, Canada and the United States in a repertory of Dickens's plays. Mr. Terriss later transferred his activities to the screen, his first picture being "The Chimes," for World Film. Since then he has staged fifteen productions starring Alice Joyce and made such specials as "Trumpet Island," "Dead Men Tell No Tales" and "The Heart of Maryland."

"His Nibs" Scores at Allen

S. Barrett McCormick Exploits Exceptional Feature in Cleveland

CHARLES (CHIC) SALE in "His Nibs," the unique feature offering of Exceptional Pictures Corporation, which is being handled in the Ohio territory of Phil Selznick Productions, scored a triumph at its showing at the Allen theatre, Cleveland, where it was presented under the personal direction of S. Barret McCormick. Mr. McCormick put on a "Town Hall Week" in connection with the picture, and in leading up to this ran a series of advertisements in all the Cleveland newspapers prior to the opening date. The first advertisements were in the form of teasers, and they created an unusual amount of interest. In addition to newspaper exploitation the theatre lobby was made up in appropriate style, and a very unusual prologue was used.

Exceptional Pictures Corporation, in preparing their exploitation on this picture, recommended this procedure to all exhibitors who played the production, and this demonstration has proven conclusively that given the right sort of exploitation the picture will be a big box-office success, claims Exceptional. In fact, even before the showing Phil Selznick expressed himself regarding "His Nibs," as believing that in this unusual picture he had the biggest state-right money-making production of the year. The results at the Allen theatre have vindicated his judgment.

Contents of the Latest Official Movie Chat

THE coming release of the "Official Urban Movie Chats of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America" begins with a foreword to impress on the millions of patrons of the atres the high standard of the exhibitors.

The foreword says: "The Motion Picture Theatre Owners are the custodians of the screen press of America. It will always be used for the advancement of good government, the highest of living ideals and the general welfare of all the people."

Then comes the travel section with a visit to Russia and some of its interesting points since the revolution. Following this comes a section devoted to Industry; a fascinating picture of the great processes in the mining regions of Pennsylvania. "Curious Hobbies" lend a lighter touch, depicting old little toys in "Household Goods" for youngsters. Then to the Arts and Sciences showing the death masks of some of America's greatest men—Washington, Franklin, Lincoln and General Sherman.

Sports and Pastimes are covered by views of snow-diving, a sport peculiar to the heights of the Western country and the final pictorial section are some magnification studies in zoology.

The Public Forum closes the reel.

New Comedy Series to Be Issued

C. S. Earnhardt, president of the Commercial Film Studios, in St. Louis, has just contracted with the Forward Film Distributors, Inc., for the release of a series of twelve two-reel situation comedies, featuring D. W. McReynolds.

Ellis Making Anti-Tuberculosis Picture

Carlyle Ellis began photography last week on a short screen play for the New York Tuberculosis Association. The subject is primarily for use in street showings to children throughout the city, a new educational enterprise of the association.

Ethel Dwyer, who plays the lead in Arrow's "Ten Nights in a Barroom" and who has just returned to New York after a tour in "Lombardi, Ltd."

ADVANCE VIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

Live News From Producers

WHAT THE MAKERS SAY ABOUT PICTURES

Pathe Sets "Go-Get-'Em Hutch" for April 9th

PATHE announces that its new serial, "Go-Get-'Em Hutch," starring Charles Hutchinson, will be released on April 9th. The Pathe headquarters predicts that the new serial production will challenge the tremendous drawing power of Hutchinson's last serial, "Hurricane Hutch."

The story upon which the new serial is based concerns the shipping industry. Throughout the picture, big ships—on the launching ways, in the harbor, and on the ocean—come and go. They are the property of the hero and the heroine who have combined their efforts to frustrate a huge conspiracy with a whole fleet as the object of the gigantic battle of wit and nerve.

Opposite the star is Marguerite Clayton. The cast also includes Richard B. Neill, Pearl Shepard, Frank Hagney, Joe Cuny, Cecile Bonnelle. George B. Seitz directed. Frank Leon Smith did the story and scenario.

New Marion Davies Picture Is Announced

"Beauty's Worth," a story by Sophie Kerr, is the next Cosmopolitan Production, in which Marion Davies will be seen in the star part. This production will be released by Paramount on March 26th. It is the second picture in which Davies has been directed by Robert G. Vignola, the first having been "Enchantment."

Miss Davies has in this photoplay a role quite new to her: she plays the part of a demure and shy little Quaker maid dressed in the plain grey gown and bonnet of the sect. The cast includes Forrest Stanley, Hallam Cooley, Antrim Short, June Elvidge, Truly Shattuck, Lydia Yeamans Titus and Thomas Jefferson. The settings are by Joseph Urban.

Leah Baird Special for Release March 12

"Don't Doubt Your Wife," the first of a series of Leah Baird specials, announced by Associated Exhibitors, is to be released on March 12th.

The story is said to be directly concerned with the title, for it relates a case of marital mistrust; paves the way for an expose of the divorce evil, and finally presents a logical solution for many of the misunderstandings fatal to married happiness.

Current Paramount Issues

March 5th Marks Release of First of UFA Series and Wm. Hart Film

PARAMOUNT ushers in its Tenth Anniversary Month with the release on March 5 of three productions: "The Dragon's Claw," the first of the big UFA series, "The Mistress of the World"; William S. Hart in "Travelin' On"; and the George Fitzmaurice production, "Forever."

The series of four spectacular productions released under the general title, "The Mistress of the World," has been heralded as one of the greatest achievements in all the history of the screen. It was made in Europe under the direction of Joseph May, while Mia May, one of Europe's foremost emotional actresses, is seen in the leading role. The picture is said to have cost approximately $1,200,000 and twenty thousand people were employed in making of it. More than 3,000,000 feet of negative film was used, Paramount declares, and the time occupied in making the productions was eighteen months.

In "Travelin' On," William S. Hart is again seen in one of his own Western stories. Lambert Hillyer adapted it and directed the production. The picture is a typification of Arizona as it was in its most picturesque days. Mr. Hart's leading woman is Ethel Grey Terry, while James Farley, Brinsley Shaw, Mary Jane Irving, Robert Kortman, and Willis Marks are prominent in the support.

Having played many weeks at the Criterion theatre in New York as well as in several other large cities, George Fitzmaurice's production, "Forever," is already established as one of the outstanding pictures of the year. It was adapted by Ouida Bergere from the novel, "Peter Ibbetson," by George Du Maurier, and the play by Du Maurier and John Nathan Raphael. The cast is headed by Wallace Reid and Elsie Ferguson and also includes Elliott Dexter, Montagu Love, George Fawcett, Paul McAllister, Dolores Cassanelli and Barbara Dean.

Selznick's March Releases

Two New Subjects of Star Series and Talmadge Revival on Schedule

THERE will be three Selznick pictures circulated through Select exchanges during March—two in the star series and one revival of a Constance Talmadge early success. March 10 has been set for the release of "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots"; March 20 brings Conway Tearle, in "Love's Masquerade," and March 30 is the date for Elaine Hammerstein's "Reckless Youth."

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" was made from the Augustus Thomas stage play of the same title. Harrison Ford is leading man in a play that was originally classed as one of the best pictures Constance Talmadge appeared in her early career. New prints, newly titled and edited, will be circulated by Select.

Conway Tearle's newest issue, "Love's Masquerade," was directed by William P. S. Earle when the Selznick studios were in Fort Lee, N. J. Arthur Houseman, who has won high praise for his comedy work in "Why Announce Your Marriage?", is one of the leading players in Tearle's support and the company also includes Florence Billings, Robert Ellis, who was at one time a Selznick director; Daniel Hayes and Robert Chebble. Edward J. Montagne furnished the story and scenario of "Love's Masquerade."

March 30 Elaine Hammerstein will present the filmplay she has just completed at Selznick's New York City studios—"Reckless Youth." The story was furnished by Cosmo Hamilton and the work was personally staged by Ralph Ince. Niles Welch will again appear as Miss Hammerstein's leading man with Myrtle Stedman, Louise Prussing, Constance Bennett, Kate Cherry, Huntley Gordon, Frank Currier, and Robert Lee Keeling also included in the support.

Rogers on Two Weeks Tour of Inspection

Charles R. Rogers, general manager of distribution for R-C Pictures, is on a two week's tour of inspection of that organization's exchanges in the Middle West, visiting Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and other cities. While out of town Mr. Rogers will confer with exchangemen and exhibitors and make a minute survey of the field. He also will take the opportunity to thank the hundreds of mid-western exhibitors for their splendid co-operation during R-C week from February 5th to 12th, during which R-C established a record of unprecedented sales throughout the country.

Universal to Star Tom Santschi in Series

TOM SANTSCHI, one of the oldest and most popular leading men and character actors on the screen, has been placed under contract by Universal. Mr. Santschi will be starred in a series of two-reel Western and Northwest Mounted Police stories. The stories are now being prepared for him by the staff of writers at Universal City. The first one selected is "The Guilty Oath," by George Morgan. Mr. Santschi will begin work immediately under the direction of Robert N. Bradbury.

"Hills of Missing Men" Is McGowan Release

The current offering of Playgoers Pictures is "Hills of Missing Men," another of the popular Jack McGowan series. Its release date was February 26th. Playing a role which calls for the supposed villain of the story to win the audience's favor before he is disclosed as the real hero, Jack McGowan again has the opportunity for dramatic adroitness which is said to have made him a distinctly popular figure with the fans, in his previous features released by Playgoers.

The picture is announced by Playgoers as the most unusual "Western" released in months. Prominent in the cast are Jack McGowan, Jean Perry, Florence Gilbert, Hellen Holmes, Andrew Waldron, James Wang and Charles Brindley. The feature is in six reels.

Motion Picture Edition of Zane Grey Novel

Grossett & Dunlap, the publishing firm that makes reprints of popular novels two or three years after their first appearance, has signified its intention of co-operating with Goldwyn in exploiting the Zane Grey picture, "When Romance Rides," a Benjamin B. Hampton production, made from Zane Grey's novel, "Wildfire."

The co-operation will take the form of a "movie" edition of the novel illustrated with stills from the production and with the one-sheet poster prepared by Goldwyn as a frontispiece to the book.

The photoplay edition of "Wildfire" will contain pictures of all the leading players as they appear in various scenes. The chief characters are portrayed by Claire Adams, Carl Gantvoort, Jean Hersholt, Harry L. Van Meter, Charles Arling, Tod Sloan, the jockey; Frank Hayes, Mary Jane Irving, Walter Perkins and Babe London.

"French Heels" Breaks Cameo Records

"FRENCH HEELS," Irene Castle's first Edwin L. Hollywood production for release by W. W. Hodkinson, is being held over for the second week at the B. S. Moss Cameo theatre in New York, where it is playing to record-breaking crowds at every performance.

On Wednesday evening, Washington's Birthday, the picture broke all attendance records, it is reported. The previous attendance records of New Year's Day and Christman were completely shattered and new high marks established which will require big crowds to break. On several other days during the first week the picture played to four capacity houses and large numbers were turned away.

Pathe to Release "Isle of Zorda" March 26

Pathe announces that "The Isle of Zorda" will be released on March 26th, and reports lively exhibitor interest in the famous Louis Nalpas picturization of Jules Verne's so-called "Monte Cristo" novel. The main attractions of this big special feature, which had successful engagements in fifty-four Paris theatres last summer, and is still playing there, have been widely heralded. Besides the picture's impressiveness due to its blood-stirring sweep of dramatic action, its superior artistry throughout and the powerful appeal of its heroic and powerfully dominating central figure, it is declared to strike an intensely popular note in the luxurious realism of its Oriental scenes.

Stage Stars in Pauline Frederick's Picture

Two well-known musical comedy stars in the United States will appear in important roles in the forthcoming R-C Pauline Frederick production, "The Glory of Clementina," now in the final process of making at the Hollywood studios of R-C Pictures. They are Louise Dresser and Truly Shattuck. In "The Glory of Clementina" Miss Dresser is making her debut in motion pictures. Miss Shattuck, however, has appeared frequently on the screen.

Miss Dresser is best known for her work in Broadway musical productions and in vaudeville, in the latter of which she has appeared in company with her talented husband, Jack Gardner. Among her best known characterizations was the role she portrayed with Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr in "Potash and Perlmutter."

Miss Shattuck's most important work was done in the Broadway production of "Alma, Where Do You Live?" a memorable musical comedy of several years ago. She has appeared frequently, moreover, in vaudeville and legitimate drama, and always with distinction.

Gunning Has Ten New Pictures

Entertainment at Reasonable Rentals Is Promised

TEN new productions, to be released as The Entertainment Series, are announced for distribution by the Gunning organization. Ricord Gradwell, managing director of the Gunning organization, stated, in making the announcement, that the series is planned to answer the demand of exhibitors for entertainment pictures at reasonable rental prices, and the desire of motion-picture patrons for features of real romance and excitement.

The pictures comprising the series have been carefully selected. Mr. Gradwell said, from the viewpoints of vivid action stories, punchy titles and all round excellent casts and direction, rather than the featuring of a socalled star in a weak vehicle. All of The Entertainment Series are productions which can be offered to the exhibitor at a price which will assure his making a profit.

The ten productions announced for release as The Entertainment Series are: "The Fire Bride," a story of the South Sea Islands, of romance, adventure and buried treasure. The production was actually made in Tahiti, in the South Seas, by a company comprising Ruth Reneck, Walt Whitman, Fred Stanton and Edward Hearn. It was directed by Arthur Rosson.

"The Madness of Love," a Wray Physioc Production, featuring Jean Scott and Bernard Siegel; a story of romance and adventure among the sturdy fisherfolk of the Maine coast, actually made in that locality.

"Alias Phil Kennedy," a "Western." Bill Patton and Dixie Lamont take the leads in the picture, which was directed by William Bertram.

"The Blonde Vampire," featuring De Sacia Mooers. Directed by Wray Physioc. Shows grippingly a woman's fight for true love against plots and deception.

"Foolish Monte Carlo," actually made at Monte Carlo by an American director and cast. The first American production actually made at the world-famous gambling resort.

"The Bootleggers," an exciting story of rum-running by ship, aeroplane and wireless, featuring Walter Miller, Paul Panzer and Norma Scheerer, directed by Roy Sheldon.

"The Love Nest," a Wray Physioc Production, featuring Jean Scott. It was photographed on an island twenty miles off the Maine coast.

"Don't Blame Your Children," a story of love, ships and the high seas, with unusual scenes of a ship at the mercy of a storm at sea. It is a powerful lesson on the effects of parents' wills against children's rights.

"Mrs. Dane's Confession," a tense drama, featuring Lucy Doraine and Alfred Strong; directed by Michael Kertes.

"The Blue Mountain Mystery," a straight mystery story, unsolvable until the final scene.

Each of the productions differs from the other in the locale, the type of entertainment, and cast, so that the series, as planned, gives the greatest possible variety of picture production, states Gunning.

"The cry of patrons since pictures first attracted dimes and nickels has been for entertainment," said Mr. Gradwell, in announcing the new series. "The exhibitor himself has summed up his opinion of a production, after playing it, in the words, 'It was entertaining' or 'It was not entertaining.' Second only in the exhibitor mind to the question of entertainment is the matter of a title that really means something at the box-office and that arouses interest and desire rather than being a meaningless collection of cute words.

"Thousands of exhibitors," states Mr. Gradwell, "attempting to meet conditions at various times in the industry have found it difficult to shop with the intelligence they would like to exercise. The market does not help them. They have a definite spot on their bills for the picture that is certain to entertain but which can also be secured at a profit-making price. The difficulty has been that both high-priced specials and the moderate-priced pictures have disregarded the prime law of providing entertainment.

"The Entertainment Series is our answer to an exhibitor desire that has been made apparent to us by hundreds of letters."

Everything will be ready for the exhibitor to book The Entertainment Series early in March, Mr. Gradwell stated.

"False Fronts" Well-Received

Seen at Allen Theatre, Cleveland; S. Barrett McCormick, Author

"FALSE FRONTS," the story for which was written by S. Barrett McCormick, managing-director of the Allen theatre, was screened before a large and enthusiastic audience at the big Allen house on last Saturday night following the regular performance. Many out-of-town visitors were present at the showing as the guests of Mr. McCormick and his associates. The visitors included Charles Rogers and Mark Goldman of Robertson-Cole; Louis Baum of Equity; Howard Dietz of Goldwyn; Jack Reilly of the American Releasing Corporation; T. J. Connors of Metro; Eddie Bonns of Warner Brothers; Fred Beecroft, representing THE MOTION PICTURE NEWS; Arthur James, representing The Motion Picture World; Tom Hamlin, representing The Motion Picture Journal; and L. W. Boynton, J. T. McCoy, and Howard McClennan, representing Exhibitor's Trade Review.

"False Fronts" tells the story of a Southern youth, Keith Drummond, who is left penniless by the death of his father and is obliged to abandon his college work. His only heritage is a fine name and a crop of debts. His father's former counsel advises the boy to come to New York to seek his fortune and gives him a letter of recommendation to a legal acquaintance who has also known the boy's father. The New York barrister, John Lathrop, a human scientist, loans the lad $20,000 for an indefinite period and tells him to go ahead and see how well he can do. Keith becomes a social lion, marries Helen Baxter, the beautiful daughter of a nouveau rich widow, and goes the easy way to financial ruin. At last abandoning the gay life, Keith disappears. Later trouble developing in the oil properties owned by the Baxters, Helen, accompanied by Lathrop, her attorney, visits the Montana oil field where she finds her husband. Keith hardened by the vigorous life of the oil camps has developed into a leader among real men. After Helen sacrifices her fortune to protect the interests of the small investors in the company, a reconciliation is effected which starts Keith and Helen back on the road to happiness.

"False Fronts" was made in Cleveland at the Bradley Photoplay Studio, Euclid Ave and East 30th Street. Samuel R. Bradley who directed "Women Men Love," starring William Desmond, and "Dangerous Toys," co-starring William Desmond and Martha Mansfield," also directed "False Fronts." "False Fronts" was produced by the Herold Brothers of Cleveland. The Heralds are prominent local merchants, who have been identified with Cleveland for the past forty years. This is their first step in the production of motion pictures. They expect to extend their activities to California and to establish a permanent studio on the coast, it is declared. The cast includes Edward Earle, who plays the part of Keith Drummond; Frank Losee, who appears in the role of John Lathrop; Barbara Castleton as Helen Baxter, and Marjorie Kemble as Keith's first sweetheart.

Philip Spitalny, musical director for the Allen theatre, wrote a special score for "False Fronts" which was also presented for the first time at the premier showing of the picture. The entire Allen symphony orchestra participated in the event.

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
COMING TO THE
MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
BROADWAY & 47th STREET

Dustin Farnum appearing in "Iron to Gold," a William Fox release

"Dollar Devils" Nearly Ready, Says Gunning

"Dollar Devils," the first big Victor Schertzinger Production, being made at Santa Barbara, for release through Wid Gunning, Inc., is near completion, according to telegraphic information from the Coast received at the Gunning home office. "Dollar Devils" is reported as an elaborate special, fully up to the sensational possibilities of its box-office title. With his first production about finished, Schertzinger, the director, has his plans all ready for the second production of a series of four. The release date of "Dollar Devils" has not been set yet, but the picture will be cut and titled with as much speed as possible, consistent with its production standard.

Joe Dowling of "Miracle Man" fame is one of the all-star cast taking part in "Dollar Devils." Andrew Arbuckle is another well known player who has been cast for the first two productions. The second picture will be started in production within a few weeks.

E. J. Montagne Finishes New Continuity

Edward J. Montagne, who made the adaptations of "A Man's Home" and "Conceit," has completed the next starring vehicle for Elaine Hammerstein, called "Evidence." This is a story of greasepaint and society, and is said to afford Miss Hammerstein one of the strongest dramatic roles of her career. "Evidence" will start in production as soon as the star finishes her present picture, "Reckless Youth," which is also a Montagne script.

Redwood Trees of California Are Filmed

The Redwood trees of California are starred in a practical motion-picture produced by the Rothacker Company. Nature endowed this tree with peculiar properties which make Redwood lumber more valuable for certain purposes than any other wood. However, the commercial value of this American tree is little known in foreign countries. The mission of the practical picture is to inform the world on this subject.

Cameraman W. B. Klingensmith, formerly of the Rothacker Chicago practical picture division but now of Los Angeles, photographed the Western scenes.

More "Theodora" Successes

Exploitation Aids Goldwyn Special as Unusual Box Office Sensation

GOLDWYN'S Italian spectacle, "Theodora," continues to be the box office sensation that it was on its first showing at the Astor theatre, New York, and in the other towns where it was screened at the $2 top scale—Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, announces Goldwyn.

"Theodora" is a picture that lends itself readily to unusual exploitation and the exhibitors who have put all their showmanship behind a thorough exploitation of this spectacle have reaped a harvest, it is reported. In a number of instances it has been shown without anything out of the ordinary in the way of exploitation and advertising and has made money for the exhibitor, but those who do not exploit it to the limit are losing a large share of the profits that should accrue to them from showing "Theodora," Goldwyn states.

"Theodora" has been handled by Goldwyn as a special. It has been booked individually on its own merits. The home office and the branch exchanges have been flooded with letters and telegrams from exhibitors expressing their enthusiasm for the photoplay as a film spectacle and their delight with its box office earnings.

From the thousands of bookings which "Theodora" has had during the past several weeks, the following brief list of large city showings has been selected:

Strand, Atlanta, Ga.; Forsyth, Atlanta, Ga.; Imperial, Asheville, N. C.; Tivoli, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Strand, Knoxville, Tenn.; Bradford, Miami, Fla.; Fairfax, Miami, Fla.; Capitol, Macon, Ga.; Empire, Montgomery, Ala.; Garden, Palm Beach, Fla.

Waltham, Waltham, Mass.; Royal, Worcester, Mass.; Bowden Sq., Boston; Durrell Hall, Cambridge, Mass.; Fay's, Providence, R. I.; Suffolk, Holyoke, Mass.; Smith, Woonsocket, R. I.; Gem, Leominster, Mass.; Strand, Lynn, Mass.; Liberty, Providence, R. I.; Fenway, Boston; Garden, Springfield, Mass.; Crystal, Worcester, Mass.; Broadway, Dover, N. H.; Fox, Springfield, Mass.; Empire, Portland, Me.; Broadway, Lawrence, Mass.; Strand, Gloucester, Mass.; Shea's, Fitchburg, Mass.; Bijou, Bangor, Me.; Star, Bristol, R. I.; Federal, Salem, Mass.; Auditorium, Concord, N. H.; Jefferson, Springfield, Mass.

Insures Against Weather

Patterson Takes No Chances With "Hail the Woman" at Atlanta, Ga.

THE showing of the "Hail the Woman," the drama produced by Thomas H. Ince for First National release, at the Metropolitan theatre in Atlanta, Ga., was a memorable affair. The picture chosen by the manager, W. C. Patterson, to celebrate First National Week, following the showing Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of the Better Films Committee, to send a telegram to the First National New York office, praising the picture in extravagant terms.

Considerable public interest was also stirred up by the fact that Mr. Patterson insured the showing for $1,000 a day, to prevent any loss through the whims of the elements.

It is probable, states First National, the first time in the history of motion pictures that the precaution has been taken of insuring a picture to guarantee the box office receipts. "We simply couldn't afford to take a chance on the weather," said Mr. Patterson. "It rained six Mondays out of the last seven and rain is the worst enemy of the showman. So we insured ourselves against damage by rain.

"Few pictures made during the last year can take rank with this Thomas H, Ince production and we have been very keen to present it in Atlanta. First because of the significance of the theme and story, and because we heartily champion the advancement of American womanhood, to which 'Hail the Woman' is a tribute.

"And we took a particular pride in offering the production the week of February 18th, because that week marks the second anniversary of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., of which we are a part, and 'Hail the Woman' as an outstanding production fittingly commemorated the event."

The insurance covered Monday and Saturday of the showing and guaranteed the Metropolitan a gross receipt of $1,000 between 3:30 P. M. and 8:30 P. M. or at the rate of $200 an hour, should one-tenth of an inch of rain fall during those hours on either day.

Selznick Cameraman Is First to Reach Peak

THE first midwinter ascent of Mt. Ranier, highest peak of the Cascade Mountains and the loftiest, save one, on the North-American-Continent, has just been accomplished. And the first man to reach the summit was Charles R. Perryman, staff correspondent of Selznick News, located at Seattle, Wash.

Newspapers throughout the country, and particularly in the Far West, have had much to say about the spectacular triumph of Mr. Perryman and his associates over the almost impassable snow and ice. For days cross heads on the front pages of papers in Seattle and Portland told of plans which were being made for the ascent and finally of the battle to get up to the top.

Fourteen hundred feet of remarkable motion pictures made by Mr. Perryman are soon to be included in issues of Selznick News.

William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," a Paramount picture

Fannie Hurst Praises Screen Adaption

Before sailing for Europe on the steamship Olympic on Saturday, February 18, Fannie Hurst authorized Cosmopolitan Productions to make public the following letter to the producing company:

"The screen version of my story 'The Good Provider,' which was run off for me in your projection room is, in my mind, a supreme example of how a story may be successfully and sincerely transferred to motion pictures without throwing the narrative version out of the window before starting to photograph.

"Not only because of its fidelity to theme do I regard the screen version of 'The Good Provider' as a beautiful piece of work but in those instances where it was necessary to develop, or subtract from the theme, it has been done with the artist's understanding.

"I want personally to congratulate Frank Borzage (the director), Vera Gordon, Dore Davidson, William Collier, Jr., and every other member of that cast, not to overlook John Lynch (the scenario writer), and the man behind the camera."

"Peggy Behave" Shown at Central Theatre

Baby Peggy's second release in the new series in which she appears at the head of her own company of grown ups was shown on the Central theatre bill with Priscilla Dean's "Wild Honey." The critics who were present at the "Wild Honey" premiere at Universal's New York first run house Monday night were very flattering in their comments about the little girl the N. Y. Times characterized her as "weirdly expressive and winning."

Fox Obtains Pictures of Volcano from Air

Russell Muth, Fox News cameraman, had a narrow escape from death recently while filming scenes of the crater of Mount Vesuvius from an aeroplane. The machine became unmanageable and fell to earth near the crater, fracturing Mr. Muth's arm. Twelve hundred feet of unusual scenes were obtained before the accident, which will be shown in Fox News in the near future.

"The Sheik's Wife" for New York Strand

"The Sheik's Wife," the French production recently acquired for the United States and Canada by Vitagraph, has been booked for the Strand theatre, Broadway, New York, for the week beginning March 5th. The engagement at the Strand will mark the first public performance of the photoplay in the United States or Canada.

"The Sheik's Wife" was filmed entirely on the great deserts of South Africa under the direction of Henry-Roussell, author of the story. The leading roles, including Marcel Vibert as the Shiek Radjid Ben Khedim and Emmy Lynn as the English girl who has married the Sheik, are played by professional actors, but thousands of native Arabs were employed in the production.

"Why Men Forget" Is Widely Booked

Following its New York premier at Loew's theatres, "Why Men Forget" is setting a spirited pace in bookings throughout the country, according to Charles R. Rogers, general manager of distribution for R-C Pictures by which the production was recently released.

A recent report received at the R-C Home Office from James Carrier, West Coast exploiteer, brought the information that "Why Men Forget," when screened at the R-C exchange in San Francisco, caused no end of favorable comment among exhibitors who reviewed it and that it was widely booked in that territory as a result. What impressed West Coast exhibitors, according to Mr. Carrier, were the numerous practical exploitation angles in the production.

Will Not Leave Screen, Says Miss Frederick

Pauline Frederick has been besieged with inquiries since her sudden marriage to Dr. C. A. Rutherford as to whether she intends to retire in the immediate future from the screen. Miss Frederick says that she has no intention of leaving her work, which she says is becoming more fascinating to her from day to day.

A scene from "The Fire Bride," a new picture to be distributed by Wid Gunning, Inc.

First Nat'l Subjects Completed

Five Productions Just Finished at Coast Studios

FIRST NATIONAL announces the completion of five new productions for release through its exchanges. The subjects recently completed include: "Fool's First," a Marshall Neilan production with an all-star cast; "Alias Julius Caesar," starring Charles Ray; "Rose O' the Sea," a Louis B. Mayer production starring Anita Stewart; "The Primitive Lover," starring Constance Talmadge; and "The Duchess De Langeais," with Norma Talmadge in the stellar role.

The filming of "Fools First," Marshall Neilan's latest production for First National release, has just been finished at the Hollywood studios. Claire Windsor, Richard Dix, and Claude Gillingwater play the principal roles. "Fools First" was started on January 15 by Director Neilan.

"Fools First" was filmed in San Francisco and partly in Los Angeles. The cafe scenes were taken at Vernon; other "hits" at Sunset Inn and some scenes in the First National Bank of Hollywood. During the stay of the Neilan company in San Francisco many scenes were filmed in the St. Francis hotel in that city, and at San Quentin prison.

Besides the principals, the following other well-known players have important roles in "Fools First": Ray Griffith, George W. Seigman, George Dromgold, Helen Lynch, Hazel Keener, Shannon Day and Leo White.

"Fools First" was adapted by Marion Fairfax from the Saturday Evening Post story by Hugh McNail Kahler and tells of the regeneration of a crook through the wiles of the daughter of a master crook. The girl apparently abets the crook in his carefully planned crime but really aids him in building up a legitimate and highly profitable business for the firm he originally intended to rob.

"Baby Peggy" Montgomery has given an important role in "Fools First" by Mr. Neilan, who was delighted with her work in "Penrod." "Fools First" was photographed by Karl Strauss, David Kesson and Ray June.

Charles Ray has finished the filming of his last photoplay for First National release. The Ray studios announce that the title of this production is "Alias Julius Caesar." The supporting cast includes Barbara Bedford, William Scott, Harvey Clark, Robert Fernandez, Eddie Gribbon, Carl Miller, Gus Thomas, Bert Offord, Milton Ross, Tom Wilson, Philip Dunham and S. J. Bingham.

Charlie has the role of a wealthy young man who likes his golf but who gets into endless complications as a result. Many of the funniest scenes in the Ray comedy of errors were filmed at fashionable golf courses around Los Angeles.

Anita Stewart's latest picture for Louis B. Mayer, "Rose O' the Sea," has been completed under Fred Niblo's direction. This is the latter's second consecutive picture with the star, the other being a dramatization of Herbert Bashford's play, "The Woman He Married." Countess Barczynka is the author of "Rose o' the Sea," which has had wide circulation in book form. Both of these productions will be released through First National.

Supporting Miss Stewart in the cast are: Rudolph Cameron, her husband and manager, who was literally drafted for the leading role; Hal Cooley, Thomas Holding, Margaret Landis, Kate Lester, John P. Lockney and Charles Belcher.

The Constance Talmadge starring vehicle, "The Primitive Lover," was directed by Sidney Franklin, while Norma Talmadge's latest subject, "The Duchess De Langeais," was directed by Frank Lloyd. "The Primitive Lover" is an original story by Edgar Selwyn. Frances Marion adapted "The Duchess De Langeais" from Honore De Balzac's famous story.

"Loves of Pharaoh" Going Big

Expected to Topple All Records at N. Y. Criterion

IN producing "The Loves of Pharaoh," which Paramount is releasing and which is now being shown at the New York Criterion, Ernest Lubitsch, who made "Deception," "Passion" and "Gypsy Blood," is generally conceded to have done his greatest work. The picture opened at the Criterion Tuesday night and on Wednesday, the first full day of the engagement, the number of paid admissions exceeded those of any other day in the history of the house with a single exception, according to word from the Famous Players-Lasky headquarters.

New York's newspaper critics are unanimous in acclaiming the picture as one of the screen's greatest masterpieces. Alan Dale said in the American: "It is one thing to stick the labels of history on the characters of a picture and another to establish the brand. Yet the brand in 'The Loves of Pharaoh' at the Criterion theatre is magnificently established. One of the most sensational pictures I can recall having seen."

The Telegraph said: "Hugo Riesenfeld presented this drama of the Nile for the first time last night at the Criterion theatre, for an extended engagement. He has found another record-breaker."

The Evening Journal said: "So many superlatives have been poured on motion pictures in this town that it is difficult to do 'The Loves of Pharaoh' justice. Simple words and few may be effective by contrast. This picture has been announced as the master work of Ernest Lubitsch. It is."

The Sun: "The production reaches high spectacular heights. But at the same time Mr. Lubitsch has known admirably where to stop." And the Times: "It is a magnificent production and stirring testimony to the genius of Ernest Lubitsch, its young director."

The handling of the mob scenes in "The Loves of Pharaoh" is undoubtedly the most striking feature of the picture. How he accomplished his task was briefly related by Lubitsch himself when he was in New York a few weeks ago.

In the first place, the director did not go to Egypt for his setting, as one of the newspaper critics felt certain he must have done. The production was all staged at a sandy location—a miniature desert—three hours distant from Berlin by boat. The extras were transported thither every day on ten steamers. During the three hours' journey the people made up and donned their costumes so as to be ready for work immediately on arrival.

The battle scenes were directed by Lubitsch from an observation station. The people were drilled in groups of fifty and their movements before the camera were directed by more than a hundred lieutenants or sub-directors working at signal stations, all in direct communication with Lubitsch.

Speaking of Dagny Servaes, who plays the role of Theonis in the picture, Mr. Lubitsch stated that he picked his leading actresses with regard solely for their ability to properly portray the character. Good looks, he said, were always a secondary consideration with him. In Miss Servaes, however, he found the happy combination of unusual ability and exceptional beauty. She is a Viennese actress of the legitimate stage.

Mr. Hancock, director in chief of Fox News, who returned last week from a two-months' tour of Europe in the interests of the Fox News reel

Ingram Special Wins Again

"Four Horsemen" Scores in South Despite General Business Slump

THE general business depression in the Southwest that has affected almost every motion picture shown throughout the territory, has failed to make the slightest impress on "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," claims Metro.

The Rex Ingram production, showing at a big advance in prices, continues to pack theatres, and is establishing new house records, according to word from the Metro headquarters.

In Miami, Arizona, where the low prices for copper and cotton have brought about an all-around slump, so that a number of picture houses are about to close because of scanty attendance, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," played at P. G. Souris's Lyric theatre. In a telegram to B. F. Rosenberg, Metro branch manager in Los Angeles, Mr. Souris, says:

"'Four Horsemen' finished most successful two-day run in Miami in Lyric theatre. Never in history of Miami has such enthusiasm been shown by people here over any motion picture. Played to sold-out houses both nights and smashed all house records for the amount of money taken in at the Lyric theatre."

In Globe, Arizona, where general business conditions have had an even more disastrous effect upon the motion picture houses, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" played at the Martin theatre, and again the drawing power of the production was evidenced by breaking the house records for advanced priced pictures in face of the most adverse conditions. Manager Alfred Rabogliatti found his theatre playing to crowds that surpassed his greatest expectations. In recognition of the success of the showing he sent the following telegram to Mr. Rosenberg at Metro's Los Angeles Exchange:

"In face of very bad business conditions we did capacity business both days. Mere words cannot do the production justice. Congratulations to Metro for making this masterpiece. It broke all house records for advanced price pictures."

Goldwyn Subjects Ready

Films of Current Season Finished; Elaborate Plans for New Pictures

WITH its productions for the current season practically all completed, Goldwyn Pictures Corporation is already far along in its preparations for big new photoplays for the coming season. Production chiefs from the studios at Culver City, Calif., have been in New York for various periods of time consulting with executives here about the new season and the type of pictures to be made.

Paul Bern closed some important new deals for original scenarios and screen rights to plays and novels while he was in New York and Casting Director McIntyre engaged a number of new players for important roles in new pictures, in accordance with Goldwyn's announced intention of finding new screen faces.

Among the important pictures which will receive early production are Rupert Hughes' "Bitterness of Sweets," which the author will adapt from his short story of that title and upon which he will get to work as soon as he has put the finishing touches to "Remembrance" which he wrote, directed titled and edited. Gouverneur Morris, author of "The Penalty," "Ace of Hearts" and two big pictures now completed, but not yet released, "Yellow Men and Gold" and "Whims of the Gods," has written a new original screen story under the temporary title of "Always Warm and Green."

Peter B. Kyne's story, "Brothers Under the Skin," will be filmed as will Kathleen Norris' new novel, "Sis," not yet published. Charles Kenyon and Katharine Newlin Burt have both turned over to the scenario department original screen stories which have been purchased. Mr. Kenyon's is called "Fame" and deals with the life of a grand opera prima donna. Mrs. Burt's story is another western drama, "The Summons," and, in the opinion of editorial officials, is her best work for the screen.

A big production of Hall Caine's masterpiece "The Christian," is also under way. Three stories by Carey Wilson have been purchased by Goldwyn and it is expected that two of them will go into early production.

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
COMING TO THE
MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
BROADWAY & 47th STREET

Wm. Farnum to Appear in Bernstein's Drama

From Fox Film Corporation comes the announcement that William Farnum's next picture will be "Shackles of Gold," an adaptation of Henri Bernstein's greatest drama, "Samson." The film version is described as an up-to-the-minute drama, with a theme of unusual power and vigor.

The director of the picture is in the hands of Herbert Brenon, whose most recent Fox production is "A Stage Romance." The star will be supported by Myrta Bonillas as leading woman.

A scene from "Lady Godiva," an Associated Exhibitors release

"Lady Godiva" Due Soon

New Associated Exhibitor Release Said to Be in Spectacular Class

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS announce that the screen version of Alfred Tennyson's classic poem, "Lady Godiva," made by Wistaria Productions, will be released March 19th. The production, which is in six reels, is declared by the Associated Exhibitors' offices to be of a spectacular character, belonging in a class with such features as "Passion," "Deception" and "Theodora."

A special set of huge proportions reproducing the entire town of Coventry was built for this picture, according to the statement from the Associated Exhibitors' offices. The picture is said to bear evidence throughout of the time and careful attention devoted to its making. Much care has also been taken in the tinting and toning of every print and with the coloring of the sub-titles which are direct quotations from the Tennysonian poem.

In the way of accessories, Associated Exhibitors announces that posters and advertising displays in keeping with the spirit and splendor of the picture have been prepared. It has also been decided to exploit simply the name of "Lady Godiva" from the poem by Lord Alfred Tennyson. A campaign book with useful exploitation and advertising suggestions has been prepared by Associated Exhibitors to aid the exhibitor in presenting the picture in an effective manner.

According to word from Sales Manager Storey, the picture, judging from advance bookings, is already assured of showing in practically every key-city. Several big dailies, it is stated, have carried rotogravure pictures taken from production stills and photoplay editors in many sections of the country have devoted space to the coming attraction.

Fox News Service Improved

Director-in-Chief Home After Reorganizing Staff Personnel Abroad

EXHIBITORS are promised the best foreign service in the history of current news reels in a statement issued by Don Hancock, director-in-chief of Fox News, who returned last week from a two months' tour of Europe.

The purpose of Mr. Hancock's trip abroad was to inspect, reorganize, and instruct the European staff of Fox News. Making his headquarters in Paris and London, he held daily conferences with cameramen assembled from all parts of the continent.

While in Paris Mr. Hancock devised a system of cables whereby the Paris editor of the News, John Parkerson, keeps in constant touch with the New York office. In London the director-in-chief not only met cameramen from England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, but made arrangements for the photographing of the forthcoming wedding of Princess Mary of England, as well as for other important news events.

"We unquestionably have the best representation in Europe," reports Mr. Hancock. "The most skiled cameramen, the liveliest operators, editors, and others, at all times and under all conditions capable of producing quality film in quantities. Fox News has never been second to any other news reel in foreign representation, but it is our aim to make both foreign and domestic representation better. None of our continental cameramen speaks less than three languages, and some of them speak five. Hence my work was made very easy, because I could converse with them in English, and give them their instructions in this language. Each man was sent back to his post immediately after the conferences with his pockets filled with typewritten instructions. Already much excellent material has been received, and every ship brings film of a quality which cannot but please both exhibitor and theatre patron."

A scene from "False Fronts," by S. Barrett McCormick, directed by Samuel R. Bradley

Talmadge Sisters in East for Vacation

Norma and Constance Talmadge arrived in New York on Friday of last week for a short vacation in the East. Accompanying them were Joseph M. Schenck, president of the Norma and Constance Talmadge film companies; J. D. Williams, manager of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., distributors of the stars' pictures, and Felix Feist, in charge of the Talmadge booking department.

The Talmadge sisters stopped at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton for ten days. After they have visited the Broadway theatres in search of new picture material, and bought a lot of advance models in street and evening gowns for their forthcoming productions, they will spend a three weeks' vacation in Palm Beach and then return to New York before leaving for Hollywood, again, the second week in April.

Mission Film Experts Work on New Process

Director Clarence Geldert and Cameraman Gordon Pollock, of the Mission Film Corporation, are in seclusion, working on a new process for making some ethereal scenes necessary to complete Clarence Hatheways story, "Carry on the Race." By the use of vari colored dyes in a tank of water in a manner heretofore unused in motion picture making, they expect to achieve an effect of space and infinity never before realized.

Fox to Make New Brand of Farce Comedy

FROM Fox Film Corporation comes announcement of the organization of a new comedy unit at the West Coast Studios, the purpose of which will be to produce a type of comedy burlesquing the old-time western melodrama.

It is with a view to creating original situations for farce pictures and with the hope of successfully breaking away from the bathing girl comedy by substituting a new feature that William Fox has undertaken this plan.

The directors, actors and girls who are to make the western fun-films will compose a unit entirely separate from the other Fox comedy organizations—which include the Sunshines, the Al St. John, Clyde Cook and recently added Lupino Lane special comedies.

One idea is, that instead of frollicking through a couple of thousand feet of frisky film, chased by or chasing a low-bred comedian with baggy pants, the girls will appear as lady cow-punchers and cow-lassies, attired in becoming cow-girl costumes. The girls are now being trained in wildwest accomplishments with the lariat and the six-shooter.

20-Page Press Book for "Mistress of World"

A press-book of full newspaper size and comprising twenty pages has been prepared by Paramount for "The Mistress of the World." Four pages are devoted to each of the four productions titled "The Dragon's Claw, "The Race for Life," "The City of Gold," and "Saved by Wireless." The covers are given over to the series as a whole.

In all, there are reproductions of twenty-three ad mats, running in size from single column to full page; sixteen production cuts, reproductions of thirty posters of all sizes from one-sheets to twenty-fours, and fifty-four publicity stories. In addition, there are illustrations of countless lobby displays, slides, insert cards, heralds, etc.

A scene from the Leah Baird production, "Don't Doubt Your Wife," to be released by Associated Exhibitors through Pathe Exchanges

"Silver Harvest" New Educational Release

"The Silver Harvest," an interesting picture story of the sardine fishing industry along the coasts of France and Portugal, will be the next release in Educational's series of World Wanderings. "The Silver Harvest" follows the tiny fish from the net through the great cleaning and washing plants all the way into the cans in which they are handed out at the delicatessen.

The current release of this series is "Dawn to Dusk in Egypt," which is now showing at the Criterion theatre in New York, where on February 19 it began an indefinite run in connection with the feature picture, "The Loves of Pharaoh."

Century Production Is Pressed Forward

Julius Stern, president of Century comedies, who has recently returned from Hollywood, announces that production at his studio at a rate which he has never before attempted. This, however, does not mean that rental prices are to be raised, states Mr. Stern.

"The success of Century is built on the success of the exhibitor," states Mr. Stern, "and to borrow a line from Carl Laemmle we believe in 'live and let live' which includes the small exhibitor as well as the big one—and we want to keep him happy and contented. The big problem today is to produce good comedies so economically that they can be sold to the theatre owner at a price which guarantees him profit without worry."

Mae Murray Story Is Laid in Spain

In Mae Murray's next picture, "Fascination," which is now being screened at Tiffany Studios, New York, for release by Metro, all of the scenes are laid in Spain. The interior settings are being constructed by Charles Caldwallader, who built the Paris cafe scenes for Miss Murray's last picture, "Peacock Alley." The designs for these scenes were obtained through models at the Metropolitan Museum and from Spanish books of household design.

In "Fascination," Miss Murray appears as the daughter of a Spanish-American marriage. The story is by Edmund Goulding, who wrote "Peacock Alley" from a story by Ouida Bergere. The production is being made by Tiffany Productions and directed by Mr. Leonard. The cast includes Helen Ware, Courtenay Foote, Creighton Hale, and Vincent Coleman.

R-C Star Has Unique Role in "Clementina"

Pauline Frederick appears in a novel role in "The Glory of Clementina," a picturization of William J. Locke's novel of the same name, announces R-C pictures. Her role is that of an eccentric artist who cares nothing for personal appearances. Her dowdy costume is contrasted with her great beauty, when in the latter part of the picture she takes up a woman's weapons to win the love of a man.

The picture was directed by Emile Chautard, and the cast includes Edward Martindel, George Cown, Lincoln Plumber, Edward Hearn, Jean Calhoun, and Wilson Hummell.

Two Eddie Lyons Comedies Are Announced

Two new Eddie Lyons' comedies are being added to the list of Arrow releases of this comedian. The titles of these are, "Why Not Now?" and "Rented Trouble."

The result of Eddie Lyons' efforts to amuse the public is that his pictures are in constant demand by independent exchanges and exhibitors all over the world, and Arrow therefore, feels justified in giving Eddie Lyons' comedies the utmost availablle exploitation and advertising.

Scenes at the opening of Universal's "Foolish Wives" at the Mission theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.
On the left the crowds and cameramen "shooting" the stars as they arrive; in the centre are Max Linder and Charlie Chaplin, at the opening; and on the right, a corner of the Mission's lobby

Florence Vidor, elevated to stardom in "Woman Wake Up," an Associated Exhibitors release

New Star's First Picture

Florence Vidor Starred After Continued Rise in Public Favor

"WOMAN, WAKE UP" marks the ascendency of Florence Vidor to stardom. This honor, which is accorded her in the new Associated Exhibitors release, has been literally bestowed by the public. A few years ago Miss Vidor had no intention of appearing before the camera. She accompanied her husband, King Vidor, to California, when he went there to direct big productions, and shortly after their arrival she consented, as an accommodation, to play a part in "A Tale of Two Cities."

From that time on success came to Florence Vidor without the asking. She appeared opposite Sessue Hayakawa in a series of productions directed by William DeMille and was later featured by Cecil B. DeMille in "Old Wives for New" and "Till I Come Back to You." When Mr. Vidor produced "The Family Honor," "Poor Relations" and "The Jack Knife Man" and several other pictures, she was induced to play parts, always to the advancement of her popularity. Subsequently, Thomas H. Ince borrowed her for "Beau Revel," "Lying Lips" and other productions.

When "Hail the Woman" was produced, with Miss Vidor featured in the cast, the public became more than ever insistent that she be accorded the recognition which is due a star who has "arrived." Thereupon, Associated Exhibitors captured her and arranged to star her in a series of dramatic features particularly suited to her charm and personality.

The first on the list, "Woman, Wake Up," written especially for Miss Vidor by Ben Moore Clay, is a satirical comedy drama, providing for her a role that requires a combination of subtlety and a sense of humor, with refinement and infinite taste. It presents her successively as a vigorous outdoor athletic girl; a domestic home loving wife; a saucy but innocently daring flirt and, finally, the devoted wife again.

"Woman, Wake Up" serves adequately as Florence Vidor's first starring vehicle and the newly-recognized star makes the utmost of her opportunity, it is stated.

She is now at work upon her second starring vehicle, Henry Kitchell Webster's "The Real Adventure," the story of a wife who succeeded in being a true wife rather than a beautiful ornament. Production is well under way and an announcement regarding it is expected shortly.

Marion Davies in the Cosmopolitan Production, "Beauty's Worth," released through Paramount

Exhibs Praise "Sailor Made Man"

Harold Lloyd's latest comedy production for Associated Exhibitors, "A Sailor Made Man," is declared to be arousing much favorable comment among exhibitors who are showing it. Guy D. Hazelton, of the Rialto Theatre, Missoula, Mont., writes:

"Harold Lloyd has always been a good drawing card at this theatre, but prior to booking "A Sailor-Made Man," we had never dared to give any of his product a four-day run. However, it pleases us to state that in face of 2 below zero weather, and against The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse the first day, our regular Pantages program at the opposition house the second day, The London Follies, a road show the third day, and a local home talent the fourth and last day, The Sailor-Made Man won out in the most unexpected manner.

"The house total for the four days was twice as much as we had ever done before with any Lloyd Comedy Program, and we thought 'Never Weaken' had reached the limit. The last and fourth day was 40 per cent. more than the receipts of the first day.

"Personally, I think A Sailor-Made Man the best comedy yet produced, and the box office receipts demonstrated that the patrons thought the same."

United Studios Consolidate Accessory Shops

As a means of further reducing the operating expenses of its producer-tenants, the United Studios are consolidating under one roof the various shops and mechanical units that are scattered about the thirty-three acres of studio grounds. This centralization will include the electrical, plumbing, blacksmith and paint shops, the sculptural, architectural and designing units and the storeroom, toolroom, etc. The producers and their aides will save the time that is ordinarily consumed in journeying about the grounds to the various departments, and the consolidation will insure more efficient control of labor, which will substantially reduce the overhead costs to the producer.

Hamilton-White Close Year

Finish First Year of Comedy Production for Educational Release

LLOYD HAMILTON, popular comedy star, and Jack White, director and his partner in Hamilton-White Comedies, Inc., are putting in their final work on the first year's production schedule of their new producing organization, with a fine showing to their credit for Mermaid Comedies.

Hamilton is finishing his work on the sixth and final picture of the year in which he is featured, while White is about to start the seventh of the Jack White productions, which will be the last of the year's group of Mermaid Comedies.

Starting off the new series with "Robinson Crusoe, Ltd., which, as one big national trade journal expressed it, "has been a hit wherever shown," Hamilton, as the star in six of the thirteen pictures, and White, as supervising director of all Mermaid Comedies, have put the best effort of their careers into these pictures.

Hamilton has been known to film fans for several years. Beginning with the old "Ham and Bud" comedies, he has won many friends among exhibitors and theatre-goers. Hamilton's pictures have frequently attracted exceptional comment from newspaper critics at big first run houses, even when playing with big features. Exhibitors and trade publications alike have been most liberal in their praise of Hamilton's latest work. Critics of the trade press have stated that he has been doing the very best work of his long career this season.

Big first run bookings have also been a good indication of the growing popularity of these subjects. From Broadway to Los Angeles and San Francisco, the Mermaid Comedies have won a place in well-known first run houses. All of the four pictures of the series that have been released by the New York Exchange have been shown at the Strand. They are "Robinson Crusoe, Ltd.," and "The Vagrant," featuring Hamilton, and "For Land's Sake" and "Free and Easy," Jack White productions, with all-star casts, including Lige Conley. Other representative first run houses that have regularly run Mermaid Comedies this season include the Olympia in Boston; New Chicago, Tivoli and Riviera in Chicago; Stanley in Philadelphia; California in San Francisco; Kinema in Los Angeles; Broadway Strand in Detroit, and Loew's in Cleveland.

No expense or effort has been spared by Hamilton and White to keep the Mermaid Comedies up to the highest standard. They have surrounded themselves with a big, strong staff of actors, writers, editors, directors and cameramen.

Shirley Mason Picture Just Completed

Shirley Mason has just completed "The Ragged Heiress" at the Fox Hollywood studios. It is the first picture made by the new Fox director, Harry Beaumont.

Fox Acquires Rights to "If Winter Comes"

William Fox has won out in the bidding for the screen rights to "If Winter Comes," the biggest seller of the year, and the book will be made into a motion picture before next autumn. Several companies were in the market for the A. S. M. Hutchinson novel, but the contract was signed by Fox and the author last week. The book has been selling at the rate of two thousand copies a day since its publication four months ago.

"If Winter Comes" will be made into a big special production, but the Fox company has not decided who will head the cast or will direct it.

Exceptional Titles for Owen Moore Picture

The titles on the new Owen Moore picture, which, in all likelihood, will be released under the title "Sink or Swim," will represent the best efforts of some of the most capable title writers who have ever contributed to the motion picture art, declares a statement from the Selznick offices. The arrangement under which the titles are being secured is brand new to the industry, it is declared.

News Reels of Highest Import, Says Circuit

The Rochester Times-Union in a recent letter to the Regorson Corporation, which operates three motion picture theatres in Rochester, announced its purpose to print four pages of illustrated news events from all parts of the world. The object of the letter was to ascertain from the Regorson executives just how much interest views of current events held for the public. The question, of course, was proposed with specific reference to the news reels run in the Regorson houses. Here is the answer the Times-Union received:

"The motion picture exhibitor today certainly considers the news films as one of the most important parts of his program. Surely, we would not sacrifice the Pathé News on our programs, and we give it a position where it will be shown to the greatest number of persons. This is because we know from comments made by our patrons that news pictures have great popular interest."

"Rupert of Hentzau" Is Obtained by Selznick

SELZNICK has secured the screen rights to "Rupert of Hentzau," the internationally known novel written by Sir Anthony Hope. The preliminaries for the purchase of this novel were conducted by Myron Selznick during his recent trip to Europe, the negotiations being carried on with Sir Anthony Hope in person. The details of the transaction have just been closed, making formal announcement of the purchase possible.

"Rupert of Hentzau" was first published in America in 1898. The book sold in the hundreds of thousands for many months without abatement. Since then the demand for the work has necessitated a new edition at frequent intervals in this country.

Talmadge Revival Set for March 10

Constance Talmadge in "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" is the next of the Selznick revivals, being scheduled for the Select branches about March 10. The re-editing and retitling of the photoplay have been completed, and the new prints are being turned out by the laboratory. As is the custom, "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" will reach the exhibitor accompanied by a complete new line of advertising accessories. Augustus Thomas wrote "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," which was first done on the stage.

Irene Rich in Leading Role in Fox Picture

Irene Rich, the leading woman, has been selected by Director Emmett J. Flynn for an important part in his next production for William Fox. Miss Rich's last appearance was as leading woman for William Russell in "Strength of the Pines."

"Gypsy Passion" at Strand

Big French Production Booked by Vitagraph for Broadway Run

"GYPSY PASSION," Vitagraph's spectacular French production, will have its Western hemisphere public premiere at the Strand theatre, on Broadway, New York, early in April. This picture was taken from Jean Richepin's gypsy story, "Miarka, the Child of the Bear," by the writer and academician himself, Jean Richepin, who not only arranged his novel for the screen but acted one of the principal roles in it. Directed by Louis Mercanton, called "the Griffith of France"; acted by a distinguished cast which includes the great Mme. Rejane, second only to Sarah Bernhardt in fame, and written by a member of the French Academy, "Gypsy Passion" represents the very best that Europe has to offer America in the cinema line, states Vitagraph.

The picture has behind it a long and imposing record of Continental successes including a private showing before the Royal family of England. While this will be the first public showing in America, this French production was screened under private auspices late last year and scored a success. The critic of the New York Times happened to be present at the screening, and in his summary of the best pictures shown during the entire year, had no hesitancy in stating in his motion picture columns that this picture "belonged among the leaders."

Perhaps the most distinctive feature of "Gypsy Passion" lies in the picturesque backgrounds and unique exteriors amid which the action takes place. The fact that most of the locales—such for instance as the feudal chateau, the ruined monastery, and the Twelfth century church of "Les Saintes Maries de la Mer"—could not be duplicated in this country, was one of the chief reasons which led Vitagraph to purchase this picture.

Critics Praise Nazimova

Los Angeles Showing of "A Doll's House" Wins Favorable Comment

"NAZIMOVA reaches the apex of a long career in drama in her screening of the famous play 'A Doll's House,' and has proven herself, in this picture, a master of versatility in her conception of Nora Helmer, Ibsen's famous character," says the critic for the Los Angeles Record, in writing of the showing of this United Artists release at the California theatre. "With finely drawn figuring Nazimova depicts the irksomeness of a life whose chief object, according to the interpretation of her husband, is charm."

"Nazimova has come back in her first United Artists' production of Ibsen's 'A Doll's House,'" says the review in the Los Angeles Examiner. "The great Russian actress gives herself to the screen with a sincerity and generosity that has never been equalled in any of her film productions, The supporting cast has been chosen with excellent care."

"Ibsen's pathetic play of the woman who literally changed herself into a doll to dance, play answer every whim of her ambitious and egotistic husband, has never failed to excite human interest," says the reviewer for the Los Angeles Herald, "and in this screen adaptation, with Nazimova as the star, there is added a newness to the drama. Nazimova's work is true, and especially in the closing scenes is her real dramatic art most prominently displayed."

"Wilderness Tales" Are Opened at Capitol

THE first of Robert Bruce's "Wilderness Tales," titled "And Women Must Weep," was presented at the Capitol theatre, New York City, last week. This marks the premiere of this series of single-reel pictures in which Mr. Bruce has combined drama with scenic beauty. "And Women Must Weep" is an adaptation of Charles Kingsley's poem, "The Three Fishers." Educational Films Exchanges, Inc., is releasing this series.

"And Women Must Weep" was presented by S. L. Rothafel with specially arranged orchestral music. The subject was given unusual praise by the reviewers of the local dailies and hailed as a triumph of the photographer's art. A novel display at the entrance to the big house consisted in the posting of clippings of reviews from the national trade papers of the film industry on a big placard which was beautifully framed. On the placard were also posted a letter from E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, and a page from the Saturday Evening Post showing an Educational Pictures advertisement.

"This Way Out" Is New Carey Wilson Story

"This Way Out," the third story that Goldwyn has bought from Carey Wilson, a new film writer recently attached to its scenario department, is entirely different in story and treatment from either "Captain Blackbird," an adventurous romance of the South Seas, which will soon be ready for production, or "Women Love Diamonds," a three-episode New York story.

The theme of "This Way Out" is the potential power of the commonplace, the terrible strength of the monotonous trifle in everyday life.

Mr. Big Time Exhibitor:

If you are in the vicinity of New York City it will pay you to see the presentation of

"THE SHEIK'S WIFE"

at the MARK STRAND THEATRE

Broadway at 47th Street, ALL NEXT WEEK

COMMENCING MARCH 5th.

—A Vitagraph Special

Colleen Moore, as she appears in "The Wall Flower," a Goldwyn release

McCracken Leaves on Alaskan Expedition

Harold McCracken, of Columbus, Ohio, widely known as an Alaskan big game hunter and writer on life in the far northwest, left on Jan. 15th on an expedition into the land of the midnight sun for a series of motion pictures.

McCracken, who has spent many years in hunting big game and exploring in the far northwest, is making a year's trip solely to get a series of motion pictures of genuine adventure in some of Alaska's most out of the way sections; filming intimate stories of the big game for which the territory is famous, its primitive native life, and thrills such as only Alaska can provide.

"French Heels" Booked by First Run Houses

First-run bookings on "French Heels," the Irene Castle production released by Hodkinson which had its premiere at the Cameo Theatre in New York during the past week, continue to pile up, according to an announcement from the W. W. Hodkinson offices.

Three of the biggest houses to sign up for first runs on "French Heels" were Barbee's Loop in Chicago, the Butterfly Theatre in Milwaukee and Asher's Capital in Cincinnati. The Southern in Columbus and the Colonial in Indianapolis are two others of great importance.

Mammoth Press-Sheet for "Over the Hill"

A mammoth press sheet comprising eight pages printed on one side only to permit of easy clipping has been prepared by the Fox Film Corporation for its production, "Over the Hill." This is the third edition of a press sheet for the Fox special since its initial presentation on Broadway in September of 1920. The new publication is one of the most elaborate ever prepared, to aid the exhibitor in exploiting or advertising a picture. It is filled with a new selection of cuts and press material and presents many useful suggestions and ideas based upon "stunts" already staged by theatre managers in exploiting the big production.

"Old Swimmin' Hole" on Model Program

THE adoption by the Visual Instruction Association of New York City of the Charles Ray-First National feature, "The Old Swimmin' Hole," as an aid to study in the American literature classes of the city schools, received the endorsement of a large audience of adults at the Maxine Elliott Theatre in New York City recently. A film entertainment had been arranged by the association to further its work of encouraging the use of pictures in public school instruction.

Dr. Ernest L. Crandall, Director of the Bureau of Lectures of the Board of Education, and President of the Visual Instruction Association, declared in his opening address that what the organization regarded as a model motion picture program, at once of entertainment and of educational value, and well adapted to audiences anywhere, had been arranged. "The Old Swimmin' Hole," in which Charles Ray is presented by Arthur S. Kane, had been unanimously chosen by the committee in charge as the feature offering.

New Century Release Is Mystery-Comedy

A comedy which begins as a mystery story will be Harry Sweet's next release "Off His Beat." This is in line with Julius Stern's policy of eliminating slap stick and providing regular plots for his Century Comedies.

"Off His Beat" provides a new role for Sweet who, instead of being a rube chased by cops appears as one of them.

It is directed by Tom Buckingham and the leading lady is Lois Scott, a Fox comedienne who has recently been signed by Century.

Scene from "At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern," produced by Renco Film Co., to be released by Hodkinson

Explain Deleted Scenes on Screen, Says Vignola

Robert G. Vignola, well known director of Cosmopolitan productions, who is now engaged in producing "When Knighthood Was in Flower," believes that the absurdity and uselessness of censorship can be impressed upon the public by explaining, on the screen, where a scene has been deleted, and by briefly describing it. This will hav a double barrelled effect, states Mr. Vignola. In the first place it will bring ridicule, a powerful weapon, upon censorship, and secondly it will not break the continuity of the story.

"Having shown the public how prejudicial to their interests censorship is," states the director, "the next step is to get from them through the exhibitors expressions of opinion as to the justice of the cuts made in the particular picture which they've seen. An offer of prizes should act as a stimulus."

A scene from "The Sheik's Wife," a Vitagraph picture made in Algeria under the direction of M. Henry Roussell

Additions to Christie Acting Forces

With the return of Charles E Christie, general manager of th Christie Film Company, to his stu dio from the East, the announce ment was made that he had signe up George Stewart, younger broth er of Anita Stewart, to star i Christie comedies to be made fo Educational releases. At the sam time the arrival of Charlott Stevens, Chicago beauty contes winner, to begin work in these fu films, was made known.

Stewart has been appearing i prominent parts in dramatic fea tures. He is 21 years old and ha been under the watchful tutorag of his famous sister for two years Miss Stevens, who is 17 years old won the beauty contest conducte by the Chicago Journal almost a year ago, being judged the winne over thousands of girls who trie for the honor of receiving a con tract with Christie.

Hodkinson Closes for Nine-Picture Run

A nine-picture run with play date beginning February 16, was closed by the Hodkinson branch in Detroit last week with Charles Garfield, managing director of the Orpheum Theatre, in Flint, Mich.

The productions include "The Light in the Clearing," "Fifty Candles," "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," "God's Crucible," "The Mysterious Rider," "At the Sign of the Jack O'Lantern," "The Grey Dawn," "Heart's Haven" and "French Heels." The list will be played out at the rate of one and two pictures a week.

Tom Forman to Direct Katherine MacDonald

Tom Forman will be in charge of Katherine MacDonald's forthcoming production, "The Woman Conquers" for Associated First National release. Mr. Forman will have Clyde Balsley for his assistant and Joseph Brotherton will be the cameraman.

"The Woman Conquers" will introduce Miss MacDonald as a young society girl of New York who is satiated with her position and environment and who goes to the northwest territory where, after a series of thrilling and unusual experiences, she conquers her old self and finds that life holds out new possibilities and hopes.

Christie Comedies Get Favorable Reviews

Newspaper reviews from Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles, Buffalo, Syracuse, and several other localities show that a two-reel comedy can receive as favorable attention as the feature picture of the program, declares a statement from the Christie studios. Christie comedies reported as rivaling the features played on their respective programs for first honors include "Hokus Pokus," "A Rambling Romeo," "Pure and Simple" with Bobby Vernon, "Oh Buddy' with Neal Burns, and "A Barnyard Cavalier' with Bobby Vernon.

"Quo Vadis" Appeals as Lenten Offering

WID GUNNING, INC., exchanges throughout the country have been flooded with requests for bookings for "Quo Vadis," the big Italian spectacle, to be shown during Lent, according to sales reports received at the Gunning home offices.

"Quo Vadis," because of the nature of the picture, has a particular appeal and appropriateness during Lent. "Quo Vadis" ("Whither Goest Thous?") is the spectacular film version of the world-famous Sienkiewicz story about the early Christians in the days of Nero and the Roman Empire. It is issued in an entirely new dress, retitled and shortened to six reels since it was first shown as the first super-special picture.

Comedy Posters for Doris May Picture

The comedy atmosphere of Doris May's latest starring production, "Boy Crazy," an R-C Picture, is admirably reflected in the posters which have just been completed for March release, announce the distributors.

The one-sheet shows Miss May in the role of Jackie Cameron, selling a silk shirt to an old man who is palpably used only to the home-made cotton variety, in her haberdashery shop. The six-sheet shows the star as the central figure of a large group. All the others in the group are the boys of the town. The three-sheet shows her being carried on the handle bars of J. Smythe's bicycle, Smythe's role being taken by Harry Myers, hero of "A Connecticut Yankee," who plays opposite Miss May.

The scenario for "Boy Crazy" was written by Beatrice Van, and it was directed by William A. Seiter.

American Feature Film Opens New Offices

The American Feature Film Company, which distributes the Universal product in New England with the exception of a little corner in Connecticut, opened its new quarters at 37 Piedmont Street, Boston, Mass., recently.

A 12 o'clock girl in a 9 o'clock town.
R-C PICTURES
DORIS MAY
"BOY CRAZY"
A HUNT STROMBERG PRODUCTION
Faster, Funnier and Peppier than "The Foolish Age"

A reproduction of the paper issued by R-C pictures on Doris May's "Boy Crazy," showing how the comedy of the picture is reflected in the posters

Exploitation by Wireless

Universal Stars Talk to Thousands Through Radio Telephone

PERSONAL appearances by wireless is the novel means of exploiting Universal stars. Co-operating with the Radio Corporation of America, Universal's publicity department arranged to have Frank Mayo and Norma Shearer, leading woman in "The Leather Pushers," take part in an impromptu entertainment which was broadcasted to more than one-hundred thousand radio "fans" within a radius of two thousand miles. This is the first time that screen stars have "appeared" at these entertainments, as most of the talent has been obtained from the Metropolitan Opera House and headline vaudeville acts.

The innovation, whereby screen stars could be heard instead of seen by thousands, proved so popular that Universal was invited to continue supplying the feature part of the programs at the radio concerts. At the last broadcasting, Friday, February 24, Reginald Denny, star of H. C. Witwer's "The Leather Pushers," told some particularly amusing anecdotes of his life in India as an opera singer and some of his experiences in the Royal Flying Corps.

Besides the hundred thousand radio operators listening in on these entertainments, there may be an unlimited number of auditors. On the night of Miss Schearer's and Mr. Mayo's appearance, at one receiving instrument, attached to a Magnavox, were more than 4,000 American Legionaires, while more than 600 members of the Electrical Society "listened in" on an instrument installed at the Engineers' Club, New York City.

Pathe Releases of March 5

List of Short-Subjects Headed by Playlet With Baby Marie Osborne

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC., announces the addition of the new Pathe playlet, "Little Mary Sunshine," starring Baby Marie Osborne, to the collection of short subject features and the one serial episode scheduled for release the week of March 12th. The offering has been re-edited and cut down to three reels from its original feature length. It was directed by Henry King, who also plays the leading role opposite the famous child actress. Other members of "Danger Rails" is the eleventh episode of the latest Pathe serial, "White Eagle," starring Ruth Roland. Excitement is provided in one instance by a runaway stage coach bearing the star, which overturns while crossing a bridge over a small stream.

"On the Fire" is the current reissued one-reel comedy starring Harold Lloyd. Bebe Daniels and "Snub" Pollard are also in the cast. "The Bow Wows" is the title of the latest Hal Roach comedy featuring "Snub" Pollard. Pollard is assisted in the offering by Marie Mosquini, Noah Young, the Hal Roach comedians and dogs of every description. "The Spendthrift" is the current animated cartoon of the series of "Aesop's Film Fables."

Pathe Review No. 146 contains an interesting variety of subjects, featuring "The Oyster's Rival," in which the secret of manufacturing pearls is disclosed. Other subjects included in the offering are: "The Shot That Echoed Round the World," showing present day scenes in and about Concord and Lexington; "Who Would A-clowning Go," the latest Capitol Travelaugh by Hy Mayer; "The Robber Crow," an interesting study of crows by Eltinge F. Warner, of "Fields and Stream"; and "The Land of Long Ago," Pathecolor scenes of ancient Gascony.

Pathe News Scores "Scoop"

Airplane Views of Roma Disaster Hurried to Screens in Fast Time

IN enabling New York theatres to screen actual scenes of the Roma disaster at Hampton Roads within less than twenty-four hours, Pathe News claims to have scored one of the cleanest "beats" in the history of its service to motion picture patrons and to the newspapers. The first newspaper pictures of the tragedy were reproduced from Pathe News negatives, according to word from the home office.

These pictures, seen in New York on Wednesday, February 22nd, are shown throughout the entire Eastern division as a Pathe News Special. They present the highlights in the history of the great Italian dirigible purchased by the United States Government, together with the tragic finale. For the country at large they are featured in the regular issue, No. 17.

At the moment of the fall of the stricken dirigible, the Pathe News correspondent covering that region was twenty miles from the scene. The moment the news was wired to him he engaged an airplane. In less than half an hour he was photographing the burning wreck from the air. Descending, he quickly took other views, including photographs of survivors, wired Editor Emanuel Cohen, took to the air again and got his negatives aboard the first fast train for New York.

In the meantime at the Home Office of Pathe News other negatives of the Roma, with members of her crew and officers probably in the list of the dead at Hampton Roads, were assembled and made ready to play their legitimate part in the pictured news of the disaster.

Wanted Film Salesmen—

Men with a past record of results, thoroughly experienced, progressive, unmarried—willing to travel

Men who can do big things with big opportunities

For such salesmen the Universal Film Manufacturing Company has openings on its sales force

Apply in person to
Harry Berman,
Gen. Sales Mgr.,
1600 Broadway,
New York

MEN AND EVENTS IN THE FILM CENTRES

With "News" Correspondents

ITEMS OF THE EXCHANGES AND THEATRES

CLEVELAND

M. B. Horwitz, president of the Washington Circuit of motion picture houses was in New York recently. Horwitz is booking on a large scale these days for his chain of seven houses, all of them first-run neighborhood theatres.

E. C. Fuersts, assistant manager of Loew's State theatre, Cleveland, was receiving congratulations, this week, upon the addition of a daughter, Jane, to the family circle.

S. Barrett McCormick, managing director of the Allen theatre, has written a scenario for a feature photoplay. It is called "False Fronts." Produced by the Herold Brothers of Cleveland and directed by Samuel R. Bradley, the picture had its initial showing Saturday night, February 25, before an invited audience.

INDIANAPOLIS

Bandits carried a five hundred pound safe containing $3,000 out the front door of the Gary theatre at Gary, Ind., early in the morning of February 14, and escaped.

After sale of the Lenwood and Gayety too local purchasers had been announced the purchases were not gone through with and Judge Arthur R. Robinson sold from the bench the four local houses of the bankrupt Lenwood Amusement Company. The theatres, the Lenwood, Gayety, Broadway and Rialto were sold to Ed Gates, local attorney, for $27,000. Gates represented the Capitol Amusement Company, incorporated last week with capital of $35,000. Other directors are named as Harold Sutherland and Parke Haines.

John Heffernan was acquitted by a jury in city court last week of a charge of Sabbath desecration for operating his theatre on Sunday, February 12. Huntington last year had one of the bitterest "blue law" scraps on its hands the state has seen.

The Gem Theatre Company of Indiana Harbor has filed final certificate of dissolution.

"The Four Horsemen" started on what looks like a month's run at the Ohio last week. All house records were shattered, even the big figure set up by the three week showing of "The Sheik" several weeks ago. Prices were advanced to fifty and seventy-five cents, which is from twenty-five to thirty-five cents above the regular scale. The picture was first run here last fall at the Murat, legitimate, at a $1.50 top scale.

WESTERN NEW YORK

The Lafayette Square theatre, Buffalo's new picture and vaudeville theatre, was opened Monday night, February 27. The house, which has a seating capacity of 4,000, was built by the Monument Theatre Corporation. Fred M. Shafer is managing director. C. Sharp Minor is organist. The house is one of the most elaborate in the country. It represents an outlay of $2,500,000. A large business block is included in the house. M. Slotkin is head of the company which built the theatre.

Richard Glasser has purchased the Variety theatre, an east side neighborhood house in Buffalo.

After Harold B. Franklin had heavily advertised the coming of Buster Keaton in "Paleface," he was unable to show the comedy at the Hippodrome and North Park, Buffalo, because the state censors had not got around to looking the film over. As a result thousands of patrons were disappointed.

The Pastime and Majestic in Buffalo have both reduced prices from 17 to 10 cents and report business picking up as a result. J. P. Farr is the new owner of the Majestic.

CANADA

J. M. McClure, former manager of the Allen theatre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, took charge of the Lyceum theatre, Winnipeg, on February 20, succeeding Lester Lamb, who resigned. C. Perry Wishart, art director at the Allen for several months, has received the appointment as manager of the Winnipeg Allen. Prior to joining the Allens, Wishart was stage manager of the Winnipeg Capitol and previously served at the Orpheum theatre for three years in the same capacity.

Differences existing between the United Artists Corporation and the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Toronto, for nearly a year have been settled, it has been announced at Toronto, with the result that Griffith and other productions released by United Artists will now be shown in theatres of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, it is stated. A number of the pictures were tied up at Toronto for months, it is said, because of a dispute over priecs to be charged at the F. P. Corporation theatres, the Famous Players refusing to raise admission prices for any productions. United Artists finally acceded to the demand of the theatre company with the result that a number of pictures will now be shown on the Famous Players' circui, for the first time, a start being made with "Dream Street" at the Regent theatre, Toronto, for the week of February 20.

OKLAHOMA CITY

Nineteen hundred and twenty dollars was taken from the safe of a local theatre at Tulsa, Okla., on February 13 after yeggmen had pried off the combination to the vault in the theatre office. Five hundred dollars in silver, in the same drawer was not taken. No clue as to the identity of the thieves was secured.

A moral war loomed up at Lawton, Okla., February 13, following the issuance of a temporary injunction on Sunday against the showing of Clara Smith Hamon pictures in a local theatre. The attempt to show the pictures precipitated a movement to close all Sunday shows in Lawton.

Resolutions to initiate such a movement were adopted Sunday night by several of the churches.

A Film Exchange building is to be erected at Dallas, Texas, in the near future, which will be modern and strictly fireproof and large enough to accommodate all of the exchanges in Dallas.

The Ray San Film Company at Dallas, Texas has moved its offices to 1919½ Main street sharing quarters with the Educational exchange.

The Phil H. Pierce Company of Dallas, Texas, will move to their new headquarters 1805 Commerce street in the near future.

The Dallas, Texas, office of Consolidated Film and Supply Co., held a private screening last week for newspaper men, showing "The Leather Pushers" and a new serial film, "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe."

SAN DIEGO

H. H. Homer, who has been acting as managing director of the Colonial theatre since it was opened in December, has severed his connection with the house and will go north where he expects to become associated with another theatre. For the present the Colonial will be under the management of W. C. Everett, who bas been connected with the business staff of the house for some time.

Incident to the showing of "Fightin' Mad," at the Plaza theatre, Manager Russell Rogers presented in person H. H. Van Loan, the writer of the scenario, who has been in the city for several weeks in connection with a series of articles on scenario writing which he has been conducting in the Evening Tribune. Mr. Van Loan also spoke at a luncheon of the Ad Club. Virginia Browne Faire, a member of the cast, also appeared at the Plaza during the week of the showing of the picture.

At the Rialto theatre, the management presented as a special attraction for a week Harriet Stout, a prominent Western pianist. The week's showing of "The Swamp," featuring Sessue Hayakawa and Bessie Love, drew good houses.

A Lasky producing company, directed by James Cruze, with Wallace Reid and Lila Lee as leads, has been working at Balboa Park, utilizing the exposition buildings, with their Spanish type of architecture in a South American story, "The Dictator." Over a thousand extras were secured from the Mexican colony for the main scenes made here.

KANSAS CITY

A private showing of Urban Movie Chats was given at the Liberty theatre, Kansas City, last week. Leading club women and members of civic organizations were extended invitations and expressed, unanimously, favorable opinion towards Urban Movie Chats. An educational picture, "The Four Seasons," also was shown.

When a brass band played in front of the Princess theatre in Macon, Mo., last Sunday, the local reform element prevailed upon the city officials to cause the arrest of George A. Hinkley, owner of the theatre, a motion picture house. A large crowd, composed mostly of the audience, followed Mr. Hinkley and the officer to the city hall, protesting the arrest.

Mr. Hinkley was released on a small bond and immediately appealed to Lawrence E. Goldman, counsel and secretary of the M. P. T. O. Missouri for aid. The public sentiment in Macon grew so strong in the two days following the arrest, that the case against Mr. Hinkley was dismissed.

The Missouri department of the American Legion has adopted "The Man Without a Country" as the official motion picture of the department. It has been approved by the national organization. The picture, which is adapted from the famous short story of that name, will be shown for the first time in Missouri at a Kansas City theatre the last week of February, the theatre to be selected later. The picture will be shown thereafter in each town in the state.

SALT LAKE CITY

M. J. Dune, for five years connected with the Greater Features, Inc., in San Francisco, St. Louis and Dallas, Texas, has been appointed manager of the Salt Lake offices of that company by L. T. Fidler, division manager. He has had twelve years' experience in the motion picture industry.

On a whirlwind tour of the West in preparation for the tenth anniversary celebration of the motion picture industry during the month of March, S. R. Kent, a leader in the cinema industry and general manager of distribution for Famous Players-Lasky corporation, and Claud Saunders, manager of the division of exploitation for the same organization, will visit Salt Lake.

Claud Saunders, it is said, will inaugurate through his local representatives while here the most extensive advertising program ever attempted in this section of the country by a distributing company for the benefit of the exhibitors.

At a recent meeting of the Salt Lake City Film Board of Trade, M. W. McCarthy, secretary and counsel, who has just returned from New York was the chief speaker. He told of the Hoy system of arbitration now used in the East between producers and distributors and advocated its adoption in this territory.

He said that things were better in the East and predicted big business soon in the West. Utah and Idaho, he said, escaped many of the troubles involving eastern territories.

Censorship bas caused no annoyance except in a few localities in Idaho. Sunday closing has been enforced in a few towns in Idaho, but the movement bas not spread.

CINCINNATI

As a result of the investigation of downtown moving picture theatres, Building Commissioner Hauser last week ordered the closing down of the Lubin theatre, 140 West Fifth street, and the Lyceum theatre, 425 Central avenue. It was reported that the roof of the Lubin theatre was found to be in a weakened condition. At the Lyceum theatre serious defects of construction were reported to have been discovered, and the building commissioner ordered the owner, Mrs. Mary S. Thoms, to have the theatre torn down. At the Lubin theatre it was stated that a bent truss would have to be replaced and repairs are expected to take from five to seven days. I. Frankel is the manager of the Lubin.

All other downtown theatres were pronounced structurally safe by the building commissioner.

A new policy was placed in effect at the Strand theatre last week when I. Libson. manager, announced that in the future a symphony orchestra under the direction of Hewitt Thomas, will hold forth at the theatre in addition to the organ which has been the sole music for some months past. Mr. Libson also announces that he has opened negotiations for some of the biggest film productions of the day, including "Saturday Night," "Peter Ibbetson" and "A Fool's Paradise." The new admission prices are 40 cents for the lower floor and 25 cents for the balcony.

What is believed to be the first warrant ever issued in the Cincinnati Municipal court clerk's office on the charge of unlawfully storing films in the basement of a theatre was sworn to last week by George Schmidt, chief deputy inspector of the building commissioner's office.

N. L. Lefkowitz, manager of the Standard Film Company and a stockholder in the Boulevard theatre, Canal and Vine streets, is the defendant. The warrant was a sequel to the investigation of theatres in consequence of the Knickerbocker disaster in Washington. The inspector alleges that in the basement of the Boulevard he found at least 200,000 feet of films stored in cans. All films have been ordered removed from the basement of the theatre.

¶ The new Booking Guide will be in your hands in the later part of this month.

NEW THEATRE
CONSTRUCTION & EQUIPMENT
PROJECTION DEPARTMENT CAMERA
P. M. ABBOTT - - - - - - - - - - - TECHNICAL EDITOR

Operation and Function of Appliances for Stage Lighting

Possible to Produce Numerous Pleasing Original Effects

By A. L. POWELL, Edison Lamp Works

Practical Application

We here present the last of the very interesting and educational series of articles written by Mr. Powell and in this last article we find much of practical value, such as the actual mechanical construction of the various units used for securing stage lighting effects, their proper operation and function. A few examples are given to indicate how colored lighting can be applied with these devices in the most effective method.

Last week we started discussing the various mechanical means of securing lighting effects on the stage, and had finished with the footlights, outlining their advantages and the like. The discussion will now continue with the other lighting devices.

The border lights furnish the general illumination from a natural direction, that is, overhead. They are therefore probably the most valuable portion of the stage equipment. Border lights are virtually inverted footlights suspended from the grid-iron structure. The number of sets in use will depend on the depth of stage. Some of the theatres, for example, the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, employ seven or eight rows. The size of lamps used for the borders will depend upon the character of production, and in practice we find from 60 watt Mazda B lamps in the average theatre to 1000 watt Mazda C lamps in show houses such as the New York Hippodrome. The old style border light is open to the objection stated above in connection with the footlights in improper distribution of light, low efficiency and mixing of color. The latest form of border-light employs individual mirrored glass reflectors with Mazda C lamps as pictured in Figure 2, page 1520. These are the same type as used in the show window and are a logical advance in practice. They overcome the trouble just mentioned and enable one to employ the higher efficiency Mazda C lamps. These make it possible to get the same illumination for less money or greater illumination (generally the desire of the producer) for the same expenditure.

Gelatine screens are ordinarily employed with this equipment to obtain color modification, and, as mentioned in the first article of this series, special precautions should be taken to have a suitable holding device for this to prevent its being knocked out of place or punctured as a drop is being raised. Unquestionably, the future will see the application of separable glass color caps to this equipment.

The remarks given under footlights as to the desirable number of circuits and division into sections apply with equal force to the border lights.

Proscenium and strip lights are virtually border lights hung in vertical positions, and assist in reducing the sharp contrasts which might prevail in the vertical plane. The individual mirrored glass reflector is now being successfully applied to this service also.

A most useful device for lighting a given area to a greater intensity than the rest of the stage is the bunch light often known as the open box or Olivette type shown in Figure 3, page 1528. Hand-fed arc lamps were formerly used for this service, but with the introduction of the high wattage,

(Continued on page 1520)

Figure 6

Figure 5

Suspension type spot lamp shown in figure 5 is for 500 or 1000 watt floodlighting Mazda C lamp. The color screen holder is close to the lens. When focused so that the smallest spot is obtained with the 500 watt lamp, 3000 c.p. is produced over a 12° spread; with maximum size of spot, the 500 watt gives 1000 c.p. over 45°. Figure 6 is the baby spot for 250 watt floodlighting Mazda C lamp. The size of spot can be varied by changing high efficiency, Mazda C lamp, the arc was largely replaced by the 1000 watt unit. Its advantages are remote control, ability to be dimmed and simplicity of operation, which facts materially reduce the number of operators for a given production. Color modification is attained by the use of gelatin screens; the units are portable and adjustable as to height and direction, and can be plugged in at will from any stage pocket. Open box lights also prove very useful suspended from the gridiron to illuminate cycloramas.

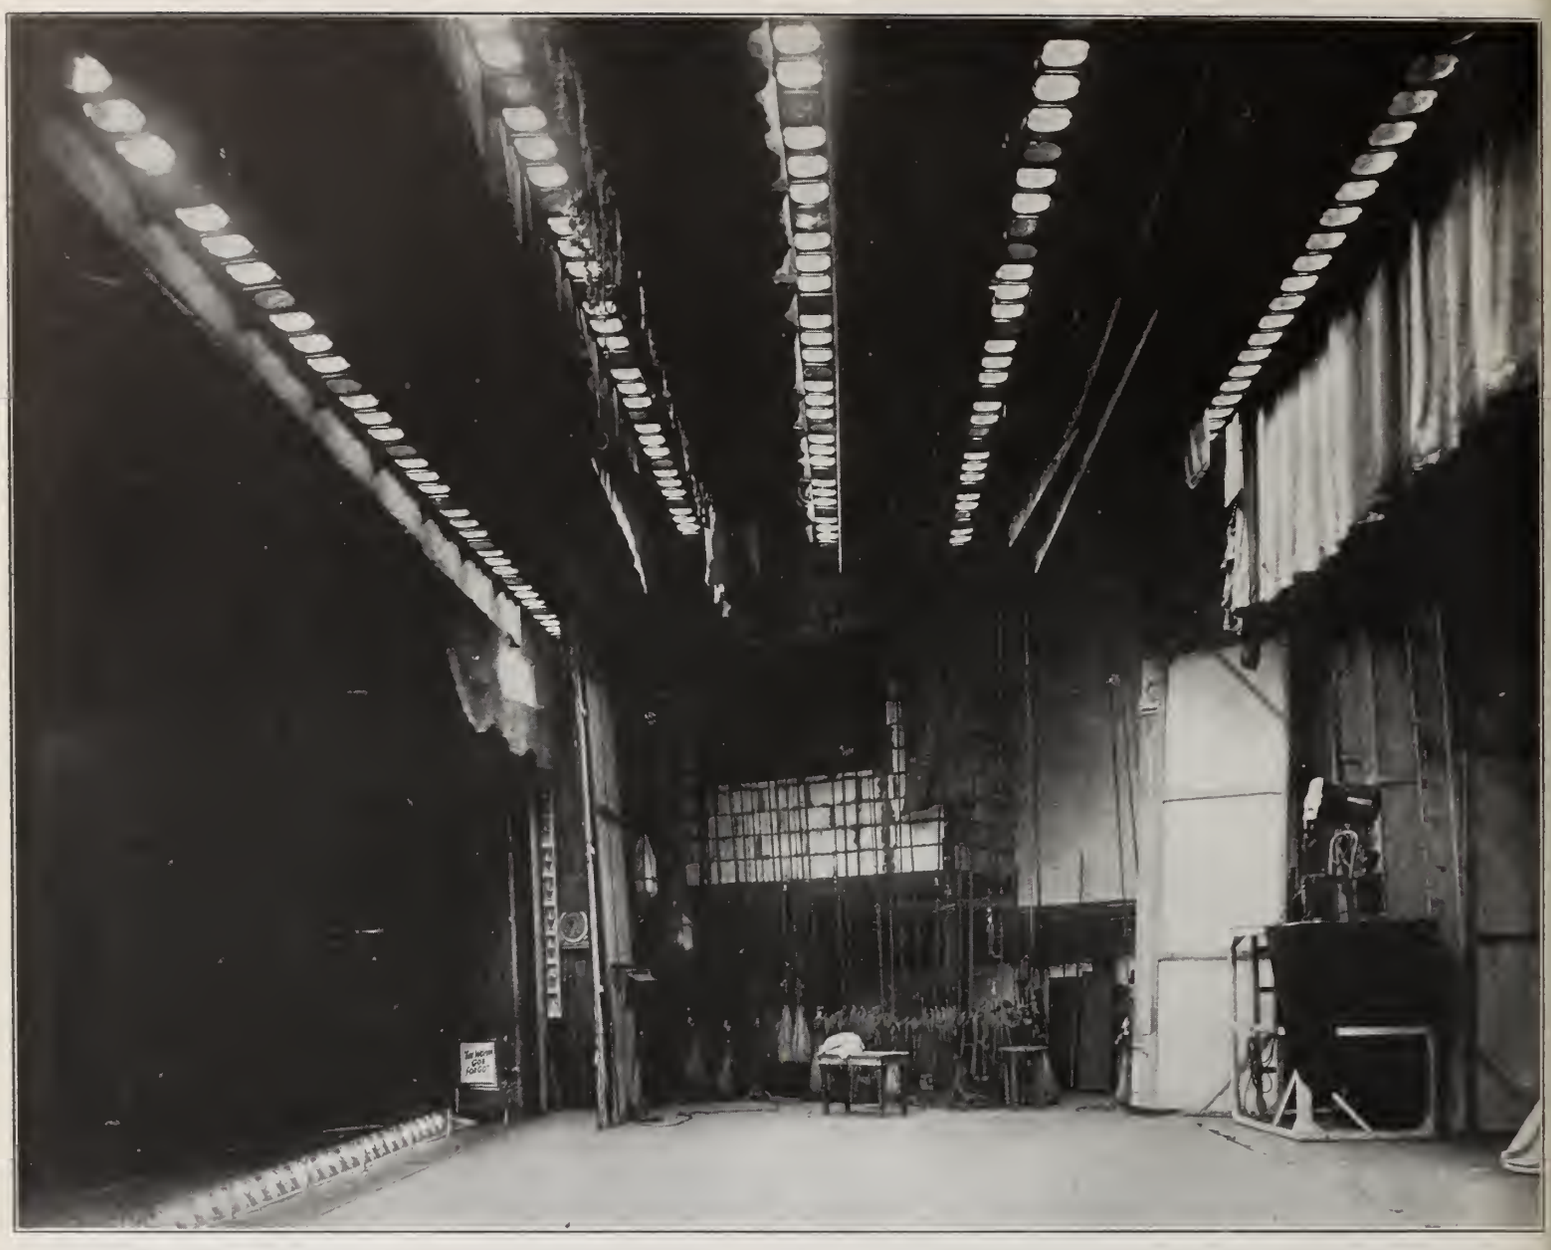

Figure 2—View of stage with individual reflectors of the mirrored glass type used in the foot, proscenium and border lights. Gelatin color screens are used to obtain color modification

When it is desired to draw the attention of the audience to an individual performer, a group of performers, or a special part of the scene, it is common practice to illuminate this area to a very high intensity of light relative to the surroundings. This is accomplished by means of the spot lamp which directs a strong, concentrated beam of light. The spot lamp is fitted with a lens which enables the operator to adjust the size of the spot at will. For the very highest intensity the hand-fed open arc is necessary. For lower intensities concentrated filament (floodlighting) Mazda C lamps are suitable. The standard form of spot lamp is pictured in Figure 4, page 1528. This particular equipment uses a Mazda C lamp. The direction of the beam can be changed at will and a performer moving about the stage "followed with the spot." The handle at the base of the housing permits one to move the lamp toward or away from the lens, enlarging or decreasing the size of the spot. Color modification is obtained by the so-called color wheel shown in place with individual gelatin screens fitting in grooves directly in front of the lens.

One of the most useful recent developments in stage lighting equipment is the suspension type spot lamp pictured in Figure 5, page 1519. This particular device carries a 500 or 1,000 watt Mazda C floodlighting lamp and, as its name implies, is hung from the gridiron or other support. A color screen holder will be noted at the base of the unit. For high intensity work, arc spots are employed in a vertical position.

One can readily picture the effects which are produced with the general stage lighting of a moderate intensity of one color and spots of different colors of higher intensity superimposed on the general lighting. Ornamental vases, urns and decorative features of this character can be made very effective by the application of suspension type spot lamps, and in fact it is generally more desirable to bring out an individual performer with a spot lamp from overhead than by one in the balcony or "front of the house." Shadow effects are more natural and the harsh, sharply defined spot does not show up on the back drop.

Another useful device is the so-called baby spot illustrated in Figure 6, page 1519. This employs a 250 watt floodlighting Mazda C lamp. It can be plugged in at the foot lights or suspended from the borders and functions as its name indicates.

There are times when a very sharply defined spot is desirable and a piece of apparatus known as the sciopticon, or a regular stereopticon, can be used to produce this. These have an objective lens

(Continued on page 1528)

How the STRAND GAINED a patron

STRAND THEATRE
FLINT, MICH.
GEORGE BACHMAN, Architect
Speckled gray Terra Cotta

SUPPOSE you were not in the moving picture business but were a paint salesman. And suppose you had been sent to Flint, Michigan, to get a certain big order from a prominent automobile manufacturer there. You arrived at noon. After lunch you took a jitney out to the factory.

On your way out you passed several motion picture houses—plain-looking and uninviting—nothing about them to attract your attention or interest you. Then you saw the Strand,—clean, handsome and compelling. What would you say?

You'd say to yourself: "That's where I'm going tonight." And if you were asked to explain just why you favored the Strand you'd probably say: "I don't know exactly why, except I felt pretty certain that such a fine-looking theatre would be showing a good picture, and that the surroundings would be pleasant."

* * * * * *

Modern, progressive owners of motion picture houses are recognizing this attitude of the average person—and they are cashing in on it! They are building handsome, up-to-date theatres to attract the passer-by—buildings that are permanent advertisements. And their gate receipts show that this is good business.

Witness, for example, the Strand Theatre, pictured above. Here is a fine example of the up-to-date motion picture house. Faced entirely with speckled gray Terra Cotta the Strand presents an attractive appearance to the passer-by,—extends to him a cordial invitation to enter.

The fact that so many of America's most attractive theatres are faced with Terra Cotta is not surprising. Moderate in initial cost Terra Cotta is almost negligible in cost of maintenance. It is fire, weather and dirt-resistant. An occasional washing with soap and water restores the original bright surface.

If you are planning a new theatre, or merely an alteration of your present one, write and tell us about it. We can send you information which may save you time and money when you decide to build. Address National Terra Cotta Society, 1 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

TERRA COTTA

Permanent Beautiful Profitable

Olimpia theatre, Mexico, is a combination of various styles of theatre architecture to meet the requirements of a Latin country

Mexican Theatres Make Great Strides in Type of Construction

An Interesting Description of the New Olimpia House

It is very interesting to note the progress that is being made in Mexico relative to the construction of new motion theatres and the policy followed in adopting ideas quite similar to those most common in this country.

William Fait, Jr., who is manager of the new Olimpia Theatre, Mexico, and who also is a friend of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, describes in a letter this latest theatre and also gives some of the interesting experiences that he has met with while operating in Mexico. Mr. Fait writes as follows:

"As per my promise to you I am enclosing herewith photographs of the 'Olimpia' theatre, the newest and finest house in Mexico.

"The house is a combination of various styles of theatre architecture to meet the requirements of a Latin country. It is built of steel and concrete, fireproof throughout. The capacity is nearly four thousand, divided as follows: Orchestra, 2,000; boxes, 250; balcony, 800, and gallery, 850. The decorations are a combination of dark blue, light green and ivory with gold relief, almost an impossible combination to visualize, but which has worked out to one of the most beautiful decorative effects that I have ever seen.

"There are four separate lighting systems with dimmer equipment throughout, making any lighting effect possible.

"You will note that the booth is set in the front of the balcony, which makes projection as near perfect as modern projection machines can make it.

"The stage has a forty-two-foot opening, a depth of forty feet, and is 90 feet from wall to wall.

"We are equipped with a three manual Morton organ and in addition we are using a 40-piece (count them) orchestra.

"All of the stairways and lobby decorations are of white granite. Floors of tile except in the auditorium proper.

"The picture marked Cabaret is on the front of the building on the second floor, while not yet finished, it is to be used in conjunction with the theatre as a tea room in the afternoons and cabaret at night and operated as a part of the theatre and without extra admission charge.

"We are at present playing a picture for a week which is an entirely new policy for Mexico, the usual custom being a daily change. We are also using a programme similar to that used in the best houses in the states, this being also a departure from the custom here of playing two features, a couple of comedies, and numerous subjects in order to make a three and half or four-hour programme. Thus far we are encouraged, although it means an educational campaign and possible loss for a time.

"Have been presenting the feature picture with prologue, another innovation in Mexico, which is being well received. However, the production of prologues here is rather a different proposition than in New York. There is no such animal here as a booking agency, no concert bureaus, no vaudeville agencies, no costumers, no music house with any library to speak of, and very little professional talent. Imagine then if you can the difficulties connected with each attempt at a prologue. Before I came to Mexico I thought I had done everything in a 'showshop' but play the piano, but I have since learned that there were several positions I had not occupied, including Vocal Instructor (I can't sing a note), Ballet Master

(Continued on page 1524)

REPUBLIC THEATRE

GRAND OPENING
OCT. 27TH 1921
BROOKLYN, N.Y.

GRAND AND KEAP STREETS

THE REPUBLIC

A GREAT NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE ACCOMMODATING OVER 3,500—ONE OF THE LARGEST AND FINEST MOTION PICTURE THEATRES IN NEW YORK CITY

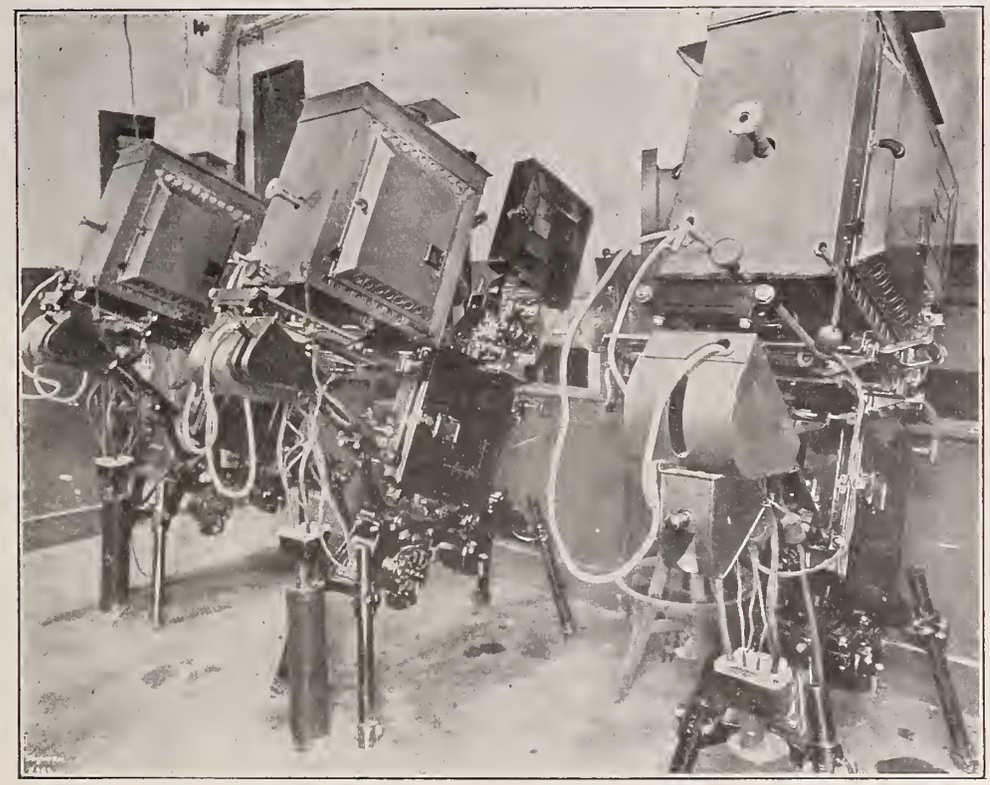
SINCE ITS OPENING HAS USED

POWER'S G. E. LAMP

WITH

POWER'S PROJECTORS

IN CONTINUOUS, PRACTICAL AND SUCCESSFUL OPERATION



POWER'S PROJECTORS

WITH

POWER'S G. E. HIGH INTENSITY ARC LAMP

REPUBLIC THEATRE, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK CITY

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
INCORPORATED
EDWARD EARL, PRESIDENT
NINETY GOLD ST. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Olimpia theatre, Mexico, the new 4,000-esat house that is now playing a new policy for Mexico; showing one picture for an entire week

(Continued from page 1522)

(the best I can do is a one-legged jig), designer and wardrobe mistress, not to mention a few minor duties such as callboy and dresser. Thanks to Harry Chaffee, of Local No. 1, I. A. T. S. E., who is here on the job, I have not had to build and paint my own scenery.

"However, I am having a lot of new experiences, working like a dog and enjoying and for the time being at least I wouldn't trade jobs with Sam Rothafel, Joe Plunkett, Dr. Riesenfeld, Harold Franklin, or any of the balance of the celebrities who occupy Who's Who and "What the Big Boys Are Doing" pages of the Motion Picture News.

"This letter has been written in sections in my off times between 1 and 6 A. M. (having no English stenog. excepting one who has to rewrite at least three times and whose letters you then can't understand except you have a fairly good knowledge of Spanish) by the new two-fingered Corona system, known as 'Put and Take.' If therefore there is anything contained herein that you don't understand; or that is not entirely clear to you, take a guess at it, you'll be as near right as I would be if I read it over and corrected it at 3 A. M.

"With very kind regards.

William Fait, Jr."

Radio Phone Installed in Theatre Prove Successful Venture

Apparently there is to be no limit to the usefulness and entertainment value of the radio phone. The Ascher Brothers, owners of the Palace Theatre, Peoria, Ill., are probably the first to make use of this medium as an added attraction for their theatre. It is difficult to estimate the importance this mode of entertainment will have in our theatres in the future. While the radio phone is as yet in a relatively experimental stage, the exceedingly gratifying results so far obtained indicate its unlimited possibilities.

From the following article appearing in the Peoria Journal, it appears that this pioneer attempt would prove successful:

"The joys of a radiophone are no longer confined to the home or workshop in Peoria.

"This city is among the first in the country to offer wireless telephone entertainment in a theatre.

"The first entertainment of the kind here was given last night before 900 amazed theatregoers when Aschers' Palace theatre tested a large radio receiver, installed behind the stage during the last six weeks, as an additional number on its entertainment bill.

"Although the program, which The Journal-Transcript radio news bulletins sent from th J.-T. radio department to Bradley Institute ar broadcast via the radiophone by Professor J G. Shalkhauser, was not heard distinctly i every part, the theatre management gave th device a trial last night and tonight promis a clear radio number to its patrons. The radi stunt had been unannounced, and the squeal and howls from the machine as Langfor Bourland, a member of Peoria Radio Clu "tuned in" the communications, as well as th portion of the bulletins heard, took the audienc by surprise.

"The idea for installation of a radiophone i the theatre, that the public might keep up wit the rapid advance of radio science sweepin the country was devised in January. The ide was caught up and formulated by Richard Rob ertson, special representative of Ascher Broth ers, Chicago, and brought to the Palace theatr here. For weeks Mr. Robertson and Professo Shalkhauser, an authority on the radiophone worked to develop it.

"Tense interest held the audience when th first words caught from the air by the hig aerial, the best to be obtained, were issued ou

Announcing the Fastest Film ever manufactured

EASTMAN NEGATIVE FILM

Super Speed

Super Speed Film practically eliminates under-exposure. It is ideal for ultra-speed, slow-motion photography; for interiors that are poorly illuminated; for dull days on location.

When unfavorable conditions spell failure, Super Speed Film spells Success.

Price 4½ cents per foot, perforated

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

View of the auditorium and tea room of the new Olimpia theatre, Mexico. This auxilary room will also be used for cabaret from a loud speaker device with which the apparatus is equipped. A portion of the program was distorted from lack of accuracy on the part of the operator in judging the proper tone for so large an audience and by the newness of the venture. Tonight, however, Professor Shalkhauser will operate the receiver and tests will have been made to assure the "listeners" an audible number in every part.

"The Peoria Radio club will attend in body the radio program to be offered at the Palace tonight.

"The invitation was extended Ernest Stidham, president of the club, and the membership of sixty radio enthusiasts, by Robertson.

"Much interest in the radio-theatre project here has been shown by radio fans. President Stidham this morning expressed his delight in the interest taken by the theatre."

Motiograph Machines for Senate Theatre

Lubliner & Trinz's 3,200-seat Senate Theatre is the latest of the big Chicago motion picture palaces to be equipped with the new Motiograph De Luxe machines, the Amusement Supply Company having just completed the installation of four projectors, three in the booth and one in the projection room.

Owing to the extreme length of the throw, 202 feet, an unusually powerful light is necessary in order to obtain adequate illumination on the screen, and the new Motiographs De Luxe, which have been installed, are equipped with the new De Luxe House and Arc Lamp, which have just been perfected by the Enterprise Optical Manufacturing Company. This is a much larger lamp house than the company has been furnishing heretofore, with its regular Motiograph De Luxe equipment, as will be realized from the following dimensions:

From floor to top of new lamp, 22⅞" (inside measurements). From front wall to back wall, 19⅞". From side wall to side wall, 12".

The De Lux Arc Lamp is made much heavier than the carbon arc lamp, previously in use, the engineer in making this new arc having in mind the heavy amperage, such as the Senate is using, from 125 to 140 amperes.

Another interesting feature of this new lamp is the arc striker, which enables the operator to strike his arc without throwing the lamp out of alignment.

Head Electrician Joseph Leahy and Operators Edward Kappel, Frank Hassett, Walter Mulvihill, Harry Sommer and William Hassett, report themselves as very much pleased, not only with the steadiness and ease of operation of the Motiograph De Luxe, but also are enthusiastic over the convenience and illumination given by the new Lamp House and Light.

The brilliancy, depth and steadiness of the pictures shown on the Senate screen by the new Motiograph De Luxe projectors has caused a large amount of favorable comment by patrons of this big house, who have expressed themselves as delighted with the projection.

Projection room of Lubliner & Trinz's 3,200-seat Senate theatre, Chicago, equipped with Motiograph projectors

Marr and Colton's New Bulletin

The Marr & Colton Company, builders of theatre organs, have published a new bulletin on their product. This publication is intended to give a short description of their organ and organization.

New Combination House for Idaho

Pocatello, Idaho, is to have a new $250,000 combination picture and show house. It will be built entirely by local capital. C. M. Lewis, manager of the Colonial Theatre in Idaho Falls, is now promoting the new enterprise.—HUNT.

MOTIOGRAPH DeLuxe

Again!

MOTIOGRAPH DeLuxe

WINS

In competitive tests

CHICAGO'S

SENATE

LUBLINER & TRINZ'S LARGEST THEATRE
SEATING 3500 COSTING OVER A MILLION DOLLARS IS NOW USING

4 NEW MOTIOGRAPH DeLuxe

Quality Counts!

Watch announcements for other installations

BEAUTY SIMPLICITY BETTER PICTURES! SILENCE DURABILITY EASE OF OPERATION!

ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
564 W. Randolph St.
CHICAGO

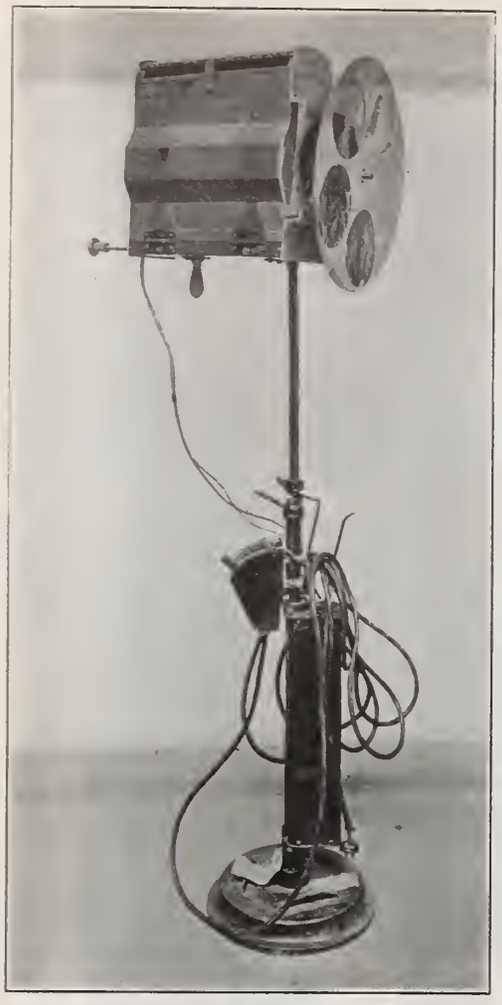

Figure 4—A lens spot lamp for 1000 watt concentrated filament Mazda C lamp. Revolving color wheel with gelatin screens will be noted, as well as a small dimmer for individual control. The handle at the rear of the lamp enables one to change the size of spot at will

Scheiblein Visits Simplex Factory

R. Scheiblein, Supervisor of Projection Equipment for the Stanley Company of America, Philadelphia, Pa., was a recent visitor to the Simplex factory, located in New York City. Mr. Scheiblein, however, is by no means a stranger to New York, he having spent considerable time here once before, taking a course of instruction under the Simplex factory experts in repairing and assembling of the Simplex mechanisms, previous to taking charge of the repair department of the Stanley Company of America.

The Stanley Company of America use many Simplex projectors on their large circuit of theatres which are noted for their projection and comfortable surroundings. In order to maintain this high standard of projection, a room in the Market Street Theatre building, 333 Market street, was set aside some time ago, for the purpose of repairing and adjusting any equipment which might require the attention of this particular department.

The repair department is most modern in every respect and is equipped with a lathe, grinder, drill and necessary machinery, while other various tools including genuine Simplex factory tools and gauges are included in the equipment. Mr. Scheiblein states his experience with motion picture equipment dates back to 1906.

—Consider your summer ventilation.

Stage Lightning

(Continued from page 1520)

in addition to the single lens of the spot lamp. By using an opaque slide with an opening of the particular shape desired, a spot of some particular contour can be obtained. As an example of the effective use of this device, suppose a solo dancer is representing the "Spirit of St. Valentine's Day." Instead of painting the drop or cyclorama in color, this might well be of a white or some light, neutral tone, the entire stage flooded with pink light and a clear spot in the shape of a heart used to follow the dancer. The clear light would be of a sufficiently higher intensity to overcome, as one might say, the colored light and the dancer would constantly appear in a white spot. As soon as the spot moved that position would again appear pink. This is obviously more attractive than if the drop were painted pink and a spot lamp merely gave a greater brilliancy in the area of the spot. By working with uncolored drapes, applying the color in light rather than in pigment, effects far in advance of past practices can be readily obtained.

The sciopticon can be fitted with a special head containing a revolving disc which is painted in a certain manner and driven by a clockwork mechanism. This is used to produce the effect of running water, falling rain or snow, moving clouds, flames, fireworks, sand storms and innumerable special illusions.

The switchboard for controlling all the stage lights, as well as the house circuit, should be located in such a position that the electrician can view the entire scene. It should be of the dead front type, with all live parts out of reach and protected by a substantial iron net work. Each circuit should be clearly indicated by a suitable legend on the fact of the board and colored handles on the dimmers are of assistance in rapid manipulation. Dimmers should be provided to control each of the house circuits and each of the color circuits on the stage. The interlocking type of dimmer offers special advantages in convenience and smoothness of control.

Stage pockets are necessary in all parts of the stage floor for plugging in bunch lights, spot lamps and other appliances. Pockets of high current carrying capacity should also be provided in the balcony for "front of house" spot lamps and floodlights.

In planning stage lighting one should keep in mind the general principles of the action of colored light on colored objects, as pointed out in the article which appeared in the February 4 issue. By the application of these principles one set can be used for two or more scenes by manipulation of lights, avoiding the necessity for changing scenery. For many types of productions very little painted scenery is necessary. Colored lights can be used to obtain all the effects desired. It will be found that much more artistic and subtle gradations of tint are possible than when the attempt is made to produce these by the brush. Ingenuity and appreciation of the fundamental principles and experimentations alone are necessary.

Figure 3—The bunch open box or Olivette floodlight with 1000 watt Mazda C lamp. Grooves are provided for carrying gelatin color screens

Projectionists' Union Holds Ball

The first annual ball of the Motion Picture Operators' Union of Harrisburg, Pa., and vicinity, was held on the night of February 20th in Willa Garden, Harrisburg.

The Alma Sisters appeared as a special attraction and two orchestras played alternately for continuous dancing. The grand march at 11 o'clock was led by the Alma Sisters, who later distributed souvenirs. Oriental dances were given by Sydney Boyd of Philadelphia. Through electrical effects, a "snow storm" took place during a one step. At another time a "rainbow" effect was spread over the floor. Motion pictures were thrown upon a temporary screen during the program, the operators having selected a comedy picture for the occasion, and Robert Fohl, vocalist at the Majestic theatre, sang.

The general committee in charge consisted of C. J. Jones, chairman, of the Family theatre; T. W. Smith, of the Colonial; E. Z. Yost, Victoria; L. J. Katz, Majestic; Paul Patterson, Victoria; Charles Clouser, Star.

Theatre Changes Owners

G. C. Wallace, a well-known young business man of San Saba County, Texas, has purchased from Gardner & Page the Happy Hour theatre, Loureta's popular play house.—M. P. J.

We have been telling week after week about important theatres installing our screen because it shows a better picture but we failed to tell you

RAVEN HAFTONE SCREEN

CAN BE EASILY WASHED AND STAND ROUGH HANDLING

Raven Screen Corporation
ONE SIXTY FIVE BROADWAY, NEW YORK

for the hard jobs you need a

Kino Hypar Lens

It has the speed, brilliancy and crisp definition that give results even under poor lighting conditions.

Round Closing Dissolves and Vignetting Shutter is useful in making fade-aways or bust pictures.

Ask your dealer.

C. P. GOERZ AMERICAN OPTICAL CO.
317J East 34th Street New York City
22-9

GOERZ

H. ROBINS BURROUGHS

M. AM. SOC. C. E.
CONSULTING ENGINEER
THEATRE SPECIALIST

Structural Investigations and Reports on Existing Theatres

469 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

CUT YOUR COSTS IN TWO

INSTALL
CORCORAN'S DEVELOPING TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc.
753 Jersey Avenue Jersey City, N. J.

TransVerteR

Produces Perfect Arcs

TRANSVERTER permits the most artistic projection of pictures.

Double Arc TransVerteR provides two arcs in series, simultaneously, thus making possible a perfect dissolve.

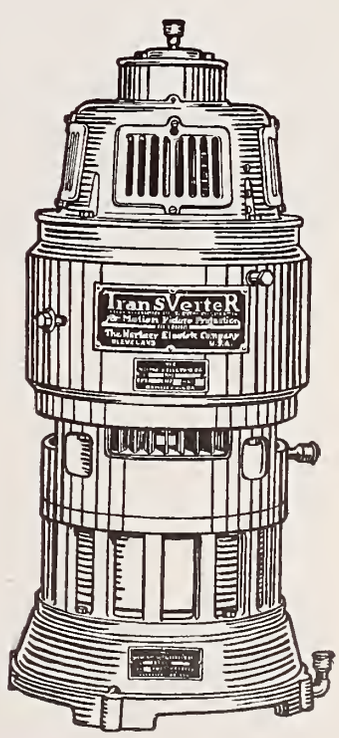
No ballast is used as automatic voltage is provided.

The projectionist, by a slight turn of a convenient control handle, can instantly increase or decrease the amperage generated and furnished to the arc, thus obtaining the light best adapted for the film being shown.

Improve your projection and your attendance and profits will grow accordingly.

TRANSVERTER will do it.

THE HERTNER ELECTRIC CO.
1900 W. 112th St.
Cleveland, Ohio



National Anti-Misframe League Forum

Dear Editor:

As I have changed jobs several times since I joined the N. A. M. L. League, I am writing in to inform you of my present location, so that I may be put on the new mailing list.

The theatre in which I am now working has a seating capacity of about four hundred. Although this is a small town we are running the newest and latest productions obtainable. The most of the pictures that I run are sent to me from other theatres, the majority of which are in good condition. In case that they are not, why you may rest assured that No. 1415 gets busy and when he gets through you can bet they are all O. K.

My operating room is about 15 ft. wide and 10 ft. deep, with the ceiling 8 ft. above the floor, it's not any too large, but I have enough room to move around. It is equipped with two Simplex projectors which have been in use for about five years and are still running good. A little later I want to send in a photo of my booth and some sketches of a few things I have rigged up myself to help me in performing my duties.

I want to say that I think Bro. Burnett's idea of making a changeover is fine. I have been using this method of changeover for quite a while and I have found it the best of all so far. Furthermore, I firmly believe that after an operator gives this method a trial, why he will refrain from using other methods where he will have to use stickers, punch holes, tin foil or scratch marks.

Regarding the New Membership Buttons, I for one would be glad if the League would adopt this bronze button, it would show up and looks much better than the old button. I feel quite sure that the members of the N. A. M. L. would not kick about the price.

I have used nearly all my labels and wish that you would send me some more.

I think the N. A. M. L. is the best league going for the betterment of projection. I hope it won't be long before it will be 100 per cent. strong; just remember that here's one who will always be doing all that he can to help his fellow projectionists and the N. A. M. L.

Very sincerely yours,

JAMES W. BRYAN,

N. A. M. L. No. 1415, Idle Hour Theatre.

Let's Shoot!

Come on, fellows, let's put some more pep in the Forum. Undoubtedly all of us are enjoying the revival the league is now having and let's keep it going a little faster every week. Write in about your problems. Have you questions on electricity or mathematical problems you want solved? Shoot them in, that's what the league is for.

Dear Sir:

For some time I have read after the N. A. M. L., but have never taken any part in it myself, though I have been benefited much by some of the explanations in it and think it a wonderful thing.

I think that 90 per cent. of the film trouble is caused by the operators. How many have been in an exchange and seen the inspection going on? I have been an operator for ten years and as yet I have my first time to go in an operating room where as much was taken of the films as in the exchange. Of course, there are weak places in all things and sometimes an inspector is not what she should be, but usually she soon loses her job. Sometimes the film gets in too late to be inspected before going out. I have received films from other operators that I have lost a night's sleep repairing before sending to a brother operator. These fellows are (maybe), few in number, but it takes just a few to give us a lot of trouble. And we need to get in after them. Find them and report it to the exchanges. This will eliminate just a lot of film trouble.

Where I am now operating I am acting as house manager and chief operator. My operating room is 16 feet by 20 and is equipped with two type S Simplex machines, steel film case for sixteen reels, motor rewind, W. H. motor generator set. The booth is of 20 gage steel, cement floor. The house seats 500, in a town of 4,500, all wiring in steel cables, switches in steel switch box.

I am enclosing application blank which I trust will be accepted. I am in for better projection. As for the membership buttons, I am sure any operator had rather pay the price and have a nicer button. Yours to assist and learn,

L. M. NEELY,

Liberty Theatre, Attalla, Ala.

Dear Editor:

I guess it will seem peculiar for an assistant projectionist to join the league, but I wanted to get an early start. Although I am only seventeen years old, I have had three years' experience in the booth.

To get to facts I am going to take up the subject of which a brother member brought up on the correct place on the shaft to set the shutter. The brother said the correct place to set it was where the spot was the smallest. I want to ask him how it may be done on Powers 6b machines. The shutter shaft on Powers extends only about six inches from the base of the machine.

If this can be done on Powers there will have to add about six more inches to the shutter shaft.

Let's have a discussion.

Yours truly,

TRUE E. ANDERSON.

N. A. M. L. No. 1626, Community Theatre, Russellville, Ark.

Brother Anderson is certainly welcome to the league as a conscientious assistant projectionist is in a position to push our ideals just as well as anyone else.—ED.

Gentlemen:—

Inclosed you will find my application for membership of the Misframe League. Although I have always taken the best of care of the films that we receive—or that we have used in our circuit, an organization like this is a system that I have waited a long time to see, and now that it has its start I would like to see every operator in the United States join. If any operator refuses to join, it shows that he is not interested in the work and he should not be connected with the work.

There is one question that I would like to ask, and that is: Why won't our exchanges cooperate with us and help us take care of their films and keep them in the best condition possible? They may answer and tell us that they do, but THEY CERTAINLY DO NOT. I dare say that 95 per cent. of the films that we use in our circuit are not in perfect shape. There will always be some defects that will attract attention of the audience. It has been a long time since I've seen a picture that does not have a misframe in or some defect. Of course if all operators would do what we do in our office or our other theatres, we would have less trouble. As soon as films reach us we rewind them and take cues from it so we can

(Continued on page 1532)

NATIONAL ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE PLEDGE

AS a motion picture projectionist who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the projection-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in reasonably good condition, according to conditions of film when received. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother projectionists and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Blank for New League Members

Member's Name.....

Home Address.....

Theatre.....

Name and Address of Theatre Manager.....

.....

TAX FREE

MO-NA-LU

The Ballad of a Million Homes

SEND FOR FREE PROFESSIONAL COPIES

BELWIN INCORPORATED
701 Seventh Avenue
New York, N. Y.

The Peerless
The Completely Automatic
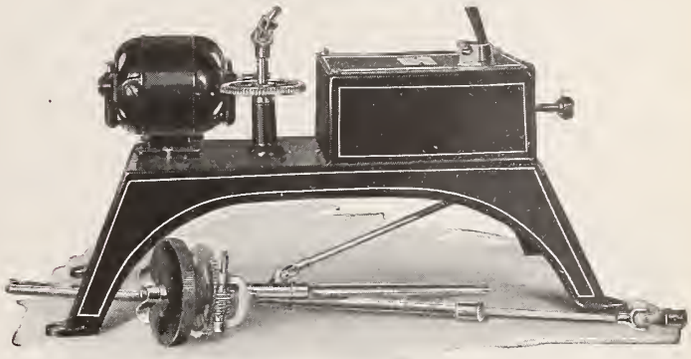
ARC CONTROL



"The Watch Dog of the Arc"

—AND OF COURSE—
America's Finest Theatre—the new four million dollar
CHICAGO THEATRE
uses PEERLESS Automatic Arc Controls
Essential to perfect projection
Write for circular
MANUFACTURED BY
THE J. E. McAULEY MFG. CO.
30 N. Jefferson St. Chicago

LIBMAN-SPANJER CORP.
BUILDERS OF LOBBY FRAMES DE LUXE
CHANGEABLE SIGNS
TICKET BOXES
TICKET BOOTHS
FOYER LAMPS, ETC.
Factory: NEWARK, N. J.
Office: NEW YORK
Factory: CHICAGO, ILL.
1600 Broadway

MONSOON
HEATING
VENTILATING
COOLING

Let the theatre ventilation specialists tell you how —
Send Today for Booklet 7

MONSOON COOLING SYSTEM INC.
1476 BROADWAY NEW YORK, N.Y.

EFFICIENCY AND SERVICE
ALPHA SCREENS
For Highest Standard Projection
SCREENS AND FRAMES
For All Purposes
Write for Prices on STEREO-RADIANT EXCEL-SILVER
BROM-SILVER
SUPERFINE WHITE
} SCREENS
THE ALPHA MOTION PICTURE CO.
23 Grant Street Stratford, Ontario, Canada

N. A. M. L. FORUM

(Continued from page 1530)

make better blends, and it is very seldom that we don't use a few feet of leaders that we use to place on the beginnings and the ending of reels. It may be impossible to find a misframe in rewinding, but the first time that the pictures get on our screen we watch it and when we catch a misframe we place a small piece of paper in the lower magazine, so that when we rewind it we can find the trouble. Some operators will tell you that it is impossible to catch a misframe in a dark piece of film, but if he will count the sprocket holes four to each picture you can soon straighten it out, or at least locate it. Do you realize that there are going to be thousands of people see the picture after you have used it, and what you can accomplish by taking it out with but a minute's work? Just give it a little thought.

I think that if we operators get together and try to take care of the film, that we don't have to depend on exchanges to inspect their film. I maintain that there is one draw back to most of our operators and that is that they have some helper or some one in the room to bother them. You can run a much better show if you leave your friends down stairs. There is only one way to get a thing done in this work and that is to DO IT YOURSELF, and it will be done. An operator that wants some one to talk in the room should be done away with.

I have been an operator for nine years and it seems all my life, but I like it much better every day. Hoping that you will accept my application for a member and; that I will get in touch with all our operators in the circuit to join, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

THYS WINKEL,

Chief of Kinema Projectionists.

DEAR EDITOR:

When reading the N. A. M. L. Forum I notice that you want to hear from all members in regard to membership buttons. I am very much in favor of the bronze metal buttons and I am willing to pay fifty cents for one, and I would like to know when you get them so I can order mine. I haven't belonged to the league very long, but I know that it is going to be a big help to me. I have got film that looked like it had never been inspected since the day it was released, and I had to work six hours on one box to get it in shape to run, but since the exchange sees that I am a member they have been sending us film that have been inspected by some other member. If there is anything I can do to help some other member, I am, Yours for better projection,

DONOVAN MALLORY.

N. A. M. L., No. 1604, Racine, Ohio.

Dear Ed.:

Bert Mellinger's idea for changeovers is the best and the most simplest I ever saw. I have been using the same Idea for some time and find it sure and simple. I did not send in the idea because I was not the originator.

It cannot get caught in the film after it has dropped because it is so light that the least pressure forces it away. The signal is placed 2 or 3 feet from the end and therefore has no chance of doing any harm, at least I have never encountered any trouble. The possibility of slipping through the rollers has happened to me a few times but very seldom. No harm was done except the signal fell through to the bottom of the head.

Regarding bronze buttons for the members is a very good idea and the charge of twenty-five cents is so small that no one should kick, but dig down each and every member and make this league a success. I for one agree to the charge and get a bronze button instead of celluloid. Now all together boys shoot. Hoping this idea goes over the top. I remain,

Yours truly,

S. MESSINGER,

N. A. M. L. No. 1547.

Dear Sir:

Having become interested in the N. A. M. L. through reading about it in the "News," I would like very much to join if eligible.

I have been assistant operator in this theatre for the past two years and intend getting my license as soon as I am old enough. I am very much interested in projection and the Forum has certainly offered some valuable information along this line.

If I am eligible you will find enclosed my application blank already filled out.

Yours respectfully,

DAVID HUNTER,

Elite Theatre,

Philadelphia.

Dear Sir:

DEAR EDITOR:

Enclosed find application for membership in the N. A. M. L. The league is a great thing, not only for us, but for the producers as well. Would like to have membership button. I think the price of them is small and every one should have one. Just as soon as the buttons are ready, I will send the money for same.

Yours truly,

GEORGE A. GIBSON, Operator.

Gem Theatre, De Witt, Ark.

Projectionists:

The News will solve technical problems, gratis.

DEAR SIR:

I noticed your inquiry about the new N. A. M. L. membership buttons. I am sure all of the boys would rather have a better button, but since this league is for the general improvement of projection and not only to repair misframes, I suggest the name be changed to something like National Association for the Improvement of Projection.

Yours very sincerely,

JOSEPH STULL.

2203 St. Antoine St., Detroit, Mich.

N. A. M. L. 1014.

What do the other fellows think about this? —EDITOR.

Dear Sir:

I am sending in my application and wish to join the N. A. M. L. I have been reading about the League and wish to say that I believe it is a good thing.

At present I am keeping good films, but have received some bad ones with punch holes, misframes and bad patches. I have been operating for the past four years, and have studied the conditions of the films, and if the operators don't do something the company will.

Very truly yours,

TROMAN STEPHENS.

Box 94, Gorman, Texas.

GENTLEMEN:

I have just looked over some of the letters written by brother operators and think that it is about time I should join the Anti-Misframe League. I have only been in the game a short time, but have always tried to show an interest in my work. I have every kind of up-to-date equipment that a booth requires for good projection, and also many ideas that might help all brothers in the league. Hoping my application is accepted, I am,

Yours for better projection,

LESTER E. BROWN.

Box 43, Buhl, Idaho.

I am projectionist at Orpheum Theatre, Connellsville, Pa., and would like to join the League. I have been receiving some very bad films and I think the N. A. M. L. is a very good thing. We have some projectionists around here that use punch marks and ruin the film, so I think I will join the league and try to make it easy for others. I remain.

CHANGE OVER SIGNALS $7.50

For Powers or Simplex

The Behlen signals give two warnings at reel ends. Attached to projector in two minutes. No adjustments. This special price offer ends May 15th, 1922. Descriptive literature sent upon request.

C. C. RUSH ENTERPRISES, Greenville, S. C.

Eastern Dealers
INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
New York City.....729 Seventh Ave.
Albany.....42 Orange St.
Buffalo.....464 Pearl St.
New Haven.....131 Meadow St.

U. S. and Foreign Pats. Pending

A NEW INVENTION!!

This new electrical Vacant Seat Indicator is carried by the usher and enables her from her position in the aisle to signal to waiting patrons just how many vacant seats there are and whether singles, doubles, three together, etc. Enables seating largest crowds in only fraction of time now required; eliminates ushers constant walking up and down aisles and disturbing patrons; super-service yet unknown; retains old patrons and makes new ones; increases box office receipts. Inexpensive; finely finished; efficient. If your competitors are not yet using it, don't let them beat you to it! Costs very little, yet worth thousands to you. Write us now.

(Some fine territory still open for distributors)

GUERIN THEATRE SEATING SYSTEM, INC., 903 New Hibernia Bldg., New Orleans, La.

Everything for the Motion Picture Theatre

Carbons Condensing lenses Poster strips
Tickets Cement Thumb tacks, etc.
Our Motto: "Your Money's Worth or Your Money Back"
For quick service and reliable goods send your order to
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
We are the oldest Supply House in the motion picture trade
746 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.
Write today for our latest bulletin

USE Reco COLOR HOODS
Instead of Dipped Lamps
Infinitely Better, More Lasting and Cheaper in the Long Run
Made of Natural Colored Blown Glass
Do Not Fade or Wear Out
For 5-10 W. and 25-40 W. Lamps
REYNOLDS ELECTRIC CO.
2650 W. Congress St. - - Chicago, Ill

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated of existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving of from 20 to 50% in postage, etc.
MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
244 West 42nd St. Phone, Bryant 8138 New York
Addressing Printing

Motion Picture News
Serves
The Exhibitor

Site for New Motion Picture Theatre

Seth Mosely and H. E. Blanchard of Norfolk, Conn., have just consummated a deal at Winsted, Conn., whereby they secure J. H. Alvord's Main street store property as a site for a new motion picture theatre. The new owners announce their intention of immediately starting construction of a theatre building. The property is located in the heart of Winsted's business center, between the post office and the telephone exchange. Less than a month ago plans were comyleted by a local company, headed by Stephen Mulcahy, to build a motion picture house on the opposite side of the telephone exchange. It is considered unlikely by Winsted people that both theatres will be constructed. —AGARD.

New Orpheum Opens

Another beautiful theatre, the Orpheum, has been opened at Fergus Falls, Minn. It was constructed by the Orpheum Theatre Company and presented "The Inner Chamber," featuring Alice Joyce and four acts of vaudeville on the initial program. The Orpheum seats 684 and is of veneered brick construction. A 25 foot stage, large enough to accommodate any road show and dressing rooms equipped with shower baths are features of the theatre. Gaudiness is missing in the beautiful, simple decorations. The simplicity enhances the pleasing and artistic effect of the whole. Frank McCarthy, of McCarthy Bros., well known Dakota theatrical men, is manager of the Orpheum, Wise.

House Thoroughly Remodeled

Manager J. B. Mason, of the Dream theatre, San Diego, has been thoroughly remodeling the house, improving it from front to rear. He has also had installed an organ at a cost of some $8.000. The Dream is one of the most popular of the low-priced motion picture theatres in the city.

Business Offerings

EXPERIENCED ORCHESTRA LEADER (Violinist), having his own accompanist and large repertoire for pictures, is open for engagement. Free to go anywhere. Could also take over full charge of theatre. Highest references. Address Marcel Verney, 62 St. John St., Quebec, Canada.

Motion Picture Operator, 15 years' experience, wants position at once. Reference: Birth of Nation, Intolerance. Wire or write Barney Ludesher, 114 West 47th Street, Cornell Hotel, New York City.

RADIO-MAT PATENTED
RADIO-MAT SLIDE CO. MAKERS
TALK from your screen
WITH your quickly
TYPEWRITTEN MESSAGES
60 RADIO MAT SLIDES $2.
Accept no Substitute.
121 W. 42ND ST. NEW YORK
For Sale by all Leading Dealers

Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE AND LEGITIMATE THEATRES

22166 Moving Picture by States, per M.	$5.00
1219 Film Exchanges, for List	7.50
196 Manufacturers and Studios	3.50
419 Machine and Supply Dealers	4.00
3674 Legitimate Theatres U. S. and Canada	25.00
810 Vaudeville Theatres	7.50

A. F. WILLIAMS
166 W. Adams Street Chicago

FOR BETTER MUSIC
THE FOTOPLAYER
THE AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY
64 E. JACKSON BOULEVARD CHICAGO, ILL.
109 GOLDEN GATE AVENUE SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

LATEST ACHIEVEMENT
In Ticket Selling Machines
THE NEW 1922
AUTOMATICKET REGISTER
Send for prices and full particulars
AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER CORPORATION
1782 Broadway New York

Rebuilt Motion Picture Machines
Results—Same as new Machines

Motiograph 1002 D - -	$185.00
Motiograph 1002 A - -	165.00

Everything for the exhibitor
MONARCH THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
228 Union Avenue Memphis, Tenn.

IF YOU NEED TICKETS
ROLL OR COUPON—Just mail this advertisement to us. We will send you samples, price list and "the order blank that prevents costly errors."
COLUMBIA PRINTING CO.
1634 N. HALSTED ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY
1044 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS, LA.
345 WEST 39TH ST. NEW YORK CITY
255 NO. 13TH ST., PHILADELPHIA PA.
64 W. RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

Michigan's Newest Theatre Simplexized

With the Paramount production of the "Sheik" as the principal feature, the new Bridgman Theatre, Bridgman, Mich., was formally opened to an enthusiastic audience on January 20th. The theatre has been equipped with the most modern appliances, including a $10,000 pipe organ, and it is said to be one of the finest little theatres in the State of Michigan in the way of decorations, comfort and equipment.

The equipment in the projection room, which was installed by the Michigan Motion Picture Supply Company of Detroit, Michigan, exclusive distributors for the Simplex products in Michigan, consists of two Type "S" Motor Driven Simplex Projectors equipped with Snaplite Lenses which project the picture on a Gardiner Velvet Gold Fibre Screen. R. O. Bassett is the projectionist.

The builders of this model little picture palace are F. W. Gast and O. A. D. Baldwin, bankers of Bridgman, Mich.

Mammoth Coliseum to Show Superfeatures

The New Coliseum, 750 box seats and seating capacity of 5,175 was opened at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Jan. 15, with "The Merry Widow" as the opening attraction. Special Super feature pictures, operas, musical recitals, large road attractions and other large gatherings including stock and automobile shows will be shown in the New Coliseum as the necessity demands.

The building is located near the big arch in Packington. It is 160 x 250 feet in dimensions. The stage is as high as an eight story building, from floor of basement to roof. Fire protection has been assured by twelve lines of 2½ inch hose. There are eight dressing rooms, all above the stage, each furnished with hot and cold water. The heating plant consists of a 10 inch steam pipe from the Morris Packing plant and a 6-inch return water pipe. The heating system alone cost $25,883 and is guaranteed by contract to heat the building to 70 degrees when it is zero weather outside. The pipes run in a concrete tunnel. There is 18,000 feet of radiation in the building, more than in any other building in the state, outside of the state capitol. The largest girder in the state is across the stage of the Coliseum, measuring sixty feet in length, six feet in height, and eight inches in width. Nineteen thousand feet of rope is required to handle the scenery. The building is of reinforced concrete and steel, three stories high and strictly up-to-date in every particular.—NOBLE.

Activities in the Southwest

J. H. Elliott, proprietor of the Queen theatre at Corpus Christie, Texas, has re-leased the theatre on Chaparral Street for a period of 25 years.

Early in the year he will completely remodel the structure, adding space to the auditorium and installing new seats to bring seating capacity to 750 persons.

J. M. Calhoun has let the contract for a new theatre to be built at Ennis, Texas, to be operated by Frank Moncka.

The Arcade theatre at Lancaster, Texas, is being overhauled, renovated and practically made new.

A new fireproof movie theatre is being built at Currie, Texas, which will be managed by McHenry and Price of Dallas, Texas.—NOBLE.

Installs Powers Projectors

Frank Davidson of the Independent Movi Supply Company's Buffalo branch, has installe Powers machines in the Victoria, Rochester and the Groveland, Groveland, N. Y.—TAY LOR.

Open Harrisburg House

A score of the leading representatives of th motion-picture industry of the country wer present at the formal opening of the new Regent Theatre, 410-412 Market street, Harris burg, as the guest of the owner and managing director, Peter Magaro, on the night of Wednes day, December 21.

The theatre was opened with addresses by Lieutenant Governor Edward E. Beidelman, o the State of Pennsylvania; Mayor George A Hoverter, of Harrisburg, and Warren R. Jack son, secretary of the Harrisburg Chamber o Commerce. An appropriate response was made by Mr. Magaro, following which the Paramoun film, "Don't Tell Everything," presented by Adolph Zukor, and played by Wallace Reid Gloria Swanson and Elliott Dexter, was thrown on the screen.

Following the performance, a banquet was tendered by Mr. Magaro to his guests in the Regent restaurant.—BERGHAUS.

Create New Marquee and Canopy Designs

The Newman Manufacturing Company of Cincinnati has just issued an attractive folder which shows their exclusive marquee designs to splendid advantage. They have created 28 marquise and sidewalk canopies which they construct in quantities.

SERVICE

Projection—Ventilating—Heating—Fire Prevention
Theatre Furnishings—Construction Material—Music—Lighting

Motion Picture News is in a position to advise any theatre owner on any equipment problem.

We are in contact with all the manufacturers.

Our Technical Department is at your service.

Consult us if you need advice or help.

McCormick Does Big Things with His "Jazz-a-Weeks"

Scenes from one of S. Barrett McCormick's elaborate "Jazz-a-Week' performances, which have been attracting attention at the Allan Theatre, Cleveland.

Music and the Picture

Synchronized Music Company Reorganized

Walter Engels Becomes President and Headquarters Established in New York

THERE has been a complete reorganization of the Synchronized Scenario Music Company personnel, which had headquarters in Chicago, with the result that the executive personnel has been changed and the head office moved to 350 Madison Avenue, New York City. The following executives are now in charge of the company: Walter Engels, President; Charles Greinert, Vice President; W. Rodman Fay, Treasurer; George M. Waugh, Secretary; M. J. Mintz, Director of Sales.

Walter Engels, President of the company, made the following statement in regard to conditions surrounding the organization and its future policy:

The Synchronized Scenario Music Company was organized to meet the demand for proper music scores to fit feature play pictures.

Heretofore Musical Directors, Pianists and Organists in Motion Picture Houses have been sorely tried to choose and adapt suitable music for their feature pictures—not only were they compelled to do this over-night, and sometimes even between performances, but frequently they had even to accompany pictures without any preparation whatever.

Another consideration was that many musicians, particularly in the smaller communities, had been laboring under serious difficulties, because they lacked experience with musical dramatic presentations, such as operas and music dramas, and thus were forced to invest pictures in a manner that would not interpret satisfactorily the moods and sequences: even when given cue-sheets, they were at a loss to know where to begin and how to end the selections chosen. Doubtless, many such musicians recall with chagrin many fruitless hours of labor which they spent thus to produce what proved to be utter disappointments or failures.

This is absolutely obviated by the method of the Synchronized. Each selection is properly cued, to fit the picture, and the director or player has merely to watch the picture about the time each next cue is due, and then proceed without further worry.

The staff of Adapters engaged by the Synchronized is without question the ablest in the world; each man has distinguished himself in the music world in general, and in picture music particularly, they are all the foremost men of the day.

A picture is reviewed by either one of them and his secretary. The titles and actions are properly cued and the time for each cue is registered from a stop-watch. The selections are then made (this work sometimes requiring days of research), after which it is properly marked and adapted. Then it gets into the hands of an expert proof-reader, who allows no slip-ups of any sort to escape him, after which it goes to the music copyists who prepare it for the press. From them it is returned to the proof-reader, who sees to it that no errors or inconsistencies have entered. Then, it goes to the press, after which the score is bound and sent out to the theatres.

The music in "Synchronized" scores is chosen from the best music available in catalogues familiar to all theatre and picture musicians. A large proportion of the selections can readily be found in every general theatre library, and when the director finds something in a "Synchronized" score that he does not possess in his library, he may accept it as a valuable suggestion, that it is something worth while to have.

Each score is arranged so that it can be played by solo pianists or organists and is supplied with a complete index of the selections used, also giving the composer's and publisher's names, and the proper successions. Thus such theatres as have orchestras, no matter how large or small, can also use the service. It saves the director the time and labor of adapting, for all he has to do is to pick off-hand from his library the suggested music or its equivalent in substitution, and he can do so with the comfortable assurance that the music is exactly the proper music through every minute of his picture.

An additional factor in this is that the "Synchronized" warning arrows and cues make it impossible for any director to misinterpret any scene or action in the picture.

Plainly, "Synchronized" scores make of every picture an opera, wherein the actors do all but the singing, while the accompanying music supplants the missing word.

A striking part of the "Synchronized" scheme is that it is in full keeping with the widespread demand for "Better music for our films." "Synchronized" brings the best music to even the smallest communities and everywhere tends to improve popular musical tastes, thereby becoming an important factor in the musical development of our country.

The sales problem of the company was taken up with M. J. Mintz, who made the following interesting observations:

The progressive exhibitor today is giving the application of music to his picture the same consideration and serious attention he does to the ventilation of his theatre. He has learned that it is one thing to bring people into his house; another, and more important thing though, to bring them in again and keep them coming.

The time has passed when the picture alone could be depended upon to draw big audiences regularly, and build up a consistent business; the correct music to fit every action, scene and mood is demanded by all audiences, not only the critical.

The exhibitor who does not believe this, has only to canvass his audience after any performance and he will learn things from the very people he caters to, that will not only astound him, but make him wonder how he lasted this long.

"The Discovery of Handel," the second of a series of twelve musical interpretations staged at the Kinema theatre, Los Angeles

FEATURE RELEASE CHART

Productions are Listed Alphabetically and by Months in which Released in order that the Exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need. Short subject and comedy releases, as well as information on pictures that are coming will be found on succeeding pages. (S. R. indicates State Right release.)

OCTOBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
All's Fair in Love	Special Cast	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 12
Barricade, The	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Oct. 15
Blind Hearts	Hobart Bosworth	First National	6 reels	Nov. 5
Bring Him In	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Nov. 12
Cinderella of the Hills	Barbara Bedford	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 5
Clay Dollars	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
Fox, The	Harry Carey	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 26
Grim Comedian, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Feb. 4
Her Social Value	K. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Jackie	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 17
Ladyfingers	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels	Oct. 22
Lady from Longacre, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
Matrimonial Web, The	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	5 reels	Nov. 5
Night Rose, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Feb. 25
Pardon My French	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 7
Parted Curtains	Henry Walthall	Warner Bros.—S.R.	5 reels	Oct. 29
Peter Ibbetson	Elsie Ferguson	Famous Players		Oct. 29
Poverty of Riches	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Dec. 10
Rip Van Winkle	Thos Jefferson	Hodkinson		Oct. 29
Rough Diamond, The	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 12
Son of Wallingford, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph	8 reels	Oct. 29
Stranger Than Fiction	Catherine M'D'nald	First National	6 reels	Dec. 17
Speed Girl, The	Bebe Daniels	Realart	6 reels	Nov. 26
Swamp, The	Sessue Hayakawa	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Nov. 12
Theodora	Rita Jolivet	Goldwyn		Oct. 29
Three Musketeers	Douglas Fairbanks	United Artists	12 reels	Sept. 10
Tropical Love	Special Cast	Asso. Exhib.	6 reels	Mar. 4
Trust Your Wife	Kath. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Feb. 11
What Love Will Do	Murphy-Walker	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 18
Woman's Place	Constance Talmadge	First National	5 reels	Oct. 29

NOVEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Alf's Button	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feb. 25
Anne of Little Smoky	Asso. Exhib.	Special Cast	5 reels	Feb. 4
Bonnie Briar Bush, The	Special Cast	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
Bucking the Line	M. (Lefty) Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 19
Call of the North	Jack Holt	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
Conflict	Priscilla Dean	Universal	7 reels	Nov. 5
Conquering Power, The	Special Cast	Metro	7 reels	July 16
Dr. Jim	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
Enchantment	Marion Davies	Paramount	6 reels	Nov. 12
False Kisses	Miss duPont	Universal	5 reels	Nov. 19
Father Tom	Special Cast	Asso. Ex.
Fidelity	Special Cast	Aywon—S. R.	5 reels
Footfalls	Special Cast	Fox	7 reels	Sept. 24
For Your Daughter's Sake	Grace Darling	I. W. Film—S. R.
Guilty Conscience, A	Antonio Moreno	Vitagraph	5 reels
Her Face Value	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Nov. 19
Hunch, The	Gareth Hughes	Metro	6 reels	Oct. 22
Hush Money	Alice Brady	Realart	6 reels	Dec. 10
Iron Trail, The	Special Cast	United Artists	7 reels	Nov. 19
Jane Eyre	Hugo Ballin Prod.	Hodkinson	7 reels	Oct. 29
Jolt, The	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Knight of the West, A	Olin Francis	W.B.M. P'play—S. R.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Ladies Must Live	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Dec. 3
Last Trail, The	Special Cast	Fox	6 reels	Feb. 11
Light in the Clearing, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love Never Dies	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love, Hate and a Woman	Grace Davison	Arrow—S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Lure of Jade, The	Pauline Frederick	Robertson-Cole	6 reels	Nov. 19
Man From Lost River, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Jan. 28
Man of Stone, The	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
Millionaire, The	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 12
Molly O	Mabel Normand	First National	6 reels	Dec. 3
Old Oaken Bucket, The	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Our Mutual Friend	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Dec. 10
Possession	Special Cast	R-C	6 reels	Nov. 12
Rainbow	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	5 reels	Dec. 24
Riding With Death	Buck Jones	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Right Way, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.—S. R.	6 reels	Nov. 12
Sheik, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	8 reels	Oct. 29
Silent Call, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Nov. 26
Silent Years	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 3
Sin of Martha Queed, The	Special Cast	Associated Exhib		Dec. 3
Single Track, The	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Feb. 4
Steelheart	Wm. Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Sept. 24
Sure Fire	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Nov.
Ten Nights In a Barroom		Arrow—S. R.		Feb. 4
There Are No Villains	Viola Dana	Metro	6 reels	Sept. 3
Tol'ble David	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Twice Born Woman, The		Asso. International	6 reels
Way of a Maid, The	Elaine Ham'rstein	Selznick	5 reels	Feb. 25
What Do Men Want?	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	6 reels	Nov. 26
The Wonderful Thing	Norma Talmadge	First National	6 reels	Nov. 19

DECEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
All For a Woman	Special Cast	First National		Dec. 17
Ashamed of Parents	Special Cast	Warner Bros.—S. R.	5 reels
Ashes	Special Cast	East C'st Prod.-S.R.	5 reels
At the Stage Door	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 24
Better Man, The	Snowy Baker	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Dec. 24
Bride's Confession, A	Rita Jolivet	Graphic—S. R.	6 reels
Cameron of the Royal Mounted	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Jan. 21
Cheated Hearts	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
Chivalrous Charley	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Dec. 10
Conceit	Special Cast	Selznick		Dec. 17
Crossing Trails	Pete Morrison	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Desert Blossoms	Wm. Russell	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
Devil Within, The	Dustin Farnum	Fox	6 reels	Dec. 3
Don't Tell Everything	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 24
Duke of Chimney Butte	Fred Stone	R-C		Dec. 10
Eden and Return	Doris May	R-C		Dec. 31
Every Man's Price	Grace Darling	Burton King—S. R.	5 reels
Exit the Vamp	Ethel Clayton	Famous Players	5 reels	Feb. 4
Fifty Candles	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Dec. 31
Fightin' Mad	Wm. Desmond	Metro	5 reels	Nov. 12
Fire Eater, The	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
First Love	Constance Binney	Realart	5 reels	Jan. 28
Flower of the North	Henry B. Walthall	Vitagraph	7 reels	Jan. 28
Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 17
Hail the Woman	Special Cast	First National		Jan. 14
Hardest Way, The	Fannie Ward	Joan-S. R.	5 reels
Hole in the Wall, The	Alice Lake	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 10
Idle Rich, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 12
Infidel, The	Cath'rine M'Donald	First National	6 reels
Last Payment, The	Pola Negri	Famous Players		Jan. 28
Little Minister, The	Betty Compson	Famous Players		Jan. 7
Lotus Eater, The	John Barrymore	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Love Charm, The	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Dec. 24
Lucky Carson	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 14
Making the Grade	David Butler		5 reels	Jan. 14
Man Who Paid, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Marry the Poor Girl	Carter De Haven	Asso. Ex.	5 reels	Mar. 11
Morals	May McAvoy	Realart		Jan. 14
My Boy	Jackie Coogan	First National	5 reels	Jan. 7
New Disciple, The	Pell Trenton	Federated Produc.	7 reels	Dec. 31
No Defense	William Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Jan. 28
Parisian Scandal, A	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 3
Paste Board Crown, A	Special Cast
Playing with Fire	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Polish Dancer, The	Pola Negri	Levinson-S. R.
Power Within, The	Special Cast	Pathe		Jan. 28
R. S. V. P.	Charles Ray	First National		Dec. 24
Rigoletto	Special Cast	Romayne	5 reels
Road to Arcady, The	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Ruse of the Rattler, The	J. P. MacGowan	Asso. Ex.	5 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Lion, The	Hobart Bosworth	First National		Jan. 21
School Days	Wesley Barry	Warner Bros.-S. R.	6 reels	Dec. 17
Sin Flood, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn		Jan. 21
Tears of the Sea	Special Cast	Asso. Inter.—S. R.	5 reels
Trail of the Law	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Unconq'red Woman, The	Ruby de Remer	Pasha Film C'rp.-S.R.
Under the Lash	Gloria Swanson	Famous Players	5 reels	Oct. 29
Virginia Courtship, A	May McAvoy	Realart	5 reels	Feb. 4
Western Firebrands	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Whatever She Wants	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
White Oak	William S. Hart	Famous Players	5 reels	Nov. 12

JANUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Across the Dead Line	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 14
Any Night		E. Coast Prod.—S. R.
Any Wife	Pearl White	Fox		Feb. 18
Barnstormer, The	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Beautiful Liar, The	Kath. MacDonald	First National		Feb. 25
Billy Jim	Fred Stone	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Feb. 18
Bride's Play, The	Marion Davies	Paramount		Jan. 28
Determination	Special Cast	U. S. Pic. Corp.-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Don't Get Personal	Marie Prevost	Universal	11 reels	Jan. 14
Doubling for Romeo	Will Rogers	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 5
Foolish Wives	Special Cast	Universal	7 reels	Dec. 24
Fountain of Youth	Special Cast	Graphic-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Fourteenth Lover, The	Viola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
French Heels		Hodkinson	5 reels	Feb. 4
Gleam O' Dawn	John Gilbert	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 14
The Guttersnipe	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
Half Breed, The		First National
Handle with Care	Grace Darmond	Assoc. Exhib	6 reels	Feb. 11
Heart's Haven		Hampton-Hodkinson
His Nibs	Charles (Chic) Sale	Exceptional	5 reels	Oct. 22
Jungle Adventures		Exceptional	4 reels	Oct. 1

(Continued on following page)

(Continued from preceding page)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Just Around the Corner		Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 14
Lane That Had No Turning, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 21
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 28
Little Eva Ascends	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
Little Minister, The	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	6 reels	Dec. 31
Love's Redemption	Norma Talmadge	First National	5 reels	Jan. 21
Miss Lulu Bett	Special Cast	Paramount		Dec. 31
Nancy from Nowhere	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 11
Oh Mabel, Behave		Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Orphans of the Storm	Special Cast	D. W. Griffith		Jan. 14
Peacock Alley	Mae Murray	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 24
Penrod	Wesley Barry	First National	5 reels	Feb. 25
Prejudice	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.		Feb. 4
Prince There Was, A	Thomas Melghan	Paramount	5 reels	Nov. 26
Received Payment	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 21
Reckless Chances	J. P. McGowan	Assoc. Exhib	5 reels	Feb. 4
Rent Free	Wallace Reid	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 6
Roof Tree, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 6
Shadows of the Sea	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Jan. 14
Shattered Dreams	Miss du Point	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Should a Wife Work?	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 18
Sky High	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 31
Slippery McGee	Special Cast	First National
South of Suva	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels
Star Dust	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels	Dec. 31
Ten Nights in a Barroom	Special Cast	Arrow-S. R.		Feb. 4
Three Live Ghosts	Special Cast	Paramount		Jan 14
Tillie	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 rels	Feb. 25
Too Much Married	Mary Anderson	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Too Much Wife	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 28
Trailin'	Tom Mix	Fox	7 reels	Dec. 10
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro		Jan. 21
Two Kinds of Women	Pauline Frederick	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Dec. 24
Unfoldment, The		Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Feb. 25
The Unknown	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Vendetta	Pola Negri	Commonwealth		Dec. 31
White Hands	Hobart Bosworth	Wid Gunning	7 reels	Feb. 11
Wife Against Wife	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Mar. 11
Why Announce Your Marriage?	Elaln Hammerstein	Selznick		Feb. 4
Winning with Wits	Barbara Bedford	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 21

FEBRUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Ahle Minded Lady, The	H. B. Walthall	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
Across the Border	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
At the Sign of the Jack O'Lantern	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels	Jan. 28
Back Pay	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 4
Beyond the Rainbow	Special Cast	Rohertson-Cole	5 reels	Mar. 4
Boomerang Bill	Llonel Barrymore	Famous Players	6 reels	Feh. 18
Broadway Peacock, The	Pearl White	Fox	5 reels	Feh. 25
Call From the Wild, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Call of Home, The	Special Cast	Rohertson-Cole	5 reels	Jan. 28
Cave Girl, The		First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Chasing the Moon	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Feh. 18
City Feller, The	Cullen Landis	Goldwyn	5 reels
David and Jonathan	Madge Titheridge	Second National-S. S.	6 reels
Diamond Carlisle	Clark-Cornelius		5 reels
Doll's House, A	Nazimova	United Artists		Feh. 25
Double Stakes	Gladys Brockwell	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Forest King, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Game Chicken, A	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels
Girl from Rocky Point, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Glorious Fool, The	Helene Chadwick	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 21
Golden Gallows, The	Miss Dupont	Universal	5 reels	Feh. 18
Golden Gift, The	Alice Lake	Metro	6 reels	Dec. 17
Grand Larceny	Elliot Dexter	Goldwyn		Mar. 11
Headin' West	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 4
Her Mad Bargain	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels	Jan. 21
Her Own Money	Ethel Clayton	Paramount	6 reels	Mar. 4
Hills of Missing Men	J. P. McGowan	Asso. Exhibitors	5 reels
Homespun Vamp, A	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
I Defy		Arista-S. R.	6 reels
Julius Caesar	Special Cast	Geo. Kleine		Feh. 18
Kindred of the Dust	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feh. 11
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 28
Life's Greatest Question	Roy Stewart	C. B. C.-S. R.
Little Miss Smiles	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Feh. 4
Living Lies	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		reels
Love's Boomerang	Ann Forrest	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 11
Luxury Tax, the	Mabel Ballin	Hodkinson	5 reels
Man to Man	Harry Carey	Universal	5 reels	Feh. 11
Midnight	Constance Binney	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Moran of the Lady Letty	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount	6 reels	Feh. 18
One Glorious Day	Will Rogers	Paramount	5 reels	Feh. 11
Polly of the Follies	Constance T'lm'dge	First National	5 reels	Feh. 25
Prodigal Judge, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph		Feh. 11
Question of Honor, A	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels
Red Hot Romance	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Nov. 19
Red Peacock, The	Pola Negri	Paramount	6 reels
Right That Failed, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 17
Rosary, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feb. 25
Ruling Passion	George Arliss	United Artists	6 reels	Feh. 4
Saturday Night	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feh. 4
Seventh Day, the	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	5 reels
Shattered Idols	Special Cast	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Smiles Are Trumps	Maurice Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Feh. 11
Smilin' Through	Norma Talmadge	First National	6 reels
Song of Life, The	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feh. 25
Splendid Lie, The	Grace Davison	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Strength of the Pines	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feh. 4
Taking Chances	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Through a Glass Window	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels
Truthful Liar, The	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels	Jan. 21
Voice in the Dark, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Welcome to Our City	Macklyn Arbuckle	S. A. Pic. Corp.-S. R.	5 reels	Mar. 4
When Love Is Young	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.	6 reels
Where Is My Wandering Boy?	Special Cast	Equity-S. R.		Feh. 18
Whispering Women	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		5 reels
White Faith	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels
Why Men Forget	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Feb. 4
Wide Open Town, A	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Mar. 4
Woman's Side, The	Kath'rine M'Donald		5 reels
Your Best Friend	Vera Gordon	Warner Bros.-S. R.	5 reels

MARCH

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Angel Citizens	Franklyn Farnum	W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Beauty's Worth	Marion Davies	Paramount
Blaze Away	Big Boy Williams	Herbst-Lorenzo-S. R.	5 reels
Bohhed Hair	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels
Bootleggers		Wid Gunning	6 reels
Boy Crazy	Doris May	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Mar. 11
Brenda's Heritage	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Cardigan	Special Cast	Am. Releasing Corp.	6 reels	Mar. 4
Channing of the Northwest	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels
Come On Over	Colleen Moore	Goldwyn	5 reels
Cub Reporter, The	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Dangerous Little Demon,	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels
Divorcee, The	Const'nce Talmadge	First National	5 reels
Domestic Relations	Kath'rine M'Donald	First National	5 reels
Don't Douht Your Wife	Leah Baird	Assoc. Exhih.	5 reels
Elope If You Must	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels
Extra, Extra	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels	Mar. 11
Fire Bride, The		Wid Gunning
Fool's Paradise	Special Cast	Paramount	8 reels	Jan. 21
Forever	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Oct. 29
Friday or Monday	Kath. M'Donald	First National	6 reels
Gas, Oil and Water	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Glass Houses	Viola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Feh. 25
Heart Specialist, The	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels
Her Hushand's Trademark	Gloria Swanson	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Her Story	Madge Titheradge	Second Nat.-S. R.		Mar. 4
His Back Against the Wall	Raymond Hatton	Goldwyn
Human Hearts	House Peters	Universal	6 reels
Impulse	Neva Gerher	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
I Can Explain	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Feh. 25
Insinuation		Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.	5 reels
Iron to Gold	Dustin Farnum	Fox	5 reels
Island Wives	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels
Kissed	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Light in the Dark, The	Hope Hampton	First National	5 reels
Magnificent Ambersons	Jean Paige	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man from Downing Street, The	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man Who Smiled, The	Special Cast	First National	5 reels
Man With Two Mothers, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Masquerader, The	Guy Bates Post	First National	6 reels
Miss Paul Revere	Special Cast	Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.
Mistress of the World	Special Cast	Paramount	20 reels
Mr. Pim Passes By	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
My Old Kentucky Home	Special Cast	Am. Releasing	6 reels
Night, Riders, The	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Pardon My Nerve	Chas. (Buck) Jones	Fox	5 reels	Mar. 4
Prisoner of Zenda, The	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels
Ragged Heiress	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels
Rise of Roscoe Paine,	Irene Castle	Hodkinson	5 reels
Rose of the Sea	Anita Stewart	First National	5 reels
Rounding Up of the Law	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Skin Deep	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Smudge	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Sonny	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels
Stage Romance, A	William Farnum	Fox	7 reels	Feh. 25
Stay Home	Gareth Hughes	Metro	6 reels
That Lass o' Lowries	Priscilla Dean	Universal
Tracked to Earth	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 25
Travelin' On	William S. Hart	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Vermillion Pencil, The	Sessue Hayakawa	R-C	5 reels
Wall Flower, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Watch Your Step	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Way Back, The	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels
White Mask, The	Franklyn Farnum	W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Wild Honey	Priscilla Dean	Universal		Mar. 11
Wise Kid, The	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Mar. 4
World's Champion, The	Wallace Reid	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 11
Woman Wake Up	Florence Vidor	Assoc. Exhih.	6 reels	Mar. 4

APRIL

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Beyond the Rocks	Gloria Swanson	Paramount
Bigamist, The	Special Cast	R-C
Bought and Paid For	Special Cast	Paramount
Deuce of Spades	Charles Ray	First National	6 reels
Dictator, The	Wallace Reid	Paramount	6 reels
Duchess of Langeais	Norma Talmadge	First National
Fair Lady	Special Cast	United Artists
Fools First	Special Cast	First National
Glory of Clementina	Pauline Frederick	R-C Pictures	6 reels
Green Temptation, The	Betty Compson	Paramount
Gray Dawn, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels
Gypsy Passion	Special Cast	Vitagraph
If You Believe It, It's So	Thomas Meighan	Paramount	6 reels
Isle of Zorda	Special Cast	Pathe
Impulse	Neva Gerher	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Lariat Thrower, The		W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Lorna Doone	Special Cast	First National
Lost and Found	Jackie Coogan	First National	6 reels
Loves of Pharaoh	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Mar. 4
Love's Masquerade	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels
Missing Hushands	Special Cast	Metro
One Clear Call	Special Cast	First National
Ordeal, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels
Peterman	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal
Phantom Bride, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels
Prophet's Paradise, The	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	6 reels
Reckless Youth	Elaine Ham'rstein	Selznick	5 reels
Sheik's Wife, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph
Someone to Love	Special Cast	First National
Sonny	Rich. Barthelmess	First National
Soul Seeker, The	Dorothy Phillips	First National	6 reels
Soul of a Woman	Jane Novak	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels
Storm, The	Special Cast	Universal
Sunshine Harhor	Margaret Beecher	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Tharon of Lost Valley	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount
Trail's End		W. M Smith	5 reels
Why Not Marry?	Margery Wilson	Nat. Exchanges-S. R.
Woman's Woman	Special Cast	Rus. Clark Syn-S. R.	5 reels

Comedy and Short Subject Releases

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Adviser, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 19
Assorted Heroes		Educational	2 reels
Back Yard, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Barnyard Cavalier, A	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 24
Barnstormer, The		Fox	2 reels
Bashful Lover, The	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Battling Torchy	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Be Reasonable		First National	2 reels
Bell Hop, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels	Jan. 7
Blacksmith, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Blockhead, The		First National	2 reels
Blow 'Em Up	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Boat, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Bottle Baby, The		Universal	1 reel
Bright Eyes	Ben Turpin	First National	2 reels
Broker, The	Lupino Lane	Fox	2 reels
Call the Witness	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Charmed Life, A	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Chauffeur, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Dec. 31
Chums	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Circus Clowns	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 11
Cold Feet		Educational	2 reels
Coming and Going	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Cops	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Country Style	Folly-Pacific		1 reel
Dead Language	George Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Decorator, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Dog Doctor, The	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Edgar's Country Cousin	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
Edgar's Feast Day	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
False Alarm		Fox	2 reels
Family Affair, A		Century	2 reels	Dec. 24
Fat and Sassy	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Felix Saves the Day		Winkler-S. R.	1 reel	Feb. 11
Flivver Tracks	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Fool Days	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Jan. 7
For Love or Money		First National	2 reels
Full of Pep	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Get the Hook	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Golf Insect, A		Universal	1 reel
Golfing	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Hands Up	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Happy Pest, The	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hard Luck	Buster Keaton	Metro	2 reels
He Who Hesitates	Harold Lloyd	Assoc. Exhibitors	3 reels
Hennessy of the Mounted	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
High and Mighty	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
His Home Sweet Home	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Hokus Pokus	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Hold the Line		Fox	2 reels
Holding His Own	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Horse Sense	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Hound of Tankerville	Otis Harlan	Educational
Idle Class, The	Chas. Chaplin	First National	3 reels	Oct. 1
Idle Roomer, An	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
In and Out	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
In at the Finish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
It Pays to Exercise	Sennett	Paramount	2 reels
Kiss and Make Up	Earle Rodney	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 3
Late Hero, The	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Late Hours	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
Little, But Oh My	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Little Miss Mischief	Baby Peggy	Pathe	2 reels
Loose Change	Paul Parrott	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 18
Love and Doughnuts	Ben Turpin	Associated Prod.	2 reels	Dec. 10
Love and War	Johnny Savo	Fox	2 reels
Made in the Kitchen	Special Cast	Associated Prod.	2 reels
Monkey Shines	Educational		2 reels	Feb. 11
Mother's Lamb	Billy Quirk	Reelcraft	2 reels
Movie Mix-Up		Universal	1 reel
Mummy's Nightmare	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Mutts	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
My Wife's Relations	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Mysterious Stranger	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Nick-of-Time Hero	Special Cast	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 5
Nobody Home	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
No Parking	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 17
Now or Never	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Nuisance, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Oh Promise Me		Educational	2 reels
On Location	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
On the Jump	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
One Horse Town	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
One Moment, Please		Fox	2 reels
One Stormy Knight	Dorothy Devore	Educational		Feb. 4
Our Gang	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Pale Face, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels	Mar. 11
Pals	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Pardon Me		Fox	2 reels
Pay Day	Charles Chaplin	First National	2 reels
Peace and Quiet	Eddie Lyons	Arrow	2 reels	Feb. 4
Peaceful Alley	Monty Banks	Federated	2 reels
Peggy, Behave!	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels
Perfect Villain, A		Fox	2 reels	Dec. 10
Playhouse, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Playing Possum	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels	Dec. 3
Please Be Careful		Fox	2 reels	Feb. 4
Rainmaker, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels
Rambling Romeo, A	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Rearing to Go	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rent Collector, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Rough and Tumble	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Roped and Tied	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rural Cinderella, A		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Saving Sister Susie		Educational	2 reels	Nov. 12
Sailor Made Man, A	Harold Lloyd	Asso. Ex.	4 reels	Dec. 3
Sawmill, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
School Days	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Schoolday Love		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Shore Shapes		Universal	1 reel
Sheik, The		Fox	2 reels
Shipwrecked Among Animals		Universal	2 reels	Feb. 4
Show, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Simp, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 30
Skipper's Policy, The		Educational	1 reel
Sleeping Sickness	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Slow But Sure	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Small Town Stuff	Al. St. John	Fox	2 reels
Society Dogs	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Solid Concrete	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stage Hand, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stage Struck	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Feb. 11
Star Boarder, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stars and Stripes	Sid Smith	Federated	2 reels	Dec. 3
Step This Way		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Stick Around	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Stolen Glory		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Straight from the Farm	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels
Straphanger, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Teddy's Goat		Universal	2 reels	Dec. 24
They're Off	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Tis the Bull		Educational	2 reels
Torchy's Promotion	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Torchy Takes a Chance	Johnny Hines	Educational		Jan. 7
Torchy Turns Cupid	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Toreador, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Oct. 1
Touchdown, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Trouble Hunter, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Try and Get It		Fox	2 reels
'Twas Ever Thus	Viora Daniel	Educational	2 reels
Two of a Kind	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Upper and Lower	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Vagrant, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 1
Watch Your Wallet	Eddie Boland	Universal	1 reel
Well I'll Be	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Winning Wallop	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Years to Come	Snub Pollard	Pathe	2 reels	Feb. 18
Young and Foolish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel

Short Subjects

Feature Title and Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Alice in Wonderland (Serial)	Warner Bros.	2 reels	Feb. 11
Adventures of Sherlock Holmes (Drama)	Alexander-S. R.	15 episodes
Across the St. Gothard Alps (Scenic)	Truart	18 episodes
Adventures of Robinson Crusoe (Serial)	Universal
Along the Rio Grande (Scenic)	Paramount	1 reel
An Alpine Ride Up the Sranzerhorn (Scenic)	Truart
An Arctic Hike on the Great Aletsch Glacier (Scenic)	Truart
And Women Must Weep (Scenic)	Educational	2 reels	Feb. 11
As Old as the Hills (Scenic)	Educational	1 reel
At the Damascus Gate (Scenic)	Paramount	1 reel
At the Wailing Wall (Scenic)	Paramount	1 reel
Away Dull Care (Novelty)	Prizma	1 reel
Bahyhood (Novelty)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Bashful Suitor, The (Drama) Mary Brandon	Hodkinson	2 reels	Dec. 24
Battle Against Odds (Eddie Polo, W. Dr.)	Universal	2 reels
Battle of Jutland, The (Novelty)	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Bear, a Boy and a Dog, A (Novelty)	Wid Gunning	2 reels
Beauty Spots of America (Scenic)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Beggar Maid, The (Drama), Mary Astor	Triart Film	1 reel	Oct. 8
Beyond the Trail (Wes. Drama), Tom Sanchi.	Pathe	2 reels
Birds of Crags and Marshes (Novelty)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Bonnets of Auvergne (Scenic) Bruce	Educational	1 reel	Jan. 7
Bonnie Scotland (Scenic)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Borneo Venice, A (Scenic)	Truart
Breaking Through (Serial), Carmel Myers	Vitagraph	15 episodes
Call of Courage (Drama)	Universal
Capturing Lions by Aeroplane (Novelty)	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 18
City, The (Scenic)	Wid Gunning	1 reel	Dec. 10
Code of the West, The (West. Drama)	Texas Guinan	2 reels	Nov. 5
Combatting the Elements (Novelty)	Kineto Review	1 reel	Nov. 12
Crowning King Blizzard (Scenic)	Educational	1 reel
Cupid, Registered Guide (Drama) Edgar Jones.	Pathe	2 reels
Dangerous Trails (Drama)	Pathe	2 reels
Dawn to Dusk in Egypt (Scenic)	Educational	1 reel
Death Trap, The (West. Dr.), Tom Sanchi.	Pathe	2 reels
Desperation (Drama)	Universal	2 reels
Emerald Isle, The (Scenic)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Felix Saves the Day (Cartoon)	Winkler-S. R.	1 reel	Feb. 11
First Families of America (Novelty)	Paramount	1 reel
From Dawn to Dusk in Egypt (Scenic)	Educational	1 reel	Jan. 28
Go Get 'Em Hutch (Serial)	Pathe	15 episodes
Good Things of Life (Novelty)	Wid Gunning	1 reel
Grandfather's Clock (Novelty)	Kineto Review	1 reel	Jan. 28
Great American Authors (Kineto Series)			Nov. 19
Holy City, The (Scenic)	Kineto Review	1 reel
Honor of Rameriz (West. Dr.), Tom Santschi.	Pathe	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hunting the Sea Wolf (Educational)	Kineto Review	1 reel
If (Novelty)	Prizma	1 reel
In Old Granada (Scenic)	Paramount	1 reel

(Continued on page 1541)

COMING PRODUCTIONS LISTED

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS, INC.

I am the Law (Special Cast)

ALEXANDER FILM CORP.

Adventures of Sherlock Holmes
(Fifteen two-reel features)

AMERICAN RELEASING CORP.

Destiny's Isle (Special Cast)
My Old Kentucky Home (Special Cast)
The Cradle Buster (Aleen Hunter)
The Lying Truth (Special Cast)
Belle of Alaska (Jane Novak)
Jan of the Big Snows (Special Cast)

ARISTA FILM CORP.

Prejudice
When Love is Young (Zena Keefe)
I Defy

ARROW FILM CORPORATION

Impulse (Neva Gerber)
The Innocent Cheat (Special Cast)
Ten Nights in a Bar Room
A Yankee Go-Getter (Neva Gerber) 5
Devil-Dog Dawson (Jack Hoxie) 5
The Star Reporter (Billie Rhodes) 5
A Motion to Adjourn (Daw-Stewart) 5

SPEED COMEDIES
(One Released Every Week)
MURIEL OSTRICHE COMEDIES
BLAZED TRAIL PRODUCTIONS
ARROW-GERBER PRODUCTIONS
NORTHWOOD DRAMAS
SERIALS

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

HAROLD LLOYD COMEDIES

He Who Hesitates
A Sailor Made Man 4

FEATURES

Hills of Missing Men (J. P. McGowan)
Don't Doubt Your Wife (Leah Baird)
Clansmen of the North
Woman, Wake Up
Lady Godiva
Sunshine Harbor (Margaret Beecher)

ASSOCIATED PHOTOPLAYS

Soul of a Woman (Jane Novak)
Crossing Trails (Pete Morrison) 5
Ghost City (Helen Holmes) 5

AYWON FILM CORPORATION

Across the Border (Big Boy Williams)
The Master of Beasts

C. B. C. FILM SALE CORP.

Life's Greatest Question (Roy Stewart)
CARNIVAL COMEDIES
(Two Reels Twice a Month)
HALL ROOM BOYS COMEDIES
(Two Reels Twice a Month)
SCREEN SNAPSHOTS
(One Reel Twice a Month)
STAR RANCH WESTERNS
(One Two-Reeler Every Two Weeks)

CLARK-CORNELIUS CORPORATION

Living Lies
Diamond Carlisle

R. CLARK SYNDICATE, INC.

Miss Paul Revere
Insinuation
Woman's Woman
The Love Slave (Lucy Doraine)
The Two Orphans
The Offenders (Margery Wilson)

DI LORENZO, INC.

Blaze Away (Big Boy Williams)

EAST COAST PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Feb.—The Greater Duty

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.

SHORT SUBJECTS

The Rainmaker 2
Cold Feet (Christie Comedy)
'Twas Ever Thus (Christie Comedy) 2
Hokus Pocus (Christie Comedy) 2
'Tis the Bull (Christie Comedy) 2
Oh, Promise Me! (Christie Comedy) 2
And Women Must Weep (Bruce Scenic) 2
Monkey Shines (Campbell Comedy) 2
Schoolday Love (Campbell Comedy) 2
Stolen Glory (Campbell Comedy) 2

SELIG-RORK PHOTOPLAYS
CHRISTIE COMEDIES
MERMAID COMEDIES
PUNCH COMEDIES
TORCHY COMEDIES
CAMPBELL COMEDIES
CHESTER COMEDIES
VANITY COMEDIES
GAYETY COMEDIES
SKETCHOGRAFS
BRUCE SCENICS
CHESTER OUTINGS
CHESTER SCREENICS
CINAL FILMS—SLOW SPEED
KINOGRAMS

EQUITY PICTURES CORP.

Where Is My Wandering Boy? (Special Cast)

EXCEPTIONAL PICTURES CORP.

(Releasing Arrangements to be Announced Later)
Mister Antonio (Otis Skinner)
Grumpy

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO., INC.

The Jungle Goddess—Selig serial 15 episodes
Starring Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP.

PARAMOUNT

(April Releases)
If You Believe It, It's So (Thomas Meighan)
Beyond the Rocks (Gloria Swanson)
Bought and Paid For (Special Cast)
The Green Temptation (Betty Compson)
(March Releases)
Travelin' On (William S. Hart)
Forever (Special Cast)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 1—spec. prod.)
The World's Champion (Wallace Reid)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 2—spec. prod.)
Her Husband's Trademark (Gloria Swanson)
Bobbed Hair (Wanda Hawley-Realart prod.)
Fool's Paradise (Special Cast)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 3—spec. prod.)
The Heart Specialist (Mary Miles Minter—Realart)
Beauty's Worth (Marion Davies)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 4—spec. prod.)
Our Leading Citizen (Thomas Meighan)
The Gilded Cage
A Stampede Madonna (Jack Holt)
The Ordeal (Agnes Ayres)
The Dictator (Wallace Reid)
Tharon of Lost Valley (Dorothy Dalton)
(February Releases)
Love's Boomerang (Special Cast)
Moran of the Lady Letty (Dorothy Dalton)
The Red Peacock (Pola Negri)
One Glorious Day (Will Rogers)
Her Own Money (Ethel Clayton)
Boomerang Bill (Lionel Barrymore)
Saturday Night (Special Cast)
Back Pay

REALART PICTURES

The Sleepwalker (Constance Binney)
The Truthful Liar (Wanda Hawley)
The Heart Specialist
Midnight (Constance Binney)
Through a Glass Window (May McAvoy)

FEDERATED FILM EXCHANGES

CHESTER COMEDIES
(Once a Month)
HALLROOM BOYS COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
JOE ROCK COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
SCREEN SNAPSHOTS
(Twice a Month)
Miracles of the Jungle
(Fifteen-Episode serial)

FIDELITY PICTURES CORP.

FEATURES

12 WITWER COMEDIES (CHAS. DELANEY)

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES

The Duchess of Langeais (Norma Talmadge)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
Smilin' Through (Norma Talmadge)
The Divorcee (Constance Talmadge)
Fools First (Special Cast)
Friday or Monday (Katherine MacDonald)
Gas, Oil or Water (Charles Ray)
The Light in the Dark (Hope Hampton)
The Man Who Smiled (Special Cast)
Rose o' the Sea (Anita Stewart)
Skin Deep (Ince Special)
The Woman He Married (Anita Stewart)
Sonny (Richard Barthelmess)
Lost and Found (Jackie Coogan)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
One Clear Call (Special Cast)
The Masquerader (Special Cast)
Lorna Doone (Special Cast)
Pawned (Special Cast)
Domestic Relations (Katherine MacDonald)
The Deuce of Spades (Chas. Ray)
Smudge (Chas. Ray)
The Seventh Day (Richard Barthelmess)
Someone to Love (Ince Prod.)
Suzanna (Mabel Normand)
The Hottentot (Ince Prod.)
Jim (Ince Prod.)
Wooden Spoil (Ince Prod.)
Finding Home (Ince Prod.)
Bellboy 13 (Ince Prod.)
Kindred of the Dust (Walsh Prod.)
Polly of the Follies (Constance Talmadge)
The Barnstormer (Charles Ray)
The Song of Life (Special Cast)
White Faith (Hope Hampton)
Slippery McGee
The Half Breed

COMEDIES

Pay Day (Charles Chaplin)
My Wife's Relations (Buster Keaton)
For Love or Money (Sennett)
Cops (Buster Keaton) 2
The Blockhead (Sennett) 2
The Pale Face (Buster Keaton) 2
Be Reasonable (Sennett) 2

FOX FILM EXCHANGES

FEATURES

A Fool There Was (Special Cast)
Clean Up Sudden (Tom Mix)
Pardon My Nerve (Chas. Jones)
Nero (Special Cast)
Iron to Gold (Dustin Farnum)
A Stage Romance (William Farnum)
Chasing the Moon (Tom Mix)
Smiles Are Trumps (Maurice Flynn)
The Broadway Peacock (Pearl White)
Elope If You Must (Eileen Percy)
Extra, Extra! (Walker-Murphy)

COMEDIES

The Barnstormer (Sunshine)
The Sheik (Sunshine)
Hot Dog (Clyde Cook)
The Studio Rube (Al. St. John)
The Broker (Lufino Lane)

MUTT AND JEFF CARTOONS
FOX NEWS
(Twice a week)

GOLDWYN EXCHANGES

THIRD GROUP OF RELEASES

Glorious Fool, The	5,392
Man With Two Mothers	4,423
His Back Against the Wall	4,680
Watch Your Step	4,713
Doubling for Romeo	4,304
Wallflower, The	5,228
Grand Larceny	5,228

HODKINSON CORP., W. W.

Golden Dreams (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
The Rise of Roscoe Paine (Irene Castle)
At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern
Feb. 19—The Luxury Tax (Mabel Ballin)
Feb. 12, 1922—Hope (Triart Pictures Corp.)
The Grey Dawn (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
Jan. 22, 1922—Heart's Haven (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)

McGOVERN & EGLER

SHORTY HAMILTON SERIES

Apr. 10—Ride 'Em Cowboy 2
Mar. 27—Grit 2
Mar. 13—Pony Boy 2
Feb. 27—Let-'er-Go Gallagher 2
Feb. 13—Pep 2

METRO PICTURES CORP.

Missing Husbands (Special Cast)
Fascination (Mae Murray)
The Phantom Bride (Bert Lytell)
Mar. 20—Stay Home (Gareth Hughes) 6
Mar. 13—The Prisoner of Zenda (Special Cast)
Mar. 6—Glass Houses (Viola Dana) 6
Feb. 20—The Light That Failed (Bert Lytell) 6
Jan. 2—Turn to the Right (Special Cast)

NATIONAL EXCHANGES, INC.

Welcome Children (Special Cast)
Shadows of the West (Hedda Nova)

KINETO REVIEW
(One Reel Issued Weekly)
SERIALS

PACIFIC FILM COMPANY

The Girl from Rockypoint (Special Cast) 5
The Forest King (Special Cast) 5
The Voice in the Dark (Special Cast) 5
Double Stakes (Gladys Brockwell) 5
The Able Minded Lady (Henry B. Walthall) 5
The Call From the Wild (Frankie Lee) 5
The Fatal 30 (Special Cast) 5

FOLLY COMEDIES
(Starring Geo. Ovey and Vernon Dent—One reel each)

PATHE EXCHANGES

The Isle of Zorda (Special Cast)

SERIALS

Go Get 'Em Hutch
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Chas. Hutchinson)

(Continued on page 1541)

COMING RELEASES

(Continued from page 1540)

White Eagle
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Ruth Roland)
The Sky Ranger
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Geo. B. Seitz and June Caprice)

SHORT SUBJECTS

Mar. 5—Mysterious Tracks (Bill and Bob series)...1
Mar. 5—Sylvia of Secret Service (Irene Castle).....3
Mar. 5—The Tiger and the Donkey (Aesop's Fables) 2/3
Feb. 12—The Villain in Disguise (Aesop's Fables)..2/3
Pathe Playlets (15 features—3 reels each).....

COMEDIES

Pardon Me (Pollard).....1
Full of Pep (Pollard).....1
Call the Witness (Pollard).....1
Our Gang (Pollard).....1
Feb. 12—Stage Struck (Pollard).....1
Harold Lloyd Reissues.....

NEWS REELS

Sundays—Topics of the Day.....
Wednesdays—Pathe News .....
Saturdays—Pathe News .....

PIONEER FILM CORP.

The Crimson Cross (Van Dyke Brooks).....
Beyond the Crossroads (Ora Carew).....
The Leech (Claire Whitney).....

PRIMEX PICTURES CORP.

His Pajama Girl.....5
Power 5
Your Daughter and Mine.....6
The Lonely Trail.....5
The Door That Has No Key.....6
Eternity 6
Smiles (series of 26 single reel novelty comedies).....
Twelve single reel Indian dramas.....

PRODUCERS SECURITY CORP.

The Great Alone (Monroe Salisbury).....
The Wolf's Fang (Wilfred Lytell).....5
The Soul of Man.....7
Squire Phinn 5
Mr. Bingle 5
Mr. Potter of Texas.....6
Irving Cummings Series.....2
Cissy Fitzgerald Series.....2

PYRAMID PICTURES, INC.

The Mayor's Wife (Betty Blythe).....
The Queen of the Moulin Rouge.....

R-C PICTURES CORP.

The Son of the Wolf (Special Cast).....
The Bigamist (Ivy Duke).....
Gay and Devilish (Doris May).....
The Woman Breed (Pauline Frederick).....
The Glory of Clementina (Pauline Frederick).....
The Vermillion Pencil (Sessue Hayakawa).....
Boy Crazy (Doris May).....
Why Men Forget.....
The Call of Home (Special Cast).....

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

FRANK BRAIDWOOD SERIES
AL JENNINGS SERIES
HELEN GIBSON SERIES
FRITZI RIDGWAY SERIES
CAPITOL FILM COMPANY
NEAL HART SERIES
LESTER CUNEO SERIES

SECOND NATIONAL PICT. CORP.

Her Story (Madge Titheradge).....
Mr. Pim Passes By.....
The Night Riders.....
Brenda's Heritage .....
David and Jonathan (Madge Titheridge).....

SELZNICK (LEWIS J.) ENT.

Sink or Swim (Owen Moore).....
Reckless Youth (Elaine Hammerstein).....
The Prophet's Paradise (Eugene O'Brien).....
The Referee (Conway Tearle).....
Channing of the Northwest (Eugene O'Brien).....
A Wide Open Town (Conway Tearle).....
Love's Masquerade (Conway Tearle).....
SELECT PRODUCTIONS
WILLIAM J. FLYNN SERIES
CHAPLIN CLASSICS
SELZNICK NEWS
REPUBLIC FEATURES
SERIALS

W. M. SMITH PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Goldgrabbers .....
It Happened Out West.....
Crossroads .....
The Lariat Thrower.....
Trail's End .....
Angel Citizens .....
The White Mask.....
So This Is Arizona.....

STOREY PICTURES, INC.

Shadowland Screen Review—1 reel every 2 weeks.
Burlesque Photoplays—2 reels every month.

TRUART FILM CORPORATION

BURLINGHAM ADVENTURES

Across the St. Gothard Alps.....
A Borneo Venice.....
Island of Surprise .....
Monkey Land Up the Barito River.....
An Alpine Ride Up the Sranzerhorn.....
Jungle Belles of Borneo.....
An Arctic Hike on the Great Aletsch Glacier.....
A Wedding Feast Among the Borneo Dayaks.....

UNITED ARTISTS CORP.

Salome (Nazimova).....
Fair Lady (Special Cast).....
The Ruling Passion (George Arliss).....
A Doll's House (Nazimova).....

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGES

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

Under Two Flags (Priscilla Dean).....
Human Hearts (House Peters).....
The Storm (Special Cast).....
Mar. 27—The Dangerous Little Demon (Marie Prevost)
Peterman (Herbert Rawlinson).....
Mar. 13—The Wise Kid (Gladys Walton).....
Mar. 6—Wild Honey (Priscilla Dean).....
Mar. 6—Tracked to Earth (Frank Mayo).....
Man to Man (Harry Carey).....

SERIALS

The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Harry Myers)
With Stanley in Africa.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Geo. Walsh and Louise Lorraine)
Winners of the West.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Art Accord)

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Jan. 1, 1922—Foolish Wives (Stroheim).....

COMEDIES

A Golf Insect (Star).....1
Two of a Kind (Century).....2
Mutts (Century).....2
Beware (Star).....1
A Movie Mix-Up (Star).....1

UNIVERSAL DRAMAS

Desperation (La Plante-Lincoln).....2
The Call of Courage (La Plante-Pembroke).....2
Trickery (Dorothy Woods-Hal Goodwin).....2

NEWS AND MAGAZINE REELS

Tuesdays—International News..... 1
Fridays—International News 1
Fridays—New Screen Magazine (Universal)..... 1

VITAGRAPH EXCHANGES

FEATURES

The Shangraun (Pauline Starke).....
The Man Hunter (William Duncan).....
The Sheik's Wife (Special Cast).....
Gypsy Passion (Special Cast).....
The Magnificent Ambersons (Jean Paige).....
The Man From Downing Street (Earle Williams)....
Island Wives (Corinne Griffith).....
The Prodigal Judge (Jean Paige).....
Flower of the North (Henry B. Walthall).....

COMEDIES

The Show (Larry Semon).....
A Charmed Life (Jimmy Aubrey).....
The Sawmill (Larry Semon).....

SERIALS

Breaking Through .....
(Starring Carmel Myers and Wallace MacDonald)

WARNER BROS.

Your Best Friend (Vera Gordon).....
School Days (Wesley Barry).....

SERIALS

Alice in Wonderland.....15 episodes
Shadows of the Jungle.....15 episodes
Miracles of the Jungle.....15 episodes

MONTY BANKS COMEDIES

(One released every month)

WID GUNNING, INC.

ENTERTAINMENT SERIES

Mar. 15—The Fire Bride.....
The Madness of Love.....
Alias Phil Kennedy.....
The Blonde Vampire.....
Foolish Monte Carlo.....
The Bootleggers .....
The Love Nest.....
Don't Blame Your Children.....
Mrs. Dane's Confession.....
The Blue Mountain Mystery.....

POST NATURE SERIES

(One Every Two Weeks)

SHORT SUBJECTS

A Bear, a Boy and a Dog.....2853 ft.
Puppy Days.....939 ft.
Robinson Crusoe Hours.....966 ft.
The Good Things of Life.....
(Weekly Single Reel Release)

WESTERN FEATURE PROD., INC.

A Western Demon (Wm. Fairbanks).....
Hell's Border (Wm. Fairbanks).....

SHORT SUBJECTS

(Continued from page 1539)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Island of Surprise (Scenic)		Truart
Juggernauts of the Jungle (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Jungle Belles of Borneo (Novelty)		Truart
Jungle Goddess, The (Serial)		Exp. & Imp.-S. R.	15 episodes	Feb. 4
King of the Circus (Serial), Eddie Polo		Universal	18 episodes
Lake Maggiore (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Leather Pushers, The (Drama)		Universal	2 reels	Jan. 28
Let's Go—To the South Seas (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Dec. 10
Lochinvar of the Line (Drama), Edgar Jones		Pathe	2 reels
Lorraine of the Timberlands (West. Dr.), Tom Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels	Oct. 8
Lost a Yodel (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Magic Gems (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Monkey Land Up the Barito River (Scenic)		Truart
Ne'er to Return Road (Dr.), Wallace Berrey		Educational	2 reels	Oct. 8
Neighbor Nelly (Romance)		Prizma	1 reel	Jan. 28
Netting the Leopard (Wild Animal)		Pathe	1 reel	Sept. 24
New Wine in Old Bottles (Educational)		Educational
Nice and Cannes (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel	Oct. 1
Night Attack, The (Drama)		Universal	2 reels	Feb. 18
Nippon (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
No More Gasoline (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Northern Trail, The (Drama)		Educational	2 reels
Official Movie Chats of M. P. T. O. of A		Kineto		Feb. 11
Old and New England (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Dec. 10
Old Dynamite (Special)		Universal	2 reels	Dec. 3
Old Moose Trails (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Pageantry in India (Scenic)		Kineto
Panama (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Pelican Island (Scenic)		Truart
Perilous Ascent of the Zinal-Rothorn (Scenic)		Truart
Primitive Life in Tennessee (Scenic)		Kineto	1 reel	Feb. 4
Puppy Days		Wid Gunning	1 reel
Pyrenees and Wooden Legs (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Quaint Holland (Scenic)		Universal	2 reels
Ranger's Reward, The (Drama)	Art Accord	Educational	1 reel	Feb. 18
Ranger, The (Scenic)		Sunset-Burrud	1 reel	Feb. 11
Roaring Waters (West. Drama), Geo. Larkin		Universal	2 reels	Sept. 27
Robinson Crusoe Hours		Wid Gunning	1 reel
Ropin' Fool, A (Will Rogers, W. Dr.)			2 reels	Nov. 26
Ruins of Angkor (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Rural Java (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Santa Fe—The City Different (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Science at Home (Kineto Review)		National Ex.	1 reel
Secret of Butte Ridge, The (W. Dr.), T. Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels	Feb. 4
Seeing San Marino (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Seeing the Unseen (Novelty)		Prizma	1 reel
Seven League Booters (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Seville in Fair Time (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Sky Ranger, The (Serial)		Pathe	15 episodes
So This Is London (Scenic)		Prizma	1 reel	Feb. 4
Stamboul (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Striking Tires, The (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	1 reel
Strolling Minstrels (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Oct. 29
Sunbeams (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Sweet Heart (Western Drama), Billy West		Joan Film	2 reels
Terror Trail (Serial), Eileen Sedgwick		Universal	18 episodes
Thrills (Sport Topic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Too Much Overhead (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Trickery (Drama)		Universal	2 reels
Trip of U. S. S. Idaho (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Trip Through Film Land, A (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	2 reels	Dec. 31
Village Life in Switzerland (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Wanderlust (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Was Darwin Right? (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Watching the Wayands (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Water Babies (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Wedding Feast, Among Borneo Dayaks, A (Novelty)		Truart
White Eagle (Serial)		Pathe	15 episodes
White Mouse, The (Drama) Lewis Stone		Educational	2 reels	Nov. 5
Wild Men of Borneo (Adventure)		State Rights
Winter Pets (Sport Review)		Artclass	1 reel
Winners of the West (Serial), Art Accord		Universal	18 episodes	Oct. 1
With Stanley in Africa (Serial) George Walsh		Universal	18 ep'sdes	Feb. 11
Young Painter, The		Hodkinson	1 reels

Jessen's Studio News by Wire

LASKY

Cecil DeMille has almost fully recovered from inflammatory rheumatism and is going to a ranch for a stay of three weeks.

James Cruze, Wallace Reid, Liela Lee, Walter Long and Alan Hale are in San Francisco for two weeks taking exteriors for "The Dictator" from the Richard Harding Davis play.

The "Vale of Paradise" company, directed by Rollin Sturgeon, is at Mesa, Arizona, for exteriors. Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels are the leads. The continuity is by Will M. Ritchie.

Betty Compson, Penrhyn Stanlaws and the "Over the Border" company are returning from four weeks at Truckee, Cal.

Sam Woods is beginning "The Gilded Cage," from continuity by Elmer Harris. Gloria Swanson is the star.

George Melford is directing Dorothy Dalton in "The Woman Who Walked Alone." The story is laid in London and South Africa. Milton Sills is opposite the star, who makes her debut as a blonde in this picture.

The complete cast for "The Ordeal," directed by Paul Powell, includes Agnes Ayres, Conrad Nagel, Ena Murphy, Edward Sutherland, Adele Farrington, Clarence Burton, Ann Schaeffer, Claire Dubrey, Floyd Whitlock and Shannon Day.

"Our Leading Citizen," directed by Alfred Green and starring Tom Meighan, is in production.

INCE

"A Man of Action," an original story by Bradley King, is the title of the next Douglas MacLean picture, now being directed by James W. Horne. The players include Marguerite de la Motte, Raymond Hatton, Wade Beteler, William Courtright, Arthur Hull, Arthur Malette and Katherine Lewis.

Lambert Hillyer is directing "The Brotherhood of Hate," an all-star production, which is now half finished.

C. Gardner Sullivan's "Someone to Love" has been put into production. John Griffith Wray is directing. Madge Bellamy is to play the lead.

Arthur E. Beck has completed the Leah Baird production "When the Devil Drives." It is now being edited.

Maurice Tourneur will require two weeks more to complete Lorna Doone.

UNIVERSAL

Tom Santschi has been engaged to star in a series of two reel Western and Northwest police dramas, directed by Robert N. Bradbury.

Arthur Statter, head of the serial and short feature department of Universal, is now preparing continuity for the first series, "The Guilty Oath."

Now being edited are "Human Hearts," "That Lass o' Lowrie's," and "The Storm."

A number of stories are in preparation for filming upon the return of the stars from their personal appearance tours. They include "Under Two Flags," for Priscilla Dean, "The Suburban Handicap," by Charles Dazey, an all star picture to be directed by King Baggott from George Hull's scenario; "The Flirt," by Booth Tarkington, with continuity by E. P. Younger; "Afraid to Fight," by Leet Renick Brown; "Out of the Silent North," by Drage Altar Stairs; a South Sea story by G. B. Lancaster, with scenario by George Hively—all three for Frank Mayo; "Trimmed Burning," an Ozark Mountain story by Hapsburg Liebe and "The Cherub of the Seven Bar" by Ralph Cuming, both for Hoot Gibson; "The Night of Nights" and "Never Mind To-Morrow," an original story by Bernard Hyman, both for Marie Prevost; "The Trooper" an original road show story by E. Younger; "Top of the Morning," by Anne Caldwell, and "M'Liss" by Bret Harte—all three for Gladys Walton. The scenario is being written for Louis Joseph Vance's story "The Black Bag," by Bernard Hyman and George Hively for Herbert Rawlinson.

ROACH

Hal Roach supplied the story for the next Lloyd comedy. The scenario is by Jean Havez and Sam Taylor. Lloyd will appear as a much travelled youth.

"Do Me a Favor," a Snub Pollard comedy, is ready for shipment.

Director Robert McGowan is beginning a second children's comedy from a script by Tom McNamara, the cartoonist.

Gilbert Pratt is directing Paul Parrott in a lodge picture, titled "The Joiner."

Harold Lloyd has been ill with the flu, but has almost recovered.

INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS

Morris R. Schlank productions has engaged Harry Burns to direct a series of twelve two reel comedies featuring Little Napoleon, a chimpanzee. The first is titled "An Old Rag."

Paragon Productions has leased the Brentwood studios to make a series of two reel Crescent Comedies features Jack Richardson. The first is titled "A Colorado Knight" and is directed by Bruce Mitchell.

Francis Ford, director, Peggy O'Day, star, and the company has gone to Tiajuana to film race track scenes for their new productions.

All of the above three companies are working for Anchor Film Corporation release. Morris Schlank is president of the company.

Dick Hatton is editing "Four Hearts" and is started to film "Phantom of the Hills," co-featuring Maryon Aye and Bob Reeves. It is to be a two reeler.

Hugh Evans productions has completed editing "Riding Wild," in which Roy Stewart is featured with Marjorie Daw, Johnny Walker and Wallace Beery in the supporting cast.

Doubleday productions is starting next week on a Lester Cuneo production.

Western Pictures Exploitation Company will distribute the above named four subjects.

Louis Burston is completing "The Soul of a Child," co-starring Gareth Hughes and Bessie Love, directed by W. S. VanDyke at Universal City.

GOLDWYN

Preparations are now being made for Maston Hopper to begin producing "Brothers Under Their Skin," by Peter B. Kyne. Richard Dix and Helene Chadwick are the leads.

Rupert Hughes is preparing the script on "The Bitterness of Sweet," his original story which will probably star Coleen Moore.

FOX

Estelle Taylor, featured in "When New York Sleeps," has been selected to play the vampire role in Emmett Flynn's "A Fool There Was." William Mong has also been added to this cast.

Dan Dix and Pee Wee Holmes, cowboys of the Mix troupe, have been elevated to comedy co-stardom and are being featured in a series of western comedies. The first is titled "Eltoro," under the direction of Jack McDermott.

FIRST NATIONAL

Marshall Neilan is editing "Fool's First." His next will be "Her Man."

Katherine McDonald recently completed the play by Charles A. Logue, titled "Heroes and Husbands," directed by Chet Withey.

Nigel Barrie, Charles Clarey and Katherine McDonald are now at Truckee for exteriors for "The Woman Conquerors." Tom Forman is directing. The cast includes Bryant Washburn, June Elvidge, Mitchell Lewis, Francis McDonald, Boris Kasloff and Clarissa Selwyn.

Films shipped recently include Ray's "The Deuce of Spades," and "Smudge"; Katherine McDonald's "The Infidel" and "Domestic Relations"; J. Parker Reid's "Pawned"; Mack Sennett's "Step Forward" with Ben Turpin, and "On Patrol."

THE

BURTON HOLMES LABORATORY

IS UNDER THE PERSONAL DIRECTION OF

OSCAR B. DEPUE

HE HAS BEEN WITH BURTON HOLMES FOR 30 YEARS

AS FELLOW-TRAVELER, CINEMATOGRAPHER AND LABORATORY MANAGER

HE WILL GIVE YOUR WORK HIS PERSONAL ATTENTION AT 7510 NORTH ASHLAND AVENUE, CHICAGO

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

Simplex

"WHY IT LOOKS JUST LIKE A SIMPLEX!!"

When men say this while examining an alleged "improved" picture machine they pay a splendid tribute to Simplex engineering and design —for it has become recognized in these days of warm competition that to be in the swim at all, a machine must have at least a few of the features that years ago started the Simplex on its way to acknowledged leadership —and that the Simplex is "right" in design and construction is evidenced in the fact that today the majority of representative American Cities are at least 75% Simplex all of which prompts us to say that—

"IT MAY LOOK LIKE A SIMPLEX— BUT DOES IT FUNCTION LIKE A SIMPLEX?"

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317-29 East 34th St.--New York

"Here's wishing you all good luck and less need for it."

—George Eastman

The Motion Picture Industry is not a creature of luck; it is an institution—too substantial to be rocked by obstructionists and destructionists whose reach exceeds their grasp.

Let us convert or condemn the thoughtless volunteers who provoke preposterous publicity by confusing fancies with facts.

Let us suppress the ridiculous stories which are circulated within the trade at the expense of the Industry:

I don't believe that the sturdy little fighter who made Independent "Pictures" possible ever thought that "The Red Lantern" was a railroad serial—

There are no copies of cables inviting Will Shakespeare and Vic Hugo to write for the "fillums"—

Nobody has ever seen a party of Motion Picture people jump out of an empty cab.

Joke, if you will, judiciously; work consistently; cultivate courage and courtesy; employ manly methods; remember that The Golden Rule is not a metal yard-stick, and we will find more Pride, Pleasure and Profit in this Motion Picture world of ours.

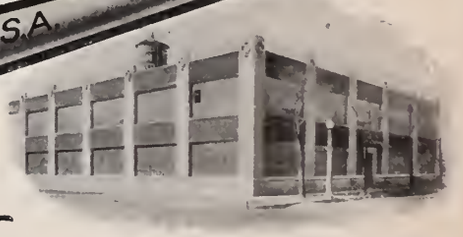
Watterson R. Rothacker

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

TRADE MARK REG.



There are reasons—
Come and see them.

Founded 1910
by
Watterson R. Rothacker

MARCH 18, 1922

Motion Picture News

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

RESERVE YOUR COPY

NOW

of MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Booking Guide

(Next issue out this month)

VOL. XXV No. 13

Entered as Second Class Matter, October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879

PRICE 20 CENTS

Published Weekly—$3.00 a year

Los Angeles — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Chicago

Walter E. Greene and F. B. Warren have the honor to announce to the Exhibitors of North America and the Distributors in all countries of the world the release by

American
RELEASING CORPORATION

WALTER E. GREENE, President F. B. WARREN, Vice-President of a tremendous production to be exploited by American Releasing Corporation with the vast and unrivalled prominence and publicity which we have contracted for in the seventeen

Hearst Newspapers

blanketing the country from Coast to Coast. We announce for national release on April 2 and for earlier pre-release the world-known story

SISTERS

From the popular novel by

KATHLEEN NORRIS

with an all-star cast including

SEENA OWEN GLADYS LESLIE MATT MOORE

Directed by Albert Capellani

An International Film Service Co. Production

In serial form the story of "Sisters" will be published by us in New York, Boston, Chicago, Washington, Atlanta, Milwaukee, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Detroit and Seattle Hearst newspapers with an aggregate daily circulation of more than 3,000,000 copies and a daily reading clientele of 20,000,000 Americans—the largest audience reached by any publications on earth.

Simultaneous first runs will be held at every point on the map of America and 150 prints are available to meet these engagements.

Wire for fuller details to our nearest exchange or to

Home Offices
15 West 44th Street, New York City
Telephones: Vanderbilt 7078-7079

ADOLPH ZUKOR ..... PRESENTS

BETTY COMPSON IN "The Green Temptation"

ANOTHER triumph for the star who always triumphs!

The soul-stirring story of a little Paris dancer. Rushing on through amazing action, bringing tears and thrills and laughs.

And the star does some of the most amazing dances ever screened!

The great cast includes Theodore Kosloff and Mahlon Hamilton.

From the story "The Noose," by Constance Lindsay Skinner. Directed by William D. Taylor.

Scenario by Julia Crawford Ivers and Monte M. Katterjohn.

A Paramount Picture

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, President
NEW YORK CITY

Take a Tip!

HERE'S a picture that will be one of the big hits of the year.

People will laugh at the picture, at themselves, and at their neighbors. They'll talk about it, and joke about it, and chuckle about it long after they've seen it.

No finer cast was ever assembled for a comedy. Besides the featured players, it includes such favorites as ZaSu Pitts, Tully Marshall, Sylvia Ashton, Otis Harlan and Arthur Hoyt.

From Leo Ditrichstein's adaptation of the play by Oscar Blumenthal and Gustav Kadelburg. Directed by James Cruze. Scenario by Walter Woods.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR President
NEW YORK CITY

Jesse L. Lasky presents

"Is Matrimony a Failure?"

A Paramount Picture

with T. Roy Barnes Lila Lee
Lois Wilson Walter Hiers

YOU know what that title means to your box-office.

Everybody's heard of the play—the dramatic sensation of the decade. Everybody wants to see it.

And with two big stars in it, and produced by a master like William deMille—

You don't have to be told how much you'll make!

From the play by George Broadhurst. Scenario by Clara Beranger.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR President
NEW YORK CITY

ADOLPH ZUKOR PRESENTS A William deMille PRODUCTION

"Bought and Paid For"

WITH AGNES AYRES AND JACK HOLT

A Paramount Picture

Thank God and First National, there are some clean pictures being made! —B.P. Schulberg

HARRY L. KNAPP
CHAIRMAN
MRS. EDWARD C. NIVER
VICE CHAIRMAN
HENRY STARR RICHARDSON
SECRETARY

PENNSYLVANIA STATE BOARD OF CENSORS

OFFICES TELEGRAPH BUILDING
HARRISBURG
VANDERGRIFT BUILDING
PITTSBURGH
1025 CHERRY STREET
PHILADELPHIA

OF MOTION PICTURES
PROJECTION ROOMS 1025 CHERRY STREET PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, January 17, 1922

Mr. B. P. Schulberg, President,
Preferred Pictures, Inc.,
Georgia & Girard Streets,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Mr. Schulberg,

I have looked over our records in reference to the Katherine MacDonald pictures and I find that they have required little or no changing. They are about as clean as any we have to examine, and we wish that every producer was as careful. If they were, I doubt if there would be much use for censorship. But they are not, and as long as some producers insist upon introducing the serious sex problems, the salacious situations and the slap stick comedy into their films, you may depend upon it there will be need of such bodies.

Of her recent pictures, Miss MacDonald's producers have been so careful that we have been passing them "as is," meaning without eliminations, and they may well be referred to as an example of what clean pictures are and what they mean to the public.

Very truly,

Harry L. Knapp

Don't miss these clean-cut hits: "The Beautiful Liar," "The Infidel," "Domestic Relations," "Heroes and Husbands."

TWENTY-ONE GREAT MERMAID COMEDIES

for EDUCATIONAL PICTURES WEEK

April 16—23

"Exhibitors' Prosperity Week"

LLOYD HAMILTON in Mermaid Comedies

JACK WHITE, Supervising Director

ROBINSON CRUSOE, Ltd. featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	FOR LAND'S SAKE featuring LIGE CONLEY
THE VAGRANT featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	STEP THIS WAY featuring LIGE CONLEY
HOLY SMOKE featuring JIMMIE ADAMS
MOONSHINE featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	NONSENSE featuring JIMMIE ADAMS
THE ADVISER featuring LLOYD HAMILTON
ROLLING STONES featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	THE GREENHORN featuring LLOYD HAMILTON
THE SIMP featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	SPOOKS featuring LIGE CONLEY
APRIL FOOL featuring LLOYD HAMILTON
DUCK IN featuring LLOYD HAMILTON	BANG featuring JIMMIE ADAMS
DYNAMITE featuring LLOYD HAMILTON
SUNLESS SUNDAY featuring JIMMIE ADAMS	THE RAINMAKER featuring LLOYD HAMILTON
FREE AND EASY featuring JIMMIE ADAMS and LIGE CONLEY	HIGH AND DRY featuring JIMMIE ADAMS
A FRESH START featuring JIMMIE ADAMS and LIGE CONLEY

BOOK THEM NOW!

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.

E. W. Hammons, President

It's making every promise good!---Exhibitors now playing it First Run will praise more than we have!

For they will have record audience laughter ringing in their ears!

Goldwyn presents

Come

Ask Rothafel!

He has the world's biggest motion picture house to fill at the CAPITOL, N. Y.

Ask F. A. Miller!

He picks 'em with care for the Los Angeles folk at the CALIFORNIA

Ask Aschers!
(of Chicago)

They judge 'em with a miscroscope. They are playing it at the ROOSEVELT

Ask J. E. Tompkins!

Colorado Springs people demand knockouts at the

AMERICA

Ask J. Lourie!

He knows how hard Boston is to please. He's using it at the MODERN

Ask J. J. Galvin!

He holds Wilkes Barre's audience records and grabbed this one for

POLI'S

Or ask E. Quigley, Capitol, Cincinnati; J. Erber, Erber's, E. St. Louis; F. T. Dolle, Alamo, Louisville, Ky.; R. Wettstein, Merrill, Milwaukee; F. D. Hill, Lyric, Reading, Pa.; J. H. Rice, Loew's State, Salt Lake, Utah;—

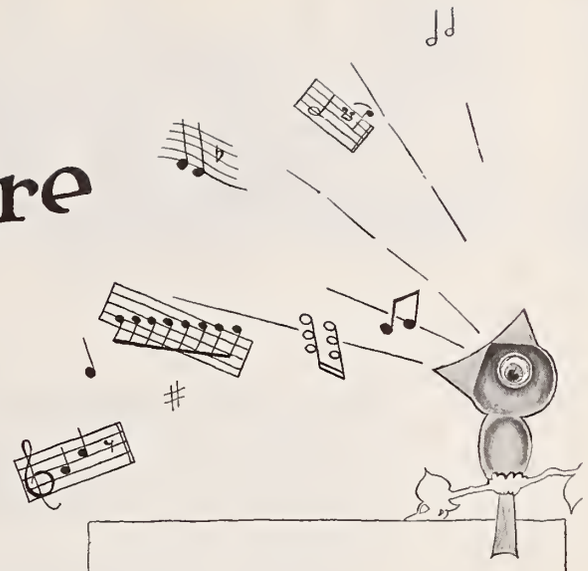
Or any of the First Run Exhibitors Now Playing It!

with Colleen Moore



On Ovei!

it's a picture with a touch of Spring in it!

Directed by Alfred E. Greene

Rupert Hughes has done it again!

A Goldwyn Picture

I Stood up

Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company

I've seen thousands of moving pictures in the years I've been in the business. A few of them moved me to tears, laughter or excitement. Most of them left me cold.

But, when I saw the prize fight in the Universal-Jewel-Collier's first picture of " The Leather Pushers " series, I STOOD UP AND YELLED. I got so excited that I forgot I was sitting in the Universal projection room with the man who wanted to sell me the pictures sitting right alongside of me!

Mind you, the deal whereby Universal afterward bought the pictures was not even made yet—and I was forgetfully making it easier for the seller to land me by yelling my head off at what I saw.

Well, " The Leather Pushers " will do the same thing to you. And, what's more important, it will do the same thing to your audience! When you can make them yell, you've got them! And how many pictures do you get in the course of a year that will make your people get up and emit loud noises?

Harry Pollard directed " The Leather Pushers " and he put his heart and soul into each picture—for there is a series of them, each story complete in two reels.

"The Leather Pushers"
Featuring
Reginald Denny

12 KNOCKOUT ROUNDS OF 2 REELS EACH and Yelled!

Reginald Denny plays the lead, that of a handsome young college man whose father has gone broke and who goes into the prize ring to make his fortune. Denny is simply a knockout in every picture.

H. C. Witwer wrote the stories for Collier's Weekly. They were so tremendously popular that Collier's kept asking Witwer to write more and more of the articles. And he did. They will give your old blood a ride such as it has not enjoyed since you were a mere squirt.

This is the kind of stuff the movies need—something new, something with a terrific kick, something to send people out of the theatre talking about the show, something clean, something that delights the women as much as it excites the men.

Millions of people are now reading "The Leather Pushers" in the daily newspapers, where they are being published by special arrangement. Millions more will want to read them after you have shown "The Leather Pushers" in your theatre. SEE EVEN ONLY ONE OF THESE AND YOU ARE SOLD FOR THE WHOLE SERIES!

Newspapers now running the story are: The Washington Post, the Boston Post, The Omaha News, The Chicago Daily News, The Philadelphia Record, the Brooklyn Eagle, the New York Telegram, the Dayton News, the Berkeley Gazette, the McKeesport Record, the Portland (Ore.) News, the Montreal Star—AND MORE ADDED EVERY DAY!

The best first run houses in the country are booking "The Leather Pushers," and their only kick is that "there are not enough pictures in the series." That's the kind of a kick I love to hear!

"The Leather Pushers"

From the famous Collier's Weekly stories by H.C. Witwer

Directed by Harry Pollard

UNIVERSAL-JEWEL COLLIER'S SERIES

In Celebration of Univer

Mr. Carl Laemmle has turned Exchanges to be run as our own and May. We are to receive
In appreciation of your past share these profits with to make good Mr. Laemmle's business with all our might and May the biggest and most ever had. The greater the bus — the larger your share. For you please get in touch with

We thank you.

Employees

sal's Tenth Anniversary over to us all the Universal during the months of April the lion's share of the profits.

patronage we have decided to you—the Exhibitor. We intend faith in us by going after your main. We offer during April and liberal proposition you've iness—the bigger our profits your sake and our own, won't us right now—this minute ?

Universal Exchanges

Why?

It is the question of the ages, originally asked, it is said, when primitive man first wondered at the dark shadow which glided before him as he walked westward toward the hunting grounds in the light of the rising sun.

If he could have answered his own perplexing question he would have explained the mysteries of light,—even now only partially solved after the passage of countless centuries,—and he could have predicted that photographs and later motion pictures some day would play an enormously important part in the affairs of mankind.

Why?

does the swift progress of

SECOND NATIONAL PICTURES CORPORATION

to a position of prominence mean much to the advancement of human thought and achievement in the utilization of light and shadows for the entertainment and instruction of the human race?

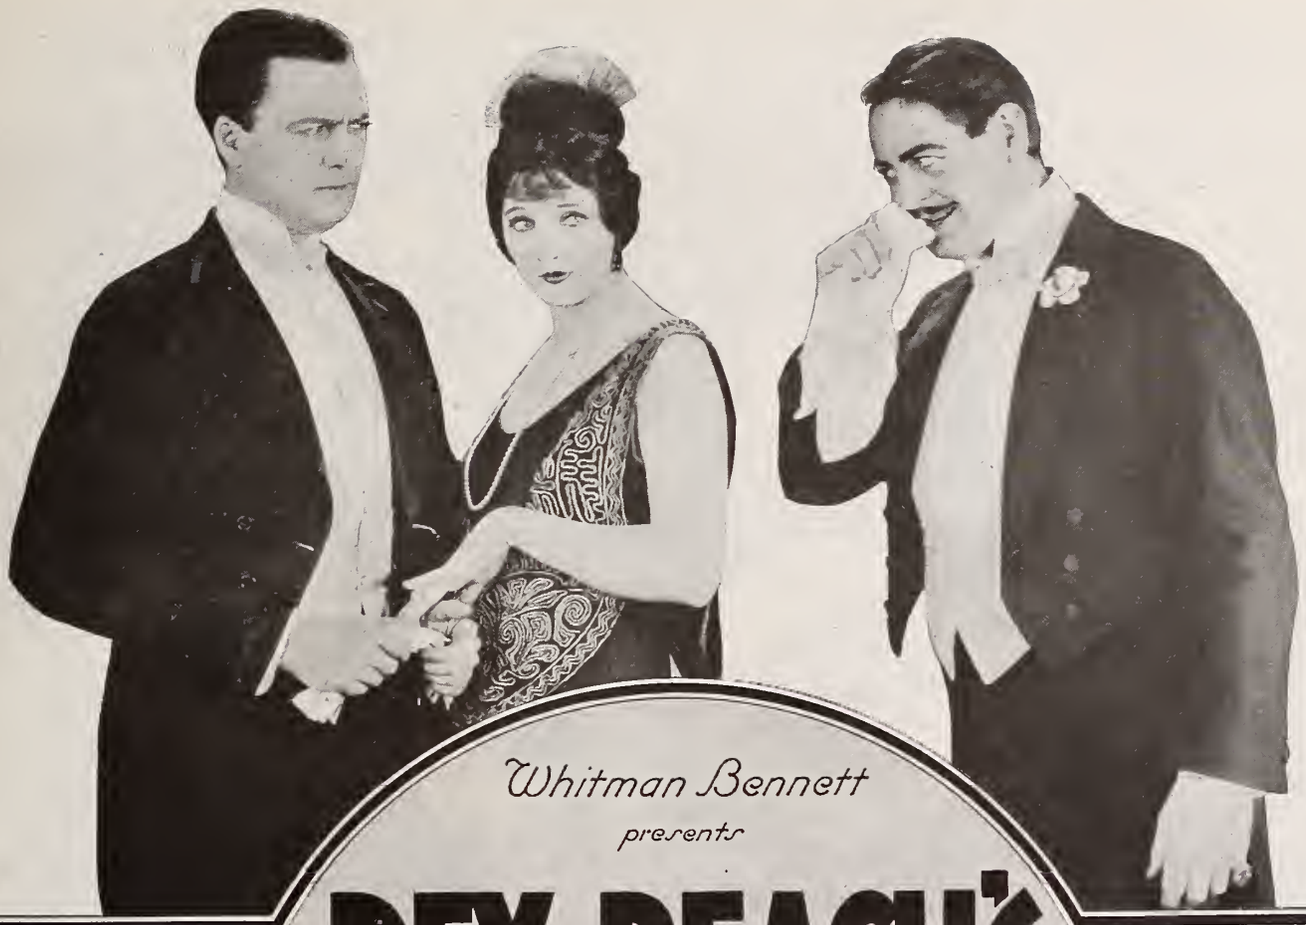
The excellence of the pictures distributed by this concern, the systematic methods employed and the attractive terms offered, tell——

Why

"The Night Riders" "Her Story"
"David and Jonathan"

Second National Pictures Corp.

140 West 42nd Street New York City



Whitman Bennett

presents

REX BEACH'S

romance

"Fair Lady"

Founded on his famous novel
"The Net"

Directed by Kenneth Webb

Scenario by Dorothy Farnum

The new Rex Beach picture – A high-class melodrama, with mystery, adventure, intrigue and vengeance, wherein a beautiful woman's hate turns to love.

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION

MARY PICKFORD • CHARLIE CHAPLIN • DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS • D.W. GRIFFITH
HIRAM ABRAMS • PRESIDENT

Who is
"YOUR BEST FRIEND"

SELZNICK PICTURES
REG U.S. PAT. OFF.

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
presents

CONWAY TEARLE
in
"Love's Masquerade"

Story and Scenario by EDWARD J. MONTAGNE
DIRECTED BY
WILLIAM P.S. EARLE

Your Favorite Screen Star in the Outstanding Performance of His Brilliant Career. ~

$1,000,000.00

AND

ONE YEAR IN TIME

HAS BEEN SPENT IN PRODUCING THE WORLD'S GREATEST PHOTOPLAY

"Determination"

TO BE RELEASED ON THE STATE RIGHT MARKET DIRECTLY AFTER PLAYING THE LEGITIMATE THEATRES IN THE KEY CITIES

Produced by

UNITED STATES MOVING PICTURES CORP.

JAMES. W. MARTIN . PRES.

World rights controlled by

LEE-BRADFORD

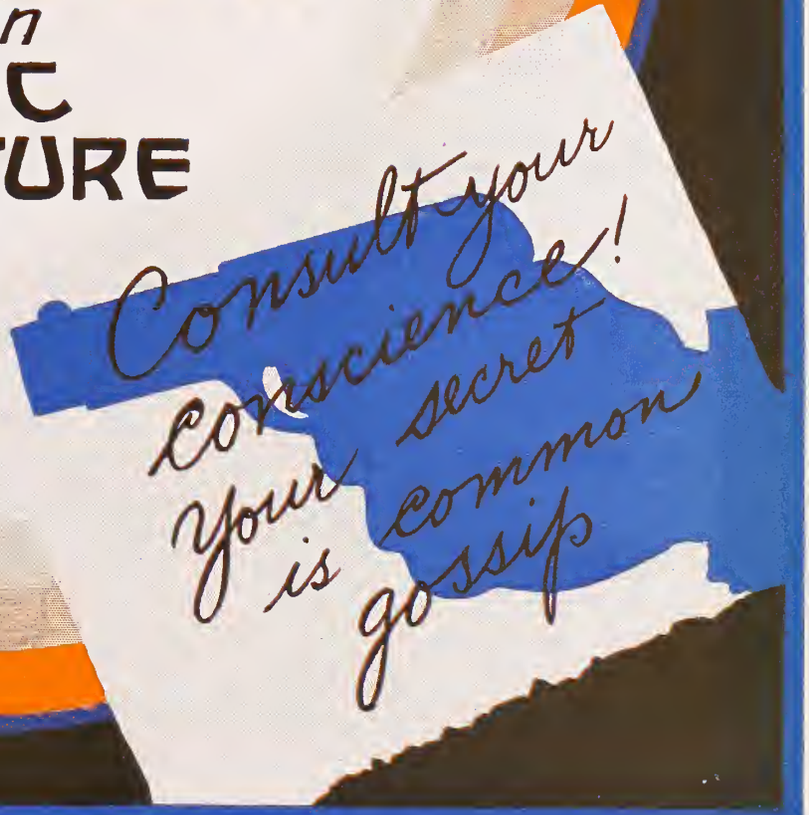
701 SEVENTH AVE.

NEW YORK CITY.

William Christy Cabanne's

"BEYOND THE RAINBOW"

An R-C PICTURE



R-C PICTURES

REG U.S. PAT. OFF.

R-C PI

PRE

WILLIAM CHRIS

"BEYOND THI

Here is a 100% Sto

Every family has a skelet person has some misdeed secret recesses of his hea would cause embarrassme

A heedless young girl, at following note to six peopl

Consult your conscience!

What happened

—a fake Count admitt
—a secret rum addi
—a society idler admitt
—an ex-convict hid hi
—a millionaire thoug
come known.
—a lovely typist posi

Then the millionai

The unravelling of th of the lovers make audienc

TURES

NTS

TY CABANNE'S RAINBOW" us a 100% Cast

the closet. Almost every iscretion hidden in the ich if known to the world disgrace.

h Avenue ball, sent the r secret is common gossip.

llam broke loose.

as a barber.
l to his hidden bottle.
ad hoodwinked his friends.
handcuffed, in his room.
scapades had beheiress nearly fainted.

mysteriously shot.
e and the romance
that will draw big here.

WHO SHOT
THE MILLIONAIRE ?

CLARA BOW

HARRY MOREY

LILLIAN BILLIE DOVE

VIRGINIA LEE

IHUNTLY GORDON

WILLIAM TOOKER

JAMES HARRISON

MACEY HARLAM

The Pre-release Reviews Praise to the Skies

HARRISON'S Reports: " 'Beyond the Rainbow' should have a one hundred per cent appeal. Excellent society drama. Head and shoulders above the average 'movie.' Story absorbing. Message inspiring. Cabanne's direction something for him to be proud of."

The Film Daily: "The best picture Cabanne has made since 'The Stealers.' Will satisfy every one in any audience. Murder mystery particularly effective. A genuine surprise twist."

Exhibitors Trade Review: "A brilliant cast. Story abounding in love, humor and a touch of mystery. Ample reason for anyone going to see 'Beyond the Rainbow.' Enough action to keep things going at a lively pace."

Motion Picture News: "A remarkable cast. A fine surprise for a climax. Should have a wide appeal; if this is Cabanne's intent he has succeeded admirably. Cast of the highest class. A physical thrill for a finale."

Morning Telegraph: "There should be a pot of gold at the end of this rainbow."

Play this picture. Exploit it heavily. It is good for a record clean-up.

HELEN WARE

GEORGE FAWCETT

EDMUND BREESE

ROSE COGHLAN

CHARLES CRAIG

MARGUERITE COURTOT

DIANA ALLEN

WALTER MILLER

A World's Record

Fifty Continuous Days as the Feature Attraction at the Symphony Theatre of Los Angeles

Box-office high mark exceeded in thirty cities.

Capacity houses in every theatre where it has played.

That's the way exhibitors are coining money on the overwhelming popularity of Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor-Made Man"

Exceeds in actual box-office performance all the previous Harold Lloyd hits.

HAL ROACH presents
THROUGH ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
ARTHUR S. KANE PRESIDENT

HAROLD LLOYD
in
A SAILOR-MADE MAN

A FOUR REEL FEATURE COMEDY

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVE FOR ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS SIDNEY GARRETT

MARCUS LOEW
You Have Immortalized the Photoplay in Producing and Distributing
THE FOUR HORSEMEN
OF THE APOCALYPSE
A WISTARIA PRODUCTION
LADY GODIVA
FOUNDED ON THE FAMOUS POEM BY LORD ALFRED TENNYSON
PRESENTED AND DISTRIBUTED BY
ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
ARTHUR S. KANE PRESIDENT
THROUGH PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.

AT LAST! One of the Most Sensationally Famous Incidents of All History Made to Live Again.
SMASH! An Act that Rang round the World. A Deed that Resounded through the Centuries. An Exploit Immortalized by Lord Tennyson's Master Work.
IT'S HERE! Celebrated in pageant and Song; by Stage and Story, and Now on the Screen! One of the most Startling Sacrifices Womankind Ever Faced.
CRASH! Go Box Office Records when Theatres Show how England's Most Beautiful Woman Rode Unclad Through the Streets of Coventry to Save Her People.
ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

William Fox presents these popular, proven

DUSTIN FARNUM
in Iron to Gold

You've heard of 100% pictures?
Here's one! Romance? Yes. Thrilling?
Great. Funny? Immense. Surprise?
Oh Boy!

Directed by Bernard Durning

TOM MIX
in Chasing the Moon

"Mix never made a poor one!"– Box office motto.
Here's one of his best.

Directed by Edward Sedgwick

FOX
"INDEPENDENCE & STRENGTH"

* The Sensational News Feature of the Day *

FACE TO FACE

* It is Fox Special Feature News Service *

persistent box office profit-makers.

CHARLES JONES in Pardon My Nerve

Clean and sweet as western winds and with that wholesome American Charles Jones appeal

Directed by
Reeves Eason

WILLIAM FARNUM in A Stage Romance

More welcome now than ever—the magnetic drawing power of this great romantic actor

Directed by HERBERT BRENON

FOX
INDEPENDENCE & STRENGTH

$ Play it up as a Feature—No Extra Rental $

WITH JAPAN !

$ People Eagerly Seek it Everywhere $

From the New York Evening Telegram:—

French Film and English Star at Strand

At the Strand Theatre this week there is a distinct innovation. Hitherto the application of "foreign film" was directed solely at the German made motion pictures, and "foreign film" was invariably interpreted to mean artistic film, since only the artistic of the German productions managed to find their way into this liberal country of ours.

As they had no other European competition to speak of, very few indeed considered the possibilities of applying that term to any other division of the foreign photoplay mart. Consequently an artistic monoply was threatened. But that, as a good number of filmgoers have already confirmed, was averted with the presentation of "The Sheik's Wife," a French production by the eminent author-director, Henri-Roussell, at the Strand Theatre yesterday.

Emmy Lynn, an English actress, is not only the type required for the part, but also makes good her recognized ability as an emotional actress of the highest order. Her characterization of the Sheik's wife is superb. The work of Marcel Vibert, a leading screen player of France, is equally commendable. Together, these two players carry off the acting honors in the stellar roles. This in no way is meant to depreciate the ability of the other players; their individual contributions lend a unity to the production that would otherwise have been lacking. As it is, it is not the stilted affair one usually finds in the popular conceptions of Oriental drama.

The story in brief concerns a blond English beauty who believed enough in the potency of romance to marry a Sheik, who was an Oxford graduate. As the wife of a wandering Arab of the desert she found herself face to face with immemorial customs and rigid traditions. He had sworn by all that was holy to him that she should be his only wife, the sole light of his harem. Yet, after three years, his great love for her is overruled by the clamorous demands of his tribesmen for a son and heir, and he prepares to take a second wife. All alone she fights—one girl against thousands—for the sanctity of her marriage rights.

Director Joseph Plunkett has prepared a symbolic prologue, with a group of Dervish dancers. The settings and lighting are a distinct credit.

From the New York Evening Mail:—

vishly staged.

"THE SHEIK'S WIFE"

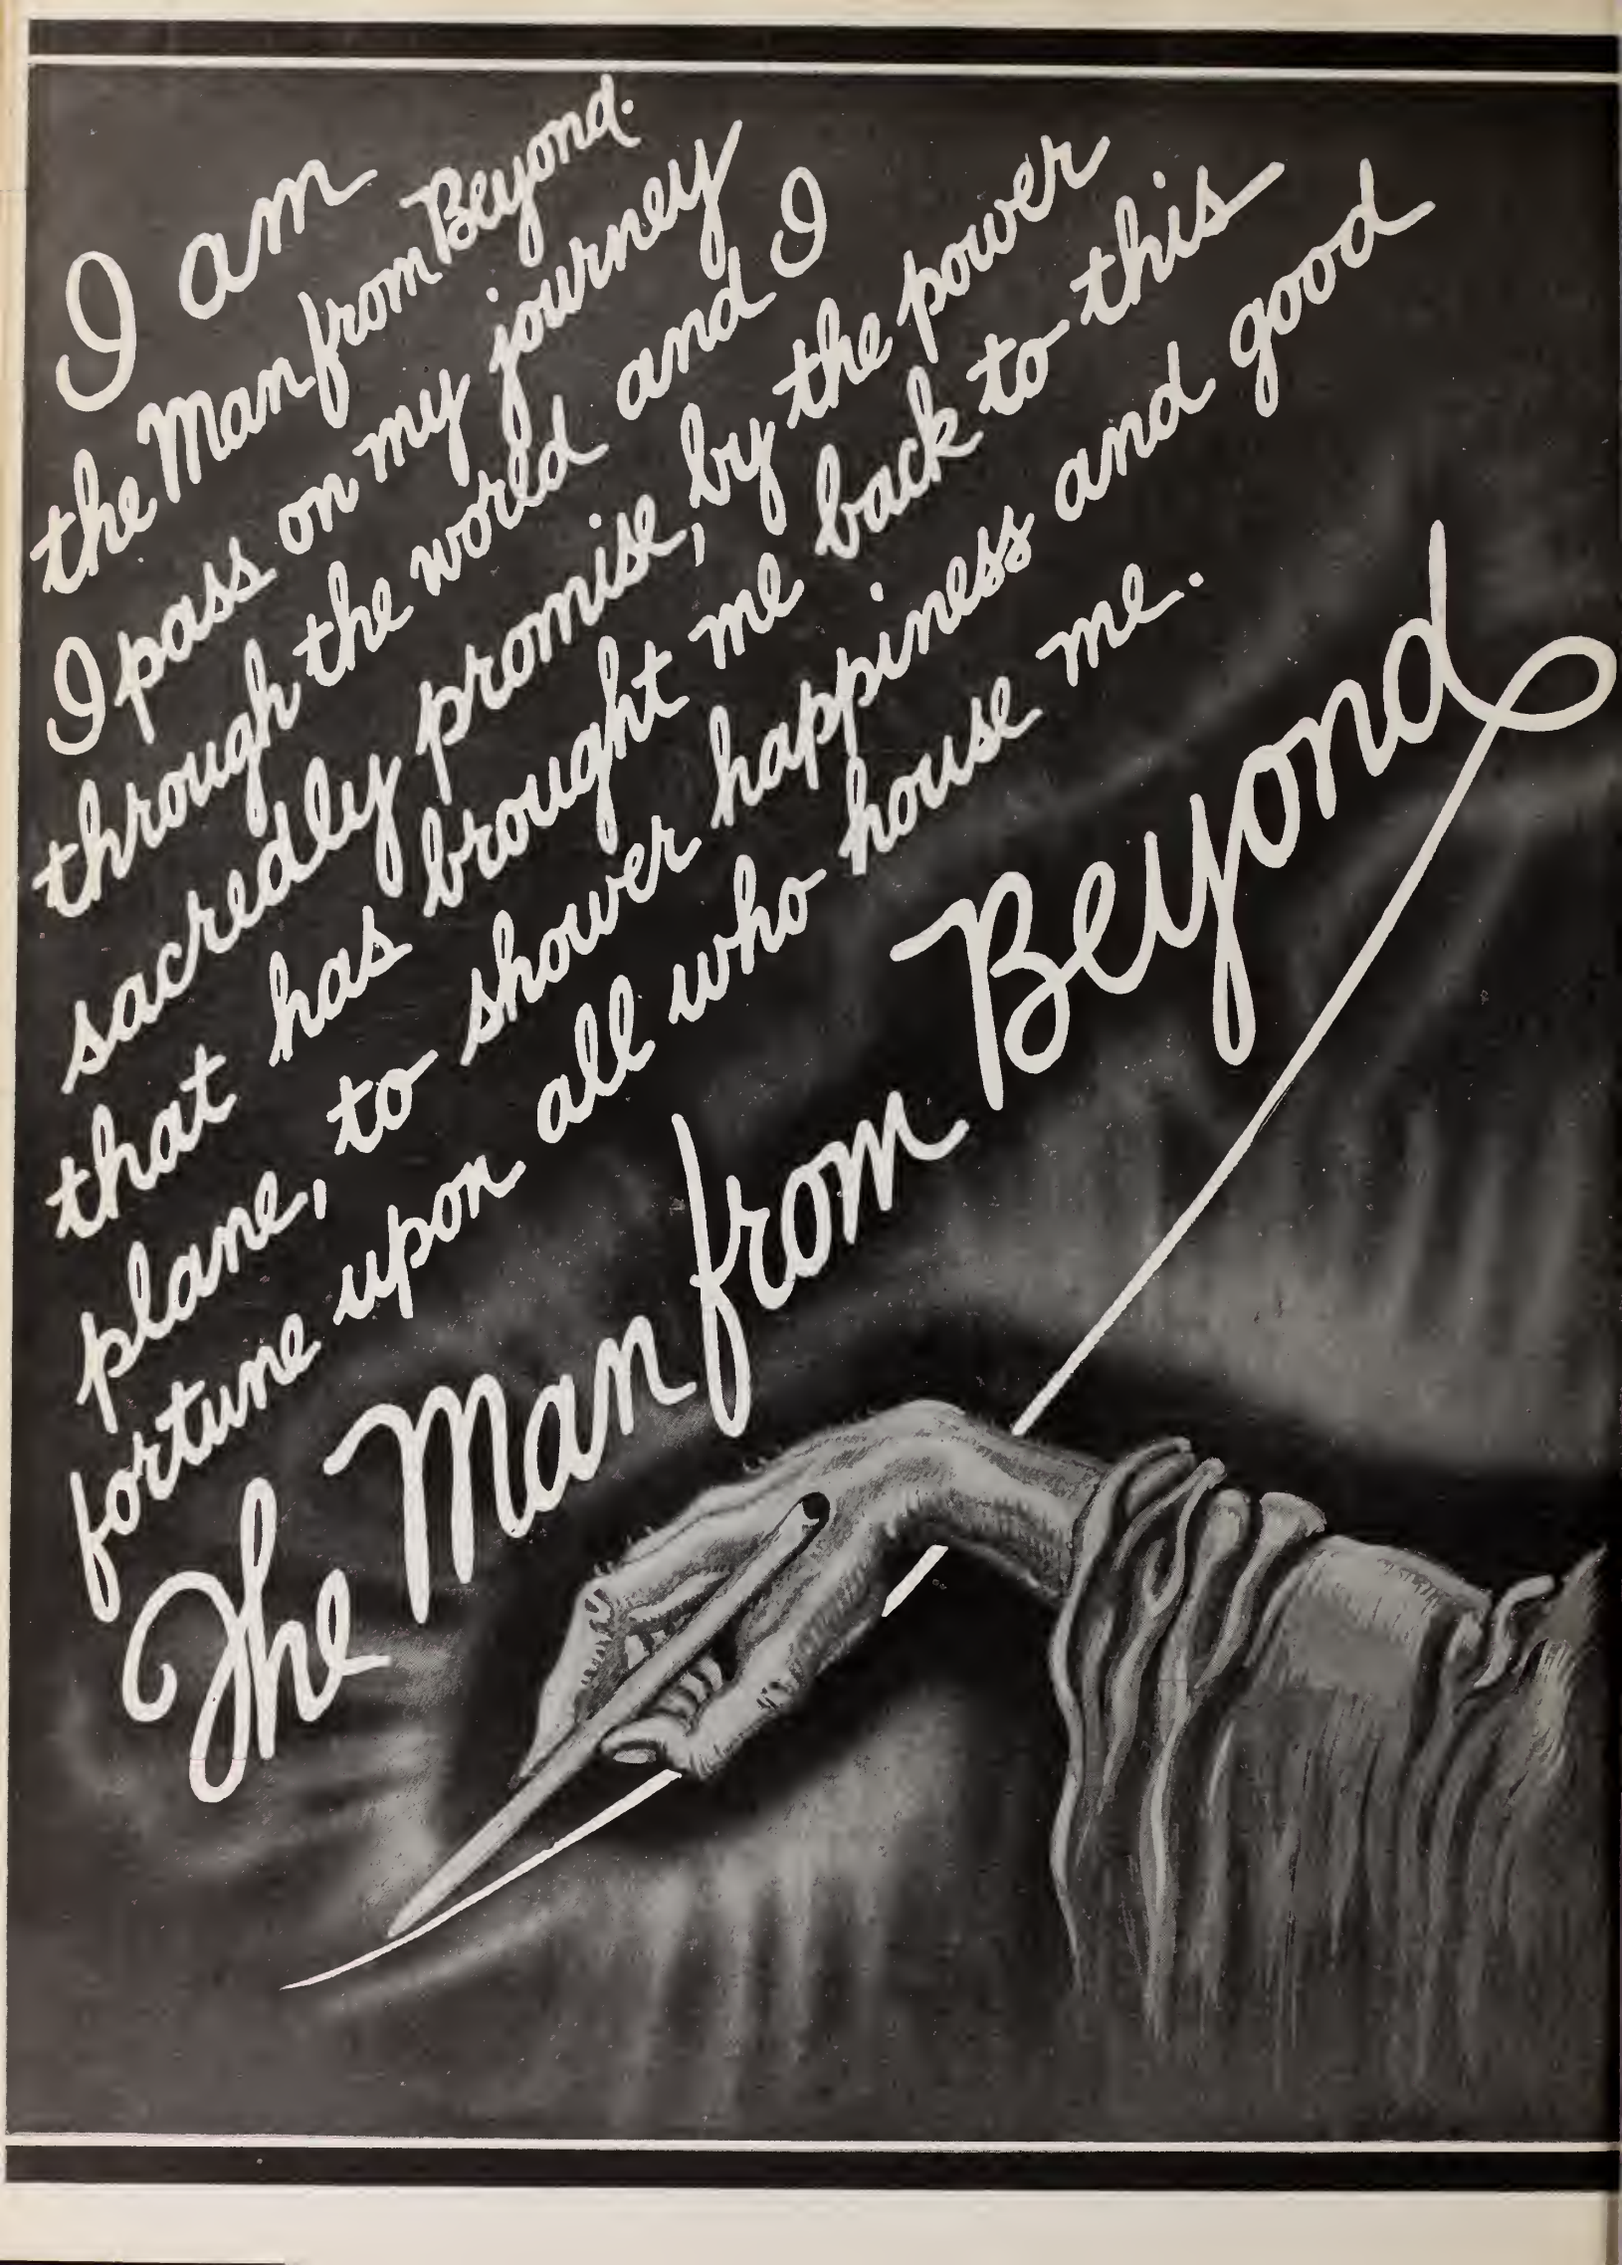
A FOREIGN picture which takes rank with the best that have been imported into this country, from the standpoint of excellence of production, photography, faithfulness to detail and action, while the continuity is rather an improvement on many that have been shown here, is being presented this week at the Strand Theatre, a French picture, entitled "The Sheik's Wife."

Emmy Lynn

This film, taken, we are informed, on the deserts of Arabia, is a really excellent piece of work, certainly the best French film that has been shown here. In many respects its construction is very similar to that of American productions and only on rare occasions does it have the stamp of "foreign" upon it.

The picture was conceived on a splendid scale and is worthily produced. The true atmosphere of the Levant, which so many film makers have sought to transfer to the screen, is here presented in a manner that has the unmistakable mark of fidelity to fact.

Marcel Vilbert as the sheik takes the histronic honors of the film. He makes of the desert ruler a deeply human character, torn between his love and the laws of his people. Emmy Lynn in the title role brings to American audiences another European player who is worthy of attention.



I am
the Man from Beyond.
I pass on my journey through the world and I sacredly promise, by the power that has brought me back to this plane, to shower happiness and good fortune upon all who house me.
The Man from Beyond

The Entertainment Ten

Show Talk!

¶ "Give us ENTERTAINMENT!" say patrons the country over. "Variety, spice, adventure, love—and make it ENTERTAINING. We're sick of over-advertised, extravagantly made attempts at BIGNESS that fall so flat they don't even ENTERTAIN."

¶ "Give me a chance at real ENTERTAINMENT that I can buy right and I'll put that word profits back on my books again," says the exhibitor.

¶ The Entertainment Ten is here—ten corking wallops right to the heart—ten showman's bets.

¶ Money-sounding titles everyone of them—with the box office jingle to them.

¶ Assured entertainment in every one—with the lip advertising that chases the glooms.

¶ Look 'em over, boys! Get out your date book! Line forms on the right!

Give yourself a treat!
Read the following pages!
No press agent bull!
Just plain "SHOW TALK"
The language you know!
Read them—and see!

Turn the Page!

The Entertainment Ten

"The Fire Bride"

¶ Opens at the Keith-Moss' Broadway, Monday, March 13, for special run.

¶ The title means something. It rings of ENTERTAINMENT. The picture backs it up.

¶ The story is of a passion-cursed man who defies God and man for a woman and a chest of gold.
—Feel the thrill of passionate conflict.
—Feel the lure of lovely languor.
—See the Terrifying Tropic Storm.

¶ The tropic scenes actually produced in Tahiti (Ty-tee) in the South Seas, by Alder and Unander.

¶ All American cast including Ruth Reneck, Fred Stanton and Walt Whitman.
—With posters and other accessories that PULL PATRONS.

Ready for release today at these Gunning Exchanges

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten

A dramatic thunderbolt

"The Madness of Love"

¶ Opens Pantages theatre, Kansas City, March 25th.

¶ Story of Storm-tossed hearts.

¶ Asks and answers the question, "Have parents the right to keep lovers apart?"

¶ Bears that sure-fire element of magnetism — sweethearts estranged.

¶ Has that rare quality of love interest — heart interest — human interest THAT HOLDS AN AUDIENCE.

¶ Produced on the wave-swept coast of Maine by Wray Physioc. With Jean Scott, late of David Belasco's "Kiki" company.

BOOK NOW FROM YOUR NEAREST GUNNING EXCHANGE

The Entertainment Ten

"Alias Phil Kennedy"

¶ Hair-Raising Thriller.

¶ You can guarantee at least ten surprises.

¶ If your patrons like Westerns you can play it up as a Western, or if they don't want Westerns, you can play it up as a thriller. Kennedy is an Eastern revenue officer masquerading as a Western outlaw.

¶ See Phil's escape by standing jump to a running horse.
—See his leap from a cliff to a flying auto.
—See his rescue of the girl in a real water-fall.
—See the fight in Dawson's saloon.
—See the search for gold in the abandoned mine.
—See the raid of the revenue officers.

¶ A Long Beach Motion Picture Co. production, with Bill Patton and Dixie Lamont.

BOOK NOW FROM YOUR NEAREST GUNNING EXCHANGE

The Entertainment Ten

"The Blonde Vampire"

¶ The title has the box office quality of the naughty, naughty, though the picture is not a sex story and is more a melodrama than a sermon.

¶ Scenario based upon Hearst Newspapers Sunday Magazine feature "Are Blondes Vampires?"

¶ Has several angles to start an argument through your local press, such as —Are Brunettes more attractive than Blondes? Or do they make better mothers? Or does their beauty last longer?

¶ Produced by Wray Physioc with De Sacia Mooers, pronounced by Hearst papers "America's most beautiful Blonde."

THE SERIES AT PRICES THAT WILL SURPRISE YOU. NOW READY AT GUNNING EXCHANGES.

The Entertainment Ten

"Foolish Monte Carlo"

¶ EXCITEMENT—ADVENTURE—MYSTERY.

¶ You should ring up a lot of cash fares when you play this one.

¶ It is long on title that will immediately create a desire for the patron to see what it is all about.

¶ Monte Carlo is a magic word with all Americans.

¶ We believe this is the first picture actually produced at the World Famous Gambling Resort, with an American cast of players. Produced by William Humphrey by special arrangement. B & C production with Mary Clare, Percy Standing and Dorothy Cecil.

Book now from your nearest Gunning Exchange

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten

"The Bootleggers"

Book now from your nearest Gunning Exchange

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

¶ 50 Million people are waiting for "The Bootleggers."

¶ Newspaper front pages have given it box office possibilities that can not be estimated in dollars.

¶ No subject is so alive at this time. It is a positive clean up.

¶ The picture is fired with thrills—excitement—romance—adventure.

¶ See rum-running by auto, ship, aeroplane and wireless.

¶ It is the melodramatic sensation of the year.

¶ Directed by Roy Sheldon with Walter Miller, Paul Panzer and strong cast.

The Entertainment Ten

"The Love Nest"

¶ Patrons are getting more like city editors, every day.

¶ You always did have to SHOW a city editor. He insisted on reader values, news interest, human interest, or he wouldn't print your press matter.

¶ Now you must SHOW YOUR PATRONS pictures with meat in them. They demand something that will stick to their insides. "The Love Nest" is that kind of a picture.

¶ Produced by Wray Physioc with Jean Scott, late of David Belasco's "Kiki" company.

Book now from your nearest Gunning Exchange

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten

"Don't Blame Your Children"

¶ Powerful conflict of Parents' Might against Children's right.

¶ Not a sex story nor a propaganda.

¶ Rather a horse-sense argument applied to directing a family of girls.

¶ Features a great dramatic development with a happy ending.

¶ Directed by George Ridgewell. B. & C. production, with Molly Adair and Norman McKinnell.

BOOK NOW FROM YOUR NEAREST GUNNING EXCHANGE

The Entertainment Ten

"Mrs. Dane's Confession"

¶ Few things travel faster than a woman's tongue (present company excepted). The average woman thrives on gossip.

¶ This title means a packed house, matinee and night.

¶ There's a touch of the "naughty boy" in the title. And this baby had a lot to tell.

¶ If you're sceptical just hang up a one sheet and mark it "Coming". A hundred women will ask you "When?"

¶ Try that out!

¶ We dare you!

AT ALL GUNNING EXCHANGES
READY TO BOOK AND PLAY NOW

The Entertainment Ten

"The Blue Mountain Mystery"

THRILLS!
CHILLS!
MYSTERY!
SUSPENSE!

BOOK NOW FROM YOUR NEAREST
GUNNING EXCHANGE

¶ You've read about a lot of film with a wallop that would knock the neighbors out of their seats. But you haven't seen many such films. Right?

¶ Well, take this tip. Have the smelling salts handy when you play this one. Tracey murdered—police baffled—no trace of weapon.

¶ Unsolvable until the final scene.

The Entertainment Ten

¶ Most posters hung up in front of a theatre are like "Welcome" on a door mat.

¶ They're there alright—but THEY DON'T MEAN ANYTHING!

¶ Posters and accessories on The Entertainment Ten have been prepared by SHOWMEN.

¶ They are aimed to SELL TICKETS for you. And they'll do it.

¶ Get in touch with the nearest Gunning exchange today and learn the attractive possibilities in The Entertainment Ten for your house.

¶ Prepare yourself for EARLY DATES for a "good thing" can't be postponed.

¶ When you look at the press sheet, the posters, the remarkable proposition, you'll want to put these ten fingers—The Entertainment Ten—to work for you without delay.

"The Entertainment Ten" Available at the Following Exchanges of Wid Gunning, Inc.

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland....607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati.....Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City.....Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis.....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City.....5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

WOW!

WHAT A MOVIE

A Glance at the Newspaper Headlines is Enough —

A PICTURE THAT WILL PLEASE ANY AUDIENCE

Filled With More Laughs and Thrills Than You Are Likely to Get at Any Other Current Pictu

Basil Sidney, May Collins, Tom Wilson in Cast of "Red Hot Romance"

Authors Wield Wicked Keyboard

Patrons Will Leap From Their Chairs and Cheer

WHITE HOT COMEDY THAT COMES SIZZLING OFF THE GRIDDLE

Should Be Good Money Getter

An Unusual Photoplay Feature Playing an Extended Run at Criterion Theatre, New York

Speedy Plot Goes Over With a Bang

THRILLS COMBINE WITH BIG LAUGHS

appy Subtitles and Gin-gery Action Aids Lively Comedy Drama

It's Worth $10,000,000 Compared with Some of the Films Claiming to Cost One Million.

It Is Funny with a Capital F and the Rest of the Word Underscored—Has All Material of Big Film Only It's Different.

Emerson-Loos Spring Splendid Satire in Their ed Hot Romance"

Lively Satire That's Filled With Both Thrills and Laughs

Deftly Woven Together Picture of American Hero in South American Mythica

BOOK IT QUICK THEY'LL LIKE IT

It Will Give Them a Good Laugh, and Bear Out Almost Any Promises You Ma

STORY AND IDEA ARE EXCELLENT

remely Good Cast Does Splendid Work

Knockdown Comedy Filled With Laughs and Exciting Action

John Emerson and Anita Loos Let Themselves for a Treat

Corking Comedy That Would Get Laugh from Sphinx

Patrons Will Give Three Cheers for This One.

ntertainment Is Fine for Any Class of Patrons; One Audience Will Thrill While Others Get a

A Delightful Picture That'll Make You Laugh

"Red Hot Romance" Replete With Laughs

Abounds in Amus ing, Laughable Situations

John Emerson and Anita Loos

present their own production

Management of Joseph M. Schenck

RED HOT ROMANCE

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

A Powerful Domestic Drama with

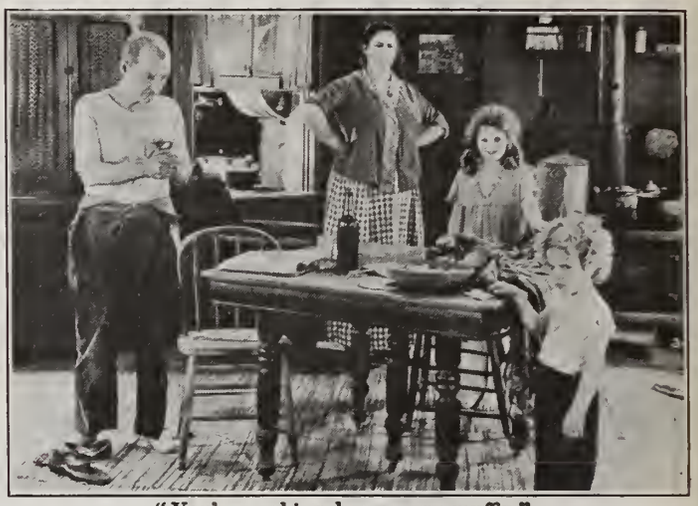
Louis B. Mayer presents the

John M. Stahl Production

Story and Direction by John M. Stahl
Screen Version by Bess Meredith

A First National Attraction

"I'm so glad you're home, dear!"



"You're nothing but a rag-a-muffin"

"Are you feeling ill?"

"Oh—I'm tired of dishes—dishes—dishes!"

"I'm through with being a poor man's slave"

The other man's flowers

A First National Attraction

Tense, Heart Touching Scenes!

"THE SONG OF LIFE"

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

A drama of dishes and discontent with a human element and punch that is putting it over in the big theatres and small.

His wife's picture!

The rich clubman shot down

"You killed him!"

"I did it. You can't take her to jail!"

"Can't you forgive her, son?"

"Let's start all over again"

There'll be a Franchise everywhere

Better Films Board Urges Every Woman to See "Hail the Woman!"

Read their letter of recommendation:

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 20th, 1922.

Associated First National,
6-8 West 48th Street,
New York City.

The Better Films Committee of Atlanta after viewing "Hail the Woman" at the Metropolitan Theatre unanimously endorses the picture and recommends that it be shown in every community throughout this broad land. "Hail the Woman" not only emphasizes the injustice of the double standard, but gloriously exemplifies in Judith the highest type of womanhood, the women who have through the ages tended the flame of life and who dying have passed the torch to the next in line. The story and theme are not limited by locale, time or creed. Its deep heart interest grips the audience; each individual character is perfectly drawn, the technique is without flaw. In her portrayal of the fragile young mother, deserted and despairing Madge Bellamy proves herself an exquisite artist expressing poignant grief with power and delicacy and rising to great emotional heights. And Theodore Roberts was wonderful, particularly in his final scenes where we see verily that "a little child shall lead them." Our congratulations to Mr. Ince whose vision and courage gave us "Hail the Woman," which after all is but a simple story showing us what lies about us—things we cannot see save that some one point the way.

(Signed) Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Chairman
Better Films Committee.

Then let W. C. Patterson tell you how it went over in his Metropolitan theatre:

"It went over big here and few pictures made during the past year can rank with this production."

Speaking of

Thomas H. Ince's

Big American Drama of Today
Written by C. Gardner Sullivan

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Directed by John Griffith Wray; Photographed by Henry Sharp; Supervision of Thomas H. Ince

Distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Released on the Open Market

Kid Joy Gives the K. O. To Old Man Gloom!

Guy L. Wonders, Manager of the Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore

SAYS: — If business depression bothers you try ————

But turn the page and

READ IT BY ROUNDS!

BATTLE BY ROUNDS

Round I—

Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore, Guy L. Wonders, manager and referee, wires:

Penrod has done such phenomenal business we are compelled to hold it over second week—first time we have ever doubled a run. Today's receipts ahead of Passion which holds house record. Greatest box office of the day. If anyone has business depression tell him to run Penrod.

—Knockout in Baltimore.

Round II—

Strand Theatre, New York, Joseph Plunket, managing director and referee, says:

Played to tremendous business. S. R. O. signs out. Wonderful box office attraction.

—Knockout in New York.

Round III—

Chicago Theatre, Chicago, Balaban and Katz, managers and referees:

Penrod opened to outstanding success. Audiences enthusiastic. You have a winner. Banner business for all exhibitors.

—Knockout in Chicago.

Round IV—

Capitol Theatre, Detroit, John L. Kunsky, manager and referee:

Penrod did knockout business. Critics all praised it. Great box office picture.

—Knockout in Detroit.

Round V—

Walnut Theatre, Cincinnati, Ike Lipson, manager and referee:

Played to crowded houses. Wonderful box office picture. Everyone liked it!

—Knockout in Cincinnati.

PENROD Did It!

MARSHALL NEILAN'S

Big Picture of Youth and Joy
That Knocks Out the Gloom

with

FRECKLES BARRY

MARSHALL NEILAN PRODUCTIONS

Motion Picture News

Will Hays Takes His Chair

WILL H. HAYS, on taking up his new office, gave an interview to the trade press, the substance of which we are pleased to give prominence here.

What Mr. Hays said commits him solemnly and irrevocably to his new and big task.

It is going to be a difficult one. We all know that. Few men have ever tackled a larger and more complex job of construction.

But we have this to say: his conception of his work is so simple, true and practical, that it ought to clear away at once all puzzlement within the trade as to just what Mr. Hays is to do; and secondly it ought to enlist the confidence and the warm-hearted support of every man who makes his living from the motion picture.

Put in a nut-shell, Mr. Hays' platform is this: to make and secure the integrity of the motion picture.

That's simple and conclusive enough.

The motion picture, like the church, or the press, or any institution of broad public contact, is nothing if it lacks integrity. It must not, for one thing, be used—or subsidized to commercial or political or any such selfish or short sighted ends.

Mr. Hays' conception of the establishment of the integrity of the motion picture is this:

"To obtain and then to maintain the highest possible standards of motion picture production."

"To develop to the highest possible degree the moral and educational character of the industry."

So far so good. Certainly no one will quarrel with this. Everyone wants the integrity of the motion picture insured—this above all other considerations. And, broadly, Mr. Hays' ways of going about it are apparently the necessary and proper ones.

Then Mr. Hays goes on to say this:

In arriving at this ideal there cannot be other than a mutuality of interest among all concerned. All concerned meaning, first and broadly, the picture industry and the public; or by division, the producer, distributor and exhibitor of pictures; the church; the school; Women's and Civic and All organizations for the betterment of the home and the minds and morals of the general public.

A mutuality of interest! Assuredly so.

With this ideal in mind—and working for this ideal—there can be no acrimony, says Mr. Hays.

There can be no quarrel between the picture and the church. Both are working for the same all-important end. Nor can there be any dissension, with this end in view, between the picture and any organization for the public welfare.

As for the producer, distributor and exhibitor—there will always exist, of course, the differences that always and regularly exist between the buyer and seller of goods. We might add here, on our own hook, that these differences are greater in this industry than in any other because of the exceptional instability of our goods and our prices. There will always exist the suspicion and warfare that barter creates—until we buy and sell on some new basis.

But, says Mr. Hays, besides all this and in the common effort to establish and maintain the integrity of the motion picture, which means primarily its integrity with the public, there can be no division of interest or opinion between producer, distributor and exhibitor.

At any rate, here's his platform, simple, concise, straightforward.

And, he stands, by his words to the trade press, solemnly and earnestly committed to it.

Can anyone of us fail to join him in the same wholehearted fashion?

Let's do it!

WM. A. JOHNSTON.

Index to General and Departmental News

DEPARTMENTS

Editorial, General News and Features....1593-1608
Exhibitors Service Bureau....1609-1617
Programs of the First Run Houses....1618-1621
What the Big Houses Report....1622
News from the Chicago Field....1623
Action Stills from the Week's Releases....1624
Feature Reviews....1625-1629
Short Subject Reviews....1630
News from the Producers....1633-1640
State Right News....1640-1641
Studio Notes from the West Coast....1643
Information on All Releases....1644-1648
Independent Movie Supply Co. Section....1649-1656
New Theatre, Equipment and Construction....1657-1672

GENERAL NEWS AND FEATURES

William A. Johnston's Editorial....1593
Goldwyn Names Sales Council....1594
Pictures and People—an Intimate Chat....1595
Will Hays Is on the Job!....1596
Unique Celebration of Universal Anniversary....1596
Expect Notable Results from Convention....1598
Bill for Federal Motion Picture Commission Before Congress....1597
Ohio Roused Against Censor Board....1599
A Small Town Exhibitor's Story....1600
"$100,000 to Save Millions"....1601
Personal Appearances—Are They Valuable....1602
Kane Elected President of Associated Exhibitors....1603
First National Week Brings Attendance Increase....1605
News from the Exchanges....1607-1608

FEATURE REVIEWS

"The Sheik's Wife" (Vitagraph)....1625
"The Prophet Paradise" (Selznick)....1625
"Marry the Poor Girl" (Associated Exhibitors)....1625
"The Splendid Lie" (Arrow Film)....1626
"The Dangerous Little Demon" (Universal)....1626
"The Red Peacock" (Paramount)....1626
"Mistress of the World"—first episode (Paramount)....1627
"The Vermilion Pencil" (R-C Pictures)....1627
"Smilin' Through" (First National)....1627
"Extra! Extra!" (Fox)....1628
"Any Night" (Amalgamated)....1628
"Living Lies" (Clark-Cornelius)....1628
"The Star Reporter" (Arrow Film)....1629
"They're Off" (Anchor Film)....1629
"Whispering Women" (Clark-Cornelius)....1629

PRODUCER ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hal Roach Augments Staff....1633
Paramount to Continue "All Star" Policy....1633
First National Studios Busy....1634
"Foolish Wives" Sets Capitol Record....1634
Coming Jewel Productions....1635
"Sisters" Set for Release....1638
Goldwyn Studio Is Active....1638
Pathe's March 19 Release....1639
"The Sheik's Wife" Opens....1639
Paramount's March 12 Releases....1639

STATE RIGHT ANNOUNCEMENT

New Vera Gordon Picture....1641
Ten George Hamilton Pictures....1641
Eddie Polo Making Big Serial....1642
"Determination" Opens in N. Y....1642
"Night Riders" New Second National Release....1642

ACCESSORY DEPARTMENT

Mainstreet Theatre in Kansas City Opens....1657
Builder's Analysis of Knickerbocker Disaster....1662
Proper Ventilation—by a Health Department Engineer....1664
National Anti-Misframe League Forum....1668

Missouri M. P. T. O. Publishes Bulletin

One of the greatest steps taken by the M. P. T. O. of Missouri toward perfecting organization was taken last week with the initial issuance of the "Exhibitors' Forum," a bulletin in magazine form, which will be circulated free of cost among the 600 exhibitors of the state. The publication is an organ through which exhibitors will be kept in close contact with each other and the activities of the state organization.

As an opening feature, Lawrence E. Goldman, counsel and secretary of the M. P. T. O. M., who is editing the Forum, has offered to print the names of all exchanges pledging themselves to refrain from renting film to non-theatrical institutions, which has caused no small amount of grief among Kansas City exhibitors recently. The blue laws, the deposit law, revenues and music tax questions will be analyzed in the "blue law" number, which will be published next week. The Forum, although a semi-monthly publication at present, probably will be published weekly in the near future.

Sales Council Is Named to Market Goldwyn Product

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION announces the appointment of a Sales Council, which will henceforth direct the selling of the Goldwyn product.

The Sales Council is composed of five members: Cecil E. Maberry, director of sales and chairman; S. Eckman, Jr., and J. E. Flynn, sales managers; W. F. Rodgers, manager of distribution, and Howard Dietz, who will continue to act as director of advertising and publicity.

The personnel of the Goldwyn Sales Council have all been associated with the Goldwyn Company for years.

Following the inauguration of the Goldwyn Sales Council several important changes are announced in the management of the Goldwyn branches. Sidney Harris, formerly assistant to Mr. Eckman in the New York exchange, has been named manager; Harry S. Lorch, for some time manager of the Omaha branch, goes to Chicago in place of Mr. Maberry; Ben B. Reingold, assistant sales manager in Chicago, succeeds Mr. Lorch in Omaha, and F. J. Downey is promoted from assistant sales manager to manager of the Detroit office in place of Mr. Flynn.

Chamber of Commerce Nominates Officers

The Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting nominated its officers for the ensuing year. Following is a slate which the members will vote upon March 28th:

For president, William Brandt and William Landau; for first vice-president, Joseph James and Charles Steiner; for second vice-president, J. Alton Bradbury; for treasurer, Samuel Schwartz, Hymar Rachmil; for secretary, Samuel A. Moross; for sergeant-at-arms, Al. Harstn.

Board of Directors—Borough Manhattan: Leo Brecker, Sol. Raives and David Weinstock; Borough Brooklyn: S. Sonin, Samuel Rinzler, R. Sanders, O Muller, John Manheimer and Mike Glynne. Borough Bronx: B. Edelhertz and E. Falter. Borough Queens: Hy Gainsboro. Borough Richmond, S. I.: Charles Moses. State of New Jersey: L. Blumenthal, D. Keizerstein, P. Adams and L. Rosenblatt.

Finance Committee—Samuel Sonin Samuel Peyser, Jack Schwartz, Max Barr E. R. Behrend and Sol. J. Saphier.

Howard Deitz | J. E. Flynn | Cecil E. Maberry | W. F. Rodgers | Samuel Eckman, Jr.

PEOPLE AND PICTURES

IT cost the state of New York just $37,000 for the Censorship Commission to ban five motion pictures in the first five months of its operation. Just $7,400 per picture.

And it cost the industry, in license fees, exactly $158,000 for the Commission to accomplish its trifling result.

The figures are not ours—they are presented editorially in a recent issue of the New York American. And they speak for themselves.

Are we not indeed, as the American heads its editorial, burdened with

" TOO MUCH CENSORSHIP? "

* * *

The pen of a man knowing every side of life, who for twenty years has been behind the bars of the Arizona State Prison, and who is condemned to remain there the rest of his life, has been taken up in behalf of the industry (of which he has considerable knowledge, and for which he writes). He offers a concrete suggestion for effectually stopping the slander spread so broadcast. His every line is worth reading. Page 1601.

* * *

Newspapers are so ready to slur the industry upon the slightest excuse that they have ordinarily no space in their columns for a few lines of credit. But Joe Lee has dug up a story carried in the New York Times—a dispatch from Atlantic City of a little child whose life was despaired of, now on the highroad to recovery through being shown a comic film which aroused her dulling senses.

" Laugh and live " as the old saying has it. And the corollary, " Live and Let Live " might fitly be adopted by amusement " knockers "—but won't be as long as politics provide fat paying censoring jobs.

* * *

Still, it is a genuine treat to read of Ohioans rising up against arbitrary censoring by " holier-than-thous " who admit themselves they know more than 90 per cent of the people.

Ohio has its lance couched.

Details on page 1599.

* * *

The 'star system' will not want for active proponents so long as the Marys, Rosies and Bettys of your town and by town visualize stardom as a Utopia, wherein handsome gallants besiege the heart of the maiden, and gorgeous clothes and money are cast in her lap.

Yet one cannot help a feeling of pity for such as the little girl of East Toledo, O., who, painstakingly and with every evidence of strict dictionary study, wrote the following note on a page of tablet paper to William Wright of Vitagraph:

" Dear Sir: Please let me know if you need any new women for a star. If you need one I will take the place."

* * *

Personal Notes:

Tom Ince, following a strenuous production season, and many conferences while in the East, is really resting for two weeks prior to returning to the Coast. Resting in his case meaning attending every Broadway show he can.

Harry S. Lavner, two years ago in the publicity department of Hodkinson and prior to that with Goldwyn, has been appointed manager of the Langwell Hotel, New York. At the same time he is superintending the construction of the new Emerson Hotel, which will be another of the L. Marshall Thompson string of hostelries.

Havana is the present site of Bert Ennis' activities. He will spend a brief vacation there.

* * *

Revised figures bring the total admission tax collected by the Government in 1921 to $82,396,874.85, as compared with the 1920 figures of $86,994,013.00. Revised figures on the rental tax show that it is $23,610 greater than first announced, totaling $5,926,341.75 as compared with $5,372,512 in 1920.

* * *

Marcus Loew is still opening new houses of amusement, the latest to be dedicated being the State theatre in Boston on March 13. Apparently the hoodoo number has no terrors for the theatrical and picture magnate. A large party of directors including Mack Sennett and Thomas H. Ince, and film and stage stars will be in the party which travels to Boston in four private cars.

* * *

" Business is really very good in the Middle West and South. The small houses, I admit, are not doing so well, but the medium sized and the big ones are pulling well. Not making any fortunes, but getting along nicely."

Such are the findings of Charlie Giegerich after a long trip through the territory mentioned, exploiting " The Iron Trail."

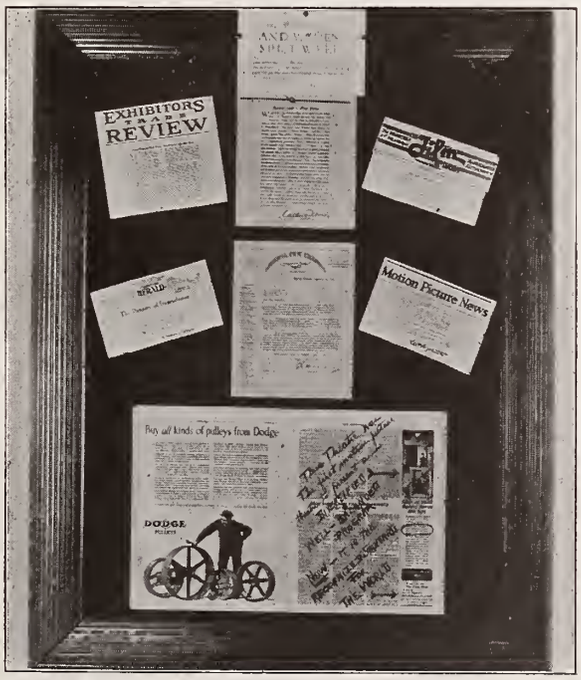
And that was just one of several optimistic reports we had from callers during the week.

* * *

THERE IS something new under the sun—the clavilux or color organ, a mechanical arrangement with which the most astounding combinations of colored lights are moulded and shaped on a picture screen in fantastic and beautiful forms by an operator or organist who manipulates a keyboard from the orchestra pit.

The first public demonstration of this invention was a feature at the Rivoli theatre, New York, recently. The reception the invention receives is peculiar. A most solemn hush falls over the audience. As the varying figures of blended lights weave themselves into other combinations of color and forms, the result is uncanny. People are held spell-bound, not so much by the beauty of the color music but through respect for the mechanical device which can achieve such startling results.

As a novelty, at least, the invention is undoubtedly one of the greatest innovations ever presented in a picture theatre. What it is, besides a novelty, only the inventor, Thomas Wilfred, is in a position to predict. Just how versatile the clavilux may be or how it can be adapted to uses other than in giving a color music program, the layman is in no position to even guess.



The trade paper editors' opinions of "And Women Must Weep," the Educational picture, were placarded in the lobby during the Capitol run

Let's Go! Will Hays Is on the Job

WILL H. HAYS has entered upon his duties as head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association. The offices are on the second floor of the Guarantee Trust Building at 44th Street and 5th Avenue, New York, and consist of Mr. Hays' private office and a suite of smaller offices for secretarial and clerical work. Courtland Smith, President of the American Press Association, is Mr. Hays' right-hand man; Julia Kelly, a former secretary to Mr. Hays in Washington, is secretary.

Mr. Hays' first day was devoted to organization matters. His office was besieged with newspaper men, camera men and job hunters. In connection with the latter, Mr. Hays stated that he would begin with a very small office force.

On Tuesday, March 7th, Mr. Hays gave an interview to the trade press. He had little to say, he stated, except that he was tackling the job with earnestness and a conviction of its importance. He reiterated his platform given to the newspapers the previous day he has contained in two clauses of his contract.

"To obtain and then to maintain the highest possible standards of motion picture production."

"To develop to the highest possible degree the moral and educational character of the industry."

By these means, Mr. Hays felt that the integrity of the motion picture would be secured. The industry and all its branches and the public and all its divisions, he believed, were all working to this common end.

Such a program, said Mr. Hays, would obviously take care of censorship. He had nothing more to say on this subject. As to all other questions, he was seeking information rather than giving it out.

Mr. Hays is to leave shortly for a brief stay in southern Indiana, his home town, and then is to return to New York.

Unique Celebration of Universal Anniversary

Laemmle Turns Over All Exchanges to Their Employees; Special Proposition to Be Made

THE tenth anniversary of the existence of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will be celebrated in an unusual manner this year, announces that company. This anniversary falls on the tenth of the month of May, the company having been incorporated and established on that day in the year 1912. Heretofore the anniversary has been commemorated by a month set apart in which the exhibitors were asked to book Universal Productions exclusively. This custom has now been adopted by exhibitors themselves to commemorate the establishment of their own theatres. For this reason the Universal felt that it was time to depart from the established form of celebraing such anniversaries lest they become bothersome to the exhibitor and thus defeat their own object.

The Universal exchange men have devised a form of celebration which will not be open to this objection and in which the exhibitor will share equally in profit with the Universal exchangemen. When the details of the plan were communicated to Mr. Laemmle at the Coast he very soon saw the force of the argument and the justice which the plan contained to the exhibitor. He has just given his consent by wire and told the exchanges that he wants the news to be conveyed to the exhibitors as soon as possible.

As a result the employes have devised an advertisement which will be carried in the trade papers this week. This advertisement reads as follows:

"In celebration of Universal's tenth anniversary Mr. Carl Laemmle has turned over to us all the Universal Exchanges to be run as our own during the months of April and May. We are to receive the lion's share of the profits. In appreciation of your past patronage we have decided to share these profits with you, the exhibitor. We intend to make good Mr. Laemmles' faith in us by going after your business with all our might and main. We offer during April and May the biggest and most liberal proposition you've ever had. The greater the business, the bigger our profits will be. And the larger your share. For your sake and our own won't you please get in touch with us right now, this minute? We thank you."

(Signed)
Employes Universal Film Exchanges.

For the time being and because the different plans of cooperation differ in the different exchanges, these plans are not as yet being divulged by the employes. However, the salesmen and office forces in all of the exchanges have made up their minds to make the month of April and May the banner months of the year and they have asked Mr. Laemmle to make them a special concession in many respects and to give them two Jewels for release during the two months.

Colorado Theatre, Denver, Has Notable Opening

THE opening of the Colorado theatre in Denver, Col., the new home of First National pictures in that city, proved a notable event in the theatrical history of that city. The new house, one of the most pretentious and elaborate theatres in the Rocky Mountain region, opened its doors on Monday afternoon, February 27th. A number of city and state officials attended and telegrams of good wishes were received from many First National stars.

The Colorado theatre has a seating capacit yof 2,527 and is equipped with a $50,000 Ropert-Mort organ, and is the latest thing in projection equipment and artistic decoration.

Coast Societies Combine to Oust Undesirables

THE Screen Writers Guild, the Motion Picture Directors Association and the American Society of Cinematographers met on Saturday of last week and organized the Federation of Art, a society to be composed of three members from each organization whose members are affiliated with picture production. It will be the purpose of this committee to weed out undesirables who refuse to conduct their private lives according to higher standards or who permit acts that bring undesirable publicity to the film industry.

Frank E. Woods, one of the committeemen, said: "We are firm in our determination that the motion picture business shall be kept clean absolutely from top to bottom. All but a few of the picture people are living clean lives, and if these few do not raise their standard they will be quietly dropped into oblivion.

Bill for Federal Motion Picture Commission Before Congress

Board to Have Three Members; Bill Referred to Education Committee

CONGRESSMAN T. FRANK APPLEBY of the Third Congressional District, state of New Jersey, has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to create a Federal Motion Picture Commission as a division of the Bureau of Education. The measure, known as "H. R. 10577," has been referred to the Committee on Education, and hearings are expected to be held at an early date. The bill provides for the appointment by the President of three commissioners, at least one of whom must be a woman. The salary of the chairman is designated as $6,000 a year and the salary of each of the other two members as $5,000 a year. Provisions are also made for the appointment of advisory and deputy commissioners and for a secretary, whose salary shall be $4,000 a year. The entire cost of the commission must not exceed $60,000 a year. The full text of the bill follows:

"A Bill to create a new division of the Bureau of Education, to be known as the Federal Motion Picture Commission, and defining its powers and duties.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That this Act may be cited as the Motion Picture Censorship Act, 1922.

"Sec. 2. That when used in this Act (a) the term 'person' includes an individual, partnership, corporation and association; (b) the term 'interstate and foreign commerce' means commerce (1) between any State, Territory, or possession, or the District of Columbia, and any place outside thereof; (2) between points within the same State, Territory or possession, or within the District of Columbia, but through any place outside thereof or (3) within any Territory or possession or within the District of Columbia; (c) the term 'commission' means the Federal Motion Picture Commission; (d) the term 'film' means the original negative of any motion-picture film and any copy thereof in whole or in part.

"Sec. 3. That a Federal Motion Picture Commission be, and the same is hereby, created, to be composed of three commissioners appointed by the President, one of whom shall be designated as chairman. At least one member of the commission shall be a woman. The commission shall be a division of the Bureau of Education in the Department of the Interior. The commission may establish such sub-officers as in its discretion it deems necessary.

"Sec. 4. That each commissioner shall be a citizen of the United States and shall hold office for six years, except that when the commission is first constituted one commissioner shall be appointed for two years, one for four years, and one for six years. Each commissioner shall thereafter be appointed for a full term of six years, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the member whom he shall succeed. The salary of the chairman shall be $6,000 a year and of each other commissioner $5,000 a year.

"Sec. 5. That the commission may appoint a secretary whose salary shall be $4,000 a year; and may appoint advisory commissioners to advise and assist in the examination and censoring of films who shall hold office during the pleasure of the commission, and serve without compensation. No person shall be appointed an advisory commissioner who directly or indirectly has any pecuniary interest in the exhibition of motion pictures or in any film exchange or firm or corporation engaged in the manufacture of motion-picture films.

"Sec. 6. That the commission may appoint deputy commissioners and other assistants and fix the compensation of each. Actual and necessary traveling expenses shall be allowed to those who travel on the business of the commission. The commission shall have power to make rules and regulations and exercise functions necessary to the efficient performance of its duties, and to secure obedience to the provisions of this Act, and shall be provided with necessary office furniture, stationery, supplies, projecting machines, and appliances for the inspection of films: Provided, however, That the entire cost of the commission, including salaries and all other expenses, shall not exceed $60,000 a year.

"Sec. 7. That the commission shall promptly license every film submitted to it and intended for entrance into interstate or foreign commerce, unless such film is obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, or depicts an actual prize fight, or is of such a character that its exhibition would tend to impair the health, debase or corrupt the morals of children or adults or incite to crime, or produce depraved moral ideas or debase moral standards or cause moral laxity in adults or minors. If the commission shall not license any film for any of the reasons set forth it shall furnish the applicant a written report clearly setting forth the reasons for its rejection, and the part or parts of the film objected to, and may grant a license conditioned upon the elimination of such part or parts. The commission may require that condemned films or condemned parts of films shall be left in the custody of the commission, with all copies and negatives and other originals. Any film rejected shall, after revision, be resubmitted to the commission. Films may be submitted not only at the main office of the commission but also at suboffices, and the commission may delegate to deputies and advisory commissioners of the suboffices full power to issue licenses, subject to appeal to the

(Continued on page 1606)

Sponsor Explains Purpose of Federal Censor Bill

IN a letter addressed to Motion Picture News Congressman T. Frank Appleby of New Jersey, who has just introduced in Congress a measure for the creation of Federal Motion Picture Commission, explains why he is sponsoring a plan of Federal censorship. Representative Appleby writes:

"Dear Sir:

"I beg to enclose, herewith, a copy of H. R. 10577, 'A Bill to create a new division of the Bureau of Education, to be known as the Federal Motion Picture Commission, and defining its powers and duties, which I introduced in the House of Representatives last week.

"I believe the time has come for Federal censorship of motion picture films, and in the introduction of this bill it was my desire to submit a measure sufficiently comprehensive to cover the subject of the proper protection of the public, and yet at the same time place no undue hardship upon producers of worthwhile films and the motion picture business in general. In my mind there is no question as to the desirability and necessity for Federal censorship. The continued action of certain producers in presenting objectionable films makes it imperative. A number of States now have censorship, but owing to the differences of regulations, and the fact that no two censorship boards seem to think exactly alike, great loss and difficulty is being caused the producers. The potentialities of the motion picture for moral influence and educational life of the Nation quickly its integrity should be protected as we protect the integrity of the family and its quality should be developed as we develop the quality of our schools. For this reason I have made the Commission a part of the United States Bureau of Education and I believe that with a proper Federal censorship, a new leaes of life will be given the business and the true place of the industry in the recreational and educational life of the Nation quickly established.

"The bill has been referred to the Committee on Education and it is my intention to ask for hearings at an early date. I should be pleased if you would communicate to me your impressions of this proposed legislation, together with any suggestions you may care to make, either through comment in your editorial columns or by personal communication addressed to me. Your cooperation in this matter would be most sincerely appreciated."

Expect Notable Results from Convention

M. P. T. O. Working to Make Washington Meeting One of Important Results

THREE days of the past week were spent by the Special Convention Committee of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America in an important session at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., during which time all of the matters entering into the work of the big national convention of the organization were given as complete consideration as possible.

The committee is working to make the third annual convention, to be held at the New Willard in Washington from May 8th to 12th the most important and constructive as yet held by any division of the motion picture industry. The many events which have transpired since the convention in Minneapolis in 1921 will render this meeting of special consequence to the industry.

It has been definitely determined that business of the most advanced order will feature every session of the convention. The M. P. T. O. believe that the industry is, to some extent, on trial, because of events wholly outside the province of the theatre owner to create or control, and it is proposed to firmly establish the exhibitor in the highest possible position with the leaders in American official life and all divisions of thought and action and the people generally. The fact that the theatre owner comes in direct contact with millions of people daily renders his position of great consequence to the industry as the only definite means through which public thought can be favorably influenced and public confidence in the motion picture industry firmly established, states the committee.

The work will be conducted in sight of, and, as far as possible, in the presence of America's greatest men and women. The powers of the motion picture screen in shaping public thought and action are now apparent to all, and the theatre owners, the custodians of this screen press of America, stand conspicuously forward as leaders in a division of public service which is of the most vital consequence to the people of the nation.

Chairman W. A. True of Hartford, Conn., presided over the sessions of the Special Convention Committee. National President Sydney S. Cohen, A. J. Moeller, A. Julian Brylawsky and others attended the meeting. A joint session with the local Washington committee resulted in a proper apportionment of the work to be handled by each body. It was arranged to invite leading government officials and others to address different sessions of the convention and also attend the big convention dinner at the New Willard. Assurances have already been received that a record attendance of theatre owners will feature the convention and that every city and most of the towns in all states of the Union will be represented.

Special arrangements have been made by the Washington committee for the entertainment of the ladies and other guests attending the convention. The specific character of this program will be announced later. Details concerning hotel and other accommodations are in course of preparation and will be submitted within a few days. Every feature of these have been given special consideration to comprehend the varying requirements of theatre owners. The question of transportation is being handled by a special committee and reduced railroad rates have been procured.

It will afford every theatre owner an opportunity to come in personal contact with the Senators and Congressmen and other Federal officials from their states and districts. This neighborly meeting will be of wonderful advantage in explaining to them the position of the theatre owner in the industry, and establishing a better understanding and more cordial relationship, which will favorably affect the entire industry.

Convention headquarters have been established at the New Willard Hotel.

Statement Shows How Theatre Overhead Has Grown and Revenue Decreased in Decade

A GRAPHIC demonstration, in figures, of the increased overhead and decreased revenue confronting an exhibitor today as compared with the same items of overhead and revenue existing ten years ago, is presented in the following comparative statement submitted to Motion Picture News by Frank J. Rembusch, directing-manager of the F. J. Rembusch Enterprises, Shelbyville, Ind. Mr. Rembusch quotes figures for the month of February, 1912, and for the same month of 1922:

A TEN YEAR COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF A WEEK'S MOTION PICTURE BUSINESS

TEN YEARS AGO — FEBRUARY, 1912 | AND TODAY — FEBRUARY, 1922

(Representing the average weekly business for 1912-1922)

FOR THE SAME THEATRE—SAME NUMBER OF SEATS—SAME POPULATION AND MANAGEMENT

Population 10,000 | Investment $15,000.00

1912	COMPETITION	1922
Showing 6 Days (No Sunday)		Showing 7 Days
1 Picture Theatre 1 Opera House		1 Picture Theatre Basketball

GROSS BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS

1912	1922
$364.00	$506.00

Increase in gross box office receipts in ten years 45%.

ATTENDANCE — Weekly Paid Admissions

1912	1922
@.05	@.20
7,280	2,530

Decrease in number of paid admissions in ten years per week 200% (or almost 5,000 paid admissions less per week).

FILM SERVICE EXPENSE

1912
General Film Co. per week	50.00
1922
Several Companies	$225.00

Increase in Film Cost in Ten Years 350%.

GENERAL EXPENSES	1912	1922
Water	$ .25	$1.00
Light and Heat	10.00	35.00
Rent	30.00	30.00
License		3.00
Express and Incidentals	4.00	8.00
	$44.25	$77.00

Increase Expense 80%.

LABOR EXPENSE	1912	1922
Musician	$12.00	$35.00
Cashier	6.00	12.00
Accounting		8.00
Operator—(Projectionist)	12.00	25.00
Manager	18.00	30.00
Ticket Taker		4.00
Usher		4.00
Janitor	12.00	18.00
Singer (Illustrated Songs)	25.00
TOTALS	$85.00	$136.00

Increase in labor expense ten years 60%.

1912	ADVERTISING	1922
$12.00		$52.00

Increase in cost of advertising 300%.

1912		1922
2 and 3 Reel Program		6 and 7 Reel Program

Increase in length of Show 150% to 200%.

WEEKLY PROFITS

1912	1922
Gross profits $170.00	Gross Profits $12.00
Decrease in Profits 1,300%

(One Dollar in 1912 perhaps equal to two of 1922)

Depreciation — Insurance — Taxes not included

SUMMARY OF PERCENTAGES

INCREASES		DECREASES
Box Office Increase	45%	Number paid admissions	200%
Film Cost Increase	350%	Profits decreased	1,300%
Labor Increase	60%
General Expense	80%
Advertising	300%
Length of Program	200%

1922—Open one day more.

(1912 Owner works one hour daily)
(1922 Owner works unceasingly)

Public and Press of Ohio Roused by Action of Censor Board

Agitation May Result in Submission of Question to Vote of People

AFTER nine years' trial, Ohio, one of the first states in the Union to adopt censorship, is face to face ith the alternative of either putting into ffect more liberal censorship provisions submitting the question to the people the November election to determine hether censorship is to remain or be done way with entirely.

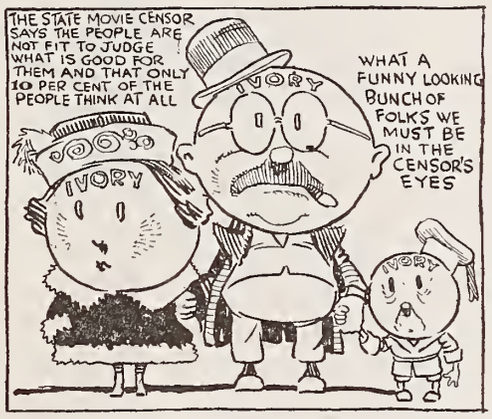
A prominent Columbus attorney conds that as the law requires a board of ree members, and inasmuch as the Ohio oard for some time has denied two of the embers the right to censor films, that rs. Evalyn Snow, chief censor, who aims that as chairman of the board she the only one legally empowered to pass reject films submitted, is acting without uthority in refusing to permit the other embers of the board a right to pass upon ctures. Pathe, Paramount and Uniersal may take court action to settle the sue.

In the case of the "Woman and the aw," ordered "rejected," but shown vertheless at the Majestic, Columbus, ., the film had been passed by Mrs. arnes, member of the board, with the pproval of Mrs. Snow, and had been own in Dayton, Cleveland and Cincinti. The attitude of the Columbus press s been that Mrs. Snow has been for me time endeavoring to oust Mrs. arnes from the board, and the press of olumbus has stood by Mrs. Barnes. Civil rvice was another stumbling block in the th of the removal of Mrs. Barnes.

The Ohio State Journal broke a front ge story concerning the barring of the m, and the Columbus Citizen the following afternoon took up the battle against e chief censor, editorially condemning r actions. Mrs. Snow retaliated by uting that the "Public WAS NOT FIT D JUDGE FOR THEMSELVES" d that they "WERE NINETY PER ENT ILLITERATE AND ONLY EN PER CENT OF THE PUBLIC AS CAPABLE OF EVEN THINKG FOR THEMSELVES."

The public and press were quick to sent this latest insult and many promnt officials and citizens voiced their approval of her Czarina tactics. Papers roughout the State launched attacks on the board. The Cleveland News, ain Dealer and Cincinnati Post and all the Columbus papers joined in the ht. The Columbus Citizen on Friday rried a cartoon on the front page showthe public with "ivory" heads in the es of the censors.

In the midst of the fight Milton D. andall talked from the stage of the ajestic, Columbus, O., and Manager ward Frankel, with an array of legal



THE STATE MOVIE CENSOR SAYS THE PEOPLE ARE NOT FIT TO JUDGE WHAT IS GOOD FOR THEM AND THAT ONLY 10 PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE THINK AT ALL IVORY
IVORY
WHAT A FUNNY LOOKING BUNCH OF FOLKS WE MUST BE IN THE CENSOR'S EYES
IVORY

Cartoon from The Columbus Citizen caricaturing a declaration by Mrs. Evelyn Snow, chief censor, that the public was 90% illiterate talent headed by R. Henny and Joy H. Hunt, were busy running down the law governing same. Mr. Frankel was prepared to go before the Supreme Court and get a restraining injunction against Mrs. Snow.

Vernon Riegel, who is at the head of the Department of Education and has the final word concerning the rejection of all pictures submitted, looked at "The Woman and the Law" and publicly termed the film "rot."

Mr. Frankel was in touch with many leading exhibitors of the State, and the following theatre owners assured him of their support: I. Libson of Cincinnati, George Fenberg of Newark, Fred Desberg of Cleveland, Sam Lind of Zanesville, Harry Kress of Piqua and Judge Foster of Marion. John E. Sullivan, president of the State Federation of Labor, joined with Mr. Crandall in fighting censorship.

Fred Desberg had the film booked for showing in two of his Cleveland theatres, and late Saturday night declared he, too, would refuse to take the film from his screens during its run in Cleveland.

Pathe entered the fight with a threat for a lawsuit when the censor rejected all references made against "censors."

Thousands were won by the forceful plea made by Mr. Crandall in his address before the audiences of the Majestic theatre. Mr. Crandall's address follows:

"Because of the unpleasant newspaper publicity occasioned by the showing of the Paramount picture, 'The Woman and the Law,' I deem it advisable to call your attention to a few salient facts in connection thereof.

"Despite the fact that Ohio's chief censor publicly characterized the production 'rot' and that each and every one of you here to-night are acting as pallbearers in witnessing the death in Ohio of another good film, I believe that you should know that the manager of this theatre, Mr. Howard Frankel, booked the production in good faith after witnessing it and finding nothing whatever objectionable. In fact, the picture is now being shown right here in Ohio in many of the large cities, including Cleveland, Cincinnati and Dayton. According to the censors, after to-night the picture will be forever barred from this State.

"If there be any one present looking for a salacious or immoral scene you will be disappointed. There is not a single objectionable scene in the production. It is only fair to tell you that the manager has not made an elimination, so that you to-night witness the picture as it was presented to and approved by the Ohio censor board at the time of its initial presentation.

"The question of censorship is the one great obstacle in the pathway of a big and growing industry. Most of the producers are in favor of a standardized and Federal board of censorship, but they are unalterably opposed to the kind of censorship now being forced upon them and you. They cannot longer see their way to invest large sums of money in pictures only to have them forever barred in Ohio by the opinion of ONE censor.

"May I enlighten you? Among the many productions recently either totally barred or cut to pieces by the Ohio board are the following: Paramount production, 'Mid-Summer Madness,' recalled and barred; Fox special, 'The Queen of Sheba,' recalled and cut to pieces; one of the really great screen artists, Poli Negri, in 'One Arabian Night,' pronounced by many critics as one of the great productions of all times, barred from exhibition in this state; William S. Hart, that sterling actor, in a recent Paramount film, barred; The Vitagraph production, 'No Defense,' rejected because of political reasons; Goldwyn's 'The Sin Flood,' barred. Many of you have read the works of H. C. Witwer, whose witty articles appear in the Saturday Evening Post and Colliers Weekly. He is responsible for an interesting series of pictures produced by the Universal Film Co., titled 'The Leather Pushers.' It too is barred, because the films tell the story of a lad whose only offense is that he indulges in prize-fights. In fiction, I could name many more including the Universal Million Dollar production, 'Foolish Wives,' rejected in its entirety. How much longer will you the public stand for the rule of Ohio's Czarina?

"I note in the afternoon press that our chief censor Mrs. Evelyn Snow states that you the public 'ARE NOT FIT TO JUDGE FOR YOURSELVES,' she further states that you are 'NINETY PERCENT ILLITERATE AND ONLY TEN PER CENT OF YOU ARE EVEN CAPABLE TO THINK FOR YOURSELVES.' I know that this is not true, I realize that you are the masses, the great majority, you are public opinion, you are the great bulwark of our law and civilization. How much better and truer would it have been had the censor reversed this statement.

"Censorship as we now have it in Ohio is a despotic, monarchical organization composed of a hypocritical, narrow minded, single track minority.

"They seek after evil when there is no evil and are happiest when they can curtail the rights, morals and enjoyment of others.

"According to the Ohio law under the reorganization plan the Board must be comprised of three members; the present board is made up of three women but only ONE has the alleged authority to pass upon all pictures. Therefore, I fear the chief censor has no legal right to reject 'The Woman and the Law' after it had already been approved by the censor board. Certain it is that they do not have the power to stop its showing in the midst of an engagement.

"My friends, in my humble way, I have tried to present to you the evidence; I have faith in your intelligence and integrity, even if the censors don't have it. You will see the picture in question; judge for yourself; you are after all the final appeal; you are the great jury of public opinion. Ohio awaits your verdict not only in the case of this one film but for the hundreds of other worthwhile films that are to come. I thank you."

He Is Breaking Precedents

I AM just a SMALL TOWN EXHIBITOR, but not very long ago your publication dwelt quite freely on the assertion that the small towns were the backbone of the motion picture industry, and the bread winner of the producer and distributor.

Hence I wish to give you quite an exhaustive idea of some of the troubles of the small town exhibitor and why so many of the smaller towns are closing up and their dollars not being thrown into the coffers of the industry. January 1st. I returned to my old love "THE SUNNY SOUTH" after having been out of the "game" for several months on account of serious illness and came to the town of Douglas, Georgia, which has only thirty-five hundred people.

One theatre is all the town boasts of, and though my predecessors during the "boom" times had made money, for the past year and a half had been losing on an average of $75.00 per week, and naturally were more than glad and ready to throw up the sponge and get out.

After negotiating for ten days, seeing conditions as they were and with my eyes wide open I took over what equipment that was in the theatre that I desired, not accepting any of their picture contracts, not asking any questions as to their methods of doing business, and closed the place up entirely and indefinitely.

Having had many years experience in the business I knew that unless I used every drastic measure to change existing conditions I could not succeed.

Immediately upon closing up the theatre I started a "teaser" campaign in the newspapers (we only have two weeklies) and spent something over $100.00 in this campaign, trying to create interest in the public, and kept them guessing as to when they would again have pictures, what the name would be, dwelt extensively on GOOD MUSIC, PROJECTION, CLEANLINESS, COURTESY and that Douglas' own theatre would be run along Metropolitan ideas and that only the very best and newest pictures would be shown. After considerable remodeling, renovation, painting and no small expenditure of money I was ready to open up on February 1st.

During the time the theatre was closed there was hardly an exchange in Atlanta that did not rush a representative to see me offering me their product, and wanting to book programme pictures in the old way.

I told each that I was not interested in programme pictures, that I intended to "spot" book everything and pick only such pictures as I cared to use, knowing of course that if I wished "cream" I woud have to pay for "cream" and not "skimmed milk."

After getting this item arranged, of course after much bickering over prices and considerable useless talk on their part in trying to get me to use their entire product and just as released, I astonished them by stating that I wished all pictures for two day's showing instead of one.

To a man they laughed and scoffed the idea, "who ever heard of a town of 3,500 people using everything for two days—and as hard as times are now." Further each one said that maybe one or two of their stars (which were their best ones of course) might be already for two days but the other stars and pictures (their weaker ones) never.

My alibi was that this town had practically been off the map as far as the rentals they were receiving from it for a long time, and just as long as I was willing to take the chance and contract for two days showing and doing it open and above board not buying pictures for one day and then holding them over for two days, nor bycycling films, they shouldn't worry.

So after much parleying I finally got contracts for two days on pictures at a slight increase over the usual one day's price.

While negotiating for the place before taking it over I noticed that the patronage consisted of men and children only, very few ladies and none of the best element attending at all, and from inquiry I found it was due to the class of pictures and age of same that were being shown was the cause.

So I demanded from the exchanges only pictures of this year's product, and I am glad to say that in every instance but one I have had their co-operation and am receiving 1921-1922 products only.

Associated First National, wished to have me use pictures where the preceding management left off, after my refusal to do this, I contracted with their representative signing a blanket contract for three pictures each of Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge, Anita Stewart and Katherine McDonald as well as two of their Special productions. The representative stated that although he did not have a "cut-off" sheet with him he was certain that I would not receive anything older than this year's product. We all have something to learn each day and never again for me will I sign any blanket contracts, all productions hereafter must be designated.

I wrote into the office and was informed that no such agreement was made on the contract I signed and that I would either have to take pictures in sequence from where the house had left off or I could not get any pictures at all.

I wonder if a new theatre were to open up in a "KEY CITY" if it would have to start in with pictures of ancient vintage simply because their pictures had not been used in the town previously.

One of the pictures of one the most prominent stars I have ran elsewhere before and know same to be the worst picture this star has ever made and this picture is booked for my use and unless I use it here where I am trying to build up a clientele, not tear one down, I cannot receive other releases from this office.

I'm going to use it though, but will advise my public when I do that it is the worst and weakest picture this star has ever made, for playing fair with my public is my motto.

In re-opening I wished to establish a Regula Admission Price of 10c for children and 25 for adults against a previous price of 10c fc children and 20c for adults so I gave the something big at these prices for a starter usin "AFFAIRS OF ANATOL" and LARR SEMON COMEDY.

Not one word as to price am I hearing, an now though the above is my regular admissio whenever I show a picture worth more tha 25c top I charge it; just showed "THE SHEIK at 50c top and had no trouble getting it at al

Though I have only been trying the two da showing of pictures for little over a mont I am sure I shall never go back to a change o pictures daily nor close my theatre any day i the week.

I am doing as much business the first da of a picture as I ever did in a town of thi size, and whatever I take in the second da outside of slight increase in rentals of pic tures and electric current, is profit, for m overhead is the same whether open or closed

My projectionest who is a member of th National Anti Misframe League is getting ex cellent results using two Simplex Moter Drive Mazda Equipped machine which I placed i tip-top shape before opening.

Special attention to proper music is give cueing all pictures properly and using a Violin ist and Pianist.

An overture is played preceding each per formance and proper lighting effects with a harmonious blend of colors is also used.

A matinee and two full night performance are being given daily with the exception o Saturday when we are running continuously from three p. m. to eleven p. m.

The sooner the distributor give the exhibito in the small town the same chance to buy new pictures that they do the key cities and the quicker the small town exhibitor realizes the fact that he must play fair with his public and give them current releases of pictures knowing that he cannot expect to buy new pictures a the same rental he does the older service and most of all use his pictures for longe runs I believe that all concerned, distributor exhibitor and the public will bring the smal towns (THE ADMITTED BREAD WINNERS OF THE INDUSTRY) back to a paying basis.

Respectfully,
NEW RIVOLI THEATRE
M. H. EPPSTEIN, Director,
Douglas, Ga.

The Booking Guide's Service

I received the Booking Guide and like it very much . . . By boing through the Guide one could pick out the picture look it up in the News and know if it would suit your audience. . . . . I would much rather show a good picture that is old than to show a new one that is poor.

Yours,
PALACE THEATRE,
Walter Kilmer, Manager,
Verona, Ill.

(Next issue out this month)

The Booking Guide Brings Dollars

I am in receipt of the Motion Picture News Booking Guide and let me say here that it is a long needed want to the exhibitor and none can afford to be without it. More power to the News in providing the exhibitor with an essential article that will mean dollars in his pocket.

Very truly yours,
GRAND THEATRE,
H. Browning, Manager.
Middletown, Conn.

(Next issue out this month)

$100,000 to Save Millions

The following article from a "lifer" in the Arizona State Penitentiary seems to us worth every inch of space it is given. It should be borne in mind that Mr. Eytinge is known as a clever advertising man, that he has prepared many national advertising campaigns and has also written for the screen.

His suggestions on counteracting the slanderous publicity accorded the industry on the slightest pretense are in line with those repeatedly advanced by William A. Johnston in the columns of Motion Picture News.

By Louis Victor Eytinge

WILL the motion picture industry have courage to spend $100,000 to save a million or ten times that great a loss?

With every little disturbance within the motion picture world comes a new group of slander snakes to vent their vicious vemon upon people and personalities. They hiss their lies into greedy gulping ears and with each telling the momentum grows until there may come the day when half of the Nation will become so disturbed with these undenied, uncontradicted lies as to banish an art, destroy an industry.

And yet, the motion picture field can stop most of these vaporings from poiseless pulpiters—it can wet-blanket the merest scandal whisper that might be published in any slander sheet in the country.

If a united cinema circle spends $100,000 right NOW, while the public mind is receptive to any fair defense—if it puts this sum into a nation-wide advertising campaign to tell the truth, the real TRUTH about motion picture artists, producers and exhibitors, that same public mind, convinced by a bold presentation of refutative FACTS, will turn against the liars, the serpents of scandal and refuse to hear the putrid perversions.

The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World took on real stature when they instituted their famous Vigilance movement. They trebled its membership when they drove out the fakers in their own field—when they established advertising as a clean economic and social force in the minds of the public. Every year the Advertising Clubs set aside more than $150,000 for the current continuation of this work, and now, advertising is Believed. It is recognized as a power for good, rather than an instrument of quackery and fakery.

On the very day that Dr. John Roach Straton was yowling his generalities about opium orgies, decadent degeneracies of the film fold, Mr. Ralph Oyler, head of the Federal narcotic division, issued a written statement that gave the film people a clean bill of health. Director Oyler has assigned a number of his ablest detectives to an investigation of the dope rumors anent Eastward and Western film folk and as a result of his collected reports of these agents he wrote: "Charges of orgies among film folk are positively without truth. All reports made to me give the film folk people a clean bill of health and fix the circumstantial motive in all cases to have been extortion or attempted blackmail." Apparently then, the long-haired purists depend upon blackmailers for the origin of the gangrenous gossip they are so willing to believe and so quick to speed from their prostituted pulpits. Americans are fair. They believe in the square deal, but if these bandied-about lies, the pulpit distortions, and slander publications are not denied and disapproved in vigorous fashion, in sharp straight from the shoulder style, they'll come to believe them as true of all members of an industry, all practitioners of an art. Americans will sooner believe the official statement of the head of a great Federal detective bureau than the snarling spleen of any slanderer and, the more the latter attempted his malicious practise, the greater would be the reaction in favor of the motion picture people. Spread these lies upon the pages of the Saturday Evening Post, the Literary Digest, Pictorial Review and other great sheets and right alongside give these DEVELOPED AND DEMONSTRATED DENIALS and the character assassin would flee in furious shame at such public pilloring. They batten and fatten upon silence and slink like jackals when exposed as public liars.

When the Rev. (!) George Dowrey, of Chicago, vomits his "Mr. Hays will have a hard time to abolish the carousals of the stars, their degenerate orgie" let these blatherskites be given GREATER PUBLICITY upon the display advertising pages and right alongside let us run the truer saying of Father Neal Dodd, who, as a Hollywood pastor, should be in better position to know than any stay-at-home-seeker-for-prurient-patter-about-far-aways. And Father Dodd, of Hollywood, counters with an effective:

"Degeneracy is not rampant in Hollywood. The young girls there are as sweet and pure as anywhere and not the 'soiled butterflies' that one Eastern gossips call them. The inhabitants of the motion picture colony do not live the erotic, decadent and emotional lives pictured by Sunday word-weavers. All these blanket indictments against the fair name of Hollywood and its people are vicious, malicious lies."

I have had more than twenty years of prison experience and assert that in all this time, I never knew of any actor to commit murders as foul as those done by Preachers Richardson of Boston, Schmidt of New York and Spencer of California. Who can name any modern theatrical man or motion picture worker who has been hung or electrocuted for murder? But haven't we records of these among the clergy? Again, most of the preachers and church leaders who came to prison in my quarter of a century were committed for incests, sex-perversions or heinous murders. Official records can be searched for comparitive tables as to crimes of stage and screen people compared with their more numerous clerical offenders. Publish these records in the deadly parallel column, publish them boldly as paid advertising in those very publications that indulge their mistaken slander and you will have sealed the ears of church-audiences to further mouthings of the sensation-seekers and so undermine the power of any vicious publication that it would gladly and splendidly cease its falsehoods. I am not against the clergy—I do not blanket all of the cloth with the same indictment that the sensational rabid among them charge you picture people. I doff my hat to a true minister, a sincere pastor and these should not have to bear the burden of their poiseless brothers. But the hysteria that ruins an innocent woman, that blasts an art, that destroys the value of a picture must be checked and checked promptly for hysteria is the most contagious disease in our social makeup. Vigorous defense means cold cash profits to producers, an enhanced reputation to artists, an increased attendance to exhibitors.

Because of its all-around value and benefits, such a campaign should be paid for by all branches, from stars to exchange men, from producers to costumers. Although my past connection with pictures has been merely that of manager of amusements for my fellow prisoners of this institution, until the recent production of my first photoplay, any committee that shoulders this work can count on my immediate check as part of my contribution.

Let Sid Cohen and Will Hays sit across the table for fifteen minutes—then let them call in the alert advertising aids in the industry and in half an hour the thing is under a full head of pressure. Let them plan their broadsides in the magazines and newspapers starting NOW. Let all contribute. The producers' organization has money immediately available but they should be called on for a just portion and no more. Let the Screen Artists volunteer their share. Call on the Screen Writers' Guild for a subscription while the exhibitors will hasten to join the donation party. Then, no matter what one's interest, let all unite for harmony in this single purpose, A DRIVE FOR TRUTH. God hates a coward and despises a quitter—so too, with Americans. If you rest supine now you lose the good-will of a vital number. If you quit in the face of fire they'll despise you. Get together for TRUTH. Fight for your industry—fight for your art—but above all, fight for TRUTH AND YOUR HONOR.

M. P. T. O. Public Service Plan Launched in Ohio

THE inauguration in Ohio of the Public Service Department of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America took place at nine o'clock Saturday morning, February 25th, in Loew's Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio. In spite of the early hour, the theatre, seating nearly three thousand, was packed to the doors.

This premiere was staged under the personal supervision of Martin G. Smith, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Ohio. Mr. Smith had the active co-operation of Mrs. Frank C. Titus, chairman of the Motion Picture Committee of the Federated Women's Clubs.

Mayor Bernard F. Brough of Toledo opened the affair and introduced James A. Pollack, principal of the Waite High School, who assured the president the movement had the hearty approval and support of the Board of Education. The Mayor next introduced Dr. Francis Holley, director-general of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, Washington, D. C., and director-general of the Motion Picture Owners of America.

Dr. Holley briefly outlined the plan and cited the great benefits upon the minds of children in showing them the manner in which people prospered in the more civilized countries.

Dr. Holley was followed by Mr. L. O. Armstrong, noted explorer and lecturer for the Bureau of Commercial Economics, who delivered his film lecture "The Lure of the North." There were thrills aplenty in the snow-covered lands of the North depicted by these marvelous films.

The children keenly enjoyed the well rounded out program of two hours. The newspapers of Toledo assisted greatly in making this premiere a wonderful success.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES—
OPINIONS ON BOX OFFICE RESULTS OBTAINED

"Should Prepare Carefully"

My opinion is that a star of the first magnitude, or of the last magnitude, should produce their acts, or plan an act for their personal appearance, with just as much thought as they would for a screen appearance; otherwise after the curiosity in the patron has been satisfied, whatever defects there may be in the impromptu or personal appearance of that particular star permanently rests with the great mass of people in the audience. These same defects are reflected back in the future in their productions, and therefore it is injurious to the business in general and particularly to the star.

We have noticed here in New Orleans, where there have been any number of stars stopping over for a day or more, that the interest is gradually dying out with the public, in the personal appearance of stars. We also find after checking the expense very closely, that it is a losing proposition in the majority of cases. We are not against the personal appearance of stars or any other features as a novelty to our programs, provided thought of showmanship has been put behind the project and same can be accomplished with an immediate profit and not along the theory of a stimulant to business and institutional advertising, as the argument is so often given in connection with the personal appearance of moving picture players.

Trusting the above is a clear explanation of our views on the star appearance proposition, and with best wishes, we are

Yours very truly,
SAENGER AMUSEMENT CO., INC.,
E. V. Richards,
General Manager.

"Decidedly Timely"

PERSONAL appearances of the stars at this time, not only because of the present business depression in the theatres throughout the country, but because of the widespread comment through, which is beginning to have a tendency to prejudice the public mind against the film favorites like the scandals of the stage have reflected in a measure on the profession as a whole, would, in my opinion, be decidedly timely at this time.

The stars, in making their personal appearances in the theatres throughout the country, would not only attract increased attendance to the theatres, which at this time would mean much to the exhibitor, but would have an opportunity to get into close touch with the people and, were he or she of a nature to make friends easily, could accomplish more toward forming a barricade in the minds of the listeners against the evil influences of scandal than anything else that could be done. Of course, I do not mean that their conversation should be in the nature of propaganda, but the very presence of this or that friendly star in the theatre, having a nice little chat with his or her friends, would in itself be assurance to the audiences that all they read, like many of the press stories, were largely overdrawn.

The effect of friendliness and the intimate, "homey" atmosphere which would be created about this congenial star would leave the public in a frame of mind not easily impressed by inharmonious influences.

I am for the personal appearance if not overdone.

LOUIS K. SIDNEY,
Wm. Fox Theatres,
Denver, Colo.

"Bad in Final Analysis"

The recent marked increase in personal appearances of film stars, as well as players of more or less noteworthy calibre, has served to agitate in the minds of exhibitors, both great and small, the question whether such personal appearances, if indulged in on a wholesale scale, would not bolster up boxoffice receipts in these times of more or less stress. So far, personal appearances, in the greatest number of instances, have proven profitable to the boxoffice.

But like so many apparently "harmless" things—the old derby on the sidewalk—superficial appearances only too often are deceiving. What appears harmless in the exterior quite often carries beneath it a hidden danger.

Film stars are ethereal beings. They live in a land apart from other mortals so far as the average human mind is concerned. They have been set upon a pedestal of fanciful idoaltry by millions of people in every clime. To pick them up out of their world of idealism and set them down on a little stage in all their nudity of alluring atmosphere, is like the disillusionment of the morning rehearsal to the uninitiated. Nothing remains for the fan but the memory of an ordinary human. But the exhibitor has fattened his boxoffice receipts.

While the aforesaid fattened boxoffice receipts are a powerful thing which must be reckoned with, the exhibitor must not be short-sighted. More wealth has been lost by shortsightedness than by speculation. It is the man who can peer a long way into the future who is rich when his shortsighted neighbor still is plugging along at so much per.

This, then, is the crux of the situation. Fattened boxoffice receipts for the present—disillusioned fans and deflated drawing power of the stars for the future. If an exhibitor is willing to class himself with one night stands and the transient theatre owner, he should have personal appearances. He plans only for the present. The future means nothing. But, fortunately this type of exhibitor is in the minority. His ilk comes and goes, creating little more than a ripple on the surface of exhibitordom.

The future success of the picture industry rests in a large measure with each and every one of the 15,000 or more safe and sane exhibitors of the continent with whom present profits are not to be considered if there is an unfavorable aftermath. He is the man to whom the producer must look for his support. He is the backbone of the industry. A sane exhibitor would no more book a salacious film for one day or one week just because it was a money-maker than he would turn over his theatre to the first man who had the temerity to ask for it. The successful exhibitor looks ahead. Like the successful merchant he looks into the years to come and the week after next is just as big in his calendar as the present week.

This appears to be the choice between two evils. Whether, as Hamlet might soliliquize, 'tis better to reap big profits for a few short weeks or play the game on purely ethical grounds and preserve the drawing power of stars for years to come. The greater profits, I believe, will come to him who chooses the latter course.

Every one realizes that there is a great amount of realism attendant upon picture stars. Theirs is a world of make-believe—a world of mimicry. Atmosphere is their very breath of life. Genius flows only by inspiration and environment engenders inspiration. Characters are created and lived by actors and actresses in specially prepared atmosphere before the camera. Take them out of this atmosphere, created by master minds solely to set them before the world at their best, bring them before an idolizing but critical audience bereft of this atmosphere, and you have simply an amateurish actor or actress. None ever lives up to the fans' preconceived idealism.

They talk, they laugh or they giggle, as their natures so will, but how unlike the great, the masterful, the beautiful and the cultured stars of the cinema they are! Just human! Too plump, too thin, a "fierce" voice, sparse hair, coarse or effeminate, as the individual case may be. Better they had remained in phantomland!

Picture-going is a habit—an appetite one might term it—that has been created by what the screen has to offer. Gorge it with a series of personal appearances and the appetite becomes jaded. What is to follow after that is only a matter for conjecture. Sufficient to say some new sensational means of appeal will have to be provided to maintain interest.

But! And there always is a "but" to any proposition that is worthy of consideration. If stars are wanted by the best exhibitors and the producers are willing to lend their delicate wares for display over the country, then let there be intelligent discretion and judgment exercised in their selection.

The public is becoming better educated every day. Its demands and exactions are greater. The legitimate stage has educated the public to know and appreciate the best in art. So, if there must be personal appearances, let the stars be carefully scrutinized as to their fitness for the responsibility and let none go out without the vital scenic investiture which is so important to their success before the camera.

If care and intelligence is not exercised, a promiscuous releasing of film stars and players upon the public would bring down an avalanche of mixed talent, carrying in its wake a disillusioned public—a public with its idealism shattered. nly a few choice stars, who would have been weighed in the scales of personal judgment and not have been found wanting, would remain as real boxoffice assets.

Every exhibitor who has studied his business knows that the women are the bulwark of the theatre. And at the same time he knows that the women are the most critical and the easiest to disillusion. Few cinema stars have graduated from the perfection of the legitimate stage and it is safe to assert that only a very few outside of former legitimate stars, can appear in person upon a stage and conduct themselves in a manner safe from criticism. And once the illusion is destroyed, that star's drawing power is materially handicapped.

G. E. Brown.
Loew's Palace Theatre, Memphis, Tenn.

Arthur S. Kane Elected President of Associated Exhibitors

Arrangement with Chas. Ray Not Affected; No Changes Contemplated

ARTHUR S. KANE has been elected president of Associated Exhibitors. Mr. Kane's ascendency to the presidency of that organization follows the resignation some weeks ago of Samuel Harding of Kansas City, who retired from the executive chair of Associated Exhibitors to devote his entire attention to a new theatrical enterprise in which he is interested. Mr. Kane entered upon his new office March 6th, making his headquarters at the offices of Associated Exhibitors at 35 West Forty-fifth street, New York City. The change in Mr. Kane's capacity does not affect his present arrangement with Charles Ray, whose productions he will continue to present through First National and United Artists. Mr. Kane has heretofore been chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee of Associated Exhibitors, and his election to the presidency is represented to be really the culmination of a plan of reorganization launched a year ago.

John C. Ragland, vice-president and general manager of the Arthur S. Kane Pictures Corporation, will be in charge of the details of Charles Ray's business and will also supervise all the business activities of the Kane organization outside of Mr. Ray's. John E. Storey, who has been acting as sales manager of Associated Exhibitors for the past year, having been granted a year's leave of absence by Pathe for this purpose, has just been recalled by the Pathe organization to resume his sales work with that organization. Roy Crawford, treasurer of Associated Exhibitors, continues in this capacity as well as in the management of the home office.

Associated Exhibitors will continue to operate by means of its own sales organization, in every Pathe branch office and, as in the past, the two organizations will work in close conjunction, with the Associated representatives in charge of the actual selling, and Pathe handling the physical distribution of the Associated product. There is no change in the arrangement existing between Associated Exhibitors and Pathe Exchange, or in the constitution of Associated Exhibitors, which will continue its policy of marketing independent productions through intensive distribution and efficient physical handling.

No changes are contemplated in the organization under Mr. Kane's presidency. He believes that Mr. Storey, during his year's leave of absence from Pathe, has brought the sales organization to a high point of efficiency and has been exceptionally successful in carrying out his mission, and that both the home office and the field sales force is functioning properly. Mr. Kane states that the present expansion comes as a direct result of the plans laid a year ago, and the successful working out of the policies, which will be continued under the new expansion. He promises continued interest in the affairs of the exhibitors as a body, and the release by Associated Exhibitors of a product which will represent the best in independent motion picture productions.

Arthur S. Kane, who has been elected president of Associated Exhibitors

"Unquestionably, Associated Exhibitors has a more solid business than any distributing organization has had when I took active charge," declared Mr. Kane during the week. "I believe it also to have more potential possibilities. Under the sales direction of Mr. Storey the company has, in its first year, made a most creditable showing. He and his men have established the company in the good graces of exhibitors by fair treatment and clean dealing. Thus a firm foundation has been laid on which we hope to build still further.

"Associated's business has shown a consistent growth month by month. Each succeeding month for the whole year has seen a healthy increase. March is sure to cap the climax by a wide margin, for it is Brunet Anniversary Month and, owing to the popularity of Pathe's president in the industry, all our salesmen have been flooding the home office with contracts and March play dates. Exhibitors all over the country are uniting in this tribute. Mr. Storey has been keenly alive to this opportunity and, with the support of exhibitors and his salesmen, has achieved great results.

"Large as Brunet Anniversary Month will be, April looms already as a dangerous competitor. So much April business has been taken already, it would not surprise us to see the month of showers go March one better.

"I am indeed happy to have taken charge of Associated Exhibitors on March 6th, because it is the fourth anniversary of the leadership of Paul Brunet of Pathe Exchange, with whom we are so closely associated," continues Mr. Kane. "It is a good omen, a happy augury, and it will be our endeavor to try to emulate the wonderful record Pathe has made under Mr. Brunet's guidance. To be in daily contact with him and Elmer Pearson as directing heads of our physical distributor makes this position doubly enjoyable.

"We shall be in the market at all times for good productions — I may add, especially for clean productions.

"As to present conditions in the film industry, I can only say that there is but one major tenet in my business religion, and that is — optimism. No time is like the present time and no industry holds so many potential rewards — financial, as well as sentimental — as our own."

Sidney Garrett, president of the Inter-Globe Export Corporation, will continue as foreign representative for Associated Exhibitors. Mr. Garrett is now in England in the interests of Associated Exhibitors, and is declared to have been unusually successful during the past year in placing this product throughout the world.

Wid Gunning on Coast for Short But Busy Stay

Wid Gunning has arrived in Los Angeles where he plans to make a brief stay before returning East again to work out his recently announced plan of "Direct Booking and Profit Sharing."

Conferences with directors who have evidenced an interest in Wid Gunning's announcement of a direct exhibitor-creator tie-up will probably take up a good deal of Wid Gunning's time while in Los Angeles, while one of the reasons for the trip is to get the first look at Victor Shertzinger's recently completed production, "Dollar Devils." This is the first of four Victor Schertzinger productions announced for release through Wid Gunning, Inc., and final production touches were put to it last week.

The Reader Has His Say

Mr. W. A. Johnson, Editor,
Motion Picture News,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Johnson:—

I have just read, with a great deal of interest, your editorial discussion of the percentage plan of booking in the issue of March 4th.

Also Mr. Richards' discussion in same issue.

Of course this is not the first I have read on this subject nor the first thought I have given the matter, and having read everything you have had to say on the subject in your valuable paper as well as the other fellows' views, I am compelled to say that Mr. Richards has you backed entirely off the boards with not a piece of firm earth to stand on, in my opinion.

BUT—what are we going to do? Us little fellows, I mean, we out in the sticks, so to speak.

The large city house that seats 2,000 to 4,000 and runs a picture a week to four weeks is not in this discussion, in my mind, as I know nothing about their problems and would not attempt to advise them, nor would I advise a fellow in a small town for the reason that local conditions affect this business to such an extent that every one is compelled to work out his own salvation.

I just want to relate a little instance here, however, that will prove to you very conclusively that it is practically impossible to get equitable terms on pictures just now.

On the 13th ult. a salesman representing one of the more popular and larger distributors called on me with his regular line of bull about big pictures. I signed contracts for twenty-three of his pictures at prices that I knew were every cent I could stand, as they were pictures I very much wanted to use.

He sent the contracts in to Dallas, with my deposit check, and the Dallas office immediately returned my check with the advice that it would be impossible to get contracts approved, and therefore not necessary to send them in to New York office.

I immediately acknowledged this letter and thanked them for returning my check so promptly, stating that I had really let the salesman out-talk me and was sure the pictures were not worth the money I had agreed to pay for them, and offered to play the pictures on percentage, stating in this connection that I contemplated closing my house each Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday beginning on certain dates.

I told them that if they thought I had not offered to play square and give them all their pictures were worth to me, here was an opportunity to test them out on a percentage basis.

I offered to play the pictures in question 50—50, they to furnish a complete program—feature and comedy—together with all advertising, and that I would feature their pictures up in my advertising above the other days of the week in which I used them.

I also offered the alternative that I would play the pictures at the prices as per contract, purchase all advertising, etc., in the regular way and when all the pictures had been played we would total the receipts on the twenty-three pictures and if I had not paid 35 per cent of my receipts for film rental, I would pay them enough more in one check to bring the film rental up to 35 per cent of receipts. I have had no reply to this letter, and imagine it went direct into the waste basket. Now, do you think I made them a fair proposition? Do you think small town shows will be able to operate on the terms that they will demand, once they get the percentage plan on foot?

Personally, I have always had my mind set against percentage bookings, but I am now like a drowning man, as are many other small towners, ready to grab at a straw—anything that has the slightest possibility of enabling me to keep my house open full time.

I have tried other sources with the same result, and have decided there is nothing to do but close my house to two nights a week, and have arranged to do so beginning next week.

Stars, producers, distributors or somebody has got to come to terms, or pretty soon there will be no small town shows to sell to.

Our equipments will be salvaged to pay up back rents and our houses will be rented to some one for a feed store or some line that can make money to pay the rents.

A. L. Middleton.
Queen Theatre, De Queen, Ark.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Wiliam A. Johnston, Pres. & Editor
E. Kendall Gillett, Treasurer
George D. Gould, Managing Editor
Fred. J. Beecroft, Adv. Mgr.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant

Chicago Representative, L. H. Mason, 910 S. Michigan Ave.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, Suite 205, Baker-Detwiller Building, 412 West Sixth St.; 'Phone Pico 780. Subscription $3 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $5. Foreign, $8. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book. Western Union registered cable address is "Picknews," New York.

Copyright, 1922, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

Lower Rental Drive in Eastern Pennsylvania

FOLLOWING the example set by the Chicago exhibitors, which was described in last week's issue of Motion Picture News, the exhibitors of Eastern Pennsylvania have taken a definite step in their efforts to reduce film rentals.

The plan follows closely that which is being put into effect in Chicago. A questionnaire has been sent to all exhibitors of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware by the local branch of the M. P. T. O. of A. in an effort to collect information which will prove valuable in the organization's efforts to secure rental adjustments.

Hays to Meet Industry at M.P.D.A. Dinner March 16

The initial introduction of Hon. Will H. Hays to the Motion Picture Industry will be the occasion of the Motion Picture Directors Association's annual dinner-dance, scheduled for March 16th, Hotel Astor. Reservations are nearing capacity. John Emerson, president of the Actors' Equity Association, will act as toastmaster.

George Sargent, chairman of the Executive Committee, has been obliged to resign all personal and business activities and devote his time exclusively to arrangements for the great event which has assumed unprecedented and colossal proportions.

Orlando's Orchestra has been engaged for the dancing which will begin at ten o'clock, as well as the special numbers a Director Ball is noted for presenting.

Busy Program for Jewish Relief Fund This Week

This was a busy week for those who are cooperating to make the $5,000,000 drive for the Jewish War Relief Fund a success.

On Wednesday afternoon, at the Thomashefsky theatre on the East Side, New York, a special matinee was held. Those billed to appear included Cantor Rosenblatt, Nora Bayes, Jack Dempsey, Irving Berlin and Sissle and Blake from "Shuffle Along." On Tuesday night Sophie Tucker gave a benefit, and many well-known artists were on hand at Reisenweber's.

There will be a special benefit performance in the theatre of each member of the T. O. C. C. on Saturday of this week.

Kentucky Exhibitors Will Meet March 15th-16th

The second annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Kentucky will be held Wednesday and Thursday, March 15th and 16th, at the La Fayette Hotel, Lexington, Ky. The organization formed a year ago has a membership at this time of about 95 per cent of the theatre owners of the state.

First National Week Brings Big Increase in Attendance

Reports Indicate that Drive Proved Tremendous Box Office Stimulant

THAT excellent box office receipts were the result of First National week is indicated by the reports received by the First National home office. Many theatres, reads the First National announcement, have reported the biggest business for months. At least one new box-office record has been set up in a great many instances. Capacity business has been recorded in town after town. Even where the worst possible weather, such as blizzards in the northwest, has proved a more formidable opposition than any array of competitive productions could have been, the results of the week have been such as to make the exhibitors enthusiastic over the idea, and have called forth recommendations that First National weeks be held even more frequently than once a year.

With many outlying points still to be heard from in detail, states First National, enough testimony from exhibitors has rolled in to make plain the general revival of theatrical attendance that has come about under the influence of First National Week—an increased attendance which the exhibitors are preparing to retain now that they have regained it.

In Seattle, for instance, the success of First National Week was made even bigger by the coincidence of a "Go to Theatre Week" movement during the same period. An official proclamation of Acting Mayor Robert B. Hesketh launched the movement, and the two drives working together culminated in a volume of theatre attendance that Seattle had not seen for months past.

The activities centered in the downtown district, where five of the eight motion picture houses showed First National attractions throughout the seven days, in celebration of First National Week. At the Coliseum "Penrod" Marshall Neilan's picturization of the famous Booth Tarkington stories, proved a drawing card to the old as well as the youthful spirits of Seattle. "Hail the Woman," Thomas H. Ince's picture, was the attraction at the Strand. "Polly of the Follies," Constance Talmadge's latest comedy, was the feature at the Liberty. The offering at the Rex was "Wife Against Wife," a Whitman Bennett special production, featuring Pauline Starke. The fifth First National attraction on the bill of fare was "Peck's Bad Boy" at the Winter Garden.

L. O. Lukan, manager of the Seattle exchange of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., was chairman of the committee on arrangements for the week.

One of the features of the week was a parade on Thursday. The procession was gorgeously spectacular, and was headed by actors and actresses of every branch of the theatrical industry. Other items added to the festivities made it a "downtown theatrical carnival," and the exhibitors and other showmen of Seattle recommend "Go to Theatre Week" as an excellent remedy for that sluggish box office feeling, and for stirring up the inhabitants of any place and interesting them in theatricals.

"First National Week" in North Central Ohio "went over big." Every manager judging from the general activity, went as far as good business judgment would permit in doing his part in the general put-her-over scheme. William A. Partello, manager of the Majestic, Mansfield, O., started in before the beginning and never let up until it was all over.

O. J. Bannon, of the Colonial, Elyria, made a splurge. The result was general interest in "First National Week" not only in Elyria, but for miles around. George J. Schade, owner and manager of the Schade, Sandusky, not only offered First Nationals at the Schade, but opened up the Plaza, of which he is the lessee, to First Nationals as well. George R. Moore, of the Lion, Bellevue, ran in more First Nationals in a week than he had shown in a couple of months.

August Illg, of Lorain, maintained "Tol'able David" at his Wonderland theatre all week and played one-a-day successes that had "made good" at Wonderland, at Dreamland, another house that caters to those of his locality. Carl F. Miller, manager of the Strand theatre, Fremont, was unable to offer all the First Nationals he wanted to show at the Strand, and, so opened up the Fremont theatre, the road attraction house of which he is also manager for the latter part of the week, offering a First National.

A partial list of the First National attractions shown in North Central Ohio territory during "First National Week" is as follows: Lion theatre, Bellevue, O., "The Golden Snare" and "Passion"; Strand theatre, Bellevue, O., "Stranger Than Fiction," "Salvation Nell," "Lessons in Love" and "The Idle Class" and "The Child Thou Gavest Me"; Fremont theatre, Fremont, O., "Wife Against Wife." New Royal theatre, Findlay, O., "Bits of Life" and "Tol'able David"; Colonial theatre, Elyria, O., "The Silent Call."

"First National Week" in Louisville was also a great success. The picture houses rallied around the First National Standard. Four out of seven downtown theatres showed First National pictures through the week. Here is the list: Walnut, "The Silent Call," all week; National, Charles Ray in "Two Minutes to Go"; Pola Negri in "One Arabian Night"; Kentucky, Jackie Coogan in "My Boy"; Alamo, "Hail the Woman."

The picture houses and the stores of Louisville made a display of First National banners and the results of the contest that were held in connection with First National week that gave a gala aspect to the week. Throughout Kentucky and Tennessee it was the same. Paul E. Krieger, manager of the Associated First National for Kentucky and Tennessee reported unprecedented bookings of First National pictures.

Unique Distribution Plan for New Young Series

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is to make five features and three specials for a period of two years under an arrangement with Sam Zierler, president of Commonwealth Film Exchange of New York City. Mr. Zierler will not sell the series nationally on the state right market, but will distribute the pictures in New York and Northern New Jersey, the territory covered by his independent exchange. The series will be distributed throughout the remainder of the country by Metro Pictures. This is believed to be the first instance of an independent exchange producing and making such an unusual arrangement with a national distributing organization.

Mr. Zierler announces a new production policy for the series. The pictures will be of no set type, but the stories will be selected for their dramatic strength and appeal. Harry Garson, who has produced past pictures starring Miss Young, will supervise the productions.

Commonwealth Exchange is looked upon as one of the strongest independent exchanges not only in the New York territory, but in the entire country. Mr. Zierler's present undertaking in the production field, and his unusual distributing arrangement, is considered his most progressive step. The first feature will be a screen version of "The Hands of Nara," by Richard Washburn Child, a Collier-magazine story now published in novel form.

National Exchanges Opens an Office in Chicago

Walter L. Johnson, president of National Exchanges, Inc., announces the opening of an affiliated branch exchange in Chicago under the name of the Cosmopolitan National Exchanges, Inc. Carl Harthill is the Chicago manager. With another affiliated exchange already operating in New York under the name of Metropolitan National Exchanges, Inc., National Exchanges has now its own distributing offices in the two largest cities of the country. Additional exchanges will be opened in the near future.

Federal Censor Bill Presented

(Continued from page 1597)

commission by any deputy or by the license of the film: Provided, That no film shall be refused a license except after it has been inspected by at least one member of the commission, and no film, after appeal, shall be finally refused or granted a license except by affirmative vote of at least two members of the commission. Appeal from decisions of the commission may be had to any Federal court, but only on the ground that the commission has exceeded or abused the powers conferred by this Act.

"Sec. 8. That any person desiring to license, as in this Act provided, shall submit a sworn application in the form prescribed by the commission. Said application shall be given a serial number which shall be a permanent part of the title in the film and in every copy thereof.

"Sec. 9. That when any motion-picture film has been approved the commission shall issue a license to the applicant to transport the film in interstate and foreign commerce. The license shall be in the form prescribed by the commission and shall give the serial number of the application, the title, the date of the license, the number of linear feet, and a full description of the film. Copies of the license shall be provided to accompany the film and every duplicate and shall be sent to deputies and advisory commissioners, who also shall be supplied with a list of the films rejected and a list hereinafter provided for of films in circulation before this law went into effect. The license accompanying the film shall be open to the inspection of any municipal official or any officer of a civic organization. The title part of any licensed film shall contain some mark or symbol, determined by the commission, which shall be plainly visible to those viewing its exhibits, and some distinctive and durable tag prescribed by the commission shall be firmly attached to the container in which the film is habitually transported.

"Sec. 10. That no person, firm, or corporation shall carry or transport, or cause to be carried or transported, any motion-picture film, developed or undeveloped, from or into any State, Territory, or possession of the United States unless such film has been licensed by the commission or has been exempted in accordance with the provisions of this Act: Provided, That this section shall not apply to films consigned to this commission, nor shall this section be construed as prohibiting the carriage or transportation by or for the producer himself in one continuous journey of his own undeveloped film for the purposes of manufacture: And provided further, That the owners and lessees of motion-picture films which shall have been exhibited in the United States prior to the approval of this Act shall not be required to secure interstate license for said films, but each shall furnish the commission a list of all his motion-picture films that are in circulation in interstate and foreign commerce with a full description of each, which shall be published for information of the commission and its assistants; and the commission may require that all such excepted films passing in interstate and foreign commerce shall bear some designated mark or symbol in the title part of the film and some durable tag on the container differing from the tag for licensed films, by which the agents of the commission may recognize them as entitled to the exemption herein granted: And provided further, That any film, old or new, transported in interstate or foreign commerce, or a copy thereof, shall be submitted to the commission for inspection if the commission, on complaint of any civil officer, or of any officer of a civic society, shall so require; and any film so inspected shall be licensed or excluded from interstate or foreign commerce upon the same terms as films produced after this Act takes effect: And provided further, That any exempted motion-picture film may also be inspected for license on request of the owner or lessee. That fact that any film is in any State other than the one in which it was produced without a license or certificate of exemption and the required mark and tag shall be prima facie evidnece that it has been transported in interstate commerce in violation of this Act.

"Sec. 11. That no motion-picture film which has not been licensed or exempted by the commission shall be exhibited in any place of amusement for pay or in connection with any business in the District of Columbia, or in any Territory of the United States, or in any other place under the jurisdiction of the United States.

"Sec. 12. That a fee of $1 shall be charged for the examination by the commission of each film of one thousand feet or less, and 50 cents for each film which is a duplicate of any film which has been licensed. Any change or alteration in any film after licensed, except the elimination of a part, shall be a violation of this Act and shall also void the license.

"Sec. 13. That the commission shall annually, on or before the 1st day of January of each year, submit a written report to the United States Commissioner of Education, and in its report and from time to time by other means, the commission may recommend films particularly suitable for children and make suggestions regarding recreational and educational uses of motion pictures. The commission may also investigate and study the relations between the motion picture industry and the public, and gather, compile, and publish from time to time information relating to such matters, to the end that the public may be properly informed and the board and official censors be equipped to perform their duties.

"Sec. 14. That the penalty for violation of this Act shall be a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment of not more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court, and the films or parts of films unlawfully transported, exhibited, or changed shall be surrendered to the custody of the commission and may be destroyed.

"Sec. 15. That the fees received by the commission shall be paid monthly into the Treasury of the United States.

"Sec. 16. That upon the expiration of six months from the date of the approval of this Act, and from time to time thereafter as circumstances warrant, the commission shall reduce the license fee to such a sum as will produce no larger income than is necessary to pay the cost of the commission, including salaries and all other expenses.

"Sec. 17.—That for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act members of the commission or its duly authorized agents shall have the right at any or all times during the public exhibition of moving-picture films to enter, without charge, any moving picture theatre or hall or other place where a moving picture exhibition is being conducted for an admission fee or price, and no proprietor or employee shall offer any resistance thereto.

"Sec. 18. That if one or more sections of this Act shall be declared unconstitutional it shall not void the other sections.

"Sec. 19. That this Act shall take effect immediately, except section 10, which shall take effect three months after the approval of this Act by the President."

Alfred Weiss to Remain with Goldwyn

Inquiries at the Goldwyn office led to the denial of the resignation of Alfred Weiss from his office as vice president. A. S. Aronson, who was serving as vice president and sales manager, has resigned, the resignation taking effect on March 1st. Mr. Weiss, however, according to reports from the Goldwyn office, will continue to serve.

Leon L. Kahn of San Francisco Passes Away

Mr. Leon L. Kahn, one of the pioneers in the motion picture exhibition field in the West and a member of the firm of Kahn & Greenfield, who control the New Mission, New Fillmore, New Santa Cruz and several other theatres in and about San Francisco, passed away at his home in San Francisco on Tuesday morning, February 21st. Mr. Kahn was one of the men whose foresight and knowledge helped to bring the motion picture industry to its present high level. He was the father of Lester Kahn, who passed away a few years ago and who was also a pioneer in the exhibition field.

In the Film Centers

Activities of Exchange Managers, Exhibitors, Salesmen and Others

OKLAHOMA CITY

THE Universal Film Exchange held open house at Oklahoma City, February 19-25. Manager Sam Benjamin said that it paid big in dividends, both to the visitors and the hosts.

Manager Dan Myers of the Orpheum theatre at Muskogee, Okla., visited film row in Oklahoma City last week.

P. N. Brinch, manager of exchanges of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, visited the local exchange in Oklahoma City last week.

Manager W. B. Stubbs of the Liberty theatre at Erick, Okla., visited in Oklahoma City last week combining business with pleasure.

Manager Mack Tritch of the R. D. Lewis Film Co. made a trip to Okmulgee, Tulsa and other eastern Oklahoma points during the week.

Ex-Manager Maddux of the Vitagraph Co. has accepted a position in Chicago.

The Phil H. Pierce Company of Dallas, Texas, will move to their new quarters at 1805 Commerce Street, about March 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Abrams left for New York City Sunday night. The Abrams expect to remain in the east as they sold all of their belongings in Oklahoma City before leaving. Mr. Abrams was former manager for Peacock Productions at Oklahoma City.

Manager Stettmund of Chandler, Okla., has donated his theatre to the various church organizations for a program every Sunday afternoon, free gratis.

The program will consist of illustrated songs, musical numbers and short talks.

KANSAS CITY

BRANCH managers of Educational Film Exchange, Inc., from five Middle West cities attended a conference in Kansas City last week. The meeting, called by E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, was one of a series of sales conferences being held over the country for the purpose of determining the needs and desires of the exhibitors. Henry Ginsberg, domestic sales manager of Educational; H. E. Schiller, Kansas City branch manager; Harry Hynes, St. Louis branch manager; C. L. Peavey, Omaha branch manager; A. W. Kahn, Des Moines, Ia., branch manager, and E. J. Drucker, Denver branch manager were among those present at the meeting. Mr. Hammons, with his wife, left for Los Angeles following the meeting.

The Fox Film Corporation Kansas City branch, after a night of labor last Tuesday night, moved into its new building Wednesday morning at Nineteenth and Wyandotte streets. Incidentally, the new quarters are located next to a police station, which may be of some unknown advantage. New bins, which will enable exhibitors to obtain accessories without delay, have been installed, while much more office space is available. An open invitation has been extended by R. Melvin, branch manager, for exhibitors to visit the new quarters.

The Universal Kansas City branch office will have a modern projection room next week upon moving into its new quarters at 1710 Wyandotte street. Herman Stern, Universal district manager, is now in Kansas City aiding in preparation for moving. The Universal office will be able to offer much improvement in service to exhibitors, according to H. H. Holmes, assistant branch manager.

Arthur Van Hecke has been succeeded by Miss Ruth G. Bosch as booker for the Kansas City Pathe office. Mr. Van Hecke has decided to forsake the film game, temporarily at least, to enter other fields of business. The Pathe sales force is agog with ambition, following the visit last week of Col. W. T. Yoder, division manager, who left Wednesday for St. Louis.

R. Melcher, former salesman for the Kansas City Select office, has taken over the management of the Highland theatre, Kansas City. The theatre has been closed for several weeks, but Melcher, after a career as a salesman, has confidence of unearthing business wherever there is "life."

A fair idea as to how the picture, "Penrod," featuring Wesley Barry, was received in Kansas City at the Newman theatre last week, can be gained from the following item which appeared in the Kansas City Star.

"Because of the hundreds of telephone calls and written requests received by the Newman theatre management, the current program, presenting "Freckles" Barry in "Penrod" will be continued for an extra day. The continuance was decided upon to accommodate the many school children who were unable to attend the performance, during the week."

Pen Sketches

J. J. Millstein

ENTERING the motion picture business in 1910 as assistant comptroller of the General Film at 10 Fifth avenue, New York, T. Y. Henry, manager of the Kansas City United Artists' office, has had a wide and varied experience in the industry. In 1913 Mr. Henry resigned his initial position to become traveling representative for the New York office of the Mutual Film Corporation, later going West to become manager of the General Film Company's Salt Lake City office. When Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks decided to form their own company, the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, Mr. Henry was selected to open their Denver office as its manager, which position he held until that company merged with Famous Players-Lasky, at which time he was given the managership of both offices.

In 1918 Mr. Henry resigned to enter the State Right field as vice-president of the Foursquare Pictures Corporation in the Rocky Mountain states. When plans were completed for the formation of the United Artists Corporation, Mr. Henry was selected to open their Denver office, where he remained until 1921, when he was transferred to Kansas City.

Like other men to whom success has come, Mr. Henry has a rather rigid code of business rules, among the principal ones being: Never break your word. A man cannot sell the goods he handles unless he himself believes in them. Seldom makes promises, for many things may occur to prevent you keeping them. Be 100 per cent sold on your organization.

* * *

W. E. Truog

ASIDE from being next to the oldest exchange branch manager in Kansas City, from a point of service, W. E. Truog, manager of the Kansas City Goldwyn office has perhaps one of the most unique and peculiar careers of any exchange head in Missouri. Few men start at the top of the ladder in the film game. Still fewer start at the top without having had some previous experience in the industry. Mr. Troug not only has performed both of these "feats," but has added to his credit a third and more important factor—unqualified success.

Known today in Kansas City as the "Judge Landis of the motion picture industry," Mr. Truog started his career as manager of the World Film Corporation's Kansas City office in 1916. Three years later he became manager of the Goldwyn branch in Kansas City. Besides being actively engaged in all affairs pertaining to the film game, Mr. Truog is treasurer of the Kansas City Film Board of Trade. Among his best friends are many exhibitors. His policy of considerate and fair treatment has even won him mention in the press.

Prior to entering the motion picture business, Mr. Truog managed the Kansas City office of the Oliver Typewriter Company, under the administration of Richard Gradwell, who took over the World Film Corporation and who appointed Mr. Truog as manager of the Kansas City office.

Buffalo

SYDNEY Samson, manager of the Grand & Warner exchange, has received the following letter from Harris Lumberg, manager of the Lumberg theatre in Niagara Falls:

"When the reviewers tied up "School Days" with money they hit the mark. Have completed seven day run of this wonderful picture. Give you the praise of having the best box office attraction that ever played the Lumberg theatre. Put this production in for return date March 10 and 11. First time in history of house picture played nine days. Happy to give my people such wonderful, clean entertainment."

Now Syd. has to wear a half size larger hat!

The Adler Brothers have closed the local Lande office on the second floor at 145 Franklin street.

The Pathe exchange has qualified for the second division in the Brunet drive. This means that "the wrecking crew" will compete with six other offices between now and March 25 for a prize of $1,500. Manager Bill Mack insists that money is coming to the Buffalo. Film Row has not yet recovered from Jack Thomson's appearance in a new Spring suit a la sport model. Mrs. Mack had Bill out one day last week looking over garments suitable for her husband.

Harry T. Dixon, hustling city salesman for Vitagraph, reports much interest in "The Sheik's Wife." which was screened last week for several local managers. Branch Manager Anthony has arrived in town. He succeeds J. E. Kimberly, who is now with Nu-Art.

George Blackmon closed a record contract this week. He signed up the Woolen Mills in Fulton, N. Y. for 105 pictures all of which will be shown in the new recreation hall the company is about to open in the town. E. J. Hayes, exchange manager, reports the F. N. drive going like a house afire in the territory. Eddie had the office all lit up for the occasion, with brilliant decoration and a big window display. E. C. Markens of the sales staff is now sporting a flivver. Mr. Hayes journeyed to New York last week end for a conference with home office officials. It is reported that a new exploitation man is to be added to the Buffalo exchange staff. He will begin his duties at once.

St. Louis

R. A. WHITE, new general sales manager for Fox, was here last Saturday. He departed for Cincinnati.

Charles Werner, local Metro manager, will celebrate his seventh anniversary as boss of the St. Louis Metro exchange on March 26. He returns Saturday from a very successful trip through Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee. He says the week was the greatest in his film experience. He has been on the job about fifteen years.

Visitors of the week to St. Louis exchanges were: C. W. Hall, Illinois, Centralia, Ill.; Louis Landau, Lyric, Granite City, Ill.; Verner Hicks, Family theatre, Marion, Ill.; F. E. Schmitt, Star theatre, St. Jacobs, Ill.; C. E. Luttrell, Majestic theatre, Jacksonville, Ill.; Jim Reilly, Princess and Grand theatres, Alton, Ill.

RICHARD C. FOX, manager of the Select exchange in Buffalo, blames Jack Lait for his entering the "fillum" business. Jack published a paper called the Chicago Saturday Telegraph at one time and Dick was employed as review man at night and advertising solicitor in the day time. On one of his trips, he called on the National Lithograph Print Company in the Windy City and sold them a page ad. As a result of this transaction he became associated with the Lithograph Company, handling "Les Miserables," which they controlled in four states. Later he took on "From Dust to Dawn," and other "big super-specials." Then he became affiliated with Artcraft as branch manager in Minneapolis. When this company was consolidated with Famous Players-Lasky, Dick was appointed sales manager in that city. Later he came to Buffalo as exchange manager, which position he resigned to accept a foreign sales post with the Fox Film Company in England, with headquarters in London. From this position he jumped to the management of Select in St. Louis and now occupies a similar post in Buffalo. Mr. Fox is vice president of the Film Board of Trade. He is the first man to suggest such an organization in Buffalo. Four years ago he was instrumental in forming a Film Club working in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce. The host of friends which he has made throughout the country know that Dick's middle name is "Square Deal." That's why any office with which he is connected never gets far from the top of the good business column. Niles Welch was in Buffalo recently for the opening of the new Lafayette Square. Dick was right on the job. He had pictures made of Niles meeting the Mayor on his arrival in town. These films were shown six hours later on the screen of the theatre.

* * *

IN years, and years only, J. J. Millstein, manager of the Kansas City Hodkinson branch, is known as the youngest exchange manager in that section of the country. Hardly beyond his twenty-eighth birthday, Mr. Millstein, by his unusual executive ability and fair dealing, has commanded the utmost respect of exhibitors and exchange men in the Middle West for the last eight years.

T. Y. Henry

For a number of years Mr. Millstein managed Fred Warren's Hodkinson offices in Omaha, Neb., and Washington, D. C. When Mr. Warren took over the Associated Producers Corporation Mr. Millstein left Hodkinson and opened the Pittsburgh office for the former company. In Pittsburgh Mr. Millstein's health was not good and he requested a transfer, being sent to Denver and remaining there until his company merged with First National, whereupon he opened a new office in Detroit. Mr. Millstein later joined the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation as manager of the Kansas City branch where he is one of the most popular men in the industry.

* * *

E. O. WEINBERG is the manager of the Mark-Strand in Buffalo. Eddie came to Buffalo many years ago from down Albany way to become manager of the Elmwood theatre, one of the largest neighborhood houses in the Queen City of the Lakes. After an unusually successful regime at the Elmwood, he was "called" to the Strand by Walter Hays to succeed Earl L. Crabb, now owner of the System theatre in Syracuse. Since taking the reins at the Strand, Eddie has put over something like 5000 stunts, all of which have been box office magnets. Mr. Weinberg in addition to his duties at the Strand finds time to act as an exhibitor member of the Grievance Committee of the Film Board of Trade. He has held several offices in the Buffalo Theatre Managers' Association. Mr. Weinberg's Strand ads are always attractive and dignified. Many of them have appeared in the Service department of MOTION PICTURE NEWS. As a result of Mr. Weinberg's able management, the Strand is still going strong, despite local business conditions.

Des Moines

HARRY M. Weinberg, Manager of the Des Moines First National Exchange made a flying trip to Chicago last week to witness the worlds premier of "Penrod."

Elmer J. Tilton, formerly booker with Pathe is now booking with First National assisting Frank Campbell who has been with the Des Moines office ever since its opening.

L. J. McCarthy formerly Associated Producer representative with First National has been transferred to the Kansas City office of First National.

A new member has been added to the sales staff of First National. Ralph Rothschild having joined the selling force.

The Des Moines First National office now occupies the entire second floor of the Hewitt Building and is considered one of the largest film exchanges in the middle west.

John C. Ingram arrived in Des Moines here last week from New York City and has taken over the post of exploitation representative in the local exchange of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He succeeds Harry Royster, who was recently transferred to the Cleveland exchange.

First National Exchanges

HARRY M. WEINBERG, manager of the Des Moines First National office spent last week in Omaha, looking after the interests of First National in that territory.

R. J. Barry, formerly a salesman with First National in the Minneapolis territory, is now working in the same capacity with the Des Moines Exchange.

Larry Longnecker, formerly a salesman with the Des Moines office has resigned.

The Des Moines office of First National has added a film renovator to their inspection department.

Adrian Bond now has charge of the poster department with the Des Moines office.

The Booking Guide
will be out this month.
Order Your Copy Now.

Exhibitors' Service Bureau—Pages 1609-1622

Here is a scene from the "Penrod" prologue presented by Frank Steffy, manager of the Coliseum theatre, Seattle, Wash.

Advisory Board and Contributing Editors, Exhibitors' Service Bureau

Thomas D. Soriero, Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.
H. C. Horator, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
Edward L. Hyman, Strand theatre, Brooklyn.
Theo. L. Hays, Gen. Mgr. Finklestein & Rubin, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landau, Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee.
Jack Kuhn, Loew theatres, Cleveland.
S. Barret McCormick, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Cleveland.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich.
E. R. Rogers, Managing Director, Tivoli and Rialto theatres, Chattanooga, Tenn.
G. E. Brown, Managing Director, Loew's Palace theatre, Memphis, Tenn.
Stanley Chambers, Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta.
R. B. Wilby, Supervisor of Southern Enterprises, Inc., Birmingham, Ala.
E. V. Richards, Jr., Gen. Mgr., Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
F. L. Newman, Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
Arthur G. Stolte, Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, Iowa.
Chas. Branham, Famous-Lasky, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Lowell W. Calvert, Managing Director, Capitol theatre, St. Paul, Minn.
W. C. Quimby, Managing Director, Strand and Jefferson theatres, Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.

Outstanding Features of This Week's Section

A. J. Cobe, manager of the New York Central theatre, is pulling a new one in the bee tree and swarm of bees lobby stunt for "Wild Honey" as told by the cut and story of page 1610.

Frank Miller has applied the art of ad writing to lobby display work; See page 1612 describing Mr. Miller's lobby front for "Wedding Bells."

Getting atmosphere in the lobby is exemplified by the cuts on page 1613, showing what the Audubon theatre, New York, did on "Face to Face With Japan."

How exploitation can be put over at practically no expense is explained by story on page 1614 relating the "Navy Day" stunt pulled by the Granada theatre, San Francisco, in connection with the run of "The run of "The Battle of Jutland."

Mechanical ballyhoo idea for "The Iron Trail" as explained by cut and story appearing on page 1616. It went big according to a letter from Mr. Moule

Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.
Louis K. Sidney, Managing Director, William Fox theatres, Denver.
Herbert J. Thatcher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.
Geo. Rotsky, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Montreal, Canada.
L. W. Barclay, Managing Director, Nemo theatre, Johnstown, Pa.
Phil. Gleichman, Managing Director, Broadway-Strand theatre, Detroit.
J. L. Johnston, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., of Texas, Dallas, Texas.
Fred S. Myer, Managing Director, Palace theatre, Hamilton, O.
C. C. Perry, Manager, Astor, Strand and Liberty theatres, St. Paul, Minn.
Nelson R. Bell, Publicity Director, Crandall's theatres, Washington, D. C.
L. L. Stewart, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Joseph Plunkett, Managing Director, Mark Strand theatre, New York.
Samuel Sivitz, Director of Publicity, Rowland and Clark theatres, Pittsburgh.
Ray Grombacher, Managing Director, Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash.
Ross A. McVoy, Manager, Temple theatre, Geneva, N. Y.
George Tooker, Manager, Regent theatre, Elmira, N. Y.
Ernest G. Stellings, Manager, Grand theatre, Wilmington, N. C.
Phil Gersdorf, Supervisor, Southern Enterprises theatres, Macon, Ga.

A. J. Cobe's "bee tree" and hive of bees lobby display which is attracting the attention of all Broadway during the run of "Wild Honey" at the Central theatre, New York

"Bee Tree" and Hive of Bees Cobe's "Wild Honey" Stunt

"Bee trees" and a hive of bees probably are not unknown to the residents of a good many towns where the silent drama is presented, but New Yorkers are not familiar with either one, except those who once on a time lived in the rural sections. Therefore, a lobby display which Andrew J. Cobe, manager of the Central theatre, New York, has conceived for "Wild Honey," the current attraction, is the center of all Broadway's attractions.

On the sides of the entrance there are two large oil paintings of punch scenes from the picture, as well as four more directly over the entrance to the lobby proper.

At the side, directly to the left of the booth, is installed a wild honey tree. This is very cleverly arranged by bringing in from the forest a portion of the dead tree and setting it on a platform to look like the rest of the natural tree, as seen by the above illustration. The honey-combs are intact, just as the bees left them, in their original wild state.

Inside the lobby are some beautifully colored oil paintings of the action scenes, done in stereopticon effect.

The most interesting thing of all, however, is placed in the rear of the lobby, which is nothing more or less than a real honest-to-goodness bee-hive full of live bees. The hive is covered with glass, so as to be transparent, and stands upon a table with grass cloth and a miniature white fence, resembling a rural scene. As the bees swarm from one cell to another, just so the interested picture-goers swarm around outside the protecting rail.

This forceful display was placed in the rear of the lobby for two reasons, one being that the bee-hive when placed in the front of the lobby blocked the traffic, and the police made Manager Cobe take it in, and the other reason was that it was too cold out in front. It seems natural to assume that some warm weather would not be amiss.

One of a number of attractive window displays for "One Arabian Night" arranged by George Rotsky, managing director of the Allen theatre, Montreal, Canada

"Penrod" Prologue Adapted from Scene in Picture

An alley scene, with a silhouette background of trees, houses with lighted windows, and a full moon beaming down, served as the setting for the "Penrod" prologue used by Manager Frank Steffy at the Coliseum Theatre, Seattle, a few weeks ago.

The curtain went up on the scene, revealing "Penrod" and the two darkies, "Herman and Verman," accompanied by their dog, conspiring against the populace of the town. After a very brief dialogue, Penrod, played by Miss Jean Swaney, sang "The Fairy Piper," the curtain going down on the last notes of her song. The screening of the feature picture followed immediately.

The prologue was enthusiastically received, and was given space in the columns of the local newspapers. The musical accompaniment by the Coliseum orchestra, under Conductor Arthur Kay, aided materially in the presentation.

The characters in the prologue also appeared on the "Penrod" float used by the Coliseum Theatre in the "Go-To-Theatre Week" parade staged in Seattle during First National Week.

The entire prologue was arranged by Manager Steffy and executed by the members of the theatre staff, under his direction.

A cut showing Mr. Steffy's prologue number is shown on the opening page of this section.

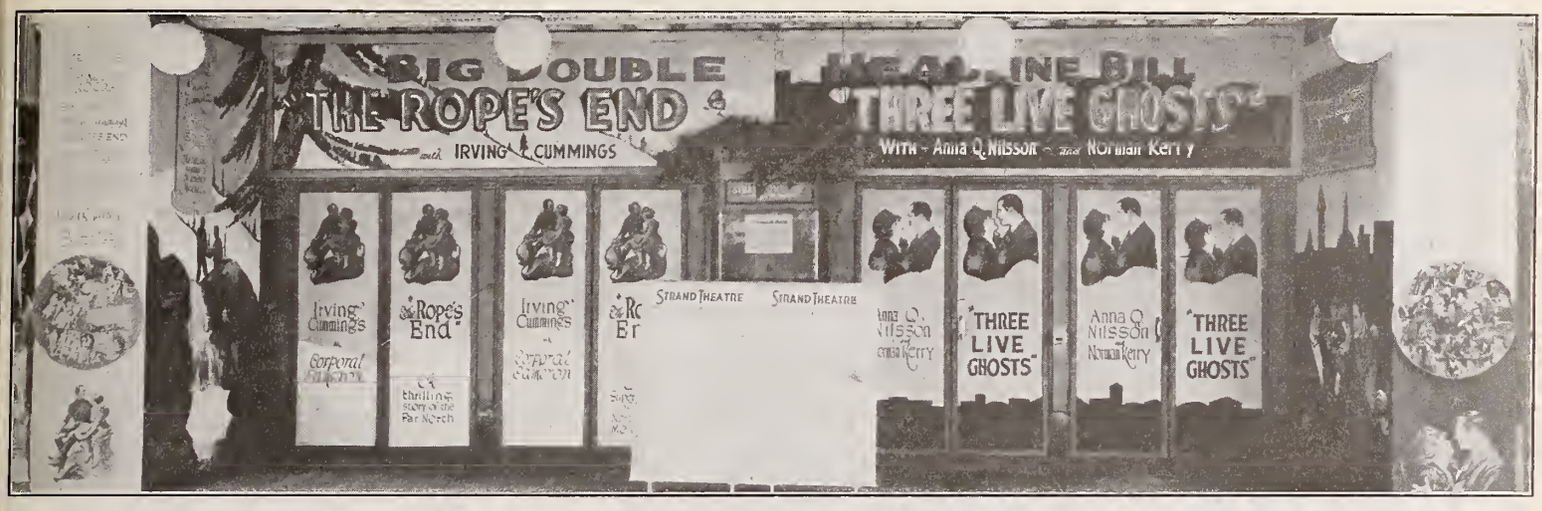
Willett Designs Nice "Sea Lion" Lobby

Steve Willitt, manager of the Liberty theatre at Astoria, Oregon, scored a ten-strike with "The Sea Lion" when he applied the principle of the flashing electric sign into one of the most effective lobby displays he has ever presented.

He flung a huge cut-out picture with the name of the feature across the front of his theatre. The cut-out was in two sections, giving the desired perspective. In one corner of the scene a lighthouse stood. Below this he had a huge eight-foot model of an old square-rigger vessel which, by happy chance, corresponded almost exactly with the ship in "The Sea Lion." Between the tips of the vessel's masts he hung tiny wireless antennae. In addition he installed in the lighthouse in the background electric lights that flashed red and white alternately.

He next tapped the sense of hearing in making it appeal to the attention of rigging up the wireless antennae on the masts of his vessel so that they flashed sparks through the day and night with the sharp staccato chatter of the real radio.

Miniature schooner and other lobby decorations used by the Liberty theatre, Astoria, Ore., to exploit "The Sea Lion"



This cut shows the lobby display on "The Rope's End" and "Three Live Ghosts" designed by Manager H. B. Wright of the Strand theatre, Seattle

"Mystery Woman" Helped Metzgar Put Over "Nobody"

Eller Metzgar, manager of the Strand theatre, Creston, Iowa, by the use of $4.00 and a few free tickets put over an exploitation campaign for "Nobody" that paid great dividends at the box office.

Mr. Metzgar made a deal with the manager of a store to go 50-50 on expense, then hired a girl for $2 a day to do a mystery stunt in one of the store's windows. Wearing a red mask and seated on a chair, the girl wrote "I am Nobody, yet Somebody—guess my identity" teasers on a slate. She'd also mixed in ad lines telling of bargains in the store. She did this twice a day—3 hours afternoon, 2 hours at night—for four days.

Borrows Miniature House to Exploit "Rent Free"

When Barry Burke, of the Palace, Ft. Worth, Texas, played "Rent Free," he secured from a local lumber company a miniature house about four feet square and placed it in his lobby for a week prior to the opening of the picture, and on the Monday following the opening put it in a local display window where it attracted much attention and boosted business more than a little.

The little house was illumined and bore a little sign in the front yard stating that Wallace Reid had solved the rent problem. Mr. Burke also carried out the 'for rent' and miniature house ideas in his lobby display frames in front of the theatre and put around the city a hundred cards which bore the wording "Rent Free." See for yourself at the Palace Theatre," instead of the customary apply inside of the owner in such and such an address.

Barry Burke's "Rent Free" lobby display when this picture played the Palace theatre, Fort Worth, Texas

Wright Turns Out Another Fine Lobby Display

THE accompanying photograph shows the way in which Manager H. B. Wright and the staff of the Strand Theatre, Seattle, decorated their lobby for the "double headline" bill used a few weeks ago, during the run of "Three Live Ghosts" and "The Rope's End."

The pictures were billed equally during the week on all the billboards and in the newspaper advertising used by the Strand, and Manager Wright considered it only fair to show the same impartiality in his lobby display.

The panels of each door were decorated with a scene from the picture, the panel on each side of the lobby had a decorative enlarged scene, and the entire program for the week was billed on the panels at the extreme ends of the lobby.

Irvin's Ushers Play Ghosts for "Three Live Ghosts" Showing

C. W. Irvin, manager of the Imperial theatre, Columbia, S. C., used some unique methods in exploiting "Three Live Ghosts."

Mr. Irvin began his campaign with three teaser slides. As these slides were being thrown on the screen one after another, Manager Irvin had his three ushers, attired as ghosts, creep out on the stage, while the organ played spooky music. These boys were carefully rehearsed, their motion was in rhythm with the music, and they stopped when the music stopped. Every effort was made that their actions, in addition to attracting attention, should convey the idea of comedy rather than too gruesome an effect. Blue lights were used in the foot lights to further carry out the ghostly effect. This stunt was featured four times daily the week in advance of showing.

One week in advance, a cut-out was placed in the foyer of the theatre. This consisted of three figures. On one side of the cut-out these figures were painted to appear as three ghosts. At the bottom of the cut-out were the words, "Look on the other side." On the other side the three figures represented three soldiers. This side of the cut-out was worded to the effect that "this picture relates a comedy of three soldiers reported dead who returned from the World War in time to help spend their own insurance money."

This bit of exploitation costs only $6.50, and some good head work and paid fine returns. Lem Stewart, exploitation director for Southern Enterprises, is recommending it to all of his theatres.

Lobby Front Gives Serial Big Start

The Princess theatre, Asheville, N. C., recently began playing the serial "The Blue Fox," and the first episode opened, at the theatre, preceded with an interest-compelling lobby.

A tiny cabin occupied the center of the lobby—a log-cabin, complete in every detail. Indian blankets covered the windows, and Indian blankets masked the box-office. There were a number of dwarf pine-trees about the lobby—real ones, brought in that morning from the surrounding woods.

Half-hidden in the trees, as if about to creep out, was a cut-out of a blue fox, mounted most effectively.

But the best part of the display, perhaps, was a wire cage at one side of the lobby, masked and "camouflaged" as a fox den. In this improvised den, was a half-grown live red fox.

Snell's "Don't Tell Everything" Campaign

In exploiting "Don't Tell Everything" Manager A. L. Snell of the Imperial theatre, Gadsden, Ala., started the ball rolling with a teaser campaign by having every house employe tell every person who would listen "a bit of scandal." The person addressed would become extremely interested, but the one spreading the gossip would end the "whispering" by saying "I Don't Tell Everything."

This set the general public going for everyone who had the stunt pulled on them. . . . pulled it on some one else, until the slogan of the town was "Don't Tell Everything."

The next stunt was to have a lot of cards. Teaser slides were used, with copy suggested by Lem Stewart, manager of the Southern Enterprises Exploitation Department, and a special lobby featuring the stars of the production, featured.

View of the prologue which E. R. Rogers, managing director of the Tivoli theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn, used for "A Prince There Was"

Lobby display on "Saturday Night" used by W. E. Drumbar, manager of the Riviera theatre, Knoxville, Tenn.

Miller's Lobby Wins First Prize

"Wedding Bells" Exploitation Draws Crowds to the Theatre

A LOBBY that resulted in some good hearty guffaws of honest mirth, as well as some excellent business, was the one designed by Manager Frank Miller, of the Modjeska theatre, Augusta, Ga., for a two-day run of "Wedding Bells."

The lobby was formed of two beaver-board walls, which completely masked the front of the theatre, a V-shaped arrangement, with the point of the V formed by the box-office. A narrow space for entrance and exit was left on either side of the box-office.

Each wall held four windows, about four feet from the floor, these windows outlined in deep blue, and each one holding an "exhibit." The four feet of space from the bottom ledge of the window to the floor was utilized for the written message conveyed by each exhibit.

The two walls were connected above the box-office by a giant silver-paper horse-shoe, from which hung a big white paper wedding bell. Across the bottom of the window ledges on the right, ran the words in box-car letters—"The Seven Bells of Man and Wife," and on the other side, the sentence, "All the Wives Are Belles and the poor old husbands are merely Dumb-Bells." In the order given, the windows showed, first, a small white wedding bell, beneath which were the words, "First, the wedding bell, sounding a death-knell to his bachelor days"; the second framed two alarm-clocks, with the words, beneath, "Then the Alarm-Clock Bell, destined to awaken him from the beauties of Love's Young Dream, to the grim realities of married life!" The third window framed a bronze dinner-bell, "Then the Eats bell—exacting weird praises of the wife's cooking—if he is wise at all!" The fourth window held a telephone bell, with the words, "Then comes the phone-bell—full of strange tales, unblushingly told—sudden and quick to ring—and building a bubble reputation for dear hubby—'working back.'" Fifth, was the door-bell, with the mournful sentiment, "Then the door-bell, ringing merrily at midnight, with hubby soused, hat all knocked to bits—full of bad hootch, and worse excuses—and thus the door-bell plays its part."

The sixth window framed a pair of cow-bells, and the words here, "The Sixth Age shows the cow-bell hung around his neck, lest he roam too far on Broadway's chicken run—his once manly bank-roll turning again to childish treble, scarcely heard at all in a world where money talks!"

The Seventh Age was depicted by a window framing a pair of dumb-bells, beneath which were the words, "The last bell of all—which ends this strange, eventful history—the meaning dreadfully clear to him—sans cash, sans joy—sans everything!"

And the final window held a brand-new rolling pin, fastened by a band of blue baby-ribbon, to a pair of baby-shoes, and beneath it, not one word—just a huge dark blue question mark.

This is the only lobby in Augusta that has received a voluntary, unsolicited and gratis write-up from either of the two exceedingly conservative local papers—and besides, it resulted in excellent business.

Grant Forms Serial Club for "Tarzan"

A LIVE-WIRE exhibitor of the Quaker City, Charles Dutkin, manager of the Grant theatre, has devised the Grant Tarzan Serial Club. Membership cards are issued to all the children in the neighborhood a week in advance of showing the initial episode. Printed directions on the card explain that attendance at each succeeding episode will be recorded at the bottom of the card, which is numbered from one to fifteen. If the holder attends every episode of the serial, a pass for the final episode will be given in addition to a handsome prize. This particular stunt for the serial has created a furore among the children of the district.

Johnson Stages Atmospheric Prologue for "My Lady Friends"

Manager Herb Johnson of the Luna theatre, Lafayette, Indiana, arranged an appealing and quaint little prologue to exploit "My Lady Friends."

The opening scene revealed a quaint picture of domestic happiness—the wife sitting in an easy chair knitting and the husband reclining nearby, reading a newspaper. Then to the strains of the celebrated "Vamp" melody a group of six young women enter, each one employing a different temptation to lure the husband from the side of his wife. The first resorts to dance, the second to whimpering flirtations, the third flashes cards and flask before his eyes, the fourth represents the "innocent" type, the fifth makes love openly to him and the sixth feigns sorrow and implores his protection. He is about to succumb to these wiles and artificial charms when his wife, continuing with her knitting, sings a melody, the burden of which is:

"I want to be a good little wife
In the good old-fashioned way."

Then the husband sweeps the sirens away with a deprecating gesture and takes his wife to his arms.

The chief points in favor of this prologue were its brevity, color and pointed suggestion of the story that was to follow.

Lobby decorations for "Trailin" and supplementary program designed by the Corner theatre, Fort Morgan, Colo.

Above

Showing some artistic and atmospheric lobby decorations for "Face to Face With Japan" used by H. M. S. Kendricks, manager of the Audubon theatre, New York. Mr. Kendricks originated the idea and the Audubon scenic artist carried it out. The cut on the upper right hand corner shows another view of the display.

Below

Attractive window display, one of a number which the Albany theatre, Schenectady, secured for the showing of "Over the Hill." The illustration is explained more fully by a story appearing on the opposite page.

Above

Corner of the lobby showing more details of the decorations for "Face to Face With Japan" as explained by the caption at the left.

Left

A nifty "Queen of Sheba" lobby display used by the Ansonia theatre, Butte, Mont.

Below

Another window display on "Over the Hill" secured for the recent showing at the Albany theatre, Schenectady, N. Y. Story concerning same appears on the preceding page.

Illustrating the accompanying story relative to the lobby display on "Saturday Night," designed by John B. Carroll, manager of the Imperial theatre, Asheville, N. C.

Granada Theatre Has "Navy Day"

"Battle of Jutland" Exploitation Includes Parade of Pacific Fleet Officers and Men

ONE of the finest pieces of exploitation work ever done for any picture on the Pacific Coast was that which ushered in the run of "The Battle of Jutland," at the Granada theatre in San Francisco, the week of February 26-March 4.

With the co-operation of G. C. Blumenthal, manager of the educational branch in that city, J. A. Partington, manager of the Granada, effected a link-up with the San Francisco Chronicle and called Monday, February 27, "Navy Day." Officers and men from the Pacific fleet and the naval training station at Goat Island to the number of two thousand marched in regular formation up Market Street from the ferry to the Granada theatre, led by the navy band from Goat Island.

Admiral Eberle, commander of the Pacific fleet, and Admiral Hutchison, chief of staff, preceded the marching bluejackets in automobiles furnished by a couple of automobile agencies. Admiral Jackson of the U. S. S. New York, Admiral Shoemaker of the New Mexico, and many other officers from the vessels lying in the San Francisco harbor accompanied them.

When the marchers reached the Granada theatre they found it elaborately decorated with a large number of navy signal flags, provided through the courtesy of one of the commanding officers.

The newspapers of San Francisco gave the event a large amount of space, the Chronicle especially describing the "Navy Day" parade and special performance at great length and presenting expressions from various officers as to the film.

Previous to the showing of the picture at the Granada, Manager Blumenthal had obtained a considerable amount of newspaper publicity through a private showing of "The Battle of Jutland," to which high officers of several vessels then in the harbor were invited, as well as newspaper men. Admirals Halstead and Hughes and a large number of other officers were present when the picture was shown in one of the local review rooms, and the papers carried stories of the showing, listing the officers who attended.

"Way Down East" Sign Is Certainly Novel

MANAGER W. W. GRIST of the Temple Theatre, Ranger, Texas, contrived a novel exploitation stunt on "Way Down East." Mr. Grist strung a wire across the main street, made some wooden letters spelling the title of the picture, spread small pumpkins on both sides of the letters and strung his unique sign on the wire. The sign could be seen for blocks and attracted no end of attention.

Carroll's "Saturday Night" Exploitation Campaign

MANAGER J. B. CARROLL, of the Imperial theatre, Asheville, N. C., played "Saturday Night" to a highly successful three days 'business, with a lobby which carried out, in splendid detail, the atmosphere of the picture.

The lobby of the Imperial was transformed into a miniature Coney Island, the two chief features of which were a merry-go-round and a Ferris wheel, both operated by electricity.

Seated in the Ferris wheel were two dolls, one dressed in chauffeur's livery, and designed to represent Jack Mower in the picture. The other doll was an engaging young person, clad in an extravagant bathing suit, covered by a fur-wrap—this to represent the part played by Edith Roberts.

Gives Away Wrist Watches as "Three Musketeers" Stunt

Manager E. E. Collins of the Palace Theatre, McAlester, Okla., recently put over a new one in his community when he printed a thousand blue tags with the following wording: "Here's the Time, the Palace Theatre is the Place, so get your girl or someone else's girl and come to see Douglas Fairbanks in 'The Three Musketeers.'" To this tag he attached a small wrist watch, a thousand of which he bought from the left-over Christmas stock at the Woolworth store for $10. The printing, tying and distributing of these novelties cost Mr. Collins less than $20, and the hunch brought in the business.

McAlester is now wondering what Collins will pull next, and he hasn't put out a herald or a handbill that hasn't been eagerly picked up since.

Patterson's "Silent Call" Lobby Attractive

An effective type of lobby display for "The Silent Call" is explained by the following and the cut appearing above, showing what Willard C. Patterson, managing director of the Metropolitan theatre, Atlanta, evolved for his showing of this picture.

The most strikingly individual touch was the huge cut-outs of Strongheart mounted above the marquise, back of which was a painted canvas representing a full moon with snow-covered fir trees silhouetted against the golden yellow. Under strong illumination this gave a positive thrill and stood out brilliantly against the dark background.

Willard D. Patterson's lobby front for "The Silent Call" when this picture was presented at the Metropolitan theatre, Atlanta

McClure Uses Post Cards to Exploit "Connecticut Yankee"

MANAGER J. M. McCLURE of the Allen Theatre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, recently executed an effective mailing campaign in connection with the exploitation of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Ten thousand potential patrons of the Allen received post-cards on the back of which were printed artistic scenes from the picture with the information of "no advance in price," and the front of which carried an advertising message.

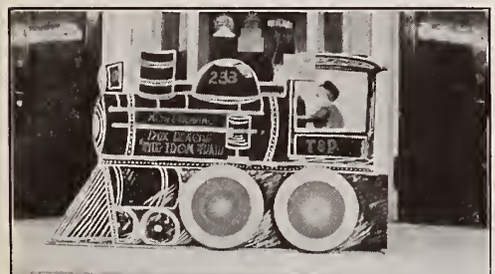
Public Argument in Ads. Used as Exploitation

After having staged a public argument regarding the popularity of special features at their respective theatres, Manager Clarence Robson of the Strand Theatre, and Manager Ned Miller of the Pantages theatre, Toronto, publicly buried the hatchet by announcing in the newspapers of February 18 that one of the pictures under discussion would be transferred from the Pantages to the Strand for the following week. The picture in question was "Three Live Ghosts," to compete with which Manager Robson had presented "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" at the Strand. The managers hurled all kinds of challenges at each other through the newspapers regarding attendance figures at the two theatres and the result was that both features obtained a two weeks' run.

Plath's "Locomotive" for "The Iron Trail"

The accompanying cut shows the "locomotive" which Hugo Plath, manager of the Queen theatre, Abilene, Texas, built as exploitation for his engagement of "The Iron Trail."

A motor was used to run the wheels and sand paper pasted on the wheels of the "locomotive" made a sound that imitated the exhaust of a real engine as it scraped over more sand paper pasted so it made an intermittent contact.



Showing two of the exploitation stunts recently put over by Hugo Plath, manager of the Queen theatre, Abilene, Texas. The top cut showing a mechanical lobby ballyhoo for "The Iron Trail" is explained by the accompanying story. The "Way Down East" ballyhoo is self explanatory

Log cabin front on "The Rider of the King Log" used by the Rivoli theatre, Philadelphia

Local Merchants Help Smith on "Molly O"

WHEN C. S. Smith of the Shattuck Opera House in Hornell, N. Y., put on "Molly O," he had all the stores in town start "Molly O" sales and then persuaded them to connect up with the theatre on a page ad in the local newspaper. Mr. Smith took the large center space and the merchants had their ads around the theatre display. In connection with this page ad, the first patron in each store on the day following its publication, received two free tickets to see "Molly O." In addition to this special publicity, Mr. Smith used several dozen one sheet cut-outs of "Molly O" and several 24 sheet cut-outs.

Novelty Cards Sell "Scrap Iron" to San Diego Fans

For the showing of "Scrap Iron," during the week starting Feb. 11th, the management of the Colonial theatre in San Diego, Cal., put out several thousand small cards which proved a good piece of publicity. The cards were printed on variously colored papers, and carried at the top the words, "Boxing at the Colonial," and then went on with an announcement about the feature film, in regular boxing news style, even down to the prices, "Ring-side seats, 50c.; bleachers, 35c." San Diego is a good boxing fan town, with large numbers of army and navy men, and a good boxing scene, like that in "Scrap Iron," is sure to draw a good house.

Zimmerman Decorates for "Sheik" Showing

WHEN Fred M. Zimmerman presented "The Sheik" at his new Avondale Theatre in North Tonawanda, N. Y., he had his manager, L. E Barger, bill the town in circus style. Streamers were hung across the main thoroughfares, special window displays were put over with local merchants, and there was a splendid tie-up with the local Victrola store on "The Sheik" records in which much advertising matter for the picture was used in a special window display. Special signs were prepared for the top of the "porte cochere," as well as in the windows at each side of the entrance. Post cards were mailed to several thousand residents of the lumber town and it is alleged that Mr. Zimmerman wrote one of his famous poems in celebration of the event.

"Three Live Ghosts" mechanical lobby ballyhoo designed by Hugo Plath, manager of the Temple theatre, Brantford, Canada, as explained by the accompanying story

Mechanical Device Sells "Three Live Ghosts"

A "Three Live Ghosts" stunt which attracted no end of attention was recently put over by Ernest Moule, manager of the Temple theatre, Brantford, Ontario. The accompanying cut will illustrate the following in explanation of how the device was built and operated.

The three ghosts were made from sheets draped over plain boards with cut out beaver board for arms and head. Round frosted bulbs with blackened circles were used for eyes and worked on a flasher going off and on intermittently. The arms worked slowly up and down, each figure alternating at very slow speed. A small motor, the speed of which was cut down from 1,700 to 3 revolutions per minute by connecting two old bicycle wheels and then to a wooden shaft 1½ inches in diameter, comprised the machinery to work the arms. Three ¼-inch round iron arms were on the shaft set at different angles and connected to arms of figures in order to make each one alernate in motion. White canvas gloves stuffed with excelsior were used for hands. Sash cord was used for belts and connecting shaft to arms of figure.

The cost of the contrivance was only about ten dollars, Mr. Moule and his house electrician doing the work and using for the purpose odds and ends that were found about the theatre.

New Kind of Censor Board Officiates at Wausau, Wis.

A NOVEL matinee contract which assures big attendance for the Saturday afternoon performances has recently been signed by Manager E. C. Bostick of the Stuart Theatre, Wausau, Wis.

Four or five of the most influential organizations in the city waited upon Mr. Bostick and requested that their representatives be permitted to pass on shows for the city. They stated that if he would grant this request they would guarantee him an attendance of 500 for every Saturday matinee. Mr. Bostick jumped at the chance and immediately closed the deal with the four organizations.

The offer of this guarantee was originally made in a published report of a parents-teachers meeting where the question of suitable motion picture programs for children was brought up.

Hyman's Prologue for "Back Pay"

A RURAL set, a line with the atmosphere of the early part of "Back Pay" was used in Edward L. Hyman's prologue for the feature during its engagement at the Brooklyn Mark Strand. Some action in "Back Pay" centers around a general store, and this set was reproduced faithfully by Hyman for the prologue.

The scene showed the country store, and before it were four rural characters, portrayed by the Criterion Male Quartette. In the distance, on a drop, were seen the sheep grazing in pasture and the old mill stream. A twilight effect was brought out by blue lighting and moving clouds in the sky.

The quartette sang "Mammy's Lullaby," arranged from Dvorak's "Humoresque." At the conclusion of this number, Estelle Carey, soprano, dressed as Hester Bevins, the heroine of the picture, entered and sang in harmony with the quartette "In the Gloaming." The action was taken from an episode in the picture where Hester returns to her home town and finds that no one recognizes her as the girl who left for the city several years ago.

Parade of Ushers Sells "Peacock Alley"

THE attention of Louisville, Ky., picture fans was called to the engagement of "Peacock Alley," playing recently at the Rialto theatre, by a "peacock parade" of ushers of the theatre, carrying brilliantly colored cards cut out along the outlines of the peacocks painted thereon. At the top of each card was printed "Rialto, Now" and at the bottom "Peacock Alley." The line of march of the ushers was along the busiest streets of Louisville at the busiest time of day. During the rest of the day these display posters were set up in the lobby of the Rialto in a pleasing arrangement. The plans of this exploitation were made by Louis R. Bragler and carried out under his direction.

Weld Makes Picture Serve as Home Talent Attraction

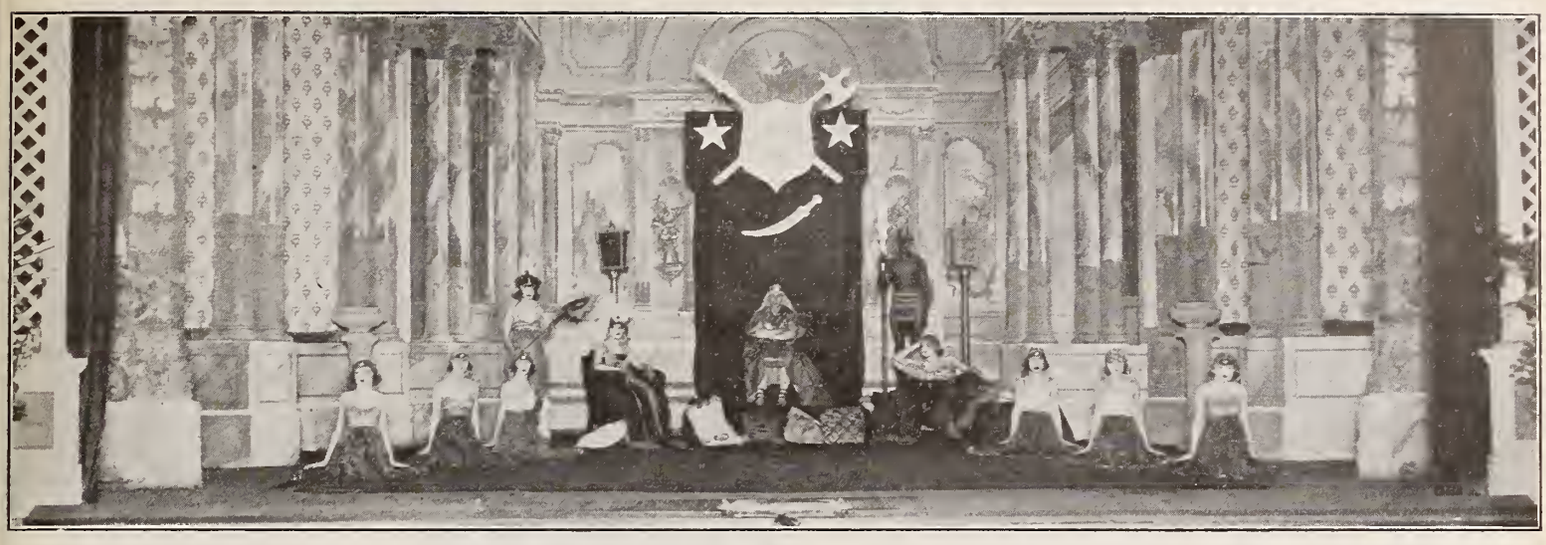
If Blackie Daw should die and J. Rufus Wallingford needs another partner, there's a theatre manager in Waterloo, Iowa, who might fill the vacancy. His name is Arthur E. Weld, and his business is the general management of the Strand, Palace and Crystal theatres.

While pre-viewing "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford," Mr. Weld conceived the idea of changing the locale of certain action from Des Moines to Waterloo, thereby localizing the production and making his patrons swell with pride over having their own home town mentioned in the movies.

By changing the word "Des Moines" to "Waterloo" in tow sub-titles and using the name of William Galloway, a Waterloo manufacturer of wide renown, as the inventor of the tack machine, the enterprising manager threw patrons of the Strand into fits of applause at each performance. The Waterloo sub-titles were made identical to those removed and could not be detected from the regular film.

For ten days prior to the showing, teaser ads were carried which asked: "Who is the Waterloo man named as inventor in 'Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford'? You know him well!" Curiosity was piqued to the breaking point and many 'phone calls indicated the interest awakened. The sub-titles cost the Strand $8 and return several hundred per cent on the investment.

Lobby arranged by Manager Douglas Jarmouth of the Superba theatre, Los Angeles, for the showing of "The Fire Eater"



This is a picture of the prologue number which the American theatre, Bellingham, Wash., presented for "The Queen of Sheba"

Six Annie Oakleys Total Expense for This

At a cost of six passes, Manager A. L. Snell of the Imperial theatre, Gadsden, Ala., put over some effective exploitation on "The Fox."

Arrangements were made with a local hardware store for a window filled with guns, etc. Three stuffed foxes were placed in the window among the other hunting things and a sign attached to one of them reading "Come to the Imperial Saturday and see the FOX. If you have any sporting blood in you, you'll do it."

The lobby of the Imperial represented a wood scene. The stuffed foxes were placed on one side of the lobby and four fox hounds, borrowed from a local man, were placed on the other. The dogs created a great deal of attraction and had the time of their lives trying to get at the foxes.

"Woman's Place" Exploitation Tied Up to Valentine's Day

Manager H. C. Farley of the Empire Theatre, Montgomery, Ala., played "Woman's Place" on Valentine's Day, so his lobby decorations took their cue from the date.

A heart cut-out, with Constance Talmadge's head in the center, was suspended above the entrance to the theatre. A spcial window display, planned by the theatre and carried out by a local window dresser in a millinery shop, carried out the same idea.

Draperies of red velvet, basket of red roses and ferns, heart-shape cut-outs, joined together with white satin ribbon, formed the central feature of this display. Red electric lights were used.

"Iron Trail" ballyhoo used by the Majestic theatre, Austin, Texas

Watters Uses Simple But Effective Ballyhoo

GEORGE D. WATTERS, manager of the Majestic theatre at Austin, Texas, recently put across a ballyhoo which was simple but very effective. Mr. Watters got permission from the street car company to run a hand car on the city tracks for the three days he played "The Iron Trail," then he borrowed an old-fashioned hand car from a railroad yardmaster, hired two Mexicans to pump the vehicle and tacked a sign calling attention to the showing at the Majestic on each side of the central portion of the truck. The hand car plied up and down the main business and residential streets from early morning until late at night and it is doubtful if a majority of the population didn't view the ballyhoo on one of the many trips about town.

The accompanying cut shows Mr. Watters' ballyhoo in action.

Simple Advance Prologue Sells "The Sheik" Nicely

Three days previous to the opening date of "The Sheik" at the Casino theatre, Kissimmee, Fla., Manager H. W. Ashford mounted a 24 sheet on cloth and suspended it as a back drop on the stage, flanked on either side by house wood wings. Two palms were placed at the foot of curtain with the base covered with sand which gave a desert effect. The footlights were covered with orange crepe paper which showed off the desert to a good advantage, at the end of each performance. The front curtain was lowered to hide screen, the house was darkened and then the footlights put on. This scene was only shown about one minute and a half.

On Saturday, prior to the showing on Wednesday, a man in costume as The Sheik paraded the streets handing out heralds. At an auction land sale on the Saturday the picture was to be shown, he was the star attraction. Another favorite hangout was the City bandstand during the concerts on Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday. The Sheik was seen loafing around the public school grounds at recess, and the noon hour.

A drumlike affair was made out of scrap beaver board and two roundhoops with Valentino one sheet cutout on one side and Agnes Ayres on the other. This was placed in a conspicuous place on the sidewalk in front of the theatre.

The lobby was appropriately decorated and a load of sand was raked over the floor, which caused quite a bit of comment and curiosity.

Bellingham Theatre Presents "Queen of Sheba" Prologue

An extensive exploitation campaign and elaborate prologue and an exceedingly attractive lobby adornment were the chief features used by the management of the American theatre, Bellingham, Wash., to put over "Queen of Sheba." These were supplemented by carefully planned newspaper advertising and preceded an extensive mailing list. The mail publicity consisted of a number of teaser post-cards, the last of which divulged the whole secret.

Into the streets of Bellingham was sent a three-horse chariot, the driver of which was dressed as a charioteer of ancient days. The horses carried large banners announcing the picture and the theatre.

The lobby display was effected in beaverboard painted to resemble tapestry, and a number of locally made posters. Large paintings of the Queen of Sheba also were placed in the lobby.

A ballet of eleven persons performed in the prologue. The stage was set to represent an interior of an ancient castle, with shields and battle axes on the walls. On a throne at the back of the stage sat a dancer as King Solomon. A large negro slave stood at his left with spear in hand, while a corps of feminine dancers performed before the King.

Kingman Makes Successful Play for College Fans

Monday is the day the girls from Limestone College located at Gaffney, S. C., are down town unchaperoned, so Manager E. C. Kingman of the Strand theatre made a play for some of the institution's students.

He recently sent personal letters to the teachers, enclosing his compliments and asking that she bring some of the girls. In almost every instance, with the exception of one, the teacher has responded and brought one to six girls.

This cut shows the lobby decorations on "Conflict" used by the New Home theatre, Detroit, Mich.

PROGRAMS FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 4TH

With First Run Theatres

WIRE REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK CITY

Rivoli Theatre—
Ballet — "Danse Chinoise," presented by Victorina Krigher.
Feature—The Mistress of the World — first episode "The Dragon's Claw"—Mia May.
Comedy — The Boat — Buster Keaton.
Next Week—Travelin' On—Paramount.

Rialto Theatre—
Vocal—"Chinese Lullaby" by Betty Anderson, soprano.
Feature — The Mistress of the World — first episode "The Dragon's Claw—Mia May.
Comedy — The Boat — Buster Keaton.
Next Week—The Mistress of the World—second episode—"The Race for Life."

Capitol Theatre—
Feature—Foolish Wives—Universal with special presentation with Capitol Grand Orchestra.
Next week—Come On Over—Goldwyn.

Mark Strand Theatre—
Overture—"The Queen of Sheba" by Strand Symphony Orchestra.
Odds and Ends—(a) "The Oyster's Rival"; (b) "The Land of Long Ago" in Pathecolor; (c) "The Robber Crow."
Instrumental—"Zapateado" played by Madeleine Mac Guigan, violinist.
Current events—Mark Strand Topical Review.
Prologue — Oriental musicians, whirling dervisher, sheik's sword fighters, etc. "A Son of the Desert Am I" sung by Herbert Waterous, basso; "Allah, Give Me Mine," sung by Richard Bold, tenor.
Feature—The Sheik's Wife—Vitagraph.
Comedy—Torchy Takes a Chance —Johnny Hines.

American Harmonists
"The say it with Playing"
Liberty Sextette
Conway Tearle
Assisted by FAIRE BINNEY and BOBBY CONNELLY
"A WIDE OPEN TOWN"
A Characteristic Tearle Offering that is replete with sensational action by this he man star
COLONIAL
Pick o the Pictures
Music That Charms

Here is a good ad on "A Wide Open Town," coming from the Colonial theatre, Indianapolis.

Next Week—The Seventh Day—Richard Barthelmess.

Apollo Theatre—
"Orphans of the Storm" continued.

Cameo Theatre—
"Determination" continued.

LOS ANGELES

Kinema Theatre—
Overture—Martha.
Novelty — Topics of the Day — Pathe.
Special—A Bear Hunt. Local hunting trip filmed by Jack Callicott.
Current Events—International and Kinograms.
Feature — R. S. V. P.—Charles Ray.

California Theatre—
Current Events—International and Fox News.
Novelty—Local Scared Films under title of "Noah's Ark."
Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Concert—Orchestra renders "Orpheus in Hades," "At Dawning" and "Impressions of Havanna."
Feature — Watch Your Step — Goldwyn.
Comedy—Straight From the Farm —Fox.

Tally's Theatre—
Novelty—Second reel of "The Cradle of Civilization."
Vocal—Sweet Rosie O'Grady.
Baritone solo.
Feature—Carnival—United Artists.

Clune's Broadway Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Educational — Unknown Switzerland.
Feature—A Game Chicken— Realart.

Superba Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Novelty—Third of the "Leather Pushers" series.
Vocal—A One Horse Town.
Tenor solo.
Feature—Tracked to Earth—Universal.
Next Week—Wild Honey.

Symphony Theatre—
Special—Face to Face With Japan —Fox.
Comedy—Bright Eyes—Sennett — Ben Turpin.
Novelty—Battle of Jutland—Educational.
Feature — Jungle Adventures — Martin Johnson.

Grauman's Rialto Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe Weekly.
Educational—Pathe Review.
Vocal—Golden Days—Vocal duet, two girls singing.
Feature—Fool's Paradise.

Grauman's Theatre—
Overture—Medley of popular airs.
Current Events—Pathe News.

TODAY
California THEATRE
A PICTURE EVERY MARRIED MAN SHOULD SEE—AND SEND HIS WIFE TO SEE IT NAZIMOVA in her first
A DOLL'S HOUSE
Comedy and pathos with love and romance abound in abundance in this tremendous new Nazimova production in which she wins her greatest distinction on the stage.
"THE FAMILY ALBUM"

This "A Doll's House" ad comes from the California theatre, Los Angeles

Organ—Show Me the Way Back to Dixie. Accompanied by the blind composer of the number at the piano.
Novelty—Movie Chats.
Educational—Pathe Review.
Special—Song and Dance number with five people presented.
Feature—Her Husband's Trademark—Gloria Swanson.

Miller's Theatre—
Fifth week of "The Silent Call."

Mission Theatre—
Third week of "Foolish Wives."

Loew's State—
"The Fourteenth Lover" and five acts of vaudeville.

New Pantages Theatre—
"Two Kinds of Women," and vaudeville.

SEATTLE

Coliseum Theatre—
Overture—Zampa.
Current Events—Pathe and Kinograms.
Scenic — Women Must Weep — Bruce.
Comedy—Step This Way.
Vocal — Male quartette singing "Don't Leave Me Mammy."
Feature—Under the Lash.
Next week—Enchantment.

Columbia Theatre—
Overture—Raymond.
Current Events — International News.
Novelty—The Open Wire.
Comedy—Little Miss Mischief.
Instrumental—Edith Rogers playing "Hungarian Phantasy" and "The Sheik" as violin solos.
Feature—Tracked to Earth.
Next week—The Wise Kid.

Strand Theatre—
Second week of "Saturday Night."
Next week—Forever.

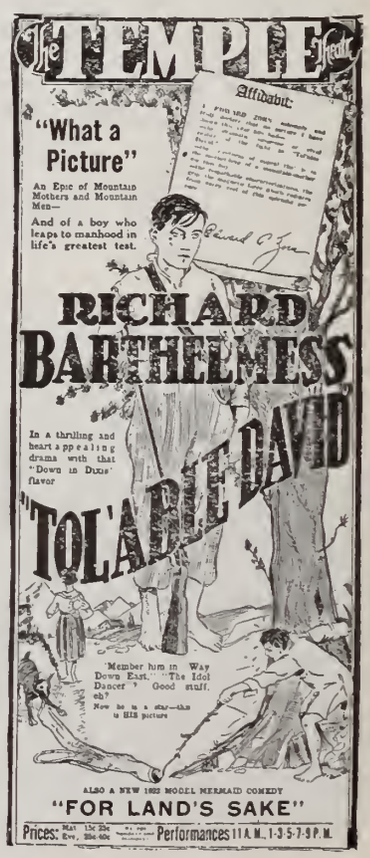
Blue Mouse Theatre—
Return engagement of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" for two week's engagement.

Liberty Theatre—
Current Events—Liberty and Selznick News.
Comedy—No Parking.
Overture—Popular songs medley.
Feature—The Law and the Woman.
Next week—Moran of the Lady Letty.

CHICAGO

Chicago Theatre—
Overture—"Morning, Noon And Night."
Specialty—Vernon Stiles, vocalist.
News Weekly.
Literary Digest.
Organ Solo—"Bluebird Land." Jesse Crawford at the organ.
Specialty—"Honeymoon Express."
Feature—"Her Husband's Trade Mark."
Comedy—"The Duck Hunter."
Coming feature—Wallace Reid in "The Champion."

Roosevelt Theatre—
Prizma color—Sport scenes, news and reviews of the world.
Specialty—Mr. Alfred Wallenstein, cello soloist, playing Lullabies from Joslyn.



The TEMPLE Theatre
Affidavit
"What a Picture"
An Epic of Mountain Mothers and Mountain Men—
And of a boy who leaps to manhood in life's greatest test.
RICHARD BARTHELMESS
"TOL'ABLE DAVID"
In a thrilling and heart appealing drama with that "Down in Dixie" flavor
Member him in Way Down East, "The Idol Dancer"? Good stuff, eh? Now he is a star—this is HIS picture
ALSO A NEW 1922 MODEL MERMAID COMEDY
"FOR LAND'S SAKE"
Prices: Mat. 15c 25c Eve. 25c 40c
Performances 11 A.M., 1-3-5-7-9 P.M.

Eddie Zorn, managing director of the Temple theatre, Toledo, O., is sponsor for this "Tol'able David" ad

Feature—Nazimova in "A Doll's House."
Specialty—Miss Florence Lang, singing, "A Song of the Soul."
Comedy—"Fool Days."
Coming feature—Colleen Moore in "Come On Over."

Tivoli Theatre—
Overture—"Carmen," with Charles MacDonald singing the Toreador song.
Scenic.
Specialty—Denbix Quartette.
News Weekly.
Organ solo—"April Showers." Milton Charles at the organ.
Specialty—Alice in Snow Land.
Feature—"Love's Redemption."
Comedy—Buster Keaton in "The Pale Face."
Coming feature—"Saturday Night."

Pantheon Theatre—
Feature—"Back Pay."
Overture—Popular Fantasies.
Pantheon topics and travel.
Literary Digest.
Specialty—Miss Edith Thayer, soprano, singing "At Dawning."
Coming Feature—"Moran of the Lady Letty."

Ziegfeld Theatre—
Pathe Weekly.
Literary Digest.
Comedy—"The Bear and the Bee."
Feature—"The Prodigal Judge."
Coming Feature—"The Folish Dancer," featuring Poli Negri.

Barbee's Loop Theatre—
Pathe News.
Pathe Topics.
Serial—"White Eagle."
Feature—Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man." 2nd week.
Coming Feature—"One Man in a Million."

Great Northern—
Feature—"Orphans of the Storm," featuring the Gish Sisters. 6th week.

Randolph Theatre—
Comedy—"Wet and Warmer."
Feature—"Turn to the Right."
Coming Feature—Charles Ray in "The Barnstormer."

Woodlawn Theatre—
Organ Solo—Selected—A. J. Gutow, organist.
Woodlawn Screen Travels.
Woodlawn Pictorial Review.
Overture—"Martha."

The Star Of Provocative Beauty and Grace
A Glamorous Drama of Paris and New York between midnight and Odawn.
Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley"
Based on a Story by Ouida Bergere
Cast Includes Monte Blue and Edmund Lowe
STARTS TOMORROW
NEW YORK HERALD Calls it "HER BEST"
OTHER PROGRAM FEATURES
COMEDY SKETCHOGRAPHS
KINOGRAMS
LEONARD LEIGH
STARTS TOMORROW
PRICES Nights, Saturday and Sunday Matinees 40c
Garrick
PRICES Daily Matinees 35c Children Always 10c
COMING: RICHARD BARTHELMESS in "THE SEVENTH DAY"

A striking "Peacock Alley" ad which the New Garrick theatre, Minneapolis, used recently

RUDOLPH VALENTINO and DOROTHY DALTON
"MORAN OF THE LADY LETTY"
A Paramount Picture
GRAUMAN'S RIALTO
THE WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFUL LITTLE THEATER - BROADWAY NEAR EIGHTH

"Moran of the Lady Letty" is getting this kind of advertising during its run at Grauman's Rialto theatre, Los Angeles

Feature—"Back Pay."
Comedy—Harold Lloyd in "Never Weaken."
Intermission—"Civilization March."
Coming Feature—"Glass Houses."

ST. PAUL

Capitol Theatre—
A. Overture—"Slavonic Rhapsody," Friedemann.
B. Capitol Digest—Pathe and International News.
C. Capitol Comedy—"Torchy Takes a Chance," Educational.
D. Roy Dieterich, Lyric Tenor, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," McCarthy-Carroll, presentation by Lowell V. Calvert.
E. Feature—Dorothy Dalton in "Moran of the Lady Letty."
F. Solo for Grand Organ—"Marche Pittoresque," Kroeger, played by Kenneth Widenor.

BROOKLYN

Mark Strand—
1. Overture — "Color Symphony," "The King of Y's" (Lalos).
2. Dance Mythology — "Pierrot's Dream" (Tschaikowsky). Pierrot seen asleep under cut out tree in rustic set. As he dreams Pierette riding on mechanical illuminated moon drifts from moving clouds to stage, and engages in mad dance with. She returns to crescent moon and descends. Pierrot realizes it is all a dream. Dancers were Grace Eastman and Paul Oscard.
3. Novelty—Tony Sarg's Almanac, "The Original Golfer."
4. Mark Strand Topical Review.
5. Prologue to Feature—Rustic set, night lights, Criterion Male Quartette sings "Mammy's Lullaby," arranged from Dvorak's "Humoresque." Estelle Carey, soprano, with quartette, sings "In the Gloaming."
5. Feature—Fannie Hurst's "Back Pay."
7. Comedy—Larry Semon in "The Saw Mill."
8. Organ Solo — "Une Larme" (Moussorgsky). John Hammond and George Crook.

Next Week—Constance Talmadge in "Folly of the Follies" and Mary Astor in person and in film presentation of "The Young Painter."

MINNEAPOLIS

State Theatre—
Feature—Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trademark."
Overture — "Zampa" by Herald. Played by Pallma and His Band Supreme, Frank Palma, Director.
Comedy—Lloyd Hamilton in "The Rain-maker."
Scenic—"The Ruins of Anghor." Prizma Color subject.
Musical—Ethel Mae Barker, violinist in repertoire.
State Digest—Composed of International and Pathe strips.

Strand—
Feature—Ethel Clayton in "Her Own Money."
Comedy—Ben Turpin in Mack Sennett's "Home Talent."
Musical—Art and Gene White singing popular hits.
News Events—International News.

BUFFALO

Shea's Hippodrome—
Overture—"The Firefly"—Friml.
Vocal—"In the Land of the Sky Blue Water." Sung by Eldora Stanford, with scenic background.
Violin solo—Selections by Hegedus Sisters.
Feature—"Fool's Paradise"—Cecil B. DeMille.
Comedy — "Straight From the Farm"—Al St. John.
Current Events—Hippodrome Review.
Next Week—Wesley Barry in "School Days."

Criterion—
Feature—"Orphans of the Storm" D. W. Griffith. Starting second week with personal appearance of Dorothy and Lillian Gish.

Loew's State—
Overture—"Popular Song Medley."
Feature—"The Devil Within" — Dustin Farnum.
Comedy—"Assorted Heroes."
Current Events — Loew News (Pathe).
Special—Charlie Murray appearing in person.

Mark-Strand—
Overture — "Good Morning, Dearie."
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature — "Jim the Penman" — Lionel Barrymore.
Comedy—"Beach Nuts—Hallroom Boys.
Next Week — "The Queen of Sheba."

Lafayette Square—
Organ Solo — Selections by C. Sharp Minor.
Feature—"Chivalrous Charley" — Eugene O'Brien.
Current Events—Selznick News.

Academy—
Feature — "Branded" — Josephine Earle.

Shea's North Park—
Feature—"Fool's Paradise"—Cecil B. DeMille.
Comedy—Straight From the Farm" —Al St. John.

INDIANAPOLIS

Circle Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Novelty—Literary Digest Topics.
Comedy—"A Dog's Life," Chaplin.
Feature—"Her Mad Bargain."
Next Week—"The Seventh Day."

Loew's State Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—"The Conecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."
Musical Stunts—"Just Jazz," carried out by Loew's Concert orchestra, seven singers, a quartette of house porters, a marimbaphonist, a saxophonist and an xylophonist. The program exemplified "Just Jazz Week."
Next Week—"Moran of the Lady Letty."

Ohio Theatre—
Feature—"Four Horsemen," third week.
Next Week—"A Fool's Paradise."

ST. LOUIS

Missouri Theatre—
Overture—Selections from "Rigoletto," Missouri symphony orchestra, Isadore Cohen, conducting.
Vocal Selection — Caro Nome (Dearest Name), Miss Sherry Louise Marshall.
The Missouri News.
Feature Film—Cecil B. DeMille's "Fool's Paradise."

New Grand Central, West End Lyric and Capitol Theatres—
Overture and music selections by symphony orchestra.
Feature—D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East."

William Fox Liberty—
Overture—Liberty concert orchestra.
Fox News.
Mutt and Jeff Cartoon.
Sunshine Comedy—"West Is West."
Feature Film—"The Sea Lion."
Secondary Feature—Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life."

Delmar-Criterion and Congress Theatres—
Overture.
News and Views.
Comedy Reel.
Feature—Gladys Walton in "The Wise Kid."

Arsenal Theatre—
News Weekly.
Educational—"Back of the Button."
Feature — Norma Talmadge in "Love's Redemption."

PHILADELPHIA

Stanley—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Scenic—"The Ruins of Anghor"—Prisma.
Comedy—Smiles—Masterpiece.
Feature—"Moran of the Lady Letty."—Paramount.
Next week—"The World's Champion."—Paramount.

Stanton—
Feature—"Turn to the Right."—Metro.
Next week—Same.

Aldine—
Feature—"Foolish Wives."—Universal.
Next week—Same.

Karlton—
Scenic—"And Women Must Weep" —Educational.

Feature—"Her Husband's Trademark."—Paramount.
Next week—Same.

Arcadia—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Comedy—Smiles No. 4—Masterpiece.
Short film—"Taking the Air"—Goldwyn.
Feature—"Miss Lulu Bett"—Paramount.
Next week—"Three Live Ghosts"—Paramount.

Palace—
News and Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Comedy—Smiles No. 3—Masterpiece.
Feature—"Saturday Night"—Paramount.
Next week—"Fool's Paradise"—Paramount.

Regent—
Comedy—"Too Much Sap"—Fox.
Comedy—"The Wedding Feast"—Consolidated.
Feature—"The Golden Gift"—Metro.
Next week—"Jackie"—Fox.

Victoria—
News—Pathe News—Pathe.
Comedy—"Step This Way"—Electric.
Feature—"A Stage Romance"—Fox.
Next week—"A Sailor-Made Man"—Pathe. "The Four Seasons"—Hodkinson.

Capitol—
News—Kinograms—Electric.
Comedy—"Hey There!"—Pathe.
Feature—"Peter Ibbetson"—Paramount.

CLEVELAND

Allen—
Overture—"The Jazz Rhapsody," arranged by Philip Spitalny, musical director, with saxophone specialties.
Specialty—Jass Week, with a regular jazz show, arranged by S. Barrett McCormic, including: (a)—Bee Palmer in "A Trip to Hitland," ten famous composers playing and singing their own compositions. (b)—"The School for Jazz," introducing "The Class in Jazzometry," a syncopated satire on "School Days," with cast of 50. (c)—Sammy Mann, tenor, singing southern melodies. (d)—Ogden and Benson, singing and dancing team. (d)—The Camp of Chief Jazz-Foot," satire on Indian jazz dancing.
Comedy—"By Hek," Sennett comedy.
Current Events—Allenette, selected by S. Barrett McCormick.
Feature—"From the Ground Up," with Tom Moore and Helene Chadwick.
Next Week—"Come on Over" (not sure).

State—
Prologue—"State Theatre Follies," arranged and produced by Managing Director George Dumond, consisting of twelve numbers, including Gale Sherwood and her singing band, a bobbed hair pony ballet; six little Frenchy maids in songs and dances; Waltzing Through the Years," a dance novelty in cycle costumes; "Dancing Down by the Ole Swimmin' Hole," another dance novelty; "Blooie Blues," song specialty, and song hits by Gale Sherwood.
Current Events — Pathe News — Topics of the Day.
Cartoon—Mutt and Jeff.
Novelty—Funniface, "Vermin the Great."
Feature — "Moran of the Lady Letty," with Rudolf Valentino.
Next Week—"Her Husband's Trade Mark," with Gloria Swanson.

Stillman—
Overture—William Tell.
Cartoon—"The Family Album."
Feature—"Fool's Paradise."
Next Week—Same continued, to be followed by "The Four Horsemen."

Park—
Overture—Grand Opera selections from "Faust," M. J. Spitalny director.
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—"One Stormy Night," Christie comedy.
Feature—"The Woman and the Law," with Betty Compson.
Next Week—"The Iron Trail," with personal appearance of Rex Beach.

Standard—
Current Events — International News.
Comedy — Joe Martin in "The Monkey School Master."
Feature—"The Hellhound of the West," with Dick Hatton.

BALTIMORE

Rivoli—
Overture—"Tannhauser"—Wagner.
Current Events—Rivoli News.
Novelty — Sunshine Gathers — Prizma.
Vocal—Ruth Lloyd Kinney, contralto, (a) "Deep in Your Eyes"—Jacobi. (b) "April Showers"—Silvers.
Specialty—Topical Review.
Feature—The Seventh Day—Richard Barthelmess.
Comedy—In For Life—Christie.
Next Week—My Boy—Jackie Coogan.

Century—
Overture—"Norma"—Bellini.
Current Events—Century News.
Vocal—Justin Lawrie & Fernando Guarneri, singers.
Feature—Fool's Paradise—Cecil B. DeMille's.
Comedy.

Strand—
Overture — Medley M. Louise Jones, players.
Current Events—Strand News of the World.
Feature—I Am Guilty — Louise Glaum.
Comedy—The Big Idea—Harold Lloyd.

Garden—
Feature—Cameron of the Royal Mounted—G. Glass.
Vaudeville.

Loew's Hippodrome—
Feature—Any Wife—Pearl White.
Vaudeville.

New—Feature—The Cradle—Ethel Clayton.

Picture Garden—
Feature—The Call of Home—Irene Rich.

Nixon's Victoria—
Feature — A Parisian Scandal — Maria Prevost.

This "Polly of the Follies" display is by the Shubert theatre, Milwaukee

These three ads for "Moran of the Lady Letty," "Why Announce Your Marriage?" and "French Heels," respectively, ran in the Sunday Detroit papers

OMAHA

Rialto Theatre—
Overture—Merry Wives of Windsor.
Special—Julius Johnson playing "Swaying," at Organ.
Current Events—Rialto News.
Comedy—The Pale Face.
Feature—Just Around the Corner.

Sun Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events — International Weekly.
Special—Prizma pictures.
Feature—What Do Men Want?

Strand Theatre—
Overture—Princess Juane.
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—Fool's Paradise.

Moon Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events—Universal weekly.
Comedy—Look Out Below.
Feature—Perjury.

KANSAS CITY

Liberty Theatre—
Overture — Selection, "Shuffle Along."
News—Pathe.
Comedy—"Aesop's Fables."
Organ Selections—Miss Susie Goff Bush and Miss Golden Evisten, organists.
Short Subject—"Peggy Behave."
Feature—"Grand Larceny," Elliott Dexter and Claire Windsor.
Next Week—"Woman Wake Up."

Doric Theatre—
News—International.
Comedy—"The Bow-Wow," Rolin comedy.
Organ Selections—P. E. Stephens, organist.
Feature—"Boomerang Bill," Lionel Barrymore.
Next Week—"Back Pay," special cast.

Newman Theatre—
Overture—"Moretana."
Current Events—Newman News and Views.
Comedy—"The Skipper Strikes It Rich."
Organ Selections—Gerald F. Baker and Q. Landwehr, organists.
Special Number—Lillian Crossman and Frank Ridge in songalogue in conjunction with feature.
Feature—"Her Husband's Trade Mark," Gloria Swanson.
Next Week—"Moran of the Lady Letty," Dorothy Dalton.

Royal Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
News—Royal Screen Magazine.
Comedy—"Pure and Simple."
Organ Selections—Harry Frank and Miss Ella McGorty, organists.
Feature—"The Lotus Eater," John Barrymore.
Next Week—"The Lane That Had No Turning," Agnes Ayres.

Twelfth Street Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
News—Screen Magazine.
Comedy—Jimmy Aubrey comedy.
Organ Selections — Miss Hazel Webb and Miss Fay Shepherd, organists.
Feature—"Travelin' On," William S. Hart.
Next Week—"A Heart to Let," Justine Johnstone.

The Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, is playing a premiere on "The Seventh Day" and this is one of the display ads used to sell the production

PITTSBURGH

Olympic—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Special—Pathe Review.
Feature—"Moran of Lady Letty."
Comedy—"False Alarm."
Next week—"Boomerang Bill."

Grand—
Current Events—Grand News.
Double Bill—"Woman's Place" and "French Heels."
Next week—"A Man's Home" and "My Lady Friend."

Loew's Lyceum Theatre—
Current Events—Loew's News.
Feature—"Hole in the Wall."
Comedy—"We'll Get You Yet."
Next week—"The Idle Rich."

Cameraphone Theatre—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Feature—"Moran of Lady Letty."
Special—Fashion Show.
Next week—"Coming Over."

State—
Feature—"School Days."
Added Feature—"Four Seasons."
Next week—Not announced.

Liberty—
Current Events—International.
Feature—"Thunderclap."
Comedy—"Doggone Torchy."
Next week—"School Days."

Savoy—
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—"Thunderclap."
Comedy—"The Love Egg."
Next week—"Iron to Gold."

Regent—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—"Woman's Place."
Comedy—"Bright Eyes."
Next week—"My Lady Friends."

Blackstone—
Current Events—International.
Feature—"Peacock Alley."
Special—Prologue and Peacock Dance by Alice Lloyd.
Next week—Not announced.

Minerva—
Current Events—Pathe.
Feature—"Quo Vadis."
Comedy—"Free and Easy."
Next week—Not announced.

Aldine—
Current Events—Selznick.
Feature—"Island Wives."
Comedy—"Put and Take."
Next week—"Who Am I?"

Duquesne—
Third week of "Lord Fauntleroy."

Carnegie Music Hall—
Newman's Travel Talks.

Garden Theatre—
"Saturday Night."

Kenyon Theatre—
"Dream Street."

DES MOINES

Des Moines Theatre—
News—International.
Special—Literary Digest News.
Comedy—"The Bell Hop" with Larry Semon.
Feature—"The World's Champion" with Wallace Reid.
Next week—"Moran of the Lady Letty" with Valentino.

Strand Theatre—
Special music—Augmented orchestra in variety of selections.
News—Educational Kinograms.
Feature—"Fool's Paradise" with Conrad Nagel.
Next week—Same.

Sherman—
Feature—"The Conquering Power" with Alice Terry.
Next week—"The Road to Home."

Garden—
Comedy—One reel Educational.
Feature—"Under the Lash."
Next week—"Conflict" with Priscilla Dean.
Comedy—"His Inheritance Taxi" one reel Educational.
Feature—"White Oak" with William S. Hart.
Next week—"Cameron of the Royal Mounted."

MILWAUKEE

Butterfly Theatre—
Overture—"Foet and Peasant," Butterfly Symphony Orchestra.
Violin Virtuoso—Mary Goodrich Read.
Song—Louise Gilbert, soprano.
Pictorial Review.
Weekly—News and views from around the world.
Feature—"Jane Eyre," with Mabel Ballin and Norman Trevor.

Strand Theatre—
Weekly—Pathe and topics.
Comedy—Baby Peggy in "Peggy Behave."
Feature—"Star Dust," with Hope Hampton.
Special—Hope Hampton in person.

Alhambra Theatre—
Overture—"Meistersinger," Alhambra orchestra.
Comedy—Larry Semon.
Weekly—Pathe News and Topics.
Prologue.
Feature—"Fool's Paradise."

Merrill Theatre—
Exclusive pictures Milwaukee and Chicago school boys' skating meet.
Prizma Color "Sunbeams."
Screen Snapshots.
Tony Sarg's Quaint Little Marionettes in "The First Movie."
Feature—"The Champion," Wallace Reid and Lois Wilson.

CINCINNATI

Walnut—
Current Events—Fathe 19.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Novelty Cartoon—Aesop's Fables—Pathe.
Feature—"Penrod."
Next Week—"Under the Lash."

Lyric—
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—"Put and Take," Hallroom Boys.
Feature—"Thunderclap."
Next Week—"Love Never Dies."

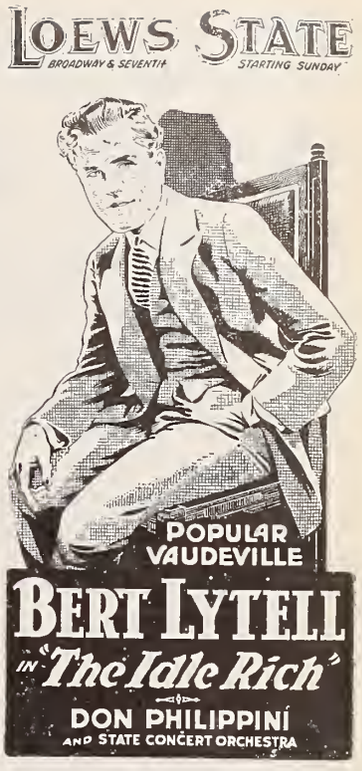
Strand—
Current Events—Pathe 20.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—"Fool's Paradise."
Next Week—"The Four Seasons."

Palace—
Current Events — International News.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—"The Idle Rich."
Next Week—"Back Pay."

Capitol—
Overture—Suwanee River, Capitol Symphony Orchestra, Theodore Hahn, Jr., conducting.
Capitol News Events Novelty.
Prologue to feature — Southern plantation melodies, Capitol male quartette. Stage set to represent cotton plantation.
Feature—"The Prodigal Judge."
Musical Number—"Dance of the Hours," syncopated Capitol jazz unit.
Comedy—"The Fast Male."
Novelty — Weekly Movie Chat, Charles Urban.

MONTREAL

Allen Theatre—
JAZZ-A-WEEK
Overture—"Poet & Peasant" — Suppe.
Here There and Everywhere with the Allen Cameraman.
Violin Solo—(a) Kiss Me Again, Herbert, Luigi Romanelli, Violin; (b) Prelude, Rachmaninoff, Roland Todd, piano.
Bagpipe Novelty—Luigi Romanelli & Roland Todd.
Movie Chats.
Comedy — "Dog-gone Torchy," with Johnny Hines.
Potporri of 1922—During the presentation of the comedy, gazooks are distributed to the audience. At the finish of the comedy the audience is informed that they are expected to become part of a jazz band. A little colored boy dressed in a white uniform comes to centre stage in front of red plush curtain and introduces the first number "Ain't We Got Fun." The orchestra then plays the first chorus, conducted by Mr. Romanelli, and on the conclusion of same, turns to the audience who Gazooks the second chorus. The next number "All By Myself" is then introduced by the colored boy and so on until seven songs in all have been sung.



This "The Idle Rich" display is from Loew's State theatre, Los Angeles.

Feature—Constance Talmadge in "Woman's Place."
Next Week—Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley."

WASHINGTON

Rialto—
Overture—Robin Hood.
Current News—Fox News.
Comedy—"The Rainmaker," Mermaid.
Scenic — Unknown Switzerland, Bruce.
Feature—"Boomerang Bill," Paramount.
Next Week—"Find the Woman," Paramount.

Palace—
Feature Continued—"Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," Metro.

Columbia—
Feature—"Fool's Paradise," Paramount.

ATLANTA

Howard Theatre—
Overture—"Maritana."
Howard News and Views.
Comedy—Larry Semon in the "Sawmill."
Special Atmospheric Prologue—"The London Bridge."
Feature—Anna G. Nilsson in "Three Live Ghosts."

Metropolitan Theatre—
Overture—Special musical score.
Kinograms.
Organ Solo—Geo. Lee Hamrick, Venetian Night."
Comedy—"Doggone Torchy," Educational.
Feature—"Turn to the Right."

Criterion Theatre—
Kinograms.
Educational Comedy.
Feature—Tom Mix in "Trailin'."

Rialto—
Overture—Rialto Orchestra.
International News.
Comedy—To be selected.
Feature—Agnes Ayres, "The Lane That Had No Turning."

EXHIBITORS' REPORTS ON NEW RELEASES

What the Big Houses Say

EARLY RETURNS FROM WEEK RUN THEATERS

FAMOUS PLAYERS

Forever—
Deserving of the highest praise as a picture. Lent interferred with attendance slightly, although receipts were pleasing. (East.)

Wallace Reid, Elliott Dexter and Elsie Ferguson are popular here and the picture did a goood business for a week's run. (Middle West.)

Good picture but too highbrow for our audiences. Business not up to mark on it. (Middle West.)

The best picture seen here this year. Played to capacity houses during two weeks' run. (Middle West.)

An artistic feature with fine acting, but the story fails to appeal to the great majority of theatre goers as it lacks suspense. Played to fair business. (Middle West.)

Saturday Night—
A very good production. Audience went wild over it. Held over for second week. (Middle West.)

Fine picture which pleased my patrons very much. Business good. (West.)

Moran of the Lady Letty—
Didn't do so well. First week of Lent undoubtedly had its effect. Rodolf Valentino and Dorothy Dalton should draw well under ordinary conditions. (Middle West.)

Three weeks' run to good business and satisfied audiences. (West.)

Under the Lash—
Gloria Swanson generally pleases. Much favorable comment on this one. Patronage held up despite adverse condition. (Middle West.)

White Oak—
Fairly entertaining and generally pleased. Fair business. (Middle West.)

Boomerang Bill—
Extremely good picture to poor business. (Middle West.)

A Prince There Was—
Good kid picture with heart appeal. One of Meighan's best. (Middle West.)

Rent Free—
Wallace Reid's worst. Business good on account of "A Sailor-Made Man." (East.)

Three Live Ghosts—
A good drawing card. Played to large houses all week and made a hit with patrons. (Middle West.)

Just Around the Corner—
A good picture, which seemed to please the audiences.. (Middle West.)

FIRST NATIONAL

Polly of the Follies—
Nice light entertainment. Pretty good week for the first week of Lent. (Middle West.)

There have been better First National pictures than this. Contains many pleasing moments but could be better connected. Patronage ordinary. (Middle West.)

Penrod—
Finished two weeks' run going fine. (East.)

Good entertainment and box office value. (West.)

Nobody—
Fine picture with good business. (West.)

Twin Beds—
Well received. Receipts good. (East.)

The Old Swimmin' Hole—
Fair. Not Ray's best by any means. Slim business. (Middle West.)

The Beautiful Liar—
Fair picture. Business fair. (West.)

Daddy Long Legs—
Did good business on third run. Absence of a Mary Pickford picture here for some time, helped. (Middle West.)

The Seventh Day—
Good picture with appeal for both men and women well supplied. Picture did not do big business here on account of rival attractions. (Middle West.)

R. S. V. P.—
Very entertaining picture, which seemed to please admirers of Charles Ray. Did good business. (Middle West.)

The Sea Lion—
Just an average picture which played to ordinary business. (Middle West.)

Molly O—
Mention of Normand's name in Taylor murder scandal didn't hurt this picture. Played to big houses all week. (Middle West.)

Not a second "Mickey" as a money-maker, but as good a picture. Audience greatly pleased and satisfied. (Middle West.)

My Lady Friends—
Despite strong competition this one did unusually well and attracted a good week's attendance. (Middle West.)

FOX

Connecticut Yankee—
Second week played to full houses. One of the best money-getters of the season. (Middle West.)

Good picture but fell flat after second day. (Middle West.)

Sky High—
Good picture and a winner for Tom Mix type of pictures. Business just fair because of rival attractions. (Middle West.)

A Stage Romance—
Was somewhat disappointing. Crowds far below expectations. Some bad weather during week. Farnum usually does well. (Middle West.)

Over the Hill—
Shown second run this production did the worst flop of the season. (East.)

Thunderclap—
An exciting melodrama that went big with patrons. (East.)

METRO

Turn to the Right—
Picture makes strong appeal. Played to good business improving as week advanced. Holding over for second week. (Middle West.)

Fine picture, but it didn't do much business here. Lent had a lot to do with falling off of business. (Middle West.)

Peacock Alley—
Audience liked it very much. Business good enough to hold over for second week. (Middle West.)

The Man Who—
People who saw this picture liked it but not very many came in to see it. (Middle West.)

Camille—
Rodolf Valentino's name put this one over. Picture extremely poor. (Middle West.)

GOLDWYN

Grand Larceny—
Fair picture. Thrills and action aplenty. Lew Cody in person drew larger crowds than the picture alone would have done. (Middle West.)

The Night Rose—
Plot conventional, but Lon Chaney is a good drawing card. Average box-office attraction. (Middle West.)

For Those We Love—
Photography so poor that it caused much complaint. Otherwise good picture. Business fair. (Middle West.)

From the Ground Up—
Comedy which seemed to be well received in house which does not play the biggest features. Folks seem to like comedy. (Middle West.)

All's Fair in Love—
Good picture with hero and heroine both of interest here. Richard Dix a local boy. Picture did not draw against auto show. Fair trade. (Middle West.)

UNITED ARTISTS

Three Musketeers—
Good business. Good picture. Cost a lot of money to show but worth it. (Middle West.)

Ruling Passion—
Great picture from start to finish. Business picked up a little. (Middle West.)

Dream Street—
A fine picture, and an excellent box office attraction. (Middle West.)

ROBERTSON-COLE

After the Show—
Picture lacking in real audience appeal. Some liked it, others didn't. Business was rather good. (Middle West.)

At the Stage Door—
Fair attraction. Star little known. Business good. (Middle West.)

UNIVERSAL

Tracked to Earth—
Real melodrama undisguised. Only those who would measure entertainment by number of thrills came to see the picture so they were well pleased with it. We had a full house all week. (Middle West.)

Headin' West—
Good box office value and fine entertainment. (West.)

REALART

Hush Money—
Not quite up to Alice Brady's usual attendance mark. Average business for the week. (Middle West.)

A Virginia Courtship—
Good entertainment. Fine business. (West.)

VITAGRAPH

The Little Minister—
Better than average picture but too highbrow for the regular fans and not enough other patronage in town to make it profitable. Lost money on it. Picture not big enough to "back up" any extravagant promises. (East.)

Flower of the North—
Splendid outdoor picture with deep love story; played to fair houses for four days. (Middle West.)

HODKINSON

Jane Eyre—
A good drawing card. Played to good crowds for a week's run and satisfied patrons. (Middle West.)

The Sign of the Rose—
Beban appeared in person, enacting the action of the fourth reel on the stage. Went over big. (East.)

GRIFFITH

Orphans of the Storm—
Business fair at dollar top. Would have been better if presentation continuous, which policy will be adopted second week. (East.)

PATHE

A Sailor-Made Man—
Lloyd's first feature comedy is up to comedy standard set by his two reelers. Went over big. Holding for second week. (Middle West.)

STATE RIGHTS

When Dawn Came—
Very draggy at start. Climax a little faster. Direction poor but business fair. (Middle West.)

The Black Panter's Cub—
Poor both as regards entertainment and box office value. (West.)

Why Girls Leave Home—
Two weeks' run to good business. Audiences pleased. (West.)

Showing Today
MOON
Last times Fri.
now presents
A PHOTOPLAY WITH A NEW IDEA
FOOTFALLS
Not a namby-pamby love story, not an old type melodrama — But Entirely Different from any photo-play you have ever seen
A W.F. Soc Production
AT THE DEAD OF NIGHT
Who heard them?
What did they mean?
What mystery did they solve?
MOON COMEDY
SNUB POLLARD in 'CALL THE WITNESS'
MOON INTERNATIONAL NEWS WEEKLY

A hand drawn display on "Footfalls" by N. N. Fruedenfeld, advertising director of the Moon theatre, Omaha.

NEWSY BRIEFS FROM CENTRAL FILM BELT

Chicago and the Mid-West

L. H. MASON, REPRESENTATIVE, 910 S. MICHIGAN AVE.

HERMAN ABRAMS starts on the road for the American Releasing Corporation Monday of this week and will cover smaller towns in Illinois. W. Whitmoyer is another new member of American's sales staff and will work the key cities in Illinois.

Manager Cress Smith, of United Artists, has added George Levy to his sales staff and Mr. Levy will cover the Chicago southside territory. He recently has been working out of Unity's Indianapolis office, but formerly covered Chicago territory for various film companies and is well known here.

The recent blizzard in Wisconsin played havoc with traveling film men's schedules, according to Ralph Ravenscroft, of Goldwyn's organization, who has just reached Chicago from the badger state. While on his way to Cheboygan he was marooned for sixty hours at Kiel, a small Wisconsin town, where all the electric light wires were broken down by heavy loads of ice, and the inhabitants were afraid to go on the street owing to the danger of falling icicles and live wires. Mr. Ravenscroft reports "Theodora" did excellent business at Cheboygan, despite the handicaps of the storm.

"The Ruling Passion," starring George Arliss, has been booked into the Ziegfeld theatre, where it will open on March 12th.

Milton Simon is the latest addition to Universal's sales staff, and will cover the territory left open by the accident to Bob Funk.

The Panama theatre property at the northeast corner of Clark and Farragut Streets, which contains, in addition to an eight hundred seat motion picture theatre, stores and flats, has been sold by Moe Safir to Paul Braude, of Paul and Adolph Braude, wholesale jewelers. The consideration has been reported to have been $120,000.

Manager Alger, of the Blackstone theatre, Rantoul, who was visiting around exchange row this week, states that business is pretty good in his locality and prospects are bright for an improvement.

Barbee's Loop theatre is holding over "A Sailor Made Man," Harold Lloyd's first feature comedy, for a second week, and the theatre presents a decidedly nautical aspect with its lobby turned into a ship and its sailorette ushers. A feature of the first week's run was a visit of several hundred jackies from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, who marched from the Northwestern station through the loop to the theatre, led by the Great Lakes' Band.

Si Griever states that the Material Supply Company, of which he is vice-president, will supply the material to be used in the half million dollar Grande Palais de Danse to be erected by the Woodlawn theatre Company at the southeast corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Sixty-second street.

The dates for the annual convention of the Illinois Motion Picture Theatre Owners have been fixed for April 4th and 5th. The gathering will be held at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, and among important matters coming up, will be the election of officers and also delegates to the national convention. Details of the program for the convention will be announced later.

Jones, Linick & Schaefer announce that the successful picture season at their down town picture houses have made them determined to pin their faith to the movies, and upon the completion of their new two million dollar McVicker's theatre next Fall, which will arise on the site of the present McVicker's, will make feature motion pictures the most important part of the entertainment to be presented at that house. They have recently done this at the Rialto, where the success of their experiment has been very gratifing. Work of wrecking the present McVicker's will start on the morning of May 1st and construction of the new house will be rushed with the intention of opening it on or before Labor Day. All the building material, steel, concrete and brick is stored on the west side ready to be moved into the loop, and a double force of day and night workers will be put on the job.

Isadore Gumbiner and Benjamin Nathan have taken over the Ideal theatre at 1622 Larabee street, which was recently sold to them by Joe Hopp, and will operate it as a high class picture theatre.

Dee Robinson, of Peoria, spent a couple of days in Chicago this week and while here completed arrangements for securing Associated First National franchises for his two Peoria theatres, the Madison and Apollo. Mr. Robinson reports that business is showing an improvement in his part of the state.

H. F. Lofholtz, manager of Universal's Omaha, Nebraska, exchange, E. B. Haines, manager of the Des Moines exchange, and William H. Russell, formerly short subject manager at Kansas City, were in Chicago this week conferring with Ralph Proctor on the "Foolish Wives" sales campaign.

Charles Bugg, of the Bugg theatre, has returned to Chicago after a month's trip to California. While in the West he looked over the studios at Hollywood and saw many pictures in the process of making.

Bob Funk, of Universal, has found it necessary to have his leg, which was broken several days ago, put in a plaster cast. It is probable that Mr. Funk will not be able to be on the job again for many weeks.

P. B. Dana, of Anchor Films, independent film distributors of Los Angeles, spent the week in this city in the interests of his company.

Manager R. C. Seery, of Associated First National Exchange, is planning to spend ten days or two weeks playing golf at the Biloxi and other southern courses. He expects to get away on March 11th.

Harry Miller, of the Windsor theatre, it is feared, will lose the sight of his left eye as the result of serious injury to it, which occurred Saturday. The iris was punctured by a hatpin, which protruded from a woman's hat, while he was performing his usual duties at the theatre. There was no one at hand to take up Mr. Miller's duties and he pluckily stayed on the job, without telling anybody of his injury, from four to eight o'clock when pain compelled him to go home, and Sunday he was removed to the Polyclinic Hospital, where an operation was performed and the doctors state that while the injured eye may be practically sightless, they hope to prevent sympathetic affection of the right eye.

Among the film notables visiting Chicago last week were C. R. Rogers, general manager of Robertson-Cole, New York; W. E. Shallenberger, of the Arrow Film Corporation, New York; Roy C. Cropper, general manager of National Exchanges, Inc., New York; and Walter Johnson, president of National Exchanges, Inc., New York.

Ben Beadell, Illinois distributor of the Dempsey-Carpentier Official Pictures, has been on the sick list for a few days but expects to be back at his desk early next week.

Carl Harthill has resigned as manager of Reelcraft Exchanges, Chicago, a position he had filled since the organization of that company, to become manager of the National Exchanges, Inc., Chicago branch with headquarters at 738 S. Wabash avenue. He will take over his new position on March 13th. Charles Lindau, well known in Chicago film circles, has also gone with National Exchanges, Inc., with the position of booker.

Joe Allman has taken over the Globe theatre at Monticello, Illinois.

Maurice Hellman, for fifteen years connected with Universal Film Company, who recently resigned to go into business for himself, has returned to Chicago after a three weeks' visit to New York, and it is reported is now associated with Reelcraft. It is understood Mr. Hellman will take charge of the Chicago office of this corporation.

One hundred and twenty Chicago motion picture theatres and three hundred houses in the state are participating in Paramount's tenth anniversary celebration, by running Famous Players-Lasky feature pictures exclusively during a two week's period. The organization is backing up the showing of the pictures here, as throughout the country, with heavy newspaper advertising, making use of two morning and one afternoon Chicago newspapers, which carry full page advertising, and seventy newspapers published in Illinois cities outside of Chicago.

Wid Gunning, Inc., staged a trade showing of "Our Mutual Friend" at Barbee's Loop theatre on Saturday morning at 10:00 A.M., which brought out a large number of exhibitors and exchange men. Many favorable comments were heard on this picturization of the famous novel, which was the last one written by the late Charles Dickens.

Arthur Lowy, who recently has been devoting his attention to the distribution of a medical film, made in Vienna, to physicians, societies and universities, has gone abroad, landing overseas this week, according to his schedule. Mr. Lowy expects to bring back some foreign made pictures when he returns early this summer.

The Willard theatre, a suburban house in Michigan City, Indiana, will open shortly under the management of Burlingame and Grey.

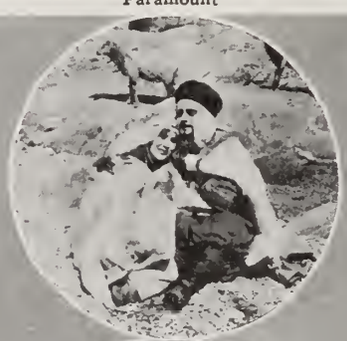
Gunning Novelty Booked by Lubliner-Trinz

"The Good Things of Life," the single reel weekly feature released through the Gunning organization, has been booked into the Pantheon theatre, Chicago, a big Lubliner and Trinz house, where it is now being shown.

Action Stills from Releases of the Week

The first episode of "Mistress of the World," released by Paramount

Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," First National



"The Sheik's Wife," a Vitagraph special

Eugene O'Brien in "The Prophet's Paradise" (Selznick)

Sessue Hayakawa in "The Vermillion Pencil," released by R-C pictures

FEATURE REVIEWS

"The Sheik's Wife"

Vitagraph—6200 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

BECAUSE of its atmosphere, attention to detail, marvelous backgrounds and apparent authenticity of scenes showing the manner and customs of the Mohammedan, rather than from its story value. "The Shiek's Wife" impresses as a film well out of the ordinary and one which should especially appeal to the better class of theatre goers.

The picture has been produced in the actual locale of its story, Algiers, with a multitude of natives, evidently carefully rehearsed used in numberless big scenes. There are camels, tents, mosques, ancient ruins, oceans of sand and all the other Oriental knick knacks in abundance. All there was in "Kismet" and then some is to be found in "The Sheik's Wife." A feature is some of the finest photography ever revealed. A hundred long shots are marvels in what the camera has caught with cameo-like detail.

The acting in all the principal roles is first class and meets every American requirement. There is none of the usual exaggeration to be found so often in the work of the French player. Emmy Lynn as the heroine suggests that she may be a disciple of Bernhardt. There is a striking similarity in style of acting and methods of registering emotions. Miss Lynn is a blonde and a fine type for this role, albeit that in a few close-ups a lack of youth is disclosed. Marcel Vilbert as the Sheik is excellent type and a finished actor. The balance of the cast is adequate.

"The Sheik's Wife" is a picture that could not have been produced in America, if at all, for a fabulous sum. No "streets" could have been erected on a lot that would have served their purpose as well as the shots of the real thing, seen here. No American extras could have been found who could exhibit the horsemanship of the riders of the sheik's band and no livery stable nags could be schooled to fit their parts like the hundreds of Arabian horses used. Even the sand looks the part.

The picture is a scenic and an educational as well as a drama. It takes you on a trip through Algiers, shows you all the sights and informs you as to the ways, customs, religion, and superstitions of the disciples of Allah.

As drama it is also considerable of a character study, relating as it does the problems of an English girl married to an Oxford-educated Moorish chieftain, who needs must lay aside old ways for those of her adopted land before she and her husband can live happily.

The plot is exceptional but it is typical and furnishes some excellent action scenes. There is a battle between the sheik's band and the British soldiers and an unusually well done sword fight.

The Cast

Estelle Graydon.....Emmy Lynn
Hadjid Ben-Khedin.....Marcel Vilbert
Cassin Ben-Khedin.....Albert Bras
Sir Thomas Powell.....Gustav Bogaert
Charles Courtney.....Frank Medar
Ben El-Kebil.....Thomas Thornton
Kahlia.....Alice Fille
Mohammed Ben Karl.....Carl Fisher

Produced, directed and written by Henri Rousell. Distributed by Vitagraph.

The Story—English girl marries Arab chief, an Oxford graduate on condition that she is to be his only wife. They return to Algiers where the wife finds the natives prejudiced against her and that she is harassed by new and strange customs. A daughter is born, a fact which permits the shiek's relatives to propose a second marriage in the hope of securing a son and heir. The wife will not agree to this and attempts to run away. She is stopped, however, and when an Englishman, a former lover, attempts to aid her in a fraternal way, a battle between the British troops and the sheik's band is precipitated. In the end, husband and wife adjust their differences and withdraw to the desert to live happily.

Classification—Romantic drama of the Orient, with melodramatic sequences and considerable physical action toward the end.

Drawing Power—Suitable for houses where any picture with a "desert" locale gets over but is especially recommended for theatres which sell their attractions through exploitation.

Exploitation Angles—Atmospheric prologues of the desert type, shiek ballyhoos, Arab tent lobby displays, ushers and house decorated in the usual Oriental style.

"The Prophet's Paradise"

Selznick—5 Reels

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

A GOOD example of adventure story is "The Prophet's Paradise," with Eugene O'Brien doing the adventuring mixed with a little romancing. It is a "single idea" picture. There is no theme or drama—just a colorful adventure of a rich young American in Stamboul who is looking for excitement and finds it, enough, we should think, to make him willing to settle down to a quiet domestic existence with the wife he has won, for the rest of his life. In fiction form it would be a good, fast-moving short story rather than a novel.

The plot might be trite if the villians were cowboy bad men, but they're not. They're all Oriental, and the mystery, the romance and the rich color of the East so enchances the story that the picture is always zestful and refreshing. To "get over" this atmosphere for a certainty, Alan Crosland makes the first reel look a bit like a travelogue. The characters and the story make a brief introductory bow, and then give way to street scenes of Constantinople. This, however, serves its effect. The atmosphere becomes decidedly Turkish. The story proper also moves in some fairly elaborate sets and the street scenes contain a goodly quota of the Oriental fakers and beggars.

The audience will like the slave market scene. It isn't really a slave market, but just part of the villians' scheme to obtain the hero's money. The heroine, an American girl, held for ransom, is posed as a slave girl and raffled off. The adventure continues red hot until the star finally discovers the ruse and rescues the girl from her captors.

The admirers of the star should like his appearance in turban in Persian suit. Sigfrid Holmquist the Swedish actress, makes a pretty appearance opposite him. Bigelow Cooper the heavy, assisted by Arthur Houseman.

The Cast

Howard Anderson.....Eugene O'Brien
Mary Talbot.....Sigfrid Holmquist
Kadir.....Arthur Housman
Nelda.....Nora Booth
John Talbot.....Joseph Burke
Kranda.....John Hopkins

By C. S. Montayne. Directed by Alan Crosland. Scenario by Lewis Allen Browne. Produced by Selznick Pictures.

The Story—Anderson, a wealthy American, is in Constantinople looking for adventure. He is told of a "slave market" to which no foreigners are admitted. Disguised as a Persian, Anderson, falls for the trick and in a neatly staged "auction," he buys a beautiful girl. She discloses the trick, and tells that she is the daughter of an American scientist, and has been kidnapped and held for ransom. A vigorous fight follows in which the couple escape, but Anderson is wounded by European rescuers who believe him one of the accomplices. The romance is concluded in New York.

Classification—An adventure picture, with a little romance, and a rich Oriental background.

Production Highlights—Street scenes of Stamboul, very colorful; the slave market, staged in a large set; the fight for freedom of the two Americans; the hero's injury and separation from the heroine.

Exploitation Angles—Locale of the story suggests exploitation which may vary from that of street ballyhoos to rich Oriental prologues. The latter can be carried out by a wise selection of Oriental ballads for a solo. Stars following can be appealed to and mention made of the "Swedish Mary Pickford." Catch lines are suggested by the title.

Drawing Power—Will be liked not only in all houses where Eugene O'Brien is a regular drawing card, but in houses where straight action pictures are popular. Slave market scenes are decently staged. No offense can be taken from the picture. A good bet for the neighborhood houses.

"Marry the Poor Girl"

Associated Exhibitors—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

FARCE comedy based upon a matrimonial mix-up seems to be the proper forte for the De Havens—Carter and Flora. "Marry the Poor Girl" is typical of their previous essays, "Twin Beds," and "The Girl in the Taxi." While the subject matter is lacking in novelty of situation or characterization, yet the tempo is gauged correctly by the stars and the director with the result that it develops with plenty of snap and ginger, covering its obvious tracks pretty well because of the speed. The plot concerns two young impressionables who find themselves compromised through the youth being intoxicated when he stumbles into a certain boudoir occupied by the daughter of the hostess.

The complications build from his attempt to find rest and sleep in the bath-tub. It is simple—almost naive, and really is slender material to extend through five reels. But just when it gives evidence of flopping, along come the De Havens and spice it up with sufficient farcical tricks. They get into many difficulties and like all farces the idea would not carry at all if a word of explanation was allowed to clear the situation. The young people are married to stop the scandal and as quickly they arrange a divorce in order to keep faith with their respective sweethearts.

"Mary the Poor Girl" is quite likely to entertain those who do not expect too much from the title or the stars. It's a neat little "hour-killer." The direction is entirely competent the scenes fitting perfectly and being dashed off with creditable gusto.. Lloyd Ingraham directed from a scenario by Rex Taylor, the original play having been written by Owen Davis.

The Cast

Julia.....Mrs. Carter De Haven
Jack Tanner.....Carter De Haven

By Owen Davis. Scenario by Rex Taylor. Directed by Lloyd Ingraham.

The Story—Treats of matrimonial complications which develop when gay youth, slightly intoxicated, stumbles into wrong bedroom and falls asleep in the bathtub. This precipitates a compromise and the hostess is insistent upon an immediate marriage. The young people endeavor to square accounts with their respective sweethearts but discover that they admire the qualities of each other the best.

Classification—Farce-comedy adapted from stage play.

Production Highlights—While there are no outstanding situation present there, the picture carries plenty of dash and speed. The scene in which the youth tumbles into the bath-tub and is compromised into a marriage ceremony. The snappy acting of the De Havens. The romantic element.

Exploitation Angles—There are opportunities for the exhibitor to capitalize upon the theme and title. This he can do by arranging some novel ideas in the line of copy. The stars are well known and mention should be made of their other releases. Marriage invitations would suggest a snappy teaser campaign. The author's name has some value in exploitation.

Drawing Power—This picture will go best in the select neighborhood where the flapper set predominates. Not a working man's picture if his diet is physical action. Will please the newly married. Best for the program houses which feature daily change of bill. Title might attract. Needs a teaser campaign to stimulate patronage.

"The Splendid Lie"

Arrow-State Rights—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THERE is undoubtedly enough appeal in figure of a harassed heroine to extract sympathy from a sensational spectator. "The Splendid Lie," starring Grace Davidson, is a conventional story written around a girl who is scorned by members of her own sex and used considerably as a plaything by men before she triumphs. The finale is outlined from the opening reel, thus the picture is not fortified with the element of suspense. It moves along on a single track and the director, realizing this, has given the star enough opportunity to appear advantageously.

Miss Davidson is well photographed from many angles. And she succeeds in arousing sympathy. The love interest is rather late in arriving but when it does Jere Austin is capable enough actor to fullfill the demands of the role. The heroine's grandfather is faithful and through his introduction the story gives a little evidence of supporting some drama. The girl is involved in a divorce suit but the complications are cleared and all ends happily.

There is nothing about the picture which stands out conspicuously. Carrying a conventional plot on a time-worn theme its appeal rests solely upon the work of the star and an adequate production. The author has done much better with the direction than he has with the story. With exhibitors who cater to a select family trade "The Splendid Lie" will find some appeal. It's an average picture for average minds.

The Cast

Doris Delafield.....Grace Davison
Dave Delafield.....John Drumier
Craston Walcott.....Noel Gearle
Dean De Witt.....J. Thornton Baston
Banker.....Jere Austin

By Charles Horan. Scenario by Charles Horan. Directed by Charles Horan.

The Story—Heart interest story which treats of heroine who is shunned by her friends because of being involved in a divorce suit. The girl loses her position and is considerably harassed by her former associates. Finally a young banker comes into her life and succeeds in starting her on the road to happiness. She triumphs over her enemies.

Classification—Heart interest drama based upon sympathetic characterization. Carries an appealing element of romance.

Production Highlights — No conspicuous scenes of dramatic quality, but contains sympathetic appeal for harassed heroine. The good work of Grace Davison as the star. Jere Austin contributes first rate performance as hero. Adequate production with convincing detail and praiseworthy details such as titling.

Exploitation Angles—Since this is conventional in plot and treatment there isn't much offered for exploitation. However, the title and star, who has a following in the state rights field will attract. Character of heroine is sure to arouse sympathy. A good plan to stimulate interest among the family trade. Should be billed for its human appeal and romance.

"The Dangerous Little Demon"

Universal—4751 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

PICKING stories for Marie Prevost is not a difficult task. Allow her to scamper in some smart frocks around the lawn of a country estate—place her in the role of an impressionable flapper who defies an aunt or rich father or indulgent mother—surround her with a group of faithful swains and you have the recipe to a dot. "The Dangerous Little Demon" is a slight story relying entirely upon the star's personality. The idea behind it is much more convincing when there is much ado about nothing. But here the author and director have dragged in a touch of melodrama to give it a punch. And such an element is not needed. Somehow it seems padded with this form of treatment.

The picture is episodic and flits from one scene to another like a series of pretty tableaux for the majority of its footage. The sponsors have given Clarence Badger, the director, opportunities to dress it correctly. And the sets are really artistic and representative of the smart Long Island colony which forms the background of the plot. It is all about the "butterfly" life with the characters ever searching for gay expression. The heroine has a number of suitors. Two of them are quite acceptable, one her father's secretary, the other, a "big brother" type of hero, who is ever ready to act as a safety valve to her mischievous pranks. When the clerical youth shows his color the girl, true to form, proposes to the wealthy neighbor and is accepted. He had incidentally saved her father from bankruptcy and frustrated the vicious schemes of an arbitrary villian.

Miss Prevost scampers about, revealing her stylish wardrope and her pleasingly plump figure. Hers is a personality which commands a following and the picture is certain to please her admirers. There is some straining for humor but the comedy scenes are less successful than those expressing romance. The star is supported by a good cast with Jack Perrin and Robert Ellis as the principal male leads. The latter is inclined to become stagy so that his work appears to be forced instead of natural.

The Cast

Teddy Marmon.....Marie Prevost
Gary McVeigh.....Robert Ellis
Jay Howard.....Herbert Prior Graham.....Jack Perrin
Denny.....Anderson Smith
Harmen.....Ed. Martindel
Aunt Sophy.....Lydia Knott

By Mildred Considine. Scenario by Doris Schroeder. Directed by Clarence Badger. Photographed by Bennie Bail. Produced by Universal.

The Story.—Treats of smart Long Island society set with financier's daughter finding expression through romance. The girl encourages her father's secretary and plays him against a wealthy neighbor who treats her as a little child. The young flapper finds adventure in one mad party after another but eventually is willing to settle down with the serious neighbor.

Classification.—Comedy-romance treating adventures of impressionable girl whose idea of life is to frolic in search of frivolity and romance. Romantic moments are dominant.

Production Highlights.—Scene in which Marie Provost executes a dance in a masquerade costume. Pleasing personality of star in ideal role. Handsome sets. Careful lighting. The star's lavish wardrobe.

Exploitation Angles.—Title carries value for a snappy teaser campaign. Star who has had considerable success in stories treating of light romance. Has developed a good following through her personality. Will draw if exploited with star dominating the "copy." Dance scene suggests a dance prologue.

Drawing Power.—This will draw wherever Miss Frevost is popular. Star has following with the masculine sex. Title will attract. Picture will please all classes of patrons except the rough and ready element of the factory district. Will go better in the select community than elsewhere.

"The Red Peacock"

Paramount—6500 Feet

(Reviewed by John Oscar)

THIS modern story for the vivid and colorful Pola Negri is by no means up to the standard set by the majority of her previous releases. The average picturegoer is unquestionably growing tired of the "sexy" melodramas and is turning with relief to the more wholesome and human stories. "The Red Peacock" is another version of the old plot that was quite ancient when "Camilla" was first written—yet it follows Dumas' play so closely that the few changes are hardly noticeable.

Although Miss Negri is much too vivid and arresting a personality to ever be anything but interesting, this is a story which, even by her art, can be made scarcely appealing. For one thing it is much too long, and there are too many obvious instances of padding. The story of the poor, abused girl of the Paris streets, who, by force of circumstances, is condemned to go from one lover to another, yet all the time loving the penniless young man, and finally making a noble sacrifice so that he may return to his family, his misunderstanding, and her subsequent tragic finish, has been done so many times as to lose its force.

There is no suspense and no real climax. The scenes move slowly, and there are times when an American audience is liable to grow restive at the unrestrained emotional outburst of the star and her support. The photography is fairly good, and there are one or two really beautiful exterior shots—the alley in darkest Paris is well-handled, and some of the interiors are praisworthy. erhaps the star will attract patronage because of her spectacular offerings but "The Red Peacock" will not add to her reputation.

The Cast

Violette Duclos, a flower-seller.....Pola Negri
Alfred Germont.....Not given in cast
Florette..... " " " "
Gaston Dupont..... " " " "
Count Girgy..... " " " "
Germont, Pere..... " " " "
Claire, Alfred's sister..... " " " "
Violette's step-father..... " " " "

Drama by John Kruly. Directed by Paul Stein. Art Director, Carl Richter. Edited by J. Clarkson Miller, Peter Milne, Benjamin DeCasseres, Elizabeth Cohen. Produced by Hamilton Theatrical Corp., "V. F. A." Production.

The Story—Violette Duclos, poor flower-girl of Paris, meets with accident and is taken to house of Gaston Dupont, where she falls in love with Alfred Germont, a penniless playwright. When Alfred is called to his provincial home by illness of sister, Violette falls a victim to Count Girgy. Later, Germont returns and is proclaimed a success. Forgives Violette her slip, and they set up housekeeping together. His father and sister come to Paris to plead with Violette that she gives the boy up—and she does so, going to the Riviera with Gaston. Alfred misunderstands her motive and follows. The end is in sight—and is a sufficiently tragic one.

Classification—A rather "sex-y" melodrama, with no particular effort made to redeem it. Resembles "Camille." Heart interest not carefully developed.

Production Highlights—Paris as a background, though there are only a few exterior shots. A very gay scene at Monte Carlo, in the ballroom, but too crowded to be especially noteworthy. Good American titling. Pola Negri's work.

Exploitation Angles—The star, alone, can be made to draw on this one. The Parisian atmosphere suggested by the title is good—and the advertising paper offered by releasing company is unusually effective. Might interest women by announcing that Miss Negri wears beautiful French gowns, etc.

Drawing Power—Will probably go in the downtown houses, where they like the sex-element—but it will be a poor picture for the "family houses." Not a "picture the children should see," although it is by no means offensive to the older folks.

"The Mistress of the World"

Chapter One—"The Dragon's Claw"—Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THE much heralded German serial, "The Mistress of the World," which is being offered in a series of four Paramount pictures has reached the screen and after taking into consideration its reception at the Rivoli, New York, one must frankly state that it needs heavy exploitation to attrac a crowd. A serial in one of the Broadway houses is a novelty, so much so, that the sophisticated audience on a Sunday afternoon became gallery gods if any one may judge from the good-natured kidding which "The Dragon's Clay" (Chapter one) received. When the final caption was announced asking the crowd to come next week and follow the plight of the heroine in the second chapter, "The Race for Life," they gave vent to their enthusiasm like the boys in an old-time shooting gallery.

The serial, judging from the first chapter, is unadulterated melodrama with thrills assembling in rapid-fire order. But the incidents are so heaped up with so much detail that the thread of the story is hard to follow. After a time you fail to take it seriously. It seems more like a burlesque of a serial. At least the audience accepted it in that spirit. One thing it has in its favor—a genuine background. Joe May, the director, has taken his principal players to China where he has succeeded in collecting real atmosphere—not only in the sets and locations, but in the vast assembly of extras, all of whom are Chinamen. It is when the story swings into its action that makes this picture look like a weak runner-up to the poorest American serial.

Mia May, the star, does not take a close-up, but the medium shots show her in deadly earnest. Her leading man performs like the rawest amateur as he is given to posing and acting all over the place. He it is who suggested to the audience that the whole affair might be a burlesque. Thus at a vital scene in which murder and mystery and intrigue are dominant he spoiled the whole effect and destroyed the suspense because of his silly postures. The heroine is searching for the hiding place of the queen of Sheba's jewels. One loses interest in her exploits after a time because of the poor work of the cast. There is no spontaneity in the action because of the many subtitles which break up the sequence of plot. And the lighting is extremely poor. Comedy captions would have made it a sure-fire success as far as a Broadway audience is concerned. It resembles the first days of the nickelodion.

The Cast

Helen Nielsen ..... Mia May
Hai Fung, King of the Beggars
Dr. Kien Lung
Tsay Tsaih, a slave girl
Ling Po, her sweetheart
Frederick Benson, Danish Consulate Attache
Yi, father of Kien Lung
The Hermit of Kuan Fu
Father Ambrosius

By Carl Figdor. Directed by Joe May. Edited and titled by J. Clarkson Miller, Peter Milne, Ben De Casseres, Elizabeth Cohen. Produced by U. F. A.

The Story—Danish girl in search of Queen of Sheba's jewels, learns the hiding place is in the interior of China. Journeys to the Orient and encounters a series of startling adventures. Oriental intrigue, mystery, melodrama, and thrills follow through chapter one of the story—the chapter being entitled "The Dragon's Claw."

Classification—Serial story filled with mystery and intrigue with locale laid in the Orient. Picture being presented in series of four chapters. Made by U. F. A.—German producers.

Production Highlights—Exceptionally good atmosphere collected against real backgrounds in China. Genuine locations and Chinese extras.

Exploitation Angles—Has been widely publicized with considerable expense spent upon exploitation. Should be played up for its thrills, intrigue, genuine atmosphere and background. Suggests good prologue with dancer executing Chinese dance. Opportunities for circus campaign in every direction.

Drawing Power—This will please them more in the small houses which have featured serials. Not an attraction for the high class house as audiences are liable to treat it lightly.

"The Vermillion Pencil"

R-C Pictures—4912 Feet

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

SESSUE HAYAKAWA is back at straight Oriental characterizations and the result is an overdose of Chinese melodrama and mysticism, some delightful and exquisite photography, and a good, thrilling climax. It smacks too much of those fantastic mandarins and viceroys who rule their subjects with the power of life and death to be thoroughly convincing. The appeal is chiefly melodramatic—the story is one of physical action and romance, but not drama.

But Hayakawa knows how to bring China to Hollywood. His types are all fine; his settings are accurate as well as beautiful; and his volcano scenes (an eruption is the climactic thrills) are convincing. The story is laid in some Chinese country where superstition grips the people and an all-powerful viceroy rules them. The star, as the viceroy, lifts the "vermillion pencil" against his wife. In other words he orders her to die the rather theatrical death "of a thousand torments." Realizing his mistake, he abandons his throne. The story skips twenty years, and Hayakawa, the Americanized son of the viceroy, returns to his native land. The remainder of the story shows him daring the power of the ruler to win the little Oriental girl of his choice and to save her and himself from the same "death of a thousand torments." The torments are not shown on the screen. The star plays a dual role here, for the father, the former viceroy, lives in solitude in the hills. The role is not of any real dramatic importance, at least in the way it is developed.

Bessie Love proves quite attractive in a part that naturally takes from her a good part of her chic and dainty personality. She may charm more as an American flapper, but her work, as well as the star's keep the production on a high level of excellence, as far as the acting is concerned.

"The Vermillion Pencil" has the action, atmosphere and photographic beauty, but its viceroys and mandarins may seem too unreal to the American to completely arouse him.

The Cast

Li Chan / The Unknown ..... Sessue Hayakawa
Hyacinth ..... Bessie Love

Directed by Norman Dawn. Story by Homer Lee. Produced by R-C Pictures.

The Story: An Americanized Chinese returns to the fatherland as an engineer. He meets and falls in love with a little Chinese girl of the hills—a wild and untamed creature, who talks to the birds. The viceroy, hearing of her beauty, takes her away, and the American student is assigned as her tutor. When he learns her identity, he takes her away into the mountains. Pursued, they are forced to flee into the volcano's crater, and suffocating, are recaptured. They are about to be executed when the volcano erupts after the hero's father has sacrificed himself by jumping into the depths.

Classification: Mostly melodrama surrounded by Chinese atmosphere. Romance runs throughout, and is impressive in some scenes.

Production Highlights: The viceroy condemning his wife to death; the rescue of the Chinese girl from the whirlpool; the flight into the volcano's mouth; the old man's sacrifice of his life; and finally the volcanic eruption and the destruction of the city.

Exploitation Angles: A curiosity-inspiring title is here, which can be used for box office values. The feature can be described as a Chinese story—fantastic, mystic, and thrilling. The star's personality. He has a following. Bessie Love as the leading lady—remembered from her starring days. Lobby displays of miniature volcanoes and Oriental stage settings. Prologue from "The Mikado" is suggested.

"Smilin' Through"

First National—8000 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

EVERYONE, from the exhibitor to his poorest patron ,is certain to heap encomiums upon Norma Talmadge for her magnificent picture, "Smilin' Through," adapted from the stage play which is still on tour. Here is an opera—the first that the talented star has ever had and one of the finest features ever released since th fifth industry was established. It gives to Miss Talmadge opportunities to reveal her emotional qualities as they have never been revealed before. Genuine artistry of expression marks every department, from the well arranged continuity and titling contributed by James Creelman and Sydney Franklin, to the direction of the latter and the exceptional lighting and photography contributed by the cameraman, Charles Rosher.

And the roles are so full of warmth and color and feeling that the players are really inspired. Surely nothing has gone wrong in making this picture a masterpiece of its kind—a picture shedding the warmest radiance of sentiment ever offered. The story, balanced by a narrative style and a straight dramatic development, appeals to the finer instincts. It is pure romance. A broken heart accounts for the deep pathos and when the bitterness in the old man's soul is swept away and young love and abiding faith triumph your feelings are kindled with a response for the old sweet song of love.

The picture is rather slow in tempo at the introductory reels, and some scenes could be dispensed with and not injure the story interest. The backgrounds and atmosphere are exquisite. So are the double exposure effects. And when the players live in the romantic days of the past, the costume period sets them off in splendid fashion. The old man's sweetheart comforts him in the spirit. He finally discovers that love never dies. Wyndham standing plays this role with remarkably fine poise and feeling. "Smilin' Through" will win praise everywhere. Money has not been spent upon it in vain. It tugs at the finer senses like Beethovens' Fifth Symphony.

The Cast

Kathleen / Moonyeen ..... Norma Talmadge
John Carteret ..... Wyndham Standing
Kenneth Wayne / Jeremiah Wayne ..... Harrison Ford
Doctor Owen ..... Alec Francis
Willie Ainsley ..... Glenn Hunter
Ellen ..... Grace Griswold
Little Mary ..... Miriam Battista
Village Rector ..... Eugene Lockhart

By Allen Langdon Martin. Adapted from play. Scenario by James Creelman and S. A. Franklin. Directed by Sydney Franklin. Photographed by Charles Rosher. Produced by Norma Talmadge Pictures Corp.

The Story—Treats of undying romance with characters living through two periods. Heroine lives with crusty old uncle whose bitterness toward life is caused through his bride being killed by jealous lover during the wedding festivities. Girl finds romance with assassin's nephew and this arouses conflict between her and the uncle. Love finally triumphs.

Classification—Sentimental romance, tinctured with compelling pathos. Disillusionment brings sorrow and bitterness, but love conquers. Presents two distinct romances—one of the past, the other of the present.

Production Highlights — Marvelous backgrounds showing Irish lake country. Exquisite double exposure. Inspired work of cast. The costume phase of story. The fine story interest revealing sentiment, romance and pathos. Scenes between old cronies. Romantic scenes between young lovers. Wedding ceremony.

Exploitation Angles—This being adaptation of well known stage success, does not need heavy exploitation. Crowd will come and enjoy star who has her finest picture. Opportunities to present wonderful prologue with costume dances and a Colonial setting. Title a winner. Cast well known. Should be exploited to reach every home.

"Extra! Extra!"

Fox—4160 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

IT doesn't take any ingenuity to classify this picture. The title suggests that it has something to do with the fourth estate, and the spectator who is not acquainted with newspaper life will be attracted to it. Stories of the theatrical world and the world of journalism have ever charmed the picture-goer. "Extra! Extra!" is cut after the regulation model, relying upon the adventures of a cub reporter to make good on an assignment. It is decidedly thin material padded out to feature length. Really there is very little incident, the denouement hinging upon scooping a story by employing the tactics of a burglar. The youth is sent out to cover the cotton king and reminded not to return if he fails in his task. And as the cub reporter is always visualized as a typical energetic American—well he seldom fails.

The picture relies upon its single tracks of adventure and a slight love note which is introduced when the rich man's secretary is determined to get the story in order to have her father reinstated in the good graces of the city editor. The latter had fired him for failure to cover the scoop. The action is pinned down to one climax which finds the girl, the cub reporter and a scapegrace nephew of the wealthy man attempting to rifle the safe of its papers. There is an auto chase which involves the hero stealing the precious documents from the youthful villain who had beaten him to the robbery.

The director has made the most of his scant subject, the scenes being run off with snappy execution. This sort of eliminates the shortcomings of the plot. The characterization sort of paints the reporter in false colors because he stoops to crime to accomplish his mission. The cast contributes pleasing performances with Wilson Hummell doing the best work as a veteran newspaper man.

The Cast

Myra Rogers.....Edna Murphy
Barry Price.....Johnnie Walker
Edward Fletcher.....Herschel Mayall
Jim Rogers.....Wilson Hummell
Haskell.....John Steppling
Mrs. Rogers.....Gloria Woodthorpe
Fordney Stowe.....Theo. Voneltz
Alvin Stowe.....Edward Jobson

By Julian Josephson. Scenario by Arthur J. Zellner. Directed by William K. Howard.

Produced by Fox.

The Story—Treats of cub reporter who is assigned to get story from wealthy man or be discharged. An old newspaper man is fired for his failure to get story and his daughter is secretary to rich man. Cub reporter realizes difficulties and takes job as butler in the home. Introduces scapegrace nephew with climax revealing girl, hero and worthless youth attempting to get papers from safe. The cub reporter wins.

Classification—Romantic adventure story of cub reporter who is called upon to "deliver the goods" or be discharged. Contains romance and some melodrama.

Production Highlights—Pleasing work of cast. Plot of story which is usually appealing to majority of patrons. The denouement when three central characters attempt to rob safe. First rate atmosphere.

Exploitation Angles—Being a newspaper story should attract the patron. Co-stars who have ideal vehicle for expression of youthful adventure. Indicates snappy teaser campaign. Title contains value for special advertising. Ingenuity of cub reporter, typical of American journalism.

Drawing Power—Where stars are known this one is liable to please them. Needs heavy advertising. Featuring type of story will help a great deal. Title will draw them to some extent. Teaser campaign is needed. Will succeed best in small towns or in downtown houses.

"Any Night"

Amalgamated Dist. Corp.-East Coast-State Rights—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

IT'S been a long time since Tully Marshall has had the acting opportunities given him here in "Any Night" a sordid crook story of particular design written and directed by G. M. Anderson, erstwhile known as Broncho Billy. That Marshall can troupe with the best of them when it comes to doing character work has long been demonstrated. That he surpasses his contemporaries in giving genuine vividness to the figures of crookdom has been well established since his Clyde Fitch interpretation in "The City." He is the nervous cunning criminal to the life—vital study in the pyschology of an underworld parasite. He dominates this crude melodrama based upon a crook's regeneration and really gives it a color which would be absent without him.

There is no sweetness and light in the story and humor is entirely eliminated. It simply exposes the methods of the light-fingered gentry in a heavy manner which holds attention chiefly because of Marshall's art and to a lesser degree an admirably poised portrayal of an associate in crime by Robert Edenson. Anderson establishes his regenerative touch in arbitrary fashion. Edeson is hiding from the law and Marshall comes to his squalid retreat to urge his pal to put over one more theft. The former's wife has previously gone to a mission and obtained the address of a good samaritan, a wealthy physician. There is a wealth of subtitles to plant the introductory scenes and naturally the action suffers. But when the crooks journey forth to burglarize the home of the doctor, the suspense tightens in fairly good shape. The child is tucked into bed, but, missing her mother, dashes forth to be run over by an automobile.

This scene is executed with a studio stamp on it. Events are arranged too quickly to ring genuine. The child is picked up by the surgeon and hastened to his operating table. Thence to the big scene when the crooks break in, turn off the lights, confront the occupants and discover that the youngster on the table is the child of one of them. So Edeson stands with the spotlight in hand to enable the surgeon to operate. He is dumfounded—a broken man. It is plain to see his regeneration will be complete. The mission scene resembles one from an old-time "meller." The atmosphere is pretty good. And the heart interest saves it, along with Marshall's interpretation.

The Cast

Rev. John Matthews.....Gordon Sackville
Jim Barlow.....Robert Edeson
The Weasel.....Tully Marshall
Dr. LeRoy Clifford.....William Courtleigh
Mrs. Ann Barlow.....Lilie Leslie

By G. M. Anderson. Directed by G. M. Anderson. Produced by East Coast Productions.

The Story.—Treats of crook's regeneration with locale in any large city. Jim Barlow is hiding from the police as wife goes to mission to get spiritual uplift. She obtains address of rich benefactor, a surgeon. The Weasel, an associate of Jim, succeeds in winning him over to rob the surgeon's house. They break in and discover that Barlow's boy is under the knife, the lad having been run over by an automobile. This generous act by the surgeon effects the redemption of the crooks.

Classification.—Crook melodrama based upon thrilling adventure, spiritual uplift and redemption of criminals.

Production Highlights.—Fine acting by Tully Marshall and to lesser degree, work of Robert Edeson and Lilie Leslie. Scene in mission; situation when crooks break into home of surgeon and discover that he is operating to save life of the child of one of the criminals. Redemption of crooks. Scene when Edeson is too broken-spirited to utter a word. First rate atmosphere.

Exploitation Angles.—The work of Edeson and Marshall will do a lot to stimulate patronage. Also mentioning the other members of a well known cast. Should be exploited for crook story of redemption, playing up heart interest. Title has some value, since it is shrouded in mystery.

Drawing Power.—A good bet for the small neighborhood house in town or city. Not a big house attraction. Gallery gods will like it. Discriminate will advise friends that it is too heavy. Paper out exploiting cast and title and theme will help a lot.

"Living Lies"

Clark-Cornelius-State Rights—Five Reels

(Reviewed by D. J. Cest)

THIS state right offering, an adaption of the author's Satevepost story, "A Scrap of Paper," has a melodramatic appeal that should put it over extremely well with those audiences that delight in the thriller. And as there seems to be a decided drift toward that sort of picture "Living Lies" has undoubtedly been put on the market at the right time. In rapid succession there is thrust before the view of the spectator a hair-raising, blood-tingling horse race, several two-fisted encounters and a ship-wreck which is executed in first rate style.

It is the type of action that delighted "nigger heaven" in the days of the old-time thriller—that brought 'em on their hind legs howling and forgetting to shuck the peanuts in their enthusiam to whistle with their fingers. But with all this grand display of erstwhile heroics there is an absence of gun play. The picture has for its hero a newspaper man and he fills the job in a manner that will meet approval from any "scoop hound." The ancient stage type of reporter —who carries the w. k. note-book and resembles a high school fiedgling, has been wisely avoided.

Spectators everywhere will vote it a first class melodrama. It is better handled than most newspaper stories, sticking pretty close to the correct characterization and atmosphere, although it was necessary to inject the romatic element. It could be edited a trifle better thus bringing a compactness which is absent at times. The plot is complicated with adventure and revolves entirely around a young reporter sent out on an assignment. The highlights are the above mentioned snappy horse race and shipwreck. The cast contributes admirable performances, and the direction is excellent.

The Cast

Dixon Grant.....Edmund Lowe
Eustace Bray.....Kenneth Hill
Miss Rowland.....Mona Kingsley

By Arthur Somers Roche. Directed by Emil Chautard.

The Story.—Newspaper tale with Dixon Grant, reporter, assigned to run down financial band suspected of crooked deals. He finds signed agreement for traction steal. Grant and sweetheart refuse bribe of gang leader to give up papers. Failing in that enterprise crooks tricks reporter, who is tortured until he reveals hiding place of papers. Hero escapes and prints exposure of scheme while gang leader seeks refuge in houseboat. While he sleeps it slips anchor, and, heading for falls, is destroyed, the crook losing his life.

Classification.—Adventurous melodrama of newspaper reporter sent on assignment. Carries thrills and action, suspense and romance.

Production Highlights.—The thrilling horse race; the ship-wreck as boat plunges toward falls. The capable acting of Edmund Lowe and Mona Kingsley. Exceptionally good photography and splendid direction.

Exploitation Angles.—Title is meaningless. Best plan is to concentrate upon vivid quality of story, which carries the utmost in adventurous action. Should be played up for its thrills and atmosphere.

Drawing Power.—Should go over in the neighborhood house and smaller cities especially well. Will be liked by the gallery gods, who are the boys with the pay envelopes on a Saturday night. Played up for thrills will excite a crowd A good picture for the men and boys.

"The Star Reporter"

Arrow-State Rights—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

AUTHORS who protest that directors fail to do justice to their stories in adapting them for the screen, should witness "The Star Reporter." The picture portrays with exceptional vividness every significant detail that possibly could be contained between the covers of a book. Thrills that could be obtained from the printed pages only by the lending of the imagination are forced upon the audience by the picture, in which Billie Rhodes does some of the best acting of her career. The star reflects the character selected for her with the ease of an actress who has rehearsed her part for years.

The theme hinges about a girl's father who is illegally confined in an insane asylum. The methods employed by the daughter and a newspaper reporter to obtain her parent's freedom embody some real dramatic mystery. In fact the melodramatic elements so necessary for a work of this character—notably the elements of startling intrigue and surprise—have full value here. The plot never borders upon the improbable, remaining well within the bounds of human interest. Although the story includes only three principal characters, the action is unusually swift and comes to an abrupt but harmonious ending. The escapades of the girl and the reporter provide many tense moments and all the thrills that the average audience could desire.

The Cast

Nan Lambert.....Billie Rhodes
Anthony Trent.....Truman Van Dyke
Conington Warren.....William Horne

Produced by Berwilla Film Corporation. From the story, "The Mysterious Mr. Trent," by Wyndham Martyn. Directed by Duke Worne.

The Story—Father of pretty girl confined in sanitarium by rich associates who desire to hide their crookedness. The freedom of the father rests upon the obtaining of a watch, which holds a secret, from one of his associates. The girl and the reporter meet and work together, encountering many perilous situations and braving death to work for the freedom of the father and the exposure of his rich associates. They finally accomplish their task; the father buys the newspaper on which the reporter works, makes him managing editor, as well as his son-in-law.

Classification—A mystery drama from start to finish, but enough romance is intermingled with the plot foundation so as to make the story "balance" evenly.

Production Highlights—The river scene, where the reporter is rescued by the girl; police court scene, girl being charged with picking pockets, and interior scene in wealthy crook's home, where reporter and girl are interrupted while seeking valuable papers.

Exploitation Angles—An exceptionally good opportunity for a "reporter contest" is offered. Small prizes could be awarded patrons who submit news items overlooked by daily papers, thereby opening the way for a tieup with newspapers for publicity.

Drawing Power—Should be good in either the rural or city theatre as the story holds interest for both types of patrons. Has a wide power of attraction as it contains dramatic appeal of many angles.

"They're Off"

Anchor Film-State Rights—5 Reels

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

A PLEASING little racetrack drama is "They're Off," the first of a series of four, which will probably please the audiences it is intended to reach. Francis Ford, who wrote the story and directed, has made no attempt to turn out anything elaborate. It is one of those pictures apparently intended for the exhibitor who wants to rest up after big rentals and at the same time present something which is sufficiently interesting to satisfy his patrons. "They're Off" fills the bill here. No one will be bored by it; no one can be offended by it. It is as clean as they come; it has a pleasing, though not unusual story, and there is the ever-pleasing horse race sequence. The best feature of the picture is the acting of the new star, Peggy O'Day; the worst thing is the titling. Their attempts at humor are not very successful.

The pretty star is afforded a dual role, playing the part of a weathy young wife and her twin sister, a girl of the hills, from whom she has been separated since babyhood. The foolish young wife engages the girl to take her place while she follows the stage. The race track sequence is built up on the old, but none the less interesting situation of the villain who tries to keep the famous horse jockeyless at the time of the race.. There is good action here and fair suspense as the girl takes the jockey's place at the last moment and goes off under the wire a few yards behind her opponents. The race itself worked neatly up. Some nice long shots have been obtained and the finish furnishes excitement.

For the independent exchangeman, "They're Off" should prove an acceptable offering to give his exhibitors. It is not a "special," nor does it pretend in any way to be an elaborate, but granting the premise that racing pictures have an appeal, it is satisfactory entertainment. Francis Ford's admirers will find him aged a bit with the aid of a mustache. He wades through his dramatic scenes in the fine, virile manner of his serial days.

The Cast

Mrs. Blake / "Slats".....Peggy O'Day
John Blake.....Francis Ford

Story and direction by Francis Ford. Produced by Francis Ford.

The Story—"Slats" is a wild girl of the hills; her twin sister, whom she does not know, is the extravagant wife of a Southern gentleman, who is staking his all on his prize racehorse in the big handicap. The wife induces "Slats" to pose for her, while she temporarily follows a stage career. When the husband returns "Slats" discovers that the real wife has been killed in a theatre fire and that there is no way of proving she is not his wife. The villain, a half-brother, wounds the jockey, the only one able to ride the horse, just before the race, but "Slats," a skilled horsewoman, takes his place, frustrates the attempts to kill her, and wins the race. She confesses everything to the husband who realizes the sacrifices she has made, and the injustice he has done in believing her unfaithful.

Classification—A racetrack drama, the only comedy relief being offered by the titling.

Production Highlights—Some backstage, theatrical scenes, the escape of the girl and her ride to the racetrack; the race itself.

Exploitation Angles—The race track angle is the best to be played up. The idea is succinctly suggested in the title. Francis Ford will be remembered from his work in serials. The fact that a new star is being presented will interest picturegoers.

The Second Issue

of

The Booking Guide

will appear

This Month

Order Your Copy Now

"Whispering Women"

Clark-Cornelius-State Rights—4800 Feet

(Reviewed by D. J. Gest)

A PICTURE marked for its outdoor appeal—a picture carrying plenty of human interest despite the fact that its story has served the screen long and faithfully these many years is "Whispering Women." One may catalogue it as a crisp melodrama that contains plenty of the customary ingredients which compose the better than average western. It reveals a typical plot interspersed with some qualities which build suspense and a goodly amount of sympathy. The story really hinges upon a single situation but this moment is so fraught with melodramatic action that one has no time to hunt for plot shortcomings.

You can call it an interesting film of the open spaces with the thrills being offered through some vivid fights which the hero and his dog carry on with a wolf pack. You follow the husband and father, known as the lumber king, as he is called to camp on business. During his absence a mysterious stranger calls upon his wife and the title is explained when whispering women link their names together in an unpleasant light. The small talk reaches the lumberman and, as he starts home to investigate, he is attacked by a wolf pack. This is the punch scene and it suggests enough suspense to keep one on the anxious seat—especially when the man's youngsters are also in danger. The children had become lost in the woods.

A terific battle ensues before the distressed father is able to reach home and discover his wife falsely accused. The stranger's identity? He is a brother of the wife who, having committed a crime, came to her for help. The juvenile appeal is well emphasized and lifts the picture above the ordinary. "Whispering Women" is a dog picture too. Brindle, as he is known, pitches into the fray, kills one wolf, and drives off the others. He deserves stardom along with Larry Trimble's German shepherd who scored so conspiciously in "The Silent Call."

The Cast

David Hartley.....Walter Davis
Florence Hartley.....Esther Welty
Dolly.....Clara Heller
Bobby.....Everett Moran
"Blackie" Devoe.....George C. Welch
A fourth Hartley.....Brindle, a dog

Directed by James Keane.

The Story.—Outdoor story of the lumber camp with hero leaving wife and children to go to camp on business. During absence mysterious stranger appears at his home and his wife's name is linked unjustly. The head of the family, learning of the affair, hastens home and is attacked by a wolf pack. His life and the lives of his children, who had become lost in the woods, are saved through the timely aid of their dog, Brindle. The lumberman discovers that his wife is falsely accused.

Classification.—Melodramatic adventure story of Northwest, relying considerably upon heart interest, juvenile appeal and dramatic thrills. Carries romance.

Production Highlights.—Splendid work of juvenile players, Everett Moran and Clara Heller. The exceptional photography in catching the fight of the dog with the wolf pack. The excellent work of the dog, a truly natural actor. The fight, an outstanding feat in photography. The hero's discovery that gossip about his wife is false. The atmosphere.

Exploitation Angles.—Since this one carries a dog it will certainly lend an appeal everywhere. If you played "The Silent Call" your crowd would know what to expect. So the opportunity is here to capitalize upon the dog and the manner in which he fights for his master. Title carries some value. The fact that it is a rugged outdoor picture. The juvenile appeal will catch the youngsters.

Drawing Power.—This one will draw once you get your first crowd in. Word of mouth advertising will do it. But get the first crowd. This can be done by exploiting the dog. The animal should dominate your copy. Will draw in most any kind of locality—especially with the fans.

Reviews of Latest Short Subject Releases

"Oh, Promise Me!"

(Christie Comedy—Two Reels—Released Through Educational Exchanges)

THE Christie forces have made a comedy here that has a novel appeal, and one with which the exhibitor can do a whole lot in the way of exploitation. It is a picture that kids, in a gentle sort of way, the ex-service man. The American Legion posts can be brought into the theatres en masse.

The action centers about a Post in Los Angeles. Neal Burns is the hero. He announces to the buddys that he is going to be married, but the girl in the case thinks otherwise. So in order to make his bluff good, he cables for the French girl of his A. E. F. days. When the American sweetheart changes her mind, he finds himself engaged to two girls. So the pals, intent upon kidnapping the madamoiselle until after the ceremony, detain the wrong girl. The best title in the picture follows the shot of the bride-to-be speeding through the streets on a motorcycle, with her veil streaming out behind. "Here comes the bride," is the caption. The French girl finds another A. E. F. buddy and there is a double wedding.

The most fun comes from the hokum, not the story. The service men and a lot of others will enjoy the burlesque of military ceremonies as practised by the Legion men in their clubrooms. Then the Armistice Day parade in Los Angeles is worked in. Even Marshal Foch plays a part in the picture. He is shown in an automobile in a close-up. As it is done, there is no disrespect shown the great leader in making him a Christie comedy actor. This picture, announces Christie, was made with the cooperation of the American Legion post, and all the male members of the cast are ex-service men. It will be worth the exhibitor's while to remember this.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Pardon Me"

(Hal Roach Comedy-Pathe—One Reel)

THIS is a good satire on prison life with Snub Pollard putting over some amusing hokum in his efforts to be arrested. He attempts several ideas to locate behind the bars but faiis miserably because his actions are accepted as heroic feats. Then by accident the comedian is arrested and confined in the same cell with a notorious jewel robber. So it develops that the title must be explained and this happens when the governor visits the prison on a tour of inspection. He looks over the convicts and approaching one quite closely is brushed aside. Whereupon the crook says, "Pardon me." The governor, not to be outdone in politeness, replies, "Certainly." So the prisoner ceases work and runs for dear life. It is a good gag, because it comes unexpectedly, despite the fact that the scene has been well planted. Snub Pollard is batting a good average these days. "Pardon Me" is an amusing little trifle.—LAURENCE REID.

"The Bow Wows"

(Hal Roach Comedy-Pathe—One Reel)

YOU will find Snub Pollard in the role of a dog catcher here. The comedian doesn't work according to Hoyle. You don't discover him operating with a net but with a fish pole and a hunk of liver as bait. Marie Mosquini's father buys a new dog, but it runs away straight to the noble Nimrod. Snub takes the animal back home and incidentally starts a mild flirtation. The next sequence finds Marie entering her pet in the dog show, but a villain happens along and clips his hair. Snub is ingenious enough to hoodwink the judges. He places the dog through Marie's muff and the pet wins the prize. The comedy releases a fair sample of humor, containing as it does the usual amount of gags, some of which are entirely new.—LAURENCE REID.

"How to Grow Thin"

(Carl Anderson-Educational Films)

"HOW to Grow Thin" is just what its title describes it to be—a single-reeler designed to show triple-chinned, amply waist-lined ladies how to reduce and maintain a willowy appearance. The picture opens with an explanation of Nature's process of storing fat during the early years of babyhood to be used up during the more active periods of life. The explanatory sub-titles are interspersed with illustrative shots from life. Then that age—the early thirties—is reached when Heza Gobbler and Ima Gobbler "settle down" for life. "Buxom, blithe, and debonair"—but mostly buxom: that's Ma Gobbler. Mrs. Eaton Growthin, a friend of the Gobblers, also thirty-seven but of featherweight girth, appears on the scene and recommends that Ma Gobbler try Dr. Anderson's treatment for disposing of that surplus fat. The rest of the reel is a simple pictorial illustration of the methods followed out and the results secured.—E. F. SUPPLE.

"The People of Old Bruges"

(World Wandering Series—One Reel—Released Through Educational Exchanges)

QUAINT scenes of the lace-makers of Bruges—wrinkled old women, mostly, whose fingers move with lightening speed tracing the delicate design, constitute the outstanding feature of this World Wandering reel. Bruges is a Belgian city, in Flanders. There are also a number of good scenic shots, which illustrate very well the unique, old-world atmosphere of the reel. The cameraman has selected some interesting types of Belgians to pose for the scene. There are some children who will draw forth admiring "ahs" and "ohs" from the ladies of the audience.

"The People of Old Bruges" does not stand out as a very distinct novelty—the territory has been covered before by the camera—but it is a satisfactory offering for any high class program.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Little Miss Mischief"

(Century Comedy—Universal—Two Reels)

UNIVERSAL'S wonder child, the irrepressible Baby Peggy, is the star of "Little Miss Mischief," which takes her through many mischievous pranks. It is because of her ability to indulge in pranks to the discomfiture of her associates that she runs away from home. She has become jealous (a natural fancy) through the arrival of a baby brother. She instinctively feels that some of the attention showered upon her will be given to the tiny infant.

Once out in the world she is kidnapped by a junk dealer and put to work. There is some pleasant incident when she manages to fill her wagon with odds and ends by going in various yards at night and imitating the shrieks of a cat. Inasmuch as sleepers are awakened they naturally toss all manner of things at her. Baby Peggy returns home resolved to forget her jealousy. The comedy is good kid stuff and worthy of appreciation everywhere. There is no doubt of its success. The juvenile appeal is sound enough to score in every clime.—LAURENCE REID.

"Down and Out"

(Hal Roach-Pollard-Pathe—One Reel)

SNUB POLLARD is found in "Down and Out" as the caretaker of a peanut and fruit stand. The idea exploited here runs true to life for everyone knows that mischievous boys will steal the peanuts while the cop on the beat is sure to help himself to the fruit. Snub is perplexed. In fact he faces ruin unless he can stop the pilfering. So he obtains a policeman's uniform and raids his competitor's stand. He is doing nicely until he meets the real bluecoat and the inevitable chase follows.

This is the point to introduce Marie Mosquini, Pollard's leading woman. She accidentally spills Snub's peanut wagon for a goal, but in compensation aids him in eluding the officer. When he is taken to the "Mission House" the high jinks develop, revealing some snappy comedy hokum. The cop is finally arrested by Snub who shows the proper credentials. He is the prohibition officer of the district. "Down and Out" carries itself well, there being an ample line of good gags and some novel incidents.—LAURENCE REID.

"The Call of Courage"

(Universal—Western Drama—Two Reels)

THIS is a slight variation upon the western, insofar as it fails to depict a honky-tonk life in Alaska and also does away with the usual cowboy-bandit feud. Instead you follow the exciting adventures of a young newspaper reported who is searching for a feature story. The love interest centers around the personality of the daughter of a country newspaper editor—a man opposing the political crooks of the county. The reporter is held up by a bandit and forced to exchange clothing with him. Which of course complicates the situation, for he is unable to offer his true identity.

The plot revolves around an election campaign and the crooks are determined to prevent the publication of an article which would mean their political ruin. The hero is about to be arrested when he locates the bandit and his identification is complete. So he lends a willing hand to help the editor issue the extra which will frustrate the crooks. This has its influence in winning the girl's affection. "The Call of Courage" is a snappy western with a good amount of swift action, fair suspense and a pleasing vein of romance. It carries the typical backgrounds, atmosphere, and incident. Percy Pembroke and Laura La Plante are the stars of the offering.—LAURENCE REID.

ROBERT Z. LEONARD Presents

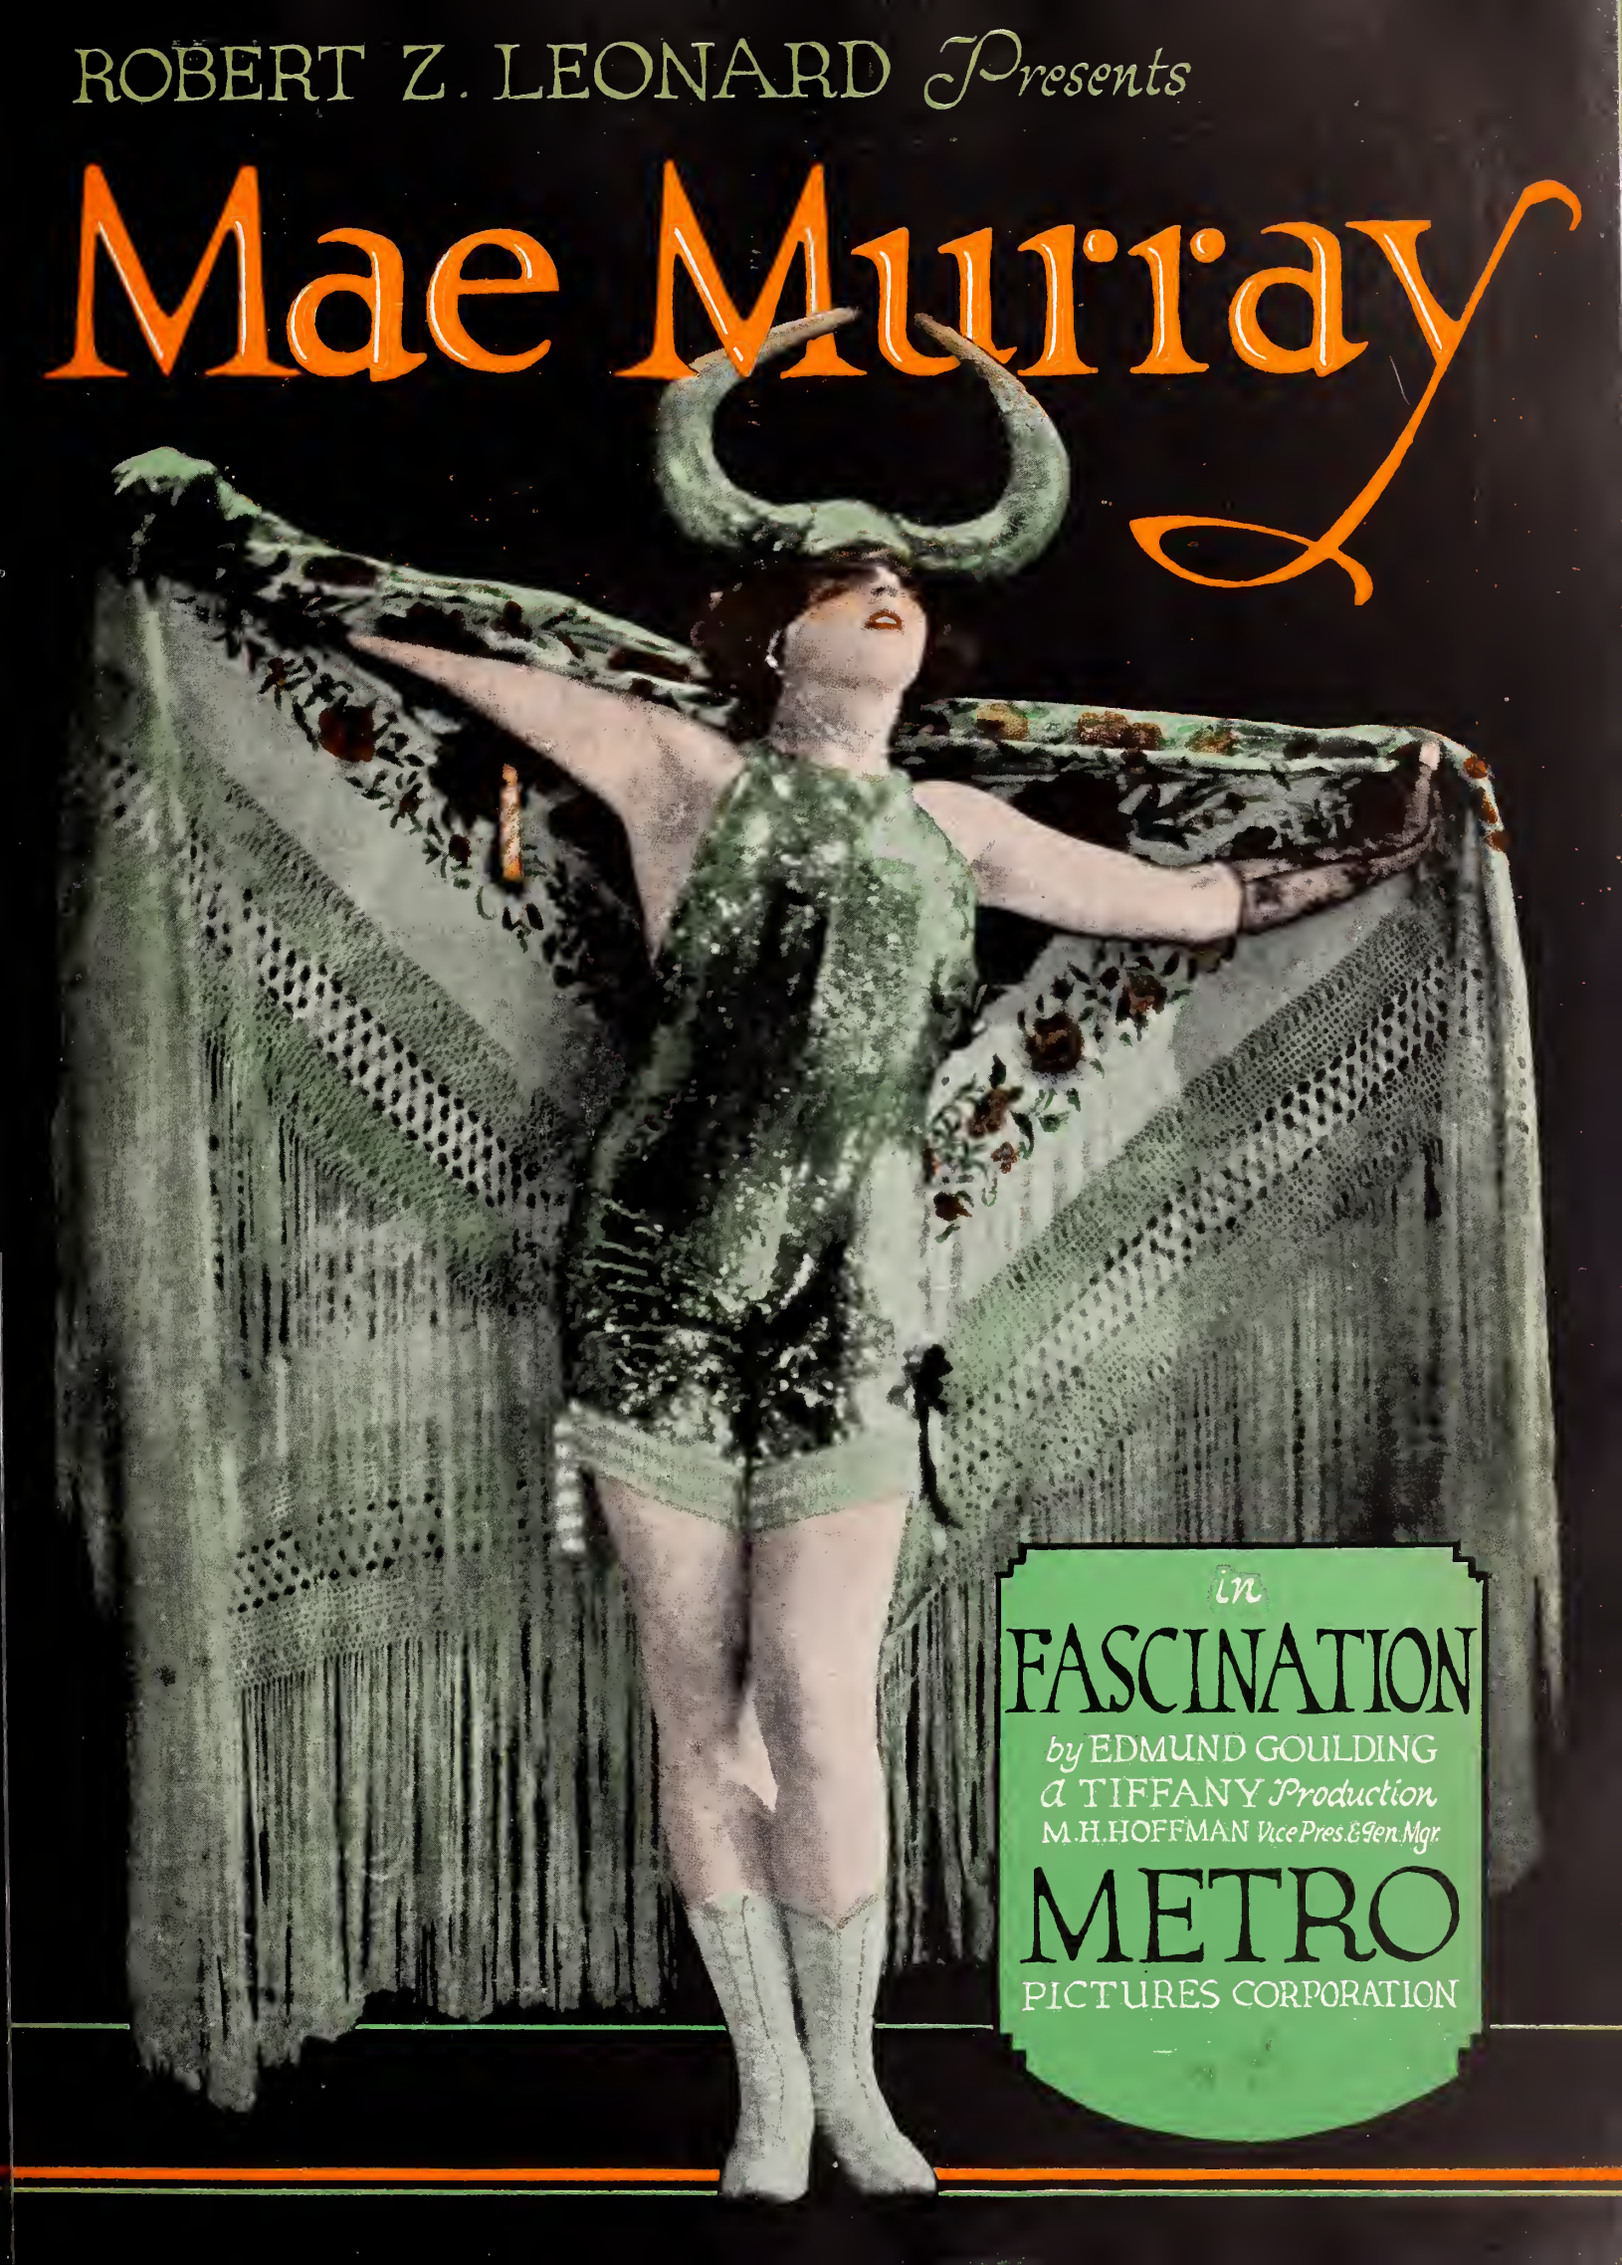
Mae Murray



in

FASCINATION

by EDMUND GOULDING

a TIFFANY Production

M. H. HOFFMAN Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

METRO

PICTURES CORPORATION

Your Patrons Will Want to Know the Answers to These:

What is the secret of
FASCINATION?

Can Men Resist
FASCINATION?

How do Women Learn
FASCINATION?

Have Good Girls Got
FASCINATION?

Can Clothes Create
FASCINATION?

Is Love the Same as FASCINATION?

Would You Surrender to
FASCINATION?

—And they'll fight to SEE "Fas-cin-ation!"

ADVANCE VIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

Live News From Producers

WHAT THE MAKERS SAY ABOUT PICTURES

Selznick News Covers Royal Wedding

UNUSUAL preparations marked Selznick's arrangements to cover the wedding of Princess Mary. Selznick News cameramen from Berlin, Rome and Paris were ordered to London for the event, according to word from the Selznick home office. The line of the procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey was dotted with cameramen, while the return route through Piccadilly was also lined with cameras.

From the collection of shots taken a careful selection has been made at the Selznick laboratories, and these views will be featured in issues of Selznick News that are immediately forthcoming. As a feature of the fashion section of Selznick News containing the wedding pictures, there will be shown a replica of Princess Mary's wedding gown and there will be reproduction of several items in her trousseau.

Wide Response to R-C Letter Competition

Thousands of letters have been received from all parts of the country in the R-C Picture competition for fifty prizes aggregating $1,000 for the fifty best letters written about R-C Pictures that the writers have seen.

The committee of judges is composed of William A. Johnston, president and editor of the Motion Picture News; Joseph Dannenberg, editor of Film Daily; and Bide Dudley of the New York Evening World editorial staff. The work will have reached a point within a few days so that the committee can read and study the best letters and reach a decision as to who the winners of the contest are. The names and addresses of the winners will be announced by the judges at an early date.

"Too Much Business" Is Vitagraph Comedy

"Too Much Business," a straight comedy in six reels, adapted from Earl Derr Biggers' original story in the Saturday Evening Post, "John Henry and the Restless Sex," has been acquired by Vitagraph.

The picture was made on the Coast under the direction of Jess Robbins. The cast includes Tully Marshall, Ethel Grey Terry, Edward Horton, John Steppling, Carl Gerard, Mark Senton, Tom Murray, Elso Lorimer, Helen Gilmore and others.

Hal Roach Augments Staff

Well-Known Comedy Directors and Cartoonists Are Added to Forces

THE Hal Roach organization, which produces at Culver City and releases its comedy product through Pathe, is augmenting its productin and writing staff. This announcement from the Pathe home-office is heralded as a forerunner to the introduction of several new comedy units to the Pathe releasing schedule.

Bob McGowan, William Beauline, Al Santell, and Gil Pratt, well-known comedy directors, have been added to the Hal Roach producing staff. Tom McNamara and C. H. "Duke" Wellington, two nationally known cartoonists, have been engaged to assist in the production of forthcoming comedies. George E. Reehm, who has originated a number of successful comedy features and is also known as a screen actor, has been added to the Hal Roach scenario staff.

Charles Parrott continues as supervising director of all the comedy production units with the exception of the Harold Lloyd company. Fred Newmeyer continues as Harold Lloyd's director.

William Beaudine will direct "Snub" Pollard. Al Santell and Gil Pratt will alternate in the direction of the "Paul" Parrott single-reel comedies, which will be released one a week.

Tom McNamara, creator of "Us Boys" comics, with their nationally known characters, Skinny Eaglebeak Spruder, et al, has been engaged to write the stories for a new series of children and animal comedies, which Bob McGowan is directing for release on the Pathe program.

C. H. "Duke" Wellington, cartoonist of "Pa's Son-in-Law" fame, is another important addition to the Roach staff. He will sit in on the production conferences as "gag" man.

All-Star Policy to Persist

Paramount Will Continue Practice Introduced in "Affairs of Anatol"

PARAMOUNT'S policy of putting as many well-known screen artists as possible in one picture has proved so successful that it has been decided to follow it indefinitely, according to a statement from that company. From now on, it will be the rule rather than the exception to present two or more recognized stars in the same picture.

The multiple star policy was launched with the production of Cecil B. DeMille's "The Affairs of Anatol," in which Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Agnes Ayres, Monte Blue, Bebe Daniels and others almost equally well known appeared. Then followed George Fitzmaurice's "Forever," with Elsie Ferguson, Wallace Reid, Elliott Dexter, Dolores Cassinelli, Montagu Love and George Fawcett; George Melford's "The Sheik," with Agnes Ayres and Rodolph Valentino, and "Moran of the Lady Letty," with Dorothy Dalton, Rodolph Valentino and Walter Long.

William de Mille recently completed "Bought and Paid For," adapted from George Broadhurst's play, and Jack Holt, Agnes Ayres and Walter Hiers appeared in the leading roles. He is now making preparations for the production of Rachel Crothers' "Nice People," in the cast of which will be seen Wallace Reid, Bebe Daniels and Wanda Hawley.

Sam Wood has just finished Elinor Glyn's "Beyond the Rocks," in which Gloria Swanson is supported by a stellar aggregation including Rodolph Valentino, June Elvidge, Mabel Van Buren. Alec B. Francis and others.

Thomas Meighan is now at work under the direction of Alfred Green in an original comedy by George Ade, "Our Leading Citizen," and with him will be seen Lois Wilson, William P. Carleton, Theodore Roberts, Laurence Wheat, former star of the stage, and others.

In George Melford's current production, "The Woman Who Walked Alone," Dorothy Dalton is featured, while the cast also includes such well-known screen players as Wanda Hawley, Milton Sills, Mabel Van Buren, John Davidson and Charles Ogle, while in Penrhyn Stanlaws' production, "Over the Border," two stars of the first magnitude, Betty Compson and Tom Moore, will be seen together.

Bebe Daniels and Jack Holt are being co-starred in "Val of Paradise," now in production under Joseph Henabery's direction, and Charles Ogle and Alec B. Francis are also in the cast. Finally, there is the Ibanez drama, "Blood and Sand," to feature Valentino and May McAvoy.

"Tol'able David" Goes Big Everywhere

First National reports that the success won by "Tol'able David" in New York, where it was first presented, is being duplicated in other big cities and towns across the length of the entire country. In support of its claim, First National submits a long list of laudatory comments made by newspaper reviewers in the various big localities where the picture has been shown. Excerpts from some of these reviews follow:

Philadelphia Inquirer: "The photoplay is a masterpiece of direction whose main virture is the effect of absolute simplicity and trueness to life which it makes on the spectator."

Atlanta Journal: "'Tol'able David' may be labeled one of the best pictures that has come to the Criterion theatre this year. It differs from the stereotyped movie thriller in that it has no eleventh-hour miracles to bolster up the happy ending—it is genuinely won."

Baltimore American: "'Tol'able David' is a fine film with a smashing climax."

Detroit Journal: "If you care for good acting, Richard Barthelmess in 'Tol'able David' should satisfy you completely. His screen adaptation of Joseph Hergesheimer's story is one of the really fine pictures of the year."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Here is a picture that builds to immeasurable heights. It never wavers. It is Barthelmess at his best, and the second best film in 1921."

Los Angeles Herald: "'Tol'able David' will provide the Kinema audiences with some fine bits of acting, human interest pathos and true-to-life characters, each of whom has been cast by an unerring director."

San Francisco Chronicle: "'Tol'able David,' the picture which is making a star of young Richard Barthelmess, is a thing to give one faith again in the screen and its possibilities.

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
COMING TO THE
MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
BROADWAY & 47th STREET

United Artists to Open New Offices Abroad

UNITED Artists report that the pressure of its European business makes necessary the opening in the near future of three more exchanges at Strasburg, at Bordeaux and at Nancy in France. An exchange will be opened in Rome within a month for distribution in Italy, and also one in Berlin for Germany.

Besides the general office for France located in Paris, United Artists now has branch offices in Marseilles, Lyons and Lille.

Offices have also been established in Bruxelles for the Belgian distribution, at Geneva for the Swiss territory, at Prague for Czecho-Slovakia, and in Barcelona for Spain and Portugal.. The Scandinavian countries are covered by offices at Stockholm, Christiania, and Copenhagen.

"Sunshine Harbor" Coming

Associated Exhibitors Announces Five-Reeler for April 2 Release

"SUNSHINE HARBOR" is the title of the next release of Playgoers Pictures. It is in five reels and is scheduled for release on April 2nd.

Margaret Beecher, a granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher and a grand-niece of Harriet Beecher Stowe, plays a prominent role in this picture. Though a newcomer to the screen, Miss Beecher is said to be a beauty of rare screen personality. "Sunshine Harbor" was produced and directed by Edward Hemmer from the story by Jerome N. Wilson. Beauty of settings, a heart-interest story, and several stirring incidents, including a rousing fist fight and a realistic fire scene, are among the features of the picture.

Playgoers Pictures declares that "Sunshine Harbor" should not be mistaken for a sea story, for, in reality, it is a dramatic recital of the career of a spirited Southern girl who becomes estranged from her father over the candidacy of a prospective husband, and who comes to New York to make her way as a newspaper girl. In "covering" a dangerous fire for one of her reporter pals who is suffering the after-effects of dissipation, she ventures too near the conflagration and is blinded by a sudden explosion of chemicals. Installed in a charming little apartment by the newspaper "boys," her radiant cheerfulness never fails her and hence the place became known to her friends as "Sunshine Harbor." At the end, when everything seems hopeless, her sight is restored by a delicate operation; her identity is established and she becomes reconciled to her father, who no longer opposes her love marriage to the boyhood sweetheart.

"Foolish Wives" Sets Record at Capitol

AFTER a Broadway run of seven weeks at the Central Theatre, "Foolish Wives," the Universal-Jewel million-dollar picture made by Erich von Stroheim, opened a week's run at the Capitol Theatre last Sunday by breaking all box-office records established for that theatre by big successes of the past. Between one o'clock in the afternoon when the theatre opened, and midnight, when it closed, 22,466 persons crowded their way into the auditorium to see "Foolish Wives."

The nearest approach to this great crowd was the showing made by "Passion," Pola Negri's premiere offering in America, which drew 17,000 into the Capitol on its opening Sunday. After leaving the Capitol Theatre, "Foolish Wives" will be booked immediately to exhibitors in the Metropolitan district. Its first showing probably will be at the Strand Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y., where it will be presented the week of March 19.

"Our Mutual Friend" Used in Campaign

The "Better Pictures Movement" was given a boost recently during the showing of Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend," a Gunning feature, at the Blue Mouse theatre, Minneapolis. The engagement of the picture was made the occasion of a city-wide Dickens' Week celebration, during which school teachers and leaders of civic organizations united to help sell tickets for the showing, department store advertised it at the head of their regular newspaper advertisements, and book-store tie-ups resulted in selling or putting into circulation every copy of the novel "Our Mutual Friend" in Minneapolis, it is declared.

The engagement of "Our Mutual Friend" was used to help a local school teachers' fund, and every teacher in the city turned salesman during its run, so that the house—at increased prices—was really sold out before the run commenced.

Elaine Hammerstein Vehicle Finished

The camera work on "Reckless Youth," fifth of the Elaine Hammerstein star series pictures to be made by the Selznick company, has just been completed. The production is now being edited and titled for release the latter part of March.

"Reckless Youth" is from a story by Cosmo Hamilton, the scenario having been prepared by Edward J. Montagne, Ralph Ince directed the production. Niles Welch appears as Miss Hammerstein's leading man and others in the company are Myrtle Stedman, Louise Pruessing, Huntley Gordon, Frank Currier, and Constance Bennett.

First Nat'l Studios Busy

Independents at Work on Future Releases Through First National

"FULL SPEED AHEAD" characterizes the situation in the independent studios where pictures are being made for release through Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Having completed "Pay Day," a two reeler, Charles Chaplin is now engaged in preparing to start work on its successor, but as usual has not announced what type it would be. "Pay Day"—in spite of its short length—required six months of the comedian's time. Edna Purviance plays opposite.

Norma Talmadge is now working on the second of the pictures planned for her by Producer Joseph M. Schenck. "Smilin' Through," the first of these, has been edited and delivered to the New York office of First National. It was given a pre-view showing at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last week. "The Duchess of Langeais" is the second of the series. Reports from the coast describe it as pretentious. The story is laid in old France, and the Palace of Versailles, noted as the architectural masterpiece of Europe, is used as the setting. Its exterior and portions of the interior, including the grand ballroom, were reproduced in Hollywood for the filming of the play, following some of the most rigid research work ever attempted. In the ballroom scene 1,000 players appear, each one of them in the costume of the time.

In course of editing is "The Masquerader," produced by Richard Walton Tully and starring Guy Bates Post, who covered the country with the stage version of the play for many years, under the management of Mr. Tully.

"One Clear Call," a John M. Stahl production is now in the cutting room at the Louis B. Mayer studios. More than 200,000 feet of film were shot, and Mr. Stahl is now engaged in the task of shaving the footage down to seven reels. The story is laid in Alabama, and the cast includes Henry B. Walthal, Milton Sills, Claire Windsor and Irene Rich.

At the same studio Director Fred Niblo has finished the cutting of "The Woman He Married" and is now engaged in editing "Rose o' the Sea," both of them starring Anita Stewart. Allen Holubar, the creator of "Man - Woman - Marriage," is now filming the final scenes for "The Soul Seeker," starring Dorothy Phillips.

Tom Mix Finishes "The Fighting Streak"

Tom Mix has just finished "The Fighting Streak" for Fox at Hollywood. It is an adaptation of "Free Range Lanning," by George Owen Baxter, and was directed by Arthur Rosson.

Joseph De Grasse Will Direct Chas. Ray

Announcement is made by Arthur S. Kane, of the Charles Ray producing organization, that Joseph de Grasse has been engaged to direct Mr. Ray in his first production for United Artists Corporation. Mr. de Grasse directed the star in "The Old Swimmin' Hole," "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," and "Nineteen and Phyllis."

Mr. Ray announces a plan of "fewer, bigger and finer" pictures and states that in the future he may cut his productions to two pictures a year.

"Ruling Passion" Goes Big in Philadelphia

Ushered in by the personal appearance of George Arliss on the opening night of the engagement, "The Ruling Passion," starring Arliss, did a record business at the Aldine theatre, Philadelphia. M. E. Flet, manager of the Aldine, has applied to the United Artists home office for a return date. In the course of his letter to the United Artists office, Mr. Flet says:

"George Arliss in 'The Ruling Passion' was acclaimed as one of the finest pictures ever produced," said Mr. Flet's message, "and did a bigger business at the Aldine theatre than that of any week except our opening."

Mae Murray Completes "Fascination"

Mae Murray this week completed camera work on her new Tiffany production, "Fascination," which will be released by Metro on March 27, presented by Robert Z. Leonard. The picture is now being cut by Mr. Leonard, who directed it, at Tiffany Studios, West Forty-fourth street, New York.

The cast includes Helen Ware, Creighton Hale, Robert W. Frazer, Courtenay Foote, Charles Lane, Vincent Coleman, Emily Fitzroy, and Francis Puglia.

HOLD UP YOUR BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS
BOOK PERCY & FERDIE
HALLROOM COMEDIES

BUCK MIX
PRODUCTIONS, INC.

A scene from "Fire Bride" on the Gunning release schedule

Coming Jewel Productions

Three Big Features Are Already Completed; Three More Starting

HAVING made plans to release Priscilla Dean in "Wild Honey" and Harry Carey in "Man to Man" this Spring with the possibility of putting out one more Jewel during the summer, Carl Laemmle now at Universal City has turned his attention to the production of Jewel pictures for the fall. Mr. Laemmle is undecided whether to put out eight or twelve Jewels for the season of 1922-1923, but whether it will be eight or twelve, Universal is in a particularly advantageous position as far as the first six are concerned. Three of them already entirely completed and three are either in work or in preparation at Universal City.

Those completed are "The Storm," "Lass o' Lowrie's," and "Human Hearts." House Peters stars in "The Storm," a picturized version of Langdon McCormick's and George Broadhurst's famous New York theatre success. "The Storm" is Reginald Barker's first production for Universal, and Universal gave him carte blanche to make the picture as big and important as the original production. Prominent in the cast of "The Storm," headed by House Peters, are Matt Moore, Virginia Valli, Josef Swickard, James Alamo, Leonard Clapan, Frank Lanning, Gordon McKee, Jean Perkins.

Priscilla Dean in "Lass o' Lowrie's" is a picturized version of Frances Hodgson Burnett's famous story of the Lancashire coast mines. Priscilla Dean plays one of the most powerful roles ever given to her. The production was directed by Hobart Henley and prominent in the cast are Robert Ellis, Wallace Beery, Beatrice Bernham, Katherine McGuire, Fred Kohler Frank Lee and Emmet King.

House Peters plays the famous role of Tom Logan in "Human Hearts," and others in the exceptional cast are Russell Simpson, George Hackthorne, Edith Hallor, Ramsey Wallace, Mary Philbin, Gertrude Claire, and George West. The production was made by King Baggot.

The three productions on which work is starting at the present time are as follows: "The Suburban Handicap," based on Charles T. Dazey's old time stage melodrama; Booth Tarkington's most popular novel, "The Flirt," and Priscilla Dean "Under Two Flags."

"Polly of the Follies" in Private Showing

"Polly of the Follies" a Constance Talmadge production released through Associated First National, was given a private screening before the members and guests of the Forest Hills Association at their regular meeting in Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., on February 23rd. The picture won much praise for its entertainment qualities.

Several days prior to the showing home-made posters were tacked up in the local railroad station and stores, announcing that "Polly of the Follies" would be the feature at the meeting. As a result, the entire community turned out, packing the auditorium of the schoolhouse, where the meeting was held, to capacity.

"Ten Seconds" Finished by Lee Moran

Lee Moran's newest Century comedy production ttled "Ten Seconds" has just been completed under the direction of Fred Hubbard. Bartine Burkett appears opposite the star in this subject. Miss Burkett is a screen beauty who has appeared in supporting casts of Mary Pickford, Katherine MacDonald, Buster Keaton, and William Desmond. "Ten Seconds" is a story of the prize ring, and the ring scenes are said to show Moran in some real fast action. Bud Jamison, the two hundred and fifty pound comedian, is also cast in an important role.

"Fire Bride" Premiere

Contract for Gunning Series Said to Be Coming in From All Sections

"THE FIRE BRIDE," the initial release of The Entertainment Series of ten pictures to be distributed through the Gunning Organization, will be given a first-run showing at B. S. Moss's Broadway theatre, New York City, starting March 13, according to an announcement from the Gunning office.

From inquiries received and bookings already made, it is understood that the Entertainment Series will be shown generally in first-runs throughout the country, following the lead of B. S. Moss in the East. The pictures released under the banner of The Entertainment Series will be released at the rate of two a week, starting on March 15. "The Madness of Love" is coupled with "The Fire Bride" in the first week's output.

The announcement of the new series, it is said by the Gunning office, has met with a ready response throughout the country from exhibitors. Contracts are reported to have been received from every part of the country covering the entire series.

"The Fire Bride" was produced in its entirety in the South Seas on famous Tahiti. It was directed by Art Rosson, who has to his credit many big hits, including the direction of productions starring Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford and others, and was produced by W. F. Alder and S. M. Unander.

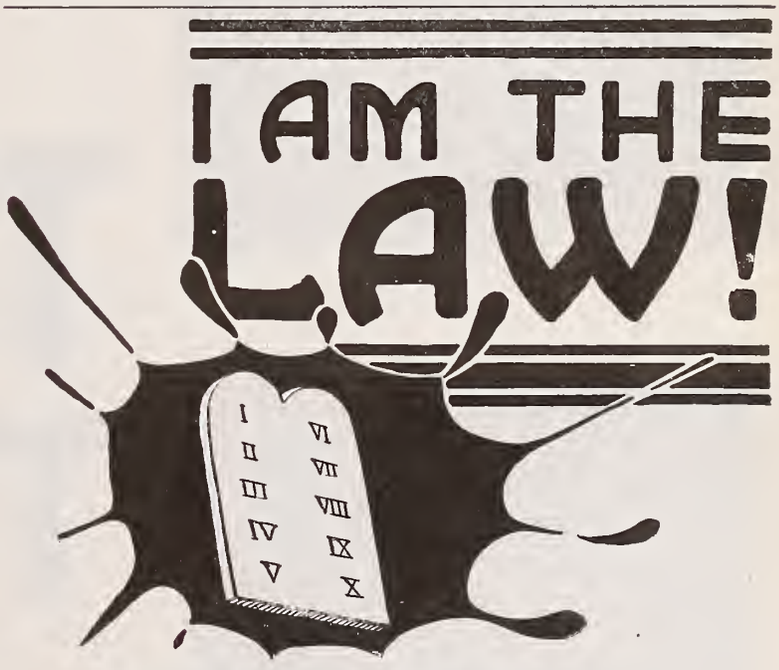
In the cast of "The Fire Bride" are Ruth Reneck, formerly with Paramount and Hampton productions; Walt Whitman, Fred Stanton, and Edward Hearn. These principals, with technical men and directors, spent several months in the South Sea Islands, during the "Shooting" of "The Fire Bride." All the extras used in the picture are South Sea natives.

Silas F. Seadler Joins Goldwyn Staff

Silas F. Seadler, well known in the motion picture field first as a member of the Realart publicity department and more recently as director of advertising and publicity for Arthur S. Kane, has joined the Goldwyn staff, under the direction of Howard Dietz, director of advertising and publicity. Mr. Seadler's particular work will be the preparation of press books.

"French Heels" Scores in Detroit Capitol

The Hodkinson home office reports that its release, "French Heels," starring Irene Castle, played to record business at Asher's big Capitol theatre in Detroit during the recent week's engagement of the picture at this house. Each individual day's receipts at the Capitol during the week is reported to have established new records.



The Biggest Attraction the Independent Market Has Ever Had

AFFILIATED
DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
C. C. BURR, Pres.
133-135-137 West 44th St.
New York City, N. Y.

CHARLES HUTCHISON

The Thrill-A-Minute Stunt King

Produced and Directed

THRILLS THRILLS

Pathéserial

in

"GO-GET-'EM HUTCH"

The Mile-A-Minute Pathéserial

by George B. Seitz

CENSOR-PROOF

Pathéserial

TRADE MARK

"Sisters" Set for Release

Albert Capellani Production Is Acquired by American Releasing

THE American Releasing Corporation announces that it has acquired for distribution the International Film Service Company's production titled "Sisters." This picture was directed by Albert Capellani and presents an all-star cast, including Seena Owen, Matt Moore and Gladys Leslie.

The release date is set for April 2nd. The American Releasing office states that on that date the picture will open in many of the larger cities of the country, supported by extensive publicity and advertising in the William Randolph Hearst newspapers. The plans for bringing this picture to the attention of the public is reported to include the publication in serial form of the story in the Hearst newspapers of Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Milwaukee and Washington.

"Sisters" has been completed and is ready for the laboratory, enabling American Releasing to place prints in all of its nation-wide exchange system early in March and giving all the first-run accounts practically a month in which to take the fullest advantage of the exploitation opportunities that the story possesses.

Extended run engagements are being booked in these cities, as well as many others, declares the American Releasing headquarters.

World-wide distribution rights to "Sisters" are controlled by American Releasing, and the character of the story and publication of the novel abroad pave the way for its great commercial success in foreign countries.

A scene from "Sisters," to be issued by the American Releasing Corporation

"Reckless Youth" Said to Be Unusual Film

According to word from the Selznick home-office, more than ordinary time and attention is being devoted to the production of Elaine Hammerstein's new picture titled "Reckless Youth." Special construction and mechanical preparations are said to have involved time and labor to an unusual degree, and Ralph Ince, who is directing Miss Hammerstein, is out to make this picture the best photoplay the star has appeared in of late. Niles Welch appears opposite Miss Hammerstein, while Huntley Gordon, Frank Currier, Myrtle Steadman, and Louise Preussing are cast in important roles.

"The Mistress of the World" Is Opened

PARAMOUNT'S big European series of four feature productions, "The Mistress of the World," directed by Joseph May and featuring Mia May, one of Europe's foremost screen actresses, opened Sunday at both the Rialto and Rivoli theatres in New York and simultaneously in leading first run houses throughout the country. The first picture is titled "The Dragon's Claw," and it will be followed next week by "The Race for Life."

In this massive spectacular series twenty thousand people were employed. Of these, many were negroes and several thousand were Chinese, all appearing in the first two pictures, "The Dragon's Claw" and "The Race for Life." The estimated cost of production is said by Paramount to approximate $1,200,000. During the filming of the story a total length of 300,000 feet of negative is reported to have been exposed.

Big Booking Accorded Great Authors Series

One of the biggest bookings on short features ever recorded, according to an announcement from the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, is a day and date booking on "Great American Authors Series" in three Boston theatres for a run of twelve consecutive weeks. The theatres are the Park, Modern and Beacon. All three houses are under the management of Jake Lourie.

The Great American Authors Series, reproduced by Mr. Charles Urban for the Kineto Company of America, and distributed by W. W. Hodkinson, consists of a series of twelve one-reel stories woven around the lives of such famous writers as Whittier, Irving, Poe, Holmes, Bryant, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Twain, Cooper, Lowell, Emerson and Whitman.

Cassinelli Will Have Company of Her Own

Announcement is made that the Star Productions Company will hereafter be known as Cassinelli Pictures, Inc. Tom Terriss is now directing "The Challenge," starring Dolores Cassinelli, under the auspices of this organization. Mr. Terriss spent the first part of last week shooting exterior for this subject at Elizabethtown, N. Y., where some mountain-climbing sequences were filmed.

New Hugo Ballin Film Is Announced

"Other Women's Clothes" is announced as the title of the forthcoming Hugo Ballin-W. W. Hodkinson production which was originally titled "The Luxury Tax." The story was written by Ethel Donoher. The scenario and the titles are by Hugo Ballin. Mabel Ballin is the featured player. The cast includes Crauford Kent, Raymond Bloomer, Aggie LaField, May Kitson, William H. Straus and Rose Burdick. The picture is tentatively set for early April release.

Goldwyn Studio Is Activ

Two New Pictures Are Under Way, Including One by Rupert Hughes

ACTIVITY at Goldwyn's Culver City studios is increasing. In addition to the filming of Basil King's new photoplay, "The Dust Flower," and the finishing touches which are being put to Anzia Yezierska's "Hungry Hearts" and Rupert Hughes' "Remembrance," in the laboratories, work has been begun on two new photoplays.

One of these is by Rupert Hughes and has been adapted from his own short story called "Bitterness of Sweets." The author will direct this picture. The second story on which production has been started is the film version of Peter B. Kyne's story, "Brothers Under the Skin," a tale of society life in contrast with life among the bourgeois in New York.

Casting Director Robert B. McIntyre, Vice President Abraham Lehr, in charge of production, and Rupert Hughes are now casting "Bitterness of Sweets," and Cedr Gibbons, art director, is devotir all his attention to this productio

Other pictures on which the sc nario and continuity staffs at tl Goldwyn studios are at work, pr paratory to early filming, a Gouverneur Norris' next pictur "Always Warm and Green," Charl Kenyon's new original screen stor "Fame," three stories by Care Wilson, a new Goldwyn autho "Captain Blackbird," a tale of th South Seas, "Women Love Dia monds," a New York three-episod drama, and "This Way Out," story of average salared people i New York; "Summons," a ne western melodrama by Katharin Newlin Burt, a film version o Kathleen Norris' new novel, "Sis, and a new version of Hall Caine' novel, "The Christian," prepared b Charles Kenyon and O. K.'ed by th author.

Fox Buys Popular Novels

"Splendid Outcast," "Trooper O'Neil" and "Alcatrez" Purchased

WILLIAM FOX announces the purchase of three more popular stories for screen adaptation during 1922.

"The Splendid Outcast," by George Gibbs, will be used as a vehicle for John Gilbert. "Trooper O'Neil," from the pen of George Goodchild, has been purchased with the intention of making it a Charles Jones' picture. It is a northwest story. Tom Mix will be starred in the third "Alcatrez" written by Max Brand. "Alcatrez" is a story of romance and adventure well suited for the work characteristic of the virile Mix, it is asserted.

Fox Film Corporation has also secured the screen rights to "If Winter Comes," probably the biggest fiction seller of the year, and the book will be made into a motion picture before next autumn. Several companies were in the market for the A. S. M. Hutchinson novel, but the contract was signed by Fox and the author about the middle of February.

The theme is taken from Shelley's line, "If winter comes can spring be far behind?" in the "Ode to the West Wind." A. S. M. Hutchinson, the author, has written several successes. Among them are "Once Aboard the Lugger," "The Happy Warrior" and "The Clean Heart."

"If Winter Comes" will be made into a big special production, but the Fox company has not decided who will be the star or who will direct it.

George Rose and Ethel Broadhurst in "High Tide," a Pathe-Roach comedy

Pathe's March 19 Releases

"Loaded Dice" Playlet Starring Frank Keenan Heads the Schedule

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC., announces that the next Pathe playlet, "Loaded Dice," starring Frank Keenan, will head the array of short subject features and the one serial episode scheduled for release the week of March 19th. "Loaded Dice" is an adaptation by Gilson Willets of the novel by Ellery H. Clarke. Among those supporting Frank Keenan are Guy Coombs, Florence Billings, Alice Hollister and Madeline Marshall.

"Win or Lose" is the twelfth episode of the new Pathe serial, "White Eagle," in which Ruth Roland is starred. "Hey There" is the title of the current re-issued one-reel comedy starring Harold Lloyd. The offering gives an insight into the workings of a motion-picture studio and furnishes plenty of opportunities for the Lloydian brand of humor.

"The Farmer and the Ostrich" is the next animated cartoon of the series of "Aesop's Film Fables." "High Tide" is the latest Hal Roach comedy featuring a group of the funniest comedians of the Roach Studio. The offering shows the tribulations of a group of adventurers and castaways when they arrive on a cannibal island.

Pathe Review No. 147 features a Pathe slow motion novelty, "The Jiu Jitsu Girl," in which a girl athlete demonstrates the different holds of the Japanese form of wrestling. Other subjects included in the current issue of the screen magazine are: "Little Things in Holland," giving an intimate glimpse of the Dutch kiddies; "Six-Foot Art," in which Max Bohm of the National Academy submits to a camera interview; "The Free-Lunch Trees" showing two of Florida's best bets; and "The Sapphire Cities of Italy," a Pathecolor study in beauty.

Bebe Daniels in "A Game Chicken," a Realart-Paramount Picture

Bernheim Business Manager at Universal City

Julius Bernheim has been appointed business manager at Universal City by Carl Laemmle. He will work under the immediate supervision of Irving G. Thalberg.

First-Run Houses Book "Come On Over"

GOLDWYN'S early release of the latest Rupert Hughes comedy, "Come On Over," a tale of Irish characters and Irish humor both in Ireland and in New York, which is being got ready for initial showings St. Patrick's day week, is being backed in many big theatres for that week.

Alfred E. Green directed the photoplay with the author as consultant and adviser. Colleen Moore, who triumphed so notably in Mr. Hughes' previous picture, "The Wall Flower," just released, has the leading role. Ralph Graves, the hit of Griffith's "Dream Street," plays opposite her. The cast is a big one and the comedy Irish and amusing.

"Come On Over" will be shown at the Capitol theatre, New York, the week beginning March 12th.

"The Sheik's Wife" Opening

Vitagraph Special Wins High Praise from New York Dailies

PRECEDED by a colorful prologue staged by Joseph Plunkett, "The Sheik's Wife," a Vitagraph picture, opened its New York run at the Strand theatre on March 5th. "The Sheik's Wife" is a special French production, filmed in the locales called for in the story.

The New York newspapers all awarded the feature complimentary reviews. "This is something different in the way of a story about the desert," stated the New York Times. "The photography is uniformly splendid, even in the half lights," said the Herald. The New York Mail called it "a foreign picture that takes rank with the best that have been imported into this country from the standpoint of excellence of production, photography, and faithfulness to detail and action."

"This is a French picture filmed in Arabia and now we know why the Arabian romances made in Hollywood left us quite cold," wrote the Globe's critic, "for the Mojave is the Mojave and the Sahara is the Sahara and never the twain shall meet, even in the most elaborate of our native 'superpictures.'

"This atmosphere is real with its ancient city gate and its caravans and its vistas of palm trees. Even the camels recognize the difference and hump themselves over their native sands as they never did over the studio lots. The French director understands his material and gets the full dramatic value from its lights and shadows."

A scene from "Come On Over," Rupert Hughes' new picture for release through Goldwyn. Colleen Moore is featured

Hundreds of Extras in Battle Scenes

A feature of Wallace Reid's new picture for Paramount release, titled "The Dictator," will be its unusually large cast. The story written by Richard Harding Davis concerns a South American revolution, and in the scenes recently taken in the extreme southern portion of California eleven hundred extras were added to the original party of one hundred for the staging of the battle waged between the federal and rebel forces. Nine hundred guns and hundreds of nondescript uniforms had to be assembled for the scenes. James Cruze is directing this picture. Lila Lee is Mr. Reid's leading woman.

Mary Carr Completes Tour; Back at Studio

Mary Carr has returned from personal appearance journeys to Buffalo, N. Y., and Charleston and Huntington, W. Va. Mrs. Carr has resumed work at the Fox studios in New York under the direction of Harry Millard.

Paramount's Releases for March 12th

IN addition to "The Race for Life," the second production of the spectacular UFA series, "The Mistress of the World," the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation announces three other productions for release March 12. These are Wallace Ried in "The World's Champion" and Gloria Swarson in "Her Husband's Trademark," both Paramount pictures, and Wanra Hawley in the Realart picture, "Bobbed Hair."

Philip E. Rosen directed Wallace Ried in "The World's Champion," which is an adaptation of the successful stage play, "The Champion," by Thomas Louden and A. E. Thomas. The characters, all English types, are said to provide a wealth of rare humor. Lois Wilson is leading woman while Lionel Belmore, Henry Miller, Jr., Helen Dunbar, W. J. Ferguson, Guy Oliver and S. J. Sanford round out a well-balanced cast.

"Her Husband's Trademark," starring Gloria Swanson, was directed by Sam Wood. The story was written by Clara Beranger and Lorna Monn wrote the scenario. The cast includes Stuart Holmes, Richard Wayne, Lucien Littlefield, Clarence Burton, Charles Ogle and Edythe Chapman.

Hector Turnbull wrote the story for "Bobbed Hair," and Thomas Heffron directed.

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
COMING TO THE
MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
BROADWAY & 47th STREET

Brochure for Bruce Series

Rotogravure Booklet on "Wilderness Tales" Now Being Prepared

A BEAUTIFUL sixteen-page brochure, to be printed in rotogravure, is being prepared by Educational to give exhibitors an idea of the beauty of the new series of pictures by Robert C. Bruce, called "Wilderness Tales." The first of the series, "And Women Must Weep," had its premiere at the Capitol theatre in New York recently, and the rest of the series will follow one a month.

There will be very little reading matter in the brochure. What little there is will be superimposed on beautiful scenic pictures, and will be incidental to the photographic art. The front cover will be a large lake scene from "My Country," one of the forthcoming releases of the series, which is "an appreciation of the Facific Northwest." A splendid sunset scene taken on the coast of Oregon for "And Women Must Weep," will provide the back cover.

An announcement of the series by E. W. Hammons, president of Educational Films, and an invitation to exhibitors to have the pictures screened for them, will be included in the booklet. Brief excerpts from the comments in the latest issue of the National Board of Review's publication Exceptional Photoplays will also be presented.

Thirteen thousand copies of this sixteen-page brochure will be printed on the first edition and will be sent free to motion picture exhibitors throughout the United States and Canada.

The staff of the First National Exchange of Kansas City. Manager E. C. Rhoden at the extreme right

Tod Browning to Direct "Under Two Flags"

"Under Two Flags" will be a Universal-Jewel super-special. Priscilla Dean will star in this international romance by Ouida, supported by a cast of stellar quality and directed by the man who guided her in "Outside the Law." Tod Browning.

Browning is reading the scenario prepared by E. T. Lowe, Jr., and studying suitable types. He has been authorized to make this Priscilla Dean's biggest venture.

Irvin Willat to Direct Paramount Special

According to an announcement made by Jesse L. Lasky at Hollywood, Irvin Willat has been engaged to direct a special production for Paramoun with Dorothy Dalton, which has the tentative title, "The Chattel."

Mr. Willat will be remembered by screen patrons for his splendid work in directing two Thomas H. Ince productions for Paramount, "Behind the Door" and "Below the Surface," both starring Hobart Bosworth.

Big Sea Comedy Being Done by Christie

The Christie studios will release a comedy in the near future featuring Neal Burns, which is being filmed by Scott Sidney with some wonderful settings from a point of view of realism in production. The story is that of a romance on an ocean liner with scenes of a fire at sea at night.

Those who have seen the early flashes of the "night stuff" in the picture declare it is equal to anything of the kind done in any recent feature picture of a sea locale. Neal Burns, Josephine Hill, Alice Maison and Henry Murdock will be in the picture, which has a temporary title, "Any Old Port."

Stock Company for the Brooklyn Alhambra

Michael Glynne, of Ward and Glynne, intends installing a stock company at his Alhambra theatre, Halsey Street and Knickerbocker Avenue, Brooklyn, beginning March 20th. The opening attraction will be "Polly with a Past." Three matinees will be given and on Sunday the theatre will show vaudeville and pictures. The price scale will probably be 75 cents top.

The theatre, which is a 1,700 seat house, is now showing vaudeville and pictures, under the management of George E. Kann, who will continue in charge. Ward and Glynne, in addition to the Alhambra, operate the Astoria in Astoria, Long Island, and the Century in Brooklyn.

Views of Popocatepetl Crater in Fox News

Fox News has secured views of Mt. Popocatepetl, the world's highest active volcano, which is situated in Mexico. The pictures, which were taken by Fox News caameraman W. S. Heltzen from an aeroplane, reveal a series of close-ups of the belching crater which is more than a half-a-mile wide. The close-ups were secured at considerable risk, it is declared.

Von Stroheim Preparing for New Production

Erich Von Stroheim, director of "Foolish Wives," arrived unexpected at Universal City this week and is busy selecting a cast for a production he has in mind. Nothing has as yet been announced by Universal in regard to Von Stroheim's next production.

A scene from "Elope If You Must," a William Fox picture, starring Eileen Percy

Ten Reasons Why—

There are ten outstanding reasons why AMERICAN FILM printing is best.

Men long trained in doing best what others do well guarantee the very best possible results from your negatives.

Our immense capacity enables us to render prompt service all over the world.

Quantity production makes it possible for us to do better work at no greater cost.

Prove our claims! Let us handle your next order.

Developing Toning
Printing Editing
Tinting Titling

Ordinary film reduced to American Standard Safety Size.

(Absolutely fireproof film passed by all fire underwriters.)

Laboratory Capacity One Million Feet Per Week.

American Film Company
Inc.
Laboratories
6229 Broadway
Chicago, Ill.
and London, England
Samuel S. Hutchinson
President

American 10 Points:

1.—QUALITY. Prints known for brilliancy and clearness. Expert staff, trained by years of experience, assures highest quality prints obtainable.
2.—REPUTATION. Gained in 10 years of experience.
3.—RESPONSIBILITY. A concern of strong financial standing.
4.—LOCATION. In the proper geographical location, assuring quick delivery anywhere.
5.—EQUIPMENT. All of the most modern obtainable.
6.—CLEANLINESS. Within two blocks of Lake Michigan. Away from dirt and dust.
7.—SAFETY. Plant approved by City of Chicago and Board of Fire Underwriters.
8.—PROMPTNESS. Accustomed to serve exacting requirements.
9.—PRICES. Reasonable and competitive.
10.—GUARANTEES. Write for our unique guarantee of quality work.

TERRITORIAL SALES AND PURCHASES

In the Independent Field

STATE RIGHT AND EXPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

Amalgamated Franchise for Ben Amsterdam

WHILE Franklyn E. Backer of East Coast Productions, distributing Amalgamated productions through franchises with independent exchanges, is visiting franchise holders while returning to New York from his trip to Los Angeles, news comes from his offices that the franchise for Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern Jersey territory has been secured by Ben Amsterdam of Masterpiece Film Attractions in Philadelphia.

Mr. Amsterdam is launching the first two subjects of the Co-Star Series immediately, so that the special subjects, "Ashes" and "Any Night," will be shown in the Pennsylvania territory as rapidly as bookings can be arranged. These pictures will be followed by the third of the set, "The Greater Duty."

See Improvement in Middle West

W. E. Shallenberger, President of the Arrow Film Corporation, returned on Monday from a trip taking in some of the principal cities of Ohio, Illinois and Michigan. He reports that conditions among the exchange men and exhibitors are steadily improving and that it is anticipated that the next two months will show marked improvement in the State Right field.

Dr. Shallenberger stopped off at Columbus and Detroit to look over the "Ten Nights" showing in these cities and was delighted with the successful run of this picture in both of these places where it was then in its second week in each place.

Morante Plans to Add New Producing Unit

With the promise of brighter market conditions in the Independent field, the Morante Producing Company, operating in Long Beach, California, announces the plan of starting a second feature unit to make feature comedy dramas. Tom Gibson has been secured to direct the new unit. A woman star will be featured. To the end of closing distributing arrangements, General Manager F. D. Fowler has gone to New York. The States Rights plan of distribution will in all likelihood be chosen.

The Morante Company is at present producing a series of eight Northwest Mounted Police stories, in which the "stunt" star, George Chesebro, is being featured.

New Vera Gordon Picture

Broadway Premiere to Be Given "Your Best Friend" by Warners

THE premiere presentation of "Your Best Friend," starring Vera Gordon, a Harry Rapf production distributed by Warner Brothers, will be given in the near future at one of the Broadway, New York, theatres by the Federated Film Exchange, according to an announcement.

The Federated Exchange, formerly known as Warner's Exchange, has secured the exclusive territorial rights for Greater New York and Northern New Jersey for the Rapf Productions. The Warner organization will cooperate in putting over a sweeping publicity and exploitation compaign prior to and during the showing of the picture.

"Your Best Friend" is said to reveal Miss Gordon at her best. She plays the part of a mother who gives and loves and sympathizes with her two sons, endeavoring always to remain with them in spirit and feeling, when its brightest, warmest or otherwise.

In the supporting cast are Belle Bennett, Beth Mason, Harry Benham, Stanley Price and Dore Davidson. Will Nigh wrote and directed the production, and James Diamond photographed it. Mr. Nigh was assisted in the direction by James Chapin.

Ten Geo. Hamilton Pictures

"Give Me My Son" Is First Release; Policy of New Company Announced

GEORGE H. HAMILTON, president of George H. Hamilton, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., who was successful last year in obtaining one hundred per cent distribution of "The Son of Tarzan," "Kazan," and "The Mask," has formed his new company and this week announces his policy.

"Heretofore," said Mr. Hamilton, "the State Right market has been looked upon as a dumping ground for pictures not good enough to be sold to big distributing companies. When a picture was offered on the State Right market the underlying idea of its owners was to squeeze every last cent possible from the territorial buyers. This included not only the price of the picture but all accessories as well.

"Another prevalent practice was to boost the price of the picture anywhere from forty to fifty per cent for the simple reason that sixty per cent of the teritory can usually be sold without a great deal of effort. Therefore the State Right distributor figured that he must get his profits out of that sixty per cent. The result of this ruinous practice has been to leave the State Right market weak and staggering.

"However, there is one outstanding fact, that the keen observer of present conditions finds existing in the State Right market today—and that is that the territorial buyers are looking for good pictures—pictures good enough to go into first run houses and at a price that both the State Right buyer and exhibitor can afford to pay.

"The policy which I have adopted is founded on the above principles. During 1922, I will put out a series of ten pictures—every one a first run box office attraction. These pictures are all made and finished.

"The first one of the series is a melodrama called, 'Give Me My Son.' All advertising accessories for the pictures of this series will be given to the State Right buyer at actual manufacturing cost. All accessories on the first picture are now ready. The press sheets are printed and will be given to the territorial buyers free of charge. An expensive herald has been devised and the color plates for these will be presented to the buyers who in turn can get them printed in their own cities thus saving an expensive investment and high express charges.

"I realize the present condition of the business and it shall be my endeavor to formulate a policy taking these conditions into consideration and to constructively build up the exchange business."

QUALITY PRINTING
Our experienced workmen bring out the best in your negative—Perfection insured by complete equipment and personal attention.
Quick Service Moderate Prices
PEERLESS FILM LABORATORIES
Chicago Office 8 S. Wabash Ave
Laboratories Oak Park, Ill. (A suburb)

Contents of the Latest Official Movie Chat

COMMUNITY spirit is a thought that is stressed in the next issue of the "Official Urban Movie Chats of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America," to be released this Sunday through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Then comes a section devoted to Industrial Progress, showing the pretzel industry, which is larger today than it ever was. Music and Literature then follow with scenes provoked by thoughts of John Howard Payne's famous song, "Home, Sweet Home."

A hint of life in other lands is given in views of the famous Caledonian Market in London—the greatest open air trade-mart in England. The Public Welfare section will appeal to many as scientific; to many others as humorous, for it is devoted to the "sanitary kiss," a development of an extremely unromantic inventor.

The real scientific section comes in "Nature Studies," the busy little beaver furnishing the subject. The last pictorial section has to do with Adventure and deals with the thrills which moving picture serial stars are constantly furnishing. The Public Forum and a Boy Scouts section conclude the reel.

"Jungle Goddess" Complete March 15th

At the offices of the Export & Import Film Co., Inc., it was announced that Selig has now started work on the fifteenth and concluding chapter of "The Jungle Goddess," of which this company controls the world distribution. A complete line of accessories is already available on the serial.

A four color, twenty-eight page press book will be off the press on March 15th, at which time the serial is scheduled to be completed.

New Arrow Distributors in Detroit

D. D. Dickerson of Detroit, Mich., announces the incorporation of Progress Pictures Company, with offices located at 304 Film Exchange Place, Detroit, for the distribution of Arrow's James Oliver Curwood Productions, a series of fourteen Arrow Jack Hoxie Western features and "The Stranger in Canyon Valley," starring Edythe Sterling.

"Determination" in N. Y.

Feature is Well Liked at Opening at B. S. Moss' Cameo Theatre

"DETERMINATION," the ten reel super feature produced by the U. S. Moving Pictures Corporation, at a cost of $1,000,000 and in production for a year and a half, now being distributed through the independent market by the Lee-Bradford Corporation, began an indefinite run at B. S. Moss' Cameo theatre, at Broadway and 42nd Street, last Sunday to capacity houses.

Mr. Moss is most critical of the productions he books in the Cameo and he chose "Determination" from many other pictures which were offered to him at this time, state Lee-Bradford.

Last week "Determination" played an engagement at the Empire theatre, Syracuse, New York, and on the opening day broke the house record. This theatre has played such well known successes as "Over the Hill"; "Molly O"; "Peacock Alley" and productions of a similar nature. The management was compelled to close the box office between 8 and 9.30 P. M. In fact, the crowds became so great, that it was necessary to call up the police station for extra officers, announces the releasing company.

The Elk Photoplay Company, who are distributing "Determination" in Greater New York and Northern New Jersey have been successful in signing up the entire B. F. Keith Circuit of houses for this production.

Additional first run presentations are now being arranged in the key cities.

Polo Making Big Serial

Serial Star Has Ambitious Plans for Production of "Cap'n Kidd"

THE Eddie Polo Serial Corporation have formulated ambitious plans for the production of "Cap'n Kid," first of the series of six serial offerings which will feature Eddie Polo, celebrated serial star, and which will be distributed and exploited on the state rights market.

The plans of the company are announced as "the production of the biggest and best serial ever released on the independent market or through a national distributing organization."

To the end that such plans as have already been formulated may be carried out under the best possible guidance, the services of J. P. McGowan, well-known serial director, have been recruited over a period of several months. Mr. McGowan brings to his new association many years of practical directorial experience. Mr. McGowan has also brought with him two special comeramen from California, both of whom are well known in the production field.

The Peerless Studios in Fort Lee, New Jersey, have been rented over a period of months, and will serve as production headquarters of the Eddie Polo Serial Corporation during the filming of "Cap'n Kidd." No definite decision has as yet been reached as to where the next and succeeding Eddie Polo serials will be produced. It is expected, however, that the acquisition of a permanent studio will be made upon the completion of the first serial.

A number of big sets have been erected and others are now in the process of building at the studio. One set is an old pirate schooner, and is complete from fore to aft. This set, it is said, will be the scene of much of the action in the story.

Kathleen Myers, who supported Eddie Polo in one of his former Universal serials, has been engaged to essay the role of female lead in "Cap'n Kidd." Eddie Polo, besides interpreting the leading role of "Cap'n Kidd," will cast a supervising eye over the production of the chapter-play. It is Polo's intention and ambition of making "Cap'n Kidd" his biggest and best serial, and nothing, as mentioned above, will satisfy him but the complete fulfillment of such an ambition.

"Main Street" Purchased by Warner Bros.

Three famous melodramatic plays and one of the most popular novels of the day have been purchased by Harry M. Warner, of Warner Brothers, according to an announcement. The three plays were purchased from Al H. Woods, and they include "Broadway After Dark," "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," and "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl." In addition to the three plays Mr. Warner secured the screen rights to Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Main Street." The three plays and the novel will be produced early this fall.

With the acquisition of the latest Woods melodramas and the Lewis novel, Warner Brothers have secured within a fortnight the total number of five plays and two novels. The two other plays, also Woods mellers, are "From Rags to Riches," and "Little Heroes of the Street," both of which will feature Wesley Barry.

"Night Riders" New Release

Second National Offer Story of Northwest to Follow "Her Story"

GRATIFYING reports regarding the booking of "David and Jonathan" and "Her Story," first two releases announced by Second National Pictures Corporation, are being received daily at the head offices, 140 West Forty-second street, New York City, according to officials of the concern.

Herman Rifkin, in charge of the New England district, reports that big exhibitors are booking the features for long runs as soon as they are screened for them.

Other branch exchange managers reporting activity in the booking of "Her Story" and "David and Jonathan" are A. J. Sherman, Second National Pictures Corporation of Pennsylvania, 1220 Vine street, Philadelphia; E. M. Forsythe, Second National Pictures Corporation, 414 Ferry street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; George A. Price, Niagara Pictures Co., 257 Franklin street, Buffalo, N. Y.; D. Manstuck. Strand Features, Inc., 201 Film Exchange Building, Detroit, Michigan; S. Greiver, Greiver Productions, 831 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.; Walter A. Baier, Kay-Bee, Toy Building, Milwaukee, Wis.; W. H. Youngblood, Continental Film Co., Farnville, N. C.

"The Night Riders," third release, offers marked contrasts to the preceding release. It is a story of the Northwest, from the novel by Ridgewell Cullum and was filmed on authentic locations in the mountainous regions of Alberta. Maudie Dunham, Albert Ray and Andrew Beaulieu are featured in the cast. "Her Story," on the other hand was filmed at sea, in California and in Westchester county, New York while "David and Jonathan" was made in California and in England.

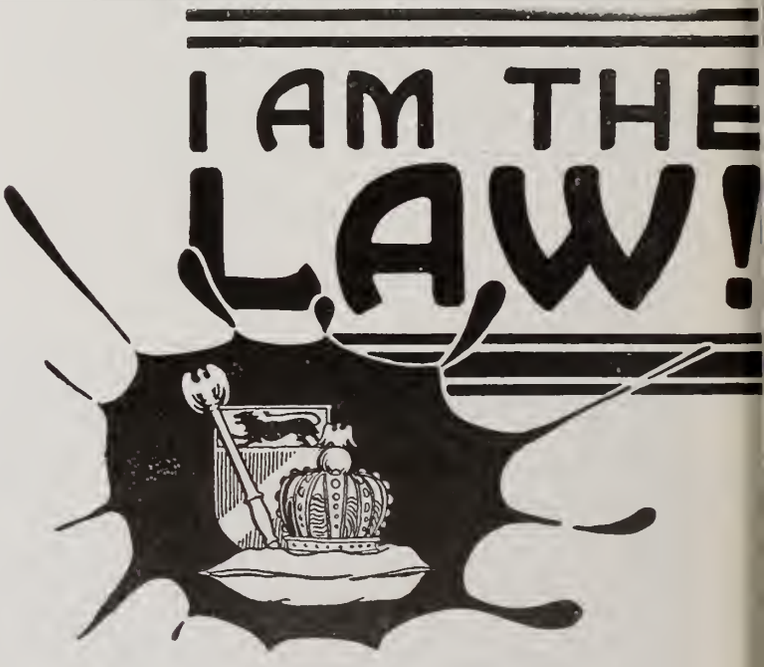
New Arrow Film Sales

Arrow Film Corporation announces the sale of "Watching Eyes," a photoplay starring Kiki the wonder dog of the screen, to Climax Film Exchange, for the territory consisting of Greater New York and Northern New Jersey.

The De Luxe Film Company of Philadelphia, Pa., have purchased "The Stranger in Canyon Valley," starring Edythe Sterling, "Heading North," starring Pete Morrison and "The Star Reporter," starring Billie Rhodes, for their territory.

More Territory Sold on "Felix" Cartoons

Two territorial sales of the "Felix" cartoon comics, distributed on the state rights market by Miss M. J. Winkler, are reported this week. The contract covering the sale of the cartoons on the Coast was consummated with E. H. Emmick of the Peerless Film Service of Los Angeles and San Francisco. The purchase of the "Felix" cartoons for Iowa and Nebraska was negotiated by M. J. Frish of Greater Productions. ritories.



The Biggest Attraction the Independent Market Has Ever Had

AFFILIATED
DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
C. C. BURR, Pres.
133-135-137 West 44th St.
New York City, N. Y.

Jessen's Studio News by Wire

FIRST NAT'L

Buster Keaton and his company are at Truckee making scenes for a snow comedy as yet untitled.

Keaton's latest comedy, "My Wife's Relations," was shipped to New York last week.

Anita Stewart's last two pictures, "Rose of the Sea" and "The Woman Who Married," have been shipped to New York.

Maurice Tourneur is making the final scenes of "Lorna Doone."

Richard Walton Tully left for New York recently with a print of "The Masquerader," starring Guy Bates Post.

Mabel Normand has resumed work on "Suzanna."

Charles Ray has completed his final photoplay under his First National contract.

Sol Lesser will take Jackie Coogan's latest, "Trouble," to New York in a few weeks. The next Coogan picture will be "Oliver Twist."

John Stahl is cutting "One Clear Call" and preparations are being made for his next production.

J. Robert Rubin, general counsel for Louis B. Mayer and treasurer of his company, returned to New York after a business conference with Mayer.

UNITED STUDIOS

Nazimova Productions has shipped the negative of "Salome." Charles Bryant, who directed the picture, will go to New York next week to aid in the distribution arrangements.

Allen Holubar and Dorothy Phillips and company are back from six weeks at sea filming "The Soul Seeker."

Lloyd Hamilton is going to New York upon the completion of his present comedy.

Constance Talmadge is expected back to the studies in the latter part of March.

LASKY

Cecil DeMille has returned from his ranch and will undergo an operation for removal of tonsils. Jennie McPherson is preparing his next story.

Upon the return from New York, William DeMille will start production of "Nice People," now being adapted from the stage play by Clara Beranger. The cast will include Wanda Hawley, Wallace Reid, Conrad Nagel and Bebe Daniels.

David Powell is here from London to play opposite Gloria Swanson in "The Gilded Cage," to be directed by Sam Wood.

Fred Niblo is starting the production of "Blood and Sand," from Ibanez's story, starring Valentino, with continuity by June Mathis.

In production are "Over the Border," starring Betty Compson under the direction of Stanlaws; "Val of Paradise," starring Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon; "The Ordeal," starring Agnes Ayres under the direction of Paul Powell; "The Woman Who Walked Alone," starring Dorothy Dalton under the direction of George Melford; "Our Leading Citizen," starring Tom Meighan under the direction of Alfred Greene, and "The Dictator," starring Reid under the direction of James Cruze.

INDEPENDENT

The Renco Film Company is ready to produce the screen version of Myrtle Reed's "A Spinner in the Sun," for Hodkinson release. The continuity is by Lloyd Ingraham and David Kirkland. Ingraham will direct. The cast includes Marguerite Snow, Edward Coxen, Landers Stevens, Hugh Saxon, Lottie Williams; Ralph McCullough and Charlotte Pierce. Ross Fisher is the cameraman.

Clifford S. Elfelt and Carl P. Winther are now casting for the production by Earl Wayland Bowman, "High Stakes," an American Magazine story. Frank Howard Clark is preparing the continuity and James B. Warner will be featured.

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks will arrive tomorrow. Preparations are being made for Fairbanks' next, "The Spirit of Chivalry."

Mary Pickford will supervise the direction of Jack Pickford's next, as yet untitled.

VITAGRAPH

President A. E. Smith is expected to arrive March 10th. He will select the cast for "The Magnificent Ambersons," featuring Jean Paige, to be directed by Edward Jose. Jose is now directing Alice Calhoun in "Locked Out."

Earl Williams is finishing the Richard Harding Davis story, "Playing Dead," directed by Robert Ensminger. Francelia Billington plays opposite the lead.

Larry Semon is starting production on a new subject as yet untitled.

INCE

John Griffith Wray is making the final scenes for "When She Marries," an original story by Bradley King with Milton Sills, Marguerite de la Motte and John Bower playing the leading roles. Wray will next direct "Someone to Love," an all star picture. Madge Bellamy will play the leading feminine role.

Lambert Hillyer will finish "The Brotherhood of Hate," with an all-star cast this week.

FOX

"Cinderella With a Difference" is the title of the next Shirley Mason picture now being directed by Harry Beaumont. The cast includes Allan Forrest, the male lead; Otto Hoffman, Harold Miller, Helen Raymon, Charles Clark, Hardee Kirkland.

Bernard Durning will direct Dustin Farnum in "Vows May Be Broken." He is now casting.

Lynn Reynolds will direct Tom Mix in "Clean Up Sudden." Patsy Ruth Miller plays opposite the star.

The locale for William Russell's next picture is to be anzibar, East Africa. It will be directed by Rowland V. Lee.

ROACH

Harold Lloyd has returned to the studio after an attack of the flu. He is taking the final scenes for "Grandma's Boy."

Snub Pollard's "Do Me a Favor" and "The Movie" were previewed last week.

GOLDWYN

J. J. Cohn, as business manager, will take a company abroad in April to film "The Christian." J. G. Hawkes is preparing the continuity. The cast has not as yet been selected.

Mae Busch has been added to the cast of "Brothers Under Their Skin."

Carey Wilson, author of "Captain Blackbird," "This Way Out" and "Women Love Diamonds," has signed a year's contract. He is to be made associate editor.

Colleen Moore will play the lead in Rupert Hughes' original story, "The Bitterness of Sweets."

UNIVERSAL

Von Stroheim will start production in two weeks.

Tom Santschi is on the second of his two reel Westerns directed by Robert Bradbury.

Gladys Walton is back from her personal appearance tour and is ready to start production.

In production are "Robinson Crusoe," "With Stanley in Africa," and "In the Days of Buffalo Bill."

Tod Browning will direct Priscilla Dean in "Under Two Flags."

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

LUDWIG G. B. ERB
PRESIDENT

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

MOTION PICTURE
DEVELOPING AND PRINTING

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF

TELEPHONE AUDUBON 3716
203-211 W. 146TH ST.
NEW YORK CITY

ERBOGRAPH
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

FEATURE RELEASE CHART

Productions are Listed Alphabetically and by Months in which Released in order that the Exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need. Short subject and comedy releases, as well as information on pictures that are coming will be found on succeeding pages. (S. R. indicates State Right release.)

OCTOBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
All's Fair in Love	Special Cast	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 12
Bring Him In	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Nov. 12
Clay Dollars	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
Fox, The	Harry Carey	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 26
Grim Comedian, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Feb. 4
Her Social Value	K. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Jackie	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 17
Lady from Longacre, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
Night Rose, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Feb. 25
Pardon My French	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 7
Poverty of Riches	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Dec. 10
Rough Diamond, The	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 12
Stranger Than Fiction	Katherine M'D'nald	First National	6 reels	Dec. 17
Speed Girl, The	Bebe Daniels	Realart	6 reels	Nov. 26
Three Musketeers	Douglas Fairbanks	United Artists	12 reels	Sept. 10
Tropical Love	Special Cast	Asso. Exhib.	6 reels	Mar. 4
Trust Your Wife	Kath. MacDonald	First National	5 reels	Feb. 11
What Love Will Do	Murphy-Walker	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 18

NOVEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Alf's Button	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feb. 25
Anne of Little Smoky	Asso. Exhib.	Special Cast	5 reels	Feb. 4
Bonnie Briar Bush, The	Special Cast	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
Bucking the Line	M. (Lefty) Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 19
Call of the North	Jack Holt	Famous Players	6 reels	Dec. 10
Conflict	Priscilla Dean	Universal	7 reels	Nov. 5
Conquering Power, The	Special Cast	Metro	7 reels	July 16
Dr. Jim	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
Enchantment	Marion Davies	Paramount	6 reels	Nov. 12
False Kisses	Miss duPont	Universal	5 reels	Nov. 19
Father Tom	Special Cast	Asso. Ex.		Mar. 11
Fidelity	Special Cast	Aywon—S. R.	5 reels
Footfalls	Special Cast	Fox	7 reels	Sept. 24
For Your Daughter's Sake	Grace Darling	I. W. Film—S. R.
Guilty Conscience, A	Antonio Moreno	Vitagraph	5 reels
Her Face Value	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Nov. 19
Hunch, The	Gareth Hughes	Metro	6 reels	Oct. 22
Hush Money	Alice Brady	Realart	6 reels	Dec. 10
Iron Trail, The	Special Cast	United Artists	7 reels	Nov. 19
Jane Eyre	Hugo Ballin Prod.	Hodkinson	7 reels	Oct. 29
Joit, The	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Knight of the West, A	Olin Francis	W.B.M. P'play—S. R.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Ladies Must Live	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Dec. 3
Last Trail, The	Special Cast	Fox	6 reels	Feb. 11
Light in the Clearing, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love Never Dies	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Dec. 3
Love, Hats and a Woman	Grace Davison	Arrow—S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Lure of Jade, The	Pauline Frederick	Rohertson-Cole	6 reels	Nov. 19
Man From Lost River, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	7 reels	Jan. 28
Man of Stone, The	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Nov. 26
Millionaire, The	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	6 reels	Nov. 12
Molly O	Mahel Normand	First National	6 reels	Dec. 3
Old Oaken Bucket, The	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Nov. 5
Our Mutual Friend	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	5 reels	Dec. 10
Possession	Special Cast	R-C	6 reels	Nov. 12
Rainbow	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	5 reels	Dec. 24
Riding With Death	Buck Jones	Fox	5 reels	Nov. 26
Right Way, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.—S. R.	6 reels	Nov. 12
Sheik, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels	Oct. 29
Silent Call, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Nov. 26
Silent Years	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 3
Sin of Martha Queed, The	Special Cast	Associated Exhib		Dec. 3
Single Track, The	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Feb. 4
Steelheart	Wm. Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Sept. 24
Sure Fire	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Nov. 5
Ten Nights In a Barroom		Arrow—S. R.		Feb. 4
There Are No Villains	Viola Dana	Metro	6 reels	Sept. 3
Tol'ble David	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Twice Born Woman, The		Asso. International	6 reels
Way of a Maid, The	Elaine Ham'rstein	Selznick	5 reels	Feh. 25
What Do Men Want?	Special Cast	Wid Gunning, Inc.	6 reels	Nov. 26
The Wonderful Thing	Norma Talmadge	First National	6 reels	Nov. 19

DECEMBER

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
All For a Woman	Special Cast	First National		Dec. 17
Ashamed of Parents	Special Cast	Warner Bros.—S. R.	5 reels
Ashes	Special Cast	East C'st Prod.-S.R.	5 reels
At the Stage Door	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Dec. 24
Better Man, The	Snowy Baker	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Dec. 24
Bride's Confession, A	Rita Jolivet	Graphic—S. R.	6 reels
Cameron of the Royal Mounted	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Jan. 21
Cheated Hearts	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 10
Chivalrous Charley	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels	Dec. 10
Conceit	Special Cast	Selznick		Dec. 17
Crossing Trails	Pete Morrison	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Desert Blossoms	Wm. Russell	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
Devil Within, The	Dustin Farnum	Fox	6 reels	Dec. 3
Don't Tell Everything	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 24
Duke of Chimney Butte	Fred Stone	R-C		Dec. 10
Eden and Return	Doris May	R-C		Dec. 31
Every Man's Price	Grace Darling	Burton King—S. R.	5 reels
Exit the Vamp	Ethel Clayton	Famous Players	5 reels	Feb. 4
Fifty Candles	Special Cast	Hodkinson		Dec. 31
Fightin' Mad	Wm. Desmond	Metro	5 reels	Nov. 12
Fire Eater, The	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
First Love	Constance Binney	Realart	5 reels	Jan. 28
Flower of the North	Henry B. Walthall	Vitagraph	7 reels	Jan. 28
Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford	Special Cast	Famous Players		Dec. 17
Hail the Woman	Special Cast	First National		Jan. 14
Hardest Way, The	Fannie Ward	Joan-S. R.	5 reels
Hole in the Wall, The	Alice Lake	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 10
Idle Rich, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 12
Last Payment, The	Pola Negri	Famous Players		Jan. 28
Little Minister, The	Betty Compson	Famous Players		Jan. 7
Lotus Eater, The	John Barrymore	First National	6 reels	Dec. 10
Love Charm, The	Wanda Hawley	Realart	5 reels	Dec. 24
Lucky Carson	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 14
Making the Grade	David Butler		5 reels	Jan. 14
Man Who Paid, The	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Marry the Poor Girl	Carter De Haven	Asso. Ex.	5 reels	Mar. 18
Morals	May McAvoy	Realart		Jan. 14
My Boy	Jackie Coogan	First National	5 reels	Jan. 7
New Disciple, The	Pell Trenton	Federated Produc.	7 reels	Dec. 31
No Defense	William Duncan	Vitagraph	6 reels	Jan. 28
Parisian Scandal, A	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 3
Paste Board Crown, A	Special Cast
Playing with Fire	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Polish Dancer, The	Pola Negri	Levinson-S. R.
Power Within, The	Special Cast	Pathe		Jan. 28
R. S. V. P.	Charles Ray	First National		Dec. 24
Rigoletto	Special Cast	Romayne	5 reels
Road to Arcady, The	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Ruse of the Rattler, The	J. P. MacGowan	Asso. Ex.	5 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Lion, The	Hohart Bosworth	First National		Jan. 21
School Days	Wesley Barry	Warner Bros.-S. R.	6 reels	Dec. 17
Sin Flood, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn		Jan. 21
Tears of the Sea	Special Cast	Asso. Inter.—S. R.	5 reels
Trail of the Law	Special Cast	Produc. Sec.-S. R.
Unconq'red Woman, The	Ruby de Remer	Pasha Film C'rp.-S.R.
Under the Lash	Gloria Swanson	Famous Players	5 reels	Oct. 29
Virginia Courtship, A	May McAvoy	Realart	5 reels	Feh. 4
Western Firehrands	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Jan. 7
Whatever She Wants	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 24
White Oak	William S. Hart	Famous Players	5 reels	Nov. 12

JANUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Across the Dead Line	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 14
Any Night		E. Coast Prod.—S. R.		Mar. 18
Any Wife	Pearl White	Fox		Feh. 18
Barnstormer, The	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Beautiful Liar, The	Kath. MacDonald	First National		Feb. 25
Billy Jim	Fred Stone	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Feh. 18
Bride's Play, The	Marion Davies	Paramount		Jan. 28
Determination	Special Cast	U. S. Plc. Corp.-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Don't Get Personal	Marie Prevost	Universal	11 reels	Jan. 14
Doubling for Romeo	Will Rogers	Goldwyn	5 reels	Nov. 5
Foolish Wives	Special Cast	Universal	7 reels	Dec. 24
Fountain of Youth	Special Cast	Graphic-S. R.	6 reels	Jan. 21
Fourteenth Lover, The	Viola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
French Heels		Hodkinson	5 reels	Feb. 4
Gleam O' Dawn	John Gilbert	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 14
The Guttersnipe	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Jan. 7
Half Breed, The		First National
Handle with Care	Grace Darmond	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Feh. 11
Heart's Haven		Hampton-Hodkinson
His Nibs	Charles (Chic) Sale	Exceptional	5 reels	Oct. 22
Jungle Adventures		Exceptional	4 reels	Oct. 1
Just Around the Corner		Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 14
Lane That Had No Turning, The	Agnes Ayres	Paramount	6 reels	Jan. 21
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 28
Little Eva Ascends	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 3
Little Minister, The	Alice Calhoun	Vitagraph	6 reels	Dec. 31
Love's Redemption	Norma Talmadge	First National	5 reels	Jan. 21

(Continued on page 1645)

(Continued from page 1644)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Miss Lulu Bett	Special Cast	Paramount		Dec. 31
Nancy from Nowhere	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 11
Oh Mabel, Behave		Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Orphans of the Storm	Special Cast	D. W. Griffith		Jan. 14
Peacock Alley	Mae Murray	Metro	6 reels	Nov. 24
Penrod	Wesley Barry	First National	5 reels	Feb. 25
Prejudice	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.		Feb. 4
Prince There Was, A	Thomas Meighan	Paramount	5 reels	Nov. 26
Received Payment	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels	Jan. 21
Reckless Chances	J. P. McGowan	Assoc. Exhib.	5 reels	Feb. 4
Rent Free	Wallace Reid	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 6
Roof Tree, The	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 6
Shadows of the Sea	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Jan. 14
Shattered Dreams	Miss du Pont	Universal	5 reels	Dec. 24
Should a Wife Work?	Special Cast	J. W. Film-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 18
Sky High	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Dec. 31
Slippery McGee	Special Cast	First National
South of Suva	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels
Star Dust	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels	Dec. 31
Ten Nights in a Barroom	Special Cast	Arrow-S. R.		Feb. 4
Three Live Ghosts	Special Cast	Paramount		Jan. 14
Tillie	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 25
Too Much Married	Mary Anderson	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels	Feb. 25
Too Much Wife	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels	Jan. 28
Trailin'	Tom Mix	Fox	7 reels	Dec. 10
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro		Jan. 21
Two Kinds of Women	Pauline Frederick	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Dec. 24
Unfoldment, The		Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Feb. 25
The Unknown	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Vendetta	Pola Negri	Commonwealth		Dec. 31
White Hands	Hobart Bosworth	Wid Gunning	7 reels	Feb. 11
Wife Against Wife	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Mar. 11
Why Announce Your Marriage?	Elain Hammerstein	Selznick		Feb. 4
Winning with Wits	Barbara Bedford	Fox	5 reels	Jan. 21

FEBRUARY

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Able Minded Lady, The	H. B. Walthall	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
Across the Border	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels	Feb. 11
At the Sign of the Jack O'Lantern	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels	Jan. 28
Back Pay	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 4
Beyond the Rainbow	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	5 reels	Mar. 4
Boomerang Bill	Lionel Barrymore	Famous Players	6 reels	Feb. 18
Broadway Peacock, The	Pearl White	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 25
Call From the Wild, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Call of Home, The	Special Cast	Robertson-Cole	5 reels	Jan. 28
Cave Girl, The		First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Chasing the Moon	Tom Mix	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 18
David and Jonathan	Madge Titheridge	Second National-S. S.	6 reels
Diamond Carlisle	Clark-Cornelius		5 reels
Doll's House, A	Nazimova	United Artists		Feb. 25
Double Stakes	Gladys Brockwell	Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Forest King, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Game Chicken, A	Bebe Daniels	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 18
Girl from Rocky Point, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Glorious Fool, The	Helene Chadwick	Goldwyn	6 reels	Jan. 21
Golden Gallows, The	Miss Dupont	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 18
Golden Gift, The	Alice Lake	Metro	6 reels	Dec. 17
Grand Larceny	Elliot Dexter	Goldwyn		Mar. 11
Headin' West	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 4
Her Mad Bargain	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels	Jan. 21
Her Own Money	Ethel Clayton	Paramount	6 reels	Mar. 4
Hills of Missing Men	J. P. McGowan	Asso. Exhibitors	5 reels
Homespun Vamp, A	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
I Defy		Arista-S. R.	6 reels
Julius Caesar	Special Cast	Geo. Kleine		Feb. 18
Kindred of the Dust	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feb. 11
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Law and the Woman, The	Betty Compson	Paramount		Jan. 28
Life's Greatest Question	Roy Stewart	C. B. C.-S. R.
Little Miss Smiles	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
Living Lies	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		reels
Love's Boomerang	Ann Forrest	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 11
Luxury Tax, the	Mabel Ballin	Hodkinson	5 reels
Man to Man	Harry Carey	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 11
Midnight	Constance Binney	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Moran of the Lady Letty	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 18
One Glorious Day	Will Rogers	Paramount	5 reels	Feb. 11
Polly of the Follies	Constance T'lm'dge	First National	5 reels	Feb. 25
Prodigal Judge, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph		Feb. 11
Question of Honor, A	Anita Stewart	First National	6 reels
Red Hot Romance	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Nov. 19
Red Peacock, The	Pola Negri	Paramount	6 reels
Right That Failed, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	5 reels	Dec. 17
Rosary, The	Special Cast	First National	7 reels	Feb. 25
Ruling Passion	George Arliss	United Artists	6 reels	Feb. 4
Saturday Night	Special Cast	Paramount	6 reels	Feb. 4
Shattered Idols	Special Cast	First National	5 reels	Mar. 4
Smiles Are Trumps	Maurice Flynn	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 11
Song of Life, The	Special Cast	First National	6 reels	Feb. 25
Splendid Lie, The	Grace Davison	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Strength of the Pines	William Russell	Fox	5 reels	Feb. 4
Taking Chances	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Through a Glass Window	May McAvoy	Paramount	5 reels
Truthful Liar, The	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels
Turn to the Right	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels	Jan. 21
Voice in the Dark, The		Pacific-S. R.	5 reels
Welcome to Our City	Macklyn Arbuckle	S. A. Pic. Corp.-S. R.	5 reels	Mar. 4
When Love Is Young	Zena Keefe	Arista-S. R.	6 reels
Where Is My Wandering Boy?	Special Cast	Equity-S. R.		Feb. 18
Whispering Women	Clark-Cornelius-S. R		5 reels
White Faith	Hope Hampton	First National	6 reels
Why Men Forget	Special Cast	R-C	5 reels	Feb. 4
Wide Open Town, A	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels	Mar. 4
Woman's Side, The	Kath'rine M'Donald		5 reels
Your Best Friend	Vera Gordon	Warner Bros.-S. R.	5 reels

MARCH

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Angel Citizens	Franklyn Farnum	W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Beauty's Worth	Marion Davies	Paramount
Blaze Away	Big Boy Williams	Herbst-Lorenzo-S. R.	5 reels
Bobbed Hair	Wanda Hawley	Paramount	5 reels
Bootleggers		Wid Gunning	6 reels
Boy Crazy	Doris May	R-C Pictures	5 reels	Mar. 11
Brenda's Heritage	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Cardigan	Special Cast	Am. Releasing Corp.	6 reels	Mar. 4
Come On Over	Colleen Moore	Goldwyn	5 reels
Cub Reporter, The	Richard Talmadge	Goldstone-S. R.	5 reels
Dangerous Little Demon,	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels
Domestic Relations	Kath'rine M'Donald	First National	5 reels
Don't Doubt Your Wife	Leah Baird	Assoc. Exhib.	5 reels
Elope If You Must	Eileen Percy	Fox	5 reels
Extra, Extra	Walker-Murphy	Fox	5 reels	Mar. 18
Fire Bride, The		Wid Gunning
Fool's Paradise	Special Cast	Paramount	8 reels	Jan. 21
Forever	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Oct. 29
Gas, Oil and Water	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Glass Houses	Vlola Dana	Metro	5 reels	Feb. 25
Heart Specialist, The	Mary Miles Minter	Paramount	5 reels
Her Husband's Trademark	Gloria Swanson	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Her Story	Madge Titheradge	Second Nat.-S. R.		Mar. 4
His Back Against the Wall	Raymond Hatton	Goldwyn
Impulse	Neva Gerber	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
I Can Explain	Gareth Hughes	Metro	5 reels	Feb. 25
Innocent Cheat, The	Special Cast	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Insinuation		Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.	5 reels
Iron to Gold	Dustin Farnum	Fox	5 reels	Mar. 18
Island Wives	Corinne Griffith	Vitagraph	5 reels
Isle of Zorda	Special Cast	Pathe
Kissed	Marie Prevost	Universal	5 reels
Lady Godiva	Special Cast	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Light in the Dark, The	Hope Hampton	First National	5 reels
Love's Masquerade	Conway Tearle	Selznick	5 reels
Magnificent Ambersons	Jean Paige	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man from Downing Street, The	Earle Williams	Vitagraph	5 reels
Man Who Smiled, The	Special Cast	First National	5 reels
Man With Two Mothers, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Masquerader, The	Guy Bates Post	First National	6 reels
Miss Paul Revere	Special Cast	Rus. Clark Syn.-S. R.
Mistress of the World	Special Cast	Paramount	20 reels	Mar. 18
Mr. Pim Passes By	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
My Old Kentucky Home	Special Cast	Am. Releasing	6 reels
Night. Riders, The	Special Cast	Second Nat.-S. R.
Pardon My Nerve	Chas. (Buck) Jones	Fox	5 reels	Mar. 4
Prisoner of Zenda, The	Special Cast	Metro	5 reels
Ragged Heiress	Shirley Mason	Fox	5 reels
Reckless Youth	Elaine Hammerstein	Selznick	5 reels
Rise of Roscoe Paine,	Irene Castle	Hodkinson	5 reels
Rounding Up of the Law	Big Boy Williams	Aywon-S. R.	5 reels
Seventh Day, The	Rich. Barthelmess	First National	6 reels
Skin Deep	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Smilin' Through	Norma Talmadge	First National	7 reels	Mar. 18
Smudge	Charles Ray	First National	5 reels
Stage Romance, A	William Farnum	Fox	7 reels	Feb. 25
Stay Home	Gareth Hughes	Metro	6 reels
That Lass o' Lowries	Priscilla Dean	Universal
Tracked to Earth	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels	Feb. 25
Travelin' On	William S. Hart	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 4
Vermillion Pencil, The	Sessue Hayakawa	R-C	5 reels	Mar. 18
Wall Flower, The	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Watch Your Step	Special Cast	Goldwyn	6 reels
Way Back, The	Frank Mayo	Universal	5 reels
White Mask, The	Franklyn Farnum	W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Wild Honey	Priscilla Dean	Universal		Mar. 11
Wise Kid, The	Gladys Walton	Universal	5 reels	Mar. 4
Woman He Married, The	Anita Stewart	First National
Woman Wake Up	Florence Vidor	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels	Mar. 4
World's Champion, The	Wallace Reid	Paramount	5 reels	Mar. 11
Worldly Madonna, The	C. Kimball Young	Equity-S. R.

APRIL

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Alias Julius Caesar	Chas. Ray	First National
Bear Cat, The	Hoot Gibson	Universal	5 reels
Beyond the Rocks	Gloria Swanson	Paramount
Bigamist, The	Special Cast	R-C
Bought and Paid For	Special Cast	Paramount
Channing of the Northwest	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	5 reels
City Feller, The	Cullen Landis	Goldwyn
Deuce of Spades	Charles Ray	First National	6 reels
Dictator, The	Wallace Reid	Paramount	6 reels
Dollar Devils	Special Cast	Wid Gunning
Duchess of Langeais	Norma Talmadge	First National
Fair Lady	Special Cast	United Artists
False Fronts	Special Cast	Bradley-S. R.	6 reels	Mar. 11
Fools First	Special Cast	First National
Glory of Clementina	Pauline Frederick	R-C Pictures	6 reels
Good Provider, The	Special Cast	Paramount
Green Temptation, The	Betty Compson	Paramount
Gray Dawn, The	Special Cast	Hodkinson	6 reels
Gypsy Passion	Special Cast	Vitagraph
Human Hearts	House Peters	Universal	6 reels
If You Believe It, It's So	Thomas Meighan	Paramount	6 reels
Impulse	Neva Gerber	Arrow-S. R.	5 reels
Infidel, The	K. MacDonald	First National	6 reels
Lariat Thrower, The		W. M. Smith-S. R.	5 reels
Lorna Doone	Special Cast	First National
Lost and Found	Jackie Coogan	First National	6 reels
Loves of Pharaoh	Special Cast	Paramount	7 reels	Mar. 4
Missing Husbands	Special Cast	Metro
One Clear Call	Special Cast	First National
Pawned	Special Cast	First National	6 reels
Peterman	Herbert Rawlinson	Universal
Primitive Lover, The	Constance T'lm'dge	First National	6 reels
Phantom Bride, The	Bert Lytell	Metro	6 reels
Prophet's Paradise, The	Eugene O'Brien	Selznick	6 reels	Mar. 18
Rose of the Sea	Anita Stewart	First National	5 reels
Sheik's Wife, The	Special Cast	Vitagraph		Mar. 18
Someone to Love	Special Cast	First National
Sonny	Rich. Barthelmess	First National
Soul Seeker, The	Dorothy Phillips	First National	6 reels
Soul of a Woman	Jane Novak	Assoc. Photoplays	5 reels
Storm, The	Special Cast	Universal
Sunshine Harbor	Margaret Beecher	Assoc. Exhib.	6 reels
Tharon of Lost Valley	Dorothy Dalton	Paramount
Trail's End		W. M. Smith	5 reels
Why Not Marry?	Margery Wilson	Nat. Exchanges-S. R.
Woman's Woman	Special Cast	Rus. Clark Syn-S. R.	5 reels

Comedy and Short Subject Releases

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Adviser, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 19
Assorted Heroes		Educational	2 reels
Back Yard, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Barnyard Cavalier, A	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 24
Barnstormer, The		Fox	2 reels
Bashful Lover, The	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Battling Torchy	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Be Reasonable		First National	2 reels
Bell Hop, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels	Jan. 7
Blacksmith, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Blockhead, The		First National	2 reels
Blow 'Em Up	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Boat, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Bottle Baby, The		Universal	1 reel
Bright Eyes	Ben Turpin	First National	2 reels
Broker, The	Lupino Lane	Fox	2 reels
Call the Witness	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Charmed Life, A	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Chauffeur, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Dec. 31
Chums	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Circus Clowns	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 11
Cold Feet		Educational	2 reels
Coming and Going	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Cops	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Country Style	Folly-Pacific		1 reel
Dead Language	George Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Decorator, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Dog Doctor, The	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Edgar's Country Cousin	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
Edgar's Feast Day	Johnny Jones	Goldwyn	2 reels
False Alarm		Fox	2 reels
Family Affair, A		Century	2 reels	Dec. 24
Fat and Sassy	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Felix Saves the Day		Winkler-S. R.	1 reel	Feb. 11
Flivver Tracks	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Fooi Days	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Jan. 7
For Love or Money		First National	2 reels
Full of Pep	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Get the Hook	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Golf Insect, A		Universal	1 reel
Golfing	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
Hands Up	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Happy Pest, The	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hard Luck	Buster Keaton	Metro	2 reels
He Who Hesitates	Harold Lloyd	Assoc. Exhibitors	3 reels
Hennessy of the Mounted	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
High and Mighty	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
His Home Sweet Home	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Hokus Pokus	Bobby Vernon	Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Hold the Line		Fox	2 reels
Holding His Own	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Horse Sense	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Hound of Tankervilla	Otis Harlan	Educational
Idle Class, The	Chas. Chaplin	First National	3 reels	Oct. 1
Idle Roomer, An	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
In and Out	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
In at the Finish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
It Pays to Exercise	Sennett	Paramount	2 reels
Kiss and Make Up	Earle Rodney	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 3
Late Hero, The	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Late Hours	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
Little, But Oh My	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Little Miss Mischief	Baby Peggy	Pathe	2 reels
Loose Change	Paul Parrott	Universal	2 reels	Feb. 18
Love and Doughnuts	Ben Turpin	Associated Prod.	2 reels	Dec. 10
Love and War	Johnny Savo	Fox	2 reels
Made in the Kitchen	Special Cast	Associated Prod.	2 reels
Monkey Shines	Educational		2 reels	Feb. 11
Mother's Lamb	Billy Quirk	Reelcraft	2 reels
Movie Mix-Up		Universal	1 reel
Mummy's Nightmare	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Mutts	Brownie	Universal	2 reels
My Wife's Relations	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels
Mysterious Stranger	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Nick-of-Time Hero	Special Cast	Educational	2 reels	Nov. 5
Nobody Home	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
No Parking	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Dec. 17
Now or Never	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Nuisance, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Oh Promise Me		Educational	2 reels
On Location	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 19
On the Jump	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
One Horse Town	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
One Moment, Please		Fox	2 reels
One Stormy Knight	Dorothy Devore	Educational		Feb. 4
Our Gang	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel
Pale Face, The	Buster Keaton	First National	2 reels	Mar. 11
Pals	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Pardon Me		Fox	2 reels
Pay Day	Charles Chaplin	First National	2 reels
Peace and Quiet	Eddie Lyons	Arrow	2 reels	Feb. 4
Peaceful Alley	Monty Banks	Federated	2 reels
Peggy, Behave!	Baby Peggy	Universal	2 reels
Perfect Villain, A		Fox	2 reels	Dec. 10
Playhouse, The	Buster Keaton	First Nstional	2 reels
Playing Possum	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels	Dec. 3
Please Be Careful		Fox	2 reels	Feb. 4
Rainmaker, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels
Rambling Romeo, A	Neal Burns	Educational	2 reels	Jan. 28
Roaring to Go	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rent Collector, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Rough and Tumble	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Roped and Tied	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Rural Cinderella, A		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Saving Sister Susie		Educational	2 reels	Nov. 12
Sailor Made Man, A	Harold Lloyd	Asso. Ex.	4 reels	Dec. 3
Sawmill, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
School Days	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Schoolday Love		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Sea Shore Shapes		Universal	1 reel
Sheik, The		Fox	2 reels
Shipwrecked Among Animals		Universal	2 reels	Feb. 4
Show, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Simp, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 30
Skipper's Policy, The		Educational	1 reel
Sleeping Sickness	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Slow But Sure	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Small Town Stuff	Al. St. John	Fox	2 reels
Society Dogs	Brownie (Dog)	Universal	2 reels
Solid Concrete	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stage Hand, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stage Struck	Snub Pollard	Pathe	1 reel	Feb. 11
Star Boarder, The	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Stars and Stripes	Sid Smith	Federated	2 reels	Dec. 3
Step This Way		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 4
Stick Around	Ernest Truex	Pathe	2 reels
Stolen Glory		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Straight from the Farm	Al St. John	Fox	2 reels
Straphanger, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Teddy's Goat		Universal	2 reels	Dec. 24
They're Off	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Tis the Bull		Educational	2 reels
Torchy's Promotion	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Torchy Takes a Chance	Johnny Hines	Educational		Jan. 7
Torchy Turns Cupid	Johnny Hines	Educational	2 reels
Toreador, The	Clyde Cook	Fox	2 reels	Oct. 1
Touchdown, The	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Trouble Hunter, The	Jimmy Aubrey	Vitagraph	2 reels
Try and Get It		Fox	2 reels
'Twas Ever Thus	Viora Daniel	Educational	2 reels
Two of a Kind	Harry Sweet	Universal	2 reels
Upper and Lower	Lee Moran	Universal	2 reels
Vagrant, The	Lloyd Hamilton	Educational	2 reels	Oct. 1
Watch Your Wallet	Eddie Boland	Universal	1 reel
Well I'll Be	Larry Semon	Vitagraph	2 reels
Winning Wallop	Geo. Ovey	Folly-Pacific	1 reel
Years to Come	Snub Pollard	Pathe	2 reels	Feb. 18
Young and Foolish	Vernon Dent	Folly-Pacific	1 reel

Short Subjects

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Title and Star
Alice in Wonderland (Serial)		Warner Bros.	2 reels	Feb. 11
Adventures of Sherlock Holmes (Drama)		Alexander-S. R.	15 episodes
Across the St. Gothard Alps (Scenic)		Truart	18 episodes
Adventures of Robinson Crusoe (Serial)		Universal
Along the Rio Grande (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
An Alpine Ride Up the Sranzerhorn (Scenic)		Truart
An Arctic Hike on the Great Aletsch Glacier (Scenic)		Truart
And Women Must Weep (Scenic)		Educational	2 reels	Feb. 11
As Old as the Hills (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
At the Damascus Gate (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
At the Wailing Wall (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Away Dull Care (Novelty)		Prizma	1 reel
Babyhood (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Bashful Suitor, The (Drama)	Mary Brandon	Hodkinson	2 reels	Dec. 24
Battle Against Odds (Eddie Polo, W. Dr.)		Universal	2 reels
Battle of Jutland, The (Novelty)		Educational	2 reels	Dec. 10
Bear, a Boy and a Dog, A (Novelty)		Wid Gunning	2 reels
Beauty Spots of America (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Beggar Maid, The (Drama)	Mary Astor	Triart Film	1 reel	Oct. 8
Beyond the Trail (Wes. Drama)	Tom Sanchi	Pathe	2 reels
Birds of Crags and Marshes (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Bonnets of Auvergne (Scenic)	Bruce	Educational	1 reel	Jan. 7
Bonnie Scotland (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Borneo Venice, A (Scenic)		Truart
Breaking Through (Serial)	Carmel Myers	Vitagraph	15 episodes
Call of Courage (Drama)		Universal
Capturing Lions by Aeroplane (Novelty)		Pathe	1 reel	Nov. 12
City, The (Scenic)		Wid Gunning	1 reel	Dec. 10
Code of the West, The (West. Drama)		Texas Guinan	2 reels	Nov. 5
Combatting the Elements (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel	Nov. 12
Crowning King Blizzard (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Cupid, Registered Guide (Drama)	Edgar Jones	Pathe	2 reels
Dangerous Trails (Drama)		Pathe	2 reels
Dawn to Dusk in Egypt (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Death Trap, The (West. Dr.)	Tom Sanchi	Pathe	2 reels
Desperation (Drama)		Universal	2 reels
Emerald Isle, The (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Felix Saves the Day (Cartoon)		Winkler-S. R.	1 reel	Feb. 11
First Families of America (Novelty)		Paramount	1 reel
From Dawn to Dusk in Egypt (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Jan. 28
Go Get 'Em Hutch (Serial)		Pathe	15 episodes
Good Things of Life (Novelty)		Wid Gunning	1 reel
Grandfather's Clock (Novelty)		Kineto Review	1 reel	Jan. 28
Great American Authors (Kineto Series)				Nov. 19
Holy City, The (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Honor of Rameriz (West. Dr.)	Tom Santschi	Pathe	2 reels	Nov. 5
Hunting the Sea Wolf (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
If (Novelty)		Prizma	1 reel
In Old Granada (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel

▲Continued on page 1648)

COMING PRODUCTIONS LISTED

FFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS, INC.
n the Law (Special Cast)

LEXANDER FILM CORP.
entures of Sherlock Holmes fteen two-reel features)

MERICAN RELEASING CORP.
tiny's Isle (Special Cast)
Old Kentucky Home (Special Cast)
Cradle Buster (Aleen Hunter)
Lying Truth (Special Cast)
e of Alaska (Jane Novak) of the Big Snows (Special Cast)

RISTA FILM CORP.
judice
en Love is Young (Zena Keefe) ety

RROW FILM CORPORATION
oulse (Neva Gerber)
Innocent Cheat (Special Cast)
Nights in a Bar Room ankee Go-Getter (Neva Gerber) 5
il-Dog Dawson (Jack Hoxie) 5
Star Reporter (Billie Rhodes) 5
Motion to Adjourn (Daw-Stewart) 5

EED COMEDIES
e Released Every Week)

URIEL OSTRICHE COMEDIES
AZED TRAIL PRODUCTIONS
ROW-GERBER PRODUCTIONS
RTHWOOD DRAMAS
RIALS

SSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
RROLD LLOYD COMEDIES Who Hesitates
ailor Made Man 4

ATURES
s of Missing Men (J. P. McGowan)
't Doubt Your Wife (Leah Baird) asmen of the North man, Wake Up
y Godiva
ahine Harbor (Margaret Beecher)

SSOCIATED PHOTOPLAYS
l of a Woman (Jane Novak) ssing Trails (Pete Morrison) 5
st City (Helen Holmes) 5

YWON FILM CORPORATION
ss the Border (Big Boy Williams)
Master of Beasts

B. C. FILM SALE CORP.
's Greatest Question (Roy Stewart)

RNIVAL COMEDIES
o Reels Twice a Month)

LL ROOM BOYS COMEDIES
o Reels Twice a Month)

REEN SNAPSHOTS
e Reel Twice a Month)

AR RANCH WESTERNS
e Two-Reeler Every Two Weeks)

ARK-CORNELIUS CORPORATION ng Lies nond Carlisle

CLARK SYNDICATE, INC.
Paul Revere
uation
naa's Woman
Love Slave (Lucy Doraine)
Two Orphans
Offenders (Margery Wilson)

LORENZO, INC.
e Away (Big Boy Williams)

ST COAST PRODUCTIONS, INC.
.—The Greater Duty

DUCATIONAL FILMS CORP.
ORT SUBJECTS
Silver Harvest (World Wanderings) 2
Rainmaker 2
Feet (Christie Comedy)
as Ever Thus (Christie Comedy) 2 us Pocus (Christie Comedy) 2
the Bull (Christie Comedy) 2
Promise Me! (Christie Comedy) 2
Women Must Weep (Bruce Scenic) 2 key Shines (Campbell Comedy) 2 olday Love (Campbell Comedy) 2
m Glory (Campbell Comedy) 2

IG-RORK PHOTOPLAYS
RISTIE COMEDIES
RMAID COMEDIES
NCH COMEDIES
RCHY COMEDIES
CAMPBELL COMEDIES
CHESTER COMEDIES
VANITY COMEDIES
GAYETY COMEDIES
SKETCHOGRAFS
BRUCE SCENICS
CHESTER OUTINGS
CHESTER SCREENICS
CINAL FILMS—SLOW SPEED
KINOGRAMS

EQUITY PICTURES CORP.
Where Is My Wandering Boy? (Special Cast)

EXCEPTIONAL PICTURES CORP.
(Releasing Arrangements to be Announced Later)
Mister Antonio (Otis Skinner)
Grumpy

EXPORT AND IMPORT FILM CO., INC.
The Jungle Goddess—Selig serial 15 episodes
Starring Elinor Field and Truman Van Dyke.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP.
PARAMOUNT
(April Releases)
If You Believe It, It's So (Thomas Meighan)
Beyond the Rocks (Gloria Swanson)
Bought and Paid For (Special Cast)
The Green Temptation (Betty Compson)
(March Releases)
Travelin' On (William S. Hart)
Forever (Special Cast)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 1—spec. prod.)
The World's Champion (Wallace Reid)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 2—spec. prod.)
Her Husband's Trademark (Gloria Swanson)
Bobbed Hair (Wanda Hawley-Realart prod.)
Fool's Paradise (Special Cast)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 3—spec. prod.)
The Heart Specialist (Mary Miles Minter—Realart)
Beauty's Worth (Marion Davies)
The Mistress of the World (Chapter 4—spec. prod.)
A Stampede Madonna (Jack Holt)
The Dictator (Wallace Reid)
Tharon of Lost Valley (Dorothy Dalton)
(February Releases)
Love's Boomerang (Special Cast)
Moran of the Lady Letty (Dorothy Dalton)
The Red Peacock (Pola Negri)
One Glorious Day (Will Rogers)
Her Own Money (Ethel Clayton)
Boomerang Bill (Lionel Barrymore)
Saturday Night (Special Cast)
Back Pay

REALART PICTURES
The Sleepwalker (Constance Binney)
The Truthful Liar (Wanda Hawley)
The Heart Specialist
Midnight (Constance Binney)
Through a Glass Window (May McAvoy)

FEDERATED FILM EXCHANGES
CHESTER COMEDIES
(Once a Month)
HALLROOM BOYS COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
JOE ROCK COMEDIES
(Twice a Month)
SCREEN SNAPSHOTS
(Twice a Month)
Miracles of the Jungle
(Fifteen-Episode serial)

FIDELITY PICTURES CORP.
FEATURES
12 WITWER COMEDIES (CHAS. DELANEY)

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES
The Brotherhood of Hate (Special Cast)
When the Devil Drives (Leah Baird)
Heroes and Husbands (Katherine MacDonald)
The Woman Conquers (Katherine MacDonald)
Alias Julius Caesar (Charles Ray)
The Primitive Lover (Constance Talmadge)
The Duchess of Langeais (Norma Talmadge)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
Smilin' Through (Norma Talmadge)
Fools First (Special Cast)
Gas, Oil or Water (Charles Ray)
The Light in the Dark (Hope Hampton)
The Man Who Smiled (Special Cast)
Rose o' the Sea (Anita Stewart)
Skin Deep (Ince Special)
The Woman He Married (Anita Stewart)
Sonny (Richard Barthelmess)
Lost and Found (Jackie Coogan)
The Soul Seeker (Dorothy Phillips)
One Clear Call (Special Cast)
The Masquerader (Special Cast)
Lorna Doone (Special Cast)
Pawned (Special Cast)
Domestic Relations (Katherine MacDonald)
The Deuce of Spades (Chas. Ray)
Smudge (Chas. Ray)
The Seventh Day (Richard Barthelmess)
Someone to Love (Ince Prod.)
Suzanna (Mabel Normand)
The Hottentot (Ince Prod.)
Jim (Ince Prod.)
Finding Home (Ince Prod.)
Bellboy 13 (Ince Prod.)
Kindred of the Dust (Walsh Prod.)
Polly of the Follies (Constance Talmadge)
The Barnstormer (Charles Ray)
The Song of Life (Special Cast)
White Faith (Hope Hampton)
Slippery McGee
The Half Breed

COMEDIES
Pay Day (Charles Chaplin)
My Wife's Relations (Buster Keaton)
For Love or Money (Sennett)
Step Forward (Sennett)
On Patrol (Sennett)
Cops (Buster Keaton) 2
The Blockhead (Sennett)
The Pale Face (Buster Keaton) 2

FOX FILM EXCHANGES
FEATURES
Shackles of Gold (Wm. Farnum)
Monte Cristo (Special Cast)
A Fool There Was (Special Cast)
Clean Up Sudden (Tom Mix)
Pardon My Nerve (Chas. Jones)
Nero (Special Cast)
The Ragged Heiress (Shirley Mason)
Iron to Gold (Dustin Farnum)
A Stage Romance (William Farnum)
Chasing the Moon (Tom Mix)
Elope If You Must (Eileen Percy)

COMEDIES
The Barnstormer (Sunshine)
The Sheik (Sunshine)
Hot Dog (Clyde Cook)
The Studio Rube (Al. St. John)
The Broker (Lufino Lane)

MUTT AND JEFF CARTOONS
FOX NEWS
(Twice a week)

GOLDWYN EXCHANGES
THIRD GROUP OF RELEASES
Glorious Fool, The	5,392
Man With Two Mothers	4,423
His Back Against the Wall	4,680
Watch Your Step	4,713
Doubling for Romeo	4,304
Wallflower, The	5,228
Grand Larceny	5,228

HODKINSON CORP., W. W.
Golden Dreams (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
The Rise of Roscoe Paine (Irene Castle)
At the Sign of the Jack O' Lantern
Feb. 19—The Luxury Tax (Mabel Ballin)
Feb. 12, 1922—Hope (Triart Pictures Corp.)
The Grey Dawn (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)
Jan. 22, 1922—Heart's Haven (Benj. B. Hampton Prod.)

McGOVERN & EGLER
SHORTY HAMILTON SERIES
Apr. 10—Ride 'Em Cowboy 2
Mar. 27—Grit 2
Mar. 13—Pony Boy 2
Feb. 27—Let-'er-Go Gallagher 2
Feb. 13—Pep 2

METRO PICTURES CORP.
Missing Husbands (Special Cast)
Fascination (Mae Murray)
The Phantom Bride (Bert Lytell)
Mar. 20—Stay Home (Gareth Hughes) 6
Mar. 13—The Prisoner of Zenda (Special Cast)
Mar. 6—Glass Houses (Viola Dana) 6
Feb. 20—The Light That Failed (Bert Lytell) 6
Jan. 2—Turn to the Right (Special Cast)

NATIONAL EXCHANGES, INC.
Welcome Children (Special Cast)
Shadows of the West (Hedda Nova)

KINETO REVIEW
(One Reel Issued Weekly)

SERIALS

PACIFIC FILM COMPANY
The Girl from Rockypoint (Special Cast) 5
The Forest King (Special Cast) 5
The Voice in the Dark (Special Cast) 5
Double Stakes (Gladys Brockwell) 5
The Able Minded Lady (Henry B. Walthall) 5
The Call From the Wild (Frankie Lee) 5
The Fatal 30 (Special Cast) 5

FOLLY COMEDIES
(Starring Geo. Ovey and Vernon Dent—One reel each)

PATHE EXCHANGES
The Isle of Zorda (Special Cast)

SERIALS
Go Get 'Em Hutch
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Chas. Hutchinson)

(Continued on page 1648)

COMING RELEASES

(Continued from page 1647)

White Eagle
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Ruth Roland)
The Sky Ranger
(Fifteen Episodes—Starring Geo. B. Seitz and June Caprice)

SHORT SUBJECTS

Mar. 12—Little Mary Sunshine (Baby Marie Osborne)3
Mar. 12—The Spendthrift (Aesop's Fables).....2/3
Mar. 5—Mysterious Tracks (Bill and Bob series)...1

COMEDIES

The Bow Wows (Pollard).....1
Pardon Me (Pollard).....1
Full of Pep (Pollard).....1
Call the Witness (Pollard).....1
Our Gang (Pollard).....1
Feb. 12—Stage Struck (Pollard).....1
Harold Lloyd Reissues.....

NEWS REELS

Sundays—Topics of the Day.....
Wednesdays—Pathe News .....
Saturdays—Pathe News .....

PIONEER FILM CORP.

The Crimson Cross (Van Dyke Brooks).....
Beyond the Crossroads (Ora Carew).....
The Leech (Claire Whitney).....

PRIMEX PICTURES CORP.

His Pajama Girl.....5
Power 5
Your Daughter and Mine.....6
The Lonely Trail.....5
The Door That Has No Key.....6
Eternity 6
Smiles (series of 26 single reel novelty comedies).....
Twelve single reel Indian dramas.....

PRODUCERS SECURITY CORP.

The Great Alone (Monroe Salisbury).....
The Wolf's Fang (Wilfred Lytell).....5
The Soul of Man.....7
Squire Phinn 5
Mr. Bingle 5
Mr. Potter of Texas.....6
Irving Cummings Series.....2
Clara Fitzgerald Series.....2

PYRAMID PICTURES, INC.

The Mayor's Wife (Betty Blythe).....
The Queen of the Moulin Rouge.....

R-C PICTURES CORP.

The Son of the Wolf (Special Cast).....
The Bigamist (Ivy Duke).....
Gay and Devilish (Doris May).....
The Woman Breed (Pauline Frederick).....
The Glory of Clementina (Pauline Frederick).....
The Vermillion Pencil (Sessue Hayakawa).....
Boy Crazy (Doris May).....
Why Men Forget.....
The Call of Home (Special Cast).....

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

FRANK BRAIDWOOD SERIES
AL JENNINGS SERIES
HELEN GIBSON SERIES
FRITZI RIDGWAY SERIES
CAPITOL FILM COMPANY
NEAL HART SERIES
LESTER CUNEO SERIES

SECOND NATIONAL PICT. CORP.

Her Story (Madge Titheradge).....
Mr. Pim Passes By.....
The Night Riders.....
Brenda's Heritage .....
David and Jonathan (Madge Titheridge).....

SELZNICK (LEWIS J.) ENT.

Evidence (Elaine Hammerstein).....
Sink or Swim (Owen Moore).....
Reckless Youth (Elaine Hammerstein).....
The Prophet's Paradise (Eugene O'Brien).....
The Referee (Conway Tearle).....
Channing of the Northwest (Eugene O'Brien).....
A Wide Open Town (Conway Tearle).....
Love's Masquerade (Conway Tearle).....
SELECT PRODUCTIONS
WILLIAM J. FLYNN SERIES
CHAPLIN CLASSICS
SELZNICK NEWS
REPUBLIC FEATURES
SERIALS

W. M. SMITH PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Goldgrabbers .....
It Happened Out West.....
Crossroads .....
The Lariat Thrower.....
Trail's End .....
Angel Citizens .....
The White Mask.....
So This Is Arizona.....

STOREY PICTURES, INC.

Shadowland Screen Review—1 reel every 2 weeks.
Burlesque Photoplays—2 reels every month.

TRUART FILM CORPORATION

BURLINGHAM ADVENTURES

Across the St. Gothard Alps.....
A Borneo Venice.....
Island of Surprise .....
Monkey Land Up the Barito River.....
An Alpine Ride Up the Sranzerhorn.....
Jungle Belles of Borneo.....
An Arctic Hike on the Great Aletsch Glacier.....
A Wedding Feast Among the Borneo Dayaks.....

UNITED ARTISTS CORP.

Salome (Nazimova).....
Fair Lady (Special Cast).....
The Ruling Passion (George Arliss).....
A Doll's House (Nazimova).....

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGES

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

That Lass o' Lowrie's (Priscilla Dean).....
Under Two Flags (Priscilla Dean).....
Human Hearts (House Peters).....
The Storm (Special Cast).....
Apr. 3—The Bear Cat (Hoot Gibson).....
Mar. 27—The Dangerous Little Demon (Marie Prevost)
Peterman (Herbert Rawlinson).....
Mar. 13—The Wise Kid (Gladys Walton).....
Mar. 6—Wild Honey (Priscilla Dean).....
Mar. 6—Tracked to Earth (Frank Mayo).....
Man to Man (Harry Carey).....

SERIALS

The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Harry Myers)
With Stanley in Africa.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Geo. Walsh and Louise Lorraine)
Winners of the West.....
(Eighteen Episodes—Starring Art Acord)

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Jan. 1, 1922—Foolish Wives (Stroheim).....

COMEDIES

Off His Beat (Century).....2
The Rubberneck (Century).....2
A Golf Insect (Star).....1
Two of a Kind (Century).....2
Mutts (Century).....2

UNIVERSAL DRAMAS

Desperation (La Plante-Lincoln).....2
The Call of Courage (La Plante-Pembroke).....2
Trickery (Dorothy Woods-Hal Goodwin).....2

NEWS AND MAGAZINE REELS

Tuesdays—International News..... 1
Fridays—International News 1
Fridays—New Screen Magazine (Universal)..... 1

VITAGRAPH EXCHANGES

FEATURES

Locked Out (Alice Calhoun).....
The Shaugraun (Pauline Starke).....
The Man Hunter (William Duncan).....
The Sheik's Wife (Special Cast).....
Gypsy Passion (Special Cast).....
The Magnificent Ambersons (Jean Paige).....
The Man From Downing Street (Earle Williams)....
Island Wives (Corinne Griffith).....
The Prodigal Judge (Jean Paige).....
Flower of the North (Henry B. Walthall).....

COMEDIES

The Show (Larry Semon).....
A Charmed Life (Jimmy Aubrey).....
The Sawmill (Larry Semon).....

SERIALS

Breaking Through .....
(Starring Carmel Myers and Wallace MacDonald)

WARNER BROS.

Your Best Friend (Vera Gordon).....
School Days (Wesley Barry).....

SERIALS

Alice in Wonderland.....15 episodes
A Dangerous Adventure.....15 episodes
Miracles of the Jungle.....15 episodes

MONTY BANKS COMEDIES

(One released every month)

WID GUNNING, INC.

ENTERTAINMENT SERIES

Mar. 15—The Fire Bride.....
The Madness of Love.....
Alias Phil Kennedy.....
The Blonde Vampire.....
Foolish Monte Carlo.....
The Bootleggers .....
The Love Nest.....
Don't Blame Your Children.....
Mrs. Dane's Confession.....
The Blue Mountain Mystery.....

POST NATURE SERIES

(One Every Two Weeks)

SHORT SUBJECTS

A Bear, a Boy and a Dog.....2053 ft.
Puppy Days..... 950 ft.
Robinson Crusoe Hours..... 966 ft.
The Good Things of Life.....
(Weekly Single Reel Release)

WESTERN FEATURE PROD., INC.

A Western Demon (Wm. Fairbanks).....
Hell's Border (Wm. Fairbanks).....

SHORT SUBJECTS

(Continued from page 1646)

Feature	Star	Distributed By	Length	Reviewed
Island of Surprise (Scenic)		Truart
Juggernauts of the Jungle (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Jungle Belles of Borneo (Novelty)		Truart
Jungle Goddess, The (Serial)		Exp. & Imp.-S. R.	15 episodes	Feb. 4
King of the Circus (Serial), Eddie Polo		Universal	18 episodes
Lake Maggiore (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Leather Pushers, The (Drama)		Universal	6 reels	Jan. 28
Let's Go—To the South Seas (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Dec. 10
Lochinvar of the Line (Drama), Edgar Jones.		Pathe	2 reels
Lorraine of the Timberlands (West. Dr.), Tom Sanchi		Pathe	2 reels	Oct. 8
Lost, a Yodel (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Magic Gems (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Monkey Land Up the Barito River (Scenic)		Truart
Ne'er to Return Road (Dr.), Wallace Berrey.		Educational	2 reels	Oct. 8
Neighbor Nelly (Romance)		Prizma	1 reel	Jan. 28
Netting the Leopard (Wild Animal)		Pathe	1 reel	Sept. 24
New Wine in Old Bottles (Educational)		Educational
Nice and Cannes (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel	Oct. 1
Night Attack, The (Drama)		Universal	2 reels	Feb. 18
Nippon (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
No More Gasoline (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Northern Trail, The (Drama)		Educational	2 reels
Official Movie Chats of M. P. T. O. of A.		Kineto		Feb. 11
Old and New England (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Dec. 10
Old Dynamite (Special)		Universal	2 reels	Dec. 3
Old Moose Trails (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Pageantry in India (Scenic)		Kineto
Panama (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Pelican Island (Scenic)		Truart
Perilous Ascent of the Zinal-Rothorn (Scenic)		Truart
Primitive Life in Tennessee (Scenic)		Kineto	1 reel	Feb. 4
Puppy Days		Wid Gunning	1 reel
Pyrenees and Wooden Legs (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Quaint Holland (Scenic)		Universal	2 reels
Ranger's Reward, The (Drama) Art Acord		Educational	1 reel	Feb. 18
Ranger, The (Scenic)		Sunset-Burrud	1 reel	Feb. 11
Roaring Waters (West. Drama), Geo. Larkin.		Universal	2 reels	Sept. 27
Robinson Crusoe Hours		Wid Gunning	1 reel
Ropin' Fool, A (Will Rogers, W. Dr.)			2 reels	Nov. 26
Ruins of Angkor (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Rural Java (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Santa Fe—The City Different (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Science at Home (Kineto Review)		National Ex.	1 reel
Secret of Butte Ridge, The (W. Dr.), T. Sanchi.		Pathe	2 reels	Feb. 4
Seeing San Marino (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Seeing the Unseen (Novelty)		Prizma	1 reel
Seven League Booters (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Seville in Fair Time (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Sky Ranger, The (Serial)		Pathe	15 episodes
So This is London (Scenic)		Prizma	1 reel	Feb. 4
Stamboul (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Striking Tires, The (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	1 reel
Strolling Minstrels (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel	Oct. 29
Sunbeams (Study)		Prizma	1 reel
Sweet Heart (Western Drama), Billy West.		Joan Film	2 reels
Terror Trail (Serial), Eileen Sedgwick		Universal	18 episodes
Thrills (Sport Topic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Too Much Overhead (Educational)		Educational	1 reel
Trickery (Drama)		Universal	2 reels
Trip of U. S. S. Idaho (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Trip Through Film Land, A (Novelty)		Bosworth, De Freves & Felton	2 reels	Dec. 31
Village Life in Switzerland (Scenic)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Wanderlust (Scenic)		Educational	1 reel
Was Darwin Right? (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Watching the Wayanda (Scenic)		Paramount	1 reel
Water Babies (Educational)		Kineto Review	1 reel
Wedding Feast, Among Borneo Dayaks, A (Novelty)		Truart
White Eagle (Serial)		Pathe	15 episodes
White Mouse, The (Drama) Lewis Stone		Educational	2 reels	Nov. 5
Wild Men of Borneo (Adventure)		State Rights
Winter Pets (Sport Review)		Artclass	1 reel
Winners of the West (Serial), Art Acord		Universal	18 episodes	Oct. 1
With Stanley in Africa (Serial) George Walsh.		Universal	18 ep'sdes.	Feb. 11
Young Painter, The		Hodkinson	1 reels

Special Section

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.

Rapid Growth Terminates in Three New Branch Offices

Organization Includes Electrical Mechanical Projection Engineers

The Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc., on March 17th, celebrate their fifth anniversary having started in business under this name on March 17th, 1917.

Mr. Rabell, the originator of this company was formerly manager and projection engineer, with the firm of J. H. Hallberg for a number of years and equipped the most representative of theatres during that time, including the Rialto and Rivoli of New York City. When Mr. J. H. Hallberg entered into amalgamation with other theatre equipment interests, Mr. Rabell left the organization and started the Independent Movie Supply Co., at 729 Seventh Ave. on the sixth floor.

W. H. Rabell, president and treasurer, is a thorough organizer. He started the Independent Movie Supply Company five years ago and has since been the chief factor in its rapid expansion which has terminated in the opening of the three new branch offices. The confidence that is expressed by two of the leading corporations in their respective field, the General Electric and the Nicholas Power Companes in selecting Mr. Rabell and his organization as their Eastern Distributor, bespeaks the recognition given his abilities

The total office and storage space at that time was about 325 sq. ft. Mr. Rabell was proprietor of the company for two years at which time the business had grown so rapidly that the company's office and storage warehouse had to be enlarged three times and it was decided at that time to incorporate the company into a stock corporation. Mr. Rabell became President and Treasurer of the new corporation with $350,000, capitalization.

The total squarefootage at this time occupied by the company's offices had grown to about 3,000 sq. ft. and their warehouse space enlarged to 3,000 sq. ft. making a total square footage in actual use by the company of 6,000 sq. ft. or twenty times the size of its origin.

Work in the World War

During the World War, the Independent Movie Supply Co., was appointed by the Government Loan Organization and the American Red Cross as Chief Publicity Agents of the Outdoor Activities. This necessitated 38 complete road shows, travelling day and night on trucks setting up machine and projecting pictures on street corners, show-windows, hotels, clubs, army cantonments, offices, halls, and in any place where the appeal could be made to the public. The four surrounding states were entirely covered by the road shows and equipment furnished by the Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc., for the Government Loan Organization, Victory Loan Organization, and the American Red Cross. Through this medium of Outdoor Activities over $50,000,000 of Liberty Bonds were sold at this time to the public.

The Imsco Engine and Generator Sets or Individual Lighting plants from one to six K. W. capacity for generating electricity for moving picture machines and lighting purposes were put to the severe climatic tests on the French, Italian, and Russian fronts during the World War. The rough handling and continual changing of the Imsco plant whether in the Mountains or on the Low-Lands, none but the highest praise, has come from the

(Continued on following page)

J. J. Winkinson, general manager, is right on the job every minute of the day and it might often be said well into the night. Mr. Wilkinson joined the Independent Movie Supply Company January, 1919, being previously employed by the Deveau Phone and Anth Electrical Companies. While with the latter company, Mr. Wilkinson did considerable consulting engineering through his capacity of office manager. Mr. Wilkinson has also the additional honor of having served with our overseas forces

The new branch office at New Haven, Conn., gives the Independent Movie Supply Company another central point from which to serve their patrons men actually operating the Imsco Engines and Generator Sets.

(Continued from preceding page)

The Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc., have furnished and installed the equipment in the most representative of the recent installations throughout the East and some of the installations will be found in other parts of this issue.

The Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc., are the direct representatives of the General Electric Company in the states of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and are also distributors of Powers Projectors, together with having material of their own manufacture and representing some of the leading manufacturers of the country.

Expansion Movement

During the latter part of 1921 they decided to branch out and placed representative stories in three of the leading cities in the East; offices were opened in Albany, at 42 Orange Street the heart of the Film district, in charge of Mr. George Hallett, Manager. Buffalo, in the heart of the Film district at 464 Pearl Street, in charge of Mr. Frank Davidson. In New Haven, Conn., in the heart of the Film district at 131 Meadow Street, in charge of Mr. Louis Phillips.

All of the offices, including the main office in New York, are experiencing a very busy season with the many new installations and the sale of regular equipment, the company doing a gross business of nearly one half a million per annum.

On their staff there are twenty-two employees. The General Manager, Mr. J. J. Wilkinson has been with the Company three years during which time he has become widely acquainted with the trade. His previous experience in the electrical trade has proven a valuable asset in the Motion Picture business.

Mr. Julian Speer, Sales Manager, has been with the Company about the same length of time. Mr. Speer was formerly in charge of the sales of the Fort Wayne Department of the General Electric Company. After fifteen years service with the General Electric Company, he joined the Imsco forces. He is a graduate Electrical Engineer and is in charge of all electrical installations; laying out plans, blueprints and is in personal co-operation with the architects building new theatres.

Mr. C. H. Secor is in charge of the entire installation and shipping department and has been with the company a number of years.

Mr. R. A. Jennings has entire charge of the outside sales and some of the recent large installations have been attributed to his activities.

Mr. Rabell was interviewed by the representative of the news and the representative was surprised at meeting Mr.

(Continued on page 1652)

Julian Speer, sales manager, has had a wealth of experience in electrical apparatus, having been in the employ of the General Electric Company for fifteen years designing and testing motor generators. These years of training and experiences are now of great value to Mr. Speer in connection with the Independent Movie Supply Company, which he joined June, 1919

R. A. Jennings, District representative, has now been with the Independent Movie Supply Company only a little over a year though through his previous connections with Pathe and Fox film companies he gathered a knowledge of the motion picture business to which he is now using to good advantage

1917 - 1922

Five years of successful service to the exhibitor, exchange and laboratory. For the convenience of the trade, we have opened three branch offices, conveniently located, with men of experience to serve you.

42 Orange St.
Albany, N. Y.
Mr. G. J. Hallett
Manager

464 Pearl St.
Buffalo, N. Y.
Mr. F. Davidson
Manager

131 Meadow St.
New Haven, Conn.
Mr. L. Phillips
Manager

DISTRIBUTORS OF

POWER'S PROJECTORS
GENERAL ELECTRIC GENERATORS
KENOLITE 3 COMBINATION LENSES and every other known supply and accessory for the motion picture theatre

Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc.

729 Seventh Avenue ∴ New York, N. Y.

(Continued from page 1650)

Rabell to find him the President of such a large organization that maintains offices in four of the leading cities of the Eastern States, and in being presented to such a young man, but a man of vast experience in the motion picture equipment industry and so well versed in the equipment of most of the largest new theatres recently opened.

Success Attributed to Four Things

Mr. Rabell, when asked how he attributed the rapid success of the Independent Movie Supply Co., stated: "We owe our success to four things:

First: Service.

Second: Courtesy.

Third: Our absolute ironbound guarantee to stand back of the merchandise which we have sold whether it is one day, one week or one year, or, ten years.

Fourth. To give every customer value received, quality merchandise at the lowest price consistent with good merchandising methods.

We are the only firm that employs an electrical engineer by the year to supervise all electrical installations and all projection matters. We were the first firm to put on a licensed electrician and projectionist to do all our installation work and keep him by the year, to attend to all trouble jobs, to give service on all apparatus, irrespective of whether we sold it or not. We were the first firm to have our own service trucks, making deliveries within a radius of 100 miles from New York.

Our branch office at the present time are doing just as much business in comparison to the New York office and they are giving service in the same way, having had it instilled into their hearts, as well as it has been instilled in all employees, and we have one motto and it has been with us for five years, and we know by the results we have obtained, by the business we have done, by the installations we have made, by the theatres we have entirely equipped that IMSC stands for "CURTSEY WITH SERVICE," and IMSCO further means IMSCO EQUIPPED equals Perfect Projection.

The services of our entire organization including our electrical engineer and projection engineers are free to any exhibitor, and the exhibitor's problem is our problem and when the Exhibitor's problem is solved the reflection is in his box office.

We wish to extend our heartiest thanks on our Fifth Anniversary to everyone in the Industry, every Manufacturer, every Exhibitor and every Customer for their hearty cooperation and their patronage for the past five years and we trust that we will live up to our motto in the future as we have in the past and that we may add every other dissatisfied exhibitor that is not our customer today to our long list of customers getting perfect projection and perfect service and courteous treatment from not only the heads of our organization but from everyone, including our messengers.

Raven Half Tone Screens

The report is received that the Raven Halftone screen is giving very commendable results in theatres where this screen is particularly suited. This screen differs entirely in its characteristics from that of the reflector type. The Independent Movie Supply Company supplies both types so that a good screen is furnished to fit any theatre.

Superlite Screen in Demand

A great many installations have included the Superlite Screen, manufactured by the C. S. Wertsner Company, Philadelphia. This screen, it seems, is used to good advantage in a large portion of the houses equipped by the Independent Movie Supply Company.

Equipts 65 Theatres

It is interesting and of great significance to note the extensive field of operations that the Independent Movie Supply Company has covered in the last six months. More than sixty-five theatres have furnished and equipped by this Company in this time which have had an average seating capacity of approximately 1,200. Eleven installations have been made which have included the Powers General Electric High Intensity Arc; the remaining have Powers Projectors and General Electric Generators one or both:

The following partial list brings out very forcibly the representative field in which the United Theatre Equip. Company have extended their activities.

NAME OF THEATRE	EQUIPMENT
Republic, Brooklyn, N. Y.	General Electric Generators and Powers Projectors High Intensity
Poli's, Waterbury, Conn.	" " " "
Strand, Stamford, Cn.	" " " "
Rivoli, Rutherford, N. J.	" " " "
Rivoli, Newark, N. J.	" " " "
Amendola, Niagara Falls, N. Y.	" " " "
Fulton, Jersey City, N. J.	" " " "
Central, Jersey City, N. J.	" " " "
Lynn, White Plains, N. Y.	" " " "
Meserole, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Hollywood, Brooklyn, N. Y.	General Electric Generators and Powers Projectors Regular Type
Review, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Ironbound, Newark, N. J.	" " " "
State, Middletown, N. Y.	" " " "
Peter Dawe's, Bridgeport, Conn.	" " " "
Foti's, Waterbury, Conn.	" " " "
Capitol, Bridgeport, Conn.	" " " "
Hippodrome, Bridgeport, Conn.	" " " "
Regent, Kearney, N. J.	" " " "
Garden, Passaic, N. J.	" " " "
Capitol, Trenton, N. J.	" " " "
Trent, Trenton, N. J.	" " " "
Main St., Asbury Park, N. J.	" " " "
State, New Brunswick, N. J.	" " " "
Strand, Albany, N. Y.	" " " "
American, Troy, N. Y.	" " " "
Regent, Albany, N. Y.	" " " "
King, Troy, N. Y.	" " " "
American, Albany, N. Y.	" " " "
Belmont, New York City	" " " "
Lincoln, Union Hill, N. J.	" " " "
Troy, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Sunset, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Maplewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Stadium, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Arcade, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " " "
Palace, New York City	" " "
LOEW'S THEATRES
State, Newark, N. J.	General Electric Generator
Spooner, N. Y. City	" " "
National, N. Y. City	" " "
Alpine, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " "
Warwick, Brooklyn, N. Y.	" " "
Boulevard, N. Y. City	" " "
Burland, N. Y. City	" " "
Lyric, Hoboken, N. J.	" " "
New Rochelle, New Rochelle, N. Y.	" " "

PERFECT CHANGE-OVERS EASY WHEN USING THE BEHLEN FILM SIGNAL

The Behlen Signal gives two electric warnings timed fifty feet apart. Never fails. No more worry at change-overs. Every experienced projectionist who has a pride in his profession will appreciate the Behlen Signal.

Special Offer Price $7.50 Each

The regular price of the Behlen Film Signal is $15.00 each. We have inaugurated a ninety day, nation-wide sales campaign and expect to put hundreds of these signals in use in every part of the United States. To accomplish this purpose we have made a special price of $7.50 each.

Send a Trial Order

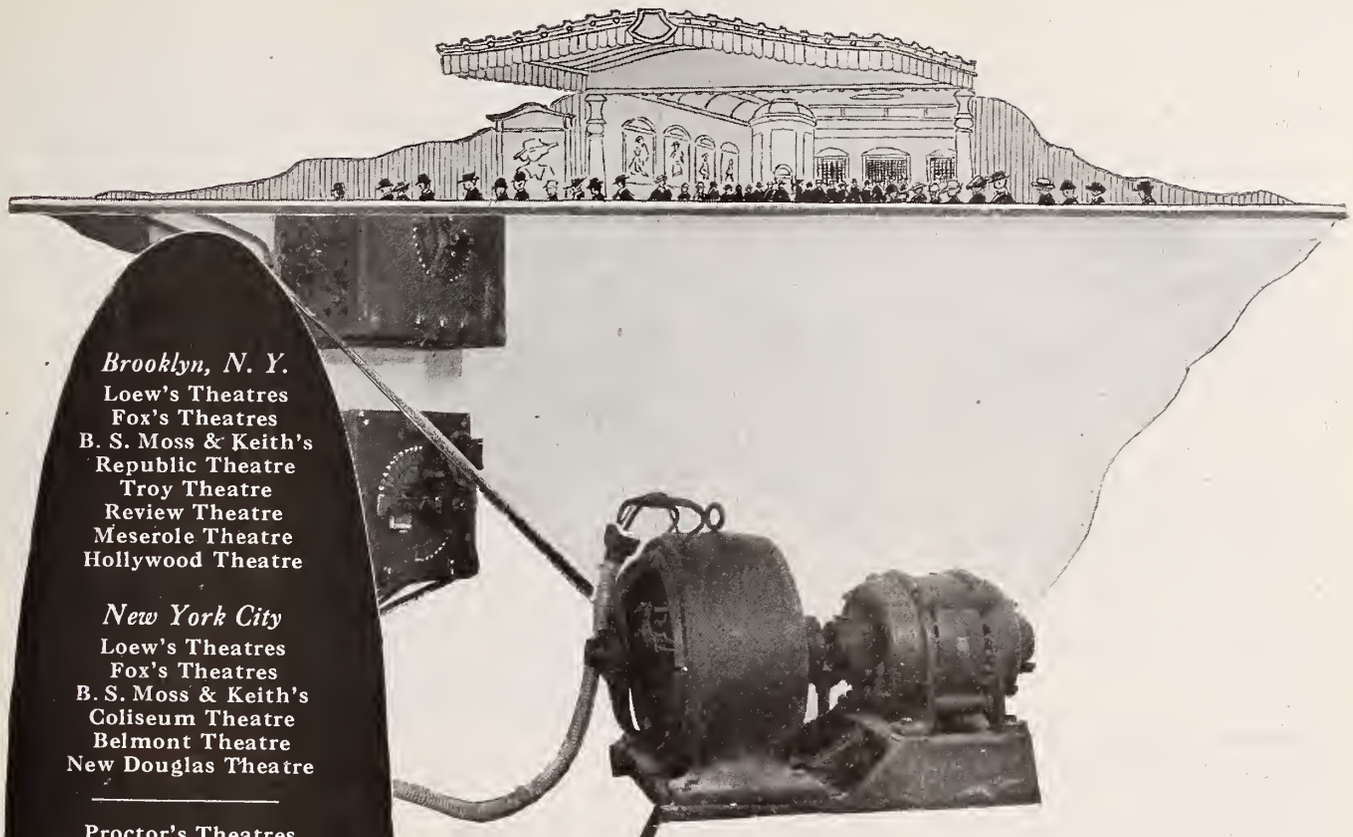
Mail us your remittance at once for $7.50 and a Behlen Signal will be shipped the same day via parcel post. If this signal does not meet with your entire approval after thirty days' use, return the signal and your money will be refunded. When ordering please state make of projectors used.

Powers or Simplex

When ordering Behlen Change-Over Signals please state whether you have Simplex or Powers projectors. Different models of the signals are required for each of these makes of projectors.

Behlen Signals in Every Theatre Everywhere—Our Motto for 1922

C. C. RUSH ENTERPRISES Greenville, S. C.



Brooklyn, N. Y.
Loew's Theatres
Fox's Theatres
B. S. Moss & Keith's
Republic Theatre
Troy Theatre
Review Theatre
Meserole Theatre
Hollywood Theatre

New York City
Loew's Theatres
Fox's Theatres
B. S. Moss & Keith's
Coliseum Theatre
Belmont Theatre
New Douglas Theatre

Proctor's Theatres
Mt. Vernon, Yonkers, Troy
American Theatre, Troy
King Theatre, Troy
American Theatre, Albany
Strand Theatre, Albany
Regent Theatre, Albany
Amendola, Niagara Falls
Lynn, White Plains

New Jersey
Capitol Theatre, Trenton
Trent Theatre, Trenton
Main Street, Asbury Park
Central, Jersey City
Fulton, Jersey City
Ironbound Theatre, Newark
Rivoli Theatre, Newark

Connecticut
Capitol Theatre, Bridgeport
Strand Theatre, Stamford
Fotl's Theatre, Waterbury
Poli's Theatre, Waterbury

G-E Compensarcs

are installed where projection as nearly perfect as possible is the first requirement of the public to which the theatre caters. Many of the largest and best theatres are dependent for the efficiency of their current supply upon General Electric equipment which is well known for its sturdy dependability and economy of operation.

At the left are listed a few of the many theatres where G-E Compensarcs are producing results pleasing alike to exacting patrons and to careful and experienced exhibitors. These installations were made by Independent Movie Supply Co., Inc.

729 Seventh Ave. New York City

Eastern distributors for

General Electric Company

General Office Schenectady, N.Y.

Sales Offices in all large cities

35C-80

Backing of General Electric

The Independent Movie Supply Company considers itself fortunate in being the Eastern distributors of the General Electric generators. The name and engineering service which backs this make of apparatus proves a great advantage.

Automatic Ticket Reports Busy Season

The Automatic Ticket Selling Company reports business as very encouraging. The past season has been very gratifying considering the general condition of the industry. The prospects for the immediate future appear very bright.

Signal Device

The change over signal device made by the C. C. Rush Enterprises Company now has the Independent Movie Supply Company as one of its chief distributors. This device is relatively new on the market and is reported as making rapid progress in distribution.

Powers Projectors

The Powers projectors are part of the standard equipment used by the independent Movie Supply Company whenever they make an installation. The reputation and merits of the Powers machine are claimed as one of the big boosters in getting business.

Interior view of the new branch office, Buffalo, N. Y., which has recently opened, will enable the Independent Movie Supply Company to give efficient service throughout this district

Ticket Choppers a Safeguard

Caille Bros. find that their product, the ticket chopper, is becoming more universally used throughout the motion picture theatres in this country. This machine is one of the most important assurances to the exhibitor that there will be no leakage of profits.

RAVEN HAFTONE SCREEN

installed in the

CAPITOL THEATRE, NEW YORK was recently sold to the Rivoli Theatre, Newark N. J.

Plaza Theatre, New York, N. Y.
Fulton Theatre, Jersey City, N. J.
Strand Theatre, New York, N. Y.

through the

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

RAVEN HAFTONE SCREEN

Is Sold by Leading Supply Houses Throughout the United States

RAVEN SCREEN CORPORATION

ONE SIXTY-FIVE BROADWAY NEW YORK

SUPER-LITE SCREENS

SUPER-LITE SCREEN MANUFACTURERS Congratulate INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY
on the successful distribution of Super-Lite Screens. With best wishes for continued success

C. S. WERTSNER & SON, Manufacturers
211-221 North 13th Street Philadelphia, Pa.

The CAILLE Security Ticket Chopper

Recognized as the standard for years

Size 45x12x12 inches
Weight 100 lbs.

Choppers That Chop

The CAILLE Security Ticket Chopper actually tears the tickets into shreds, removing all possibility of again smoothing or ironing them out to be used a second time.

The cutting knives and mechanism are so constructed that coins or metal checks will pass right through without injury to machine.

Chopper is also equipped with agitator to force strips of tickets down onto the cutting knives.

In lower compartment, under lock, is large metal box to retain the cuttings.

The choppers are supplied in birch, mahogany or on special request in any other finish desired. Top and feet are of white porcelain enamel. We also manufacture electric ticket choppers and ticket boxes. Be sure that it is a CAILLE

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
729-7th Ave., New York City
Distributors

THE CAILLE BROTHERS CO.
6210 Second Boulevard Detroit, Michigan

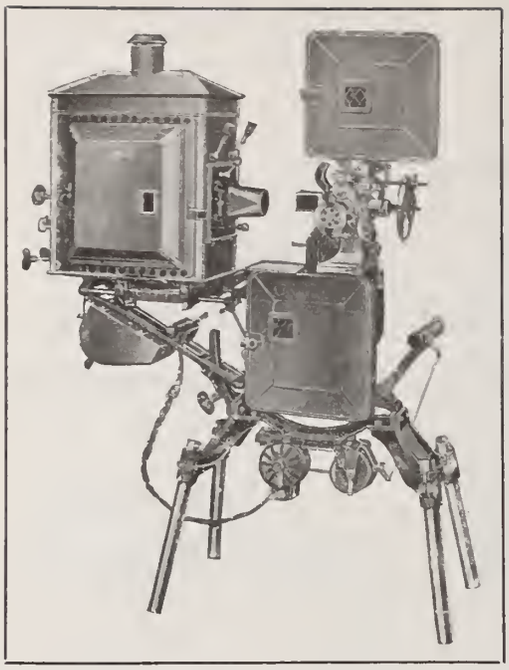
THERE is just one big reason why Columbia Projector Carbons are used everywhere

—they make better pictures

INCIDENTALLY THEY SCORE HIGH in ECONOMY

Write for Information

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY
INCORPORATED
Cleveland, Ohio
San Francisco, Cal.



Some Installations of

POWER'S PROJECTORS

Recently made by the

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY

729 Seventh Ave., New York

NAME OF THEATRE	CITY
State Theatre	Middletown, N. Y.
Republic Theatre	Brooklyn, N. Y.
Troy Theatre	Brooklyn, N. Y.
Meserole Theatre	Brooklyn, N. Y.
Lynn Theatre	White Plains, N. Y.
Hollywood Theatre	Brooklyn, N. Y.
Review Theatre	Brooklyn, N. Y.
Capitol Theatre	Bridgeport, Conn.
Peter Dawe's Theatre	Bridgeport, Conn.
Belmont Theatre	New York City
Central Theatre	Jersey City, N. J.
Lafayette Theatre	New York City
Cosmos Theatre	New York City
Greenwich Theatre	Greenwich, Conn.
Barhydt's Theatre	Troy, N. Y.
Foti Theatre	Waterbury, Conn.
Fulton Theatre	Jersey City, N. J.
Plaza Theatre	New York City
Shady Side Lodge	Castleton, N. Y.
Arion Theatre	Middle Village, L. I.
Crescent Theatre	White Plains, N. Y.
Majestic Theatre	New York City
West Side Recreation School	South Manchester, Conn.
Nathan Hale School	South Manchester, Conn.
Knights of Pythias Opera House	Chester, N. Y.
Strand Theatre	White Plains, N. Y.
Board of Education	Rochester, N. Y.
Amendola Theatre	Niagara Falls, N. Y.
P. S. No. 2	Hoboken, N. J.
Plainfield High School	Plainfield, N. J.
Capitol Theatre	Paterson, N. J.
Victoria Theatre	Rochester, N. Y.
City Theatre	Passaic, N. J.

Power's Projectors
Are Sold Only By Authorized Distributors
This Enables Power's Distributors
To Give Power's Service
To Users Of
Power's Projectors

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY COMPANY

Are Authorized Distributors for

POWER'S PROJECTORS

In the Metropolitan District

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
INCORPORATED
EDWARD EARL, PRESIDENT
NINETY GOLD ST. NEW YORK, N.Y.

NEW THEATRE

CONSTRUCTION & EQUIPMENT

PROJECTION DEPARTMENT CAMERA

P. M. ABBOTT - - - - - - - - - - - TECHNICAL EDITOR

Patrons' Comfort First Consideration in Mainstreet Theatre

Total Investment 2,000,000 Dollars; Seating 3,200

Kansas City's second new combination notion picture and vaudeville house, to be rected this year, made its debut this nonth. The Mainstreet theatre, one of ne largest house in the West, represents cost of $1,500,000, while the total in-estment amounted to $2,000,000.

The policy of the new house, which has seating capacity of 3,200, will be four nows daily. The projection room, con-ining two type S Simplex machines, is ne of the most modern in the Middle Vest and will be in charge of Jack Her-ng and C. Cessia. The new house, which affiliated with the Junior Orpheum cir-uit, is constructed of marble, concrete and terra cotta. Great attention has been given by the management to the care of the patrons. Each floor is equipped with drinking fountains and telephone booths, while elevators are operated between the first floor and the balcony and upper boxes.

The color scheme of the theatre is blue, gold and tan and no expense has been spared in the provision of rugs, draperies and equipment from Capital Merchandise Company, Chicago, the carpet for the floors alone costing $9,000.

A Wittenmair refrigerating system, costing $100,000, is capable of lowering the temperature 20 degrees in the sum-

(Continued on page 1660)

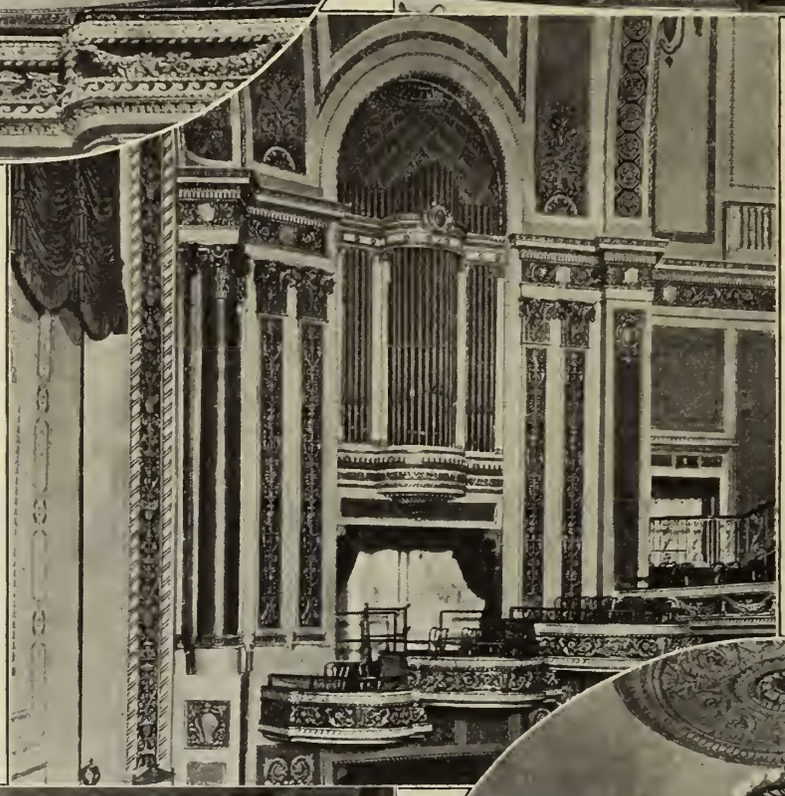
Specifications

Name	Mainstreet
Circuit	Junior Orpheum
Investment	$2,000,000
Seating Capacity	3200
Architect	Rapp Bros.
Color Scheme	Blue, Gold, Tan
Decorators	Mandell Bros.
Construction,	Marble, Concrete, Terra Cotta
Draperies	Capitol Merchandising Co.
Refrigerating System	Whittenmair
Lighting Control	Major
Projectors	Simplex
Arc Control	Peerless
Lenses	Kenolite
Manager	John Herring

The beautiful mezzanine and promenade of the Main Street theatre, Kansas City, Mo. An attractive and restful place such as this is a decided advantage to a theatre in that it affords a pleasant meeting place for theatre parties and lends a touch of distinction to the house

The above is a section of the dome in the auditorium in which is placed some of the main lighting units. This section gives an idea of the detail of designed used in the theatre

The Main Street theatre, Kansas City, Mo., has a well proportioned stage and prosenium which presents a most pleasing view from the auditorium. The draperies are so arranged giving a sense of great distance from the front seats to the screen. The organ chambers which are shown in detail in the cenetr picture may just be discerned on the extreme edges



On the right is a view of one of the organ chambers in which is shown originality of design. The Main Street theatre, Kansas City, Mo., is by no means the pioneer in giving painstaking care to the installation of the organ as this equipment is now recognized as one of the most important of the theatre

The ticket booth shown below presents an attractive appearance The ticket booth is usually the first and probably the most prominent fixture of the lobby which draws the attention of the public. It is therefore essential that this fixture be given especial attention in its design and general appearance

The spacious and beautiful interiors give the patrons a very favorable impression of the Main Street theatre

All Over the Country—Why?

The Major System is controlling the lights in a great many of the largest and finest theatres in the country. From coast to coast it is recognized as the one system capable of the most beautiful lighting effects, the simplest and most practical in operation and the less costly in the long run.

Men who are the leaders in the theatre and motion picture field endorse emphatically the Major System because it places in the hands of their electrician the minute control of even the smallest circuits of light, in front and back of the curtain, both for brilliance and blending.

Older theatres can be modernized by installing one and new theatres made of greater earning ability by the Major Control.

Write for a valuable outline of theatre lighting requirements, "The Theatre Lighting Questionaire"

SOME OF THE MAJOR INSTALLATIONS

Peoples Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Lincoln Theatre.....Belleville, Ill.
Majestic Theatre.....Bloomington, Ill.
Erber Theatre.....East St. Louis, Ill.
Rialto Theatre .....Elgin, Ill.
Asher's Palace Theatre.....Peoria, Ill.
Fort Armstrong Theatre.....Rock Island, Ill.
State Theatre.....Minneapolis, Minn.
Capitol Theatre.....St. Paul, Minn.
Elks Temple.....South Ribbing, Minn.
Victory Theatre.....Evansville, Ind.
Partheon Theatre.....Hammond, Ind.
Palace Theatre.....Cincinnati, Ohio
Hanna Theatre.....Cleveland, Ohio
Keith's 105th Street Theatre...Cleveland, O.
New Colonial Theatre.....Allentown, Pa.
Illinois Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Strand Theatre.....Greensburg, Pa.
Miller's Theatre.....Jefferson City, Mo.
Mainstreet Orpheum Junior Theatre.....Kansas City, Mo.
West Englewood Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Granada Theatre.....San Francisco, Cal.
And others

MORE OF THE MAJOR INSTALLATIONS

Tivoli Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Capitol Theatre.....Davenport, Ia.
Rialto Theatre.....Louisville, Ky.
Columbia Theatre.....Baton Rouge, La.
Strand Theatre.....Lansing, Mich.
Sheridan Theatre.....New York City, N. Y.
Tivoli Theatre.....Chattanooga, Tenn.
Majestic Theatre.....Dallas, Texas
Hennipin, Orpheum, Jr.....Minneapolis, Minn.
Lincoln Dixie Theatre, Chicago Heights,.....Cook County, Ill.
Indiana Theatre.....Terre Haute, Ind.
Schaefer Theatre.....St. Cloud, Minn.
Orpheum Jr. Theatre.....Los Angeles, Cal.
Apollo Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Deland Amusement Co..Deland, Fla.
La Fayette Square Theatre.....Buffalo, N. Y.
Melba Theatre.....Dallas, Texas
Keith's Theatre.....Dayton, Ohio
Orpheum Theatre.....Wichita, Kans.
Chicago Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
Miller Theatre.....Oakland, Cal.
Orpheum Junior.....Fresno, Cal.
Tivoli Theatre.....Chicago, Ill.
And others

Frank Adam Electric Co.

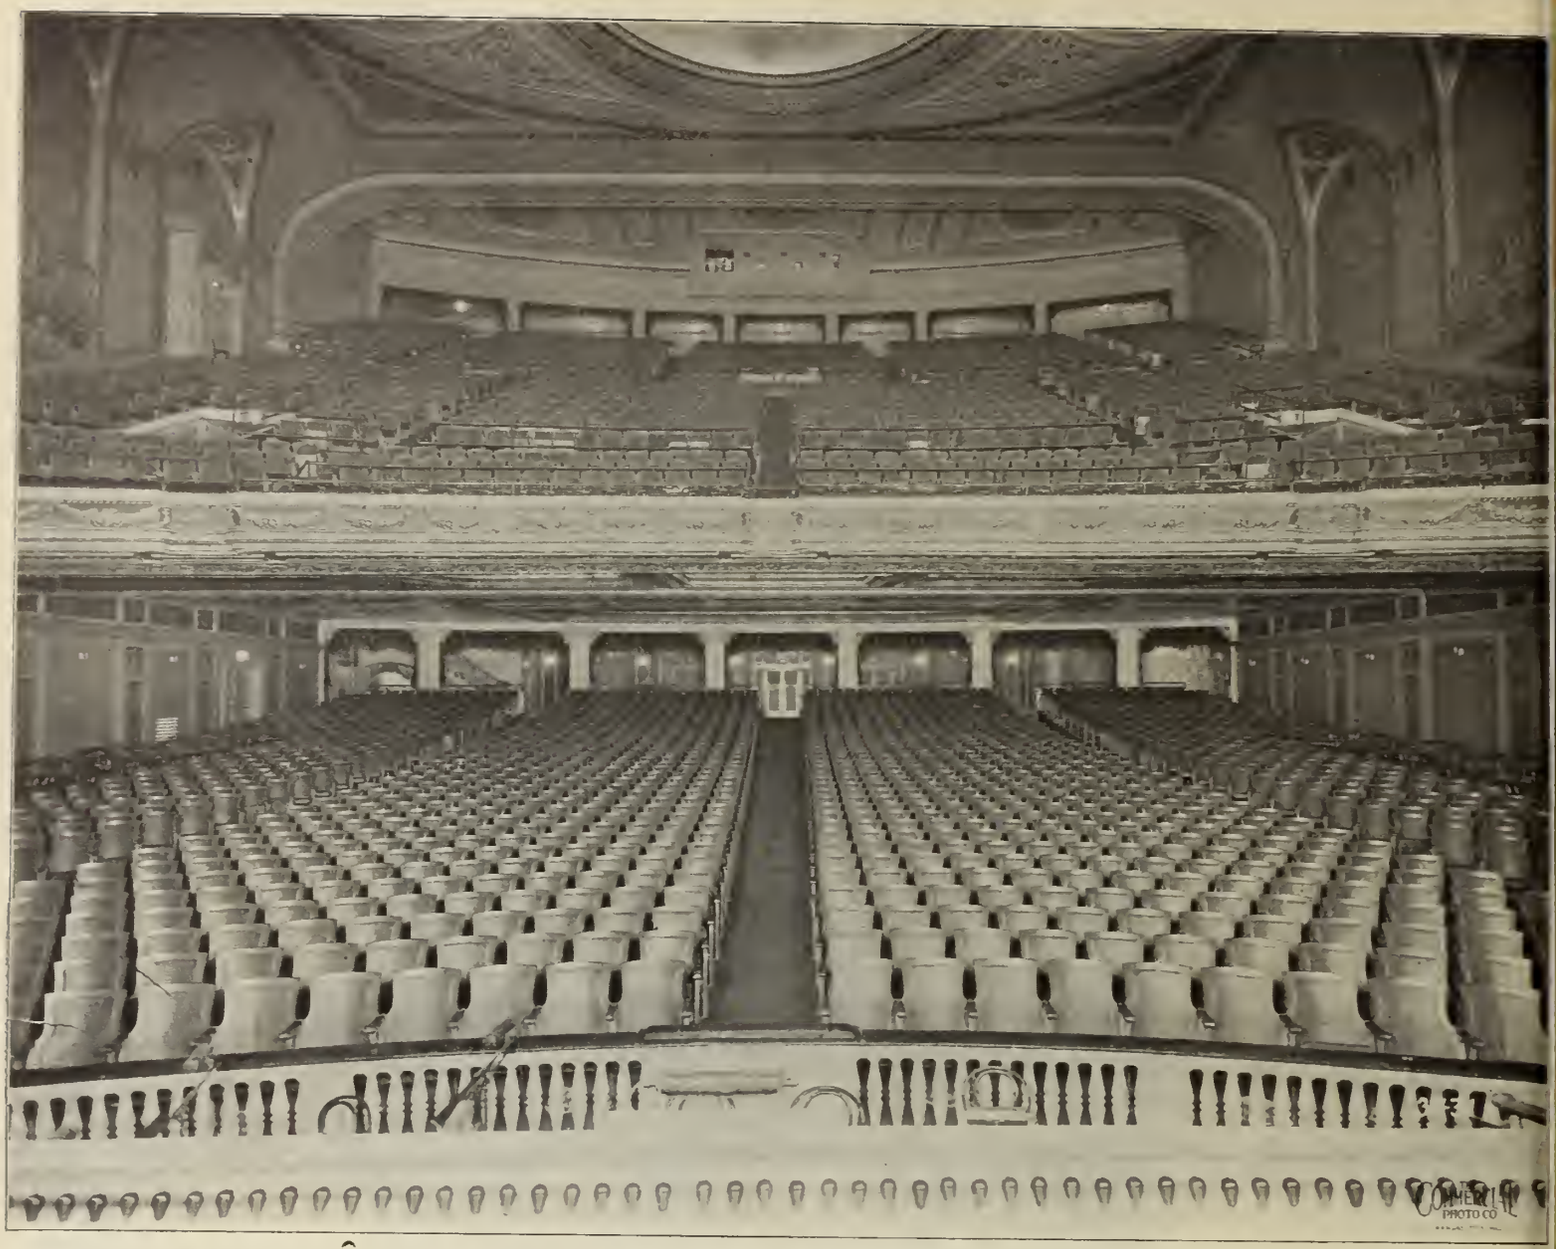
ST. LOUIS MO.

District Offices

Detroit, Minneapolis, New York, Dallas, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle.

Manufacturers also of Triumph panel boards, panel boards and cabinets, knife switches, safety switches, fan hanger outlets, reversible cover floor boxes and A. C. and D. C. Distribution Switchboards.

MAJOR FA SYSTEM
TRADE MARK



The Auditorium of the Main Street theatre, Kansas City, Mo., has seating accomodations for 3,200 persons, the total investment for the house exceeded 2,000,000 dollars

Main Street Theatre

(Continued from page 1657)

mer time. Spacious lobbies, so that patrons may not be exposed to the weather, is another of the many features of the Mainstreet.

Rest rooms seem everywhere and there is a nursery for children equipped with cribs and milk heating bottles. A competent nurse is in charge of the nursery. A modern hospital room, with first aid appliances, is under the direction of a trained nurse. There is also an adjoining play room for children. One hundred and fifty persons are employed in the theatre.

The Mainstreet requires 13,200 volts of electricity for lighting purposes. The building has a 190-foot depth from Fourteenth street and the auditorium is more than 100 feet wide.

The Dictagraph telephone system is used through the house, which also is equipped with a Major remote control switchboard. In the projection room, Peerless arc controls, Keno-lite lenses and spotlights, furnished by the Chicago Stage Lighting Company, are among the features.

Martin Beck, president of the Orpheum circuit, and Mort Singer, general manager, attended the informal opening of the house.

"Kansas City was the first city west of Chicago considered for a popular priced house of this kind in the scheme of the Junior Orpheum circuit," Mr. Beck said. "Factors in that choice were the prospects for a bright future in this center. In a measure, the Mainstreet theatre is a reinvestment, a total investment of more than $2,000,000 on our faith in the city's future. We have given our best in this theatre. It has space and every feature of modern architecture for the safety and comfort of patrons."

The decorations, which rival the work in any theatre in this section, were contracted for with Mandell Bros., Chicago. The architectural contract was awarded to Rapp Bros., Chicago. A ten-piece orchestra and a $35,000 Kimball pipe organ will furnish the musical end of the program.

The theatre virtually has a dual character, in that it has a two-story tier of shops and offices, constructed to carry four additional floors, so that a six-story building is a future possibility for that frontage. In addition to 7,000 square feet of space on the second floor, the third floor of the tower affords 1,150 feet of additional space.—True.

Another House Using Radio Music

Patrons of the Gillham theatre, Kansas City, were treated to a radio concert last week. A complete apparatus was installed by the management and the "special number" was given liberal press notice. The concert heard by patrons of the theatre was held in Convention Hall. An amplifier was installed near the screen, while the station itself was located at the entrance of the theatre. The cost of installation was comparatively small and resulted in a packed house.

It certainly looks encouraging the progress that some exhibitors are making in using the radio phone as an added novel attraction for their theatres. It certainly will pay the enterprising exhibitor to watch this particular field and take advantage of any opportunity that may present itself along these lines.—True.

Are you considering the advisability of ventilation for the hot weather.

The Barton Console in the
NEW STRAND THEATRE
Pontiac, Mich.
Kleist Amusement Co., Owners

Fifth Avenue or Main Street

The Barton Organ

You would not think of booking all "western" pictures day after day, year in and year out—nor slapstick comedies, nor mother-love pictures—you would not give your audiences a steady diet of even good pictures of all the same type? Of course not! Remember that the same kind of music can be just as monotonous, just as tiresome—even good music—as pictures with a sameness.

Change—variety—newness—that's what they want whether you are on Fifth Avenue or Main Street—give it to them in music if you want more profits.

The Barton Orchestral Organ is built for theatres—the exclusive Barton Divided Manual gives thousands of new combinations of Orchestral music—your regular "fans" will never tire of it, yet the Barton can be played by any organist.

The disadvantage of hot weather is coming—add this new and permanent attraction to your theatre by easy extended payments that literally makes the Barton pay for itself. Write for details

IT'S A Barton ORCHESTRAL ORGAN

BARTOLA MUSICAL INSTRUMENT CO
313-316 Mallers Building
CHICAGO

Knickerbocker Theatre Strong Enough to Bear Load but Flimsy and Lacked Bond

Safety Rests in Last Analysis Upon Architect and Builder

The following analysis which appeared in the Engineering News Record gives a very comprehensive explanation of the causes and reasons for the Knickerbocker Theatre disaster, in which nearly 100 people lost their lives:

"Reluctantly the mind accepts as real the strange sequence of events revealed in the collapse of the Knickerbocker Theatre, in Washington. The circumstances of the tragedy are unprecedented in modern building construction, but, though a deep shadow of the unexplained conceals the ultimate moving causes, the course of the final catastrophe is so obvious as to compel belief in spite of its strangeness. Once the facts are accepted they utter certain insistent warnings, which, together with the great toll of death, will make the Knickerbocker Theatre long remembered.

"From the tangled remains of the structure one may read that the building gradually wedged itself apart during the four years since its erection. It was strong enough to bear its loads, but it was flimsy and lacked bond; under the peculiar conditions of its plan and arrangement this fault led to its destruction. That the final moment when it lost its coherence and fell a wreck-heap came at a time when the theatre was occupied seems but the evil play of fate.

"So much can be learned from the ruins. More will probably never be determined. Why the roof and walls wedged themselves apart remains an unanswered question, nor is it likely to be answered by anything more positive than inference. The effects of expansion and vibration are not amenable to calculation or test, and it is these effects that must be looked to as the agencies of destruction.

"Bolts and anchors to tie together the roof and walls would doubtless have prevented or postponed the collapse. But it will not do to write down this statement as a blanket indictment and record the case as simply one of negligence in planning or building. Bolts and anchors have been omitted in other buildings, and though such practice ever was faulty, and more than elsewhere was faulty in the Knickerbocker structure, yet it has not previously been convicted by disaster. Careful designers have always braced and tied their structures securely, but so far as anchorage is concerned they did this more as a matter of prudence than as one taught by failures.

"Buildings, and above all roofs, have been regarded quite universally as dead-load structures in the fullest meaning of the term: as structures devoid of inherent possibility of shift or displacement. That view is seen to be wrong. In the Knickerbocker at least it was terribly wrong, and potentially it is just as wrong for many another building. Sound building practice must take full account of the possible cumulative effect of even slight motions or vibrations. It must look upon its structures as live-load structures. The emphasis placed upon this view is the outstanding gain from the collapse.

"No alarm need be felt concerning ordinary buildings because the Knickerbocker Theatre collapsed without warning after a period of satisfactory service. The Knickerbocker was not an ordinary building. It involved quite exceptional conditions.

"It contained as a main element of its structure a curved wall, a long, thin wall lacking solidity and mass, much broken by doors and windows and devoid of stiffening by piers. Upon this wall the designers supported a truss load of fifty tons. Entering the wall at a sharp angle—another most remarkable condition—the truss nevertheless was placed not upon a square seat but upon one directly in the face of the wall. In this combination even the normal deflection of the truss under the weight of the roof introduced a canting effect and exerted a slight push against the wall.

"There was, thus, an initial disturbing force. By reason of the curved wall and the skew truss bearing, expansion and contraction movements of wall or roof took on an abnormal importance. Further, a perceptible tremor was set up by passing street cars. The building contained an organ, whose notes may have been capable of setting up vibration, and seated in the roof framing it had large motor-driven ventilating fans whose humming noise often was noticed by spectators. It is from these conditions that conclusions as to the genesis of the collapse must be drawn, for no other causative factors have been discovered. And these conditions must be taken into account in judging of the relation of the case to the safety of other buildings.

"The precise weight of the several factors, and how far they should have been provided for in the original plan, will doubtless be among the subjects of discussion in the official inquiry. But however exceptional the present case, a simple reference to the inevitableness of vibration and expansion in buildings and to the possibilities of imperfect bearing of heavy members on their supports will suffice to validate the general principle that unless buildings are planned with due regard to their live-load character they will be subject to danger —slight, no doubt, but definitely present.

"Two months ago, after the American Theatre collapse in Brooklyn, it was urged in these pages that heavy superstructure concentrations should be carried integrally by supporting framework, so that the structural parts of important buildings will form a rigid, self-contained skeleton. From the facts of the Knickerbocker disaster there emerges the clear showing that this principle should have primary and universal application to theatres and other buildings of public assembly, involving a large hazard to human life. Columns under trusses and girders, securely braced to form a framework capable of resisting all forces acting on the completed building, should be made mandatory in our practices and our regulations governing building. There is no reason why we should continue to be bound by the traditions of former ages, which made a virtue of utilizing masonry walls for heavy-duty service because better materials of support could not be had.

"Building codes are also brought into the focus of attention by the case before us. Regrettable as it may seem, the fact is that the construction of the Knickerbocker Theatre was in full accord with the requirements of the Washington building code. Still more regrettable, one of the prime weaknesses of the ill-fated structure was founded on what appears to be error or oversight in that code, namely that no separate provision was made for theatre walls, so that the rules set up for ordinary building walls automatically applied also to the walls of a theatre. It was under this provision that a hollow-tile wall 18 in. thick wa erected to support a 50-ton truss load at a heigh of nearly 40 ft., and that it was cut into a mesh work of windows and doors to resemble a apartment house—avowedly in order to har monize with the character of the neighborhood There will be occasion for revising and im proving the Washington code.

"What may be accomplished by code im provement is strictly limited, however. Build ing codes cannot assure safe buildings. The cannot take the place of constructional skill an knowledge. In the Knickerbocker case the cod was relied upon as the sheet-anchor of safety Walls were designed as the code demanded for that reason they would be safe! Steel roo framing was designed (by the steel contractor) in changing the original design prepared by a consulting engineer, with no other stipulation than that the design must be approved by the city bureau of buildings. Such dependence upon the guardianship of code and routine administrative process, though in good faith, is an easy path to destruction. It is not uncommon among architects, we fear—and no engineer was involved in the Knickerbocker case in authoritative, responsible position. Fostered by excess of detail in code requirements, this dependence upon formal rules needs to be combated by simplification of codes rather than by increase in detail and complexity.

"Safety in the last analysis rests upon the personal responsibility of architect and builder."

Community Project

A proposed new and beautiful theatre and business block which is now being considered is to be financed by the public of Hartford City, Conn., in that the preferred stock in this project is offered to the public on an eight per cent basis.

A proposition such as this appears to have certain advantages in that it creates an interest in the particular theatre throughout the community. No doubt this interest will have a tendency to create a steady patronage both among the stockholders and their friends.

Advantage of Systematic Seating

There are very material advantages to having a systematic seating system in the theatre. The Guerin theatre seating system claims to enable the ushers to place the audience in the most efficient manner, rarely allowing a vacant seat in the more desirable parts of the house. This is, of course, a great aid in satisfying the greatest number of patrons.

New Bristol Theatre Changes Hands

Paul Corsini, formerly owner of the Palace theatre at Hartford, Conn., has just bought from Walder Brothers and M. Nuseldorf the land and buildings known as the New Bristol theatre at Bristol, Conn., for a consideration reported in the neighborhood of $100,000. He also has bought the lease of the theatre from Anthony DeLorenzo, also owners of the Crown and Liberty theatres of Hartford. Mr. Corsini plans to institute a policy of high-class motion picture programs, with vaudeville, at his new property, and is already engaged in booking films and acts for the rest of the winter and the spring season.—AGARD.

A view of the Westinghouse Motor-Generator equipment in the Germantown Theatre, Germantown, Pa. This equipment was furnished by the Williams, Browne & Earle Co., 918 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., Distributors in Philadelphia and vicinity for Westinghouse Motion Picture Theatre Equipment.

Mr. Theatre Owner!

IF you want motor-generator equipment that meets all the requirements in a first class theatre, you need Westinghouse Two Arc Multiple Circuit Equipment.

The specially designed, constant voltage generator, with the two projection machine arcs connected in multiple circuits, assures a steady and uninterrupted illumination of the picture on the screen.

The constant voltage source of current enables you to operate, simultaneously, any number of arcs of different amperage, the number being limited only by the size of the motor-generator.

Westinghouse high standards of design and workmanship assure reliability.

Write our nearest sales office or distributor for our folder 4478-A, "Direct Current for Direct Profits."

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC & MANUFACTURING COMPANY
East Pittsburgh, Pa.
Sales Offices in All Principal American Cities

Westinghouse

Health Department Engineer Discusses the Need of Proper Ventilation

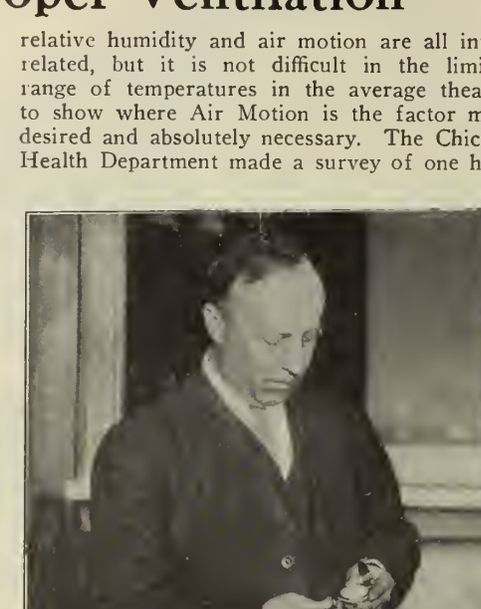
In an article written recently by Mr. Thos. R. Wilson, Ventilating Engineer of the Chicago Health Department, and at the request of the Typhoon Fan Company, Mr. Wilson emphasizes the importance of thorough cooling and ventilating, on the fundamentally correct principles which bring about the desired box-office results. The health factor, heretofore overlooked by many exhibitors as an excellent means of exploitation of their theatres, is given much attention in Mr. Wilson's article, and is especially worthy of the attention of exhibitors in this time of threatened or actual epidemics in some sections. Only recently the theatres were closed in a Texas town on account of the prevalence of influenza, and which no doubt could have been averted with properly ventilated houses and a little publicity as to their safety.

In the practical ventilation of theatres the factors to be given prime consideration are: dust, bacteria, odors, temperatures as shown by both dry and wet-bulb thermometers, relative humidity and Air Motion, the latter manifestly being the most important consideration of all, it being an established and well-known fact that with fresh air, in motion, it is but a short time until the other conditions are overcome and removed. Odors are easily dissipated; dust is removed; temperatures are equalized, and the cooling effect due to evaporation accomplished.

The accompanying illustration shows Mr. Wilson making a test for bacteria determination. Similar tests made in poorly or unventilated theatres have shown as high as two hundred colonies of bacteria on a two minute plate, while in the modern and well ventilated theatre an average of about five colonies is found on the same exposure. Bacteria while often harmless are unwelcome guests, to say the least, and most people prefer to be as far removed from them as possible.

Dust and odors are nuisances and comparatively easily removed. Air taken from the top of the theatre and forced downward under a low pressure neutralizes the inflow of street and side-walk dusts. The "great odor of humanity" can be almost entirely removed from the average theatre, but, as Mr. Wilson brings out in his article, its entire removal will come about only when the small percentage of that type of patron not too well "acquainted with soap and water" forms a closer contact with these other health-preserving agents.

Thermometer tests (wet-bulb and dry-bulb), relative humidity and air motion are all interrelated, but it is not difficult in the limited range of temperatures in the average theatre, to show where Air Motion is the factor most desired and absolutely necessary. The Chicago Health Department made a survey of one hundred complaints listed under the captions of "poor ventilation," "lack of ventilation," and other similar titles; these complaints originating with the average layman or theatre patron, who made no effort to determine the cause of the trouble, being satisfied with the statements that "the air is rotten," the "ventilation is fierce" and other similar remarks, incidentally removing himself as far as possible from the location and leaving the matter of diagnosis and remedy to the Health Department. Investigators were sent to the places complained of and to isolate all factors, to determine which one or ones caused the complaint, and also to see that proper and prompt action was tak to correct the trouble where possible.



Mr. Wilson exposing a gas plate for bacteria determination in the air

A study of the investigators' reports d closed that 80% of the complaints had for th origin improper temperature and Lack of A Motion; or that the high temperature and lc air motion would not permit the body to trar mit the excessive heat generated above t amount necessary to maintain the normal tem erature of 98.6 required by the human boc this lack of transmission of heat resulting the abnormal and unsatisfactory atmospher conditions. The body is a heat-generating m chine, governing the heat generated in rat to its activities; the beating of the heart, breatl ing, thinking, and all muscular activities ge erate heat according to the amount of wo done.

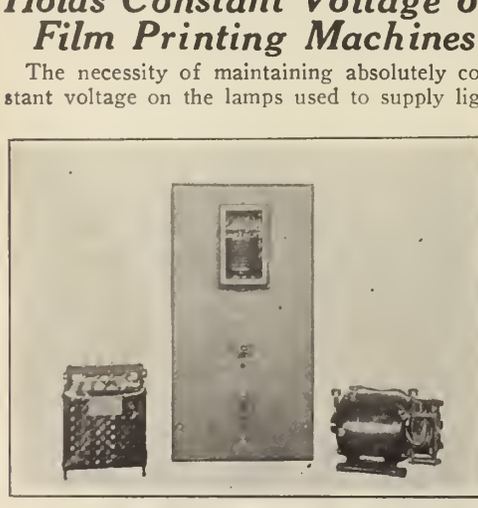
This excess heat generated by the body dissipated in several ways; by the warming c the air we breathe, by the evaporation of mois ure from the lungs, by the heat lost in the ex crement from the body, and most important c all is the heat loss due directly to evaporatio from the skin surfaces and to the actual warm ing of the air surfaces by contact with the ski The first three means of dissipating heat can not be changed to an appreciable degree. Hea radiation from the body can be governed to a extent, but temperature and air motion can b controlled, and as there is a very definite re lation between these two as far as comfor is concerned, it very naturally follows that b controlling air motion we can materially assis or retard the dissipation of heat from the body

When it is considered that each one of a audience in the theatre, under normal condi tions, gives off heat equivalent to one and one half feet of steam radiation, we will begin t appreciate why the temperature increases 10 t 15 degrees above what it was when the doors were first opened. Look around for some efficient and certain means of removing this condition. Means must be provided to rid your patrons of this excessive heat; your house wil be more cheerful, your patrons brighter and more appreciative of your efforts, and your entertainment will take on an added value. Contribute to the health of your community and to the receipts of your box office by providing that element as necessary to life as food and drink—pure, fresh air.

By giving your patrons that which they seek in an automobile ride on a hot day—plenty of fresh air—from overhead and to the face and body—then, and then only, will your house be complete and your patronage chart be kept at level or above, during the hot summer months.

Counter E. M. F. Regulator Holds Constant Voltage on Film Printing Machines

The necessity of maintaining absolutely constant voltage on the lamps used to supply light for the machines which print moving picture films has led to the development of a new type voltage regulator by the General Electric Company. This device, known as the counter E. M. F. regulator, has given satisfactory results in practice, removing all "sawteeth," or ripples from the voltage, and consequently eliminating flicker from the lamp.



Counter E. M. F. regulator for printing machines

While the regulators may vary in detail according to the requirements of each particular case, the main elements and principle remain the same in all cases. The apparatus consists of a main control magnet, and switches mounted on a panel, a counter E. M. F. motor with either brake magnets or a fan brake, and external resistances. In operation, the field of the D. C. generator is connected in series with the counter E. M. F. motor armature, through the generator field rheostat. The operation of the motor is governed by the main control magnet, the contacts of which are connected across the motor field, and short circuit it when closed. The control magnet is adjusted for the particular voltage to be held by means of an adjusting spring and screw.

The cycle of operation is as follows. Take for example a case where the main control magnet is adjusted to give 110 volts, and that the generator field rheostat is set to give a voltage slightly above normal without the regulator. When the transfer switch in the motor armature circuit is closed, the armature begins to revolve immediately, as the high voltage has caused the magnet contacts to open, putting field on the motor. The counter E. M. F. generated in the motor armature, being opposite in direction to the generator field voltage, bucks the latter down, decreasing the voltage of the generator. This reduces the voltage on the control magnet, allowing its contacts to close, short circuiting the motor field, and consequently lowering the counter E. M. F. This causes the generator field voltage to rise slightly, and the same cycle is repeated. The contact action is so rapid that an average field is held on the counter E. M. F. motor which will vary in

(Continued on page 1672)

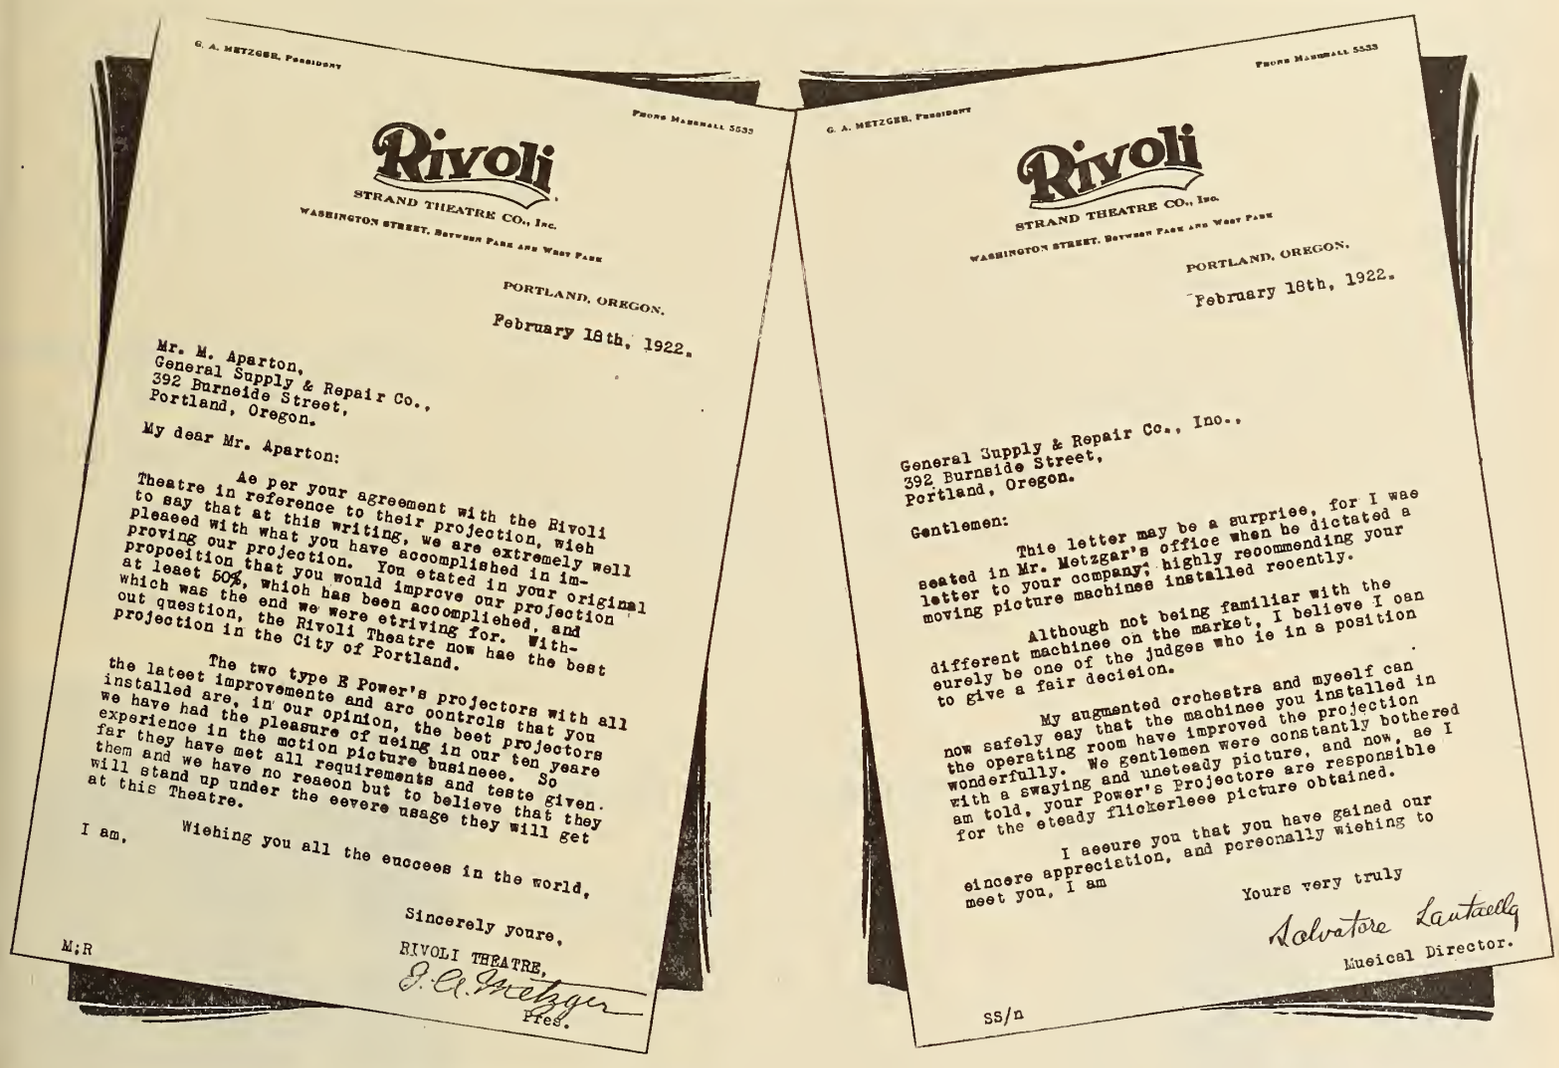
THE FLICKERLESS PICTURE

WITH

POWER'S PROJECTOR

FROM THE STANDPOINT OF THE OWNER AND THE VIEWPOINT OF THE MUSICAL DIRECTOR



G. A. METZGER, President

Phone Marshall 5533

Rivoli

STRAND THEATRE CO., Inc.

WASHINGTON STREET, Between Park and West Park

PORTLAND, OREGON.

February 18th, 1922.

Mr. M. Aparton,
General Supply & Repair Co.,
392 Burneide Street,
Portland, Oregon.

My dear Mr. Aparton:

As per your agreement with the Rivoli Theatre in reference to their projection, wieh to say that at this writing, we are extremely well pleaeed with what you have accomplished in improving our projection. You etated in your original propoeition that you would improve our projection at leaet 50%, whioh has been accomplished, and which was the end we were etriving for. Without question, the Rivoli Theatre now hae the best projection in the City of Portland.

The two type E Power's projectors with all the lateet improvemente and arc controls that you installed are, in our opinion, the beet projectors we have had the pleasure of ueing in our ten yeare experience in the motion picture buaineee. So far they have met all requirements and teste given them and we have no reaeon but to believe that they will stand up under the eevere usage they will get at this Theatre.

I am, Wiehing you all the euccees in the world,

Sincerely youre,

RIVOLI THEATRE,

G. A. Metzger
Pres.

M;R

G. A. METZGER, President

Phone Marshall 5533

Rivoli

STRAND THEATRE CO., Inc.

WASHINGTON STREET, Between Park and West Park

PORTLAND, OREGON.

February 18th, 1922.

General Supply & Repair Co., Inc.,
392 Burnside Street,
Portland, Oregon.

Gentlemen:

Thie letter may be a surpriee, for I wae seated in Mr. Metzgar's office when he dictated a letter to your company, highly recommending your moving picture machinee installed recently.

Although not being familiar with the different machinee on the market, I believe I can eurely be one of the judges who ie in a position to give a fair decieion.

My augmented orchestra and myeelf can now safely eay that the machinee you installed in the operating room have improved the projection wonderfully. We gentlemen were constantly bothered with a swaying and uneteady picture, and now, ae I am told, your Power's Projectors are responsible for the eteady flickerlees picture obtained.

I aesure you that you have gained our eincere appreciation, and peraonally wiehing to meet you, I am

Yours very truly

Salvatore Lautaelly

Musical Director.

SS/n

EVERYBODY SATISFIED IN THE RIVOLI WITH

POWER'S PROJECTORS

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
INCORPORATED
EDWARD EARL, PRESIDENT
NINETY GOLD ST. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Testing Exposures of Enlarging Proves Most Satisfactory Method

Very Rarely Is the Value of the Stop Constant

It takes time to make and develop a test exposure and for that reason a lot of workers who really ought to know better, risk making a guess. To begin with, guessing at the exposure of an enlargement is much more difficult than guessing at a camera exposure. For one thing there is only a fractional part of the latitude, and for another thing, the value of the stop is not constant except as the degree of enlargement is the same, which is rarely the case. Take an ordinary landscape in which the illumination ranges from bright sky to some deep shadow, and one twenty-fifth of a second may give a fair negative if we are not too exact about detail in the shadows, and we can perhaps give the same scene a full second before it will be more than what our detail-loving workers call fully timed. That is a difference of some extent and much more than the short scale of gradation of a negative will permit to be employed in making an enlargement. And with our enlargement we know, let us say, that a certain negative requires just so much exposure for an 11x14, but we want to make one about 20x24. The image looks fairly brilliant on the easel, yet we know we should give more time. We look up a table that tells us if a four-time enlargement takes a given time, an eight-time enlargement takes three and one-half times as long. And while our degree of enlargement does not fit these figures, they are somewhat approximate, and we confess to ourselves that we never would have guessed it required more than double the exposure, if that much. Suppose we have five enlargements to make, all different as to size and all from either different sized negatives or what would be the same different portions of negatives of like or different sizes. And suppose we were guessing at the exposures. We could be quite well pleased with ourselves if four were all right and the fifth one just a little to the bad, just enough to be unsatisfactory. Would it not have been better to have made trial exposures on strips of the paper and by so doing have gotten them all timed exactly right? And how much more so if our guessing was not quite up to this rather high average of four out of five absolutely correct? The man who is doing enlarging day after day, who is doing little else, can estimate the proper exposure fairly correctly nearly every time. He rarely wastes a sheet of paper. But the average amateur is not so fortunate. And when it comes to making these test exposures let us do it right. We must select a portion of the negative that will include both a shadow and a highlight. And in giving this strip a series of exposures by the common plan of uncovering it by sections, let us make it a series of doublings, that is, secure exposures of ten, twenty, forty, eighty and one hunderd and sixty seconds, respectively, instead of a series of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty and sixty. In the first case we hold a sheet of opaque paper over the major portion of the strip pinned across the board, for eighty seconds, shift it down and give forty, shift and give twenty, again and give ten, and then give the whole strip ten seconds more. For the other and less desirable series we expose for ten seconds at each shift of the covering card downward. But one will have only to make one of each kind of trial exposure strips to find that the first described is much the best from which to decide the correct exposure. And when this scaled strip is made, develop it fully. Then one will be easily able to judge which of the several sections represents the correct exposure. And then, and only then, is one in a position to make the exposure with every confidence of giving the right time and securing the best possible result. True, we have wasted three minutes in making the strip exposure, and it will take a few more minutes to stick the strip down in the developer and await its development, but I am quite sure the average amateur will find this expenditure of his valuable time well worth while.—Camera Craft.

Automatic film cutting devise

Automatic Film Cutting Device

This device can be easily attached to any kind of a motion picture film printing machine to automatically cut the positive film into separate rolls at any predetermined length for development or different color tints or tones. This is necessary where film is printed in 1,000 foot lengths and has to be cut for rack development or different dye dips and color tones. This does not prevent the printed positive stock from winding up in 1,000 foot lengths as the film is not entirely severed but only cut half way through its width, and the machine does not stop for cutting, it is auomatic and instantaneous.

A. Electro-magnet which operates the cutting device.

B. A very delicate "double-roller miniature spring-switch" which travels along the outer edge of the negative film during process of printing and forms an electrical contact when relieved by the double length notches punched into the negative film to indicate the length of positive rolls desired for development but will not form a contact or operate on the single length notches in the negative used to operate the light control.

C. Steel knife blade operated by electro magnet.

D. Electric hand switch which puts Cutting Device into operation when desired.

Toy Motion Picture Projector Hazard

The increasing use in the home of small motion picture machines is creating a real and considerable fire hazard to life and property. These toy projectors are safe from ignition of the film in themselves if they use a small incandescent lamp. The models using a kerosene lamp are equally safe as regards ignition of the film by the ray of light, but are dangerous on account of the open flame and use of matches.

The greatest hazard is in ignition of film by matches, cigarettes, contact with hot objects, such as steam radiators or electric lamp globes, or open flame. The fire hazard is multiplied enormously if the reel is unrolled, or scraps of film are exposed to ignition. Children do not realize the flammability of the ordinary nitrocellulose film. It has also been seen unrolled in department stores with grave liability of a panic.

Fire prevention experts have given this matter attention. The National Fire Protection Association and the Fire Marshals' Association of North America have it under consideration. —Safety Engineering.

Virginia Has New 1200 Seat House

The Waranicholas Brothers who operate the Rialto and new Orpheum theatres, Portsmouth, Va., just opened their new house, the Tivoli.

The Tivoli has a seating capacity of 1,200—semi-French balcony style and a large pipe organ. The theatre also supports an orchestra of eight pieces. The house is plain and refined in its decoration and reflects good taste throughout.—YOUNG.

The Book Devise, made by the Newman Manufacturing Co., which is being used to good advantage by some exhibitors. This display cabinet is an economizer on space

Announcing the Fastest Film ever manufactured

EASTMAN NEGATIVE FILM

Super Speed

Super Speed Film practically eliminates under-exposure. It is ideal for ultra-speed, slow-motion photography; for interiors that are poorly illuminated; for dull days on location.

When unfavorable conditions spell failure, Super Speed Film spells Success.

Price 4½ cents per foot, perforated

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

National Anti-Misframe League Forum

Another Idea That Should Help Eliminate Defective Film

The members of the league are to be commended on their excellent work and efforts to overcome one of the most predominant evils now in our field, that of marred film, broken sprocket holes, etc. There are few things as annoying to an audience as misframes, punch-marks and the like. Old prints are bound to have defects, but there is absolutely no excuse for their wanton destruction as practiced by some in our industry.

The projectionist is not responsible altogether for the condition certain prints finally end up in. Some exchanges are lax in the inspection of their films. If all the projectionists and exchanges worked together to keep the film they handle in good condition, then everyone would have easier and more pleasant work.

Brother McKeen presented a very good idea along these lines through his letter, published in the Forum in the February 25th issue of the News. The Projectionist's Report, which he submitted, can certainly be used to good advantage by all the members. We are herewith submitting a somewhat modified form of this report, with the suggestion that the members give this their serious attention.

Through the use of a report of this type it is possible for the projectionist to be of service to his manager; to the exchanges that exert an effort to keep their prints in good condition, and to himself. By reporting the condition of the prints upon receipt of same, the projectionist will permit the manager a basis upon which he can judge the various exchanges he does business with. This will help the exchanges that are doing the right thing and at the same time will bring the others to light.

However, a report such as this should not be misused. It is not conceived for the projectionist who wants to blame the exchanges for everything that goes wrong when screening his show. It must be used fairly to be of any real constructive value. The projectionist who gives conscientious co-operation to his manager is the fellow that is advancing his profession.

It would be very interesting to learn what the members think about this proposition.

Projectionist's Report

Theatre..... Address .....
Exchange..... Date showing .....
Title of Features
1 .....2 .....
3 .....4 .....
5 .....6 .....

Projectionist's Remarks

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

Signed .....
Projectionist.

Manager's Comments.....
.....
.....
.....

DEAR EDITOR:

In regards to your piece in the Jan. 28 issue of the News about the bronze buttons for the N. A. M. L. members will state I think these buttons will look 100 per cent better and will be that. If you make them, please put me down for a couple right away, so I'll be able to get one or two before the supply is exhausted, as I am quite proud to be a member of the N. A. M. L.

I am out of work at present or would write up something for the columns about my booth.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS BUKUH.
Member 1508, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

I am up against it. I have a new head on my machine and it cracks the sprocket holes at the bottom. Please tell me what causes this and how to remedy this trouble.

Yours very truly,
HOWARD POWERS, N. A. M. L. No. 1450.
515 N. 5th St., Richmond, Va.

In the case outlined by Brother Powers, t trouble probably lies in one of two things; eith the take up is too tight or else the idler on t take up feed sprocket is adjusted too close the sprocket. This latter has a tendency crush the film down between the idler and t sprocket. A simple adjustment will reme either of the above.—ED.

Dear Editor:

Want to drop you a few lines this evenin I am in a place where you could not gue in two or three trials. Well, I am in the I Grange High School, still going to school, ar at night I am, as usual, at the Cozy theatr I am still keeping up with my pledge with yc about keeping the film in good order.

I am just about out of the slips. Would yc mind sending me some more.

About the bronze metal button, would yc mind sending mine, and when I receive i your money will leave in stamps on the nex train. Do you want cash or stamps? Whai ever the price will be, you will be sure to ge it. If you cannot send it before you receiv your money, just sit down and drop a fe lines and send them to me a-flying and I wi send you the money a-flying for the metal.

The boss of the show, or rather, the owne is taking the Motion Picture News. Sure d enjoy reading it. If you know of any maga zine or paper or book that is published o different kinds of machines, please let me know

Hope the boys are all keeping their pledge The films we get here are good and bad, bu I examine them all, and they go back in bette condition than they come. So long, Ed.

FRANK PRATKA,
Assistant Operator, Cozy Theatre.
Box 245, La Grange, Texas.

We will have the bronze membership button very shortly now and we will announce wher to send money or stamps for them. If money is sent, it will have to be wrapped very well However, stamps will do. Go to it, Brother Pratka, none of us know too much, and an education is a fine thing.—ED.

Motion Picture News, 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

N. A. M. L.

Gentlemen: In the Motion Picture News of January 28, I noticed in the N. A. M. L. forum the article stating that you are considering the possibility of ordering a bronze metal button and charging the members for the cost of the

(Continued on page 1670)

NATIONAL ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE PLEDGE

AS a motion picture projectionist who has the interest of his profession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating some of the evils practised in the projection-room, I promise that I will to the best of my ability return films to the exchange in reasonably good condition, according to conditions of film when received. Furthermore, I will when it becomes necessary remedy misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be in the film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my brother projectionists and give greater pleasure to those who make up the motion picture audience by showing films that are free from such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch marks in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I will notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Blank for New League Members

Member's Name.....

Home Address.....

Theatre.....

Name and Address of Theatre Manager.....

.....

NATIONAL ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE N A M L

A NEWMAN MARQUEE
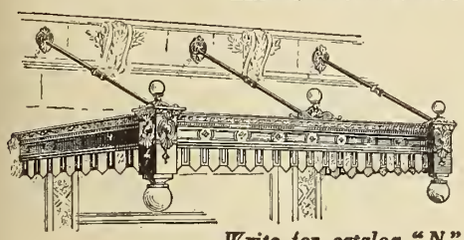
LENDS DISTINCTION



One of 28 exclusive designs in our line

Made right and reasonably priced

Write for catalog "N"

THE NEWMAN MANUFACTURING CO.
416 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio
Chicago Branch, 68 W. Washington St.

BAY STATE FILM
Positive - RAW STOCK - Negative

Manufactured by BAY STATE FILM CO.
Sharon, Mass.

Distributors:
Bay State Film Sales Company, Inc.

Room 1114
220 West 42nd St.

Phones: Bryant 6808

Made in America

Critical Definition—with remarkable flatness of field, brilliant illumination, and maximum contrast between black and white are the results of projection through the

BAUSCH & LOMB CINEPHOR
The New Projection Lens
Made by the great optical house of Bausch & Lomb, this projection lens is scientifically right, and the quality absolutely uniform.

Write for interesting literature.

BAUSCH & LOMB OPTICAL CO.
St. Paul Street, Rochester, N. Y.
New York Washington Chicago San Francisco London

Leading American Makers of Photographic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Apparatus (Balopticons), Ophthalmic Lenses and Instruments, Photo-Micrographic Apparatus, Range Finders and Gun Sights for Army and Navy, Searchlight Reflectors, Stereo-Prism Binoculars, Magnifiers and other High-Grade Optical Products.

You devote your attention to production and distribution. We devote our attention to

Empire

PRINTS

EMPIRE LABORATORIES, Inc.

Phones BRYANT 5437 5736

723 7th Ave., N. Y. City

MONSOON
HEATING
VENTILATING
COOLING

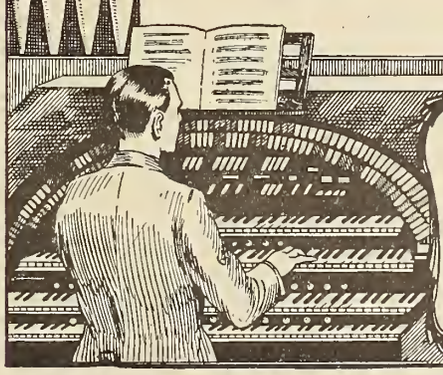
Let the theatre ventilation specialists tell you how—

Send Today for Booklet 7

MONSOON COOLING SYSTEM INC.
1476 BROADWAY NEW YORK, N.Y.

THE MARR & COLTON CO., INC.
WARSAW, N.Y.

THE Marr & Colton Concert Organ, represents the highest achievement in the art of Modern Organ Building for the correct musical interpretation of the motion picture.



Every Organ is designed to especially suit the acoustic properties of the theatre in which it is to be installed and we aim to make each organ a distinctive work of art button. In reply to this I wish to state that I am highly in favor of this movement and hope that it is supported by all the N. A. M. L. members.

N. A. M. L. FORUM

(Continued from page 1668)

I will write to you later about the kind of machines I use and the general condition of my projection room.

Yours respectfully,
ARTHUR VON MINDEN,
Chief projectionist Cozy Theatre, LaGrange, Texas. N. A. M. L. Member No. 1613.

Dear Ed:

I'm still lining them up down here, so here is another recruit that thinks the N. A. M. L. is his big brother.

Say boys, I have been called up by some of the neighboring town operators and asked why the film corporation permitted the exhibitors to have the operators "cut out parts of their films" when there was no Censor Board present nor any kick from the public. Why has there been no discussion on this in our Forum?

In the past I have been called on to do the same thing, but we have no power to do otherwise, so I think there should be some protection furnished us by the film corporations.

It not only makes the projectionist more work, but is needless butchery of films. Please give your advice, Ed. Anxiously awaiting the next NEWS.

Sincerely,
JOHN E. DUNKIN,
Chief Projectionist.
Arc Theatre, Crawfordsville, Ind. Member Number 1583.

P. S.—Now's the time, boys, let's go!

It is a very interesting point that Brother Dunkin has brought up and we must admit that the projectionist should have consideration in this matter. However, we must look at it from other angles also. The exhibitor is supposed to know his business when it comes to presenting pictures to his patrons, and therefore if he decides some part of the picture is not what he wants to show, we must admit he is the boss in this case. The exhibitor should run his end and leave the projection in the hands of a competent projectionist. Again, though, I don't see how anybody can tell the exhibitor what to show and what not to show, If he doesn't use good judgment, then it's his own funeral. As a rule, it would seem to me poor policy to slice up a show.—ED.

Please send me a new supply of labels, also N. A. M. L. button. I made an electric rewinder and will send you a copy of it when I have a little more time. I use a marker made of tin foil that is just the thing so no one can tell when I switch machines. They still punch the prints, but they go out without any when I get through with them. Maybe some day they will get tired and use their brains. That is, if they have any. Will write again soon and let you know how I am getting along with the punch holes and bad patches.

I remain, yours for better projection,
EDDIE F. STARCK,
Mercedes, Texas.
Member Number 1616.

Brother Starck certainly is living up to the league and here's hoping he will send in the signal device for the other fellows to know about.—ED.

Dear Ed:

Inclosed you will find my application for a membership in the Anti Misframe League, which I wish every operator down in this part of the country would join. I do hope every operator will join for I think it is a good think if they stick to it. I have a helper and it takes about two hours to get film in shape to run. I have been with this manager thirteen years. Hoping to hear from you real soon,

E. BORDEN,
Columbus, Miss.

Brother Borden must be a good projectionist and a steady worker to work in one place for thirteen years.—ED.

GENTLEMEN:

I have long neglected to write the league since I joined it, and must say that I am very proud to be a member.

I have two Powers 6A's here. They get an overhauling once a year and have no trouble whatever with them.

I see we have Mr. Shirey of this city, and I hope to see this city 100 per cent before very long. In your latest issue I see where you are discussing the bronze buttons. All I can say is to go to it. Keep up the good work. You can mail me one as soon as you get them, or notify me.

A. T. HILL, Member 1569.
Lyceum Theatre, Findlay, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

I have been reading your section of the N. A. M. L. for the past few weeks and have been figuring on joining before now.

I am chief operator at the Electric theatre at Dardanelle, Ark., where I have been operating about seven years.

I think the N. A. M. L. is a great organization and every operator that intends to become a professional should be a member.

I am sending application blank for myself and my assistant, and we hope to become members soon.

Sincerely,
H. E. WIESER,
Electric Theatre, Dardanelle, Ark.

Glad brother Wieser has decided to join and help the cause along.—ED.

Here at Last—Labels

I suppose a great many of the brothers have been getting right down, disgusted with us for not renewing our supply of labels before this. However, they are all ready now, so send in for them while they last and we'll promise you that no such delay will happen again. We won't run out of them this time, because when this lot is nearing its end there will be a new bunch coming in.

Show the industry that there is one group of projectionists that are trying to help correct some of the evils of the business. Use the labels.

Who's to be the first to land in on this new supply?

Projectionists:

The News will solve technical problems, gratis.

HAVE YOU YOURS?

NO MORE RAZOR BLADES, WET COTTON, ETC.

To make a good joint the emulsion must be entirely removed and film properly scraped before cement is applied.

All this the OTT COMBINATION
MOISTENER AND SCRAPER does to perfection

BE CONVINCED ORDER NOW Price $1.00 by mail

OTT SALES COMPANY
524 Fifth Avenue Telephone Vanderbilt 9795 New York City, N. Y.

DEALERS
L. M. Swaab & Son, Philadelphia, Pa. Bass Camera Co., Chicago, Ill.
Williams Brown & Earl, Philadelphia, Pa Motion Picture Equip. Co., N. Y. & Phila.
United Theatre Equipment Corp. 13 Branches
Auburn Theatre Supply Co., Auburn, N. Y.

MINUSA
Gold Fibre Screens

HARRY M. CRANDALL'S chain of seven theatres—Washington's Foremost Amusement Enterprise—have always used Minusa Screens exclusively. Ask him why?

Samples and literature upon request

World's Largest Producers of Motion Picture Screens.

MINUSA CINE SCREEN CO. 2665 MORGAN ST. SAINT LOUIS, MO.

H. ROBINS BURROUGHS
M. AM. SOC. C. E.
CONSULTING ENGINEER
THEATRE SPECIALIST

Structural Investigations and Reports on Existing Theatres

469 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

BARGAIN!
FOR IMMEDIATE TURNOVER

400 ft. capacity Pittman Professional, mahogany case, Pittman claw intermittent, regular and trick crank, outside reflecting focusing device, film register, direct finder, 50 MM. F:3.5 Tessar lens, focusing mount, all adjustments. Outfit perfect. Worth $300.00: our price, $125.00.

Wire 25% deposit and balance on examination.

BASS CAMERA COMPANY
109 No. Dearborn St. Dept. 111 Chicago, Illinois

P. S.—Write Bass. Let him solve your camera problem for you.

TAX FREE

MO-NA-LU

The Ballad of a Million Homes

SEND FOR FREE PROFESSIONAL COPIES

BELWIN INCORPORATED
701 Seventh Avenue
New York, N. Y.

Spot Your Pictures with a 6 x 30m/m
Turner-Reich Prism Binocular

DON'T strain your eyes! Use a prism binocular and be sure the picture is absolutely in focus and you will also have the finest field glass money can buy for your hunting trips or any other sporting event when you want a closeup of distant objects. The price is $50.00.

Get one from your dealer in theatre supplies and try it.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Made in the same factory with Gundlach Projection lenses by

GUNDLACH-MANHATTAN OPTICAL COMPANY
853 Clinton Ave. So. Rochester, N. Y.

SERVICE

Projection—Ventilating—Heating—Fire Prevention
Theatre Furnishings—Construction Material—Music—Lighting

Motion Picture News is in a position to advise any theatre owner on any equipment problem.

We are in contact with all the manufacturers.

Our Technical Department is at your service.

Consult us if you need advice or help.

No. 7217 Basket filled with flowers, each $.75; per dozen, $7.50.

Write to-day for my SPRING CATALOGUE No. 7 of Artificial Flowers and Decorative Plants mailed FREE FOR THE ASKING.

FRANK NETSCHERT
61 Barclay St. New York, N. Y.

Mailing Lists

MOVING PICTURE AND LEGITIMATE THEATRES

22166 Moving Picture by States, per M. $5.00
1219 Film Exchanges, for List..... 7.50
196 Manufacturers and Studios..... 3.50
419 Machine and Supply Dealers..... 4.00
3674 Legitimate Theatres U. S. and Canada..... 25.00
810 Vaudeville Theatres..... 7.50

A. F. WILLIAMS
166 W. Adams Street Chicago

TRY

Reco Hoods

FOR SIGNS, STAGE OR CANOPY LIGHTS
They Cover the Bulb and Show Brilliant Lasting Colors
Have Every Advantage—Save Your Dollars in Lamp Renewals, No Bothersome Dipping Easily Put On or Taken Off

For 5-10 W. and 25-40 W. Lamps
REYNOLDS ELECTRIC CO.
2650 W. CONGRESS ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated of existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving of from 20 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO.
244 West 42nd St. Phone, Bryant 8138 New York
Addressing Printing

Counter E. M. F. for Printers

(Continued from page 1664)

proportion to the load and speed of the main generator.

In order to increase the rapidity of the contact action, as is desirable in some cases, the control magnet is frequently equipped with a second winding, known as the "anti-hunting" winding. This winding operates with the main winding when the contacts close, causing them to open rapidly before the generator voltage can build up too high. The regulator action is further stabilized by the loading brake, which consists of either an eddy current disk running between magnets, or a fan brake. In the former case one or more of the brake magnets are in series with the motor armature, while one is connected across the motor armature. These brakes are used to prevent overspeeding, and to give greater stability of rotation.

By the use of the counter E. M. F. regulator, the base voltage of the printing machine is regulated very closely, so that the plugging for any intensity of light on the board can be made with assurance that the result from a given arrangement of plugs will always be the same. The finished film is thereby rendered free from defects or fogginess caused by sudden changes in the intensity of the light from the lamp.

Installs Complete Equipment

Developing the community idea, E. E. Oliver, of the Oliver Motion Picture Supply Company, Cleveland, announces that he has just furnished complete motion picture equipment for the Bedford, O., High School, at a cost varying between five and six thousand dollars. The equipment includes two Motiograph Mazda projection machines; a Diamond Bead Screen, size 9 x 12 ft. This equipment has been installed in a complete fire-proof projection booth. The Bedford High School now offers the best place of amusement in the town. The auditorium seats 600 people. It is to be used for Community entertainment as well as for educational purposes.—E. LOEB.

T. C. Cahill Buys Dick's Theatre

In a recent deal T. C. Cahill of Haskell, Texas, purchased the entire interest of Beril Hight in Dick's Theatre. He took charge on January 1, and will have active management in the future. Cahill is a well-known real estate and business man of this city, and he states that several changes will be made toward making this theatre a better amusement house. Troy Howell, who has been working in Dallas for the past year, will have charge of the projection room.

Plans to Build Theatre

Toronto motion picture interests are planning to build a house in Port Colborne. They are endeavoring to buy the J. Givens site on East street.—TAYLOR.

Business Offerings

HIGH CLASS ORGANIST, experienced, schooled musician, desires location. Good library, cue carefully, devoted to work. Union. Box 105, care of Motion Picture News, New York City.

OPERATOR wants work evenings, Saturday and Sunday matinees; wages reasonable; prefer New York City. Box 110, care of Motion Picture News, New York City.

FOR SALE—Motion picture theatre and building at 24-26 Millbury Street, Worcester, Mass., known as Capital Theatre. Said theatre will be sold at public auction on March 13, 1922, at 2.30 p. m., subject to mortgages aggregating $11,000. Terms and conditions to be agreed upon at time of sale. Seating capacity, 518; two new 6B Power motion picture machines, one 70 amp. generator, one silver screen, one compensarc. For inquiries, refer to Samuel Seder, Attorney, 303 Slater Building, Worcester, Mass. Full particulars will be given and arrangements can be made for a view of the premises.

WANTED: M. P. CAMERA MAN with A-1 camera. Long season—sure salary. Must be low. W. M. Temple, Mason City, Iowa

Save $300 to $1500 Annually
NEW G-E MAZDA EQUIPMENT
Foremost and Largest Distributors in the World
EASTERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.
Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Musical Director Violinist
For Motion Pictures
Eight years' experience; large library; conscientious worker, open for engagement anywhere.
Address Box 125, Motion Picture News, N. Y. C.

MOVING PICTURE MACHINES REBUILT GUARANTEED

Powers 6A Motor Drive - - $190.00
Powers 6A Hand Drive - - 170.00
Powers 6 Hand Drive - - 135.00

MONARCH THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
228 Union Avenue Memphis, Tenn.

LATEST ACHIEVEMENT
In Ticket Selling Machines
THE NEW 1922
AUTOMATICKET REGISTER
Send for prices and full particulars
AUTOMATIC TICKET REGISTER CORPORATION
1782 Broadway New York

Special Sale of Thumb Tacks

We have an over supply of ¼" Thumb Tacks. Special Price while they last $1.50 per 1000.

Rush your order to
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
We are the oldest Supply House in the motion picture trade
746 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.
Write today for our latest bulletin

FOR BETTER MUSIC
THE FOTOPLAYER
THE AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY
64 E. JACKSON BOULEVARD CHICAGO, ILL.
109 GOLDEN GATE AVENUE SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

BEAT TIME TO IT—

BEFORE SUMMER HITS YOU

TYPHOONS INSTALLED NOW MEAN better system better cooling better business

FOR ALL THE SUMMERS SURE TO COME

Send for Booklet "N"

TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM

TYPHOON FAN CO. 345 W. 39TH ST. NEW YORK

Rothacker-Aller Laboratories, Inc.
Hollywood, California

Charles Ray
in
"Gas, Oil and Water."

Arthur S. Kane presents
Charles Ray in an Andrès
Story entitled "Gas, Oil and Water."

Directed by Charles Ray, aided
By Albert Ray. Charles Van Deroef
Officiated as Assistant Director.

George Rizard and Ellsworth H. Rumer
Presided at the cameras.
A First National Attraction—

Rothacker Prints and Service.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.
TRADE MARK REG.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

Founded 1910
by
Watterson R. Rothacker

MARCH 25, 1922

Motion Picture News

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Dominates the Field

Famous Players

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Section

(Pages 1781-1844)

VOL. XXV No. 14 Entered as Second Class Matter, October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879 PRICE 20 CENTS

Published Weekly—$3.00 a year

Los Angeles — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Chicago

Fotoplayer investment reduces your music bills—

The American Photo Player Co. is in business to sell musical investments — Fotoplayers which will pay for themselves in the money they save.

Your theatre is not a purchase; it is a long time investment. Be sure the music equipment you buy is an investment, too.

WRITE FOR OUR
Play as You Pay Plan

The AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO

NEW YORK CITY
Mecca Bldg. 1600 B'way.

CHICAGO · ILL
64 E. Jackson Blvd.

SAN FRANCISCO · CAL
109 Golden Gate Ave.

ADOLPH ZUKOR presents

DOROTHY DALTON

in "The Crimson Challenge"

A FIGHTING woman! And that woman played by Dorothy Dalton! In a picture that teems and tingles with thrills.

The great cast includes Jack Mower and Frank Campeau. The story is from the famous novel by Vingie E. Roe.

Scenario by Beulah Marie Dix, and directed by Paul Powell.

A Paramount Picture

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR

Realart Pictures.....presents

Mary Miles Minter

IN

"The Heart Specialist"

A COMEDY drama with a unique plot that will keep them laughing from start to finish.

Betty is the heart specialist on a New York daily. She sets out to find some real romance—and finds it, along with excitement, thrills, mystery and danger.

No stronger story has ever been selected as a vehicle for Miss Minter.

By Mary Morrison. Scenario by Harvey Thew.
Directed by Frank Urson.

DISTRIBUTED BY

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Realart Pictures.....presents

Wanda Hawley

IN

"The Truthful Liar"

WANDA HAWLEY has never appeared in such a strong dramatic story as "The Truthful Liar."

Full of strong conflicts and mighty climaxes, rushing on through stirring action to an unusual ending.

Miss Hawley rises to heights undreamed of in "The Truthful Liar." It is a dramatic knockout.

By Will Payne. Scenario by Percy Heath.
Directed by Thomas N. Heffron.

DISTRIBUTED BY

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Next Sunday
April Sixteenth
Begins

A Week of Unusual Interest For YOU

It is Educational Pictures Week for thousands of motion picture theatres on this continent.

Progressive exhibitors all over the United States and Canada will run from April 16 to 23 many of Educational's short subjects to give you unusually diversified and well-balanced programs.

Many of the greatest showmen will present short-subject programs made up exclusively of the quality short subjects for which Educational is famous. Thoughtful exhibitors will select from this list:

CHRISTIE COMEDIES

"TORCHY" COMEDIES

MERMAID COMEDIES

CAMPBELL COMEDIES

"SCENICS BEAUTIFUL"
and
WILDERNESS TALES
By Robert C. Bruce

SKETCHOGRAFS-CARTOONS
By Julian Ollendorff

KINOGRAMS-NEWS WEEKLY

and specials like

THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND

All the above motion pictures are advertised in theatre entrances by posters and lobby cards displaying our trade-mark of guaranteed entertainment quality.

When you see it

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Go in---
It's the Sign of a Well-Balanced Program!

EDUCATIONAL
FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E. W. Hammons, President
Executive Offices, New York

THIS AD

will appear Thursday,
April 13th, in

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

It announces

EDUCATIONAL PICTURES WEEK

April 16—23 to

12,000,000 PEOPLE

WE will give FREE to any exhibitor a striking one-sheet poster that links up with our National Advertising, and that will help you get your portion of these 12,000,000 patrons into your Theatre.

ASK OUR NEAREST BRANCH NOW

to send you this FREE poster.

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Reg. U. S. Pat Off.

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E. W. Hammons, President

Messmore Kendall
presents

CARDIGAN

The First American Historical Production
From the Famous Novel by

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Directed by John W. Noble

Booked by

Ziegfeld (Extended run)	Chicago
Lyric (Extended run)	Cincinnati
Alhambra (Extended run)	Los Angeles
Columbia (Extended run)	San Francisco
Finkelstein & Ruben	Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth
46 S. A. Lynch Cities and Towns	In the Atlanta Territory
Entire Nathan Gordon Circuit	Boston
Two Blue Mouse Theatres	Seattle, Portland
Emery's Rialto	Providence
Adams' Theatres	Newark, Paterson
Butterfly	Milwaukee
Entire Gore Brothers Circuit	California
Entire Ascher Circuit	Chicago
30 A. S. Black Cities and Towns	In the New England States
Jake Wells	Norfolk and Richmond
Capitol	New York City

American
RELEASING CORPORATION

WALTER E. GREENE, President F. B. WARREN, Vice-President

Whitman Bennett presents

REX BEACH'S

romance

"Fair Lady"

Founded on his famous novel "The Net"

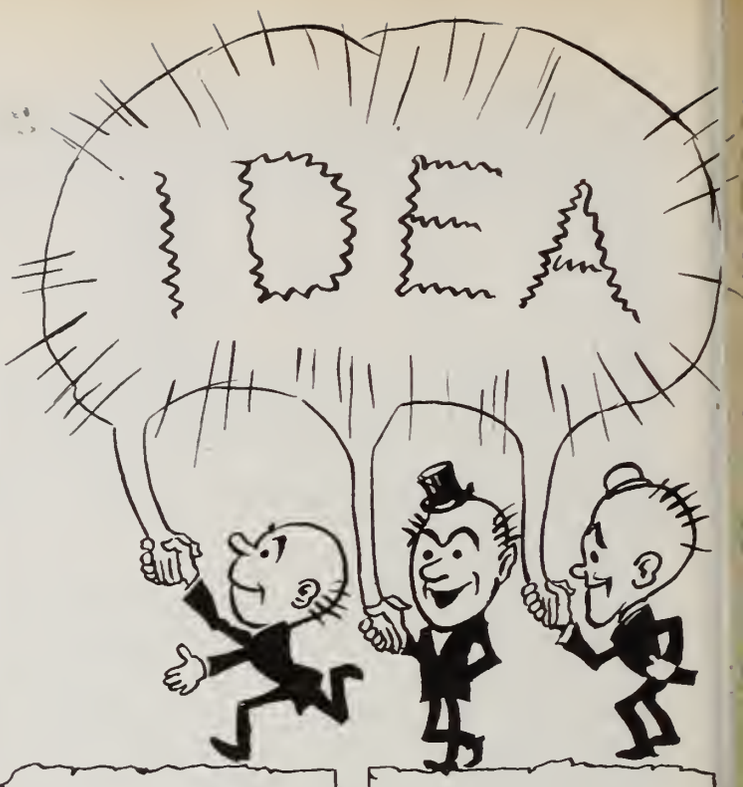
Directed by Kenneth Webb Scenario by Dorothy Farnum

A typical Rex Beach picture—thrilling—appealing—full of action, intrigue and romance. You will profit greatly by booking this picture; it will make real money and new patrons for your theatre.

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION

MARY PICKFORD
CHARLIE CHAPLIN
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
D. W. GRIFFITH
HIRAM ABRAMS, PRESIDENT

They Know An Idea When They Meet It!



OFFICE OF
HOWARD E. JAMEYSON
Advertising Manager
DORIC AND LIBERTY THEATRES
Kansas City, Mo.

March 4th, 1922.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation,
New York City.

Gentlemen:-

How come you birds didn't announce that advertising scheme on "Grand Larceny" a week sooner?

My World arrived yesterday, and we start the picture tomorrow, so I didn't have a chance to do anything with it. But anyway it's a "bear" of a scheme, and it will make a lot of money for the boys that use it. Seems to me you've got the idea of selling pictures to the exhibitor -- sell 'em the way to bring the patrons -- then give 'em the picture.

Ordinarily I dont fall for schemes like that. Usually they are too far fetched. Any advertising scheme should be logical, and in keeping with the picture. If a contest of this sort fits the picture, or the spirit of the story, let's have it. If the picture does not lend itself to a scheme of this sort, let's not try to concoct some silly plan,-- just because we think we must have it.

I like the press books you folks are turning out. They seem to be inspirational rather than machine made. Many of your ideas are great -- this one on "Grand Larceny" is particularly good.

Even though the plan did not reach me in time, I did make use of your press book material. I didn't have to spend a thin dime on art work. Everything I used came direct from your book. I even used your teaser campaign without re-adapting it.

Sincerely, H E Jameyson

LUCAS THEATRE
COLONIAL THEATRE

ODEON THEATRE
FOLLY THEATRE

OFFICE OF
GENERAL MANAGER

SAVANNAH, GA., March 8th, 1922

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation,
New York City.

Gentlemen:-

I have noticed with a great deal of interest your four page ad on "Grand Larceny" in the World and News. Goldwyn's method in advertising an exploitation tie-up in the manner you have, should be highly commended.

There is no better advertising or exploitation than a newspaper tie-up, and the idea you have evolved in getting your splendid picture "Grand Larceny" before the public in the manner you have suggested in your ad, should be appreciated by all exhibitors. You are showing them how to make money, and any man who does not take advantage of an idea that will increase his business, should not be an exhibitor.

I may add that the Inoas Theatre here in Savannah played "Grand Larceny", but before I had seen your splendid exploitation suggestion in the World (and I can assure you that I would have taken advantage of it). This picture has created quite an amount of discussion for it's unusual ending, and, if I may venture a suggestion, would impress upon all exhibitors who are going to show this picture, to play this fact up in their advertising. I did in my newspaper advertising and found that it made them curious and brought them into the theatre.

Sincerely yours,
A. L. Selig

Exploitation & Publicity Manager.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS COMMENTS:

Goldwyn has four pages in this issue advertising its latest release, "Grand Larceny." The advertisement not only announces the picture and gives the needed information, but it goes a big step beyond this and tells the exhibitor how to sell the picture to his public. A good selling idea is offered. This is the kind of trade paper advertising the exhibitor wants, the kind the distributor needs. *****

We hope and believe that this piece of copy marks a new era in trade paper advertising; and we congratulate the Goldwyn Corporation on its enterprise.

WM. A. JOHNSTON

MOVING PICTURE WORLD SAYS:

In this issue we meet another exhibitor requirement, this time in the advertising columns. Exhibitors have repeatedly urged us to urge producers to advertise their pictures not with mere announcements of coming productions, but in a way that would actually help the exhibitor to sell the picture to his public**

The response has arrived. This week the Goldwyn Company devotes advertising space to the telling to the exhibitor of the way to exploit one of their important pictures**

We regard this as a big league attitude.

ARTHUR JAMES

GOLDWYN presents

GRAND

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

with ELLIOTT DEXTER

a GOLDWYN

SOUTHERN ENTERPRISES, INC.
CAPITAL FIVE MILLION DOLLARS
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

March 7th.
1922.

EXPLOITATION DEPARTMENT

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation,
New York City.

Gentlemen:-

It has been said that no one could do two things at once. Perhaps not, tho I know that when we advertise our theatres we add to our expense and we also add to our patron's enjoyment!

And I never could see why Trade Paper advertising couldn't accomplish two purposes as well at once. When I was at Triangle I attempted to make our ads, sell our pictures to our exhibitor prospects, while I attempted to embody in them "copy" that would be suitable for the exhibitors to afterwards use in their newspaper campaigns.

And now it is a delight to see that Goldwyn takes a practical and logical step in their trade paper advertising.

For example, in every way, your recent trade paper ad for GRAND LARCENY is a remarkably effective trade ad. At the same time it embodies a clever and practical "exploitation suggestion" and furnishes clear and concise directions just how to go about putting this picture over. Why not? You want your ads read. They will be if they contain news. And what better news could an exhibitor look for than practical sales suggestions, especially when they're placed right before him and he doesn't have to thumb thru a 100 sheets to find out "how to sell it".

Yes, I am quite sure that this sort of trade advertising which we might term Combined-Exploitation-Service-Advertsing, will accomplish much for you. It should certainly help to sell your products ... secondly help your customers to sell them, and last but not least, prove beneficial to the trade papers who in turn profit as they make their pages serve you in proportion to their cost. Keep the good work up. And congratulations.

Sincerely,

Exploitation Director.

Write Your Exchange Today For Special Grand Larceny Contest Clip Sheet

LARCENY irected by WALLACE WORSLEY

nd CLAIRE WINDSOR

PICTURE

When You Play Goldwyn's Grand Larceny You Get a Great Picture and a Great Angle for Pushing It!

GET IN ON IT! HERE'S THE WAY—

Obey that impulse you had when you read the four page ad in the March 12 issue of Motion Picture News.

Get a copy of the Service Book and the Special Contest Clip Sheet from your Goldwyn Exchange and read them carefully.

Then take the idea to the editor of your most progressive newspaper. Point out to him the vast reader interest—and he will be quick to see it.

Suggest that he offer prizes for the best solutions of "Who Knows?" Plenty of material is provided to launch the contest. The flood of answers the newspaper will receive will carry it on.

Ask the newspaper to start the contest several days before your showing and continue through it, with the prize announcement at the end.

Your box office will profit—and your newspaper, too.

STAMPEDE!

ON YOUR SCREEN AND AT YOUR BOX-OFFICE —

COMING SOON!

CARL LAEMMLE'S PRESENTATION OF

HARRY CAREY

IN A STUPENDOUS DRAMA OF ADVENTURE AND ROMANCE
IN THE FAR WEST —
FROM THE FAMOUS NOVEL BY JACKSON GREGORY

APRIL AND MAY
Exhibitors - Universal Employees Months

"MAN TO MAN"

UNIVERSAL-JEWEL
DIRECTED BY STUART PATON

Something Unheard Of!

The Best First Run Houses In the Land Are Going To Feature This Marvelous Chapter-Play

"The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe"

Carl Laemmle's
Greatest Continued Feature
Starring

Harry Myers

as "CRUSOE"

Noble Johnson
as "FRIDAY"

With

Gertrude Olmsted
Percy Pembroke
Gertrude Claire
Joseph Swickard

DIRECTED BY ROBERT HILL

APRIL AND MAY
Exhibitors-Universal Employees Months

UNIVERSAL'S GREAT CHAPTER-PLAY

TOOK NEW YORK BY STORM

CRITICS PRAISE IT TO THE SKIES

"Suspense is terrific. Best since 'The Virgin of Stamboul.'" —Morning Telegraph.

"It almost brings the spectators out of their seats." —Evening Telegram.

"Spectacular event. Here one can have his hair raised at leisure." —Evening Sun.

"It's a thriller. Rather wonderful. Excellent drama." —Daily News.

"There is no better way of getting a thrill than by seeing 'Wild Honey.'" —N. Y. Tribune.

"Priscilla Dean hurtles through six reels of almost continuous action." —N. Y. Times.

"'Wild Honey' has had few equals. It is breath-taking, astounding. A picture they will talk about—when they are able to get their breath again." —M. P. News.

"Sure-fire. Always pleasing. The kind of entertainment that a good majority favor. If your folks like melodrama, they'll surely want this one." —Film Daily (Wid's).

"High class melodrama. Ought to please all types of audiences. Picture full of thrills." —Trade Review.

"Never lets down for a moment. A rapid succession of thrills." —Zit's Weekly.

Now in Its Fourth Week at Shubert's Central, New York City

CARL LAEMMLE presents

PRISCILLA DEAN

In her crowning success — a stupendous thriller made by Wesley Ruggles from Cynthia Stockley's world famous novel

"WILD HONEY"

APRIL AND MAY Exhibitors - Universal Employees Months

UNIVERSAL—JEWEL

VESUVIUS CONQUERED!

Photographed in full volcanic action for the first time in the world's history

by FOX NEWS

Amid poisonous gases, white-hot lava and tornadoes of smoke a Fox News cameraman flies into the flaming crater of Vesuvius

Over this caldron of death, with pilot and cameraman both gassed and unconscious, the aeroplane died and side-slipped into a crash that wrecked the plane and sent both occupants to the hospital

Here is another instance of Fox News unequalled service to the Exhibitor

ADVERTISE IT AS A FEATURE PLAY IT UP IN YOUR NEWSPAPERS—IN YOUR SLIDES—AND IN YOUR HOUSE PROGRAM

Length 500 Feet

NO EXTRA RENTAL to Fox News Subscribers

Released March 29

Vol. 3, No. 51

William Fox
presents
Nothing but box office money-breeders

Laughter means DOLLARS
AND Everybody laughs over
AL ST JOHN
in
A Studio Rube

Just as they laughed over his Straight from the Farm ~ Small Town Stuff ~
Fast and Furious ~ The Happy Pest and Fool Days

FOX
the house of short subjects

Short subjects are as important as a feature

Original, Simon-Pure, Short-Reel Entertainment Subjects ~
WILLIAM FOX

SUNSHINE COMEDIES

Better than ever before
Now Booking
Please Be Careful — Laughing Gas
West is West — coming The Barnstormers

Capt. Bud Fisher's
MUTT & JEFF

Once tried always used ~
No other brand will satisfy

Current Releases
The Cashier — A Clear Case
Too Much Sap — coming Any Ice To-day

Are you showing it ?
The greatest exclusive News-feature ever released
FACE TO FACE WITH JAPAN

FOX
INDEPENDENCE & STRENGTH

No Extra Rental

A part of every second issue FOX NEWS

WILLIAM FOX
takes pleasure in announcing that dainty, gifted star

SHIRLEY MASON

In the captivating play of American life

The Ragged Heiress

It will delight the whole family

Story by Jules Furthman
Directed by HARRY BEAUMONT

DORIS MAY IN "BOY CRAZY"

STORY AND SCENARIO BY BEATRICE VAN

Doris May in "The Foolish Age" was a box office clean-up. Here is this idol of the fans in a faster, funnier, peppier comedy than that hit of hits.

Consider the title. It is ideal for exploitation. Book this picture. Exploit it. Cash in BIG.

A HUNT STROMBERG PRODUCTION
Directed by WILLIAM A. SEITER

R-C PICTURES

R-C PICTURES REG U.S. PAT. OFF.

PUTS THE DASH IN HABERDASHERY

The Darling of the Fans in the Hit of Her Career

LIVE exhibitors made a real clean-up with Doris May in "The Foolish Age." A favorite for years, she swept to the peak of public popularity in that comedy hit of hits.

Now she cuts another melon for you with a faster, funnier, peppier success.

The story is a "riot." Doris May as a boy-crazy girl takes over her father's village store that is dying on the vine. She converts it into a Broadway-type men's store and sells live-wire clothes to the young bucks and old billy goats of the town.

Harry Myers (you know what a triumph he has made in "A Connecticut Yankee") opens a Fifth Avenue-type woman's shop across the street. The town chickens and the old hens are out to give him all the dollars in town.

The trade war between the she-haberdasher and the he-dressmaker is full of the most laughable episodes you ever threw on your screen.

Book and play "Boy Crazy." Your box office needs this stimulant.

R-C PICTURES

R-C PICTURES
REG U S PAT OFF

Shadows

have caused more dread and terror than anything else except the visible menace of death, from the ages of primitive man to the present day. On the other hand, shadows now are providing mankind with nine-tenths of all its theatre entertainment, for the motion picture is nothing more nor less than the play of shadows on a lighted screen.

Shadows

in general are confused and vague, and much of confusion and vagueness have existed in the great entertainment industry of producing and distributing motion pictures.

SECOND NATIONAL PICTURES CORPORATION

is eliminating this confusion by the application of systematic methods and providing the best possible photodramas on terms which give distributors and exhibitors fair shares of the gains.

" The Night Riders " " Her Story "

" David and Jonathan "

Second National Pictures Corp.

140 West 42nd Street New York City

Mae Murray Makes Money for the Showman

She personifies the quick pulse of the life of luxurious dance places -- the glittering revelry of New York and the great Continental capitals

Her presentation by ROBERT Z. LEONARD in PEACOCK ALLEY broke booking and house records

Watch for her newest, most gorgeous photoplay

FASCINATION

Distributed by

Metro
PICTURES CORPORATION

ROBERT Z. L

MAE M

MAE MURRAY

—her dancing, her striking gowns. A swift-moving story of adventurous romance. A background of the gayest, most sinister phase of night life in Madrid.

Do you wonder the picture's called

Fascination

The star of provocative beauty in a photoplay no less gorgeous than

PEACOCK ALLEY

and even more forcefully dramatic . . . . . .

Your patrons are impatient to see

MAE MURRAY again

Give them what they want:

FASCINATION

It's more than the title implies.

Distributed by

MET

PICTURES CO

In

FASCI

By EDMUN

NARD Presents

IRRAY

FASCINATION is the story of what happened to Dolores De Lisa, beginning that evening when she dared display her beauty in the most dangerous resort in Madrid . . . . . .

FASCINATION is richly produced ~ the star's gowns, Parisian creations, unbelievably stunning ~ her dancing is daring, original FASCINATION is a picture to book before the other fellow does . . . . . .

RO

ATION

FASCINATION

Directed by Robert Z. Leonard

A TIFFANY PRODUCTION

M. H. Hoffman
Vice-President and General Manager

NATION-

OULDING

A REX INGRA

TURN TO THE

A Picturization of the

JOHN GOLDEN HIT

written by

Winchell Smith and John E. Hazzard

BOOKINGS

that Spell Success:

Metropolitan, Atlanta, Ga.
Republic, Jacksonville, Fla.
Strand, Brockton, Mass.
Rialto, Fall River, Mass.
Rialto, Lowell, Mass.
Day Street, Somerville, Mass.
Poli's, Bridgeport, Conn.
Capitol, Hartford, Conn.
Palace, New Haven, Conn.
Modern, Providence, R. I.
Strand, Portland, Maine
Tivoli, Chicago, Ill.
Randolph, Chicago, Ill.
Riviera, Chicago, Ill.
Peoria, Madison, Wis.
Victory, Evansville, Ind.
Orpheum, Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Ohio, Indianapolis, Ind.
Lyric, Marion, Ind.
Murette, Richmond, Ind.
Liberty, Terre Haute, Ind.
Strand, Milwaukee, Wis.
Toy, Milwaukee, Wis.
Grand Opera House, Wausau, Wis.
Dome, Youngstown, Ohio
Royal, Waco, Texas

A Picture Greater than the Great Play—which ran 443 times in New York, 319 times in Chicago; and which is still being enacted with undiminished popularity throughout the country.

EVERY NEW YORK DRA

Presented on the Screen by

JOHN GOLDEN and
MARCUS LOEW

Scenario by JUNE MATHIS and MARY O'HARA ... Photography by JOHN F. SEITZ . . .

M Production of WINCHELL SMITH'S FAMOUS BROADWAY STAGE SUCCESS

RIGHT

A Picture Greater than the Great Expectations of it—which were high, considering its direction by the maker of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power."

MORE BOOKINGS that Spell More Success:

Palace, Dallas, Texas
Majestic, Tulsa, Okla.
Rialto, Denver, Col.
Garrick, Minneapolis, Minn.
Garrick, Duluth, Minn.
Garrick, St. Paul, Minn.
Sherman, St. Cloud, Minn.
Riviera, La Crosse, Wis.
Cameo, New York, N. Y.
Capitol, New York, N. Y.
American, Troy, N. Y.
Capitol, Trenton, N. J.
Grand, Dubuque, Ia.
Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.
Stanley, Philadelphia, Pa.
Hamilton, Lancaster, Pa.
Majestic, Williamsport, Pa.
Capitol, Altoona, Pa.
Strand, Erie, Pa.
New Mission, Los Angeles, Calif.
Imperial, San Francisco, Calif.
Coliseum, Seattle, Washington
Majestic, Portland, Ore.
Loew's State, Boston, Mass.
Capitol, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Loew's State, Rochester, N. Y.
N. L. Nathanson Canadian Circuit,
Famous Players Canadian Corp., Ltd.

C CRITIC PRAISED IT

Distributed by

METRO

PICTURES CORPORATION

MISSING HUSBANDS

A PICTURE FOR

Husbands who are missing and husbands who wish they were . . . . . .

Wives who wish so, too . .

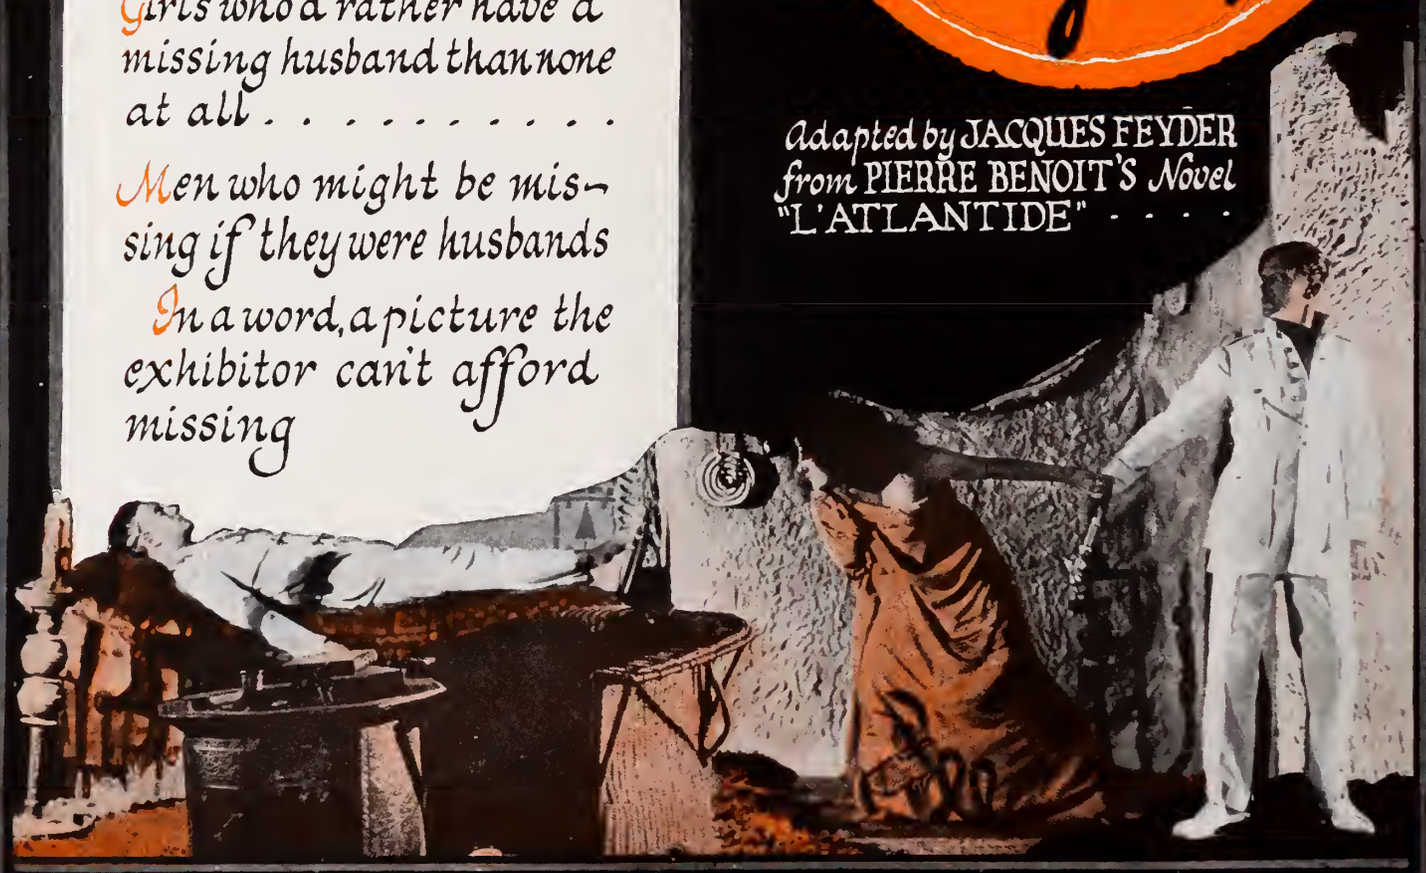
Girls who'd rather have a missing husband than none at all . . . . . .

Men who might be missing if they were husbands

In a word, a picture the exhibitor can't afford missing

The picture that made Paris gasp!

Adapted by JACQUES FEYDER from PIERRE BENOIT'S Novel "L'ATLANTIDE" . . . .



METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

Exclusive Distributors throughout The UNITED STATES and CANADA

—as these theatres did

Howard, Atlanta
Republic, Jacksonville
Strand, Birmingham
Park, Boston
Colonial, Brockton
Rialto, Fall River
Day Street, Somerville
Daw's, Bridgeport
Majestic, Hartford
Palace, New Haven
Strand, Providence Empire, Portland
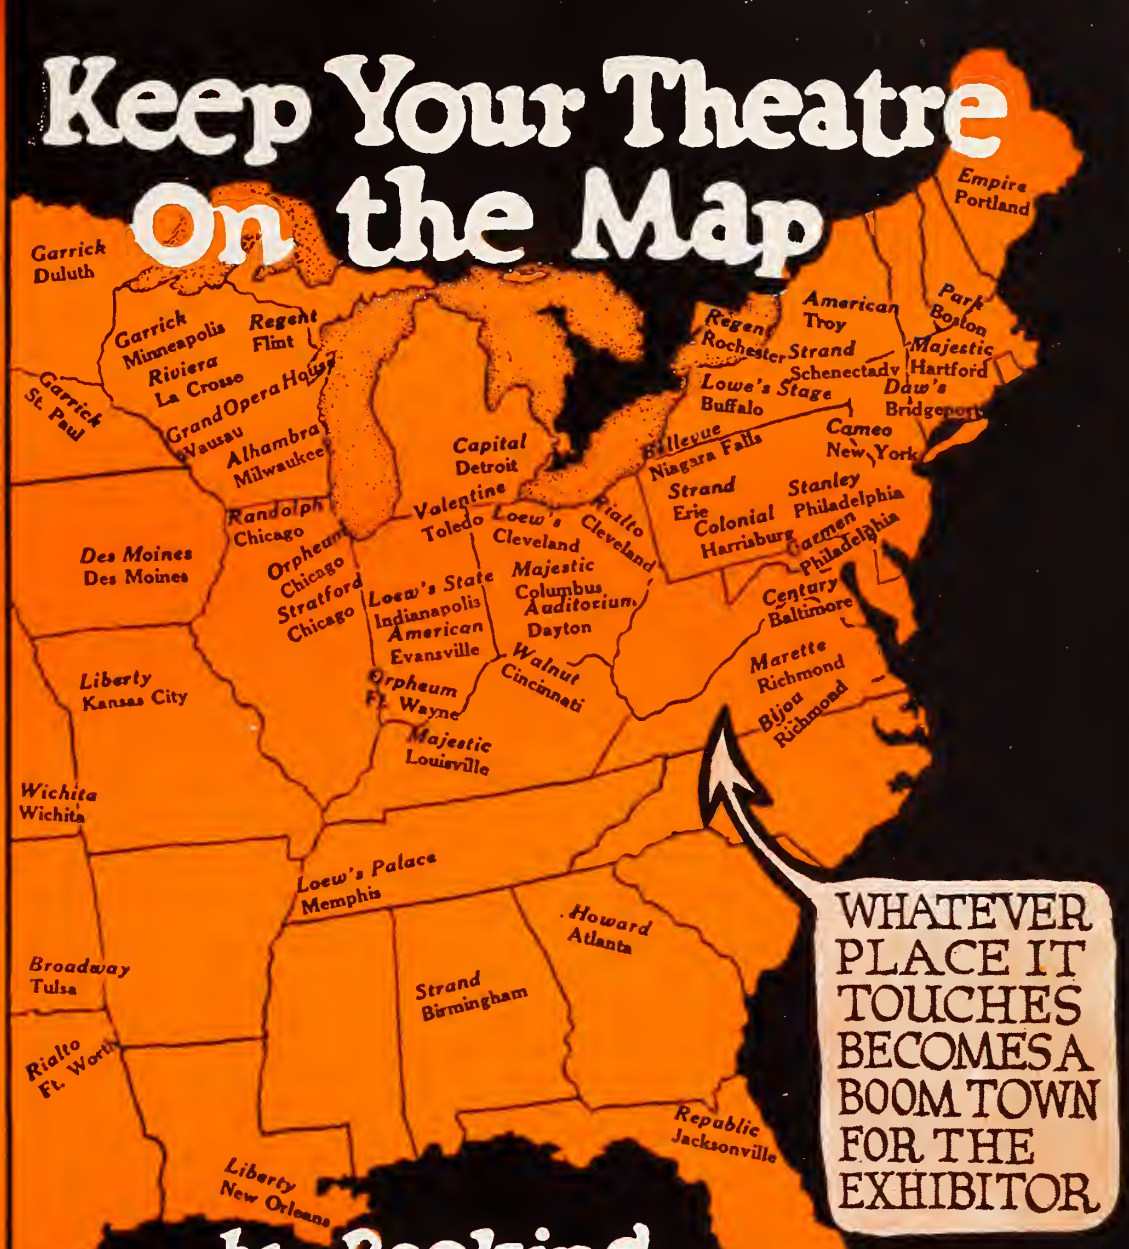
Loew's Stage, Buffalo
Moazard, Elmira
Bellevue, Niagara Falls
Regent, Rochester
Strand, Schenectady
Randolph, Chicago
Stratford, Chicago
Orpheum, Chicago
American, Evansville
Orpheum, Ft. Wayne
Loew's State, Indianapolis
Lyric, Marion
Murette, Richmond
Liberty, Terre Haute
Alhambra, Milwaukee
Toy, Milwaukee
Grand Opera House, Wausau
Strand, Akron
Alhambra, Canton
Loew's, Cleveland
Rialto, Cleveland
Capital, Cleveland
Valentine, Toledo
Dome, Youngstown
Walnut, Cincinnati
Majestic, Columbus
Auditorium, Dayton
Majestic, Louisville
Palace, Dallas
Rialto, Ft. Worth
Rialto, San Antonio
Criterion, Oklahoma City
Royal, Waco
Broadway, Tulsa
Rivoli, Denver
Capital, Detroit
Regent, Flint
Liberty, Kansas City
Wichita, Wichita
Loew's Palace, Memphis
Loew's State, Los Angeles
Plaza, San Diego
Garrick, Duluth
Garrick, Minneapolis
Garrick, St. Paul
Riviera, La Crosse
Cameo, New York
American, Troy
Liberty, New Orleans
Des Moines, Des Moines
Rialto, Omaha
Stanley, Philadelphia
Carmen, Philadelphia
Colonial, Harrisburg
Hamilton, Lancaster
Majestic, Williamsport
Capital, Altoona
Strand, Erie
Loew's State, Salt Lake City
American, Oakland
Imperial, San Francisco
Liberty, Portland
Coliseum, Seattle
Century, Baltimore
Bijou, Richmond

Keep Your Theatre On the Map



WHATEVER PLACE IT TOUCHES BECOMES A BOOM TOWN FOR THE EXHIBITOR

by Booking ROBERT Z. LEONARD'S

Presentation of

MAE MURRAY in PEACOCK ALLEY

PEACOCK ALLEY IS THE ROAD TO RECORD RETURNS

by EDMUND GOULDING based on a story by OUIDA BERGERE

A TIFFANY Production
M. H. HOFFMAN Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Directed by ROBERT Z. LEONARD

Distributed by

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

X MARKS THE SPOT WHERE THE MONEY IS FOUND

ALICE LAKE in THE GOLDEN GIFT

by June Mathis ··· Scenario by Florence Hein

A MAXWELL KARGER Production

GARETH HUGHES in I CAN EXPLAIN

by EDGAR FRANKLIN

A GEORGE D. BAKER Production for ARTHUR SAWYER HERBERT LUBIN PICTURES

VIOLA DANA in GLASS HOUSES

by CLARA GENEVIEVE KENNEDY Scenario by EDITH KENNEDY

A HARRY BEAUMONT Production

METRO PICTURES

BERT LYTELL in THE RIGHT that FAILED

From J.P. MARQUAND'S Saturday Evening Post story

Scenario by LENORE COFFEE

A BAYARD VIELLER Production

SELZNICK
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
PICTURES

The story of a girl who took everything and gave nothing in return—a girl whose motto was, "Who Cares?"

LEWIS J. SELZNICK
presents—

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN

IN

"Reckless Youth"

Adapted from a story by COSMO HAMILTON

Scenario by Edward J Montagne — Personally staged by RALPH INCE

A HERALD PRODUCTION
Presented and Distributed by PLAYGOERS PICTURES

ADVENTURE!
EXCITEMENT!
ATMOSPHERE!
ACTION!
THRILLS!

J.P. McGOWAN
IN
"RECKLESS CHANCES"

J. P. McGOWAN in
"DISCONTENTED WIVES" and
"THE RUSE of the RATTLER" are making Public Demand for
"RECKLESS CHANCES"

PHYSICAL DISTRIBUTORS
PATHÉ EXCHANGE INC.

Foreign Representative
SIDNEY GARRETT

MR. AND MRS.
CARTER DEHAVEN
IN
"MARRY THE POOR GIRL"
A DELICIOUS DELIGHTFUL COMEDY!
Oliver Morosco's Stage Hit by Owen Davis
Personally Supervised by Carter DeHaven
Adapted by Rex Taylor Directed by Lloyd Ingraham
Presented and Distributed by ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS, Inc.
Arthur S. Kane President
PHYSICAL DISTRIBUTORS
PATHE EXCHANGE
Foreign Representative
SIDNEY GARRETT

WILLIAM A. BRADY OFFERS

Read this wonderful list of

Mr. Brady will screen any of these subjects at the fully equipped arrangements and efficient distribution.

ALL TITLES

JULES ECKERT GOODMAN'S
THE MAN WHO CAME
A Success the World Over

FRANK CRAVEN'S
TOO MANY COOKS
Success New York-London

FOXY GRANDPA
Most Successful Series of Cartoons Ever Made

THE FLAMING SOUL
Acted on Stage by House Peters and Clara Joel

UP THE LADDER
By Owen Davis, Now Running Playhouse, New York

OWEN DAVIS' FOREVER AFTER Played Over 400 Times in New York City

THE THINGS THAT COUNT
Another "Over the Hill"

THY NAME IS WOMAN
A Mary Nash Hit

THE NEST
Now Running 48th Street Theatre, New York City

SYLVIA RUNS AWAY
100 Nights at Playhouse

READ THIS LIST—FULL PARTICULARS

The Great Northwest
The Woman of It
An Old New Yorker
A Court Scandal
The Apprentice
A Flash of Lightning
The Acid Test
The Bottom of the Sea
The Haunted House
The Charm of Isabel
The Elder Son
The Naked Truth
Pavements of Paris
The Red Pocketbook
The Wall Street Bandit
In God's Country
In a Big City
The Manicure Girl
The Decent Thing to Do
Bill's Woman
An Hour of Life
A Daughter of the Tenements
A Bunch of Violets
All for a Girl
Sport McAllister
Orange Blossoms
The Calthorpe Case
Frenzied Finance
The Things We Create
The Woman He Stole
The Flying Star
She (Wm. A. Brady's dramatization)
The Redskin
What Will John Say?
A Suit of Sable
An International Complication
Won by a Neck
Aunt Hannah
Brother Jim's Baby

OWNED BY WILLIAM A. BRADY AND THE WORLD FILM CO.

The Dollar Mark
Mother
Gentlemen from Mississippi
Man of the Hour
As Ye Sow
The Pit

SOLE AND EXCLUSIVE AGENT—

PLAY HOUSE, 137 WEST

NO OTHER AGENT HAS ANY

PLAYS FOR PICTURES

stage successes controlled by him

Paragon Studio in Fort Lee if guaranteed substantial financial

COPYRIGHTED

DRIFTING
Now Running at Playhouse, New York

OWEN DAVIS'
OPPORTUNITY
Ran a Year in New York

ANNA ASCENDS
Make a Great Picture for Female Star
Played by Alice Brady

THE TEASER
Comedy Success, Playhouse

JUST LIKE JOHN
Broadhurst Comedy with Thrilling Situation

THE EXQUISITE HOUR
Grace George Now Playing It, Princess, Chicago

THE LAW BREAKER
Now Running at Booth Theatre

OWEN DAVIS'
AT 9:45
A Series of Thrills

DON'T WEAKEN
A Great Play for Pictures by Geo. Broadhurst

PERSONALITY
Full of Laughs and Thrills

THE RUINED LADY
Frances Nordstrom's Dramatic Comedy
Played by Grace George

TOMORROW'S CHILD
By Fannie Hurst, Author of Humoresque

GLADLY GIVEN ON APPLICATION

Burr Oaks
Old Glory
Mrs. Smith—Detective
The Recall
Thou Shalt Not
The Girl and the Drummer
The Intruder
Jim's Marriage
The Swindlers
Back of the Yards
Just to Get Married
Beauty Is Skin Deep
Making Good
Countess Chiffon
A Lady of Long Ago
An Irish Arab Evil Tongues
Snowflakes
Around New York in 80 Minutes
Humanity
The Runaways
The Lady from Oklahoma
The New South
A Thousand Years Ago
Cheer Boys, Cheer—Drury Lane Drama
The Rented Earl
Girls Will Be Girls
An American Beauty
Gentleman Jack
Naval Cadet
A Man From the West
The Wrong Mr. Wright
The Last Chapter
Cape Cod Folks
The Easterner
A Stranger in a Strange Land
The Pleasant Sins
Passion's Slave

PRODUCED BY THEM BEFORE THE WAR—GREAT FOR REVIVAL NOW

After Dark
Colton King
Ivory Snuff Box
A Woman's Way
Husband and Wife
The Boss

FAIR PLAY AGENCY, M. Healy, Mgr.

48th ST., NEW YORK CITY

AUTHORITY TO NEGOTIATE

"I AM THE LAW!"

A sensational drama of the Canadian Northwest directed by the master of all outdoor directors, that "sure-fire" masterhand — maker of big successes with the punch—

EDWIN CAREWE

Featured in this super picture against a background of Nature's magnificent "bigness" and garbed in the white snow of the Northwest which is startling in its supreme beauty are

ALICE LAKE
KENNETH HARLAN
ROSEMARY THEBY
GASTON GLASS
WALLACE BEERY
NOAH BEERY

—the greatest cast ever assembled!

SOLD to Joe Skirboll of First National, Pittsburgh; Fred Cubberley, First National of Minneapolis; M. A. Klausner, Mountain States of Denver, and Harry Warner of Warner Bros. for the entire foreign market.

EDWIN CAREWE
PICTURES CORP.
B. P. FINEMAN, Pres.
B. ZEIDMAN, V.-Pres.
Distributed by AFFILIATED
DISTRIBUTORS, Inc.
C. C. BURR, Pres.
133-135-137 West 44th St.
New York City, N. Y.

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

The Big 6 are coming

The Entertainment Ten

B. S. Moss
Real Showman
Wrote the Ad on the Following Page

The Entertainment Ten

BOOK THE ENTERTAINMENT TEN STRAIGHT

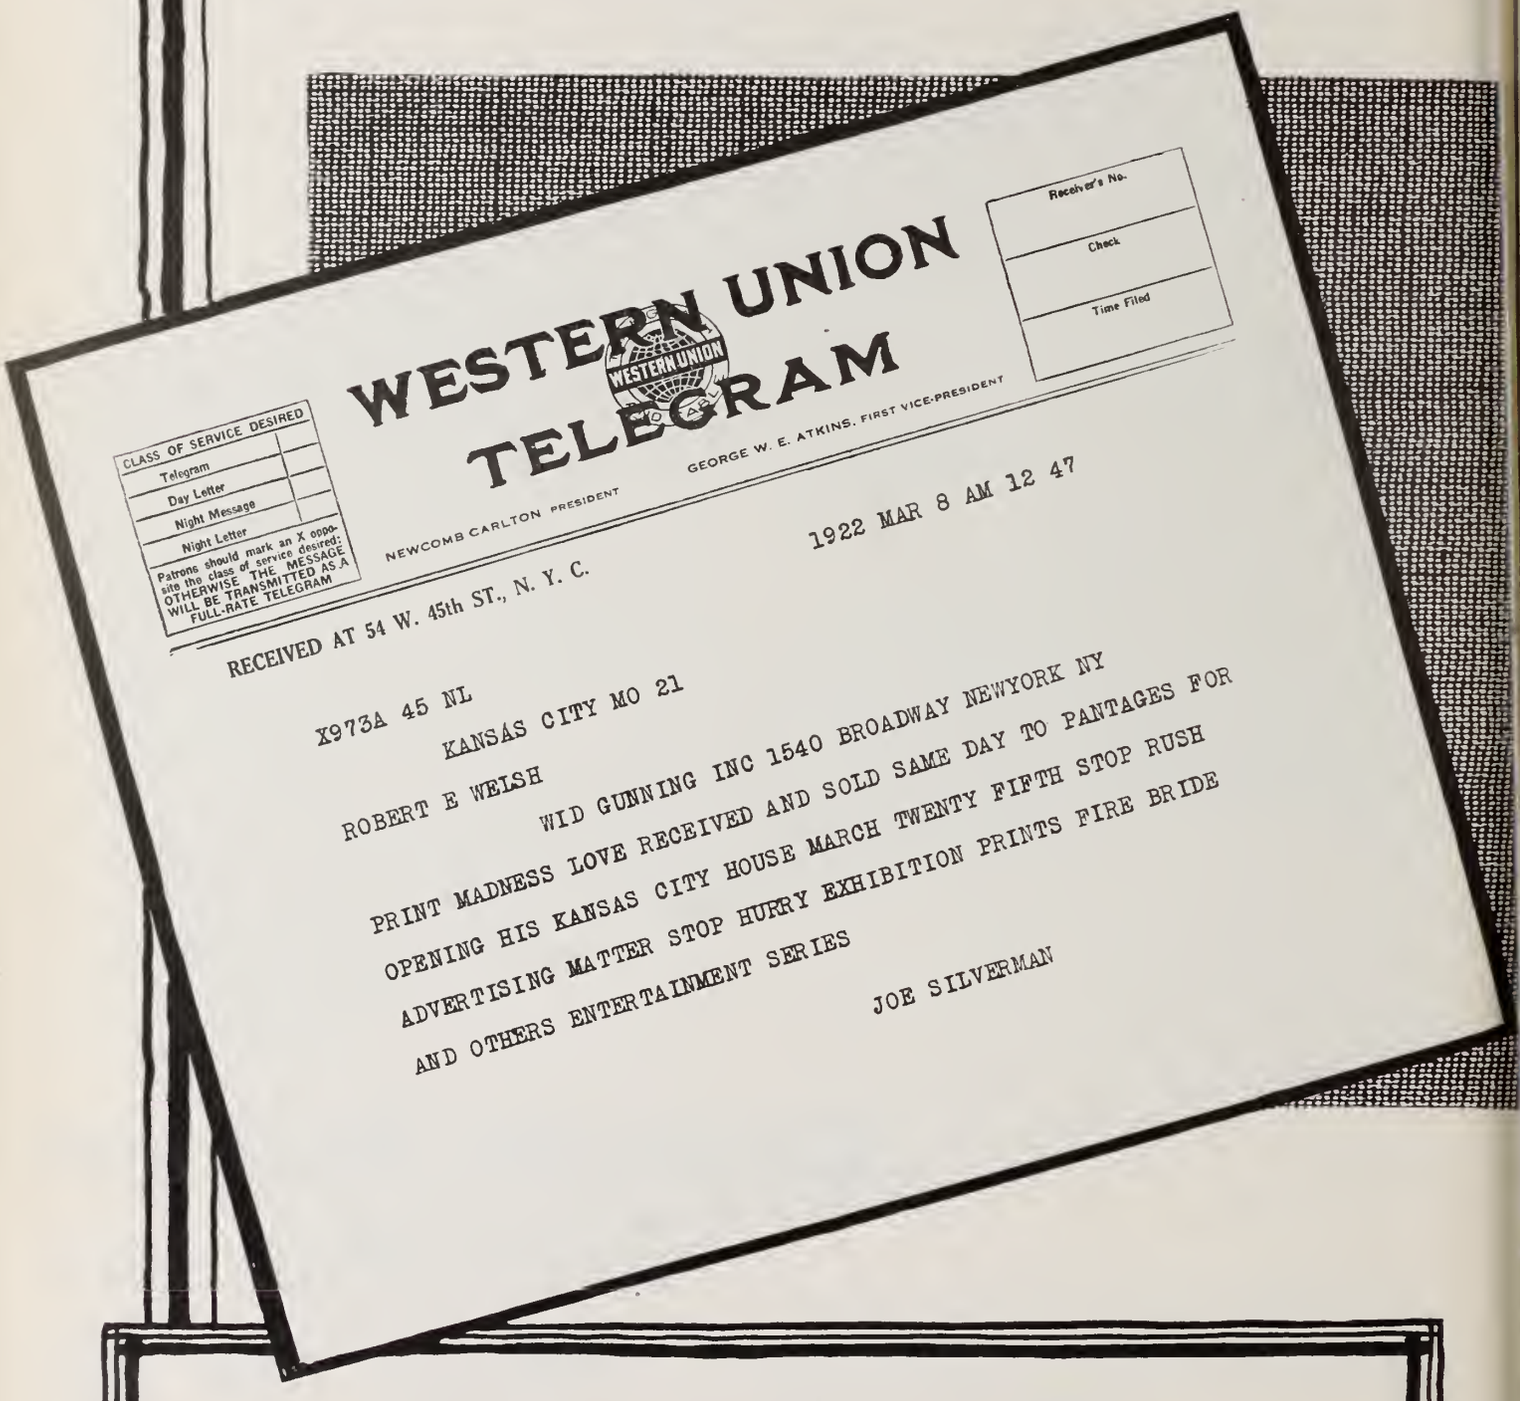
Now available at the following WID GUNNING Exchanges:

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten

Alexander Pantages Real Showman Wrote the Ad on the Following Page

The Entertainment Ten



WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT — GEORGE W. E. ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

CLASS OF SERVICE DESIRED
Telegram
Day Letter
Night Message
Night Letter
Patrons should mark an X opposite the class of service desired; OTHERWISE THE MESSAGE WILL BE TRANSMITTED AS A FULL-RATE TELEGRAM

Receiver's No.
Check
Time Filed

RECEIVED AT 54 W. 45th ST., N. Y. C.

1922 MAR 8 AM 12 47

X973A 45 NL
KANSAS CITY MO 21
ROBERT E WELSH
WID GUNNING INC 1540 BROADWAY NEWYORK NY
PRINT MADNESS LOVE RECEIVED AND SOLD SAME DAY TO PANTAGES FOR OPENING HIS KANSAS CITY HOUSE MARCH TWENTY FIFTH STOP RUSH
ADVERTISING MATTER STOP HURRY EXHIBITION PRINTS FIRE BRIDE AND OTHERS ENTERTAINMENT SERIES
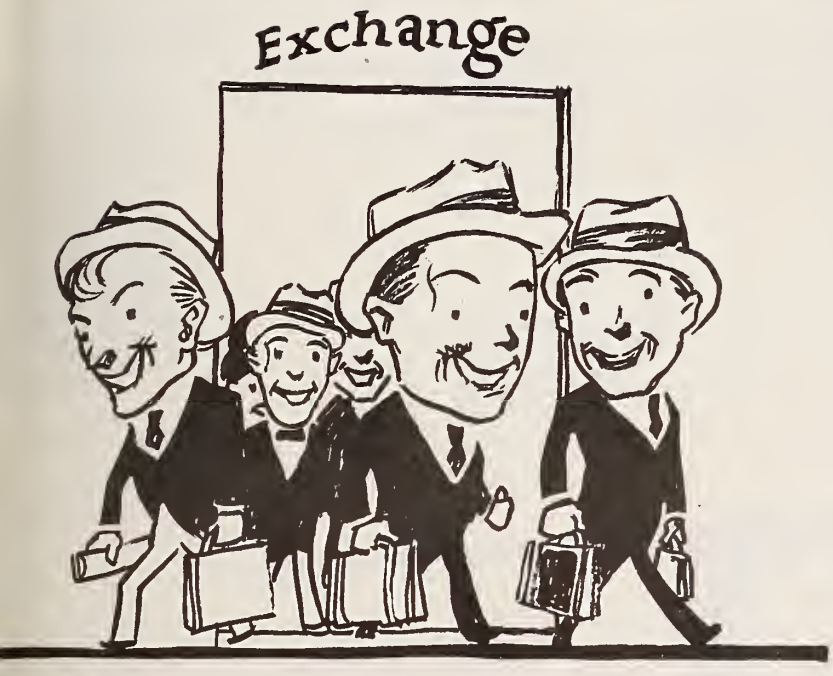
JOE SILVERMAN

BOOK THE ENTERTAINMENT TEN—NOW

Now Available at the following WID GUNNING Exchanges:

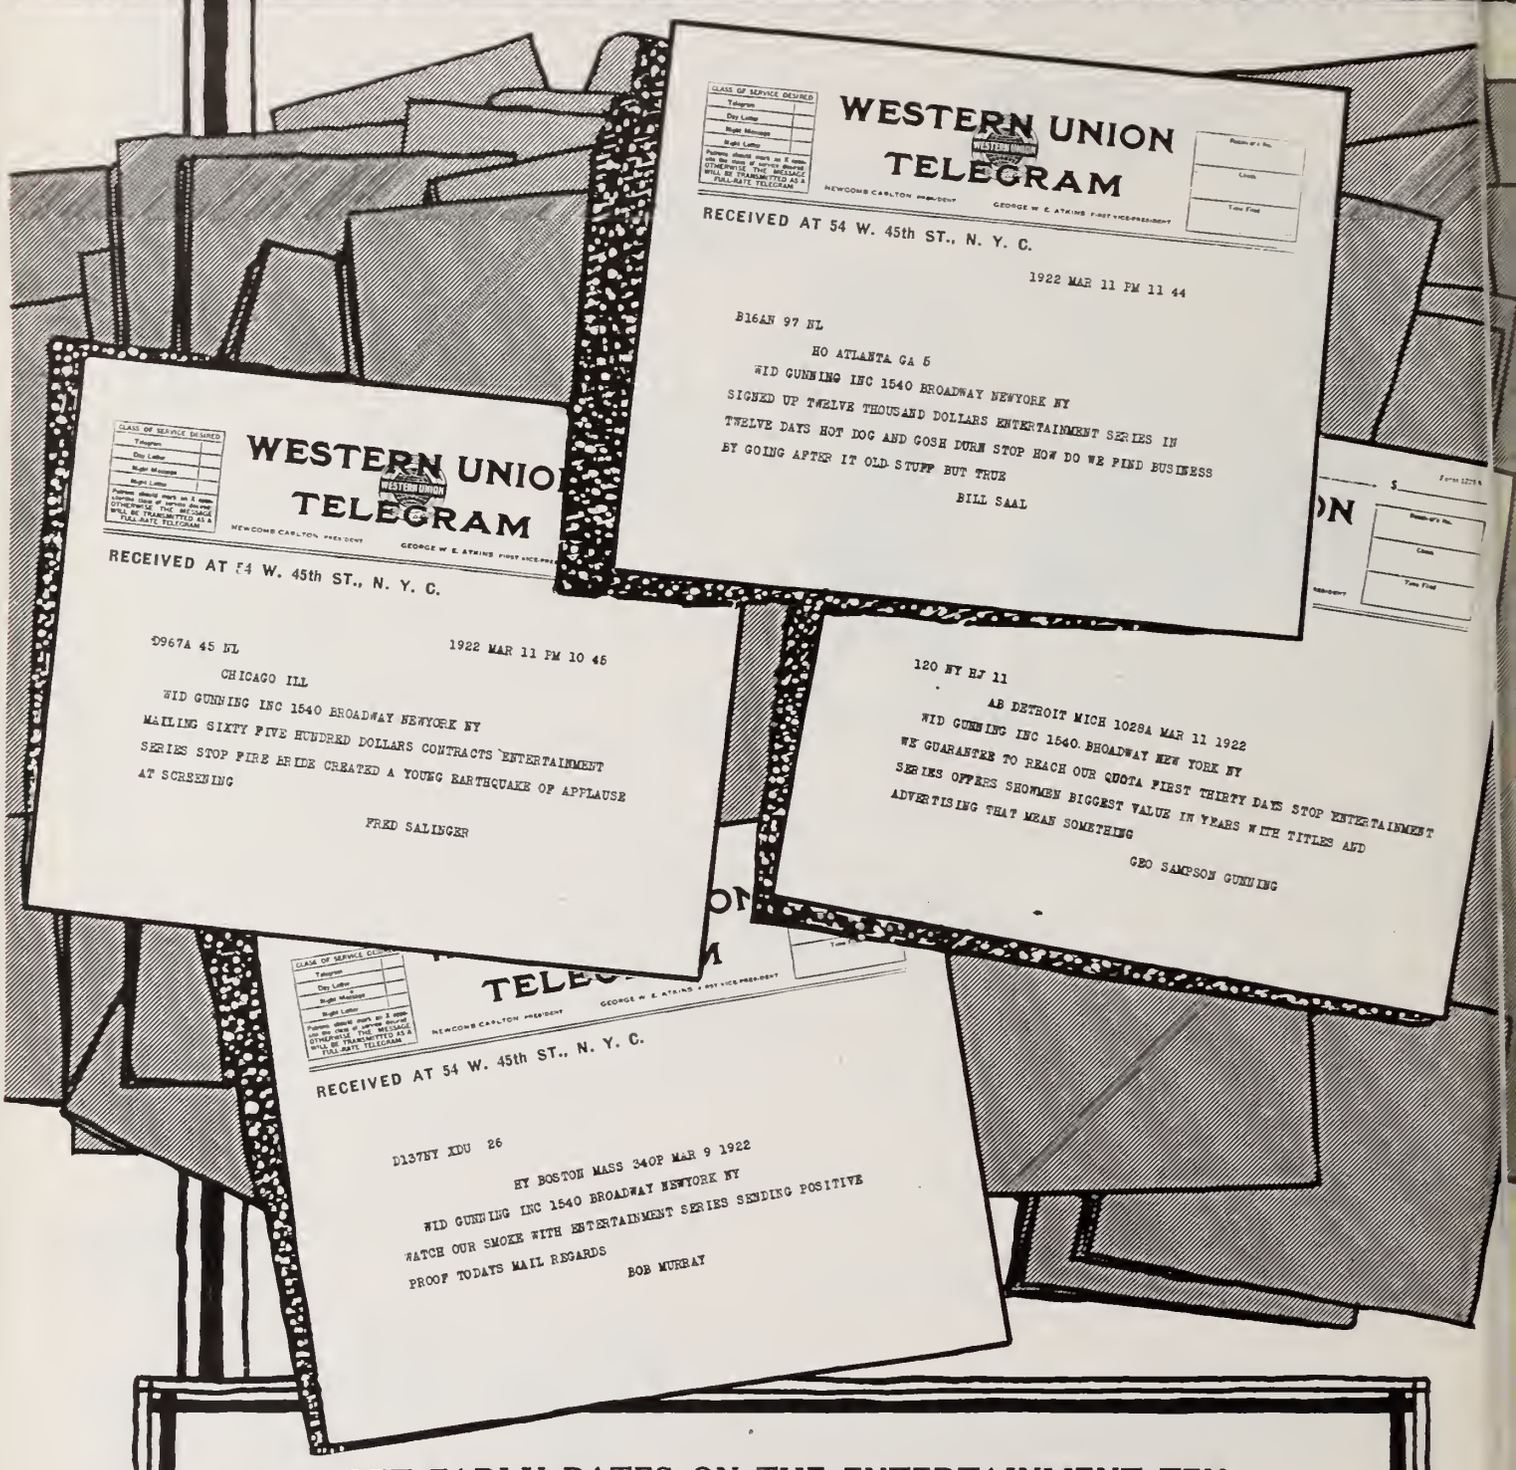
Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten



3000 Real Showmen Wrote the Ad on the Following Page

The Entertainment Ten



WESTERN UNION
TELEGRAM
NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT
GEORGE W. E. ATKINS FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT
RECEIVED AT 54 W. 45th ST., N. Y. C.
1922 MAR 11 PM 11 44
B16AN 97 NL
HO ATLANTA GA 5
WID GUNNING INC 1540 BROADWAY NEWYORK NY
SIGNED UP TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ENTERTAINMENT SERIES IN TWELVE DAYS HOT DOG AND GOSH DURN STOP HOW DO WE FIND BUSINESS
BY GOING AFTER IT OLD STUFF BUT TRUE
BILL SAAL
RECEIVED AT 54 W. 45th ST., N. Y. C.
1922 MAR 11 PM 10 46
CHICAGO ILL
WID GUNNING INC 1540 BROADWAY NEWYORK NY
MAILING SIXTY FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS CONTRACTS ENTERTAINMENT SERIES STOP FIRE BRIDE CREATED A YOUNG EARTHQUAKE OF APPLAUSE AT SCREENING
FRED SALINGER
120 NY NJ 11
AB DETROIT MICH 1028A MAR 11 1922
WID GUNNING INC 1540. BROADWAY NEW YORK NY
WE GUARANTEE TO REACH OUR QUOTA FIRST THIRTY DAYS STOP ENTERTAINMENT SERIES OFFERS SHOWMEN BIGGEST VALUE IN YEARS WITH TITLES AND ADVERTISING THAT MEAN SOMETHING
GEO SAMPSON GUNNING
RECEIVED AT 54 W. 45th ST., N. Y. C.
D137NY XDU 26
NY BOSTON MASS 340P MAR 9 1922
WID GUNNING INC 1540 BROADWAY NEWYORK NY
WATCH OUR SMOKE WITH ENTERTAINMENT SERIES SENDING POSITIVE PROOF TODAYS MAIL REGARDS
BOB MURRAY

GET EARLY DATES ON THE ENTERTAINMENT TEN

Now available at the following WID GUNNING Exchanges:

Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta St.
Boston.....19 Piedmont St.
Buffalo.....338 Pearl St.
Cleveland,
607 Film Ex. Bldg., 21st & Payne Ave.
Chicago.....804 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati...Room 505, Film Exch. Bldg.
Dallas.....1717½ Commerce St.
Denver.....1714 Broadway
Detroit.....504 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City,
Film Exch. Bldg., 17th & Main Sts.
Los Angeles.....838 So. Olive St.
Minneapolis....Room 610, 16 No. 4th St.
New York City...5th Floor, 729 7th Ave.
Philadelphia.....1235 Vine St.
Pittsburgh.....1201 Liberty Ave.
San Francisco.....284 Turk St.
Seattle.....2024 Third Ave.
St. Louis.....3626 Olive St.
Washington.....525 13th St. N. W.

The Entertainment Ten

What Music Is Sweeter Than The Merry Jingle of Your Automatic or National Ticket Machines?

¶ "THE FIRE BRIDE"
A dramatic smash of passion-swept hearts torn asunder in a tropic storm. Actually produced in part in Tahiti (Ty-tee), the South Seas, by Alder and Unander, with Fred Stanton, Walt Whitman and Ruth Reneck. Directed by Art Rosson.

¶ "THE MADNESS OF LOVE"
In which Director Wray Physioc holds his audience through heart interest. Jean Scott, late of David Belasco's "Kiki" company, is featured. She is an eye full.

¶ "ALIAS PHIL KENNEDY"
Real thriller of romance, mystery and action. Long Beach Motion Picture, with Bill Patton and Dixie Lamont. Directed by William Bertram.

¶ "THE BLONDE VAMPIRE"
Allan Rock's production of the Hearst Newspaper Sunday Magazine contest, "Are Blondes Vampires?" Features De Sacia Mooers, winner of America's Most Beautiful Blonde contest. Directed by Wray Physioc.

¶ "BLUE MOUNTAIN MYSTERY"
A murder mystery unsolvable until the final scene. A dramatic smash with many surprises. Features Bernice Ware and John Faulkner. Directed by Raymond Langford.

¶ "THE BOOTLEGGERS"
The All-American Newspaper headlining sensation of rum-running by ship, train and aeroplane. Features Walter Miller and Paul Panzer. Directed by Roy Sheldon.

¶ "THE LOVE NEST"
Wray Physioc romance with one of the big fights of the year. Produced on an island 20 miles from the Maine coast. Features Jean Scott, late hit of David Belasco's "Kiki" company.

¶ "DON'T BLAME YOUR CHILDREN"
Powerful conflict of parents' wills against children's rights. Features Malvina Longfellow, Norman McKinnell and Molly Adair. B & C production. Directed by George Ridgewell.

¶ "MRS. DANE'S CONFESSION"
Tense drama. Made to grip and thrill. Excellent production values and strong cast. Features Lucy Doraine and Alfred Strong. Herz-Sascha production. Directed by Michel Kertes.

¶ "FOOLISH MONTE CARLO"
First picture actually produced at Monte Carlo with American cast and director. Features Sam Livesey, now featured as the villain in "Bulldog Drummond," sensational New York theatre hit. B & C production. Directed by Wm. Humphrey.

What Safer Bet Than These Entertainments of Merit With Titles and Posters That Will Pull People In?

A Box Offic

Stupendous thrills - Earthquakes - Volcan
Natives fleeing for their lives - A who ing & crashing to the ground - A pictu
Box Office possibilities

My greatest picture to-date

I risked my life a dozen times. In the blazing streets, amid the crashing of flaming debris, in the rushing waters of the whirlpool where I snatch Bessie Love from death. The big dramatic climaxes enabled me to do my best work. R-C poured a fortune into this production and I am delighted beyond words by the results. It is easily my greatest picture to date.

BOOK it and book it quick!
It's a landslide for you!
The greatest Hayakawa has ever done—
A spectacular smash—
An upheaval of thrills—
Tremendous situations—stunning climaxes—gorgeous scen exquisite costumes—all merged into one sure-fire box office wal

R-C PICTURES has spent a fortune to give YOU this ONE, I CHANCE for a CLEANUP—Here's an attraction you can ex ploit like a CIRCUS—
A fast-moving "SHOW" to warm the heart of every SHOWMA
Your public wants THRILLS and BIG, STRONG DRAMA—H your chance to give it to them.

IF you don't land this unusual picture your competitor will—No WISE EXHIBITOR CAN AFFORD TO MISS IT. It's a cleanup rightly handled.

Sessue Hayakawa

in

It's an R-C Picture

"The Vermi

Smash

spewing molten lava-own burning, rend-
f giant

RTISTRY of the great Hayakawa never so wonderfully portrayed—
Bessie Love and Ann May appear in support of mous tragedian—guaranteeing additional attracower at the box office—ns have read Homer's Lea's memorable
"The Vermilion Pencil."
ns will see it on the screen—
I IN ON THIS TREMENDOUS IENCE APPEAL!

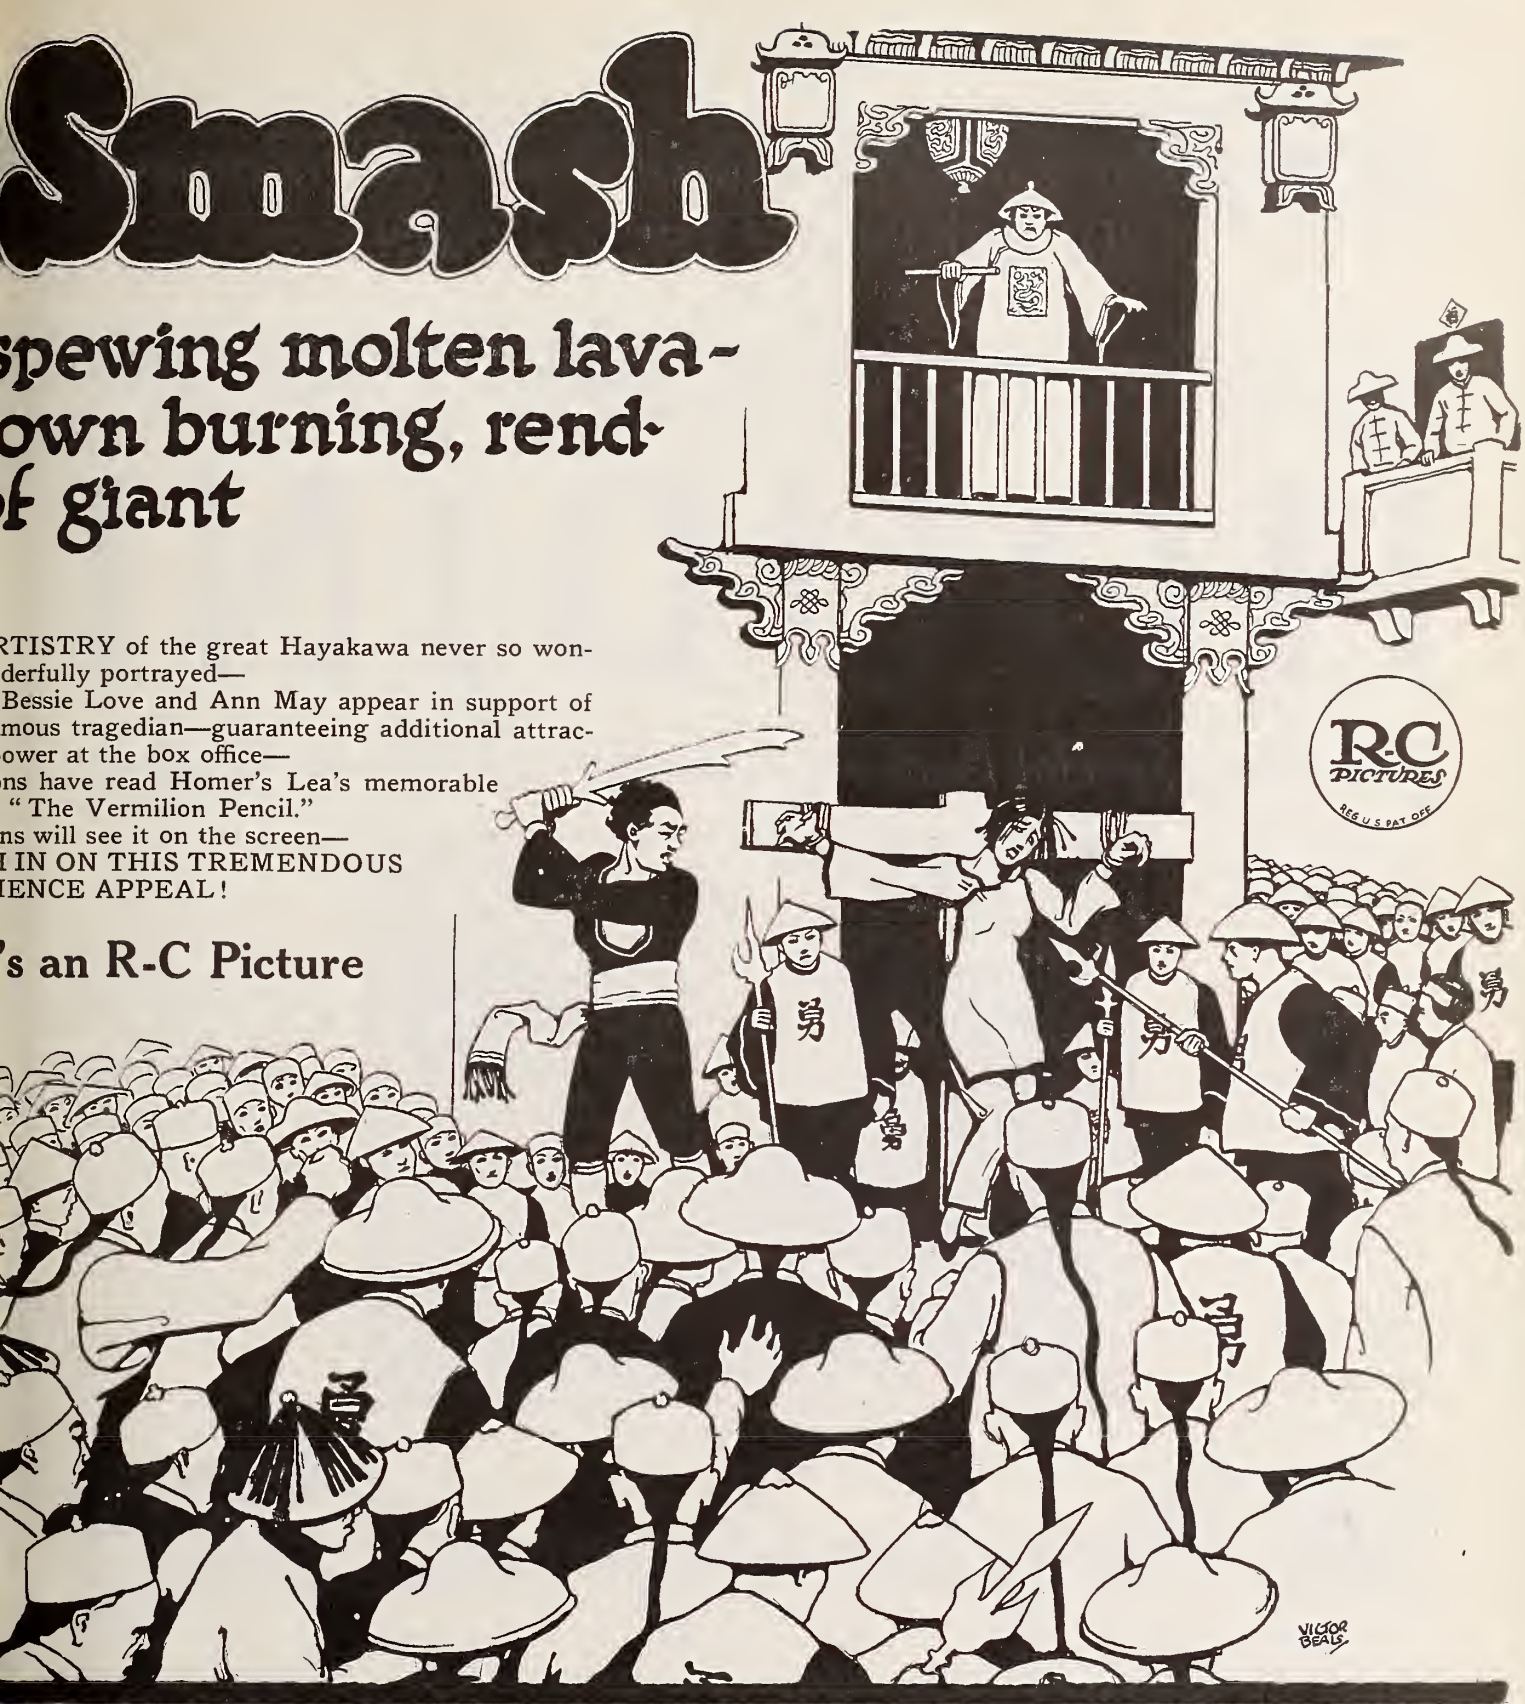
's an R-C Picture



on Pencil"

The Weirdest and Most Sensational Picture Ever Screened!

SIX MONTHS IN THE MAKING!

THE STATE RIGHT MARKET SENSATION

HOUDINI

In His First Special Feature Production for His Own Company

This is positively a photographic reproduction of a genuine frame cut-out from the film!

A great heart-throb, mystery, love story in which Houdini is shown going to the edge of Niagara Falls to rescue the girl!

The Man from Beyond

HOUDINI AGREES to make personal appearances in conjunction with "The Man from Beyond" in a limited number of key cities

TERRITORY NOW AVAILABLE

For Territory and Dates Address

HOUDINI PICTURE CORPORATION

220 West 42nd Street, New York City

Telephone Bryant 5519

PACIFIC PRODUCTIONS PLEASE PATRONS

INDEPENDENT PACIFIC PRODUCTIONS JNO. J. HAYES PRES.

FOR THESE GROWING PAINS WE THANK YOU! —

When the Pacific Film Company commenced releasing photoplays on the independent market we anticipated a steady, normal growth.

Now we find that we are growing so fast it hurts!

To care for the volume of business from Eastern centres Pacific opened a New York office and placed additional salesmen in territories to the West.

Exchanges handling Pacific productions know the reason for our growth and we thank them! They know that Pacific photoplays are so carefully chosen and so skillfully exploited through tested mediums that the chances for the failure of any picture Pacific distributes is practically nil.

Jno J Hayes, Pres.

RELEASES NOW OFFERED on the STATE RIGHT MARKET

HENRY B. WALTHALL
in
The Able-Minded Lady

A Comedy-Drama From Wm. Leighton's Saturday Eve Post Story

There is genuine entertainment in "THE ABLE-MINDED LADY" produced largely by the excellent suspense created and partly by the humorous characterization which are faithfully transcribed to the screen from the Saturday Evening Post stories. —News.

"The Able-Minded Lady," will afford good entertainment and will repay examination on the part of an exhibitor. —Trade Review.

"The Able-Minded Lady" is good, clean wholesome box-office entertainment, the kind of picture that will hand your patrons many laughs an hour. —World.

REED CHAPMAN and LILLIAN HALL
in
The Forest King

Story by L. V. Jefferson

A story of the giant redwoods. A rare combination of heart throbbing romance, clever intrigue, thrills, startling adventure.

A Knockout!

ORA CAREW
in
The Girl From Rocky Point

supported by

Walt Whitman, Gloria Joy, Theodore Von Eltz

State Rights Sea Melodrama that the showman will find no trouble putting over. —World.

A pleasing and well told story of the sea, written by Sherwood McDonald. Some good character drawing and many beautiful camera shots add to its value as a first rate attraction. —Herald.

Whitman scores in "THE GIRL FROM ROCKY POINT," he gives a striking portrayal of his part. —Trade Review.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE AND STUDIO
CULVER CITY, CAL.

PACIFIC FILM COMPANY

Eastern Representative
JULIUS SINGER
729—7th Avenue
New York, N. Y.

Mutual Music tried out successfully in

Exterior of Blackstone Theatre
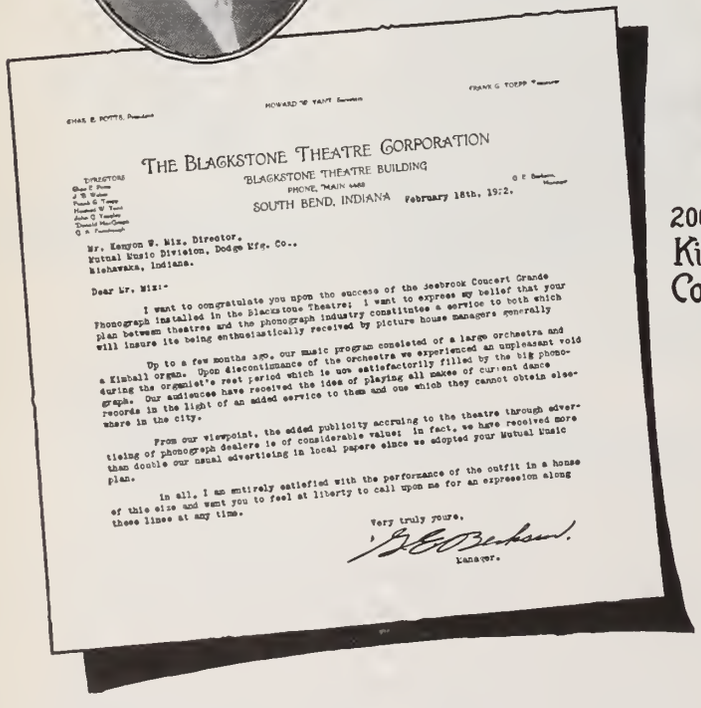
SOUTH BEND ·· INDIANA

G. E. Berkson
·· MANAGER ··



THE BLACKSTONE THEATRE CORPORATION
BLACKSTONE THEATRE BUILDING
PHONE, MAIN 6400
SOUTH BEND, INDIANA February 18th, 1922.

Mr. Kenyon W. Miz, Director,
Mutual Music Division, Dodge Mfg. Co.,
Mishawaka, Indiana.

Dear Mr. Miz:-

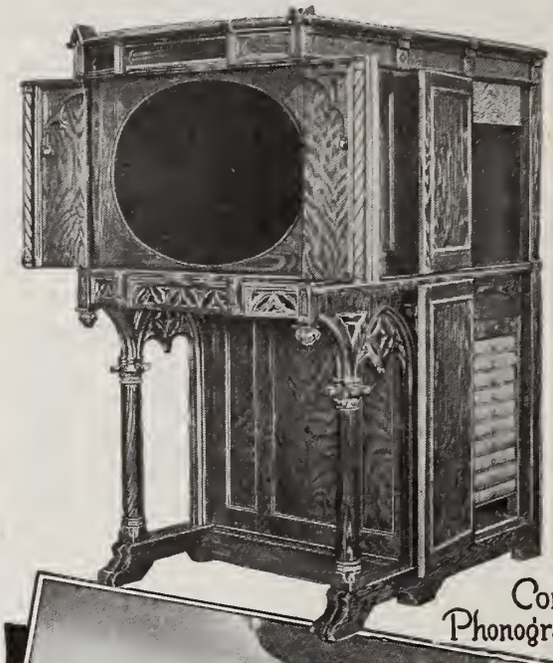
I want to congratulate you upon the success of the Seebrook Concert Grande Phonograph installed in the Blackstone Theatre; I want to express my belief that your plan between theatres and the phonograph industry constitutes a service to both which will insure its being enthusiastically received by picture house managers generally

Up to a few months ago, our music program consisted of a large orchestra and a Kimball organ. Upon discontinuance of the orchestra we experienced an unpleasant void during the Organist's rest period which is now satisfactorily filled by the big phonograph. Our audiences have received the idea of playing all pieces of current dance records in the light of an added service to them and one which they cannot obtain elsewhere in the city.

From our viewpoint, the added publicity accruing to the theatre through advertising of phonograph dealers is of considerable value; in fact, we have received more than double our usual advertising in local papers since we adopted your Mutual Music plan.

In all, I am entirely satisfied with the performance of the outfit in a house of this size and want you to feel at liberty to call upon me for an expression along these lines at any time.

Very truly yours,
G E Berkson
Manager.



Seabrook
Concert Grande
Phonograph ·· Art Mod

2000 Seat House Equipped with Kimball Organ and Seabrook
Concert Grande Phonograph ···

Following the tryout at the Blackstone where Mr. Ezra Rhoades has since succeeded Mr. Berkson as lessee, installations were made in the Princess Theatre, La Porte, Indiana, Mr. Isadore Levine, owner, and in the Majestic Theatre at Kalamazoo, Michigan, Mr. W. Griffith Mitchell, Manager, and six other points are to be equipped between March 1st and 10th.

The Seabrook is made in three sizes, it plays all make of phonograph records successfully and, because of its patented construction, will reproduce a vocal or orchestral record in exactly the same volume and tone as attended its original recording. It can be equipped at small additional cost with radio receiving and amplifying parts which will permit your entire audience to hear plainly the programs and news broadcasted nightly by powerful sending stations.

The instrument is sold outright or on a lease or rental basis; it can effect the savings of thousands of dollars a year in your theatre, or it can be made a source of income if you wish. It also hooks your house up with the phonograph and record publicity now appearing in your local paper—read the opposite page for details

South Bend, Indiana on January 24th.

Blackstone Theatre ties up with local Victor, Brunswick, Columbia and Okeh phonograph record dealers and are playing the new monthly records of each in turn on the big

SEABROOK CONCERT GRANDE

The theatre advertises "You can hear all the latest phonograph records at the Blackstone." Each record dealer advertises "Go to the Blackstone and hear ———records." As each record is played, the make, name and number of that record is flashed on a control board alongside the instrument.

The phonograph "fans" will now hear all makes of records in their local theatre instead of going to the small demonstration booths of several dealers.

The Blackstone Theatre has just been taken over by Mr. Ezra Rhoades, who controls several other of Northern Indiana's better picture houses. Under his management "Caruso week" was celebrated from March 1st to 7th. A selected list of the great Caruso's records was played in addition to the new March Victor dance records.

The Blackstone, The Princess and The Majestic were the first theatres in the United States to publicly acknowledge the birthday of this great artist by

ALWAYS A GOOD COMEDY
BLACKSTONE
THEATER
LAST TIMES TODAY
THE WOMAN IN HIS HOUSE
COMMENCING TOMORROW FOR 4 DAYS
"TOO WISE WIVES"
A Paramount Picture
SPECIAL ADDED FEATURE
BRUNSWICK FEBRUARY RECORDS
Will Be Played on the New Blackstone Concert Grand Phonograph.
South Bend's
A Sensational Success!
All Day Yesterday Patrons at the
BLACKSTONE
Were charmed by the recital of Brunswick Music Played on a Concert Grand Phonograph of mellow, rounded tones, every record of the advance FEBRUARY LIST was a musical delight
It Will Continue All Week
THE LENHARD Brunswick
ALL PHONOGRAPHS IN ONE SHOP
South Bend, Indiana

Actual reproduction of two and three column ads used at South Bend, Ind., January 24th, 1922

That is a greater service to the phonograph owner than you realize—and a Seabrook equipped house is the only place in town where he can hear them all.

Only one Concert Grande is placed per city up to 200,000. You have no competition in bringing phonograph fans to your theatre regularly—regularly enough to soon make them "movie fans." They will look to your theatre for new music as well as for new pictures.

presenting in their theatres his golden voice in the same volume and tone as though the man who has passed stood before them.

Remember, there is no substitute for Seabrook volume and tone which are strongly protected by basic United States patent claims already issued.

We will be glad to put the entire proposition before you arranging for a demonstration without obligation if you wish.

Address, Kenyon W. Mix, Director

Mutual Music Division, Dodge Manufacturing Company, Mishawaka, Indiana

"The

CAVE

A Smashing Drama with Infinite Thrills!

Presented by Inspiration Picture, Inc., and adapted from the sta success of Guy Bolton and Geor Middleton

with

Teddy Gerar

Charles Meredith, Boris Karlo and strong supporting cast

Distributed by Associate First National Pictures, In

Released on the Open Market

She fought the half-breed, until she felt her strength going when

G I R L ”

All the Grandeur of the Yosemite in Mid-Winter!

Read the reviews:

“ Interesting—its greatest appeal will be through the magnificent outdoor scenes. There are thrills and humorous situations. Should be a good box office attraction. Good entertainment with thrills and daring rescue work. Winter scenes among the best ever offered the public.”—Exhibitor's Trade Review.

“ Dramatic romance, with delicate humor. The snow country of the Yosemite reveals some highly colorful background.”—Motion Picture News.

“ Good entertainment with thrills—red-blooded. The scenes in the Yosemite Valley, where much of the action is laid, are unusually beautiful.”—Moving Picture World.

y her lover leaped on the man-beast, and began a fight to the death

'Smash Goes My Attendance Record!'

A. G. Schade

Shades of Shakespeare! See what the Exhibitors say:

"Excellent box-office attraction. Broke all attendance records. Audience delighted with Jackie Coogan."—A. G. Schade, Theilen's Majestic, Bloomington, Ill.

"A sure-fire picture. Excellently received. Kids went wild. Old folks mixed tears with laughter."—N. E. Drumber, Riviera, Knoxville, Tenn.

"Great picture." Everyone delighted. Chalked up one of the biggest weeks in the history of the Metropolitan, and this despite rain, sleet, snow and bitter weather."—Willard Patterson, Metropolitan, Atlanta, Ga.

"One of the best pictures of the year. Splendid week."—P. H. Lavine, Olympia, New Haven, Conn.

"Very good attendance. One of the most enthusiastic audiences we ever played to."—Chas. Fecher, Lexington, Chicago.

"Did a good business at the box-office and delighted my patrons."—Ralph Blank, Garden, Davenport, Iowa.

Sol Lesser presents

JACKIE COOGAN

in

"My Boy"

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Directed by Victor Heerman and Albert Austin

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

There'll be a Franchise everywhere

Your Box Office'll Go Smilin' Through

2 THE Film DAILY Sunday, March 5, 1922

The Best Picture Norma Has Had in a Long Time

Norma Talmadge in
"SMILIN' THROUGH"
Asso. First Nat'l Pictures

DIRECTOR ..... Sydney A. Franklin
AUTHOR ..... Allen L. Martin
SCENARIO BY.....James A. Creelman and S. A. Franklin
CAMERAMAN ..... Charles Rosher
TECHNICAL DIRECTORS.....W. Reineck and Laurence Hitt
AS A WHOLE.....The finest picture Norma has made for First National and one of the best she has ever turned out
STORY.....Not the best for screen [illegible] but adequate opportunity DIRECTION.....Faulty at times; failed to make the most of some opportunities, [illegible] by the troops leaving for the war and too much footage consumed getting it under way
PHOTOGRAPHY ..... Magnificent
LIGHTINGS ..... Very good
STAR.....Splendid. Tremendously effective in costume phases and shows what a "trouper" she is SUPPORT.....Generally capable. Harrison Ford manly as lover. To much of Wyndham Standing as the old disappointed lover EXTERIORS.....Opening shots of Irish lake country magnificent INTERIORS ..... Very good
DETAIL.....A few slips in cutting. Titles excellent
CHARACTER OF STORY.....Proves love never dies and that lovers separated on earth meet in Heaven
LENGTH OF PRODUCTION.....About 8,000 feet

Here's the best picture Norma Talmadge has ever made for First National. Here is one of the best pictures she has ever made. That should be enough to get a lot of money in the box office for you. And that's what you're interested in these days.

Ever since Joe Schenck paid [illegible] for the picture rights to this [illegible] it has been touted as one of the "big" [illegible] certain trifling faults [illegible] once this is done [illegible] notably. But this [illegible] it really belongs [illegible] have spent [illegible] who [illegible] the picture [illegible] united [illegible] window [illegible] accustomed [illegible] country [illegible] minor [illegible] then "Smilin' Through" [illegible] has been talked about [illegible]

Not in years has Norma appeared so appealingly. Not for months has she had a character which fits her so well and allows her the opportunities of showing her ability. And what a picture she makes when she appears in the costume of years ago! What a delight to the eye! It makes one wish her next—which is a costume play—were ready to see now. She is an absolute delight.

The support is splendid. Harrison Ford is excellent as the young lover. Little Miriam Battista is sweet as the youngster and except that he is in too many scenes and overdoes the part of the hating old lover, Wyndham Standing does well. Alec B. Francis is also good as the companion to the old man embittered by his love tragedy years before.

Get This and Clean Up—Tell Them What a Fine Picture It Is and Use the Star's Name to the Limit

Box Office Analysis for the Exhibitor

You had better land this one. The crowd that loves Norma in anything will rave about her in this. And it should be a clean-up. Just say it shows Norma in the best picture she has had in years and your crowd will do the rest. [illegible] too much detail about the story because [illegible] folk don't understand the idea [illegible] of dead people on the screen and [illegible] laugh at the idea. Some people laugh [illegible] idea as presented in "Liliom" on the spoken stage. So play safe. But there isn't a chance of your crowd being disappointed, especially if they happen to like the star.

The splendid production, the magnificence of the photography, the general ensemble is there—it should pack them in and make them all the better and happier for seeing it. It's the sort of picture that will do a lot for pictures generally. Not only please them but make them want to come back again.

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

An Audience Picture If There Ever Was One

Read what the Exhibitors' Herald has to say about it!

"A first-rate out-of-door drama, chockfull of action—carefully and sincerely acted it excites and holds your interest to the final fade-out"

Speaking of Louis B. Mayer's Presentation of

ANITA STEWART

in

Her Question of Honor

A Ruth Cross novel from People's Home Journal

Directed by Edwin Carewe

Scenario by Josephine Quirk

GRAB THESE LATE RELEASES — THEY ARE CLEANING UP!

The Critics say:

"So unique it stands among the season's offerings."
—Atlanta Constitution

HER MAD BARGAIN

The Exhibitor says:

"Equaled my biggest Box Office Record." —H. H. Johnson, Luna Theatre, Lafayette, Ind.

PLAYTHINGS OF DESTINY

Released on the Open Market

The Critics say:

"A story full of mystery, appeal and dramatic situations."
—Philadelphia Inquirer

THE INVISIBLE FEAR

LOUIS B. MAYER PRODUCTIONS, INC.

A First National Attraction

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Motion Picture News

The Million-Dollar Press-Book

WE have been critized because we criticized press-books.

The criticism didn't come from exhibitors. On the contrary we can very easily imagine a fervent, resounding chorus of "Go to it: Slam 'em hard!"

The criticism comes from the men in New York who make the press-books. Their attitude seems to be: "mine is all right. I'll admit that all the rest are rotten."

Some press-books are all right; a very few. More fulfill the purpose back of them—not a very good purpose. But all in all and in view of the money they cost—which is altogether in excess of a million dollars a year—it seems to us that if there is one large item of cost in this business that calls for an investigation it's—the press-book.

* * *

The original idea of a press-book was to supply the exhibitor with advertising ideas and material—these to be used by him in selling the pictures to his public.

Fine! No one will quarrel with that original purpose. There's considerable more we might say here—but we'll stick right to the subject at hand.

A splendid purpose! There's no business under the sun in which exploitation cuts such a figure as this. It's the commercial basis of picture entertainment.

But—how many press-books today are really designed for this large purpose?

And—how many on the other hand are really designed to sell the picture to the exhibitor—expensive, elaborate affairs intended primarily as a sales exhibit, a loud shout in the exhibitors' ears?

How many? We put the question honestly up to the men who make press-books. And also this after question: if several hundreds of these elaborate exhibits are issued every year, some of them costing over $3000.00 per edition—is it any wonder that the exhibitor gets highly exasperated over this costly and deafening yell?

* * *

Again—there are, as everyone knows, distinct classifications of picture theatres.

They are widely distinct as to their advertising facilities.

Consider the big houses in the big cities; then the neighborhood and suburban theatres; then the thousand or more important houses in other large cities; then the large town theatres; the small town theatre; the distinctly rural house.

Consider the newspaper, billboard, lobby, stage, store window, music, street-stunt, etc., facilities of these widely different locations.

Does the press-book meet these requirements?

Is the man who prepares it familiar, in a very practical way, with these advertising and showman problems?

These are mighty pertinent questions—in view of a million dollar annual expenditure.

* * *

We have yet to meet a first run theatre manager—in the big cities—who uses press-books to any regular degree.

He wants service—this man. He wants good selling ideas, of course. He wants to know what the other fellow in his particular sphere is doing with the picture. But as a very general rule he doesn't use press-books.

And yet we see many a press-book that is aimed almost entirely at the big city man and his facilities.

That is pretty nearly 100% wasted effort—so far as the true or main purpose of the press-book is concerned.

* * *

A very large majority of picture theatres—eighty per cent we still call it, and that's about right—are small houses, neighborhood and small town houses.

Yes, but—the answer comes—they don't exploit. They don't need press-books.

Then—the answer to the answer must be—why press-books? If the big houses don't use them and the small houses can't—why the million-dollar printing bill?

* * *

In our opinion the small house can use exploitation help and the big house will.

But if the press-book is to meet this very large and important requirement—so large and important that with quality of product it is the other big mainspring of this industry—there will have to be a vast renewal of purpose and a complete reorganizing of the press-book plan.

Index to General and Departmental News

DEPARTMENTS

Editorial, General News and Features....1717-1730
Exhibitors' Service Bureau....1731-1744
With the First Run Houses....1745-1749
What the Big Houses Report....1750
News from the Chicago Field....1751
Action Stills from the Week's Release....1752-1753
Short Subject Reviews....1754
Feature Reviews....1755-1756-1765-1766-1767-1768-1769
News from the Producers....1770-1776
News from the Independents....1777-1780
Ten Anniversary Famous Players' Section....1781-1844
News from the Correspondents....1846
Studio Notes from the West Coast....1847
Information on All Releases....1848-1852
New Theatre and Accessory News....1853-1868

EDITORIAL, GENERAL NEWS AND FEATURES

Wm. A. Johnston's Editorial....1717
Pictures and People—An Intimate Chat....1719
Morris Heads Selznick Branch Abroad....1720
Virginia Legislature Passes Censor Bill....1721
Results of Ince's Survey....1722
Running a Theatre in a Town of 1,500....1723
Would Make San Francisco Producing Center....1725
Personal Appearances—Are They Valuable?....1727
News from the Exchange....1728-29

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Lady Godiva" (Associated Exhibitors)....1755
"Bought and Paid For" (Paramount)....1755
"The Face Between" (Metro)....1755
"The Isle of Zorda" (Pathe)....1756
"A Guilty Conscience" (Vitagraph)....1756
"Kisses" (Metro)....1756
"Come on Over" (Goldwyn)....1765
"Yankee Doodle, Jr." (M. J. Burnside)....1765
"The Ragged Heiress" (Fox)....1765
"A Question of Honor" (First National)....1766
"Rangeland" (Wm. Steiner)....1766
"Don't Doubt Your Wife" (Associated Exhibitors)....1766
Game Chicken" (Realart-Paramount)....1767
"Shadows of the West" (National Exchanges)....1767
"Whispering Shadows" (Peacock)....1767
"The Seventh Day" (First National)....1768
"Beyond the Crossroads" (Pioneer)....1768
"The Invisible Fear" (First National)....1769
"The Forest King" (Pacific Film)....1769
"Across the Divide" (Pathe)....1769
"Iron to Gold" (Fox)....1769

PRODUCER ANNOUNCEMENTS

Universal's April Releases....1770
Harry Carey Signs with R-C Pictures....1772
Educational to Exploit One Reelers....1772
Thornby to Direct for R-C....1774
Pathe's March 26th Releases....1774
First National Stars Busy....1775
Seven Paramount Re-Issues....1776
"Gypsy Passion" Premiere....1776

STATE RIGHT ANNOUNCEMENT

Charnas Buys "Wandering Boy"....1777
Warner Brothers to Enter Foreign Field....1777
Big Campaign for "I Am the Law"....1778
Eddie Polo Announces Policy....1778
Film Conditions in Scandinavia....1780
Pacific Sets Minimum Production Cost....1780

ACCESSORY DEPARTMENT

Competent Engineering as a Safeguard for Construction....1853
A New Musical Instrument for Theatres....1854
National Anti-Misframe League Forum....1862
New Model of Barton Organ....1866

All Exhibitors Urged to Attend Convention

Convention Committee of M. P. T. O. of A. in Statement Appeals for Large Attendance

IN a statement issued during the week by the Convention Committee of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, of which W. A. True is chairman, the appeal of the national exhibitors' organization urging every theatre-owner in the United States to make a special effort to attend the coming convention slated for May 8th at Washington, D. C., is repeated. The plans for the big gathering are also outlined. The committee's statement follows in full:

"The eyes of the motion picture interests in all parts of the United States are centered on Washington where the big annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America will be held for five days, May 8 to 12, inclusive. Every theatre owner in the United States should make an effort to be present at this great gathering which will make more real history for the motion picture business than all of the meetings which have preceded it. There are a number of highly important matters to be considered and these will be presented to the convention in a manner which will bring the Theatre Owner to the front rank in the business and permanently establish his status as the leader in this, the third largest industry in the United States.

"The sessions will be held in the great ball room of the New Willard Hotel and the headquarters of the National officers and Convention Committee will also be at the New Willard.

"An exceptionally large accessory exhibit will be conducted at the Coliseum on Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, during the sessions of the convention where the theatre owners will be able to get a close up view of all the latest elements associated with the equipment of the highest class motion picture theatre.

"Arrangements have been made by the Washington committee for the entertainment of the ladies and other visitors who come to the convention and theatre owners are urged to make this convention a memorable occasion for their wives and lady members of their families. It is essential that the women should be made a part of this fast growing business and be able to fully appreciate its importance as one of the Nation's greatest service mediums and the best way to bring them in closer contact with its inner phases is to have them at the Convention in Washington.

"Many of the leading men of the National Government will be the guests of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners at the convention. Prominent state officials and leaders in many walks of life will be there also and places have been arranged on the program for them. It is expected to make this convention very pronounced in a business way. There is so much to be done that all theatre owners are urged to come prepared to assist in this business and thus aid in making their theatres of greater value to them and to the community. While there will be diversion in plenty and entertainment of all kinds for delegates and visitors it is expected that nothing will intervene to take the attention of the theatre owners from the main proposition of making this gathering a real history maker for the industry.

"National President Sydney S. Cohen will have a very comprehensive and complete report to make to the convention of the activities of the organization during the past year and suggestions for the future. Other officers will also make reports of a very important character. Committees will handle the detail along many lines and the earnest cooperation of all attending theatre owners is sought.

"Hotel accommodations will be ample and special reservations can be made through the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America—national office, 14[illegible] Broadway, New York.

"Railroad rates will be fare and one half from starting point to Washington and return. This special rate on all railroads will be good from May 4 to 11 with earlier date for extreme western points. Certificates entitling theatre owners to these rates will be mailed to all in a few days from the national headquarters together with all other necessary information. This will include hotel lists and rates."

PICTURES AND PEOPLE

A RUMOR that Goldwyn was to do away with distribution and release through First National beginning next all got into print in New York last week. Like every other rumor of a similar character involving the larger concerns, it is almost entirely untrue; the "almost" being that production and distribution mergers are always possible in this or any other industry. Perhaps the most telling comment we can make is a borrowed one, that the possibility is "now buried four stories deep." Neither concern sees fit to issue statements.

Announcement of the prize winners in our recent "Seeing Through" contest will be made very shortly.

Delay in making the awards has been occasioned by the fact that the judges are extremely busy men and that their places of residence are widely separated. It has been difficult to arrange for them to meet at a time and place convenient to all.

* * *

THE LONDON TIMES, one of the world's greatest newspapers, published recently a twenty-page supplement devoted to the art and industry of the motion picture. The supplement is attractive and most interesting; an imposing tribute indeed. Articles are contributed by Henry Arthur Jones, W. Somerset Maugham, the Bishop of Birmingham, Mrs. Belloc Lowndes, Sir Oswald Stoll, Sir E. Ray Lankester, Andrew Soutar, T. P. O'Connor, Herbert G. Ponting, and Dr. C. W. Kimmens.

* * *

The National Catholic Welfare Bulletin in its March issue says, in an editorial on "Mr. Hays and the movies": "We have assured Mr. Hays of our full support in his efforts to improve the screen product. We have also assured him that we shall do all in our power to inform the Catholics of the United States as to the character of current motion picture productions and to exert our organization influence and the influence of all affiliated societies and individuals in favor of a clean and wholesome screen.

* * *

Following an operation performed March 12, Hiram Abrams is reported convalescing, and is expected to return to his office next week.

* * *

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, with a few thoughts in statement form has deftly probed censorship wounds. Consider, as he points out, that never have the people been given an opportunity to voice their majority opinion on the passage of censor legislation in any state. In other words, the voters have never had opportunity to register their judgment on the fairness of laws which are put on the statute books of their states.

Mr. Fairbanks is not taking a one sided view on screen control. He says in conclusion: "Fair play is all we ask. Let the people themselves decide this great question—not through their legislative servants, but by their own ballots at the polls."

We shall shortly see the result of such a referendum in Massachusetts.

* * *

SAYS the National Board of Review, in this week's bulletin: "For the first time in the history of the publication of "EXCEPTIONAL PHOTOPLAYS," the critical bulletin published by the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, a scenic film of one-reel length has been submitted to the Board which has contained exceptional elements and gained special review in an article called "Two Pictures Approaching Innovation." This picture is the first of Robert Bruce's new series —"Wilderness Tales," and is called, "And Women Must Weep," released by the Educational Film Corporation. The other picture reviewed in this article is a German scenic over four reels in length entitled "Combatting the Elements," produced by the Borg und Sport Film Ges., and released by Kineto."

* * *

In town: S. Barret McCormick, Joe Engle, William A. Back, general manager of Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd., of Canada; and J. Robert Rubin, general counsel and treasurer of Louis B. Mayer Productions.

* * *

Peter Milne has left Famous Players and associated himself with the production staff of Pyramid Pictures, Inc., as head of the scenario department. He will, in addition to taking charge of the department, prepare screen continuities and supervise the editing and titling of completed productions.

* * *

SAM E. MORRIS, who goes to London, April 11th, to head the Selznick interests in Great Britain, has well earned his new and important position. There are few executives here who know so well, by practical contact, the important phases of distribution. Mr. Morris entered the industry as an exhibitor—in Cleveland; became branch manager there; was called to New York as sales manager; and then became vice-president and general manager of Selznick Pictures Corporation.

We predict for Sam Morris a successful career in London. He is well balanced, just, conservative—a good listener. He has, moreover, had a previous business experience abroad. He will be liked there—as here; and respected for his sound ability.

* * *

QUINN MARTIN says, in the New York World: "Out of as vicious and as unfair a campaign of criticism as ever has been waged against any particular artistic or commercial endeavor in America in recent years, the cinema play is gradually regaining its composure and, indeed, its feet. . . .

"Patronage is gradually being revived. Better pictures are

(Continued on page 1730)

COMMENSURATIVE of the Tenth Anniversary of Famous Players, this issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS carries a section of sixty-four pages illustrative and descriptive of the history and present organization of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

The story, "The Romance of Famous Players," is a vivid and central chapter in the history of the American film industry. Every film man will want to read and keep this well-written article. Jesse L. Lasky outlines future production; Sidney R. Kent tells of distribution and service problems; Frank V. Chamberlin writes of the Exchange Service Department. In addition to these records of definite and usable trade information the exhibitor will find a complete listing of all Famous Players-Lasky releases past (beginning with the Fall Season of September 1, 1921), present and future. All pictures from September 1st, 1921, to March 1st, 1922, are described in important details and are listed with complete service references to past issues of MOTION PICTURE NEWS. This is advance information from the second issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS BOOKING GUIDE now on the press.

In brief, we have endeavored to make this section, primarily, one of definite information and service to the reader, and we believe the result has been well attained.

WM. A. JOHNSTON.

Sam Morris to Head Selznick Branch Abroad

Sails for London in April to Take Charge of Selznick Distribution in Europe

CHANGES of importance dealing with the affairs of the Selznick Corporation were announced during the week by President Lewis J. Selznick.

Sam. E. Harris, who has been identified with the company for many years in various executive capacities and most recently as vice-president in charge of distribution, is being transferred from New York to London, according to the statement issued.

Mr. Morris, it is explained, is going to London to become President of Select Pictures, Ltd., an English corporation which is to be formed for the purpose of conducting Selznick business in Great Britain and on the European continent. His headquarters will be in the English capital but his general supervision will extend over numerous other offices which are to be established in the near future and his duties abroad will be such as to demand his frequent presence in most of the big European cities.

During the past six months Selznick representatives, including Vice-President Myron Selznick, whose principal duties have to do with production, have made personal surveys of the European situation and it is as the result of these surveys that the new plan of operating abroad has been adopted and Mr. Morris designated to put it into effect. The new plan, it has been made clear by President Selznick, will not interfere in any way with existing contracts for foreign distribution in Europe. This statement is important in view of the fact that it has not been many months since a big deal was closed by the Selznick company with the English branch of Pathe Freres for certain distribution in Great Britain.

According to the present arrangement Mr. Morris will sail for his new post about the middle of April. He will be accompanied by his wife and his fifteen year old son Edwin. He is giving up his home here in New York and is making other arrangements which indicate that he will be absent from Broadway for an indefinite period.

"London and the English idea are not entirely strangers to me, you know," said Mr. Morris. "A good many years ago, before I became identified with Mr. Selznick in the motion picture business, I spent some time in England representing a big American tobacco firm which was then breaking in the British market. My experiences on the other side of the Atlantic in those days were quite pleasant and I am looking forward with considerable enthusiasm to renewing many of old business acquaintanceships which, I think, will be of value to the Selznick organization. In the light of what I know of the Selznick plans concerning the European situation, I feel highly honored that Mr. Selznick has extended me the opportunity of undertaking such an important task and has given me the latitude he has in order that I may work out what every motion picture man knows is a tremendous problem, namely that of getting something like one-hundred per cent return for American pictures in the European field."

The relations which exist between President Lewis J. Selznick and Mr. Morris, by reason of their long association together, are such that any change in Mr. Morris' status with the company would very naturally call forth a personal expression from the head of the Selznick organization. "We've laid out a big job in Europe," said Mr. Selznick, "and we've picked on the biggest man in the organization to put it over. We're anxious to have the job properly done—it means a lot to the Selznick organization—and Morris is the chap to do it. First as branch manager and then as vice-president of the company, in charge of distribution, Morris has given plenty of evidence of the fact that he knows how to handle a situation when it bobs up—and there are likely to be a lot of things bob up over there so many miles from home. You'll hear a lot from Mr. Morris in connection with the Selznick company for many years to come. His work abroad, I am sure, will add materially to the prestige of my organization."

Hollywood Awaits "Dollar a Week Men"

Special Program Being Arranged for Winners of First National Exploitation Contest

TWO weeks hence nine lucky exhibitors will be packing suit-cases giving their assistants final instructions and getting ready to say good-by to the family before starting for Los Angeles and Hollywood. In the meantime, the studios of the Independent Screen Artists' Guild are preparing special programs of welcome and entertainment for the nine exhibitors who will land in Southern California as the winners of the Associated First National "Dollar a Week" offer for the best and most effective exploitation campaigns presented during First National Week.

The week of March 13 is the final one for the receiving of entries. One week from that date, or as soon afterward as is convenient, the five exploitation editors of the motion-picture trade journals will assemble at the offices of Associated First National Pictures for consideration of the campaigns submitted by the contestants. The judges are going to have a busy time of it, according to present indications, for there are already fifty-five exhibitors hot on the trail of a round-trip ticket to filmland, and other competitors are arriving with every mail. C. L. Yearsley, director of advertising and publicity at First National, is confident that the total number of exhibitors entered will exceed one hundred before the lists close.

Wiring from the coast early this week, John McCormick, secretary of the Independent Screen Artists' Guild, extended hearty greetings to the "Lucky Nine," whoever they prove to be, and assuring them that the West Coast will exert itself in every possible way to prove to the visiting exhibitors that California is the land of hospitality as well as sunshine.

"On behalf of Independent Screen Artists' Guild," read the McCormick telegram, "please tell the nine lucky exhibitors, whoever they may be, that we are ready and eager, to a star and director, to welcome them and show them Hollywood as it really is, not as the yellow journals paint it. The Independent stars and producers of the United States appreciate the opportunity of meeting face to face nine of America's livest showmen. They are only sorry that the entire body of Associated First National franchise holders cannot be here too."

The complete list of entries to date is as follows:

Ed. L. Hyman, Strand, Brooklyn, N. ..; R. W. Lieber, Circle, Indianapolis, I.; Frank Steffy, Coliseum, Seattle, Wa.; H. G. Frederick, Luna, Lafayette, I.; A. G. Stolte, Des Moines, Des Moines, ..; Gus Metzger, Rivoli, Portland, O.; Harry Thornton, Princess, Gaiety, V. dette theatres, Springfield, Ill.; Ben Da. Colonial, Norwich, N. Y.; National th. tre, Louisville, Ky.; Maurice F. E. Strand, Liberty theatres, New Orlea. La.; Regent, Springfield, O.; M. Hustler, T. & D., Sacramento, Calif.; W. Patterson, Metropolitan, Atlanta, G. W. J. Sullivan, Rialto, Butte, Mont.; W. C. O'Hare, Princess, Sioux Falls, S. Stanley Chambers, Palace, Wichita, Ka. sas; O. K. Mason, Regent, Wichita, Ka. sas; Guy L. Wonders, Rivoli, Baltimo. Maryland; Paul E. Noble, Liberty, Po. land, Ore.; W. Griffith Mitchell, Majes. Kalamazoo, Mich.; Arch Bamberger, E. press, Owensboro, Ky.; Frank D. Bli. Liberty, Salem, Ore.; Charles F. McM. us, Mgr., Colonial, Tacoma, Was.

(Continued on page 1726)

Virginia Legislature Passes Bill for State Censorship Board

ight Continues in Ohio; Writers' Club Asks Repeal of New York Law

HE Virginia legislature has passed a bill providing for state censorship of motion-pictures. Early last week measure was adopted by the House, l on last Saturday the Senate also sed the bill with a few minor amend-nts. The act now awaits the signature Governor E. Lee Trinkle to become a . Ohio continues as a storm center of te censorship agitation. The fight, cipitated by the withdrawal of "The w and the Woman" by order of Mrs. elyn Snow, head of the Ohio censor rd, after its previous passage by the sor board, continues with no sign of lement except the probable intervention Governor Harry L. Davis. In New rk state, the Writers' Club, comprising ne of the best-known authors of the , at their meeting last week addressed etition to the state legislature for the sage of the Louis Cuvilliers bill which poses the repeal of the present censor-p law in New York.

After a number of attempts to secure a ring and a subsequent vote, the upper nch of the General Assembly of Vir-ia on Saturday passed the motion-pic-e censorship bill by a vote of 26 to 13. ate amendments were readily accepta-to the House, which passed the bill lier in the week, and consequently the only needs the signature of Governor Lee Trinkle to become a law. By pro-ons of the bill, Virginia film exhibitors l be required to secure a license for ry picture offered to the public ninety s after Governor Trinkle signs the asure. A board of three censors is ated to pass on all films offered for ex-tion and their jurisdiction extends over posters and other matter advertising pictures. Out of the examination fees censors will receive a salary of $2,400 will be required to furnish a $10,000 d. They will not pass on sacreligious tures or films, but will censor pictures obscenity, vulgarity and those that are ly to incite crime. Senator James E. non led the fight against the bill.

he censorship question has been one he most interesting questions, from the vpoint of the general public. It was red in both houses earlier in the ses-but was defeated each time it came up. olic hearings were dramatic and drew ense crowds. Thomas Dixon, author "The Birth of a Nation," appeared on occasions in support of the opponents he bill.

he row which started in Ohio over the drawal of "The Woman and the " by the order of Mrs. Evelyn Snow, f of the Ohio censor board, after the d had passed the picture continues un-ed. Additional fuel was added to the controversy by the decision of Mrs. Snow to eliminate from all topical films adverse criticisms of censorship. Numerous reports are being circulated at time of writing, not yet confirmed, that Governor Davis will eventually take action with a view to straightening out the difficulties. Another report has it that Mrs. Snow is contemplating a resignation from the board but this was denied positively during the week by Mrs. Charles Dittmar, Cincinnati member of the board of censors.

A movement has been set in motion headed by B. W. Reuben of Cleveland, representative of Ohio motion-picture interests, which has for its object the appointment by the Governor of an advisory board, as provided for in the reorganization bill passed some time ago. This advisory board would serve as a court of appeal from decisions made by the censor board and believed to be unjust. The advisory board would also be asked to determine a general policy for the censoring of all motion-pictures in Ohio. Mr. Reuben is carrying the fight for an advisory bureau to the state executive.

Vernon M. Riegel, Director of Education, issued a statement during the week to the effect that reports had reached him that the picture, "The Law and the Woman," was being continued on certain motion-picture theatre programs despite the ban of the censor board and that he would begin proceedings at once to have the picture taken off if investigation proved the reports to be true. Meanwhile the editorial columns and "Letters from the People" departments of Ohio newspapers are registering strong disapproval of the methods of the censor board and directing special protests against Mrs. Snow for a statement ascribed to her by the local press to the effect that 75 per cent of the public are incapable of judging what is good for them. Mrs. Snow, on her part, contends that she is acting entirely within her jurisdiction in ordering the withdrawal of "The Law and the Woman" and in eliminating adverse references to the censorship law from the screens and asserts that the complaints lodged against her are unjust. Assistant Law Director Carl Schuler expressed it to be his opinion that if a test case were tried the court would rule that the censors have no right under the law to eliminate criticisms of the board of censors.

At a meeting last week in New York the Writers' Club voted unanimously for a proposition that the state censorship law in New York be repealed and addressed a petition to this effect to the state legislature. The petition follows:

"Believing that the law, which created the New York Commission of Motion Pictures, having for its purpose the censorship film productions, is a direct violation of the constitutional right which provides for freedom of expression and thought, the Writers' Club, of New York recommends for passage by our law-making body the Louis Cuvilliers bill.

"Several reasons may be given why the New York State censor law should be repealed, for which purpose the Cuvilliers bill has been framed.

"In the first place the film is a new form of presenting news and literary creations to the public. The works of authors and playwrights are given to the people in pictorial form instead of the written form by means of books, magazines and newspapers. Our constitution has guaranteed the freedom of the press and for that reason we have no censorship boards whose duties are to determine what should and what

(Continued on page 1726)

"Censorship Belongs to a Dark Remote Period"

IN a recent editorial appearing in the Times-Dispatch of Richmond, Va., the following vigorous denunciation of the principle and practice of censorship was prompted by the passage, by the lower House of the Virginia Legislature, of an act providing for a state censor board:

"Passage of the motion picture censorship bill in the House was marked by singularly appropriate circumstances; darkness covered the earth and the hands of the clock had been turned backward. Formal approval of this remarkable bill could not have been attended by more fitting omens. The principle and the spirit of censorship belong to a period in human history that is dark and remote. The triumph of enlightenment, freedom and progress is represented by the distance we have traveled from that shadowy period; the House would start us back.

"The top-heavy majority by which censorship was approved in the House suggests how determined our legislators are to introduce this reactionary principle in Virginia. It is yet to be disclosed whether the Senate will participate in this attack upon freedom of thought and speech.

"If censorship should be established, one comforting thought at least will remain: the abuse of fundamental rights will be so flagrant, so thoroughly offensive to every person who loves freedom, that a revulsion of popular feeling will sweep the mediaeval law from the statutes. It will inevitably be found, however, that the ostensible purpose of the law, if not altogether missed by a board clothed with power to serve what end it will, cannot be accomplished by this agency. .At the best, censorship must prove a complete farce; at the worst, an active menace to the principles upon which the government of this State was founded."

New Loew State Theatre Is Opened in Boston

The evening of Monday, March 13th, marked the opening of Marcus Loew's new State theatre in Boston, Mass. The formal inauguration of the new house, conceded to be one of the finest in New England, was attended by elaborate ceremonies, at which notables of the theatrical, screen, financial and political world were present. The arrival of Mr. Loew and a party of fifty stage and screen celebrities on Monday morning was followed by a parade through the principal thoroughfares to the City Hall, where Mayor Curley of Boston presented Mr. Loew with the key to the city.

The brilliant gathering which attended the opening of the State Monday evening included, besides Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Loew, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ince, Mr. and Mrs. David and Arthur Loew, Mae Murray and her husband, Robert Leonard; Theda Bara and her husband, Charles Brabin; Nora Bayes, Leo Carillo, Conway Tearle, Adele Rowland, Miriam Cooper, Harry Pilcer, Elsie Pilcer, Anna Held's daughter, Anna Held, Jr.; Bert Lytell, Viola Dana, Frank Fay, Bernard Granville, Sheldon Lewis, and Virginia Pearson, Montagu Love, Ann Forrest, Zena Keefe, Helene Smiles Davis, Creighton Hale, Johnny Hines, Hermine Shone, Wm. Collier, Jr., Nina Whitmore, Mary Anderson, Grace Valentine, Audrey Maple, Edward Earle, Betty Browne, Mrs. Marshall Neilan, Teddy Sampson, Edith Stockton, Betty Woodmere, Hilda Ferguson, Janet Megrew, Belle McEwan, Ruth White and others. Ted Lewis and the principals of his company came over and did their bit. Fred Stone, the Duncan Sisters and the entire "Tip Top" Company came over for the finale. Practically all the stars offered some type of entertainment for which they are famous, until the triumphant evening was finally drawn to a close.

Frank J. Godsol Is Elected President of Goldwyn

As reported in last week's issue of Motion Picture News, Samuel Goldwyn has resigned from the presidency of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and Frank J. Godsol, who has been chairman of the board of directors for the past year, has been elected president. The change in officers took place last week at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation at its New York home office. Mr. Godsol will continue as chairman of the board of directors while serving as president. Mr. Goldwyn remains on the directorate.

Francis A. Gudger was elected first vice-president. Those elected to the board of directors are:

Eli H. Bernheim, George P. Bissell, Edward Bowes, William Braden, H. F. DuPont, Frank J. Godsol, Samuel Goldwyn, Francis A. Gudger, P. W. Haberman, Gabriel L. Hess, Moritz Hilder, Duncan A. Holmes, Henry Ittleson, Messmore Kendall, Abraham Lehr, Lee Shubert, Albert N. Wittenberg, Frank H. Hitchcock.

Results of Thos. Ince World-Wide Survey

THE Thomas H. Ince Studios last week published in full the results of its world-wide survey of the influence and standing of the motion-picture industry. In the following are submitted the answers to some of the principal questions proposed in the questionnaire which was sent broadcast to newspaper editors and others:

"What has been the influence of the motion-picture on home and community life during the past ten years? Favorable—490. Unfavorable—122. Non-committal—107."

"Do picture-goers make a more efficient censorship authority than a politically controlled committee? Yes—501. No—106. Non-committal—97."

"Do screen plays with foreign settings and unfamiliar modes of life find vogue in your community? Yes—179. No—451. Non-committal—158."

"How do church men in your community view the motion picture? Favorably—414. Unfavorably—115. Non-committal—207."

"How do the school authorities view the motion picture? Favorably—526. Unfavorably—99. Non-committal—127."

"What type of pictures give the most entertainment for your evening at the movies? (Most popular listed first and following in same ratio). Editor's choice: Comedy-drama, Current News Events, and Cartoons, Travelogue, Educational, Comedy, Drama (Home), Drama (Love), Drama (Society), Spectacular, Drama (Crime). What editors believed to be the community's choice: Comedy-drama, Drama (Love), Comedy, Current News Events and Cartoons, Drama (Home), Spectacular, Drama (Society), Travelogue, Educational, Drama (Crime)."

"What is the criticism of the motion picture most often made? Too many sex pictures (large majority); not true to life; ideals and standards too low; vice and crime too prominent and attractive; cheapen sacredness of domestic relation; unreal standards of life and conduct; too much love; too much depiction of crime."

"What is meant by the perfect screen drama? A screen production that proves popular with the masses as well as the patrons who demand production of merit; one that shows life as it is; perfect screen drama must interpret some form of life as well as it is done in fiction or on the speaking stage; must measure up to drama in other forms; wholesome, entertaining and instructive pictures; leaving one better or happier; direction, story, photography and cast; one suitable for entire family; must be clean and have heart interest; any good spoken drama is good screen drama."

"Does the public want productions featuring star players or productions featuring the story? Story—368. Star—252. Non-committal—170."

Maud Ballington Booth Visits Roach Studio

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, recently visited the Hal Roach Studios. In conjunction with a compliment for the clean character of Harold Lloyd's comedies, Mrs. Booth spoke briefly on the entertainment and educational mission of the motion-picture. Mrs. Booth is quoted as follows:

"You motion picture people have a great mission in life, for to me there is nothing like pictures to bring restfulness, joy and remove weariness from the brain while they are also highly educational. The world needs real true fun and needs optimists who are optimists all the time and what can be better than the comedies with the high standards Mr. Roach is making to accomplish a happier era.

M. P. Engineers to Convene in Boston, May 1st

The Society of Motion Picture Engineers has been very active in perfecting their plans for what is predicted will be the most enthusiastic and successful convention the Society has ever held. This spring's convention will be held at the Bellevue Hotel, Boston, Mass., on the dates set by the Board of Governors, May 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

The society now proudly boasts a membership consisting mainly of the most prominent persons in all phases of the motion picture industry.

Association Formed with Will Hays as Director

THE incorporation of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., including Will H. Hays as a member of its board of directors, was effected through the filing of papers in the Secretary of State's office at Albany on March 11. The association, formed under the membership corporations law of New York State, sets forth its objects as follows:

"To foster the common interest of those engaged in the motion picture industry in the United States by establishing and maintaining the highest possible moral and artistic standards in motion picture production, by developing the educational as well as the entertainment value and the general usefulness of the motion picture, by diffusing accurate and reliable information with reference to the industry, by reforming abuses relating to the industry, by securing freedom from unjust or unlawful exactions, and by other lawful and proper means."

The office of the corporation will be located in New York City. The board of directors include the following:

Will H. Hays, Sullivan, Ind.; David W. Griffith, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Carl Laemmle, William Fox, Rufus S. Cole, Marcus Loew, J. Robert Rubin, Lewis J. Selznick, Adolph Zukor, Harry G. Koske, Siegfried F. Hartman, Frank J. Godsol, Philip G. Bartlett, Saul E. Rogers, George A. Skinner, all of New York City; Albert H. T. Banzhof, Brooklyn, Karl Kirchwey, Port Washington, L. I., and Benjamin P. DeWitt, of East Orange, N. J.

Successful Theatre Operation in 1,500 Town

By an Exhibitor Who Has Done It

f you were operating a theatre in a town of 1,500 inhabitants, what would you do to establish it on a solid and profitable basis? ould you set out to give your patrons the t in motion pictures, keeping abreast with first-run theatres in towns fifty times as s yours?

ould you give your theatre a policy of two features a week, two days each, with a s between each showing?

ere are plenty of exhibitors who will tell that it can't be done—that a theatre in a of fifteen hundred can't begin to give its ns the first-run entertainment that a re in a town of sixty or a hundred thousand give—that a two-day policy in such a com-ty is suicide.

e answer is this—E. W. Maugans has been g just this thing in Mechanicsburg, Ohio, nore than a year. He has not only done ccessfully, but to use his own words, "It roven the salvation of my business."

echanicsburg is a town of fifteen hundred bitants, E. W. Maugans operates the Prin-theatre there, and owns an Associated First onal franchise. An incidentaly proof of esteem in which he is held by the 1,499 citizens of Mechanicsburg may be found e fact that he was not long ago elected dent of the school board.

e thing Mr. Maugans has learned through s of experience—that the problems of the town exhibitor differ radically from those e city exhibitor, and that there is no com-on between the methods of getting busi-or conducting it, in either place.

Give them the latest releases you can lay hands on," is article number one of gan's small-town-exhibitor creed.

n the face of arguments to the contrary, ontention is that no small town theatre can ed unless up-to-the-minute pictures are n," says Mr. Maugans, "and while I will t that 'a picture is new until it has been n' it must also be acknowledged that a newspaper as well as magazines are new they have been read, but—the demand for papers and magazines comes principally the Salvation Army and other charitable utions as well as our still poorer relations, we are after patrons that have the money are willing to spend it to see productions have just had a New York showing or are 'Fresh from the studio.' To prove my nent just write to any banker, minister, tor, grocer or ordinary citizen of this little g' and listen to what they will tell you the pictures they see at this theatre.

found that may patrons were so human nothing pleased them so much as to be to say to friends in our near-by city of) people—WE SAW THAT PICTURE ECHANICSBURG TWO WEEKS AGO was immediately lifted out of the cate-of small town exhibitors who run fea-8 to 16 months old because they bought cheap.

s to rentals, there is no doubt about it. er film service, regardless of quality, will e your expenses during depressed business times, but, IT WILL ALSO REDUCE YOUR ATTENDANCE SO THAT YOUR LOSSES WILL BE GREATER than if you use the late releases for which you pay twice or thrice the rental, according to the records of facts and figures that authorizes me to either purchase that much needed gingham, or causes me to fail to recognize the grocer in broad day light."

To Maugans, the motion picture theatre in the small town is not merely a commercial enterprise, or an amusement palace. It can be made a local institution and it should be made one.

"Five years ago it dawned upon me that the small town theatre could be made a community affair and that the only way to get the public to take a deep and sincere interest in the affairs of the theatre, was for the management of the theatre to take a deep and sincere interest in the public and after giving a monthly benefit to schools, churches, fraternal organizations and needy individuals for about a year, the 'knocking and the tumult ceased' and the public was with me. One does not give such monies to charity—but—uses the theatre as a means of collecting money for a worthy purpose, thereby clinching the patronage and support of the best element in the community without which no business of any kind can hope to succeed.

"As an instance of what can be done in this respect, our school was withut playground apparatus and it looked very much like the school would continue to do without them as no funds were available. The writer selected a good First National feature and ran it two days and after paying all expenses turned over to the committee $109.00 with which the first apparatus was purchased. After its erection on our school grounds the swing functioned so satisfactorily that it was kept busy day and night—and now we have enough playground equipment to take care of the natural increase in the family for a good many years to come. Only a few days ago mention was made in the school notes in one of our daily papers—that 'It must not be forgotten that the first school playground equipment was purchased with Princess theatre benefit funds, etc.' Do you not think such advertising and appreciation pays?

"When 'Peck's Bad Boy' came to me it occured to me that many boys and girls in the school would not get to see this wonderful picture, so this theatre invited as its guests every child in the first to the fifth grades during the afternoon. Three times the theatre was filled to overflowing and as the kiddies marched in and out everybody in town either saw or heard them. During the remainder of its run this picture broke all records in paid attendance to a juvenile picture. It's my honest opinion that if censorship ever comes to vote in Mechanicsburg, or any other town where a theatre is operated along such lines, it'll be 'God Help the Reformers' for they will have a tough time of it.

"The writer is firm in the belief that we are clumsily steering the greatest educational instrument in the world and only half-heartidly appreciating the wonderful possibilities of visual education, but that within the next five years we shall have perfected practical methods of instruction that will revolutionize the teaching of mechanics, surgery, etc., as well as in the school room.

"The question of censorship and reform in the production end, as well as Sunday opening, worries me not at all as the great mass of right thinking Americans through the medium of the purse will indicate what they wish to see and it is an accepted fact that there have never yet assembled a unit of censorship appointees that has not demonstrated beyond a question of a doubt their incompetence to sit in judgment as to what is immoral and what is not. If there should be a house-cleaning among producers and stars it will come without question, for Americans will stand for nothing less than clean living and right thinking insofar as their conduct affects the welfare of the public. The reciprocating screen of Public Opinion is in constant action and will eventually 'shake down' the unfit.

"It is just possible that Sunday opening is necessary in the cities and if so they should have them, but viewing the proposition from a business and not a moral standpoint I should say that any business that must be conducted on Sunday in order to exist, is a DAMN POOR BUSINESS and the man conducting it does not need protection. He needs a GUARDIAN, has grown fat in the head over the question of money, a constant proof that armor-plate is still in active service.

"As to the methods of advertising and all kinds of exploitation stunt, much buncombe is being advocated as the question can only be solved by consistent expenditures. You are told to BILL LIKE A CIRCUS and all such rot while we small town guys know that the circus comes but once the year and we must open up our little made-over store rooms 200 or 300 times a year and when we do bill like a circus we wonder for weeks after when we're gonna' eat agin.

"My best results are shown with the use of 6, 3, and 1 sheets as well as photos and newspaper ads aggregating about 15% of my weekly receipts. The elimination of express and poster charges went far towards a profit at the end of the week and I believe my method of reducing the number of show days and lengthening runs to two days each will pay anywhere when you find that a daily change is unprofitable.

"Having lived in both city and village, my deduction is that from 20 to 30% of the homes in small towns are occupied by maiden ladies and widows and retired farmers who spend many sleepless nights figuring how to make an already overworked dollar do the work of six and I can safely say that this condition is not conducive to good show business anywhere.

"Many can attend only once a week and very few twice a week and my efforts are being directed towards getting in the greatest possible number of patrons to see a given picture rather than getting one patron to come four to six times a week to see as many different pictures. This enables me to pay a worth while price to the distributor for a good picture and saves in express and posters and operating expenses."

Offcers for Year Elected by Associated Exhibitors

THE first annual meeting of the stockholders of Associated Exhibitors since the organization of the company by Arthur S. Kane a year ago, was held at the Home Office of the concern, 35 West 45th Street, on Friday, March 10. A highly satisfactory report for the year was read, showing the consistent progress which the organization has made, and the following were elected to comprise the board of directors for the coming year: Roy Crawford, John C. Ragland, Harold B. Franklin, Elmer R. Pearson, John P. Fritts and Arthur S. Kane.

Immediately following the meeting of the stockholders, these directors met and elected the following officers for the coming fiscal year: Arthur S. Kane, president and chairman of the board of directors; Roy Crawford, vice-president and treasurer; John C. Ragland, secretary. These officials appointed an executive committee consisting of Arthur S. Kane, chairman; Mr. Crawford, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Ragland.

Hotel Disturbed by Naked Truth Dinner Rehearsal

Five hundred dinner guests at the Cafe Boulevard were thrown into a small-sized riot last Friday night by a series of unharmonious sounds that emanated from the basement of the hostelry. Timorous guests left their seats to run for cover while the more hardy ones followed the waiters in investigating the cause of the disturbance.

In the basement of the building they discovered a miniature chorus swaying to the rhythm of jazz and syncopating waltz time on dish pans, drums, electric light globes and any other object that met the specifications. Before a rapidly augmenting crowd of spectators the singers continued their gyrations, many of them obviously of male gender being attired in feminine garb.

"Aw, fishbones, it's only a Ziegfeld chorus being trained," one of the guests explained.

The supposition was borne out by the fact that the leader of the demonstration was Barney Randall who interpreted the part of Mr. Ziegfeld in a recent motion picture, "Polly of the Follies."

While one alarmed guest sent a call in for the reserves a search for the hotel manager revealed the fact that the outburst marked the first rehearsal of the A. M. P. A. theatricals for the Naked Truth dinner to be held at the Hotel Biltmore on March 25.

About eight acts will be presented at the A. M. P. A. dinner, varying from a home-made motion picture to a monologue by Nat Rothstein. Present indications point to at least 400 guests and changes have been made to hold the Naked Truth dinner in the big ballroom of the hotel instead of the smaller banquet room used last year, to accommodate all those who have asked for reservations. Front tables are being reserved in accordance with the purchase of tickets.

At the request of out of town guests at the dinner the first course will be served promptly at seven o'clock instead of eight.

Ring of Film Thieves in Cleveland Disclosed

A ring of film thieves, who have been operating in and around Cleveland for the past year and a half, has just been brought to light through the efforts of Paul Tessier, manager of the local Pathe exchange and Bill Frankel, manager of the Lande Film Distributing Company. In one day, sixty-two reels of stolen film were recovered. Thousands of dollars worth of other films are still missing, but the exchange managers expect soon to have a complete report on all the films that have been disappearing so mysteriously.

All of the re-claimed missing films were found in private homes in Lakewood a fashionable suburb of Cleveland. Many of Lakewood's wealthy sons have their own picture machines. No less than fifteen of them were unearthed by Fred A. Kintzler, of the Lakewood police force, who has given the exchange managers close co-operation.

Many of the films recovered by Detective Kintzler last Thursday in the home of certain prominent Lakewood families still bear the original address to which the films were directed. In most cases they have the original wrappers. A dozen of the boys using these films were questioned. All of them said they had rented or bought their films from L. Harrison, who gives his address as 224 High Avenue, Cleveland. Harrison says he has been in the habit of purchasing his film supply from someone in the film business at the rate of $25.00 for ten reels. However, he has not been able to identify the man whom he says sold him the films. He did, however, admit that he has been operating this private "social" exchange for the past year and a half.

The exchange managers are now looking for a man who was shipper at one of the exchanges, but who has been serving a term in the Mansfield Reformatory for forgery, it is stated. It is thought that this man may be able to throw light on a situation that has cost the film men of Cleveland many thousands of dollars. Detective Kintzler is quietly pursuing his search for more lost films. No arrests have been made at this time.

Anti-Blue Law League to Hold Big Conference

The Anti-Blue Law League of America, Inc., will hold a national conference in St. Louis on June 23, 24 and 25 for the discussion of ways and means of combatting the spread of "blue laws."

Prominent men from all walks of life will be invited to attend and address the gathering. It will be a gathering of the broadest minds of the universe, if present plans materialize.

Among those to whom invitations will be extended are Hudson Maxim, William Hays, Augustus Thomas, Rex Beach, James Montgomery Flagg and Galli-Curci.

A Surprise in Store fo Kansas Exhibitors

EXHIBITORS who attend the ni- annual convention of the M. P. T. O., Kansas, at the Hotel La en, Wichita, Kas., March 27 and 28, are ue for two big surprises, according to M. Van Praag, president of the state or ni- zation. The first and most impo nt revelation will deal with film rentals he stated.

"A large company has made the M P. T. O. K. a proposition that never be re has been equalled," Mr. Van Praag id. "This proposition will be put squ ly to the exhibitors for the first time at he convention. The benefit to be derive by exhibitors will be of untold value."

The second surprise will not be so e- what of a "shock," Mr. Van Praag n- nounced. It will deal with the expo re of certain tactics of a large distrib or and producer in the Middle West t i- tory and will open the eyes of hund ds of exhibitors, declares Mr. Van Pr g. For some time officials of the M. P. T O. K. have been gathering facts and dat on the situation, and no charge will be n de without just grounds, Mr. Van P ag said.

Many successful conventions lve been held in Kansas, but never be re have such elaborate plans been arra ed for a meeting as the one which is to be held this month. From Governor H ry Allen of Kansas down to minor and ss authoritative officials of the state, th 'll all be there, ready to "go to bat" and id all possible aid to the exhibitors. At r- ney-General Richard Hopkins, Assis nt Attorney-General Griffith and H. H. Motter of the Internal Revenue Dep t- ment will be among the princ al speakers.

Screen Writers' Guild o Censor Own Produc

To take motion picture censorshi ou of the hands of the censors and to es the power in those most compete t judge a production, is the objective f plan recently formulated and put n effect by the Independent Screen A st Guild of censoring the product of its m bers.

About fifty productions have been ub jected thus far to examination unde h plan. They formed the backbone o th national exhibition of the work of m bers of the Independent Screen A st Guild from February 18th to 25th, o ur ing simultaneously with the celebrati o First National Week. In a challeng is sued prior to the week, the Guild defie h censors to find one objectionable sce in any of the pictures. The Guild's pr ct tions were exhibited in nearly 6,000 a tres during the week, and reports fro h exhibitors declared that never before a they experienced such a profitable w

All the pictures made by the membe of the Guild are subjected to this "volu t censorship." In judging a picture, the its producer, its director, or anyone n nected with its making, is not allowe participate in the deliberations. The cisions of the "board" are final and l ing.

Would Make San Francisco Producing Center

Max Graf Points Out Advantages to Be Found in Northern California by Producers

N a statement recently issued by Max Graf through the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the well-wn producer points out what a devel-l motion-picture industry means for Francisco or for any community pos-ng natural scenic and climatic advan-s for film producing. Mr. Graf's state-t follows:

"I am a part of San Francisco in its vlopment and I am asking every busi-s man, every individual, and every or-rzation to talk motion pictures for San cisco.

"Let me show you in figures what it l mean to have the picture industry in is locality. The average special fea-r costs approximately $100,000 to pro-d and the classified expenditures are fllows:

"5.33 per cent for directors and staff.

"8.73 per cent for acting personnel, l ling extras.

".90 per cent for administrative office d xecutives.

"9.04 per cent for mechanics, elec-cs, carpenters and laborers.

"[illegible] per cent for story, property, ward-nd films.

"HE campaign launched by the Screen Writers Guild against villi-fying propaganda aimed at the mo-picture industry is being pushed vig-rously, according to word from the t headquarters of that organization. following appeal, under the caption A Call to Arms," has been addressed e Guild to the theatre-owners of the utry:

"The entire picture industry has been on the defensive by the vicious at-k in the press on the character of the le who are producing pictures in alifornia Studios. The vicious slan-r on Hollywood reflect upon every h of the industry and unless checked t serious menace to everyone who es a livelihood from the making and buting of pictures. A bureau has established on the coast to fight attacks, and spread broadcast the acts about Hollywood and the char-of the picture workers. This bu-is being operated under the auspices e Screen Writers' Guild of The rs' League of America, represent-very branch of the business. Every-can do his bit. In order to fight attacks successfully, it is necessary he Bureau know just what is being d and who is printing it. All ex-rs and exchange men are urged to the newspapers in their localities lip all comments on the film indus-hether favorable or unfavorable, and hem, with the name of the publica-nd the date, to the Screen Writers' 6716 Sunset Boulevard, Holly-California. This is the greatest e that can be rendered at the present and everybody is urged to co-op-to the greatest of their ability."

"Thus you will see a total of 61 per cent of cost expended as pay-roll on each production. Now, then, if there are ten concerns producing on an average of four pictures a year it would make forty productions or a pay-roll of $2,444,000 per year, which would be spent in San Francisco. Of the other 39 per cent going into the cost of making a picture, a great deal of it will be spent here.

"A rough estimate of the profits on the above forty high grade productions, made by legitimate producers, would be 300 per cent, which would come from the distributors all over the country and find its way back to be spent in the further development of the picture industry in San Francisco.

"Probably few business men or bankers appreciate how closely the motion picture industry parallels other industries in its main divisions. Its activities can be combined under the identical headings of any other big industry. For example, manfacture is called production; wholesaling is called distribution; retailing is exhibition; and exporting is the selling or rental of films throughout foreign countries. Production also includes the artistic end of the picture industry. At present it is centered in Los Angeles, where 85 per cent of all motion pictures produced in the United States is manufactured. Why does not San Francisco, which is known as an art center, have this?

"It is claimed that Los Angeles offers throughout the year the most consistent weather for exterior scenes. However, it has been recently proved through the government weather bureau that the peninsula territory of San Francisco offers more intense sunlight and more work days throughout the year than the present production center. Furthermore, in one of my recent articles, I stated that the northern California section offers the greatest variety of scenery-mountains, desert, seashore, foreign locale, etc.

"In a remarkably short time, from 1915 to 1921, the motion picture industry forged ahead until now it is ranked as fourth in the United States, and in the coming year it will develop into the second largest industry. John E. Barber of the First National Bank, Los Angeles, stated that the 1919 industrial census of the motion picture business showed a total investment on the production end of $500,000,000. This did not include money invested in allied businesses which have sprung up to supply the wants of the picture people. When to this $500,000,000 is added the amount invested in distributing companies, theatres, and in the manufacture of raw stock, as well as accessories, necessary for the production of pictures, the amount is estimated to be $1,250,000,000. The above figures were given out by Paul H. Cromelin in an address to the Eighth National Foreign Trade Convention, Cleveland, Ohio, in May, 1921.

The screen, we all acknowledge, is the most influential medium for creating public opinion, the greatest advertising medium the world has known. I, for one, have definitely decided that I am going to stay and produce in San Francisco. Every foot of my production will be made in its entirety here and will bear the trade mark 'Produced in its Entirety in San Francisco' in the main title of the production.

"There is still plenty of development to be made in the film business and no set of men or any one locality can control the brains that create motion pictures. Providing there are enough enterprising individuals to get behind this business, I know that a large number of the motion picture creators can be brought to San Francisco.

"Recently Clark Thomas, general manager of the Thomas H. Ince Studio, Los Angeles, made a statement at a luncheon at the St. Francis Hotel that it appeared that San Francisco was finally going to get started in the motion picture business. Recently I read a statement by Adolph Zukor in the San Francisco Examiner that he had noticed the propaganda for San Francisco and that if the present attitude for development in the motion picture industry was kept up, he could see the possibilities of a production center here. These are only two instances of the notice San Francisco is winning in motion picture circles."

Mr. Graf closes with an appeal for a concerted effort towards the development of San Francisco as a production center.

Writers' Club for Repeal of N. Y. Censorship Law

ANOTHER blow was struck last week for the repeal of censorship in the State of New York, when the Writers' Club, comprising some of the best known authors of the day, voted unanimously for a proposition expressing disapproval of the practice of censorship and asking the state legislature to support the Louis Culvilliers bill which provides for the repeal of censorship law in New York.

The petition, the full text of which is given elsewhere in this issue, was addressed to Joseph A. McGinnies, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly, and was endorsed by the entire membership in attendance at the meeting.

The officers of the club are: Herman Landon, president; George Jay Smith, vice-president; Arthur W. Courtney, secretary; and Eric A. Dine, treasurer. The board of governors include the above and Heather Benjamin, Frank Dorrance Hopley, F. A. Jones, Arthur Leeds, Arthur E. Scott, Hyacinth Stoddard Smith, and Benjamin Ogden Wilkins. The honorary vice-presidents are Ellis Parker Butler, George Allen England, Cleveland Moffett, Edward J. O'Brien, and W. Adolphe Roberts.

Virginia Censor Bill

(Continued from page 1721)

should not be printed in books, magazines and newspapers.

"It is a well-known fact that the columns of the daily press and other periodicals chronicle the scandals and the crimes of the day, and much of this printed matter is of a nature that is apt to corrupt the morals of youth and to incite acts of crime. Still there is no restraining hand of a censor to check the dissemination of such articles and stories.

"In the second place the literature of the screen has developed to such a degree that it has engaged the attention of the best known writers, authors and playwrights of the world. Many of these men and women are writing for motion pictures exclusively and they are dependent upon the films for their principal source of income. It will be impossible for these writers to give full expression to their thoughts and write about life as it is, while a censorship board has a strangle hold on their throats. Imagine what would result if a censor board were to dictate the kinds of stories that should appear in our magazines and books. Then literature would be doomed or it would be transformed into juvenile yarns or fairy tales.

"Unless the writers for the screen are permitted to give full expression to their thoughts, the silent drama will suffer decay and may become a lost art, thus robbing the public of the most interesting and economical medium of education and entertainment.

"In the third instance it must be admitted that in the past certain salacious, immoral and crime-inciting pictures have been shown on the screen and, of course, there is no excuse for the showing of such pictures. On the other hand, the motion picture industry has now become such an important factor in the lives of the people that producers cannot afford to trespass the lines of common decency. We have proof of this in the fact that the leading film companies and exhibitors do not want pictures featuring players who have been mixed up in murder cases and scandals which are a detriment to society. We believe that recognized producers of pictures are better able than a censorship board to determine what constitutes desirable motion pictures and fit to be seen by the public.

"To let a committee of, say, three persons determine what several million people should see, when they attend the motion picture shows is unreasonable, illogical, unjust and unconstitutional. One might as well expect three persons to tell what articles, poems and stories should be published in the newspapers, magazines and books in the State of New York. Such a move would start a rebellion in editorial offices.

"Sincerely hoping that the censorship law for the State of New York will be repealed during the preesnt session of the Legislature, we are "Respectfully yours,

"The Writers' Club."

Scheduled Conventions of Exhibitor Organizations

Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Kentucky—March 15th and 16th at Lexington, Ky.

Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Western Pennsylvania—April 10th, 11th and 12th at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Minnesota—April 11th and 12th.

Recent Incorporations in New York State

Sixteen companies incorporated and entered the motion picture business in New York state during the past week, the aggregate amount of capitalization reaching $680,000. These companies, with their directors for the first year and amount of capitalization, include:

Lang Manufacturing Works, Olean, $100,000, C. J. Lang, W. H. Williamson, W. M. Troy, Olean; Telmar Amusement Corporation, $50,000, Hyman Rachmil, Samuel Rinzler, Brooklyn; Irene Levine, New York; Buck Mix Productions, $1,000, L. F. Scott, Jr., James E. McNally, New York; M. M. Epstein, Jersey City; Richmond Film Productions, $500, H. G. Kosch, Mildred Gerst, G. B. Garrison, New York; Phonofilm Corporation, $1,000, Edmund Wolcott, F. N. Rodman, F. G. Leubuscher, New York; Hoosier Motion Picture Company, $20,000, David Price, Dora Yager, New York; Leo Krawetz, Brooklyn; Medbury Screen Comedies, $5,000, J. P. Medbury, Phyllis Eltis, A. George Kelly, New York; Hollywood theatre, $20,000, M. C. and J. M. Schill, D. R. McDonald, Brooklyn; Florence Photo-Plays Corporation, $10,000, Mallie Mass, Benjamin Goldstein, Brooklyn; David Lisnow, New York; Sam Raymond's Theatres Corporation, $500, Sam and Lillian Raymond, Benjamin Halpern, New York; Strike Out King Company, $20,000, Joseph Quittner, Arnold Furst, New York; A. R. Callahan, Brooklyn; The Photoplast Leasing Corporation, $200,000, and the Photoplast Corporation of America, $100,000, Charles E. Schneider, Charles A. Satterlee, Alexander W. Krumm, New York; K. D. B. Photoplays, $1,000, Charles Kranz, New York; Donald I. Buchanan, Hackensack, N. J.; George M. Davidson, Harrison, N. Y.

Grand "Movie Ball" to Be Held by Kansas Exhibs

A "Movie Ball," a large banquet and the presence of some of the most well-known stars and big men of the motion picture industry—these will be some of the features of the semi-annual state convention of the M. P. T. O. Kansas March 27 and 28, at the Lassen Hotel in Wichita, Kans. Details for the arrangement of the convention program now are being worked out by M. Van Praag, president of the state organization, and the convention committee.

Dollar a Week Winners

(Continued from page 1720)

sas; Mr. Kessler, Alhambra, Canto Ohio.

Joe Burton, Star, Toccoa, Ga.; Joh Paxton, Musselman Theatre Interest Paris, Texas; Maurice F. Ban, Triano New Orleans, La.; Jack Holman, Lyri Burkburnett, Texas; H. Simons, Empres Shenandoah, Ia.; Ralph Blank, Garde Davenport, Ia.; Alfred Fottesman, Stran Shenandoah, Pa.; M. M. Rubens, Pri cess, Joliet, Ill.; H. Brady, Princess, Crar don, Wis.; J. C. Collins, Rex, Perry, Ia Chas. T. Sears, Grand, Brookfield, Mo Geo. Rea, Forum theatre, Hillsboro, O. H. J. Geiselman, City Opera House, Lou donville, O.; R. J. Morrison, Isis, Aspe Colo.; Nick McMahon, Jr., Marlow Ironton, Ohio; John Gillooley, Kentucky Louisville, Ky.; E. A. Keen, Oxford Criterion, Oxford, O.; C. T. Johnso Family, Milford, O.; A. Hurley, Princes Tuccumari, N. M.; Ole M. Nelson, Majes tic, Grand Junction, Colo.; W. E. Schae fer, Vaudette, West Point, Ga.; Frank A Lacey, Majestic, Portland, Ore.; Jo Bradtt, Peoples', Portland, Ore.; E George Woods, Columbia, Portland, Ore. Milton Grostein, Star, Portland, Ore. Wm. Freise, Majestic & Rivoli, La Cross Wis.; Jos. J. Jacobson, Strand, Marshall town, Ia.; F. W. Boll, Majestic, Stillwate Minn.; G. S. Carlson, Unique, Minneapo lis, Minn.

Capt. H. M. Livingstone, o Ottowa Is Dead

A sad occurrence in moving pictur circles of Canada was the sudden deat of Capt. H. M. Livingstone, manager o Allen's Regent theatre, Ottawa, o Thursday, March 9, of pneumonia. Cap Livingstone caught cold a few days be fore as a result of standing in the en trance to the theatre in order to direc the crowds seeking admission, it is sai and pleuro-pneumonia developed quickl The fact that he had been gassed durin the war is thought to have hastene death.

The funeral was held Friday evenin March 10, to the Ottawa Union Static under military auspices after which th remains were shipped to London, On tario, for burial. At London, the de ceased was accorded full military hono in the burial. Capt Livingtone was su vived by his wife.

Officers Chosen by Indian apolis Exchange Board

At a meeting held March 7th, of th Board of Motion Picture Exchange Ma agers of Indianapolis, the followin officers were elected for the ensuing yea

President, Augustin W. Carrick, Ro ertson-Cole Corp.; vice-president, No man Moray, Pathe Exchange, Inc.; trea urer, Floyd Brown, Associated Fir National.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES—
OPINIONS ON BOX OFFICE RESULTS OBTAINED

"All Wrong"

Personal appearances by motion picture stars are all wrong. They are harmful to the industry at large and the screen performers in particular.

These appearances would not be so bad if the real stars of the silversheet appeared, but in nine out of ten cases the players presented in person are no more entitled to the distinction of being called a star than I am, and I have never taken part in a film play in my life.

A little study of the box office statements of the theatres in Canada and the United States reveals the somewhat startling information that there are today less than a dozen names of screen performers that are really box office attractions. These players seldom appear in public. They know where their cakes come from and they are too smart to kill the noble goose that is laying the golden egg.

The show business—"it's a business"—always has been and always will be a great game of make believe. Every time you open your bag of tricks with a personal appearance you are destroying the glamor and mystery which the public loves. Why spoil the illusion?

I know of three personal appearances—successful ones, too—after which the popularity of the stars presented diminished so rapidly that in less than six months their pictures were of little value to the box office. And you would be surprised if I told you the names of these players.

It is true, the personal appearance will increase the gross receipts for a few days, but what of the aftermath?

Most of the motion picture players I have seen in person made a very disappointing appearance on the stage. They were for the silent drama and should have been kept silent. The crowds which came to see them were disappointed because the alluring atmosphere that surrounded the player on the screen was lacking in the personal appearance. Most of these so-called stars were unable to express themselves. Having been mere puppets in the skillful hands of the director, they were found wanting in initiative and ability when put on their own.

When the motion picture star is recruited from the legitimate stage he usually is able to put over a happy personal appearance. But the players that are chosen simply because they photograph well never should be permitted to appear in person. The people of the legitimate stage are trained to use their own wits to entertain the public, but with the screen player, most of the thinking seems to be done by the director.

There are screen players that are wonderful entertainers in public, but we seldom see them off the screen. The industry may thank these artists for having sense enough and sufficient pride in their profession to stay at home and let the public continue to love them as the public has learned to know them.

Another reason why the personal appearance has not helped the industry is because it usually is a hurry-up affair. The star is rushed into town, handed the key to the village, bustled up to the mayor's office, raced to a luncheon, dragged over to the show shop and shoved out on the stage, unprepared and unable to say anything except—"I arrived this morning and am glad I came. I think your city is wonderful and I hope you will like my next picture."

The best this star could hope to do, if it be a woman, was to create a furore with a display of beautiful gowns. If she didn't possess the togs, Heaven help her.

The personal appearance has been greatly overdone in the past year. Anyone who ever had anything to do around a studio could get an engagement to appear in person and at a good salary. The public was not slow to realize that something was radically wrong with the business when exhibitors had to take them behind the scenes and give up the secrets that in past years have kept the crowds coming. And the public just sat back and laughed.

When all is said and done, the picture is the thing and the director makes the picture, so of what importance are most of these so-called stars, anyway?

CHARLES G. BRANHAN,
Famous Players Canadian Corp., Ltd.

"Beware Disillusionment"

IF you are willing to take a chance with your box office value of your patrons idealization of their screen favorites book personal appearances. No one questions their drawing power.

But, if you appraise the patrons attitude towards the popular player at its true worth, that is to say, if you realize that that attitude is your credit foundation with your patrons during exhibition of pictures featuring the player in question—, then you will avoid personal appearances of that player in your theatre as you would avoid a cry of "Fire."

Basing our judgment upon what we regard as a fairly accurate diagnosis of what our public wants in this section of the country, rather than upon any considerable experience with personal appearances, we would strongly advocate elimination of the stars in a body from the picture theatres.

Our public, we have reasons to know, sets up a distinct ideal for each of its favorites, places them upon a pedestal with a halo about their heads, and laurels upon their brows. The picture star emanates his or her own refulgence, no calcium is required for the shadow actor, built before the publics view from the beams of light. Our public comes to our theatres now in a friendly cordial humor, eager to like what it sees, anxious to add another lifting stone to the pillar of acclamation that supports each of its preferred screen personalities. It looks uncritically with open mind. But merely announce that "She" will be present at the exhibition to the public gaze of her latest release, and watch the shift in sentiment, the dangerous alteration of attitude.

Behind this danger lies a condition probably too little appreciated at the studio. Our public in this section of the country, the great Central West, takes its screen entertainers as it takes a drink of water, the water must be clean, the lives of the players must be clean. Questionable crafts may sail over the waters from which the drink finds its way to their table, but when the glass is raised to the lips, it must contain clear water only.

"She" will pack your house to the mural decoration while she is in your city. Curiosity draws. Beware, lest disillusionment follows. Remember that under the arcs the voice is unimportant. Above and across the footlights, it instantly meets the competition of comparison with the star of the speaking stage who delighted the public the day before. The comparison is unfair to the screen player, but the screen player need not risk it. The average star of the speaking stage would cut but a poor figure on the silver sheet and the wise ones know it and refrain.

The defect that does not screen glares damagingly apparent under the calcium. Perhaps the charm of the characteristic sets an environments that accompany stars in the pictures plays a larger role in establishing them in their definite niches in public favor than has been credited. It is possible that the absence of this supporting element contributes to the disappointment of the public seeing its idols in the unfamiliar, unembellished, direct vision.

The bubble bursts, the ideal is shattered and the magnetism of lofty perspective fails to attract. The reaction sets in, if not at the next exhibition of a subsequent release, it is bound to follow after the public in general discusses the disappointment of the star.

With a hypercritical inquisition into the private lives of everyone even remotely associated with the industry now complying one hundred per cent of all discussion or conversation relative to the Motion Picture, as a result of recent dispatches from the West Coast, it would seem that no more unseasonable time could be selected for launching personal appearance tours.

Business here suffers a consequence of unpleasant film folk notoriety. It will recuperate more rapidly without the handicap of disillusionment certain to follow in the footsteps of the screen player seen in the flesh, therefore personal appearances I believe should be avoided at all times.

A. G. STOLTE,
Des Moines, Iowa.

Sadly Disappointing

I HAVE had quite a few stars that have made personal appearances in Kansas City, and I honestly believe in most cases the fans have been sadly disappointed for two reasons:

First, because they have had these stars as their hero or heroine and they expect a great deal from them, and you take the star who has not had any stage experience—they are naturally timid and cannot impress fans with their talk, consequently they are disappointed in them and it has a tendency to hurt them at the box office in their future pictures.

Secondly, the conduct of the stars must be unusually good both in meeting the patrons of the theatre and when they leave the theatre. They have to be one hundred per cent. perfect at the hotel, for they are constantly watched by everyone, and any move they make would be magnified by the public and multiplied to such an extent that the industry is hurt a great deal more than anyone would think.

(Continued on following page)

Personal Appearances

(Continued from preceding page)

However, the star who has had stage experience and conducts himself properly can really do some good. I recall about six months ago we had Bryant Washburn appear at one of our theatres, and really I must say he gained thousands of friends. There was something about his personality that drew fans to him, and every day he was in Kansas City he became more popular and it seems before he left Kansas City he could have owned the town.

I would say that if a motion picture star wants to make a personal appearance he must have some accomplishments and stage personality; otherwise, it does more harm than good.

Very sincerely,
FRANK L. NEWMAN,
Newman Theatre,
Kansas City, Mo.

PERSONAL appearances by motion picture stars in moving picture houses have both their good and bad qualities. Almost invariably a good motion picture actor or actress can make a personal appearance that will do credit to him or herself and to the theatre. However, brother managers who have had experience in presenting these sensitive luminaries know that they are taking chances of ruining often some idealistic conceptions of the hero and heroine fostered by the audience as a result of seeing them on the silver sheet. In other words, by bringing the two, the star and the audience, together, Tessie Teacup, the diaphanous, drooping damsel of the celluloid world, may prove in the flesh to be a silly, brainless person. Nothing hurts a star more than creating the wrong impression in the minds of an audience. They are a sensitive lot, these audiences, and a little error by the stars, whom they want to believe are perfect, will shatter their ideals.

Perhaps at the outset I might say (at least these opinions are my own and founded largely on personal experience) that however bad an appearance a star makes, he or she cannot do as much harm to the theatre in which they are appearing as to themselves and to their future as movie stars.

While manager of the Park Theatre, Boston, Mass., I was perhaps instrumental in bringing the first motion picture stars to Boston for personal appearances. Alice Brady, then just raised to stardom, was one of the early luminaries to appear at the Park. Bushman and a few of the old-timers also appeared. Most of them, as I recall, made rather absurd and short speeches, looking anything but the dapper and debonair personages they usually represented in the films. This sort of business to my mind didn't do them any good. Alice Brady, of course, was an exception, because she can sing and has a good stage presence. Not all motion picture folk have good stage presences, and this type should be given a wide berth by the discriminating theatre managers. A short, silly speech, much bowing, is the usual routine. Personally I would not permit a star to follow this routine if she were exhibiting in my playhouse. If they can't sing, make them recite; but spare me the wooden actor or actress.

Perhaps from all this you will gather the impression that personal appearances by stars do not appeal to me very keenly. That is not exactly so. I think a personal appearance by a real star who does something when he appears on the stage, is worth while and beneficial to the theatre.

I do think that ordinary players and the alleged movie star as a personal attraction at a theatre, is a stupid and absurd piece of business. The public, fickle as it is, might forgive a really big star for the loss of some of its illusions about him or her when they meet face to face. But it will never forgive a mediocre star for spoiling what few good ideals they did have about them. Here in Lowell, Mass., at my Strand Theatre, I have experimented with stars of all magnitudes and constellations, and the foregoing is the fruit of my own bitter experience. I still exhibit (a very good word in this case) stars that have some genuine claim to this distinction, and I shall continue to do so, so don't let me create the idea that I am wholly a pessimist on the subject. I find the most ideal time to offer a personal appearance to my audience is in conjunction and simultaneously with a picture feature of the aforementioned star. It sort of whets the public's appetite for a sight of them. And so they go to "bury Caesar if not to praise him."

The greatest and most substantial argument for and against personal appearance of a star is the fluctuation, if any, that it makes in the box office. Here's what I find: The day or days on which the star appears personally, business is heavier, but falls below normal on those days when they do not appear. So ultimately the results aren't very different than if they had never appeared at all. Of course, there have been exceptions in my case to this, but they are the exception rather than the rule.

Incidentally, my brother managers do not need to be told that there are movie stars obtainable for personal appearances at even small community theatres, who would have shuddered at the thought a few years ago. This, of course, is due to the plethora of so-called moving picture "stars." We observe in the newspapers that every man who has had his face on a piece of celluloid is a "star," and so a great many men and women who would make better butchers and needle-women than actors and actresses are called upon to appear before a motion picture audience as stars and near stars.

Personally, I believe the acting business is slumping. People discriminate now; actor-folk who found plenty of employment in the well known halcyon days of the war time are today eager to fatten their thinning pocketbooks by personal appearances at so much per "appear." Some of them are even travelling with some sort of a sketch or dramatic act as an excuse to bask in the public eye.

At all events, there is no harm in trying out this personal appearance idea if you have not already done so. And from your first experience gain some idea of its advantages and disadvantages. Let good judgment be your guiding star.

Very truly yours,
THEODORE D. SORIERO,
General manager, Strand Theatre, Lowell, Mass.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Wiliam A. Johnston, Pres. & Editor
E. Kendall Gillett, Treasurer
George D. Gould, Managing Editor
Fred. J. Beecroft, Adv. Mgr.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant

Chicago Representative, L. H. Mason, 910 S. Michigan Ave.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, Suite 205, Baker-Detwiller Building, 412 West Sixth St.; 'Phone Pico 780. Subscription $3 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $5. Foreign, $8. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book. Western Union registered cable address is "Picknews," New York.

Copyright, 1922, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

New Sales Plan Is Started by First National

A REVOLUTIONARY change in the sales machinery of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., has been effected by the division of the country into five sales districts, each under the supervision of a district manager, the company announces. Two district managers have been appointed thus far, and other details of the plan will be carried out immediately.

The five divisions will be known as the Eastern, Southern, Central, Mid-Western and Western. Roy C. Seery, manager of the Chicago exchange, has been appointed manager of the Mid-Western district by Floyd M. Brockell, supervisor of exchanges; and L. O. Lukan, in charge of the Seattle exchange, has been named as the district manager for the Western territory.

The Eastern district has not been partitioned completely, but as it now stands it will take in Boston, New Haven, Philadelphia and Washington.

The Southern district will include Charlotte, N. C., Atlanta, Louisville, Dallas, Oklahoma City and New Orleans. The district manager will be stationed in the latter city

The Central district will take in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Detroit. The Mid-Western district is composed of Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis. In the Western district are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Salt Lake City, Seattle, Portland and Butte.

Wouldn't Be Without the News for Anything

THE exchange failed to supply press aids, but with the News at hand the necessary information was immediately available. But here's the story in the exhibitor's own words:

"Motion Picture News,
New York City, N. Y.
"Gentlemen:

"Once more I have found your journal worth all its costs me for a year—just in the matter of getting some advertising matter for two features I am running. The exchange failed to send me press sheets for two pictures, but in turning to back issues of the News I found the necessary information. Therefore, on those two subjects I claim I received good value for my year's subscription. I would not be without your valuable journal on any consideration. It is certainly a great help to have your calendar of releases and note dates of issue at a glance. We know the journal to subscribe to get all information that is necessary.

"Yours truly
"J. A. MORRISON,
"Meaford, Ontario."

In the Film Centers

Activities of Exchange Managers, Exhibitors, Salesmen and Others

Canada

E. H. BENSON, manager of the Walker Theatre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, has been appointed manager of the Empire Theatre, in Edmonton, Alberta.

Carl Weeks, brother of George Weeks, New York, recently appointed to a high post in the Famous-Lasky head office, has been made manager for Western Canada of the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Limited. Carl will conduct operations from the Winnipeg office.

Officers of the Film Managers' Association of Ontario for 1922 have been elected as follows: President, Leo Devaney, Ontario manager of the Fox Film Corporation; vice-president, Maurice Fisher, Toronto; secretary-treasurer, Major A. H. Arbuthnot.

Because of the delinquency of some exhibitors in payment of accounts, the Film Exchange Managers' Association of Quebec, with headquarters at Montreal, recently decided to enforce a rule providing for payment on delivery of films or in advance. Notice to this effect is now displayed prominently in each of the Montreal exchange offices. One local exchange manager admitted that he had a collection of worthless checks, the "face value" of which aggregated $4,000.

Maurice West, manager of the Imperial Theatre, St. John, N. B., and also identified with a Canadian syndicate for the importation of European films, has sailed for Paris to look over film offerings there.

Charles Stephenson, proprietor of Stephenson's Attractions, Ltd., Toronto, distributing independent pictures, has appointed Tom Dowbiggin sales manager of his company. Mr. Dowbigging has started out on a Coast to Coast trip in the Dominion.

Exchange managers in the Province of Quebec recently held a general meeting in the offices of the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd., Montreal, when a general report on conditions throughout the Dominion was given by Colonel J. A. Cooper, representing the General-Managers' Association of Canada, with headquarters at Toronto. It was the feeling of the meeting that the new C. O. D. rules for film shipments to exhibitors throughout the Province of Quebec had proved to be effective and that the general result would be satisfactory for both exhibitors and exchanges.

Mr. Ed English of the Famous-Lasky was in the chair and others present included F. Meyers of Vitagraph, Mr. Watkins of Fox, Mr. Daubigan of Stephenson Attractions, J. P. O'Loghlin of Specialty Film Import, Phil Hazza of Standard Films, Mr. Sherlock of Educational Films, I. Sourkes of United Artists, J. Gorman of First National, Mr. Ben Davis of Regal Films, Arthur Larente of Specialty Film Import, Mr. Stewart of Equity, F. Leduc of Canadian Universal and Mr. Kaufman of Famous Players Film Service.

Norman Smith of Montreal has been appointed Western Canadian representative of Specialty Film Import, Ltd., Pathe distributors in Canada. Mr. Smith's headquarters are at Winnipeg.

W. F. Barrett of Toronto, Canadian general manager of Fox Film Corporation, has returned from a trip to Western Canada where he spent several days in conference with J. A. Wilson, of Winnipeg, the manager for Western Canada.

Pen Sketches

C. W. Anthony

C. W. Anthony is the successor to "Honest John" Kimberly at the Buffalo Vitagraph exchange. Mr. Anthony comes to the Queen City of the Lakes from Pittsburgh, where for five years he was connected with Vitagraph as salesman, special representative and assistant manager. He was promoted from the latter position to the head of the Buffalo exchange. Mr. Anthony has been in the motion picture business for 12 years. Inasmuch as he was at one time an exhibitor, he understands the problems at the exhibiting end of the industry. He has found this knowledge very valuable in his present position. While he is backward in admitting it, Mr. Anthony once operated a theatre in Claysville, Pa. He has lived this down, however. The new Vitagraph chief is "tickled to death" with Buffalo. He likes the exhibitors in the city because they never argue over the price of pictures. They have been known to commit murder, but they never argue. Just at present, Mr. Anthony is setting up new records on "The Sheik's Wife," which is being booked heavily throughout western New York. Mr. Anthony has a valuable aid in Harry T. Dixon, salesman de luxe.

M. H. Markowitz

M. H. Markowitz, manager of the Buffalo exchange of the United Artists' Pictures Corporation, buzzed into town from Jersey, where he was the star salesman for the Fox aggregation. He later held a similar honor with the United Artists. It is declared that no exhibitor ever got rid of Markowitz without signing on the dotted line. Since coming to Buffalo business has expanded to such an extent that larger quarters are needed. On May 1 the exchange will be moved to the second floor of the new Grand & Warner building at 265 Franklin street. Mr. Markowitz is a veteran in the "fillum" business. He has an unusually wide acquaintance in the trade in the east and since coming to Buffalo has put over a number of big contracts. While he has no official word on the subject, it is expected that the Buffalo office will soon be handling "Orphans of the Storm." Mr. Markowitz succeeded P. H. Smith as branch manager. Mr. Smith is now a sales representative.

Kansas City

J. J. MILLSTEIN, having resigned last week as manager of the Kansas City office of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, will leave for Denver, where he will become affiliated with Louis Levand in an organization controlling a large number of theatres. Mr. Millstein, although having been in Kansas City only a few months, was one of the most popular, as well as the youngest, exchange manager in the city. Phil Ryan, district manager for Hodkinson, has not yet decided upon Mr. Millstein's successor.

Fox branch managers from four cities attended a scales conference called by R. A. White, general sales manager for Fox, in Kansas City last week. Policies of the company, reports on business conditions and other matters of importance were discussed. Those in attendance were:

P. K. Johnson, Dallas; Ward Scott, Denver; Bert Edwards, Oklahoma City, and Sydney Meyer, Omaha.

Harmony and content now predominates among the Kansas City Universal office force for no other reason than the fact that Universal now is located in its new quarters at 1710 Wyandotte street. A well equipped projection room, making it possible for exhibitors to see any picture desired, and much more floor space has added about 30 per cent more efficiency to the office, C. Calvert, branch manager, has adopted the "open door" policy and has done away with the "private" offices, with one exception, that being his own, which seldom is used.

The Brooklyn theatre, Kansas City, has been purchased by G. E. Martin. Although it is his initial venture into the film game, Mr. Martin has outlined a policy where he believes he can "throw a broadside" into rumors of depressed business conditions.

"Take care of your patrons first—then look out for yourself," was his opening comment.

The idea of First National Week made such an impression on the management and patrons of the Cozy theatre, Lyons, Kans., that H. Edwards, who purchased the theatre a few weeks ago, has booked a solid month with First National.

C. W. Rodebough, formerly with Metro and United Artists Kansas City offices, has joined the sales force of the Kansas City Educational office. Although he did not return from his first trip with the usual arm load of contracts, he did have a pocket full. He will cover Western Missouri and Eastern Kansas.

(Continued on following page)

In the Film Centers

(Continued)

J. A. Bertram, manager of the Salt Lake City Orpheum theatre, has been appointed manager of the Mainstreet theatre, Kansas City, a combination first run and vaudeville house. Mr. Bertram formerly was manager of the Orpheum theatre at Memphis, Tenn.

L. W. Dunn, Pathe representative in Northern Missouri, has resigned and will enter business for himself. He will be succeeded by Jack Springer, who now is covering Northern Kansas for Pathe, according to Harry Graham, branch manager.

Lost, strayed or stolen: One brand new Ford coupe belonging to E. C. Rhoden, manager of the Kansas City Associated First National office. Mr. Rhoden left the car "outside," as usual, while eating lunch last week, and when he emerged from the food emporium, "Henry" was absent.

"It beats all what these 'birds' are stealing these days," was the only comment on the loss.

Albany

H. S. VINEBERG, of Albany, has just been added to the sales force of the Merit exchange in that city.

The joint board of arbitration in Albany, N. Y., is proving itself more than a mere name these days in settling differences between exhibitors and exchanges. In three weeks, adjustments were made in over twenty-five cases. The board gets together every Monday afternoon at the Pathe exchange.

Miss Rosecan, who has just been added to the sales force of First National, working out of Albany, N. Y., has the distinction of being one of three women in the United States who are selling film these days. Miss Rosecan, however, is no novice in the game, having been with the Detroit branch of Paramount for some time. Last week was her first over the Albany territory, but she made good.

The new Strand theatres in Schenectady and Troy are said to be scheduled to open next November. Practically all steel construction work has been completed on the one in Schenectady.

J. M. Schine, of Gloversville, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Milligan, of Schuylerville, and D. Regan, of Greenwich, were visitors at the Albany film exchanges last week.

Jack Sachs, who has been with Albany bureau of Pathe for the the last six years, starts out this week in handling the entire territory for short subjects for First National in Albany.

At the Strand in Schenectady, Manager Shirley is starting his week on Saturdays, something new for the Electric City, and which seems to be working out well.

H. C. Bissell has joined up with First National, in Albany, and is covering the territory from Poughkeepsie to Malone.

John D. Howard, one of the veterans in the exploitation business, and who has been with the Paramount offices in Albany since last November, received notice last week that he will hereafter look after similar work in Detroit. Mr. Howard will leave Albany on March 15. He has previously been located in Seattle, Portland and San Francisco. He is one of the live wire men of the Albany district.

N. I. Filkins, of Buffalo, manager of the Merit offices, was in Albany last Saturday. He reports business as being on the gain and is backing his statements by figures that can not be disputed.

H. E. Leonard is hustling through the Adirondack mountains these days, placing Merit productions.

Buffalo

H. L. TAYLOR, known in Filmdom as "Hub," has resigned from the Grand & Warner sales staff, to accept a position with Manager W. A. V. Mack, at Pathe. "Hub" is covering the jungles along the Southern Tier. His first trip into the wilds was productive of much business, as "Hub" is known to all the boys.

H. C. Bissell has left the Grand & Warner staff to peddle for Pathe in the Albany, Troy and Schenectady territory. Bissell is one of the best salesmen in the business. He has been with several Buffalo exchanges in the past few years.

A. W. Moses, manager of the R-C Pictures corporation exchange, made an advance in the Rochester, Syracuse and Utica sector last week and returned to Buffalo with the big Marmon loaded with contracts. Fenton Lawlor is now representing R-C in the Southern Tier. Al Barnett expects to spring a new suit on Film Row soon.

Sam Grand, of Federated Exchanges of America, Robert North, of North & Weber, exporters and owners of the Federated Exchange, and C. W. Bimick, visited Sydney Samson, local Grand & Warner manager last week. The party stopped off on the way from Chicago to Boston. Mr. Samson announces that contracts have been let for the new exchange building at 265 Franklin street, which will be ready for occupancy May 1. United Artists will have its headquarters on the second floor. Mr. Samson has closed all the key cities in the territory on "School Days." Harold B. Franklin has placed an order for 500 cut out slates, 500 dunce caps and 5,000 rubber tacks, which he will use in the schools to exploit "School Days," which opens at Shea's Hippodrome the week of March 19.

People and Pictures

(Continued from page 1719)

being shown. Not much better, but better, just the same. Will Hays has given his word that they shall continue to be better. The producers appear to be dead in earnest in their efforts to eliminate the comparatively few tyrants from their ranks.

"As to the personal character of the hundreds of young men and young women who earn their livelihood before the camera, there need be no special defense pleaded in their behalf. Girl for girl, we will back the photoplay actress against the school ma'am or the photoplay actor against the Great I Am of the Reform Movement."

* * *

EVER since the days of the nickelodeons moving picture theatre managers have burned the midnight mazda bulb figuring new tricks to induce the crowds to come to their theatres. Exploitation possibilities, advertising appeals and other angles of working up the popularity of a programme were carefully studied out.

But it remained for W. J. Miller of St. Louis to throw the entire process into reverse.

St. Louis boasts of the greatest union depot in the world, a place where thousands of travelers each day spend weary hours waiting between trains—especially trans-continental travelers.

Mr. Miller has closed a deal to open a picture show in the ladies' waiting room on the second floor of the big station.

Here's an idea that is worth considering in any one of a dozen cities of the country.

In connection with the wedding of Princess Mary, The Film Renter of London, in a leading article, raises the important question previously voiced in these columns, namely the preservation of negatives of historical value. The Film Renter suggests a government subsidy to make experts to investigate the problem of film preservation.

The matter is of the utmost importance. What are we to do in this country—the headquarters of production?

* * *

HUNTINGTON, Tenn. has attained the utmost in efficiency. Some towns, especially those of blue hue, resort to the courts to prevent moving pictures, but Huntington literally goes to court for its movies. And thereby hangs this tale.

Where the Carroll County, Tenn., Circuit Court by day grinds out justice a projection machine at night grinds out the latest feature, comedies, educational and news reels. The jury box at night holds the town band, and near the bench where the learned jurists of the circuit expound the law an electric piano pounds out the latest jazz bits.

When it was first suggested that a moving picture theatre be established in the court house it created a sensation throughout the county. Petitions for and against the plan poured into the magistrates. But they decided, with the wisdom of so many Solomons, that the movie comedians couldn't possibly be any worse than some of the lawyers they had to listen to by day, and voted to rent the court room for the movies.

Exhibitors' Service Bureau—Pages 1731-1750

Showing Greenman's Decorations on "Theodora"

Lobby decorations on "Theodora" when this picture played Fox's Liberty theatre, St. Louis

Advisory Board and Contributing Editors, Exhibitors' Service Bureau

Thomas D. Sorlero, Strand theatres, Lowell.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandnsky.
H. C. Horator, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
Edward L. Hyman, Strand theatre, Brooklyn.
Theo. L. Hays, Gen. Mgr. Finklestein & Rubin, Minneapolis.
Leo A. Landau, Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee.
Jack Kuhn, Loew theatres, Cleveland.
S. Barret McCormick, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Cleveland.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich.
E. R. Rogers, Managing Director, Tivoli and Rialto theatres, Chattanooga, Tenn.
G. E. Brown, Managing Director, Loew's Palace theatre, Memphis, Tenn.
Stanley Chambers, Palace theatre, Wichita, Kan.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta.
R. B. Wilby, Supervisor of Southern Enterprises, Inc., Birmingham, Ala.
E. V. Richards, Jr., Gen. Mgr., Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
F. L. Newman, Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
Arthur G. Stolte, Des Moines theatre, Des Moines, Iowa.
Chas. Branham, Famous-Lasky, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Lowell W. Calvert, Managing Director, Capitol theatre, St. Paul, Minn.
W. C. Quimby, Managing Director, Strand and Jefferson theatres, Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.

Outstanding Features of This Week's Section

For something nifty in the way of lobby front on "The Old Oaken Bucket," see page 1732b.

If you like the contest idea and also want to get all the fond mamas and papas interested try out the contest singing described on page 1732 that Cleveland neighborhood houses are pulling.

Another "Go to Theatre Week" has been put over again this time at Seattle. Story and cuts on page 1734 and 1735 relating what was pulled off. Frank Burns of the Phillips theatre, Orlando, Fla., gives some lessons on how to build lobby displays, as related by the cut on page 1736, showing fronts on "The Old Nest," "Three Musketeers," and "Way Down East."

Oscar White of the Rex theatre, Sumter, S. C., comes through with something extra big in the lobby display on "Saturdav Night" described on page 1737.

An idea on how S. Barrett McCormick puts over one of his Jazz Weeks is related in the story appearing on page 1738.

There is a good window display on "Queen of Sheba" told by the cut on page 1739. Look it over.

Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.
Louis K. Sidney, Managing Director, William Fox theatres, Denver.
Herbert J. Thatcher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.
Geo. Rotsky, Managing Director, Allen theatre, Montreal, Canada.
L. W. Barclay, Managing Director, Nemo theatre, Johnstown, Pa.
Phil. Gleichman, Managing Director, Broadway-Strand theatre, Detroit.
J. L. Johnston, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., of Texas, Dallas, Texas.
Fred S. Myer, Managing Director, Palace theatre, Hamilton, O.
C. C. Perry, Manager, Astor, Strand and Liberty theatres, St. Paul, Minn.
Nelson R. Bell, Publicity Director, Crandall's theatres, Washington, D. C.
L. L. Stewart, Director of Exploitation, Southern Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Joseph Plunkett, Managing Director, Mark Strand theatre, New York.
Samuel Sivitz, Director of Publicity, Rowland and Clark theatres, Pittsburgh.
Ray Grombacher, Managing Director, Liberty theatre, Spokane, Wash.
Ross A. McVoy, Manager, Temple theatre, Geneva, N. Y.
George Tooker, Manager, Regent theatre, Elmira, N. Y.
Ernest G. Stellings, Manager, Grand theatre, Wilmington, N. C.
Phil Gersdorf, Supervisor, Southern Enterprises theatres, Macon, Ga.

This "Old Oaken Bucket" lobby front was used by Guy Kennimer, manager of the Imperial theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.

Schenectady Merchants Help Albany Theatre Put Over Picture

Striking window decoration constituted a big feature in the exploitation campaign for "Over the Hill," at the Albany theatre, Schenectady, N. Y.

Nearly every display effected a tie-up with the particular line of merchandise dealt in. In the window of an electric appliance distributor was placed a large electric washing machine, a chair and a clothes tub. The rear of the window was covered with a scene painted by a local poster artist, and represented an old lady walking over the hill to the poorhouse. Cards were placed attractively about the exhibit.

In one window, which was used in its entirety without allusion to any store article, the two sides and rear were decorated with large scenes from the production. In the foreground were placed a number of stills and placards.

An attractive hand-drawn lobby poster on "The Glorious Fool" as used by the Merrill theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.

Greenman Gets Woolworth Aid on "Theodora"

A BALLYHOO and lobby display was no small part of the exploitation devised for "Theodora" when this picture played Fox's Liberty theatre, St. Louis.

Harry Greenman, manager of the Liberty, dressed a man in a lion head, with gloves resembling lion's claws, and had him led through the principal business and residence streets by a woman gotten up to resemble the famed Empress who sacrificed her empire for a moment of love.

The lobby decorations explained by the accompanying cut were arranged under Mr. Greenman's supervision. A tie-up with a local Woolworth store gave the showing much publicity through a window display.

Grauman Uses Novelty Ballyhoo for "Moran"

Even Sid Grauman is not above using the good old reliable ballyhoo, as is evidenced by the exploitation stunt he put over for "Moran of the Lady Letty," playing an indefinite engagement at Grauman's Rialto theatre, Los Angeles.

In the back seat of the cab, in plain view of the passer-by, as there is no top covering the seat, sits a young woman with bobbed hair and wearing a tam, a middie, and boy's trousers—the attire of Dorothy Dalton in "Moran of the Lady Letty."

Inscribed in gilt on the glass door of the cab are the words—"Moran of the Lady Letty."

That is all. The name of the theatre is not mentioned. But the course of the ancient automobile through the streets departs from the beaten paths of similar advertising methods. The cab is not driven continuously and aimlessly. Where parking is permitted, the machine is halted beside the curb while "Moran" sits nonchalantly in the rear seat. Invariably a crowd collects. At other times, she, assisted by the footman, steps to the sidewalk, where she will stand for a few moments—besides, riding in a cab from morning until evening is tiresome. At other times she will make a brief excursion into a shop or drug-store while the cab awaits outside.

Cleveland Neighborhood House Promote Singing Contests

Exhibitors in Cleveland are bolstering u their Mondays in the neighborhood houses wit a simple little stunt that Manager Taylor starte out at the Doan theatre. It's a local singin contest for the neighborhood children. It ha been worked in several sections and in ever instance it has materially increased the cas box. Monday being the poorest day of th week, the contest is usually staged for tha day. A prize of a five-pound box of candy i usually awarded the winner of the contest. Th audience is the judge. They signify their pref erence by applause. The child that gets th loudest applause gets the candy. However, a the other contestants get a one-pound box o candy. Five dollars covers the cost of th whole thing, and it brings in many times fiv dollars in added admissions.

Effective lobby poster arranged from a cut-ou and illuminated by two green lights which show from the dog's eyes which H. M. Rouda, man ager of the Auditorium, Dayton, O., arrange for the showing of "The Silent Call"

Lobby front on "The Lure of Jade" arranged by Guy Kenimer, manager of the Imperial theatre, Jacksonville, Fla.

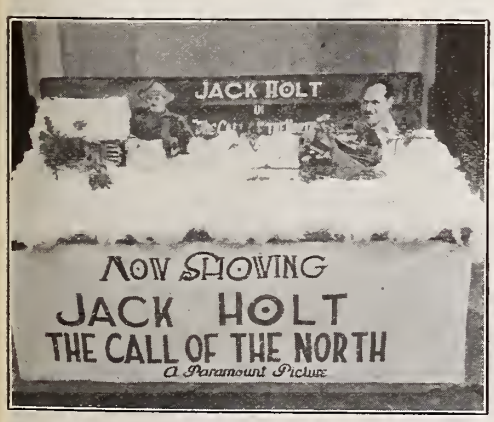
Cronk Uses Rival Attractions' Titles in Novel Ad.

For probably the first time, the manager of a theatre has used the titles of attractions at various rival theatres to attract interest to the feature which he, himself, is offering. An instance of this unique form of publicity occurred at Toronto, Ontario, during the week of February 27 when Manager Ben Cronk of the Allen theatre used the names of five other shows in newspaper advertisements to boost his own show, the feature of which was "What Do Men Want?" Two of the current show titles adapted were for road companies, including Frank Tinney's "Tickle Me" and William Gillette's "The Dream Maker." Other titles adapted were of pictures at opposition theatres and included "Dream Street" at the Regent theatre, "Silent Years" at Loew's theatre and "Rent Free" at the Strand theatre.

These captions were woven into a stunt advertisement which read as follows:

"TICKLE ME, said the DREAM MAKER of DREAM STREET but after living RENT FREE for SILENT YEARS, women are at last asking WHAT DO MEN WANT? They'll find the answer at the ALLEN THEATRE this week."

The publication of this display arrangement had the theatre-goers going over the whole amusement page of the newspapers.



This cut illustrates the accompanying story relative to the lobby display for "The Call of the North" arranged by Hugo Plath, manager of the Queen theatre, Abilene, Texas

Plath Builds Inexpensive Lobby Display

"THE CALL OF THE NORTH" stunt shown by the accompanying cut is another of the exploitation ideas of Hugo Plath of the Queen theatre, Abilene, Texas, and his capable house assistants, Jack Reed and Oscar Tuttle.

The cost of the whole display was $2.25, including the expense of the platform, cotton batting and artificial snow. A mirror furnished the "lake" shown, while the log cabin is an "Old Log Cabin" syrup advertisement made out of pasteboard and borrowed from a local grocer. The sign work is home talent and the trees were cedar tree branches stuck in the cotton.

Mother's Day Adapted to "Fool's Paradise" Showing

J. E. Madsen of the Idaho theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho, staged a "Mother's Day" stunt that interested everybody in town and helped put over "Fool's Paradise" with big receipts.

The idea was to admit free every newsboy escorting his mother to the show. The newsboys were interested through the circulation departments of the Twin Falls papers, and they came out 100 per cent. Each newspaper made up a set of admission cards, free of all cost to the theatre.

The stunt cost the Idaho theatre seventy-one passes and it was well repaid in business advertising and good will.

Beaver Board Pumpkin Exploits "Way Down East"

A seven-foot "pumpkin," made of beaver board and displayed from a third story window on a principal street, was the novel stunt which Manager H. Farley of the Empire Theatre, Montgomery, Ala., put over in exploiting his engagement of "Way Down East."

Mr. Farley also used an electric "pumpkin" under the marquee and an electric "Way Down East" sign across the strect under the theatre sign.

Heralds, window cards and door-knob hangers were also used.

Sea Going Gear Used for Lobby Decorations

"Moran of the Lady Letty," playing recently at the Plaza Theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla., was a picture for which Manager Richmond Dorman originated a lobby display which brought home the bacon.

Mr. Dorman tied up with one of the largest marine supply establishments in the state, to such good effect that the company loaned the theatre a truck load of such material as anchors, life rings, oars, rope in coils, fenders, steering gears, foghorns, bells, lights and other nautical material too numerous to mention.

The lobby was arranged in sea-going style. At night the port and starboard lights were lit, giving a splendid nautical effect to the display.

"The leading book store donated a window, in which Mr. Dorman arranged a display advertising the picture, giving the name of the theatre and play dates, as well as calling attention to the fact that the story of that thrilling tale of the sea from the pen of Frank Norris could be purchased inside.

"Mats were arranged so as to feature Valentino instead of Dalton."

The entire cost of exploitation on this subject totalled $2.50. This consisted of drayage of Explaining by cut the prologue number for "Peter Ibbetson," presented by the Majestic theatre, Madison, Wis.

Jazz Week Idea Tried at Indianapolis

LOEW'S STATE theatre in Indianapolis is going after business opening up a bag full of tricks in each program. To begin wi each week is named. First it was Anniversary Week, then Gala Wee Jazz Week and Caruso Week. The name of the week is exemplifi not only on the screen and stage but also in the printed programs, adv tising and practically everything connected with the house.

For instance, there was Jazz Week. The screen feature was "T Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." This was augmented an exclusively jazz accompaniment and a wild musical feature in whi seven singers, a marimbaphone, a saxophone, a xylophone and Loew jazz porters figured. The jazz porters did the old sweeping to mus stunt as an encore.

In further development of the bizarre program a vote on the popularit of the jazz music in preference to the classical numbers was take Cards on which a voting space was provided were passed out to t theatre patrons for the week. The vote was twelve to one in favor the jazz program.

Manager Herb Jennings is working up a mailing list for his week program by passing out folders containing a return postal to all patron More than 150 names were received the first day the folders were giv out and the patrons had to pay their own postage at that.

Blue Mouse Ties Up with Dog Derby

ROWE AND SOBELMAN, owners and operators of the Blue Mouse theatre, Minneapolis, secured an effective tie-up in putting over "A Doll's House." This despite the fact that Minneapolis experienced the worst snows and blizzards in years that week.

Much interest has been created in dog derbys which was accentuated by the annual dog derby put on for kids by a Minneapolis paper. Rowe and Sobelman saw the possibilities of tying up with the paper and hired a cameraman to "shoot" the race. The film was shown at the Blue Mouse that evening and the paper in running the story of the derby gave considerable mention to the theatre.

However, to secure the greatest returns from their tie-up the Blue Mouse managers arranged a special matinee for the youthful "mushers" and had an attendance of 100. The kids assembled at the newspaper office and with large banners advertising the picture attracted a great deal of attention as they paraded to the theatre. There were few kids in Minneapolis that didn't have their team of dogs, ranging from the alley mutt to the highly bred collie and real Eskimo dog, and with grown-ups keenly interested, a stunt of this nature was bound to attract attention. During the special matinee one of the "musher's" dog teams was used as an effective ballyho in front of the theatre.

In putting over the picture the house played up Henrik Ibsen and the play the picture was adapted from and received splendid co-operation from the Swedish newspapers in the city. Good reviews were given, following a special showing. In advertising the film sixty 24 sheets were used in desirable stands about the city.

Showing three of the Seattle theatres floats appearing in the "Go to Theatre Week" parade as decribed on the following page

Lobby display for "Conflict" when this picture played Hoyt's De Luxe Picadilly theatre, Sydney, Australia

Seattle's "Go to Theatre Week"

Big Cooperative Campaign Brings Greatly Increased Attendance

APPROXIMATELY seventy-five thousand persons witnessed the gigantic theatrical parade staged in Seattle a few weeks ago the crowning feature of "Go to Theatre ek." The parade was held at noon in the ntown district, and was considered directly onsible for a large part of the great at- lance at the theatres during the special week. Go to Theatre Week" was held in conjunc- with "First National Week" and L. O. an, general manager of the Seattle First Na- al exchange was chairman of the "Go to atre Week" committee. During the week newspapers of the city devoted a great unt of space to the event, and the first class theatres all cooperated in using newspaper and billboard space.

Each day a special decorative half-page or page ad was used, with the combined ads of the various motion picture, vaudeville and stock houses. "Go to Theatre" posters were used on all the billboards, heralds were distributed in the streets and tied onto automobiles and other vehicles, and all the theatres on their screen and in their advertising emphasized the "Go to the Theatre" idea. Various city officials and prominent business men were quoted in all the newspapers.

All the motion picture houses cooperating in the week gave special all-star shows, with elaborate prologues, musical features, and highest quality pictures, emphasizing the height of the art of the theatre.

The parade was the biggest event of the week. Each theatre in the downtown business district had from one to seven autos and decorated floats in line.

Numerous and valuable cash prizes were given for the best amateur and professional stunts in the parade, and anyone was eligible to enter. The streets were filled with Charlie Chaplin, Jackie Coogan and other film star imitators.

All theatres entered floats characteristic of the picture or feature playing at their house during the week. Practically all of the motion picture houses had their entire staff of employees in line, either riding or walking. Among the judges of the parade and prize entries were John Hamrick, of the Blue Mouse theatre; William Cutts of the Columbia theatre; Frank Steffy of the Coliseum theatre; and L. O. Lukan, of the First National exchange.

The accompanying photographs show some of the floats entered by motion picture houses.

Altogether, the "Go-To-The-Theatre Week" exploitation by the various managers of entertainment houses in Seattle was one of the biggest "weeks" ever held in that city, and succeeded in bringing large attendance to all the theatres.

ambulance with "Sir Boss" inside was the lyhoo used for the showing of "A Con- ticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" at the Rialto theatre, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Lobby decorations for "A Sailor Made Man" used by George Schade, manager of the Schade theatre. Sandusky, O.

Showing another of the pastel drawings by E. R. Rogers, managing director of the Tivoli theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn., as advance advertising for his showing of "Smilin' Thru"

Murray Uses Fiddlers for "Old King Cole"

C. E. Murray, house manager of the Vista theatre of East San Diego, Cal., pulled a good publicity stunt incident to the recent showing of "Old King Cole." He advertised for genuine "fiddlers," and offered a $5.00 gold piece for the one whom the audience should proclaim to be the best. The stunt stirred up the local artists of the bow and drew forth some really good talent besides giving the people of the town something to talk about in connection with the picture that was being shown.

Birthday Stunt Put Over Again

THE idea of sending a congratulatory card good for a free admission to people when their birthday comes around, described some time ago in these columns, as exploitation and institutional advertising, has been tried out with success by L. W. McCuan, manager of the Kozy theatre, Dresden, Tenn.

Mr. McCuan does not explain how he obtains the information necessary to put over this stunt, but we assume that it is through the birth certificate records, lodges, churches, etc., as has been explained previously.

Dancing in Lobby Lowell Strand Stunt

DANCING in the lobby of the theatre with music provided by the orchestra playing primarily for the pictures, as has been related a number of times in these columns, is being given a trial by Thomas D. Sororio, managing director of the Strand theatre, Lowell, Mass.

The carpets have been removed from the Strand lobby and corridors and the floors waxed for the dancers. The dancing will be allowed during the time the comedy pictures are running and the musical program for these periods will be selected with due regard for the lovers of terpsichore.

Allen Theatre, Winnipeg, Tries the Jazz Week Idea

A week's stunt that developed into a near riot was staged at the Allen theatre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, during the week of February 27 when an "All Jazz Week" was presented as a unique musical attraction. The special week was introduced to local fans in a unique newspaper advertisement which was, in itself, outstandingly attractive. This announcement told of the "35 Scintillating Stars of Syncopation in a Merry Melange of Mighty Melody and All Jazz Fiends," comprising "syncopaters" of the local Pals' Club. A feature of the week was the distribution of 20,000 kazoos among patrons and it was promised that "when they all get going, if they don't tickle your feet terpsichoreally, we'll miss our guess."

The jazz overture was presented with Charles Manning, the orchestra conductor, appearing in his shirt sleeves, the overture itself consisting of a medley of fox trots, jazz songs and "blues."

"She's going to be a mean week," read the advertisement. "See the Wild Drummer wickedly wielding a Weird Assortment of Tin Lizzies."

The spot-light man was also in on the game because he "jazzed" the shimmying spotlight during the musical and prologue numbers. There were "Dancers a la Frisco and Singers a la Sophie Tucker," the presiding artists giving impersonations of the famous comedians of music. In the "ad," the optiences were also exhorted to "See the Mad Musicians Mirthfully Mutilating the Melodious Classics."

The manager solemnly announced that "We teach you how to play the kazoo in one lesson."

Showing two of the attractive original lo posters used for the engagement of "Hail Woman" at the Circle theatre, Indianapoli

Simple Lobby Front Sells "Ladies Must Live"

The Stuart theatre, Wausau, Wis., v brightened up for the "Ladies Must Live" i through hand-drawn signs, cut-outs and boar

The box office was masked by six-sh frames decorated by mounted cut-outs and ha drawn art work. White and black were dominant tones of the three-sides marquee d play.

Penny Scramble Stunt to Exploit "White Horseman"

AS a means of getting crowded houses for the first episode of "The White Horseman" Manager Dudley of Dudley's opera house, Americus, Ga., threw 2,000 pennies out for a scramble and then with the help of his operator took pictures of the event to be shown on the screen the same day on which the serial opened.

The stunt went over in fine shape.

Three lobby displays which Frank Burns, manager of the Phillips theatre, Orlando, Fla., has recently originated. Left—Decorations on "The Old Nest." Center—Display for "The Three Musketeers." Right—Front for "Way Down East"

The cut shown above and the story appearing below will explain the "Saturday Night" lobby display arranged on this picture by the Rialto theatre, Macon, Ga.

rnival Idea Used to Exploit "Saturday Night" ie carnival idea was the angle which Oscar te, manager of the Rex theatre, Sumter, ., employed in exploiting his showing of turday Night."

art of the devices used in the Carnival lay were made in the Rex workshop, in- ing the merry-go-round, ferris-wheel, n-wave and many smaller miniature repro- ions one would see at a carnival. The y-go-round, ferris-wheel and ocean-wave e electrically driven by small sewing ma- e motors, borrowed from local electric s. These were kept running all the time ng the performances and attracted much ition. Practically all the devices were made eaver board and painted attractive colors.

nall tents were made by means of making nall framework of a tent and covering it ticking. This brought out the midway t and made the whole display stand out. ll dolls were purchased from the ten cent e and placed in front of each side show and he electrically driven devices.

is miniature carnival display was made on of three tables 3 x 4 feet and covered with and placed directly in front of the box e. Every one that passed the Rex stopped gave it the once over, thus creating a crowd ront of the theatre and causing many to go This display proved very successful and eased business considerably.

ne of the local newspapers gave Mr. White ry good write-up.

Lobby decorations on "Headin' West" used by the Standard theatre, Cleveland

Deardourff Gets Fine Co-operation at Youngstown

C. C. DEARDOURFF, publicity director for the Metro Film Exchange in Ohio, put over a nice co-operative advertisement in Youngstown in connection with "Peacock Alley," which held a simultaneous initial Ohio release at the Stillman theatre, Cleveland; Valentine, Toledo, and Dome, Youngstown. Deardourff tied up with one of the biggest department stores of Youngstown. In their Sunday ad in the Youngstown Vindicator of January 22, they featured ready-to-wear gowns, and used a cut of Mae Murray in a "Peacock Alley" gown as the only art work in the ad. It was classy and helped put the picture over.

Princess Builds Nice Lobby Front at Small Expense

The accompanying cut and the text following will explain the exploitation stunt which the Princess theatre, Eastland, Texas, devised for the engagement of "Get Rick Quick Wallingford."

The large sack effect was obtained by the use of beaver board and a paint brush. The vault doors were also of beaver board painted to look like the real thing.

The money sacks were borrowed from a local bank. The two boys were hired to guard the "money."

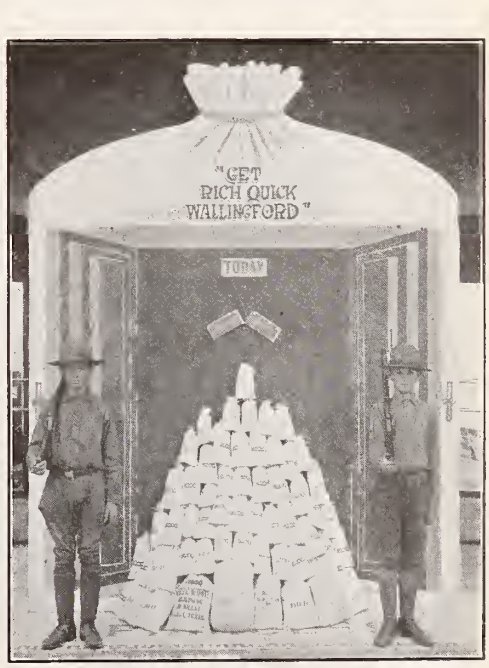
Cloakey Exploits "Three Live Ghosts" in Novel Way

Oral Cloakey of the Capitol theatre, Winnipeg, Manitoba, recently put over some exceptionally clever advertising for "Three Live Ghosts." Mr. Cloakey published an open letter over his own signature, in which he personally commended the feature and also ran special cartoon illustrations of three column size to attract attention. One illustration showed a small boy in high glee approaching his father with the exclamation, "Oh, Boy! I've just seen 'Three Live Ghosts' at th' Capitol."

"Over the Hill" Exploitation Tied Up With Municipal Election

Another new bit of exploitation for "Over the Hill," was introduced by the management of the Bijou theatre, Jamestown, N. Y., during a recent engagement.

The city elections were near at hand, so to more than five thousand potential patrons of the Bijou two cards were sent through the mails. One bore the following message: "Voters of Jamestown. I am a candidate for the title of 'the greatest mother in motion pictures.' After selecting your candidates at the Republican Primaries on Saturday you will be free to vote for an independent candidate. Ballots will be received Sunday at the opening of the Fox photoplay 'Over the Hill' at the Bijou theatre. Polls open from 1 to 11 p. m. Sincerely yours, Mary Carr." The other was in the form of a ballot.



Showing how the Princess theatre, Eastland, Texas, exploited "Get Rich Quick Wallingford"

Showing stage setting and characters appearing in a prologue for "Headin' West," presented by the Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.

McCormick Ties-up Jazz Week Idea with "Alf's Button"

Part of the genius of good exploitation often demands that the exploiter should supply something that can stand exploitation — in other words, the idea.

S. Barrett McCormick of the Allen theatre, Cleveland, O., did something like this when he initiated a "jazz" week for his house. The feature chosen for the week was "Alf's Button" and the remainder of the program, a Toonerville trolley comedy and other short subjects, was built up to maintain the "jazz" atmosphere.

The idea was carried out by "The Jazz Symphony" which the orchestra of 30 pieces played during the week.

This provided the material for exploitation and was followed up in the first instance by unusual advertising in which large type was used and in which the name of the theatre a feature picture were set at an angle of 45 degrees.

Special tableau were used, painted by Zimmerer, an artistic blending of futurist styles to harmonize with the jazz idea. There were three in all, labelled respectively "The Isle of Silver," "The Dream of Ponce de Leon," and "Earth, Hell and Heaven." Jazz singers contributed to the show, including: Irving Clark, Christine Marson from the Follies Bergere, Frankie James, Perez and Martinez and Baby Alice May Willey.

Snipers were pasted all over the town and the unusual captions on these miniature bill posters aroused attention. They read: "Fifty People in Fun and Frolic"; "Give the Blues the Air"; "Start the Joy Week at the Allen." Cartoons of joys chasing the glooms away featured the drawings.

Kazoos were distributed by means of an exploitation tie up with the Wurlitzer Company, who exploited the picture through their store. As a result it was possible for the audience to join in the refrain of a popular number of the bill with the singers.

The jazz idea was spread to the retail merchants and restaurants who joined in heartily and tied up with the Allen theatre on it. The point to the whole successful stunt

Tooker Gets Window Display for "Saturday Night"

The largest bath accessories house in Elmira, N. Y., tied up with George Tooker's Regent theatre for co-operative window, in which the inescapable relation between the title and the actual act of ablution was emphasized—in other words "Saturday Night" and a bath.

A six-sheet, stills and window cards made up the display.

Freckled Faced Kid Stunt Used for "Penrod"

GUY L. WONDERS, manager of the Baltimore Rivoli, learned there were many freckle-faced boys in Baltimore when playing "Penrod," and also made young America in Baltimore talk that much more of the picture.

The method of accomplishing his end was by advertising that any boy having 50 or more freckles would be admitted free at any matinee. The very first day of the two-week run of "Penrod" 200 claimants put in their appearance.

Throughout the run freckle-faced boys continued to patronize the show and there were many seen in the audience who were too bashful to inquire for the manager and paid their way in.

Balsey Does Effective "Peacoc Alley" Exploitation

Lee D. Balsey, manager of the Wich theatre, Wichita, Kansas, put over an exc tionally effective exploitation campaign in exhibition of "Peacock Alley," during its rec run at his theatre.

A careful mail campaign and a lot of tea advertising preceded the opening. The open was made into a gala occasion, due to a spec lobby display and prologue and a "peac matinee" for women. Most of the lead stores of the city were tied up in the adver ing, especially the stores that display wome gowns, jewelry and luxurics of all sorts.

A neat advertising card in Tiffany type v sent to a select list of 1,000 homes on Thursday preceding the Monday opening.

On Monday morning a night lettergram v delivered to 1,600 shriners and 400 Knights Columbus and to 200 homes.

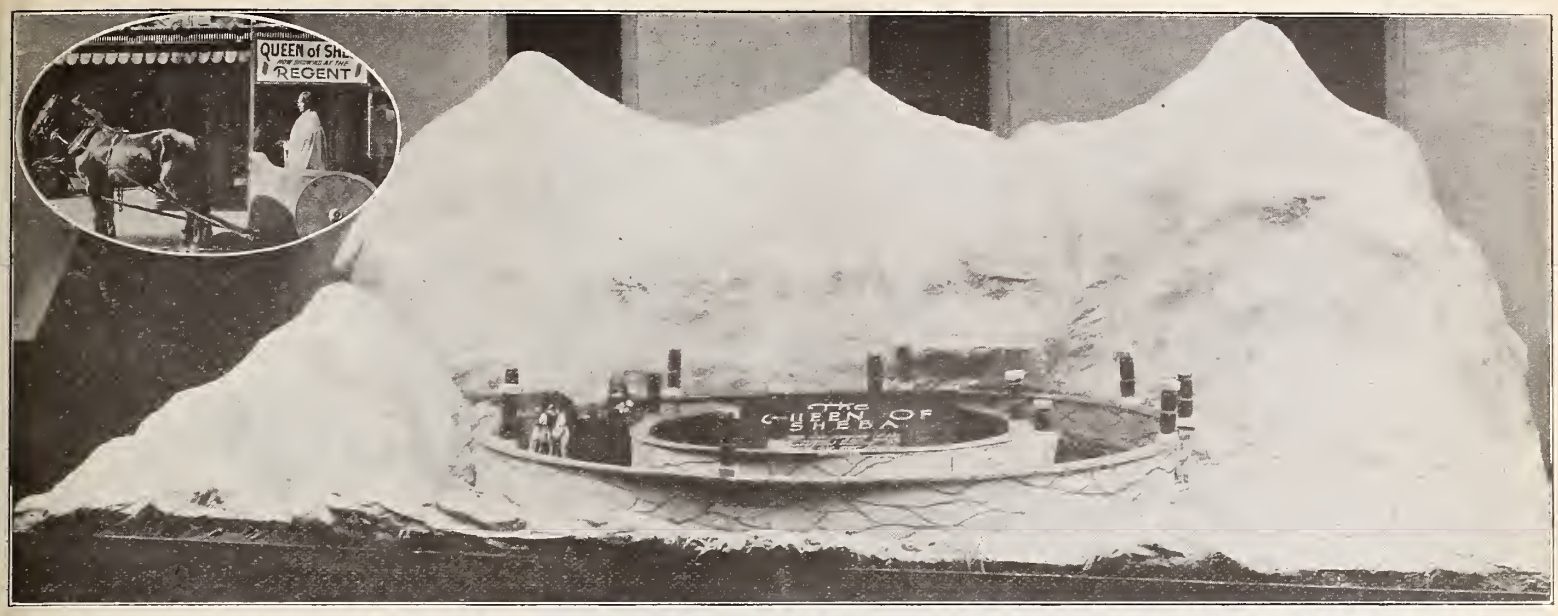
The merchants' tie-up was complete. Pict cut-outs taken from 24-sheets, 6-sheets and sheets were used, set on beaver board a shellacked. They stood out brilliantly in st windows. The shops advertised that they c ried gowns, jewelry, etc., of the sort worn Miss Murray in "Peacock Alley."

The most sensational tie-up was one with woman's gown store that supplied a model the theatre. The curtain was pulled, disclos a beautiful girl in a striking costume desig in the fashion of a frock worn by Miss Mur in the picture.

Another model, dressed in a gown desig from that worn by Miss Murray in the sc where she walks down Peacock Alley in picture, dominated a store window.

The peacock display was carried out in lobby and in the theatre.

Lobby decorations for "Cameron of the Royal Mounted" used by the Astor theatre, Minneapolis



Showing a window display and ballyhoo (insert) for "The Queen of Sheba" arranged for the run of this picture at the Regent theatre, Wichita, Kansas

Leaves Gloria's Calling Card with Regrets Expressed Thereon

Every residence in Dowagiac, Michigan, was visited by Gloria Swanson, who was sorry to find everybody out. However, she left her calling card with a little personal notation that read:

"Dropped in to see you, but you were out. See me in 'Don't Tell Everything' at the Century theatre, Monday.—Gloria."

The card was printed with fancy letters, so that it simulated an engraved calling card. The pen and ink notation was made at the theatre. Butchers and grocers helped the stunt along distributing the cards free. A few youngsters were bribed with passes to supplement this distribution.

Cumberland Theatre Presents "School Days" Prologue

The Crandall-Strand theatre of Cumberland, Maryland, tied up with the local schools in the presentation of "School Days."

Robert Sloth, local manager, put over a school playlet in connection with the regular show and had eight school children cast in speaking parts.

Town Hall Week "His Nibs" Stunt at the Allen, Cleveland

IN addition to an extensive exploitation campaign, S. Barrett McCormick, managing director of the Allen theatre, Cleveland, originated some presentation numbers that had no small part in the success of the recent engagement of "His Nibs" at the Allen.

McCormick featured the engagement as TOWN HALL WEEK. He had a regular rube prologue, with country dances, country costumes and country humor. All the ushers were dressed in calico aprons and sun bonnets. The doorman wore a loud checkered shirt, broad suspenders, wide, long trousers, and a wide-brimmed straw hat. In addition to a regular vaudeville show that lasted an hour, Louise Fazenda made a "personal appearance" in costume, which fitted right into the general scheme of things. The show ended with the chorus girls, the ushers and Miss Fazenda throwing popcorn balls to the audience from the aisles of the theatre. Over 12,000 popcorn balls were distributed free at each performance. The public ate the show up.

School Room Lobby Front for "Peck's Bad Boy"

IN exploiting "Peck's Bad Boy" at the Strand theatre, Gaffney S. C. Manager E. C. Kingman used a "policeman and boy" ballyhoo and built an attractive lobby display.

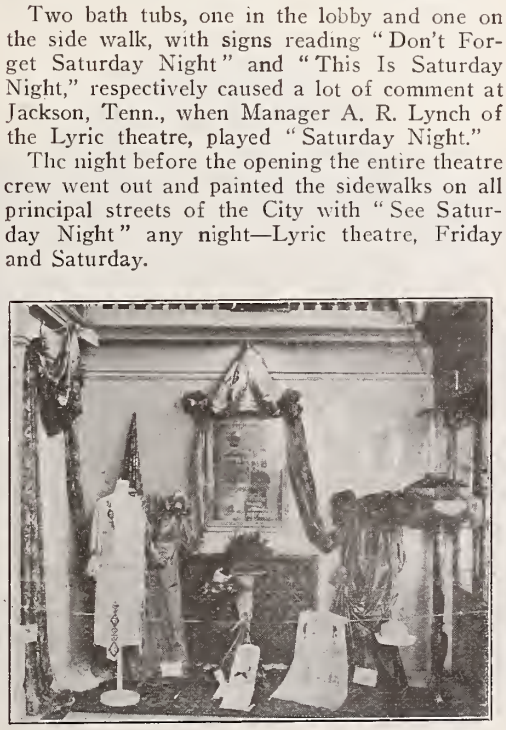
The front of the theatre was arranged to represent a school room, with desks, chairs, blackboards, books, windows and other school room fixtures. Across the top of the entrance hung a large sign with Coogan's name and the title of the picture spelled with the letters turned backwards.

Manager Kingman states that this stunt cost only $2.60 and put the picture over wonderfully. Practically all of the school room scenery had been used on a previous occasion and Manager Kingman thought it a good idea to use it in this instance.

"Saturday Night" Bathtub Cause Curious to Comments

Two bath tubs, one in the lobby and one on the side walk, with signs reading "Don't Forget Saturday Night" and "This Is Saturday Night," respectively caused a lot of comment at Jackson, Tenn., when Manager A. R. Lynch of the Lyric theatre, played "Saturday Night."

The night before the opening the entire theatre crew went out and painted the sidewalks on all principal streets of the City with "See Saturday Night" any night—Lyric theatre, Friday and Saturday.



Showing a style show display in the lobby of the Palace theatre, Hamilton, O., used as a prologue for "Peacock Alley"

Race Track Used for Street Ballyhoo for "Thunderclap"

A jockey astride a horse obtained from a near-by racing stable constituted the street ballyhoo used by the Terminal theatre, Newark, N. J., during the recent run of "Thunderclap."

On both sides of the horse, hanging from the saddle, were large banners announcing the date the production was scheduled for showing and the name of the theatre. The horse was permitted to show his speed as he was guided through the main thoroughfares of the city. The stunt drew large throngs wherever it was shown, and helped swell the coffers of the theatre during the run.

Johnson Used City Directory to Good Advantage

Manager Herb Johnson, in exploiting "The Lotus Eater" at the Luna theatre, Lafayette, Ind., for three days resorted to the old reliable City Directory and circular letters in putting the picture across. From the Directory he obtained the names of the active business men of the city. Then he prepared circular letters addressed to "The Tired Business Man."

Lollypops Solve the Noisy Boy Problem

A SIMPLE and inexpensive method of quieting the small boy element in his theatre during the showing of dramatic and thrilling scenes has been discovered by A. M. Small, manager of the New Franklin Theatre, Franklin, Ohio, as the result of an experiment he made during the showing of "The Forbidden Thing."

He purchased several gross of lollypops and presented each boy with one. It was a treat for the kids and Small soon found that the candy distribution was bringing him new business. When the stirring climax was flashed upon the screen, the usual noises of approbation were conspicuous by their absence. Instead of the loud hand-clapping and stamping of feet there emanated from the seats down front a chorus of suppressed and delighted gurgles.

The taffy-on-the-stick distribution now continues at Small's theatre each day. He figures that he has killed two birds with one stone.

"Playing With Fire" lobby decorations used by the Palace theatre, Macon, Ga.

"Sandwich Men" Idea for "A Sailor Made Man"

The unemployed sandwichman stunt which has been going the rounds has been used successfully by Manager L. T. Lester of the Rivoli theatre, Columbia, S. C.

The picture was "A Sailor-Made Man," and Manager Lester employed six men who had been out of work and were in desperate straits. He dressed them in the regulation uniform of the navy—blue blouses, and heavy "pea-jackets" which were quite appropriate on one of the coldest days of the season in Columbia.

These men carried a banner, dark blue and scarlet letters on a white back-ground, which advertised the picture, and carried the line that this exploitation stunt was "doing its bit" to help the unemployed.

Patrons Presented with Valentino Photos as Exploitation

The Grand theatre, Greensburg, Pa., had the right idea for popularizing Rudolph Valentino when it played "The Sheik." They distributed 1,500 still photographs of the artist as souvenirs.

Makes Jungle of Lobby Entrance for "Tarzan"

MANAGER C. S. TRAVIS of the York theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn., exploited the opening episodes of "The Adventures of Tarzan" by decorating the whole front of the theatre with canebrake, thus giving a very realistic jungle scene. Blue lights were used in the back of the display at night, giving a very beautiful appearance.

Ingenuity and Sixty-five Cents Produce Fine Lobby Display

The sales methods which Manager G. M. Phillips of the Rialto theatre, Columbus, Ga. employed for his showing of "The Law and the Woman" were economic to the nth degree.

At a cost of sixty-five cents, Mr. Phillips arranged a "scales of Justice" in his lobby. On one side of the scale pan was the cut-out of a woman. On the other, a law book was placed. The scale was so adjusted that the woman outweighed the law.

Overhead on a wire were cut-out letters announcing the star and the title of the picture.

Miller's "Homespun Vamp" Lobby Front

Manager Frank Miller, of the Rialto theatre, Augusta, Ga., made good use of the atmosphere suggested by the title, when he played "A Homespun Vamp" for a two-day run recently.

The lobby was transformed, by use of "canvas flats," into a grove of trees. These masked the entire lobby, leaving only a narrow entrance and exit on either side of the box-office.

At one side, down-stage, was an old well, the rope to the bucket much mended and showing signs of hard wear. The bucket itself was warped and worn. At the other side, an old wash-tub, half-filled with soapy water, and in which real clothes were soaking, occupied the center of a cleared space. A worn old rub-board, with a half-used cake of yellow laundry soap, stood in the tub. Beside it was an old-fashioned iron pot, such as is used in the country to boil clothes. This was perched on bricks and a fire laid, as if ready for lighting, beneath it.

Back of the well, a little to the upper left of the lobby, was an old-fashioned "saw-horse," holding half of a pine log, a saw leaning against it, saw-dust sprinkled beneath it, and an armful of wood, already split up for use, beside it.

Across the front of the lobby stretched a clothesline, and on it, hung to dry, were six garments flapping in the breeze. To each of these garments black cut-out letters had been fastened, spelling the words "May McAvoy in 'A Homespun Vamp.'"

Local Five-and-Ten Cooperates With Halloway

Manager I. C. Holloway, of the Palace theatre, Macon, Ga., used a scene from "Playing With Fire" for a lobby display idea when he played this picture.

He arranged his lobby to represent the music department of a 5 and 10 cent store, a neat tie-up resulting between the local 5 and 10 cent stores and the theatre management. The store furnished sheet music in large quantities, a cash register and a counter, also a piano for the display. The services of one of the young ladies from the store was also loaned to the theatre. This young lady was dressed to represent Gladys Walton. She played the piano and sold music in the lobby, similarly to the way in which Gladys Walton does in this picture.

Lobby decorations on "Saturday Night" arranged for the recent showing at the Rex theatre, Sumpter, S. C.

wo of a number of window displays on "A Connecticut Yankee" put over for the recent showing of this picture at the De Luxe theatre, Utica, N.Y.

Snipes Busses and Attracts Rural Residents

Every automobile bus that traveled over the rds around Canandaigua, N. Y., for a week b ore the run of "Over the Hill," at the Lib- ey theatre, carried large banners on both front a l rear, advertising the engagement.

More than twenty of these conveyances were d patched with signs, and in this way the man- gement of the theatre notified many patrons i neighboring communities of his coming at- t ction.

A banner about forty feet in length was sus- ended from posts erected on both sides of the s eet in front of the Liberty. This was easily v ible for blocks, and compelled all who passed t take notice. Being on the main thorough- fre of Canandiagua, every automobilist on his w y from one town to another was informed, v a the sign, of the advent of "Over the Hill."

A number of store windows were decorated w th placards and water-colored stills.

'Spoofy" Steps Out of Picture nd Does His Street Promenade

"Spoofy," the nut of "Three Live Ghosts" d his tricks on the streets of Toronto, when e picture played at Pantages.

He walked down the business streets pushing baby carriage and dragging a live sheep by enormous rope. He crossed the streets mid- ocks, dodged traffic and did everything to rry out his game of appearing to be out of s head. There was a sign on the sides of the ggy and he distributed little calling cards, th sides of which had the same text. It was: am Spoofy. One of the "Three Live Ghosts." eet me and the other two at Pantages theatre.

ffective "Connecticut Yankee" Campaign at Utica

A STREET parade and a series of special window displays featured the publicity campaign for "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," at the De Luxe theatre, Utica, N. Y.

The street bally-hoo consisted of four motorcycled "knights" each attired in imitation of "Sir Sagramore" of the picture and carrying banners and spears. The motorcycles were obtained through a tie-up with a local dealer and by running several slides advertising the motorcycles on the screen of the De Luxe.

Window displays were erected in drug stores, toggery shops and millinery stores.

Local Tie-ups One of Bain's Best Bets

D. M. BAIN, exploitation chief for the Howard-Wells Theatres in Wilmington, N. C., is working the merchant tie-up feature regularly these days, pulling one about every three weeks, using, of course, a different contest angle occasionally to keep the thing from growing stale.

The latest was pulled for "Fool's Paradise," ten merchants advertising copy appearing on a full page. In each individual advertising space was a thumb-nail scene from the picture with a couple of lines of seat-selling copy, making the page just as effective as an entire page ad. for the picture.

Bain gets two whacks at the public on each one, publishing the first Sunday the prize offers and sample ads., following up the next Sunday with the prize winning ads. (this one having been an ad-writing contest which developed some exceptionally clever copy). It only cost thirty-six tickets to put the whole thing over.

Ballyhoo for "Connecticut Yankee" put over for the showing at the Lyric theatre, Cincinnati

"Purps" Used as Lobby Display on "Nobody's Kids"

Manager L. M. Caddison of the Vance theatre, Asheville, N. C., demonstrated his knowledge of human nature when he arranged his lobby for the showing of "Nobody's Kid."

The center of the lobby was fenced in, leaving a narrow entrance and exit on either side. Inside this enclosure he had a bunch of six weeks old collie puppies, frisking and playing joyously.

Over this enclosure was a sign which read: "These puppies are nobody's kids, but think how everybody's kids would love them!"

Needless to say, since all the world loves a dog, apparently, the lobby attracted quite a bit of attention, and was crowded throughout the run—and business was very good.

"Golden Trail" Recalls Pre-Volstead Days

Manager Thomas Mousson, of the Rialto theatre, Nashville, Tenn., used a saloon display with good results on the "Golden Trail." Real whiskey bottles and old friendly labels caused much amusement, as did the lively card signs shown in the picture. And there were two real beer kegs. A dummy functioned well as bartender, with a wig and mask and old clothes. A big bearskin over the ticket booth added a northern touch.

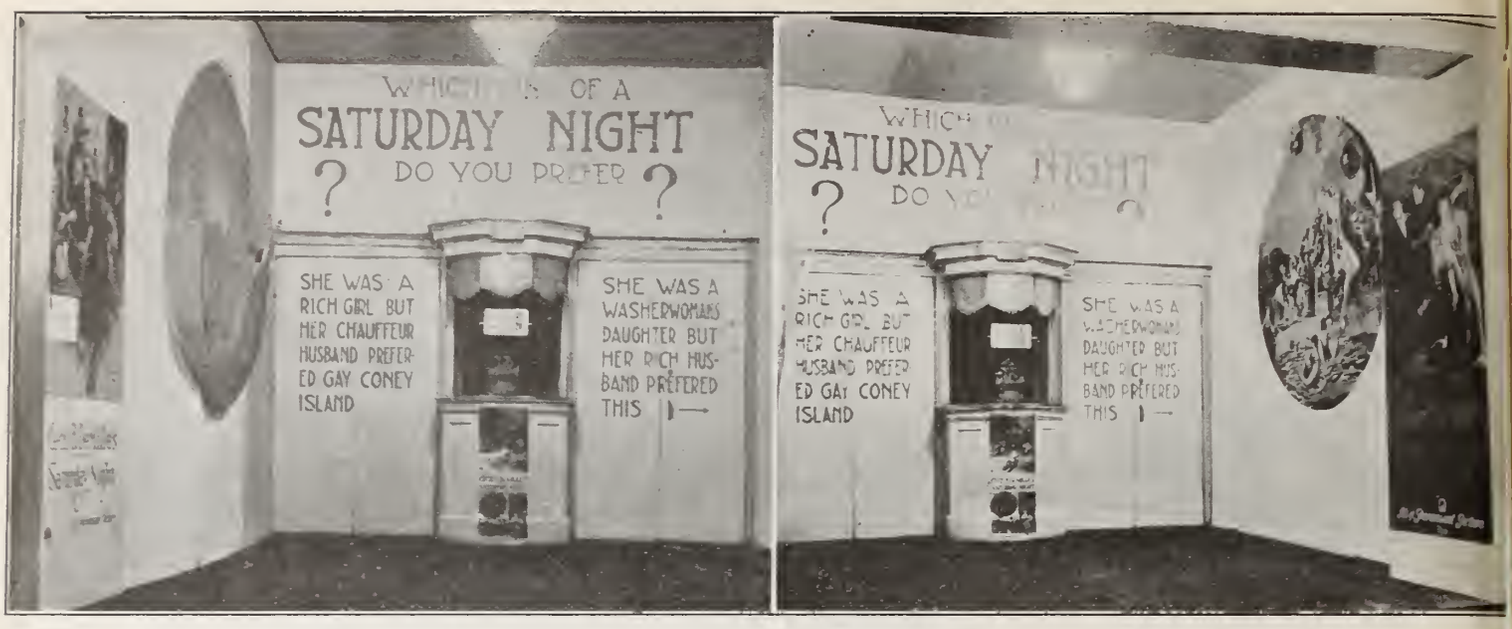
Mounted Knight for "Connecticut Yankee" Showing

THE management of the Lyric Theatre, Wichita, Kans., in exploiting "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," deviated a bit from the beaten path by using horses instead of motor-cycles for his street bally-hoo.

The campaign was inaugurated with a series of printed postcards mailed to more than 5,000 potential patrons and a cleverly planned teaser advertisement in the daily newspapers.

Into the street was sent a "knight of the Round Table," attired in a coat of mail, breast armor, and a helmet with a vizor covering the entire face. But instead of driving a motor-cycle—which most exhibitors have effectively utilized—the "knight" was carried about by a horse.

On the sides of the horse, suspended from the saddle, were two banners announcing the theatre and the production.



SATURDAY NIGHT
DO YOU PREFER
SHE WAS A RICH GIRL BUT HER CHAUFFEUR HUSBAND PREFERED GAY CONEY ISLAND
SHE WAS A WASHERWOMANS DAUGHTER BUT HER RICH HUSBAND PREFERED THIS SATURDAY
SHE WAS A RICH GIRL BUT HER CHAUFFEUR HUSBAND PREFER ED GAY CONEY ISLAND

Showing the two sides and front of the lobby display which Floyd D. Marrow, manager of the Nelson theatre, Fairmount, W. Va., built for l engagement of "Saturday Night"

"What No Man Knows" Gets Novel Campaign in Texas

A contest, in which a page of coopcrative ads figured prominently was the scheme that E. J. Barnette, manager of the Victory theatre, Waco, Texas, evolved for his engagement of "What No Man Knows."

The local merchants worded their ads so as to answer an implied question suggested by the title of the picture.

Mr. Barnette invited Waco people to write a better answer concerning the various products advertised than had the creators of the displays. A prize of ten dollars and free passes to the Victory were awarded to the winners.

This Lobby Tells Everything About "Don't Tell Everything"

The Palace theatre, Racine, Wis., got out a wallboard lobby for "Don't Tell Everything" that is almost a model of non-atmospheric dress.

The scheme was huge panels of white, red, and black, the borders checkered. There were hand-drawn drawings of Gloria Swanson, and Wallace Reid and Elliott Dexter on the front. The interior walls were simply gigantic mounts for stills.

"The Sheik" was exploited in this manner when it played the Palace theatre, Muskogee, Okla., managed by Ollie Brownlee

Cooperative Ads Used on "One Glorious Day"

MANAGER W. A. DOSTER of the Strand Theatre, Montgomery, Ala., tied up with a number of local merchants in selling "One Glorious Day." A cooperative newspaper display carried the theatre's billing and the merchant's advertising under the heading of "One Glorious Day of Bargains."

The ad. was featured in the afternoon papers the day before the feature opened at the Strand.

Nice Lobby Decorations Help Sell "Theodora"

A herd of ten roaring lions, cut out of 24-sheet posters, mounted on cardboard were placed on top of the marquise of the Jackson theatre, York, Pa., as an exploitation stunt for "Theodora." At night the top of the marquise was flooded by three 200-watt red lights so that the stunt was just as valuable at night as in the day time.

The idea was originated by Saul Silver, sent by Goldwyn to York especially to exploit the screening of "Theodora." With the cooperation of Manager F. E. Barry a most effective theatre front display was provided, the lions above the marquise, a 25-foot banner beneath. In the entrance-way were frames of colored enlargements. A mounted cut-out head of Rita Jolivet was mounted at each end of the big banner.

A street stunt that was used on Saturday preceding the opening and on Monday, the first day of the screening, was an imitation lion cage. Mr. Silver and Mr. Barry got a motor truck and out of beaverboard constructed a cage, with bars painted on either side, and two small barred windows at the rear. On each side of the cage the head of a lion from the 6-sheet poster was pasted. A large banner was strung along either side. Inside the cage was a boy who drew a heavily resined cord across a tin pail with a hole in it, giving forth the deep bass roar of a lion. This "circus wagon" attracted all sorts of attention.

Window displays were obtained in six big windows in furniture and department stores.

Jack Holt Peeks from Cornin Taxi Window

Fred Gerber, the Corning (N. Y.) impr sario, got out a ballyhoo that had a beer pri and a champagne effect for "The Call of t North," playing at the Liberty theatre.

A Ford sedan was commandeered, and poster cut-out of Holt peeked from every wi dow. One-sheets on both sides of the car a a canvas banner got over the details of t run. Gerber got hold of an old-fashioned bea rug which he threw over the top of the c The ballyhoo was inelaborate and inexpensi but attracted attention, and that's what a ball hoo's for.

Auto Ballyhoo Used for "Th Idle Class"

To put over "The Idle Glass," George Re manager of the Forum theatre, Hillsboro, Ohi used an automobile street ballyhoo and distri uted heralds throughout the town and su rounding country. The lobby of his theatre w filled with large cut-outs of Chapin and R several days in advance of the showing.

This cut is explained by the accompanying sto relative to the window display on "Saturda Night" secured for the showing of this pictu at the Regent theatre, Elmira, N. Y.

Showing a view of the prologue number which E. R. Rogers, managing director of the Tivoli theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn., presented in connection with his showing of "School Days"

Norwich Introduced to Exploitation

Davis of Colonia Theatre Stirs Up York State Town

EXPLOITATION, the Colonia theatre and First National Week all went on the map in Norwich, N. Y., a town of 8,000, through a simple but intensive and effective campaign that introduced showmanship to the town and offered a new conception of the functions of a motion picture theatre to its community.

Prior to the advent of First National Week the town had been accustomed to choosing its amusements in haphazard fashion. Ben Davis, newly appointed manager of the Colonial, started interest by getting the co-operation of the local paper in organizing a local movie. "Go to the Colonia Week" was promptly organized through a popularity contest in which patrons had the right to vote for the elect feminine leading lady from the community.

Then First National Week came along. For perhaps the first time in the city's history billboard advertising was used. Davis found ten he wanted and obtained them. For the rest of his billboard advertising he pasted 24 sheets on the theatre's one truck and made that do service.

The programs for two weeks in advance of First National Week were printed on First National anniversary heralds, a unique, simple but effective method of announcing the coming event.

A "puddle jumper" was introduced for street ballyhoos, in other words, an Overland car, dressed up with music, posters and men who were adept at landing throwaways in people's arms. On the principal streets walked the town's Beau Brummel, dressed up in Prince Albert, cane, silk hat and rubbers—a regular sandwich man. He changed his garb daily to conform with the change of program.

Store tie ups constituted an important part of the exploitation. On "Jim the Penman" a tie up was arranged with a fountain pen store, on "Tol'able David" with a hardware store; on "The Golden Snare" with a sporting goods store selling skiis, snow shoes, etc. The tie up extended beyond window displays. Davis arranged on the first two days for Kandyland, the leading confectioner in the city, to give away candy to patrons as an advertising stunt for his business; on Wednesday pens, pencils and rulers were given away; on Thursday and Friday, a cash prize and on Saturday numerous articles of merchandise that had been contributed by retailers as an advertising stunt, were given away.

The important fact about the whole campaign was that, for its size, Norwich had never been giving its motion picture theatres the support they were entitled to. Davis' campaign not only put over First National Week, but also brought the lure of screen entertainment before the fans in a manner that is not likely to be forgotten for a long while to come.

"One Horse Sleigh" Ballyhoo

THE jingling bells of a one-horse sleigh announced to the inhabitants of Lewistown, Pa., that "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" was coming to the Pastime theatre for a four-day engagement.

On the driver's seat sat a man attired as the "Sir Boss" of the picture, with silk hat, moustache, rolled trousers, exposed garters, and bearing a long sceptre. Around the body of the horse and in the hands of the driver were the bells. Attached to the sides of the sleigh were large canvas signs identifying both picture and theatre.

The management of the Pastime, in addition to the novel variation of the old street ballyhoo, conducted a contest in conjunction with a local newspaper. Prizes of free tickets to the show were awarded to the newspaper readers who wrote the best 200-word essays on the life of Mark Twain.

Turns Lobby Into Junk Heap for "Idle Rich"

A method of exploitation for "The Idle Rich" has been devised by A. L. Selig, publicity director of the Odean Theatre, Savannah, Ga., that should appeal to every exhibitor who desires results at small expense—$1.00 in Mr. Selig's case.

Here is Mr. Selig's own account of the stunt, as he reported it to Lem Stewart, exploitation director for the Southern Enterprises houses:

"I had the porter of the theatre get out all the junk we had in the cellar, broken chairs, cast iron sides, old rubber hose, etc., and piled them in the lobby in a heap. I then had a one-sheet sign painted, reading, 'Come in and see how Bert Lytell made money out of Junk.'

"The fact that the always ornate and neat appearing Odean lobby was littered with this mass of junk at once attracted the passer-by and they stopped to find out the reason.

"The total cost of this little exploitation stunt was just the cost of having the sign made—about $1.00. And it brought the people into the theatre."

This cut shows the ballyhoo which the Pastime theatre, Lewistown, Pa., used to sell "A Connecticut Yankee" to the local fans

This ballyhoo was used to help sell "Wild Honey" at the Central theatre,

Miller Puts Over Fine Display on "Midnight"

Manager Frank Miller, of the Rialto theatre, Augusta, Ga., capitalized the title of his picture, and sought a means of arousing the interest and curiosity of his prospective customers, by building a huge "clock" in the main lobby, for his two-day run of "Midnight."

The face of the clock was of white pebbled art-cardboard, and the lettering, as well as the hands of the clock, were deep, rich blue. Beginning with the roman numerals of the clock, the face was lettered—or "figured"—like a clock of the "alarm" variety. Beneath each figure, was a still from the picture, with a word beneath it. Thus, "1 o'clock" was represented by the roman letter one, with a still showing a tense scene from the picture, beneath it the word "Action." "Two o'clock" was the figure, and a still of the love-scene with the word "Romance." And so it went around the clock-face, the eleven words from one o'clock to midnight, being "Action," "Romance," "Thrills," "Adventure," "Beauty," "Youth," "Suspense," "Doubt," "Intrigue," "Love," and "Excitement," the whole being summed up by the one word, "Entertainment," this word being beneath the figure "twelve," where the hands of the clock were locked, to signify "Midnight."

In the center of the clock's face, was a cut-out from a one sheet of the face of the star, Constance Binney, and the clock was big enough to fill the entire lobby, merely leaving a narrow entrance and exit on either side, and plainly visible on the opposite side of even one of the widest streets in America—Broad street, Augusta, Ga.

Gibson Entertains Old Folks' Home Inmates

Malcolm Gibson, manager of the Mozart theatre, Elmira, N. Y., showed "Forever" to a special audience composed of inmates of all the principal charitable institutes, such as the orphans' homes, homes for aged, and the city farm.

The public charges were treated with the utmost courtesy and appeals were issued through the newspapers for donations of automobiles to carry them to and from the theatre.

The orchestra and participants in the prologue, while not engaged for the morning showing, volunteered their services to give the guests a full-sized treat.

Such a stunt met with editorial endorsement and free reader space from the newspapers.

Clergymen Help Skinner on "Creation"

WHEN you can get ministers in the community to boost your show the millennium has about arrived, but that is just what Arthur L. Skinner, manager of the Victoria theatre in Buffalo, accomplished when he showed "Creation," the first of the stories founded on the Bible. Mr. Skinner made a personal call on the pastors in the district surrounding the Victoria and invited them to a special screening of the picture. Later he made another personal visit and asked them to mention the showing before their congregations. Sure enough they did and "Creation" got a boost from the pulpits on the same Sunday that it opened at the Victoria. Mr. Skinner is now making plans to show the second release, "Cain and Abel," which he will also screen for the ministers.

Beckerich Entertains Buffalo Newsies

AL BECKERICH, manager of the Loew State, Buffalo, has been unusually successful in putting on special shows in co-operation with the local newspapers. These shows not only bring the big house much valuable front page publicity, but aid in increasing the popularity of the theatre.

Last week, Miriam Battista appeared in person at the State in connection with "At the Stage Door," and one of the big exploitation stunts put on in advertising the attraction was the newsboys party arranged by Mr. Beckerich and the Buffalo Evening News with Miriam as the chief entertainer and "At the Stage Door," as the "Big Extry." Exactly 4,206 youngsters crowded into the theatre and it is an interesting fact to note that at the end of the show this waste kid army left through the 36 exits in 2½ minutes, which performance brought forth the congratulations of Fire Chief Murphy. The News used two column stories on page one every day during the week of the party, which was held Saturday morning so that those who attended school could get in on the event.

Mr. Beckerich has tied up with the newspapers on many other occasions. He recently gave a special performance for the benefit of the Buffalo Enquirer Cheer Fund. A free show was put on a few days ago for the inmates of the Crippled Children's Guild.

Plath Sponsors Another Novelty Lobby Ballyhoo

Way down in the little town of Abilene, Texas, Hugo Plath, a high powered showman at the helm of the Queen theatre, keeps pounding out new ideas and lobby stunts in miniature with such regularity that the people of the city have got into the habit of walking by the theatre every day to see what's new out in front of the box office. Recently it was a number of things on "The Sheik," "Way Down East" and then a miniature oil drill on "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" and a railway locomotive on "The Iron Trail," with sand paper wheels which revolved and gave a "chug chug" effect that attracted attention. The latest of Plath's tricks is the duplication of a whiskey still in miniature to call attention to the Educational comedy "Moonshine," which he played in addition to "The Call of the North." Mr. Plath is planning a big spring style show in conjunction with his showing of "Saturday Night" and expects to show the town the last word in local pomp and display when the big event comes off.

Has Street Parade on "Sailor Made Man"

In exploiting "A Sailor-Made Man" at the T. D. & L. Strand theatre of Pasadena, Calif., Manager William A. Haas, lined up a real old-fashioned street parade. First came the Pasadena High School military band of thirty pieces, followed by an auto containing the Strand's usherettes dressed as sailor girls, with impersonators of Harold Lloyd and Mildred Davis riding the hood of the car. Following were one hundred boys with the Harold Lloyd "Sailor-Made Man" white navy hats, an exploitation accessory put out by Associated Exhibitors and available at all Pathe Exchanges. Bringing up the rear was the Strand's press car, covered with lithos of Harold Lloyd. The line of march covered the principal business streets of Pasadena for an hour, counter marching from the Strand theatre, east and west.

Clanging Bell at Midnight Hour Prepares Town for Ray's Picture

The clanging of a bell at midnight disturbed the residents of one of the fashionable sections of Sandusky, recently. Men, women and children left their beds to gaze into the darkness.

The next night, at midnight, of course, similar clanging aroused the residents of another part of the city, and the next night, of still another part.

It was George Schade's advance exploitation for "A Midnight Bell," which was booked for the Schade theatre.

Mr. Schade had a signal bell, borrowed from the owner of a ferryboat at winter quarters in Sandusky Bay, set upon the rear seat of a Ford.

A moment or two before midnight the Ford was driven into the locality selected for the excitement. The midnight hour arrived and the bell clanged.

As soon as there were indications that the neighborhood had been aroused, or there was reason to believe that it was on the verge of being aroused, the auto would be driven away.

Not more than one locality was ever "worked" the same night.

The mysterious and more or less "spooky" midnight bell got to be the talk not only of Sandusky, but the country surrounding.

The Sandusky newspapers printed "mystery" yarns about it, all of which helped to fill the Schade when George finally announced the picture's title and dates.

Grocery Store Lobby Helps Contrell Sell "Peck's Bad Boy"

Manager Contrell, of the Rex theatre, Nashville, Tenn., used a grocery store lobby and a good ballyhoo on "Peck's Bad Boy," during his recent engagement. The lobby was effective with shelves of borrowed groceries and boy and cop cutouts. But more business was drawn by ballyhoo over the down-town streets, a big cop chasing a ragged urchin, both wearing announcement cards and the bluecoat shooting fireworks at the "bad boy" and making dire threats as to what he would do to him if caught. This diversion entertained the crowds of Xmas shoppers and drew good business to the Rex for three days.

Fine "Sheba" Lobby Used at Butte

BUTTE, Mont., was introduced to "Queen of Sheba," by means of one of the most attractively arranged lobby displays ever attempted by the management of the Ansonia theatre, where the picture played an extended engagement.

The lobby proper reflected the atmosphere of the drama, with its beaver-board covered ticket office, its luxuriant array of palms and ferns, and framed tills and pastels. The marquis was unique in design. Pillars of wood, painted to represent the architecture of the time of the story, were planted at the corners of the marquis as if in support. Large framed signs covered the sides and their lettering of the words "Queen of Sheba" were such as to carry the Babylonian suggestion.

Resting above the marquis and facing the street was a large oval cardboard cut-out of the chariot race in the big production.

PROGRAMS FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 11TH

With First Run Theatres

WIRE REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK CITY

Rialto Theatre—

Overture—"Irish Rhapsody," by Rialto Orchestra.
Current Events—Rialto Magazine.
Feature—Travelin' On—William S. Hart.
Added Attraction—The Mistress of the World—Number two—The Race for Life.

Rivoli Theatre—

Overture—"If I Were King," by Rivoli Orchestra.
Novelty—"The Yellow Girl"—Vitagraph.
Vocal—"Drinking Song" from "Hamlet," by George Richardson, baritone.
Feature—Bought and Paid For—Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt.
Instrumental—Original Piano Trio—Edgar Fairchild, Herbert Clair, George Dilworth, presenting "Bimini Bay" and "Chanson Dansante."
Added Attraction—The Mistress of the World—Number two—The Race for Life.

Mark Strand Theatre—

Overture—"Second Hungarian Rhapsody," by Strand Symphony Orchestra.
Scenic—Emerald Isle—Kineto.
Vocal—"That Little Town in the Old County Down," sung by Colin O'More.
Current Events—Mark Strand Topical Review.
Vocal Prologue—"Bells of the Sea" written especially for the Strand theatre by Alfred Solman, sung by Herbert Waterous, basso.
Feature—The Seventh Day—First National.
Comedy—Rolling Stone—Lloyd Hamilton.
Next Week—Fair Lady—Rex Beach.

SUPERBA
BROADWAY BET. 3RD & 4TH STS.
Carl Laemmle Offers
"HEADIN' WEST"
and going like a cyclone 10,000 feet in the air—that's EDWARD GIBSON
and
Louise Lorraine
More genuine thrills—more breath holding suspense—more hair raising stunts than any picture ever created.
4 ACES
ON THE SAME BILL
ACE OF the Saddle—the Air—Comedians the prize ring—
LIEUT. BERT HALL
One of the world's foremost aces
IN PERSON
Fun in the Air
Now Playing
A Century Gloom Chaser
LEE MORAN
in
"UPPER and LOWER"
As an upper birth inspector Lee has the world chuckled
ROUND 3
of H.C. Witwer's famous Prize Ring romance
The LEATHER PUSHERS
They're Getting Faster Every Round

Here is the ad that the Superba theatre, Los Angeles, ran in advertising "Headin' West."

Capitol Theatre—

Current Events—Capitol News.
Danse—"Glow Worm," presented by Mlle. Gambarelli.
Added Attraction—Noah's Ark—Sacred Films.
Instrumental—Irish Rhapsody, by the Capitol Grand Orchestra.
Special—Irish Divertissements, including "Come Back to Erin," "Believe Me of All Those Endearing Young Charms," "A Little Bit of Heaven," "Macushla"; sung by Miss Marguerite Schuiling, Miss Caroline Andrews, William Robyn and Peter Harrower; dance numbers by Capitol Ballet Corps.
Feature—Come On Over—Goldwyn.
Next Week—The Glorious Fool—Goldwyn.

LOS ANGELES

California Theatre—

Current Events—International News and local events.
Educational—Goldwyn Review.
Orchestra—Concert with program from "Poet and Peasant," "Prelude," "Siciliana," "Memphis Blues," etc.

BUTTERFLY
HELD OVER THROUGH POPULAR DEMAND—THE PICTURE THAT HAS TAKEN ALL MILWAUKEE BY STORM
THE MOST FASCINATING SPECTACLE EVER CONCEIVED BY MAN
"FOOLISH WIVES"
VON STROHEIM
BY AND WITH
ERICH VON STROHEIM
"The Man You Will Love to Hate"
SEE:
MONTE CARLO—PARADISE OF THE ADVENTURESS—OF PRINCE AND PAUPER—OF RAKES, ROUES, GENTLEMEN AND GAMBLERS—OF IDLE HUSBANDS AND FOOLISH WIVES
Featuring MISS DUPONT WHOM VON STROHEIM CONSIDERS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN ON THE SCREEN
IT TOOK TWO YEARS TO MAKE
IT COST $1,104,000
Superb—Artistic—Enthralling
Performances at 10, 12:20, 2, 2:40, 5, 7:15, 9:35
De Luxe Shows 2:40, 7:15, 9:35
ADMISSION
MATS.—Incld. Sat. and Sunday up to 6 P. M. 55c
NIGHTS—75c. Including Tax

The Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee, is sponsor for this display on "Foolish Wives"

California Theatre—

Novelty—Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Feature—Come On Over—Goldwyn.
Comedy—The Whirlwind—Joe Rock.
Next Week—Her Social Value.

Superba Theatre—

Overture—Symphony of India.
Current Events—International News.
Comedy—Little Miss Mischief—Century.
Feature—Wild Honey.

Kinema Theatre—

Novelty—Topics of the Day—Pathe.
Educational—From Dawn to Dusk in Egypt.
Current Events—International News and Kinograms.
Vocal—Wyoming Lullaby, soprano solo.
Comedy—Step This Way—White Educational.
Feature—The Seventh Day—Richard Barthelmas.

Loew's State Theatre—

Current Events—International News.
Feature—Eden and Return—Metro.
Five acts of vaudeville.

New Pantages Theatre—

Feature—The Sin of Martha Queed—Hodkinson.
Six acts of vaudeville.

Grauman's Theatre—

Current Events—Pathe News.
Organ—"Because."
Comedy—Peggy Behave—Century.
Personal appearance of Baby Peggy.
Feature—Travelin' On.
Presented with atmospheric prologue in which a vocalist mounted on a horse sings "The Storm." A forest stage setting is provided.

Grauman's Rialto Theatre—

Second week of "Fool's Paradise."

Symphony Theatre—

Second week of "Martin Johnson's Jungle Adventures."

Miller's Theatre—

Sixth week of "The Silent Call."

Mission Theatre—

Fourth week of "Foolish Wives."

Clune's Theatre—

Comedy—Stolen Glory—Educational.
Current Events—Kinograms.
Organ—A Little Bit of Heaven.
Feature—Midnight—Constance Binney.

SEATTLE

Coliseum Theatre—

Overture—Selections from "Eileen." With male quartette singing portions of the number.
Current Events—From Pathe and Kinograms.
Educational—Paramount Magazine.
Scenic—People of Bruges.
Feature—Enchantment.
Next week—Turn to the Right.

Columbia Theatre—

Overture—Selections from "Naughty Marietta" and "Oriele."
Current Events—International News.
Novelty—The Dark House.
Comedy—Peggy, Behave.
Added—Third issue of "The Leather Pushers," series.
Feature—The Wise Kid.
Next Week—Wild Honey.

Strand Theatre—

Overture—Selections from "The Only Girl."

Charles Ray
Today Starts Splashing Wild Dashs of Comedy on The America Screen in
"R. S. V. P."
By ROB WAGNER
A First National Attraction With Harry Myers and Jean Calhoun
Also
"SNOOKY'S FRESH HEIR"
And Universal Current Events
Dahl's Concert Orchestra
Admission, 30c
Denver's Finest—Most Artistic—Always Worth While AMERICA

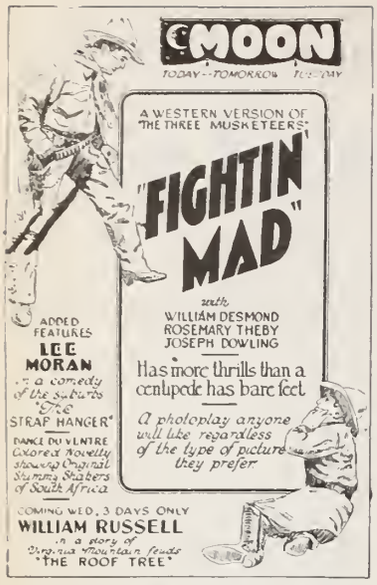
One from the America theatre, Denver, advertising the showing of "R. S. V. P."



MOON
TODAY—TOMORROW
A WESTERN VERSION OF THE THREE MUSKETEERS
"FIGHTIN' MAD"
with
WILLIAM DESMOND
ROSEMARY THEBY
JOSEPH DOWLING
Has more thrills than a centipede has bare feet
A photoplay anyone will like regardless of the type of picture they prefer
ADDED FEATURES
LEE MORAN
in a comedy of the suburbs
"THE STRAP HANGER"
DANCE DU VENTRE
Colored Novelty showing Original Stunny Shakers of South Africa
COMING WED. 3 DAYS ONLY
WILLIAM RUSSELL
in a story of Virginia Mountain feuds
"THE ROOF TREE"

This "Fightin' Mad" display was used by the Moon theatre, Omaha.

Current Events—Kinograms.
Comedy—Rainmakers.
Feature—Fool's Paradise.
Presented with a prologue in which Leon Monday, boy soprano, costumed as child go-go, sings "I'll Forget You" and "The Night Wind."

Liberty Theatre—
Overture—Popular medley.
Current Events—Selznick and Liberty News.
Educational—Pathe Review.
Comedy—Bow Wows.
Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty. Presented with a prologue in which songs of the sea are rendered by artists in costume before a stage setting showing a ship scene.
Next Week—A Man's Home and the Sawmill.

Blue Mouse Theatre—
Second week of "The Four Horsemen," for a return engagement.
Next Week—Grand Larceny.

CHICAGO

Chicago Theatre—
Overture—2nd Hungarian Rhapsody.
Specialty—Scarf dance. Ballet.
Scenic.
News Weekly.
Specialty—Bertram & Saxton, singing Irish melodies.
Literary Digest.
Organ Solo—"Stand Up and Sing for Your Father"—Jesse Crawford at the organ.
Feature—Wallace Reid in "The Champion."
Comedy—Ben Turpin in "Step Forward."
Coming Feature—Wesley Barry in "School Days."

Tivoli Theatre—
Overture—"Orpheus."
Literary Digest.
Scenic.
Specialty—Sudworth Frazier and Marjorie Dodge singing Irish melodies.
News Weekly.
Organ Solo—"Stand Up and Sing for Your Father." Milton Charles at the organ.
Specialty—"Honeymoon Express," Walter Pontius and Rebecca Scheibel, soloists.
Feature—"Saturday Night."
Comic Cartoon.
Coming Feature—Turn to the Right.

Great Northern—
Feature—Orphans of the Storm, featuring the Gish sisters. 7th week.

Roosevelt Theatre—
Sport Review—A week end with Rex Beach.
Specialty—Victor Downer, Irish tenor, singing "Macushla."
Roosevelt News and Views of the World.
Specialty—Harp solo by Janice O'Hara.
Feature—Come On Over, featuring Colleen Moore.
Added Attraction—No. 3 of "The Leather Pushers."
Coming Feature—A Fool's Paradise.

Ziegfeld Theatre—
Feature—The Ruling Passion, featuring George Arliss.
News Weekly.
Aesops Fables.
Literary Digest.
Coming Feature—Cardigan.

Randolph Theatre—
Feature—A Connecticut Yankee.
News Weekly.

Barbee's Theatre—
1st Feature — Irene Castle in "French Heels."
2nd Feature—Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man."
Coming Feature—The Man in a Million.

Pantheon Theatre—
Overture—An operatic fantasy.
Views of the World.
Literary Digest.
Specialty—Miss Marie Lightball, soloist, singing "Rose of Picardy."
Comedy — Eddie Lyons in "O Daddy."
Specialty—Xylophone solo by Mr. Kelly.
Feature—Anita Stewart in "A Question of Honor."
Coming Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty.

Woodlawn Theatre—
Organ Solo—"Tucky Home."
Woodlawn Novelty—Screen Snapshots.
Woodlawn News and Views.
Comedy—Hokas Pokas.
Overture—Potpurri of "Jewels of the Madonna."
Feature—Conway Tearle in "A Wide Open Town."
Intermission—Popular selections.
Coming Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty.

NEWARK

Branford Theatre—
Current Events—Branford Review

A novel little display on "Grand Larceny" used by the Liberty theatre, Kansas City.

Hand-drawn display on "The Glorious Fool" from the Granada theatre, San Francisco (selected from best news services).

Topics of the Day.
Comedy—No Parking.
James Stephens, baritone, "Tell Her I Love Her So," and "I Passed by Your Window."
Feature—Saturday Night.
Next Week—Polly of the Follies—Constance Talmadge.

Newark Theatre—
Organ Solo—"Risluto."
Overture—"Ballet Egyptienne."
Current Events—Newark Theatre Pictorial News (selected).
Feature—The World's Champion—Wallace Reid, a Paramount.

William Fox Terminal Theatre—
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—Try and Get It.
Comedy—Mutt and Jeff.
Feature—The Heart of the North—Roy Stewart and Louise Lovely. Good Night Paul—Constance Talmadge.

Paramount Theatre—
Comedy—The Adviser—Ham Hamilton.
Feature—Fool's Paradise — Paramount.

Goodwin Theatre—
Goodwin Pictorial News.
Comedy—Dodge Your Debts—Gaylord Lloyd.
Review—Fortune Builders—Kineto.
Features—The 14th Lover—Viola Dana. The Girl from Porcupine—James Oliver Curwood.
Next Week—Foolish Wives.

Ascher's Halsey Theatre—
Feature—Judgment (held over for second week)—World Film Corporation. Victor Hugo.

BROOKLYN

Mark Strand Theatre—
1. Overture—"The Wearin' o' the Green." This overture dedicated to St. Patrick's Day and arranged by Managing Director Edward L. Hyman opened with orchestra in green playing snatches from "Come Back to Erin," "Rakes of Mallow," "The Wearin' o' the Green," "Garryowne," "St. Patrick's Day," "Killarney," "The Valley Lay Smiling Before Me," "Paddy Whack," "The Irish Washerwoman," "The Harp That Once Thru Tara's Halls." Curtains parted showing Irish set in green with suspended center piece of electrically illuminated shamrock. Man and woman dancer in Irish peasant dance then concluded number. Both wore Irish costume.
2. Mary Astor in "The Young Painter."
3. Mary Astor in personal appearance.
4. Mark Strand Topical Review.
5. Song group by Estelle Carey, soprano. (a)—Brahm's "I Passed by Your Window." (c)—"The Little Town in the Ould County Down" (Sanders).
6. Jazz Band Carnival—This was a prologue to feature. Jazz band played lively numbers, concluding with latest ballroom dances by Paul Oscard and Grace Eastman.
7. Featured Film—Constance Tal-

Three column ad for "Tol'able David" by the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kansas

madge in "Folly of the Follies."
Organ Solo—"Les Syiphes" (Davis) John Hammond and George Crook.
Next Week—"Foolish Wives."

BUFFALO

ea's Hippodrome—
erture—Selections from "Make It Snappy."
cal—Selections by Eldora Stanford.
ecial—Personal appearance of Irene Castle, with company, in dancing act.
ature—"French Heels" — Irene Castle.
medy—"The Duck Hunters"—Sennett.
rrent Events—Hippodrome Review, including "Neighbor Nellie," a Prizma. xt Week—"School Days"—Wesley Barry.

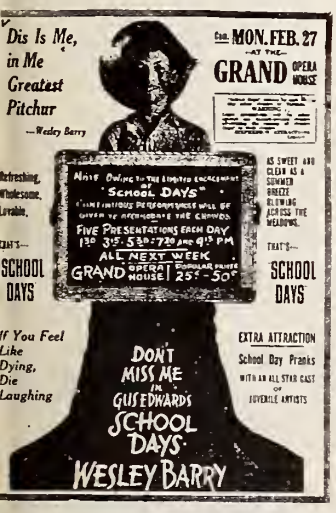
iterion—
ature—"Orphans of the Storm" —D. W. Griffith—Third Week.

oew's State—
erture—"Jolly Robbers"—Suppe.
rrent Events — Loew News (Pathe).
ature—"Peacock Alley" — Mae Murray.



'Dis Is Me, in Me Greatest Pitchur
—Wesley Barry
Eve. MON. FEB. 27
AT THE
GRAND OPERA HOUSE
Owing to the Limited Engagement of "SCHOOL DAYS"
Five Presentations Each Day
1:30 3:15 5:30 7:20 and 9:15 P.M.
ALL NEXT WEEK
GRAND OPERA HOUSE 25c - 50c
SCHOOL DAYS
SCHOOL DAYS
If You Feel Like Dying, Die Laughing
DON'T MISS ME IN GUS EDWARD'S SCHOOL DAYS
EXTRA ATTRACTION
School Day Pranks
WESLEY BARRY

his one on "School Days" comes om the Grand Opera House, Toronto

omedy—"Two Faces West"—Hallroom Boys.
artoon—"Mutt and Jeff" in "The Cashier."
ext Week—"The Foolish Matrons"—Hobart Bosworth.

afayette Square—verture—Organ solo by C. Sharpe-Minor.
rrent Events—Selznick News.
eature—"A Stage Romance"—William Farnum.

ark-Strand—verture—"Queen of Sheba"—special score.
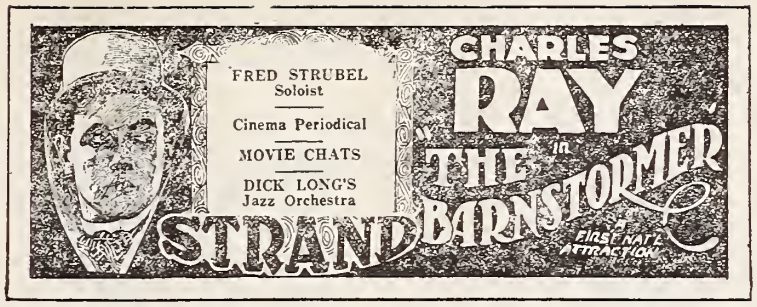
rrent Events—Kinograms.
eature—"Queen of Sheba"—Betty Blythe.
ext Week—"Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

alace—
rrent Events — International News.
eature—"Wild Honey"—Priscilla Dean.
ecial—Pictures of winners of Palace-Times Beauty Contest.

cademy—
eature—"The Lone Wolf"—Bert Lytell.



This "The Barnstormer" ad is from the Strand theatre, Minneapolis

Shea's North Park—
Current Events—Fathe News.
Feature—"French Heels — Irene Castle.
Comedy—"The Duck Hunters"—Sennett.
Next Week—"School Days"—Wesley Barry.

MINNEAPOLIS

State Theatre—
Overture—"Tangerine," by Sanders.
State Digest—Composed of Pathe and International News Strips.
Comedy—Johnny Hines in "Torchy and Orange Blossoms."
Soloist—Roy Dietrich singing "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" and "I Hear You Calling Yoo Hoo," by Al Jolson.
Organ Solo—Played by E. J. Dunstedter.
Noon Day Organ Recital—Played by Ralph M. Hix.

Strand—
Feature—Charles Ray in "The Barnstormer."
Soloist—Fred Strubel introducing popular hits.
Cinema Periodical—Composed of International and Pathe News strips.
Specialty—Movie Chats.
Musical—Dick Long's Jass Boys in repertoire of popular selections.

New Garrick—
Feature—Turn to the Right, with Alice Terry and Jack Mulhall.
Overture—"Raymond."
Organ Solo—Played by Leonard Leigh.
News Events — Kinograms and Pathe News and local topics.
Comedy—The Gumps.
Next Week—Foolish Wives.

PHILADELPHIA

Stanley—
News—Fox and Pathe.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest —Pathe.
Movie Chats—Urban.
Feature—The World's Champion —Paramount.
Next Week—School Days—Independent.

Stanton—
Feature—Turn to the Right—Metro.
Next Week—Footfalls—Fox.

Aldine—
Feature—Foolish Wives—Universal.
Next Week—Same.

Karlton—
Feature—Her Husband's Trademark—Paramount.
Next Week—Bought and Paid For.

Arcadia—
News—Pathe.
Comedy—The White Mouse—Electric.
Screen Snapshots No. 21—Masterpiece.
Feature—Three Live Ghosts—Paramount.
Next Week—One Glorious Day—Paramount.

Regent—
Cartoon—The Cashier—M. & J—Fox.
Comedy—Hit Him Again—Pathe.
Feature—Jackie—Fox.
Next Week—Her First Love—Realart.

Palace—
News—Pathe.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest —Pathe.
Feature — A Fool's Paradise — Paramount.

California THEATRE
STARTING TODAY
A Bubbling Comedy of Youth and Love. It Will Appeal to Every Person Who Ever Lived In or Visited a Small Town. Its Characters Are Real, Its Situations Unusual and Bubbles and Bubbles With Laughter
Goldwyn presents
Julien Josephson's New Hick Town Comedy,
Watch Your Step
With CULLEN LANDIS
and
PATSY RUTH MILLER
Directed by William Beaudine
A Goldwyn Picture
A high-speed comedy that cuts the corners at 90 miles an hour on the high way of love.
Extra Laugh Feature
AL ST. JOHN
In His Latest Comedy Success
"STRAIGHT FROM THE FARM"
3rd Episode of Old Testament "Noah's Ark"
HEAR ELINOR'S 50 PIECE ORCHESTRA EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK

The California theatre, Los Angeles, advertised "Watch Your Step" with this quarter-page display

Next Week—Moran of the Lady Letty—Paramount.

Victoria—
News—Pathe.
Comedy-Feature—A Sailor Made Man—Pathe.
Scenic—The Four Seasons—Hodkinson.
Dramatic-Feature—Carmen — Condensed version—Paramount.
Next Week—Sky-High—Fox.

Capitol—
News—Kinograms—Electric.
Comedy—Stay Down East—De Luxe.
Short Subject—Winter Pep—Goldwyn.
Feature—The Fourteenth Lover—Metro.
Next Week—Three Live Ghosts—Paramount.

DALLAS

Palace Theatre—
Overture—"Cocoanut Dance."
Current Events—Palace News.
Cartoon—Aesops Fables—Pathe.
Special—In Old Madrid. Presented by a vocal quartette with string quartette accompaniment.
Feature—A Game Chicken—Bebe Daniels.

This "The Fox" ad comes from the Virginian theatre, Charlestown, W. Va.

Comedy—The Playhouse — Buster Keaton.
Exit March—"On the Gim, Gim Gimmy Shore."

BALTIMORE

Rivoli—
Overture—"Yelva"—Ressiger.
Current Events—Rivoli News.
Vocal—Ruth Lloyd Kinney, former soloist with Sousa.
Feature—My Boy—Jackie Coogan.
Comedy—Snooky's Home Run.

Century—
Overture—"I'll Guarany"—A. Carlos Gomez.
Current Events—Century News.
Novelty—Spanish dances and interpretations by Mlle. Marion and Martinez Randall.
Feature—Her Husband's Trademark—Gloria Swanson.
Comedy.

New Wizard—
Overture—Operatic Airs.
Current Events — New Wizard News.
Feature—A Wide Open Town—Conway Tearle.
Comedy—The Battle Royal—Sennett's.

This "The Seventh Day" ad is sponsored by the Rivoli theatre, Baltimore, Md.

New—
Feature—A Game Chicken—Bebe Daniels.

Parkway—
Feature—The Bride's Play—Marion Davies.

Academy—
Feature—Not Guilty—Sylvia Breamer.
Vaudeville.

Loew's Hippodrome—
Feature—A Stage Romance—William Farnum.

Picture Garden—
Feature—Ashes—Myrtle Stedman.

OMAHA

Strand Theatre—
Overture — Orchestral selections, Harry Silverman directing.
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—Fool's Paradise.

Sun Theatre—
Overture — Orchestral selections, Hugo Nordin directing.
Current Events — International Weekly.
Special—Prizma pictures.
Comedy—The Sawmill.
Feature — Why Announce Your Marriage?

Rialto Theatre—
Overture—Finale from F minor.
Kinograms.
Special — Organ solo by Julius Johnson, "My Mammy Knows.'
Sunshine Comedy.

Quarter page on "The Rosary" used by the Grand theatre, San Antonio, Texas

Comedy—The Rain Market.
Feature—Hail the Woman.

Moon Theatre—
Overture—Orchestral selections.
Current Events—Universal weekly.
Comedy—Circus Heroes.
Feature—Burn 'Em Up Barnes.

ST. LOUIS

Missouri Theatre—
Overture—Missouri Symphony Orchestra led by Creatore, famous bandmaster as guest conductor.
The Missouri News — Featuring complete and exclusive pictures of Princess Mary's wedding.
Vocal Solo—Miss Sherry Louise Marshall, coloratura soprano.
Selections by orchestra, led by Creatore.
Feature Film—Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trademark."

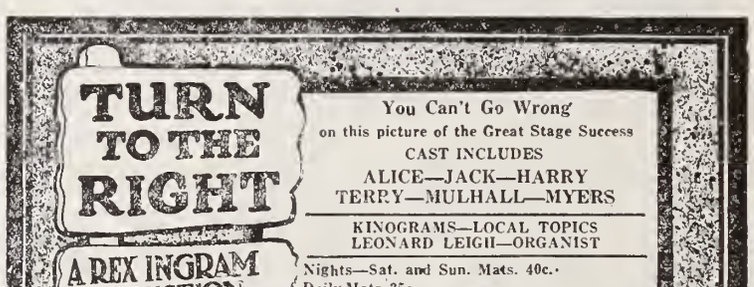
New Grand Central and West End Lyric—
Overture.
News and Views.
Organ Solo—Oscar H. Jost, organist.
Comedy—Johnny Hines in "Battling Torchy."
Special—"The Battle of Jutland."
Feature Film—Katherine MacDonald in "The Beautiful Liar."

William Fox Liberty—
Overture—Liberty concert orchestra.
Fox News.
Mutt and Jeff cartoon.
Specialty—"Bee" Palmer, from the Follies Bergere, New York, accompanied by Al Siegel. Original new songs and new dances.
Next Week—"The World's Champion"—Wallace Reid.

Allen—
Overture—"Aida," presented with vocal interpolations from the opera.
Current Events—Allenette—News events selected by S. Barrett McCormick.
Comedy—"A Rural Cinderella," featuring Louise Fazenda — Mack Sennett comedy.
Feature—"Conflict," starring Priscilla Dean.
Specialty—Ogden and Benson, singing and dancing team, with piano specialties. Held over for second week by popular request.
Next Week—"Come On Over."

Stillman—
Overture—"William Tell."
Cartoon—The Family Album.
Feature—Fool's Paradise.
Next Week—The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

Park—
Overture — "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." On March 17th, "Echoes of Ireland," arranged by M. J. Spitalny, was substituted.
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy—Kiss and Make Up—Educational comedy.



Sign Board "Turn to the Right" display used by the New Garrick theatre, Minneapolis

Feature—Tom Mix in "Chasing the Moon."

Criterion-Delmar and Congress Theatres—
Overture and organ recital.
Current news views.
Comedy reels.
Feature—Scssue Hayakawa in "Five Days to Live."

CLEVELAND

State—
Current Events—Pathe News—Pathe Review—Topics of the Day.
Cartoon—Mutt and Jeff in "Too Much Sap."
Scenic—"Goat Herding."
Prizma—"The Ruins of Ancor."
Feature—"Her Husband's Trade Mark"—Gloria Swanson.
Prologue—"A Trip to Ireland"—The Sherwood band and a company of singers and dancers in Irish setting painted by Arnold Englander. Prologue arranged and produced by Managing Director George H. Dumond.
Personal Appearance—Rex Beach.
Feature—The Iron Trail.
Next Week—Why Announce Your Marriage, starring Elaine Hammerstein.

Euclid—
Overture—"Merry Wives of Windsor."
Comedy—Watch Your Neighbor—Mack Sennett comedy.
Scenic—Burton Holmes Travelogue—Rural Java.
Feature—Mistress of the World—First six reels.
Next Week—Next five reels of "Mistress of the World."

Standard—
Current Events — International News.
Comedy—A One Horse Town, with Harry Sweet—Century Comedy.
Feature—The Wise Kid—Gladys Walton.
Next Week—The Dangerous Little Demon, with Marie Prevost.

KANSAS CITY

Liberty Theatre—
Overture—"Pique Dame" (Suppe).

Quarter page from the Termin theatre, Newark, for "Sky High"

News—Pathe.
Comedy—Aesop's Fables.
Short Subject — The Leathe Pushers—Serial.
Organ Selections—Miss Susie Go Bush and Miss Golden Eviston organists.
Special Number — "Little Gra Sweetheart of Minc"—Songs logue.
Feature — Woman Wake Up - Florence Vidor.
Next Week—Cameron of the Rova Mounted—Special cast.

Doric Theatre—
News—International.
Comedy — High Tide — Roli comedy.
Organ Selections—P. E. Stevens organist.
Feature—Back Pay—Special cast.
Next Week—The Bride's Play—Marion Davies.

Newman Theatre—
Overture—"Overture Americana" —M. L. Lake.
Current Events—Newman News and Views.
Comedy—For Land's Sake—Educational Mermaid comedy.
Organ Selections — Gerald F Baker and Q. Landwehr organists.
Special number—Lillian Crossman and Frank Ridge in vocal duet.
Feature—Moran of the Lady Letty —Dorothy Dalton.
Next Week—Fool's Paradise—Special cast.

This "Sea Lion" ad is from the Pantheon theatre, Toledo, O.

Royal Theatre—
Overture—Selections.
Current Events — Royal Screen Magazine.
Comedy—Kiss and Make Up—Christie Special Comedy.
Organ Selections — Harry Frank and Miss Ella McGorty, organists.
Feature—The Lane That Has No Turning—Agnes Ayres.
Next Week—Thunderclap—Special cast.

Twelfth Street Theatre—
Overture—Popular selections.
News—Screen Magazine.
Short Subject — Dangerous Dollars.
Organ Selections — Miss Hazel Webb and Miss Fay Shepherd, organists.
Feature — The Barnstormer — Charles Ray.
Next Week—Serenade — Miriam Cooper.

CINCINNATI

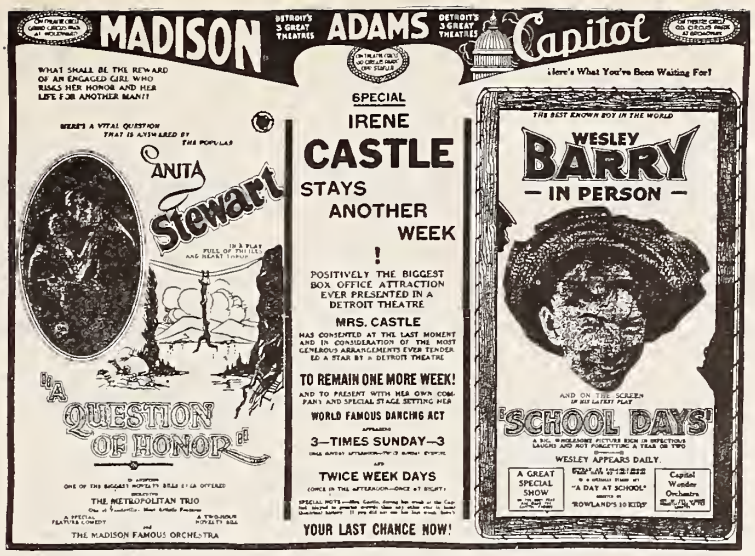
Walnut—
Current Events—Pathe 21.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—Under the Lash.
Added Feature—One Glorious Day.
Next Week—Moran of the Laddy Letty.

Strand—
Current Events—Pathe 22.
Topics of the Day Literary Digest.
Feature—Fool's Paradise—(Second week.)
Next Week—My Boy.

Palace—
Current Events — International News.
Topics of the Day—Literary Digest.
Feature—Love's Boomerang.
Next Week—Back Pay.

Lyric—
Current Events—Fox News.

The Superba of Los Angeles ran this ad on "Tracked to Earth"



Half page from the Sunday Detroit papers showing the billing for "A Question of Honor" and "School Days," playing at the Madison and Capitol theatres, respectively

Comedy—Put and Take — Hall-Room Boys.
Feature — Thunderclap — (Second week.)
Next Week—The Silent Call.

Capitol—
Overture—Eileen—(Herbert).
Capitol News Events Novelty.
Musical Number—Jazz Medley—Capitol Jazz Unit.
Novelty—The Barefoot Boy.
Prologue to Feature—Soprano Solo—Irish lullabies.
Feature—Come on Over.
Comedy—The Skipper's Policy—"Toonerville" comedy.
Next Week—The Invisible Power.

ATLANTA

Howard—
Overture—"Raymond," by Thomas.
Howard News and Views.
Frisco—Extra attraction—eccentric jazz.
Feature—"Grand Larceny," Elliott Dexter.

Metropolitan—
Overture—Metropolitan Orchestra.
Kinograms.
Comedy—In for Life—Educational.
Feature—Charles Ray in "The Barnstormer."

Criterion—
Overture—Criterion Orchestra.
Kinograms.
Educational Comedy.
Feature—"Flower of the North"—Henry B. Walthall and Pauline Starke.

PITTSBURGH

Olympic—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature—Boomerang Bill.
Added Attraction—The Bottom of the World.
Comedy—Hold the Line.
Next Week—Fools Paradise.

Grand Theatre—
Current Events — Grand News Weekly.
Feature—A Man's Home—My Lady Friends.
Cartoon—Out of the Inkwell.
Novelty—Topics of the Day.
Next Week—Woman Wake Up—Her Mad Bargain.

Loew's Lyceum Theatre—
Current Events — Loew's News Weekly.
Feature—The Idle Rich.
Next Week—Little Eva Ascends.

Blackstone Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Feature—Her Own Money.
Comedy—Peggy Behave.
Next Week—Not Announced.

State Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—The Rosary.
Comedy—A Barnyard Cavalier.
Next Week—Queen of Sheba.

Liberty Theatre—
Current Events — International News.
Feature—School Days.
Added Attractions — Gardens of Normandy.
Next Week—Molly-O.

Regent Theatre—
Current Events—Kinograms.
Feature—My Lady Friends.
Comedy—A Barnyard Cavalier.
Next Week—Her Mad Bargain.

Savoy Theatre—
Current Events—Fox News.
Feature—Iron to Gold.
Comedy—A Dog's Life.
Next Week—Pardon My Nerve—The Broadway Peacock.

Cameraphone—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Feature—Come On Over.
Next Week—A Man's Home.

Alhambra Theatre—
Current Events—Pathe News.
Feature — The Law and the Woman.
Next Week—Not Announced.

Minerva Theatre—
Double Bill—Cameron of the Royal Mounted—The Servant in the House.

Duquesne Theatre—
Feature—Disraeli.

Aldine Theatre—
Current Events—Selznick News.
Feature—Who Am I?
Next Week—Not Announced.

WASHINGTON

Moore's Rialto—
Overture—Pagliaci — Rialto Symphony orchestra.
Current Events—Fox News.
Comedy — Orange Blossoms — Torchy.
Feature—The Last Trail—Fox.
Next Week—The Bride's Play—Paramount.
Concert Feature — "Mother Machree," played by Messrs. Sokolov, violin; Rogers, cello, and Miraglia, harp.

Loew's Palace—
Overture—"Stars and Stripes Forever"—Palace Symphony orchestra.
Current Events—Pathe News—Topics of the Day.
Comedy—A Studio Rube—Al St. John.
Feature—The World's Champion—Paramount.
Next Week—Molly-O (Associated Producers).

Loew's Colúmbia—
Feature—Fool's Paradise — Paramount—Continued.

MONTREAL

Allen Theatre—
Overture — "Merry Wives of Windsor."
Special — Wedding pictures of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles.
Musical—Concert of varied numbers by orchestra.
Comedy—The Playhouse — Buster Keaton.
Feature — Peacock Alley — Mae Murray.
Presented with an atmospheric prologue under the title of "The Spirit of Peacock Alley," in which musical numbers and dancing numbers are rendered in a cabaret scene set.
Next Week—Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court.

PALACE
ENTERTAINMENT
Now!
TAKE IT from Connie—
THE LURE of the Footlights
EXPLAINS WHY girls leave home.
BUT WHEN you see her
DOING SIREN-OF-THE NILE stunts,
ROBED A LA Pola Negri
OR CLEOPATRA,
YOU'LL ALSO understand
WHY TIRED business men
NEVER GO HOME!
CONSTANCE TALMADGE
IN
"POLLY OF THE FOLLIES"
A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION
Alone in the Big City
(Loud Sobs!)
No mother to guide her. No mother—no hungry that by the time she gets a job in the Follies a plate of pork and beans looks like a Bacchanalian feast.
"BATTLING TORCHY"
A New Torchy Comedy
FLATH at the Organ Playing "Angel Child"
KINOGRAMS—REVIEW
Another of the Palace theatre, Wichita, Kansas, displays for "Polly of the Follies"

EXHIBITORS' REPORTS ON NEW RELEASE

What the Big Houses Say

EARLY RETURNS FROM WEEK RUN THEATER

FAMOUS PLAYERS

Under the Lash—
Fair picture with mediocre business. (West.)

Saturday Night—
Two weeks' run went over just fair. (West.)

Moran of the Lady Letty—
Better picture than the average. We did very well with it. (Middle West.)

Good picture and good business. (East.)

The Lane That Had No Turning—
Very nice business My people were pleased and business picked up more and more each day. (East.)

Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford—
Very satisfactory business and it pleased them 100 per cent. (West.)

Forever—
One of the good pictures of the year. Drew Excellently. (Middle West.)

Miss Lulu Bett—
Fine picture and business very good. (East.)

Fool's Paradise—
Opinions are divided about this picture. Some like it a lot. Others think it trash. However, we did enough business during the first week's run to justify holding it over a second week. (Middle West.)

One of the best ever. Receipts fine. (East.)

DeMille's best, for it contained a worth while story; pulled big the first week. (Middle West.)

A beautiful well-acted picture which proved a big attraction. (Middle West.)

Patrons seemed to enjoy this picture in spite of its improbable plot. Business was good for the week. (East.)

Good crowds who were well satisfied. (Middle West.)

The Law and the Woman—
Good picture enough, though the Ohio Censor Board did recall it. Nobody could find anything objectionable in it. (Middle West.)

Fairly entertaining with fair business. (West.)

The Kinema theatre, Salt Lake City, ran this ad for "Don't Get Personal"

Back Pay—
Good feature which played to average business. (Middle West.)

Did very good business. Good box office picture. (Middle West.)

Her Husband's Trademark—
Gloria Swanson's popularity here is increasing in leaps and bounds. This picture did a lively week's business. (Middle West.)

Good box office attraction and went over big. (Middle West.)

Boomerang Bill—
A good drawing card which played to a satisfactory attendance for the week and pleased patrons. (Middle West.)

Travelin' On—
Bill Hart has a good folowing here, the picture playing to good crowds all week. (Middle West.)

Just Around the Corner—
Really a fine picture with deep human interest and strong appeal; played to good houses for week on extra exploitation. (Middle West.)

FIRST NATIONAL

Love's Redemption—
Miss Talmadge popular here and her admirers seemed to like the picture. Pulled good crowds. (Middle West.)

Not up to usual Talmadge standards. Business fair considering inclement weather. (Middle West.)

The Forbidden Thing—
Business far below normal because of bad weather. Story appealed to patrons. Capable cast does good work. (Middle West.)

Her Mad Bargain—
Fair. (Middle West.)

Penrod—
An excellent dramatization of the book. Pleased the audiences and drew well. (Middle West.)

The Seventh Day—
Fairly well liked. Went across with average receipts. (East.)

I Am Guilty—
Well received, both as regards receipts and spectators. (East.)

Jim, the Penman—
Business way off. Picture did not get by. (East.)

The Lotus Eater—
Despite unfavorable weather conditions this one did a good business for a week's run and pleased patrons. (Middle West.)

The Sea Lion—
Worthwhile for any audience. Nice crowds. (Middle West.)

The Kid—
Went dandy for second run. Kids and grown-ups liked it. (Middle West.)

METRO

Turn to the Right—
Went over overwhelmingly. One of the best pictures of the year. (East.)

Good picture, but business only fair. (East.)

The Golden Gift—
Mediocre picture and business fair. (East.)

The Idle Rich—
Pleasing comedy and a good box-office attraction. (Middle West.)

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse—
Return engagement for two weeks drew good business. (West.)

Peacock Alley—
Opened to good attendance which dropped because of bad weather. Patrons liked picture. (Middle West.)

FOX

Connecticut Yankee—
A rip-snorter. Excellent business getter. (Middle West.)

The Devil Within—
S. R. O. sign out at all performances. Picture fairly entertaining. Personal appearance of Charlie Murray was big box office magnet. (East.)

Perjury—
Story lacking in continued interest. Farnum losing favor. Picture did fair business for six days. (Middle West.)

Trailin'—
Flopped. Poor picture. (East.)

A Stage Romance—
Bad picture and business to match. (East.)

Thunderclap—
An exciting race horse drama which has been held for a second week. (Middle West.)

UNITED ARTISTS

A Doll's House—
Better than some of Nazimova's recent offerings and seemed to please our patrons. Business good. (Middle West.)

Way Down East—
D. W. Griffith excelled himself in this master production. It played its first run here months ago, which only served to increase its popularity. (Middle West.)

SELZNICK

Chivalrous Charlie—
Capacity business all week. Picture fair. Newness of house pulling them in. (East.)

The Way of a Maid—
Business good but not normal. One of Miss Hammerstein's best pictures. (Middle West.)

GOLDWYN

Grand Larceny—
This one did a good week's business despite the fact that Elliott Dexter is not well known here. (Middle West.)

From the Ground Up—
Fair business for a fair picture. Nothing particularly appealing about the pictures, but mildly amusing. (Middle West.)

Watch Your Step—
Good picture and good business. (West.)

HODKINSON

Cameron of the Royal Mounted—
Powerfully filmed with faithful attention to details of story. Business fair. (Middle West.)

A novelty ad on "The 14th Lover" used by Loew's State theatr Los Angeles

R-C PICTURES

Two Kinds of Women—
Business fair. Good plot, well film (Middle West.)

D. W. GRIFFITH

Orphans of the Storm—
Second week. Business was go first half of the week, because of p sonal appearance of Gish siste Flopped last half. Being held th week. (East.)

WID GUNNING

What Do Men Want?—
Ordinary. Did fair business for we (Middle West.)

Tracked to Earth—
Fair picture and fair busine (West.)

REALART

Nance From Nowhere—
Nice program picture. Fair crow (Middle West.)

¶ The Booking Guide is a service to Exhibitors never before offered. A help in booking and presentation.

New Issue out this month

NEWSY BRIEFS FROM CENTRAL FILM BELT

Chicago and the Mid-West

L. H. MASON, REPRESENTATIVE, 910 S. MICHIGAN AVE.

W. W. Brumberg, popular First National salesman, has been made country sales manager of Associated First National's Chicago exchange, to fill the position made vacant by the promotion of E. J. Eichenlaub, who has been advanced to the branch managership of the Chicago exchange, succeeding R. C. Seery, promoted to manager of the Mid-western District. C. E. Bond will remain as city sales manager.

O. W. Bolle, of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has been elected president of the Chicago Film Board of Trade, vice C. E. Maberry, of the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, who was compelled to resign, owing to his removal to New York. At the same time the number of directors was reduced from seven to five; those on the board now include Fred Aiken, of Superior Screen Service, chairman; Clyde Eckhardt, of Fox Film Corporation; Joe Friedman, of Celebrated Players; Carl Harthill, of National; and I. L. Leserman, of Universal Film Exchange.

Carl L. Casanave is now connected with Universal Chicago Exchange, and will sell Universal features in key towns for that organization. Mr. Casanave formerly was associated with Vitagraph in Chicago, and more recently has been located in Cincinnati. H. G. Finney is another recent addition to Universal's sales staff in this district.

H. A. Kariher and C. T. Wallace have sold their Park theatre at Urbana, Illinois, to G. H. Meyers.

Watterson R. Rothacker has left on a business trip to the coast. He will spend several weeks there, making his headquarters at the Rothacker-Aller Laboratory. Edward O. Blackburn, of the Rothacker organization, is making a short sojourn in a Chicago hospital, following a minor operation. A. K. Anderson has been transferred from the Chicago Rothacker Laboratory to the Los Angeles Rothacker-Aller plant, where he will be in the accounting department. At Chicago he had been an assistant to Treasurer H. J. Aldous.

Reginald Denny, star of the "Leather Pushers," Universal's popular series of two reelers, surprised both the management and patrons of the Roosevelt theatre by visiting it this week. Stopping off in Chicago en route to the coast, between trains, he paid his way into the Roosevelt and introduced himself to Manager McMullins, who induced him to make a short address to the audience. Mr. Denny proved he not only has a punch in both hands, but can put it over when it comes to speech making.

W. D. Burford has resigned as vice-president of the Illinois Motion Picture Theatre Owners, owing to increasing pressure of his personal business. He, however, retains his membership in the organization and has promised to do what he can towards its advancement as a private in the ranks. As an official, Mr. Burford has been one of the most loyal and hard working men ever connected with the exhibitor organization, and those interested in its welfare regret to learn of his being compelled to retire from office. Mr. Burford and Maurice Rubens have opened a booking office at 618 Century Building, where bookings for the Thelan Circuit and the various houses in which Messrs. Burford and Rubens are interested will be carried on.

Carl Leserman, of Universal, has recovered from an illness caused by ptomaine poisoning, after being confined to his home for two weeks, and is back on the job again.

Members of the Illinois Motion Picture Theatre Owners are cooperating with the Chambers of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Clubs, and other civic organizations throughout the state, in arousing interest in Tree Week, the theatre men having been provided with slides announcing the week, which they are running on their screens. The Theatre Owners in this are carrying out their policy of cooperating with the people of various communities in every constructive move for the good of the citizens.

George D. Hopkinson, of the Hamlin theatre, made a tie-up last week, which brought him a lot of valuable publicity. "My Boy" was the feature at his house, and Proude, Bear & Proude, owners of a large store near the Hamlin, arranged for two free days, one for the boys and one for the girls. Needless to say, the theatre was packed at both matinee performances; in fact, it was necessary to call in extra police to handle the crowds. The band outside of the theatre helped make the occasion a lively one, and the youngsters all went home and told their grown-ups what a fine show it was. Results — exceptionally good business.

Carl Harthill, who has just taken over the managership of the Chicago office of the National Exchanges, Inc., has an unusual record in the film business. Not only is he one of the pioneers of the industry, but in the past fourteen years has only been connected with three concerns, which shows that Carl's reputation as a sticker and a fighter is well founded. In 1908 he started with the Standard Film Exchange, later assuming the management of the Union Film Company, and five years ago took over the Beehive Film Exchange when it was organized, became manager, and remained in that position when it became part of Reelcraft organization

Attractive use of cut-outs for a lobby display on "Foolish Wives" arranged for the recent showing of this picture at the Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee

Manager Carl Harthill, of Cosmopolitan National Exchange, Inc., has added George West to his sales force. Mr. West was one of Manager Harthill's salesmen at Reelcraft, and is widely known in this territory. He will cover the city.

Julius Singer, of the Pacific Film Company, was scheduled to arrive in Chicago this week, where he expects to establish an exchange for his concern. President John J. Hayes, of the Pacific Film Company, states that these offices will not be operated as a competitor to state right exchanges, but will be headquarters for the Pacific field forces, a permanent staff being assigned to the office to assist in the exploitation and sale of Pacific pictures.

The Art theatre, which opened a few days ago, after extensive repairs and decorating, has been closed, Lawrence E. Hendricks, of St. Paul, Minnesota, general manager, and R. H. Poore, house manager.

Clyde Wilson has purchased the Martz and Grand theatres at Tipton, Indiana, having recently sold the Paramount theatre at Rochester, Indiana, which he had been operating.

Maurie Salkin is now buying instead of selling films, having left the exchange game to become manager of the Owl theatre at Forty-seventh and State streets.

Prsident Frank Zambreno, of Progress Pictures and Unity Photoplay exchange, reports that he has added "Mother Eternal," the widely advertised Ivan Abramson picture, to his list of releases for this territory.

The amusement corporation, headed by Mr. Gregory, of Hammond, Indiana, has purchased the De Luxe theatre, of that city, which gives them control of all Hammond houses, with the exception of the Bijou theatre.

Carl Mueller, manager of the Elite theatre, Waukegan, has been confined to the hospital for several days, but it is hoped he will soon be about again.

Action Stills from Releases of the Week

Richard Barthelmess in "The Seventh Day," a First National picture

Bert Lytell in "The Face Between," a Metro picture

Shirley Mason, starring in "The Ragged Heiress," a William Fox production

Hoot Gibson in "The Bearcat," a Universal picture

"Come on Over," by Rupert Hughes, a Goldwyn picture

Anita Stewart in "A Question of Honor," First National

Alice Lake in "Kisses," a Metro picture

Reviews of Latest Short Subject Releases

"Vistas of the Holy Land"

(Kineto Review—One Reel)

SCENES showing the Holy Land are presumably always interesting. At least they turn up regularly in filmdom and seem to be well liked. This Urban film leads one through all the familiar spots such as the Wailing Wall, the Garden of Gethsemene, and the Tower of David, and then shows some of the types which crowd the streets of Jerusalem. Then there are scenes of the River Jordon at the spot where the Israelites are said to have crossed the Wilderness into the Promised Land; the Dead Sea, shepherds on the mountain-sides, tending their flocks, and the site of the Temple of Solomon and the Mosque of Omar.

There are some really pretty pictures in some of the scenic shots. It is fine for a church or school program, and a satisfactory filler for the theatre.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Quaint Denizens of the Bronx Zoo"

(Kineto Review—One Reel)

MR. URBAN takes his audience through the Bronx Zoo in New York City in this Kineto Review. He does not attempt to show all the peculiar inhabitants of this animal city. Rather he concentrates on members of the monkey family. There is a Red Howler from Brazil, with a peculiar, human-like face. The best shot in the reel shows a monkey chewing gum. He strings it out with his paw in the manner ascribed to all New York shopgirls.

The second part of the reel is one of the "Modern Truths from Old Fables" series, recorded by Raymon L. Ditmars. "The Grasshopper and the Ant" is the title. This shows some interesting scenes of the beaver building his dam. Some fine shots of this industrious worker have been obtained. The moral is that it pays to work in the spring of life to store up supplies the cold days of winter. The ant illustrates the point and the beaver helps. The grasshopper is the wayward one. He hops around during the sunny summer and dies with the first chill wind of autumn.—MATTHEW A. TAYLOR.

"Table Steaks"

(Century Comedy—Universal—Two Reels)

THIS is a pleasant little comedy featuring the wonder dog, Brownie, and a youngster who lives up to the reputation of the mischievous brother who must be bribed to allow his sister complete freedom with her suitor. The action takes place in a country boarding house and Brownie is the center of attention.

"Table Steaks" is filled with first rate humor derived from an array of pleasing gags and it builds easily and surely with a sustained interest. The dog and the youngster see to that. A spectator might better drink embalming fluid and be done with it if he cannot find appeal with such a background.—LAURENCE REID.

"The Man in a Million"

(Produced by Charles R. Seeling for State Rights Distribution—Three Reels)

"THE MAN IN A MILLION" is a narrative recital of what is alleged to be true incidents in the lives of Ralph Obenchain and Madalynne Obenchain, his wife, now under indictment in California for the murder of a former admirer.

The picture presents Mr. Obenchain, his wife, certain Los Angeles officials and lawyers wh have actually been identified with the case in a series of sequences having to do with the courtship, marriage, martial troubles and the subsequent arrest of Mrs. Obenchain. Titles explain the scenes and carry the idea that Mrs. Obenchain is innocent.

There is nothing sensational or objectional about the production.

As drama it is lacking in climaxes, dramatic incident and suspense and has no semblance of a plot. The picture simply stops with Mrs. Obenchain being shown on trial.

Its reason for being made of course is that the principals have been given a great deal of publicity in connection with the murder of which Mrs. Obenchain is accused.—J. S. DICKERSON.

The First Unit of the MIAMI STUDIOS

is

NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Everything New and Modern—Nothing Shop-Worn or Second-Hand
Complete Laboratory—Fully equipped Shops—Finest Lighting Equipment

Dates for Two Companies Now Open

Apply The Miami Studios, Inc., Miami, Fla.

Or F. L. Faurote, 677 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Plaza 8988

FEATURE REVIEWS

"Lady Godiva"

Wstaria Productions, Inc.-Associated Exhibitors—5800 Feet

(Reviewed by Charles B. Larkin)

ENNYSON'S famous poem has been put in picture form. The poem was good. Te picture is fair. It's a costume play. It vs staged abroad with a cast of foreign srs, the names of whom are not even given h the film. It's just as well, as none of the aing stands out above the ordinary. The pducers have even been rather unfortunate i selecting the star role. Hedda Vernon's cef claim to fame is her long blonde tresses, vhich are used to advantage as she appears wapped in them and riding naked through te streets of Coventry. It might be said rht here that there is nothing to get excited er in this screen version of the much dissed ride. In fact, it's so delicately handled at it would not offend a deacon of the urch. As given to the screen "Lady odiva" is close to six reels in length. It n stand a lot of cutting. The action, such there is, needs speeding up.

The production follows Tennyson's poem irly well, quotations from the work being ed as subtitles. Some of the "big" scenes clude the coronation of Lady Godiva, the peal of the villagers to her for help, the cape of John Dryer, her lover; Godiva's ride rough the streets clad only in her blonde esses, and the destruction of the castle as er wicked husband and his playful comanions hold forth in merry mood.

"Lady Godiva" has been fairly well ounted, though there is a cheapness most oticeable in many of the sets. The alleged ene of sin and orgy shows nothing more an a group of eleventh century lounge zards and the aforementioned wicked husand listening to the court jester strum a icked air on the old guitar. The famous de in the nude does not come until the end the fifth reel. It's not worth waiting so ng for.

The picture's greatest value will be an eduational one. Students of literature and lovers Tennyson will undoubtedly be interested it. It should be a welcome addition to orks available for school use. Exhibitors, owever, should not throw out too many perlatives on this picture.

The Cast

dy Godiva.....Hedda Vernon

tory by Lord Alfred Tennyson. Directed by ubert Moest. Adapted by Marcelle Sonya. dited by Richard Fryer. Produced by Wisria Productions, Inc. Distributed by Associated Exhibitors through Pathe.

The Story: Leofric, a cruel earl of feudal ngland, forces Lady Godiva, a beautiful girl, marry him against her will. She suffers ingnities at hand because of her determination be a wife in name only. The people of oventry plead with her to intervene with her usband to lighten their taxes. She succeeds doing this but on condition that she ride, unad, on a white horse through the town. She oes this, but the earl has disregarded the mper of the people, for as he came forth in s palace, in honor of its completion, the edifice undermined and collapses killing all in it. ady Godiva, warned by the jester, escapes bere the catastrophe, and is reunited with her owed lover, who also escapes the headman.

Classification: Classical drama founded Tennyson's poem, approaching the melodramatic in spots, especially toward the end.

Drawing Power: Might go good in college mmunities, high class neighborhood houses d the smaller downtown theatres.

Exploitation Angles: The famous ride of Lady Godiva. Its literary value. Talk it up good to the schools of the city. Imitate the ride of Godiva through your own streets.

"The Face Between"

Metro—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

A SON'S sacrifice for his old roue father provides the theme of this drama, starring Bert Lytell. The premise upon which the story is founded does not always prove logical. There is no explanation of why a wronged husband should be able to banish a trespasser against his home and compel the latter to hide away in an isolated spot and not to return until the victim had expired. Such a novel twist provides a note of interest to this drama which entertains in spite of the plot shortcomings. Lytell plays a dual role—that of father and son. As the former he interprets a character with a good understanding and looks the part, except for a toupee which does not fit well.

The elder man, although in his dotage, has the spark of conquest in his system. He loves to dabble in romance. But he trespasses once too often and when the wronged husband enters his house it is the son who sacrifices his welfare—his love, to atone for his parent's sin. The honorable youth is banished to some out-of-the-way spot in the Blue Ridge mountains, where he is subjected to constant inconveniences. A native girl becomes enamored, but he accepts her love when she saves him from the night riders. She is shot from ambush and eventually the hero returns to New York, troubled with a conscience. He has also been wounded to the extent that his brain is affected. So he suffers hallucinations. The mountain girl is always appearing in the spirit and intruding into his happiness.

This is all highly improbable. In his effort to banish the wraith he plunges through a balustrade and meets with a serious injury. But the hallucinations disappear in time through the careful solicitation of his sweetheart, and romance triumphs. The picture is marked for good settings and first rate atmosphere. Overlooking the improbabilities, the average spectator is likely to be entertained. Too much is left to the imagination in certain phases of the story. It will be hard for the sticklers for logic to reconcile themselves to the conduct of the youth in sacrificing himself to save the honor of his father's name.

The Cast

Tommy Carteret, Sr.
Tommy Carteret, Jr. .....Bert Lytell
Sybil Eliot.....Andre Tourneur
Marianna Canfield.....Sylvia Breamer
Mr. Hartwell.....Hardee Kirkland
Mrs. Eliot.....Girard Alexander
Joe Borral.....Frank Brownlee
Jared.....Burwell Hamrick
Mr. Canfield.....Joel Day
The Doctor.....Dewitt Jennings

By Justus Miles Forman. Scenario by Lenore Coffee. Directed by Bayard Veiller. Photographed by Arthur Martinelli.

The Story—Treats of a son's sacrifice to save the honor of his father whose good name is in jeopardy. The youth gives up his own love—his home, everything, and suffers himself to be banished to an isolated mountain district to protect his father, and warned not to return until the victim is dead. There he meets a young mountain girl who saves him from the night riders. She is killed but her spirit returns to torture him. After a series of unpleasant experiences he returns to the city and is cured.

Classification—Story of self-sacrifice with dramatic moments interspersed with some romantic coloring. Star appears in dual role characterization. Reveals a psychic touch.

Production Highlights—Acting of star in dual role. Good support furnished by Andre Tourneur. Novelty of plot. First rate settings. Moment when son sacrifices career and love to protect his father. Double exposure.

Exploitation Angles—Lytell is the angle here to exploit. Plot is unusual and should not be detailed because of its novelty. Chance to interest spectators with psychic touch. Author is well known fictionist.

"Bought and Paid For"

Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

GEORGE BROADHURST'S play is hardly more than a memory to the majority of younger picture patrons. It is revived only occasionally on stock. This fact will help the screen version of the play, for while the plot has been adhered to, the characters have been altered in some cases. Mr. De Mille probably believed that Walter Hiers would make a better "Jimmy Gilley" for screen purposes than someone who would approximate the "Jimmy" of the stage. And probably he was right, for Hiers wins some laughs in his role, besides making it a fairly true characterization.

Mr. De Mille has, of course, dressed up the production. Once he takes his characters into a life of affluence, it would be easy to guess that it was a De Mille production even were there no announcement of the fact. He works up to his climax in good fashion and puts it over in dramatic style. The young wife finds her drunken husband is not the same man she married. He turns from a god to a beast. When he tells her that he has "bought and paid for her," she leaves him. And the reconciliation episode which follows again proves the limitations of the screen in adapting a stage play. The picture ends comparatively weakly.

Agnes Ayres gives a satisfactory performance for screen purposes, and Holt's appearance is a fine point of appeal. His acting in the dramatic moments is satisfactory.

The Cast

Virginia Blaine.....Agnes Ayres
Robert Stafford .....Jack Holt
James Giley .....Walter Hiers
Fanny Blaine .....Leah Wyant
Oku .....George Kuwa
Maid .....Bernice Frank
Telegraph Girl .....Ethel Wales

From the Play by George Broadhurst. Scenario by Clara Beranger. Directed by William De Mille. Produced by Famous Players.

The Story—Virginia is a telephone girl whose beautp attracts the attention of Robert Stafford, a rich financier. Her sister and prospective brother-in-law persuade her to encourage his attentions, in order that they may be able to obtain enough money to marry in comfort. Virginia marries the rich man and in time learns to love him. The husbands only faut is a habit of excessive drinking. Intoxicated one night he forces himself upon her and declares that he has "bought and paid" for her. To preserve her self-respect, Virginia leaves him. Pride keeps him away until Virginia's brother manages to bring them together by a ruse. A reconciliation follows.

Classification—A domestic drama, with its appeal depending almost entirely up romance.

Production Highlights—The typical De Mille settings and the elaborate clothes worn by all the principals. The comedy scenes of Walter Hiers. Holt's scene with Agnes Ayres and its dramatic development. The final reconciliation.

Drawing Power—Not a picture for the thrill-lovers, but should be enjoyed by a higher class audience, both men and women. No appeal for children.

"The Isle of Zorda"

Pathe—Nine Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THIS foreign picture of French design may not carry a box-office value in its title and cast, and the author, Jules Verne, is not widely known on this side of the water, but if the exhibitor plays "The Isle of Zorda" it is almost certain that his audience will express complete satisfaction over the highly adventurous line of action which marks the subject from beginning to end. The outstanding feature is the pictorial appeal, coupled with the exceptional work of the players. The director has collected some genuinely picturesque locations and against these has fashioned a vivid melodrama which holds the interest through the rich vein of adventure.

You follow the plight of the revolutionists who are determined to overthrow the government. Inasmuch as they are the "underdog" you offer them the utmost sympathy. Particularly effective is the miraculous escape of the chief revolutionist, played with deep feeling by Romuald Joube. The prison is located high up on a rocky cliff, but the conspirator makes a thrilling getaway. "The Isle of Zorda" abounds in thrills which come real often and are filled with surprises. It is a story complete with every known ingredient identified with the melodramatic formula at its best. The plot is highly complicated, but nevertheless easy to follow because of the stressing detail and the careful spacing of every scene in a well arranged continuity.

Audiences will accept it as adventurous and they will be treated to an interpretation that its thoroughly in character. The thing is to get the crowd. And this should be done with a heavy exploitation concerning its abundant thrills, its fine suspense, and a sustained line of action. Being nine reels, the picture is too long. The story could be sacrificed in places without marring the sequences. At any rate, it is a novelty.

The Cast

Mathias Sandorf.....Romuald Joube
Sava.....Yvette Andreyor
Sarcany.....M. Vermoyal

Adapted from story, "Mathias Sandorf," by Jules Verne. Directed by Henri Fescourt. French production distributed by Pathe.

The Story: Adventurer gets possession of a secret code message and co-operates with unscrupulous banker with whom he gets position as secretary to wealthy man. He decodes messages and discovers plot against government. The two conspirators come into possession of enormous wealth. The three are imprisoned, but rich man escapes. Years elapse and Sandorf, the wealthy man, bobs up as wanderer over the Orient. Having become a healer he inherits Isle of Zorda left him by a man he has cured. His mission is to seek vengeance upon men who betrayed him. After many adventurous experiences he turns over conspirators to authorities and finds happiness with his daughter and her lover on the Isle of Zorda.

Classification: Adventurous, highly colorful melodrama which becomes involved through complications. Contains rich atmosphere and romance. Carries every known melodramatic ingredient.

Production Highlights: Picturesque exteriors. Fantastic adventure. Good suspense. Work of cast. Fine atmosphere for foreign picture.

Exploitation Angles: Opportunities here to play up a highly colorful and venturesome melodrama which carries the utmost in response. Being a foreign picture with French players the offering does not mean much from that angle. Should be exploited as being adaptation of Jule Verne's novel. Pictorial appeal should stimulate interest.

Drawing Power: It is a question whether this one will get over unless you exploit it properly. For one thing it is a foreign picture, the players being unknown in America. The steady patrons should be advised that it is highly colorful. Title is attractive and once in the patrons are certain to advertise among their friends that it is highly adventurous. Good where there is a daily change.

"A Quilty Conscience"

Vitagraph—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Charles Street)

TONY MORENO plays the part of a British East Indian official in this drama of a self-sacrificing husband, a plotting villain and an unjustly accused wife.

The picture has been developed with considerable detail, showing life in India. The hero, fever-stricken, seeks solace in the Bible. He reads of King David's schemes to obtain another's wife and is made suspicious by the similarity between the Bible story and incidents of his own domestic life. After developing the plot to a climax, the story is given a different twist by having the villain who has been plotting to obtain the hero's wife, become conscience-stricken, and of his own accord, cease his attentions to the woman and also sets the other wrongs right.

Mr. Moreno is a good type for his role and plays with skill and feeling. The picture lacks action and does not permit any great variety of incident, but it is rich in atmosphere and points a fine moral. It is the kind of a story that the average fan is inclined to accept as good entertainment, and as such should get by in the average theatre.

The star is supported by a good cast of types. Betty Francisco plays the role of the heroine, the persecuted and unjustly suspected wife of the English officer. Others who give splendid performances are H. Van Meter and L. MacFarlane.

The photography and settings are up to the mark and the direction by David Smith acceptable.

The Cast

Gilbert Thurstan, British civil employee.....Antonio Moreno
Emily Thurstan, wife of Gilbert.....Betty Francisco
Vincent Chalmers, British commissioner..H. Van Meter
Ida Seabury, matron friend of principals....Lilie Leslie
James Roberts, inspector.....J. MacFarlane
A doctor .....Unnamed

By George Cameron. Directed by David Smith. Scenario by Jay Pilcher. Photography by George Robinson.

The Story—Chalmers, as British Commissioner, sends Thurstan as magistrate to Kajra, India, where white men die of fever. Chalmers' aim is to court Thurstan's wife, Emily. Three times his present pay is the inducement offered Thurstan, who jumps at the offer because it'll enable him to send his wife to a health resort. While Chalmers pays attention to Mrs. Thurstan, Thurstan, fighting the fever, incurs enmity of fanatical Hindus, whom he quells alone. Mrs. Thurstan repels Chalmers, who, remose-stricken by visions of Thurstan dying, travels to Kajra and relieves Thurstan of appointment ahead of the wife, who had overheard talk of husband's condition.

Classification—Drama of intrigue based on British Commissioner's infatuation with subordinate's wnfe. Contains some good "Human interest" and ends happily.

Production Highlights—Splendid portrayal of sick man by Moreno. Scene of blood-thirsty Hindus rushing to attack Moreno, and his handling of them. Baby's birthday party. Clever "padding" of rescue race to Kirja. Van Meter's visions.

Exploitation Angles—Moreno risking life for love of wife. Hindu scenes, of which there are many. Van Meter's imaginary view of Moreno in India. Anxious wife bending over sick husband in hospital.

Drawing Power—Good enough for tasty theatres. Splendid for neighborhood houses and may take in some whose patrons want a nice theme handled in a genteel way way as a diversion.

The new Booking Guide is on the Press. It is an aid to exhibitors that none can afford to miss. Watch for it.

"Kisses"

Metro—Six Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THE good American pastime of adverti ing is exposed in this sparkling comed romance entitled "Kisses," adapted by Jun Mathis from May Tully's original story. It a pleasant reminder of "It Pays to Adve tise" and "The Fortune Hunter" in its d velopment, yet carries enough novelty to b called something out of the ordinary. Fo one thing there is a laugh in most every foo of the action. Harry Myers sees to tha Known as P. Barnum Bailey he is a gifte campaigner in putting over exploitation.

The humor begins accumulating aboard regular train with the heroine returning fro college and starting a flirtation with the irre pressible promoter in the adjoining seat. H has promised to help her out with his gift c speech at the forthcoming charity bazaa And equipped with a megaphone he enable her to win the prize for taking in most of th coin. Hers is the candy booth—the sweet being made fro mher own recipe. It is whe her father fails in business and unable to rais money enough to stave off disaster that th story picks up a dramatic thread. A stock holder in the father's company has refused a loan and the girl is forced to go to work She has the assistance of the promoter to floa her candy company on the market. And soor they are backing the rival to the wall. The scenes fairly sparkle with clever incident and high jinks. The romance keeps abreast with the action, and is not added in an arbitrary fashion.

There seems to be a reason for everything here—even to the recipe which is established through the heroine making her candy from goat's milk. And the animal is tied outside. Offices are maintained and things are brightening all around for the young people who eventually sell out to their grasping competitor at an immense figure. Just to keep the conflict moving a rival lover has his innings when the ring is returned to him. A smart, clever piece of construction in every department—well acted, staged with effective sets and breezing through with nary a skip in the plot. "Kisses" is one of the most delightful light comedy offerings of the season.

The Cast

Betty Ellen Estabrook.....Alice Lake
Bill Bailey.....Harry Myers
Thomas Estabrook.....Edward Connelly
John Maynard.....Edward Jobson
Norman Maynard.....Dana Todd
Bessie Neldon.....Mignon Anderson
Edward Neldon.....John MacKinnon
Gustave.....Eugene Pouyet

By May Tully. Scenario by June Mathis. Directed by Maxwell Karger. Photographed by Allan Siegler.

The Story—Comedy of youthful pluck and romance with rich girl returning from boarding school with a skill at making excellent candy. Her father fails in business, which necessitates the daughter going to work. She finds a good promoter in youth with whom she flirted on train and who subsequently exploited her candy at a bazaar and together they launch a successful enterprise, selling out to their competitors at a princely figure.

Classification—Light comedy-romance of resourceful girl whose receptive attitude toward youth wins his friendship and together they start a successful enterprise. Romantic moments highly dominant. Plenty of humor.

Production Highlights—Scene on train when girl flirts with youth and discovers him a skillful promoter and advertising man. Scene at charity bazaar when Harry Myers puts over good comedy. Scene in office when the partners are winning fame and fortune. Work of cast. Clever captions. Careful staging. Breezy comedy spirit.

Exploitation Angles—Since this is one of the best light comedies of the season the exhibitor should take special pains in putting it over. The title suggests opportunities to link up with candy dealers and distribute kisses to your patrons. Harry Myers in cast.

Drawing Power—Will get over well everywhere.

"Come on Over"

Goldwyn—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

UPERT HUGHES is the sponsor of this picture and since it is typically Irish in me, characterization and atmosphere, it ainly comes as a timely offering during week which harbors St. Patrick's Day. author has not scintillated so brilliantly e as in some other essays contributed to screen. His idea is old and obvious and ve in development. In fact it builds along exceedingly slight thread depending upon tic background and incident for its ngth. In fact the humor is entirely ned from the captions which are pic-sque in phrasing and truly "ould sod" in racter.

Come on Over" is really a three reeler ended to feature length through the em-yment of Irish color and atmosphere. And se qualities are manifested with an old-hioned reel, heart interest scenes between g separated relatives, and the eccentricities the figures. It is a well chosen cast, com-sing Kate Price who nearly walks away h first honors because of her ability to tray a familiar type of "biddy." There is o a character who suggests an old time sh burlesque type of comedian. Around promise to sign the pledge revolves the icate plot—a plot founded entirely upon nance and misunderstanding. The heroine eft in Ireland by her sweetheart. Arriving New York the youth has a tough time of making both ends meet. Before he is re-ted to the colleen much happens in the y of convenient incident. A successful shman returns to the native heath and ngs back his mother—a woman addicted smoking a clay pipe, and also the heroine. e latter misunderstands the situation and uses to entertain the youth until she learns t he is faithful after all. And she dis-vers her newfound romance at an old-hioned "shindig" held at the home of a osperous Irishman.

Atmosphere and local color? Indeed. Kate ice vows she can dance down the hostess. nd a door is brought into the room and nced upon as if it might be placed in a ld of clover. The picture ends with the sh jig. Colleen Moore lives up to her me and the others fit their roles. The pro-ction is first rate. It is a pleasing offering spite its frailties and is certain to succeed ost everywhere.

The Cast

yna Killiea	Colleen Moore
ane O'Mealia	Ralph Graves
chael Morahan	J. Farrell MacDonald
lia Morahan	Kate Price
rmody	James Marcus
ly Dugan	Kathleen O'Connor
dget Morahan	Florence Drew
le Morahan	Harold Holland
te Morahan	Mary Warren
s. Van Dusen	Elinor Hancock
gan	Monti Collins
rney	C. E. Mason
est	C. B. Leasure

Rupert Hughes. Directed by Alfred reene. Photographed by L. William O'Con-ll. Art director, Cedric Gibbons. Produced by Goldwyn.

The Story—Youth sails from Ireland for nerica promising to send for sweetheart as on as financial circumstances permit. He is able to keep his positions though doesn't give hope that his fiancee may some day join n. She is brought to America unbeknown hero and surprises him. She misunderstands e situation confronting her and believes him faithful. At Irish party she learns the truth d love triumphs.

Classification—Romantic love story carrying deal of adventure and wholesome character-ics of Irish people. Moments of humor.

Production Highlights—Humorous subtitles Rupert Hughes, the author of picture. Fine ckgrounds revealing true atmosphere. Ideal st, well selected, and contributing first rate rtrayals. Irish party which reveals old-shioned jigs and dances. Heart interest enes when long separated relatives are re-united. Humor of scene when colleen escapes from home of friends.

Exploitation Angles—The Irish background and characteristics of people revealed here. The story and titles by Rupert Hughes, responsible for "The Old Nest," and "Dangerous Curve Ahead." The cast. Love interest and highly dominant note of romance. Fine prologue opportunities with typical Irish fo songs, dances and music. Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody" for overture and his "Eileen" score for musical interpretation coupled with old Irish songs.

Drawing Power—There is no question of this picture succeeding especially where Irish people are congregated. Great for St. Patrick's Day week. Good for most any locality. Prologue and exploitation values will draw them in.

"Yankee Doodle, Jr."

M. J. Burnside-State Rights—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

A STORY that combines George M. Cohan with O. Henry, direction that never misses a high spot—and there are a dozen of them; and commendable acting characterize "Yankee Doodle Jr." It is the most delicious little comedy drama that the state right market has seen in some time. And it contains real ly big stuff.

The state right field has had some big pictures since the new year. But they have been melodrama, or kid stuff, or rural farce. Nothing quite like "Yankee Doodle Jr." has been seen. It is rollicking, never-ceasing, sure fire incident of the live and peppy Yankee boy who starts out to make good and does it with a vengeance. You know the character—good natured, daring, irresponsible, chivalrous. Put him in a mythical South American republic, such as O. Henry wrote about. There is a revolution every hour on the hour. The hero's job is to sell the fireworks his dad manufacturers. And sell them he does. For he sees the possibility by celebrating each new president or dictator with a grand pyrotechnic festival.

But it is not farce. The hero joins the forces of the lawful president and with Yankee nerve and daring succeeds in placing him back in the presidental chair. The president's daughter helps to supply the romance.

The production is lavish and carefully done, and is very colorful. His extras look their parts. And there is a "palace," presumably not a movie set, which is a wonder, and which, we believe, is making its debut in pictures. And for a climax Mr. Pratt stages a battle with the invading revolutionists repulsed by a barrage of skyrockets which will get every one in your audience under sixteen cheering and yelling, and those over sixteen feeling that way. Then there is the fireworks display, in color, which celebrates the restoration of the lawful government. It is a slam-bang finish for a slam-bang picture.

J. Franklin Glennon proves that he can register in light work. He fortunately does not overdo this part as the Yankee. His personality is pleasing and well suited for the part. He gets the spirit of the role without working it to death and burlesquing it. E. M. Kimball is the fireworks manufacturer who sends his son out as a salesman.

"Yankee Doodle, Jr." an exhibitor can exploit to the limit. And he can do it with a clear conscience and no worry. To sum it all up—they'll like it!

The Cast

John Arnold, Jr.	J. Frank Glennon
Senorita Zurra Gormarro	Zelma Margan
John Arnold, Sr.	E. M. Kimball
The President	Victor Sarno
Secret Service Chief	Sidney D'Allbrock
The Captain	Jack Pratt

Directed by Jack Pratt. Titles by Ralph Spence. Produced by Cineart.

The Story—John Arnold is a rich man's son. "Work!" says his dad. So he starts selling his father's fireworks. By chance he decides to cover the South American territory. He arrives in a mythical country, just after a revolution and convinces the brigand dictator that the people should celebrate with fireworks. But then he meets the ex-president's daughter and decides to hide armed men in the cases of fireworks. So the lawful ruler is returned. But another traitor starts a revolution and John and his fireworks take an active part in punishing them and rescuing the kidnapped maiden.

Classification—A rapid-fire comedy drama, colored with romance, and tinged with a bit of melodramatic action. Flag-waving in its theme.

Production Highlights—John's arrival in South America; the revolution and his ruse to sell the dictator fireworks; big mob scenes and big sets with excellent atmosphere; the recapture of the palace; the kidnapping of the president's daughter; her rescue; the storming of the jail by the revolutionists; their attack upon the palace and their repulse by an avalanche of fireworks; a beautiful fireworks display, in color—one of the most unusual things of its kind ever screened.

Exploitation Angles—All sorts and all varieties; circus staff will get over, street displays and ballyhoos; men dressed in fancy uniforms; tie-ups with various kinds of stores; prologue in garden set, with the singing of Neopolitan or Spanish love songs. Teasers with the title; slam-bang press copy.

Drawing Power — Everywhere — from the Broadway house down to the smallest theatre. They'll enjoy it; because it's entertainment.

"The Ragged Heiress"

Fox—4888 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THERE is a faint touch of Cinderella in this story as its title indicates. It is of obvious design, the plot concerning an "orphan" who is reunited to her father—not through the medium of the locket or a baby picture, but through the photograph of the father's housekeeper who had brought up the girl as her own. The first part of the story carries several implausibilities. You see the father placing the child in the care of his vicious brother while he goes to serve a term in prison, stating that he does not want her to know his fall from grace. So far so good.

It is when the youngster strays from home and is picked up by her old nurse, the housekeeper for her father, and reared as the elderly woman's daughter that the plot develops a false note. Any child would carry a vivid memory of her unpleasant life particularly when she is tortured by her foster parents. And if this wasn't enough the little girl would surely remember the address of her former home. Anyway she grows up and when the housekeeper dies, the heroine, answering a "want add," returns to the house that meant so much trouble for her and becomes a domestic, with no memory of her erstwhile childhood. This is contrary to good logic. It is also smacking of the long arm of coincidence. The picture releases some good heart interest, a note or two of pathos and some piquant scenes are developed through the star's personality. After the father returns the action picks up and the offering closes with sufficient strength.

It is a mighty effective scene when the heroine's sweetheart informs her criminal father that he would marry her regardless of her antecedents. The romance is more or less arbitrarily introduced, the dominant note being the conflict of the girl with her foster parent. A fairly dramatic scene develops when the heroine refuses to hoodwink her own father any longer. He discovers the truth and compels his brother to pay in full for robbing him of money contributed toward her welfare. There is some local color and moments occur when pathos is admirably balanced with humor. The father's prison life might have been exposed with a scene or two. "The Ragged Heiress" because of its sure-fire appeal will send them forth satisfied.

The Cast

Lucia Moreton.....Shirley Mason
Glen Wharton.....John Harron
Sam Moreton.....Edwin Stevens
James Moreton.....Cecil Van Auker
Sylvia Moreton.....Claire McDowell
Nora Burke.....Aggie Herring
Lucia at age of 3.....Eileen O'Malley

By Jules Furthman. Directed by Harry Beaumont. Photographed by Lucien Andriot. Produced by Fox.

The Story—Orphan tale with heroine left in care of vicious relatives of her father who is sentenced to long term in prison. She runs away and is reared as daughter of her father's former housekeeper, later returning as young girl to home of her uncle to become a domestic. Her father is released from prison and comes to claim his child who is passed off as his own, the relatives thinking her a stranger to him. Scene develops dramatic conflict.

Classification—Heart interest story of orphan girl reunited to father after series of unhappy incidents. Carries dominant note of pathos well balanced with humor. Also contains adequate romance.

Production Highlights—Scene when little girl runs away and is brought up as housekeeper's child. Scene when she returns to former home and is compelled to masquerade as father's child while she believes herself no relative. The situation when young admirer informs father his intention to marry her despite unpleasant experiences in father's life. The acting of Cecil Van Auker as father, Edwin Stevens as uncle and Miss Mason as orphan.

Exploitation Angles—This is a sure-fire theme which always entertains because of heart interest. Should be exploited for its dominant heart appeal. Stills of star and announcements that story is rich in pathos and humor will help draw a crowd. Title is attractive.

Drawing Power—This will succeed because of its heart appeal. Not big enough for week run. Will please them on the daily change program. Title will help and customers will be satisfied. Best in family or the neighborhood houses.

"A Question of Honor"

Anita Stewart Productions-First National—6065 Feet

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

IF we could understand the logic of the villain's villainy and comprehend the hero's reason for becoming insulted when an apparently legitimate business proposition is made him, we might enjoy this screen story a whole lot better. For the incident is good, the action is fine, but we never come to know what all the excitement is about.

The story deals with a battle for a right of way over a mountain in the West. The hero is building a dam and owns the right of way. The railroad company wants it and when the railroad president finds he cannot buy it (the hero feels the proposal is an insult to his honor) he tries to blow it up. Perhaps a lawyer specializing in franchise work will know how this will help him, but we do not think the average audience will.

If the audience will accept the action as such, without trying to find the reasons, the picture will go over very well. The picture has been filmed in a beautiful country and the scenes showing the construction of the big dam in the heart of the mountains are appealing. Miss Stewart also has an attractive role—that of a New York flirt who is transplanted to the Sierras where she finds a man who will not succumb to her charms. The society element is mingled with the appeal of the outdoors and the star by her excellent work, will make as many friends as in her more dramatic roles. She makes a delightful coquette without overdoing her work. Walt Whitman is also eligible for the acting honors. He is cast as a hoary old man of the mountains, an inveterate woman hater. He furnishes a splendid comedy relief all the way through the picture. Edward Hearn, the leading man, does satisfactory work.

Except for the fact that the story is not well "planted" in the beginning, "A Question of Honor" should be fine entertainment. Perhaps a few more explanatory sub-titles would bring a clearer understanding. Then the rising suspense and rapid action and good atmosphere and acting could be accepted with greater enjoyment. Incidently, the title-writer has done some high class work here.

The Cast

Anne Wilmot.....Anita Stewart
Bill Shannon.....Edward Hearn
Leon Morse.....Arthur Stuart Hull
Sheb.....Walt Whitman
Charles Burkthaler.....Bert Sprotee
Stephen Douglas.....Frank Beal
Mrs. Wilmot.....Adele Farrington
Mrs. Elton.....Mary Land
John Bretton.....Ed. Brady
Parsons.....Doc. Bytell

From the novel by Ruth Cross. Directed by Edwin Carewe. Scenario by Josephine Quirk. Photography by Robert B. Kurrle. Produced by Anita Stewart Productions, Inc.

The Story.—A railroad financier is trying to obtain the right of way over a mountain pass from an engineer who is building a dam. In order to make sure of it he travels to the Sierras himself, accompanied by a wealthy society young lady and her mother. The engineer is firm in his resolve not to sell the right of way. He becomes acquainted with the young lady. The romance develops. The railroad man tries to blow up the dam, but the girl warns her lover and the invaders are repulsed. The heroine is compromised by being found in the engineer's hut. A second attempt to blow up the dam is more successful, but its total destruction is prevented by the girl, who is injured. The happy ending results.

Classification.—A drama of the Sierras with good action and plenty of romance.

Production Highlights.—The scenes which build up the atmosphere of the construction camp; the characterization of Walt Whitman; the rescue of the heroine from the rushing stream, swelled by the loosed waters; the country dance scene; the blowing up of the dam; the heroine's ride on a hand car to give the warning; a virile, realistic fist fight between the hero and one of the heavies.

Exploitation Angles.—Watch for a possible tie-up with the title, "A Question of Honor," and some news story. Atmosphere and setting of the picture can be emphasized in press copy; the star's many admirers may be appealed to, and promised that their favorite has a distinct and new role.

Drawing Power.—Popular in all houses where Miss Stewart is popular; also will be liked in houses which like Western action.

"Rangeland"

Wm. Steiner Productions—Five Reels

(Reviewed by John Oscar)

A STRAIGHT-AWAY Western, built after a somewhat old-fashioned formula, this offering has an appeal to the followers of such a type of drama—if for no other reason than the back-ground against which it is pictured—the real Texas of wide plains, and winding back as far as the old lava-beds, of the southern part of the state, which form a most effective setting for most of the feature.

Neal Hart is quite evidently a cow-boy—he isn't much of an actor, but then acting scarcely goes to make up a large part of a typical Western picture such as "Rangeland." He has one or two excellent types in the cast, the photoplay is good, and, as has already been said, the scenery is great—a bit unusual and distinctly interesting.

The theme is that of the good Western hero, the forlorn little girl (played by Blanche McGarity, who is certainly a most pathetic, if not particularly attractive figure,) and the bold, bad villain disguised as a good character until, near the end of the story, he shows himself in his true colors.

Then there is a fight—not a very convincing fight, or one that will bring forth cheers of joy. And the love interest has been allowed to develop as it will—there's no stressing of it, which, perhaps, is just as well.

Taking it all in all, by and large, this is a Western that will please those who cr 'em—and those who don't like 'em woul like any other kind either. It is, to sun up, an average attraction, of average m

The Cast

Chuck Quigley.....Ben Co
Sheriff John Hampton.....Patrick Meg
Ned Williams, ex-cowboy and deputy.....Neal
Bud Spaugh.....Max W
Buck Kelley.....William Q
Betty Howard.....Blanche McG

Story and screen adaptation by Neal Hart Paul Hurst. Directed by Neal Hart. Ph graphed by Jacob Badaracco. Produced William Steiner Productions.

The Story—Ned Williams, ex-cowboy deputy sheriff, is the terror of all evil-dc He captures a couple of men who are tam ing with their neighbors' cattle, and thus curs the enmity of Bud Spaugh, their r leader. He is ordered to arrest "the ho steader who is stealing Brand-Diamond cattle," and finds the "rustler" to be a forl little girl who steals to keep her small brot and sisters from starving. She and Ned in love. Spaugh "frames up" a jail-deliv and a fake hold-up on Ned—and then kidn the girl. Ned rides for revenge, rescues girl, and in a fight in the old lava-beds, ma a prisoner of his enemy, and wins the girl.

Classification—Straight-away Western m drama. Average incident.

Production Highlights—Excellent phot raphy and a background that has not b photographed to death. The old lava-beds Texas, wide, sweeping plains, etc., are n effective.

Exploitation Angles—Uusual Western an —a "hard-ridin', hard-shootin' two-fisted man, who settles his arguments in a he-m way"—who, though he was an officer, fe ferred to fight like a man. Western atm phere good.

Drawing Power—Should go best in theatres catering particularly to men and b —those who are especially keen on Weste Might do in the neighborhood houses—but a ture that would hardly draw in the bigt houses catering to the more discriminat patrons.

"Don't Doubt Your Wife"

Associated Exhibitors—5000 Feet

(Reviewed by Charles B. Larkin)

THIS picture is going to surprise a lot f exhibitors. Its title might lead to the lief that it is just "one of those things," wh daily are added to the long list of average tures. We have had a flood of socall problem plays on the screen. The pul has just about been "fed up" on the ty. But, in spite of the title, this picture is an ceptionally high class production, approa ing 100 percent in entertainment value. has an interesting story to tell and sta right in to tell it—a point on which Direc James W. Horne is to be commended.

Leah Baird who wrote the story a scenario, is also the star. In the role of R Manning, the wife who is a victim of cumstantial evidence, Miss Baird contribu to screen literature an unusually fine bit characterization. She is attractive at times. Her gowns will appeal to the fe nine eye. She is ably supported by Edw Peil and Emory Johnson. Mr. Peil a veteran of the stage and screen and always be relied upon for some real acti Mr. Johnson, who has appeared oppos Betty Compson and other stars, works h and aids in putting snap into the action. has the role of "the other man" in "eternal triangle."

One of the features of the picture are settings. The interiors especially are go the cabaret scenes being quite lavish. Th is a realistic rain storm. The wedding se notable for attention to detail. It is h that we find Miss Baird looking her best a gorgeous bridal gown.

The photography is artistic througho The action flows smoothly from first to l scene with very little padding indicated. T lot holds the interest right up to the final ideout. While the story points out a moral, is not preachy. Its lesson will strike home many families. Katherine Lewis and Iathilde Brundage are good in minor parts.

The Cast

ose Manning....Leah Baird
hn Manning....Edward Peil erbert Olden....Emory Johnson
rs. Evanston....Mathilde Brundage arie Braban....Katherine Lewis

roduced by Leah Baird Productions, Inc., for ssociated Exhibitors. Distributed by Pathe. irected by James W. Horne. Story and cenario by Leah Baird. Photographed by harles Stumar. Production supervised by Arthur F. Beck.

The Story—John Manning, jealous of his wife, aches the breaking point when she returns at late hour, part of her clothing missing and earing the coat of Herbert Olden, who has ways loved her. Manning will not believe the ife's story of being caught in a storm and opping in a roadhouse to dry her clothes, and unning away without her outer garments when ie place is raided by dry agents. He drives er from his home. A divorce is obtained. till loving her husband, the wife promises to arry Olden. However, on her wedding day ie learns that she is to become the mother f Manning's child. Olden, forcing Manning listen to an explanation of everything, puts side his own love for Rose, and affects a re- onciliation. The wedding that was to have een him wedded reunites Rose and Manning.

Production Highlights.—An interesting story ell told. Excellent characterizations by a nall but talented cast. High class exterior and terior settings. Some thrilling moments dur- g a realistic lightning storm, a raid on a ountry roadhouse and in scenes between hus- and and wife. Some fine shots of a Broad- ay cabaret.

Classification.—Domestic drama of society and arriage, tinted with some melodramatic spots.

Exploitation Angles—The title is the big ing to exploit in this picture. Flood the ty with it.

Drawing Power.—Should go well in most any ouse, especially in second class down-town rst run and neighborhood theatres.

"A Game Chicken"

Realart-Paramount—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

A SNAPPY title, a colorful line of incident carrying first rate comedy spirit, and a ar who fits the story as if it were written ith her in mind make "A Game Chicken" leasing entertainment for most any kind or atron. The sponsors have injected some ood red pepper which provides a piquant ressing for the action, and coupled with this ere is revealed an appropriate background. urthermore the story is a timely one since concerns rum-running or smuggling. The eme is established on an old foundation.

It revolves around a conflict between love nd duty—love of the heroine for the govern- ent agent determined to stop the rum-run- ers, a business with which her father is dentified, and duty toward the parent. Be- ore she is able to declare herself safe on the ide of romance the spectator is treated to ome snappy incident which places Miss Daniels in an attractive light. She is the ir- esponsible tomboy again—one who takes articular delight in teasing her father. The eroine is of Spanish caste and the agent appens along when trouble is brewing over cock fight which is attended by the young enorita. The star appears in masculine attire nd gets away with it. A jealous admirer obs up to heap hot coals on the conflict. He tells her that the agent is a hired spy en- aged to trap her father. This sounds plaus- ble to her and she scorns her newfound lover. The situation develops into a snappy climax hen the girl and the agent are carried out o sea by the rum-runners.. The sweethearts ake their escape in thrilling fashion. The tle is magnetic enough to attract attention. When the passerby recognizes that Bebe Daniels is the star he is certain to obey that impulse—go in and see her. He will not be disappointed. The cast is highly efficient. The director has kept it going at a good tempo, besides dressing it up with adequate incident and a colorful atmosphere.

The Cast

Inez Hastings....Bebe Daniels
Rush Thompson....Pat O'Malley
Joshua Hastings....James Gordon
Camilla Hastings....Martha Mattox
Senora Juanita Martinez....Gertrude Norman
Jose Maria Lavendera....Hugh Thompson
Jo-Jo....Max Weatherwax
Marietta....Mattie Peters
Captain Snodgrass....Charles Force
Hiram Proudfoot....Edwin Stevens

By Nina Wilcox Putnam. Scenario by Fred Myton. Directed by Chester Franklin. Photographed by George Folsey. Produced by Realart.

The Story—Treats of a girl living in Cuba with parents and grandmother—the girl growing up into an irresponsible tomboy. Inez, as she is known, delights in cock fights much to her father's disgust. An argument ensues at the exhibition and a U. S. government agent rescues her. His mission is to frustrate shipments of whiskey to the States—a business with which her father is identified. The girl later exposes the agent but goes to his aid when his life is threatened. Romance triumphs.

Classification—Adventurous romance containing highly colorful characterization. Timely story having to do with rum-running. Carries picturesque incident.

Production Highlights—Comedy spirit of story. Work of Bebe Daniels who has a colorful role ideal for her personality. Thrills ensuing aboard ship as girl and revenue agent are in danger, and their subsequent escape on an upturned lifeboat. Effective settings.

Exploitation Angles—The title and the fact that the picture serves as ideal vehicle for star the exhibitor should have no trouble in his exploitation campaign. Concentrating upon her personality will attract them. Opportunities for colorful teaser campaign. Stills of star and exploiting fact that she appears in manly attire will stimulate interest.

Drawing Power—Where Bebe Daniels is popular, picture should get over first rate. Comedy spirit will be appreciated by family audiences. Good for any house but the big ones.

"Shadows of the West"

National Exchanges (Standard)—5000 Feet

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

"SHADOWS OF THE WEST" might properly be termed the 1922 edition of western dramas. It contains all the essentials that lend color to the old West, yet it includes a World War phase that stamps it as up-to-the-minute, as far the time period is involved. Yes, there is a plot, although the physical thrills bid for most of the honors of which they are deserving. The story is based on the Asiatic question in California and it sets forth with unusual clearness the existing conditions and inter-racial feeling. The theme in general abounds with opportunities for heroes and villains to prove their worth as actors and Lieut. Pat O'Brien is to be commended on his work in portraying the character of Jim Kern in one of the leading roles.

There is a 100 per cent American girl, a call to war, a peril into which the girl falls, then a thrilling rescue as a climax. A tender love story is interwoven in the plot, which gives it a human interest angle, discounting a possible monotony of physical thrills. However, these punch scenes are by no means sham. Ben Corbett, who plays one of the leading roles, long has been a master horseman and the catch line: "Anything that walks on four legs that can't be ridden by a cowboy is not worth riding," is vindicated by the picture. The photography is good.

The Cast

Mary Ward....Hedda Nova
Mrs. Ward, Mary's mother....Helen Wright
Jim Kern....Lieut. Pat O'Brien
Buck Randon....Ben Corbett
Frank Suki....Seymour Zeliff
Nitobe, Suki's assistant....Arno Marsh
Lucy Norton....Virginia Dale
Togo Lu....Arthur Jasmine
Suto Lu....Yvette Mitchell
Mrs. Kern....Jane Grandon

Produced by M. P. P. Company of America. Directed by Paul Hurst, under personal supervision of Charles Hickman.

The Story—Western girl, typical American, holds contempt for a band of outlaws and openly defies the leader. War is declared and young men of country enlist. In the absence of her sweetheart, the girl falls into the hands of the leader of the band, who plans clever trap for her, but the sweetheart appears upon the scene just in time to affect a thrilling rescue against big odds and Cupid performs his customary duty.

Classification.—All western, bordering upon the melodramatic at several stages.

Production Highlights.—Natural scenic beauty, melodramatic elements and rescue of girl by sweetheart.

Exploitation Angles.—Lieut. Pat O'Brien's war record offers good foundation for publicity; also the record of Ben Corbett as a "boss rider" of the West. Asiatic problem can be worked in well.

Drawing Power.—Should go great where physical thrills are popular, but does not have to rely upon this element alone, as there is plenty of love interest, suspense and human interest.

"Whispering Shadows"

Peacock-State Rights—5800 Feet

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

REGARDLESS of spiritualistic beliefs which you may foster, you are forced to admit that "Whispering Shadows" is the possessor of a "kick," the kind of a "kick" which creeps through your veins when you are anticipating something unwelcome while enshrouded in darkness. Although the author has based his theme upon spiritualism, he has not advocated it—merely suggested it. The picture is so different from the average production, plunging into metaphysical science one minute and portraying a love story the next, that it is indeed unique. Suspense abound throughout the entire story, but enough human interest element, in the form of a scheming, unscrupulous young man, is injected to serve as a barrier against any possible monotony. The story leads up to a peak of interest, then breaks all at once.

A seance at which two lovers are present grips the interest of the audience at the very start. Then, in order that interest may not wane, the author has placed the hero in a position damaging to his character, but from which the hero emerges in glorifying triumph, thanks to some unknown power in which he did not believe, just in time to claim his sweetheart, who was about to become the wife of an unworthy foe. No attempted explanation of the harmonizing power which links hero and heroine, and causes the former to return just in the nick of time, is made by the author. That part of the picture is left entirely with the audience. The work of Lucy Cotton, especially her facial expression, is commendable.

The Cast

Helen Bransby....Lucy Cotton
Richard Bransby....Charles A. Stevenson
Stephen Pryde....Philip Merivale
Hugh Brook....Robert Barrat
Dr. Latham....George Cowl
Morton Grant....Alfred Dundas
Margaret Latham....Marion Rogers
Aunt Caroline Leavitt....Mabel Archdall
The Medium....Mrs. Celestine Saunders

Produced by Peerless Feature Producing Company. Story by Walter Hackett. Directed by Emil Chautard. Photography by Jacques Bizeul. Scene arrangements and subtitles by Harry Chandlee and William B. Loeb.

The Story.—Youth and sweetheart attend party at which a seance is given, both disbelieving in spiritualism. Girl joins circle to be sociable and is told to warn sweetheart some one is trying to harm him. Warning is not taken seriously, but later it is discovered that unscrupulous member of firm where youth had worked is plotting to make it appear as though the latter had embezzled large sum of money. The unscrupulous one is foiled and forced to sign a statement, admitting he is guilty of the embezzlement. Father of girl places statement in book. Later father dies and statement is lost; the youth joins the army and the unscrupulous one is about to marry the girl when the youth is drawn to her, returns and finds the statement, and marries her.

Classification.—Suspense, love story and human interest predominate, spiced with scientific mysteries that lend unusual twist to story.

Production Highlights.—The seance scene, the departure of the lover, impositions by unworthy rival and the final climax when lover returns to expose his rival.

Exploitation Angles.—Play up fact that Mrs. Suanders is psychic medium for the Physical Research Society of America, or, a lobby display with persons reflecting shadows would go well.

Drawing Power.—Should be good in any theatre, especially in smaller towns. Excites curiosity in doubters and appeals strongly to believers in the "unseen forces." Needs wide advertising.

"The Seventh Day"

First National—5335 Feet

(Reviewed by J. S. Dickerson)

EVER since the Balboa days and the "Who Pays?" series, Henry King has been consistently of and in the picture game but until he came through with "Tol'able David" he had not been identified as a director of exceptional genius and imagination. "The Seventh Day" is not as good a picture as "Tol'able David" but it does reflect an equal amount of credit on Mr. King and his star, Mr. Barthelmess.

With a plot so thin that it could have been told in a single reel and devoid of dramatic situations, a picture has been evolved that holds attention by its scenic beauty, atmospheric details, bits of characterization and skillful handling of a fine cast of types.

Mr. King has taken his simple and not too plausible story about some idle rich young people who are forced to sojourn among the folks of a New England sea coast village for a week and developed it without melodrama, heroics or sickly sentiment. He pulls no shipwrecks, and the sailor boy hero doesn't rescue the fair heroine. The picture goes from one sequence to another tranquilly explaining how the honest fisherman won the Broadway flapper and how the lounge lizard, who was a pretty good scout at heart, fell for the simple miss of the little village. That is all. There isn't even a villain to the plot.

Richard Barthelmess as "John" from an acting standpoint is not entitled to any more credit for the picture's success than a half dozen of his supporting cast but he should have recognition for the fact that he has not tried to be a whole show and insisted on a lion's share of the scenes to what would undoubtedly been the ruination of the production. Among those who give fine characterizations in addition to what may be considered a masterpiece from the star, are Tammany Young, Patterson Dial, Louise Huff and Anne Cornwall.

In the matter of titling the picture might be improved somewhat. There is considerable "preachy" stuff and more or less an attempt to carry the idea that the city is all bad and the small town all good.

The Cast

John Alde, Jr. ..... Richard Barthelmess
Uncle Jim Alden ..... Frank Losee
Uncle Ned ..... Leslie Stowe
Donald Peabody ..... Tammany Young
Reggie Van Zandt ..... George Stewart
Monty Pell ..... Alfred Schmid
Aunt Abigail ..... Grace Barton
Betty Alden ..... Anne Cornwall
Katinka ..... Patterson Dial
"Billie" Blair ..... Teddie Gerard
Patricia Vane ..... Louise Huff

Produced by Inspiration Pictures, Inc. Directed by Henry King. Distributed by First National. Author, Porter Emerson Browne.

The Story.—A dozen or so rich young people on a yachting trip for the express purpose of having "some party" are forced to spend a week in a New England fishing village while the boat is repaired. One of the girls of the party flirts with a young man of the village and one of the young men gets interested in one of the village girls. At the end of the period the rich girl finds herself in love with the fisherman and the rich young man decides to marry the country lass.

Classification.—Character study of New England fishing town life with an occasional bit of comedy and showing some excellent bits of atmosphere.

Production Highlights.—The attention to detail, fine characterizations and scenic beauty of the picture.

Exploitation Angles.—The story from which it was adapted, the theme of the story, in some houses, the star and several members of the cast, the opportunity for fisherman ballyhoo stuff, etc.

"Beyond the Crossroads"

Pioneer—Five Reels

(Reviewed by Charles Street)

WHILE there is nothing about this picture to suggest any originality of theme or characterization—it being a variation of the well known eternal triangle with the revenge motif as the piece de resistance, yet all things considered it is corking good melodrama. During the development of the plot there is introduced a line of action which carries several errors insofar as linking events together. But this will be overlooked in the sample of healthy punch scenes which show the wronged husband triumphant over his adversary. The plot actually hinges upon a lucky charm worn by Alaskan gambler which identifies him eventually and brings about his ruin.

The wronged husband gives his rival a stiff dose of his own medicine. And the method of his revenge offers the picture a rather unusual twist. The action gets under way rapidly featuring the he-man hero chopping down a private gate bearing enemy's charm insignia. Where he gets his hatchet is lost sight of in the otherwise well sustained action. The gambler steals the wife of the gold hunter. This of course necessitates both men assuming different names—one to avoid the other, and the innocent man to hide his identity. Five years elapse before the gold hunter is successful. And his coup d'etat arrives when the gambler is ruined financially on his wedding eve. The hero wins the girl himself and reveals his true identity.

The production is first rate except for the paperish appearance of icicles which detract slightly from blizzard scenes. Ora Carew, the featured player, has moments when she appears self-conscious, otherwise her performance is adequate. Lawson Butt is good as the hero, while Melbourne MacDowell over-plays the role of the villain.

The Cast

Leila Wilkes ..... Ora Carew
John Pierce / James Fordham ..... W. Lawson Butt
Truman Breese / David Walton ..... Melbourne MacDowell
Charles Wilkes ..... Stuart Morris

By Bradley King. Scenario by Francis Powers. Directed by Lloyd B. Carlton.

The Story.—David Walton, gambler, steals wife of James Fordham, gold hunter, casting her back as she dies. Fordham, as Pierce, traces Walton, who becomes Breese, for revenge. He picks the trail by the latter's odd lucky charm. Pierce's health fails. Five years later the charm reveals Breese to Pierce in California. Pierce, falling in love with Leila Wilkes, whom Breese is courting, works into the latter's confidence and breaks him financially on his wedding eve, wining the girl himself and revealing his true identity.

Classification.—Adventurous melodrama with locale laid in Alaska.

Production Highlights.—Heroine's discovery of miner about to choke her lover. Dance at wedding announcement party. Miner's discovery of wife dying in snow. Villain scowling

Exploitation Angles.—Gambler's lucky charm Alaskan drama of remarkably little gun-pla but much tense action. He-man personality Lawson Butt, the hero. Swagger of MacDowel the gambler. Ora Carew, fashionably dresse

Drawing Power.—Due to the intense lo theme, based upon the undoing of a rasca story is likely to appeal to lovers of melodram. Title is a winner. Will draw best in neighbo hood houses and others which cater to work ing classes.

"The Invisible Fear"

First National—4900 Feet

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

ANITA STEWART has appeared in som great productions, but in none is he work better than in this picture. Ordinar mystery plots slip into the realm of the com monplace in comparison with the manner i which the plot of "The Invisible Fear" ha been worked out. Many pages of a nove would be required to straighten out th tangled circumstances which are cleared up i a few feet of film in the picture. A beautifu girl, who has waited patiently for her sweet heart who is in the Army, to all outward ap pearances is a murderer. She is convince that she is responsible for the death of worthless man who attempted to abuse he She harbors an "invisible fear," from whenc the title is derived, until finally her sweethear returns and weds her.

With the return of the man whom the gi believes she has caused the death of, th climax of the story approaches and the pe plexing situation is worked out with splendi smoothness, wiping all stain from the charac ter of the girl and happily reinstating her wit her conscience. There is the tricky Jap se vant, the worthless nephew, and the trustin young husband, all of whom are well fitte to their roles in the story. A large numbe of gowns, constituting an unusual wardrob for the screen, are worn by Miss Stewart.

The Cast

Sylvia Langdon ..... Anita Stewa
Arthur Comstock ..... Walter McGra
Bentley Arnold ..... Alan Fore
Marshall Arnold ..... Hamilton Mor
Mrs. Marshall Arnold ..... Estelle Evar
John Randall ..... Ogden Crar
Nagi ..... George Kuw
Butler ..... Edward Hu

Produced by Louis B. Mayer, Anita Stewa Productions, Inc. Directed by Edwin Carew Story by Hampton Del Ruth. Scenario b Madge Tyrone. Photography by Robert Kurrle.

The Story.—Pretty girl, living with parent of fiance, while he is away on military duty is driven for refuge in lodge with nephew o fiance's father's business partner. She resent his advances and strikes him with heavy candle tick and flees. Later she sees lodge burn t ground and sees body of man in flames. He fiance returns and weds her. Then, the nephew whom she thinks she has killed, returns, bu a quarrel between the latter and a Jap butle who demands hush money, discloses that th nephew did not perish in the fire, but murdere his uncle, who came to the lodge house i search of him, to cover up the theft of will. The nephew then set fire to the lodg house. The girl at last is freed of her in visible fear.

Classification.—Mostly a murder mystery, in terwoven with a pleasing love story, full of sus pense and human interest.

Production Highlights.—Interior of fire scen with man's body enveloped in flames and th disclosure of the real murderer, affordin unique climax.

Exploitation Angles.—Good opportunity t play up the power of love vs. the power o fear; also the extensive wardrobe used b Miss Stewart in the picture.

Drawing Power.—Should go good in first ru houses of larger cities, especially houses tha cater to the more critical patrons, as them and technic of production affords real treat This fact should be featured in advertising

" The Forest King "

acific Film Co.-State Rights—5000 Feet

(Reviewed by Matthew A. Taylor)

ALTHOUGH its story is often theatrical in its twist and turns, and the continuity ometimes choppy, "The Forest King" will ffer average entertainment for the house iat is looking for a program feature. It as the advantage of being laid in a pictures- ue locale—the big lumber, or "tall timber" ountry, and it is attractive in that the action eeps moving along at a fair rate of speed.

The characters in the picture are never learly defined, and the first part of the picture ouses sympathy for characters who develop nto the "heavies" of the story later on. There ; a promise of real big things when the ac- on leaves the City, to unwind itself in the umber district. The exteriors selected here re quite good, and the sight of a majestic ing of the forest crashing to earth under the low of the axe is awesome. Lillian Hall plays he leading feminine role—that of a poor fac- ory girl who takes her ailing father into the North woods to save his life. The hero is nanagin~ the lumber camp of his prospective ather-in-law. His fiancee is jealous of the actory girl. The villain wants the fiancee nd the estate as well, and there is a camp oreman who wants all the money he can get or setting the forest on fire, kidnapping the irl and so forth. The action develops from his situation in a conventional way.

There is a forest fire sequence and later on good fist fight. Some dynamite is hidden nder a piece of flooring and the two nen fight over it, unaware of the danger. It nake fine suspense. The hero is lucky with iis feet, but when the two "heavies" start o battle among themselves they roll over he hidden explosive and go arm in arm into Kingdom Come.

Reed Chapman appears as the hero and gives a simple performance. Dahlia Pears he fiancee who turns out to be a villainess. There is a comedy character whom the sub- itles force to talk with an exaggerated Irish brogue, although she certainly appears o have seen the light of day in some Teu- onic country.

"The Forest King" keeps the suspense. Played up with "the great outdoors" exploita- ion it should bring in the crowds, and once hey are in the story moves swiftly enough o keep them content.

The Cast

Martin Webb	L. M. Wells
Mrs. Webb	Virginia Ware
Bob Lanier	Reed Chapman
Evelyn Webb	Dahlia Pears
Leslie Houston	Lillian Hall
Eugene Stratton	Arthur Mallette
Steve Hawkin	Joe Ray

Story by L. V. Jefferson. Directed by F. G. Hartman. Photographed by E. C. Peters. Produced by Pacific Film Company.

The Story—A rich lumber king misunder- tands the actions of a boy friend of his laughter's and believes the two are engaged. He ffers the boy half interest in his lumber mills, o be held in trust. The boy goes north and nakes good, but by accident learns of the plight f a little factory girl and to help her, brings er and the sick father into the north woods. The fiancee becomes jealous. A lawyer is try- ng to win control of the estate. He starts a orest fire. The jealous girl orders her rival idnapped. A final meeting of the two villains nd the hero ends in the death of both and his eunion with the factory girl.

Classification—A drama of the Northwest, vith a romantic strain.

Production Highlights—A few forest fire hots; the kidnapping of the girl; some good torm scenes; the final fist fight in the cabin; nd the blowing up of the cabin.

Exploitation Angles—Can be exploited as a rama of the Northwest, emphasizing the fact nat it is rich in thrills and action.

Drawing Power—Will satisfy by its action n any house where the thrill is preferred over rama. Small appeal for a sophisticated udience or the young people of the flapper type.

" Across the Divide "

Pathe—5500 Feet

(Reviewed by Eugene Carlton)

HERE'S a western drama that is actually western, not because it contains that proverbial "red-blooded" element, but because it has been directed and acted as a western picture should be. In fairness to the production, however, it should be said that it contains the vivid qualities, plenty of them, but it also contains a far greater asset in that it is entirely lacking of the improbable angles that so frequently creep into a western story. No critic could dispute the plausibility of the theme.

The story which abounds in plot and counterplot, is one of love and affection of a half-breed for his white brother. A two-fold love tale, the efforts of a disreputable father to cheat his son out of an inherited ranch and the truly western character portrayed by Rex Ballard, are interwoven in such a manner as to make the picture a good drawing card in any theatre. With few exceptions, all of the scenes are out of doors, lending a natural atmosphere and color to the offering.

Rosemary Theby, as a high-tempered dance hall girl, is unusually well fitted to her role and her acting is a real treat, leaving an impression that the story must have been written especially for her. The " hip-hip-hooray " atmosphere, which much too often makes a burlesque out of a western, is absent, being supplanted by human interest incidents that have been given a clever twist. The supporting cast is good; in fact, much better than the average.

The Cast

Kenneth (Buck) Layson	Rex Ballard
Rosa	Rosemary Theby
Wallace Layson	Ralph Fee McCullough
Dago	Thomas Delmar
Newton	Gilbert Clayton
Helen	Dorothy Manners
White Flower	Florence Hollister

Produced by G. and J. Photoplay Company. Scenario by Beatrice Frederick. Directed by John Holloway. Photographed by A. Quarrier Thompson.

The Story.—Wallace Layson, left by his mother when she was on her death bed, in care of Buck, a half-breed, had no knowledge as to his actual identity. Layson's father returns to cheat his own son out of a ranch which the latter will inherit on his twenty-first birthday, but Buck proves himself a diplomat. Layson's father induces Rosa, a dance hall girl, to persuade young Layson to marry her. Buck tells young Layson the real heir has died, making it appear necessary for the latter to become an imposter, of which he soon tires. Buck agrees to clear matters up if young Layson drops Rosa and returns to Helen, whom he loves. Then Buck tells them both of his little trick, mounts his horse and departs in the direction of the setting sun without young Layson ever knowing that Buck was his half-brother.

Classification.—Romance spiced with human interest, centering about a typical western character.

Production Highlights.—Suspense in the revelation of the actual identity of leading characters, work of Rex Ballard and Rosemary Theby, photography and complexity of plot.

Exploitation Angles.—Rosemary Theby, as star of "A Connecticut Yankee," should be a good drawing power, while Rex Ballard's debut as new star should attract interest.

Drawing Power.—Should go great, either in large or small towns, wherever western pictures are popular.

¶ The First Booking Guide Proved its Value.

¶ Can You Afford to Miss the New Issue?

¶ Ready this Month.

" Iron to Gold "

Fox—4500 Feet

(Reviewed by Laurence Reid)

THE formula of the westerner who becomes an innocent outlaw because of the vicious activities of his enemies and who later rescues the sorrowful wife of his scoundrel partner is held up to the public gaze in Dustin Farnum's newest release, " Iron to Gold." As westerns go the picture is not satisfactory because of the draggy action—which in reality is not action as one has usually identified it with this type of plot. The theme rests upon the abduction of the heroine by two genuine oulaws and it is up to Farnum to go to her rescue in as heroic a manner as possible.

The main situations are exceeding old and because of their dragged-out development the picture suffers in keeping the interest sustained. The plot is so easy to penetrate—so easy to guess in denouncment that the mystery element never becomes dominant. The woman's life being one of constant distress, she shows her gratitude toward her benefactor in giving him her love. He doesn't send her home but keeps her as his captive until it is time to stress the romantic quality. This arrives when he offers her freedom and accompanies her to the nearest road where he is shot by his enemies. Which of course offers the woman a chance to show her unbounded faith. She helps him to his cabin and nurses him back to health. But before the conclusion is reached the story falters because of the careful spacing of every incident and scene.

The players are guided through their situations in a deliberate manner. They hesitate and hold up the action. The ending arrives when the husband's treachery is discovered and he is eliminated by gunplay. "Iron to Gold" is not a good vehicle for Farnum. He needs them rugged and full of action. There is some clever character work contributed by a few members of the cast and the star does his best with the material.

The Cast

Tom Curtis	Dustin Farnum
Anne Kirby	Marguerite Marsh
George Kirby	William Conklin
Bat Piper	William Elmer
Sheriff	Lionel Belmore
Sloan	Glen Cavender
Creel	Robert Perry
Lem Baldwin	Dan Mason

By George Owen Baxter. Scenario by Jack Strumwasser. Directed by Bernard Durning. Produced by Fox.

The Story—Western in characterization, plot and locale with hero being hounded by the law and forced to seek safety. He is made to appear as a murderer and outlaw. The heroine is abducted by two genuine outlaws but is rescued by the hero. This results in a warm friendship which culminates in romance when she saves him from his enemies and nurses him back to health. The heroine's vicious husband is killed.

Classification—Western story marked more for its characterization and its elements of pathos and heart interest than its action. Contains satisfactory romance.

Production Highlights—Appropriate backgrounds and work of star, Lionel Belmore. William Conklin, William Elmer and Marguerite Marsh. Scene when heroine rescues hero from assassins and nurses him back to health. Some thrills.

Exploitation Angles—Dustin Farnum has had some first rate pictures since returning to screen. This is up to average though not sufficient in action if that is what public expects when they see him. Should provide opportunities for exhibitors to stress the heart interest and pathos. Star and his leading lady are the best angles for advertising the feature.

Drawing Power—Will be liked best in communities which cater to regular patronage—particularly where westerns are enjoyed. Those who expect action will be disappointed. Should get over with star's popularity. Good for family trade and houses situated in downtown districts.

ADVANCE VIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

Live News From Producers

WHAT THE MAKERS SAY ABOUT PICTURES

Marion Davies in "Beauty's Worth," a forthcoming Cosmopolitan-Paramount picture

"Beauty's Worth" Given Pre-Release

Robert G. Vignola's second special Cosmopolitan production with Marion Davies in the star role, entitled "Beauty's Worth," will be shown to the public for the first time at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, the week of April 2. This is the production to make which Mr. Vignola went to California. It is now complete in every detail and it is the consensus of opinion that it is a bigger production than "Enchantment," Mr. Vignola's first production with Miss Davies which has scored such a nation-wide hit.

Several unusual phases of production methods utilized for the first time by Mr. Vignola are among the many features that characterize this picture. Besides a novel way of introducing the various characters, Mr. Vignola has conceived some extraordinary lighting effects and groupings that are said to be remarkable.

"Beauty's Worth," a Sophie Kerr story of a beautiful little Quaker maid whose charms are dimmed by her austere dress, appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine some time ago. The role seemed to fit Miss Davies perfectly and the story was obtained especially for her.

Assoc. Exhib. Films at Loew's Boston House

Associated Exhibitors' attractions hold places of honor in the opening weeks of Marcus Loew's new State theatre in Boston. The theatre opened March 13th. For the second week, the period when a big house just opened usually begins to assemble its regular permanent patronage, "Woman Wake Up," starring Florence Vidor, has been selected. For the third week, "A Sailor-Made Man," starring Harold Lloyd, has been booked.

Universal's April Releases

Three Features With Popular Stars Announced for Next Month Schedule

UNIVERSAL announces a strong schedule of releases for April. Three five-reel features, made by Hoot Gibson, Herbert Rawlinson and Miss du Pont, respectively, now are ready for the exhibitor and will be placed in the hands of the Universal exchanges within the next few days. These are the first new pictures that come within the scope of Universal's tenth anniversary celebration.

Hoot Gibson's picture is "The Bearcat," a lively screen adaptation of F. R. Buckley's popular western story, which appeared in the Western Magazine as "Sou' West." This picture was made at Universal City under the working title of "The Singing Kid." It is said to be a worthy addition to the string of action—westerns made by Gibson since he was elevated to stardom on the Universal.

"The Bearcat" was directed by Edward Sedwick, a brother of Eileen Sedgwick, the popular serial star, formerly featured in Universal pictures. It is Sedgwick's first picture for Universal. He acted in Universal pictures several years ago, however, and since then he had directed for Fox.

Hoot Gibson's supporting cast in "The Bearcat," includes such well known screen names as Lillian Rich, Harold Goodwin, Fontaine LaRue, Charles French, Joe Harris, Alfred Hollingsworth, William Buckley, Jim Alamo, W. J. Allen, Stanley Fitz, Joe LaCruz and Sam Polo. "The Bearcat" will be released April 3.

What is said to be one of the most unique pictures ever made will be released by Universal on April 20. It is called "The Man Under Cover," and stars Herbert Rawlinson. It was written under the title "Peterman" by Louis Victor Eytinge, one of the most famous prisoners in America. He is a "lifer" in the Arizona State Penitentiary.

For the direction of this story, Universal picked Tod Browning, who directed "Outside the Law," one of the best crook melodramas ever screened. Browning is reputed to have made a master-piece of the Eytinge story. Rawlinson is supported by such players as Barbara Bedford, George Hernandez, William Courtwright, Willis Marks, George Webb, Ed. Tilton, Gerald Pring, Helen Stone and Betty Eliason.

Universal's third April release will be "A Wonderful Wife," starring Miss du Pont, who now is making a hit in the chief supporting roles of "Foolish Wives." This latest du Pont picture is adapted from "The Rat Trap," a novel by Wolfe Wyllards.

Goldwyn Signs Tourneur

Well-Known Director Is Engaged to Film "The Christian" Abroad

GOLDWYN has engaged Maurice Tourneur to direct its screen version of Sir Hall Caine's novel, "The Christian." Mr. Tourneur will take a company abroad in April to photograph many scenes in London and on the Isle of Man where much of the action of the novel takes place. The company will remain abroad about two months. Most of the cast and technical staff will be engaged in America. J. J. Cohn, studio production manager, will accompany "The Christian" staff and cast as business-manager. A scenario built on the novel was prepared by Sir Hall Caine personally, and from this scenario J. G. Hawks prepared the continuity for the production. A statement issued this week from the Goldwyn home-office follows in part:

"The story lends itself to spectacular and dramatic treatment on the screen. The race course at Epsom Downs, many scenes in London streets and points of historic interest will be photographed.

"The studio officials believe that the time is particularly opportune for the filming of "The Christian" inasmuch as the World War aroused an intense interest in spiritual progress. The story of "The Christian," it will be recalled, is the struggle of a man to live the life of Christ under modern conditions. This idea is found in several recent notable literary works, showing the present interest in the theme.

"Considerable interest attaches to the selection of the cast, as it will mean high honor to the players chosen. The Goldwyn company now has under consideration stellar names which have been submitted from the stage and motion picture world, but no definite selections have been made."

Shirley Mason, as she appears in "Little Miss Smiles," a new Fox release

Extended Runs Secured for Metro Specials

In Indianapolis arrangements have been completed with Frank Coulter to show Rex Ingram's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" for an extended run; and later to follow with "Turn to the Right" at the Ohio Theatre. Similar agreements have been made with Southern Enterprises for the exhibition of Nazimova's "Camille" Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley", Rex Ingram's "The Conquering Power", and "Fightin' Mad," in this company's principal theatres. In Atlanta Sid Samuels and Colonel Patterson have booked "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Turn to the Right" for extended periods at the Criterion and Metropolitan theatres.

Jack Holt-Bebe Daniels Vehicle Is Titled

"North of the Rio Grande" is the permanent title of the Paramount picture now being completed by Rollin Sturgeon and starring Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels. The picture was filmed under the original title of the story, "Val of Paradise," by Vingie E. Roe. Will M. Ritchey wrote the scenario and most of the picture was filmed in the Arizona desert.

James Kirkwood in Cast of "Under Two Flags"

The first selection in the cast which will support Priscilla Dean in "Under Two Flags" is James Kirkwood. Mr. Kirkwood is one of the very oldest screen players and directors.

In Celebration of the third Anniversary of the

Pathé Review

The World's Most Famous Screen Magazine

A Camera Caricature
Something Entirely New

There will be, beginning with April 2d

Special Numbers of the Highest Class

New Subjects
New Titles
Fascinating Novelties
Clever Conceptions
Superb Photographic Effects

Each Number Really Different

Another Camera Caricature
Screamingly Funny

Not too much of anything, but a little of everything--- it makes the world your neighbor

A WEEKLY ONE REEL RELEASE

Pathépicture

Paramount's Releases for March 19th

CECIL B. DEMILLE'S "Fool's Paradise," "The City of Gold," the third of the U. F. A. series, "The Mistress of the World," and Mary Miles Minter in "The Heart Specialist," are the features scheduled for release by Famous Players-Lasky, March 19.

"Fool's Paradise" goes to the first-run houses of the country following a successful five-weeks' run at the Criterion, New York. Cecil DeMille directed from a story by Beulah Marie Dix and Sada M. Cowan. The story was suggested by Leonard Merrick's novel, "The Laurels and the Lady." The cast includes Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson and Julia Faye.

Mary Miles Minter is surrounded by a notable cast in her Realart picture, "The Heart Specialist." Allen Forrest is leading man and the supporting cast includes Roy Atwell, former star of musical comedy; Noah Beery, James Neill, Jack Matheis and Carmen Phillips. Frank Urson directed. Mary Morrison is the author of "The Heart Specialist." Harvey Thew wrote the scenario.

Brady Ready to Produce His Plays for Screen

An announcement from the William A. Brady offices states that the well-known theatrical producer is ready to produce any of his plays for the screen if assured proper distribution and financial arrangements. The production of four to six pictures a year is part of Mr. Brady's offer contingent upon the presentation of proper inducements.

A number of successful pictures have already been made from plays produced by William A. Brady, including "Way Down East," "The Whip," "Little Women," "Life," "The Shepherd King" (now in production for the screen by William Fox), and "Bought and Paid For" (already made by World Film and now again presented by Paramount with Jack Holt and Agnes Ayres). Mr. Brady is part owner of the Paragon Studios at Fort Lee, N. J.

Royal Wedding Reaches Screen in Fast Time

Pathe News claims a two-hour lead in getting views of Princess Mary's wedding to the screens of the Broadway theatres. The Olympic, bearing negatives of the ceremonies for Pathe News, arrived at 6:45 P. M. on Wednesday of last week; and through anticipatory arrangements, prints picturing the events were on their way to the Broadway houses in an hour's time, declares the Pathe News office. Prints left New York for Chicago at 11:45 Wednesday evening.

Would Exploit One-Reeler

Educational Suggests Series of Stunts for "How to Grow Thin"

EDUCATIONAL announced from its home office this week that a new type of one-reel special, titled "How to Grow Thin" was being rushed so that prints of this release would be available at the various branches and ready for bookings through the United States and Canada by April 16, the start of Educational Pictures Week. The picture is a one-reel production and contains within tis thousand feet both humor and instruction.

In a statement from the Educational Films home-office the following suggestions are given for the exploitation of the picture:

"In every town in the country this picture will attract the women especially. Women have a horror of getting stout. A good exhibitor stunt would be to have a self-weighing scales in the lobby and advertise that you will give a free admission to every person weighing over 225 pounds. Then get a fat man and if possible a fat woman weighing upwards of 225 pounds and have them casually come up to the lobby at various times during your performance, step on the scales, get a free admission, and in turn induce others to try the scales.

"Many people will take advantage of your scales just to see what they weigh. In your advertising, you can state frankly that this is the greatest screen visualization of the greatest destroyer of maidenly beauty, Fat; that the picture will show every man and woman how Mrs. Ima Gobbler took off forty-two pounds in five months.

"You can get every bakery in your town that puts out a good loaf of whole-wheat bread to link up to your efforts and advertise to its people and also your audience the fact that the greatest fat producer is white flour, and urge people to eat home spun whole-wheat bread and learn how to grow thin.

"And the lobby stunt is to secure one of those distorting mirrors that make a slim person look fat, and a fat person fatter, place it alongside your self-weighing scales, then hang out a sign reading, Just Look At Yourself—Then Come Inside and Learn How to Grow Thin."

Fox News Series Endorsed

Professor of Spokane University Lauds "Face to Face With Japan"

PROFESSOR J. B. GRENNAN, a member of the faculty of Gonzaga University, Spokane, Washington, is among the prominent educators expressing satisfaction and praise for the Fox News series "Face to Face With Japan." Not only does Professor Grennan believe that the idea of introducing into Fox News such topics as "Face to Face With Japan" is an excellent one, but he states in his communication to Fox Film Corporation that he strongly advocates the use of subjects of this nature in schools and colleges.

Professor Grennan's communication to Fox reads in part as follows:

"We are particularly interested in the idea that you are now using in your news reels of introducing data on topics of the day such as the Japanese question and a recent one on the effect of the Volstead act. If it could be arranged that schools could use this matter, the educational value could be great."

Professor Grennan's attitude is typical of the country's educators, who have been sending commendatory statements to Fox exhibitors and Fox exchange managers concerning "Face to Face With Japan," declares a statement from the Fox Film headquarters. Teachers and college instructors have been quick to note and praise the educational advantages of the series, and follow up their laudations with the question as to when it will be possible for them to use this series in their class rooms.

In answer to demands from educators all over the country who have been following this series with interest and with a view to using it as a classroom material, a statement has been issued by Fox Film Corporation to the effect that, following its conclusion as a news feature, "Face to Face With Japan" will be released through the Educational Division. Educational, religious and private institutions will then be able to make use of the feature.

Bert Adler Back from Nation-Wide Tour

Bert Adler, special representative for Distinctive Productions, Inc., starring George Arliss, has returned from a four weeks' trip in which he visited Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Denver and Omaha. Mr. Adler called at United Artists exchanges distributing the Arliss pictures, and also exhibitors who are showing this product.

Mr. Adler said he found a real demand for high-class comedy such as the current Arliss release, "The Ruling Passion," and heard from exhibitors that the public is trying to forget the recent business depression and want to get back to a normal state. The Pacific coast theatres, Mr. Adler said, have made the most return to normal conditions of any in the country.

Marguerite Marsh in Dustin Farnum Cast

Marguerite Marsh will be leading woman for Dustin Farnum in his latest picture, "Iron to Gold," to be made on the West coast under the direction of Bernard Durning.

Harry Carey Signed b R-C Pictures

HARRY CAREY has been signed by R-C Pictures and will be starred by that company in forthcoming special productions. This announcement was issued early this week by the R-C Pictures home office.

The statement from the R-C headquarters declared that elaborate and ambitious plans are being laid for the presentation of its new star in his R-C productions. Negotiations are reported to be under way with well-known directors with a view to assigning one of them to the direction of Mr. Carey. The R-C scenario department is also stated to be searching the story market for a fitting vehicle to introduce Mr. Carey as an R-C Pictures star.

Harry Carey is credited with more than thirty five-reelers made under the auspices of Universal Film. Among the most notable of these is "The Fox," directed by R. T. Thornby, which has achieved unusual success. Mr. Carey was in the earlier days with the old Biograph Company under D. W. Griffith.

Three More Stories for Marie Prevost

With her current release, "The Dangerous Little Demon," Marie Prevost is within sight of the completion of her first eight Special Attraction pictures for Universal. This story by Mildred Considine, directed by Clarence Badger, is the star's sixth feature.

Three pictures in addition are either completed or purchased for her use, one of which will undoubtedly be transferred to next year's program. "Kissed" by Arthur Somers Roche, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, has been completed and cut at Universal City under the direction of King Baggot. In this attraction, which will be released in May Miss Prevost is supported by Frank Glendon, Lillian Langdon, Arthur Hoyt, Harold Miller, Marie Crisp, Harold Goodwin and Percy Challenger. The two which are awaiting her are "Her Night of Nights," a Snappy Stories novelette from the pen of C. S. Montayne; and "Never Mind Tomorrow," an original story by Bernard Hyman.

"Topics" Aiding Better Business Campaign

"Topics of the Day," released by Pathe Exchange, Inc., is taking active part in the national Better Business Campaign. A weekly award of $100 is being given for the best fifty-word answers to the question: "How can business be improved for the manufacturer, merchant, working man and woman?" The prize winner is to be announced each week on the screen. Several hundred newspapers are reported by the Pathe office to be co-operating in the publication of the best answers submitted.

Mae Murray in one of the scene of her latest starring vehicle for the Metro program, "Fascination"

Gunning Series in Demand

First-Run Bookings for Ten Films of Entertainment Series Reported

A NUMBER of bookings in first-run houses throughout the country are reported for The Entertainment Series of ten box-office pictures, distributed through the Gunning Organization, although the books on the series have just been opened. It is stated from the home office of the Gunning Organization that the business already done on the new series of moderate-rental features has smashed all similar sales records in the history of the company.

Pantages Theatre, in Kansas City, was one of the first big houses to grab off an Entertainment Series picture for a first-run showing. "The Madness of Love," one of the March releases in the series, will begin a special engagement at that important playhouse, starting March 25. It was the first picture of the series viewed by the theatre management and was booked immediately.

"The Fire Bride," another March release, played to crowded houses at the Keith-Moss Broadway Theatre, New York City, the week of March 13. The management reported exceptionally large attendance, and stated that audiences were entertained and interested by the unusual plot strange South Sea atmosphere and beautiful photography of the picture, which was made in Tahiti, the South Sea island, with a cast headed by Ruth Reneck, Edward Hearn, Walt Whitman and Fred Stanton.

Ricord Gradwell, Managing Director of the Gunning Organization, stated that he had received numerous comments from exhibitors in every state, to the effect that the new series of entertainment pictures, with good box-office titles and at moderate rentals, were filling a need felt for some time by motion-picture showmen.

The next two pictures in the series, the release date on which has been fixed for April 1, are, "Alias Phil Kennedy," a new type of Western, with Bill Patton and Dixie Lamont, and "The Blonde Vampire," presented by Allan Rock, and featuring De Sacia Mooers, noted as "America's most beautiful blonde."

"Alias Phil Kennedy" is a story of mystery, thrills and wild riding, with stunts which have not been equalled recently in pictures, it is declared. There is a rescue of the girl by Patton, the cowboy star, at the brink of a waterfall, which has not been approached for gaps since the ice-rescue scene in "Way Down East." In addition, Patton rides like a demon, and fights like a Dempsey. "Alias Phil Kennedy" was produced by the Long Beach Motion Picture Company and directed by William Bertram.

"The Blonde Vampire" is a starring vehicle for De Sacia Mooers, who was featured over the continent in Hearst Sunday Magazine feature articles, discussing the relative merits and qualities of blondes and brunettes.

Tourneur to Film Two More Famous Books

"Lorna Doone," Maurice Tourneur's screen version of R. D. Blackmore's noted novel which is nearing completion, will be followed on the producer's schedule by two more adaptations of famous books according to present plans. Four widely-read works are now being outlined by Wyndham Gittens, who assisted Mr. Tourneur in the adaptation of "Lorna Doone," and their possibilities carefully considered.

"Lorna Doone," when finished, will be personally edited by Mr. Tourneur and hurried through to meet an early release date. Madge Bellamy, Frank Keenan and John Bowers head the all-star cast.

"Seven reels of vivid, forceful acting."—

Exhibitors Herald on "The Sheik's Wife" Vitagraph Special

No Rush at Cost of Merit

Mae Murray Productions Not to Be Hurried, Says Wm. E. Atkinson

IN a statement issued this week by William E. Atkinson, vice-president and general manager of the Metro Pictures Corporation, notice is served, in response to numerous inquiries from exhibitors, that a strictly "non-rush" policy is being adopted in the production of Mae Murray starring vehicles. "These specials cannot be hurried at the expense of their quality" is the tenor of Mr. Atkinson's announcement. Miss Murray's first release through Metro, "Peacock Alley," is said to be doing fine business everywhere, and "Fascination," scheduled for March 27th is being awaited eagerly according to word from the Metro offices. Said Mr. Atkinson:

"The making of pictures follows the same principles as that suggested by the man who said, of writing, that easy writing usually makes very hard reading. In other words, the chances are that things can't be done excellently and in a rush. The exhibitor seeing, naturally enough, his side of the matter, does not realize that the very taking of elaborate pains in the making of Miss Murray's pictures, is the very thing which, after it has been reflected by big boxoffice returns, implants the desire that they come along one right after another, in quick succession.

"He does not realize the amount of research, for instance, necessary to the accurate design of settings; the fact for every new production Miss Murray plans more than a score of new gowns—whose cost alone, by the way, equals that of a whole motion picture of a different grade.

"Miss Murray's pictures could be rushed, but if machine-like methods came into their making, they would cease to be what they now stand for: gorgeously staged, vividly presented photoplays of the highest type."

Vitagraph President Is Back at Hollywood

Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, is back at the company's West Coast studios in Hollywood after a coast to coast trip via the Panama Canal. Immediately upon the arrival of the Vitagraph president, W. S. Smith, general manager of Vitagraph's Hollywood studio, conferred with the executive on several proposed productions which were held in abeyance pending the arrival of the company's chief. Work on these subjects will begin at once. Among the new films about to be started is "The Magnificent Ambersons," adapted from Booth Tarkington's novel. Jean Paige will be starred.

Productions completed recently include "The Silent Vow," co-starring William Duncan and Edith Johnson; "The Man from Downing Street," starring Earle Williams; and "The Angel of Crooked Street," starring Alice Calhoun. "My Wild Irish Rose," featuring Pauline Starke and Pat O'Malley, will be shortly shipped East.

First-Run Houses Booking Bruce Series

The Educational home-office reports a growing demand among firstrun houses for Robert C. Bruce's new series of "Wilderness Tales." The Capitol theatre, New York, where the first of the series, "And Women Must Weep," was shown recently, has booked the entire series; and "Missing Men," the second of the series will be presented in this house in the near future.

Scene from "The Isle of Zorda," distributed by Pathe Exchange, Inc.

R-C Signs Up R. T. Thornby

Will Direct Six Productions for R-C Release; Had Extensive Career

R-C PICTURES announces the engagement of R. T. Thornby to direct six pictures for release on the R-C schedule. The pictures will be known as the Robert T. Thornby productions.

Mr. Thornby's last contract was with Universal where he directed Harry Carey in some of his most successful pictures, including "The Fox." Among his latest Universal productions are "The Magnificent Brute," with Frank Mayo, and "Half a Chance," with Lon Chaney, the latter picture having been completed just before his change to Robertson-Cole.

In a statement issued during the week, R-C Pictures gives the following sketch of Mr. Thornby's career in the film industry:

"Mr. Thornby, who has been in the motion picture game since the earliest days of the industry, is one of its best known directors. He was born and educated in New York where he also embarked upon his stage career. After extensive dramatic experience he began his screen career with the old Vitagraph Company as an actor, displaying his versatility by playing heroic and villainous roles with equal success. He remained with Vitagraph four years, turning from acting to directing and proving his directorial genius with the first production directed by him.

"After leaving Vitagraph he turned to comedies, directing first for Sennett-Keystone, and later wielding the megaphone for the Sterling Kid comedies. Then turning to more serious production again, he connected with World Film, where he directed feature productions, among these being Broken Chains and Code of the Mountains. After severing with World, he directed Lasky productions for one year. The Barbarian and The Hostage, are two of the many successful pictures directed by him at this time. From Lasky he went to Pathe, directing the J. D. Hampton productions, The Prince and Betty, Cressy, The Deadlier Sex, Girl in the Web, Felix O'Day, Half a Chance, That Girl Montanna, and many others. Before signing with Universal he produced his own pictures for a while."

GYPSY PASSION
ADAPTED FROM JEAN RICHEPIN'S FAMOUS GYPSY STORY
MIARKA
The Child of the Bear
COMING TO THE
MARK STRAND
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION
BROADWAY & 47th STREET
Sunday, March 26

"Thunderclap" Opens New Buffalo House

"Thunderclap," the Fox special production featuring Mary Carr of "Over the Hill" fame, was the picture shown at the opening of the new Lafayette theatre, Buffalo, recently completed at what is reported to be a cost of $3,000,000.

At the request of Messrs. Slotkin and Jacobson, owners of the new theatre, Mrs. Carr made a special trip from New York to be present at the formal opening. She appeared in person at several of the showings.

Hopper to Direct Kyne Story for Goldwyn

Goldwyn has engaged E. Mason Hopper to direct the making of the film version of Peter B. Kyne's story, "Brothers Under the Skin," in which an all-star cast will appear.

Pathe's March 26 Releases

"The Angel Factory" With Helene Chadwick and Moreno Heads List

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from the Pathe Exchange, Inc., that the strong array of short subject features and the one serial episode scheduled for release the week of March 26th, will be fortified by the latest Pathe Playlet, "The Angel Factory," starring Helene Chadwick and Antonio Moreno.

"The Clash of the Clans" is the thirteenth episode of the new Pathe serial, "White Eagle," starring Ruth Roland. "Hit Him Again" is the current re-issued one - reel comedy starring Harold Lloyd. The spectacled comedian assumes the role of a prize-fighter. The ring scenes give Harold Lloyd full opportunity to exhibit his prowess as an acrobatic comedian.

"Hot Off the Press" is the title of the latest Hal Roach comedy featuring "Snub" Pollard. The offering is a comedy of a newspape plant with Pollard in the role c general utility man in the pres rooms. "The Dissatisfied Cobbler is the latest animated cartoon of th series of "Aesop's Film Fables."

Pathe Review No. 148 leads o with "Getting Them In," a thrillin fishing trip in the South Seas wit Lord Waldorf Astor and Eltinge F Warner, of "Field and Stream. Other subjects included are: "Th Business of Art," a camera inter view with Richard E. Miller, of th National Academy; "The Vanishe Border," views of the Canadian American border, the world' greatest object lesson in the Art o Peace; "The Mysteries of Silk," i which the camera visits a great sill mill; and "The Stork Towns o Alsace," a Pathecolor presentation

Prizma Adds to Office Space in Jersey City

Prizma, Incorporated, producers of Prizma Master Pictures in color, has purchased the building at 3191 Hudson Boulevard, Jersey City, adjoining the laboratory at No. 3193-3195 Hudson Boulevard, to provide additional office accommodations for its Jersey City force.

Offices are being provided in this building for Wm. V. D. Kelley, technical advisor; H. R. Leroy, plant manager; and B. S. Hall, treasurer, and their assistant.

Bray Productions in Old Realart Exchange

The Bray Productions have purchased the equipment of the former Realart Exchange, located at 130 West 46th street, New York City, and the setting up in the same location of a non-theatrical exchange.

"Robinson Crusoe" to Be Released Soon

"THE ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE," an eighteen episode chapter-picture being made by Universal, with Harry Myers in the role of "Crusoe," will soon be ready for release, it is announced at the Universal home office. Three chapters of two reels each already have been received in the East, and the production company at Universal City, Cal., is well into the middle of the serial.

It is expected that "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be released March 27.

Is your Dog
"YOUR BEST FRIEND"

First National Stars Busy

Production Work Vigorously Pursued at All of Company's Studios

INDEPENDENT stars and producers releasing through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., encouraged by the receptions their productions are meeting everywhere, are busier at the present time than ever before in the history of the organization. In none of the studios is there any slackening of work, and a large number of pictures are now in the process of production.

Katherine MacDonald has completed work on "Heroes and Husbands," and is now engaged in making "The Woman Conquers." The story of "Heroes and Husbands," is by Charles A. Logue, and was directed by Chet Withey. The cast includes Nigel Barrie, Charles Gerrard, Charles Clary, Mona Kingsley, Ethel Kay.

"The Woman Conquers" will have an exceptional cast, with such well known players as Bryant Washburn, June Elvidge and Mitchel Lewis supporting the star. Tom Forman is directing.

Mabel Normand resumed work at the Sennett studios on "Suzanna," under the direction of F. Richard Jones.

Constance Talmadge has returned to United Studios, to start another production. Sidney Franklin, who recently completed "The Primitive Lover" with Miss Talmadge, is wielding the megaphone again.

Maurice Tourneur and his "Lorna Doone" Company have returned from a week's location trip on the upper San Gabriel river. The "Lorna Doone" company spent a week in Santa Anita Canyon. Mr. Tourneur has been taking advantage of the heavy snow in the mountains and the high water in the river to film some thrilling scenes.

Beginning last September a score of producers making photoplays for First National release commenced their productions about the same time. And in the last three weeks most of these photoplays have been brought to completion as far as camera-work is concerned. Now some of them are in laboratory and some in the editing rooms.

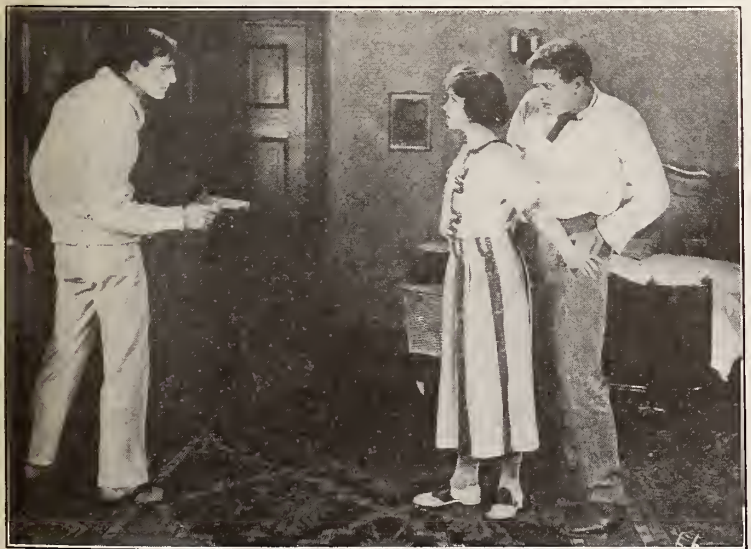
Here are a few future First National attractions now being edited: Norma Talmadge's "The Duchess of Langeais"; Anita Stewart's "Rose 'O The Sea"; J. L. Frothingham's "The Man Who Smiled"; John M. Stahl's "One Clear Call"; Marshall Neilan's "Fools First"; Thomas H. Inces' "Jim"; "Bellboy 13," and "The Hottentot"; Richard Walton Tully's "The Masquerader"; Ben Turpin's "Step Forward"; Hope Hampton's "The Light in the Dark," and Richard Barthelmess' "Sonny."

"The Sheik" Smashing Australian Records

Cable advices from Sydney, Australia, tell of the opening of "The Sheik," George Melford's Paramount special, to record-breaking audiences in Sydney and Melbourne. Managing Director John W. Hicks, Jr., of Feature Films, Ltd., Paramount distributors, reports that the box-office records recently established by "The Affairs of Anatol" in the two Australian cities, were smashed on the opening day of "The Sheik," and that every indication pointed to extended runs for the picture in the larger cities of Australia and New Zealand.

Six Releases Named by Fox for March

WILLIAM FOX will release six pictures during March. The schedule is headed by William Farnum in "A Stage Romance." Others are: Charles Jones in "Pardon My Nerve!"; Dustin Farnum in "Iron to Gold," which is said to be the best picture he ever made; Shirley Mason in "A Ragged Heiress"; John Gilbert in a virile drama of the north woods; and Johnnie Walker and Edna Murphy in "Extra! Extra!" a newspaper story.



Florence Vidor is starred in "Women Wake Up," released by Associated Exhibitors through Pathe exchanges

Scene from "The Infidel," Katherine MacDonald's next vehicle for First National release

For Policy of Clean Films

The Pick of Independent Product, Wholly Clean, Sought by A. S. Kane

"TO obtain and release the pick of all independently-produced features, is the policy of Associated Exhibitors," declared Arthur S. Kane, the recently-elected president, at the close of his first week in the active management of that organization. "Insistence will be placed always on the selection of absolutely clean pictures, not alone because of the unyielding preference of the Associated Exhibitors officials for the clean and the decent, but also because of the proven superior box-office value of films of this character. This is our advice to the independent producers: Make clean pictures.

"Associated Exhibitors is determined to give the public the very cream of independently-produced features," said Mr. Kane. "Our first concern, of course, regards the entertainment value of the productions we select. The primary mission of the motion picture is, of course, to entertain, and we have gladly assumed the responsibility of placing before the people the offerings which make the strongest appeal to them.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly our preference for films which are of good moral value. It is one of the most gratifying signs of the times that the public is turning more strongly all the time to character. The productions of greatest entertainment value are those whose moral effect is unquestioned, hence in confining ourselves scrupulously to this type, we are influenced by our business sense as well as our natural inclinations.

"Of this wholesome type is Harold Lloyd, the Associated Exhibitors star, who is high on the pedestal of popular favor as a comedian and whose wonderful comedies are gaining new friends for him daily. And now comes Associated Exhibitors newest star, Florence Vidor, who embodies all that is admirable and lovable in womanhood. A devoted wife and mother, cultured and refined, and an artiste who was acclaimed a star by the public even before official recognition was given her. She literally exemplifies all that is best in pictured entertainment."

D. A. Levy Named Sales Manager

David A. Levy has been appointed Sales Manager of the New York Exchange of the Educational Films Corporation with headquarters in the Godrey building at 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City. During the sixteen months that Mr. Levy has been associated with Educational Films Corporation, he has been one of the most conspicuously successful salesmen in the trade and has built up a reputation for integrity and square dealing which has won him a host of followers among metropolitan exhibitors. His advancement to the head of the sales force of the New York Exchange is in recognition of his fine achievements. Mr. Levy's experience before joining Educational was quite extensive. He has been highly successful as an organizer and executive and was at one time connected with the Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

All Star Cast Named for Kyne Story

Goldwyn announces an all-star cast for Peter B. Kyne's story, "Brothers Under Their Skin," which is now in production. It includes Helene Chadwick, Richard Dix, Norman Kerry, Claire Windsor and Mae Burch.

"Seven reels of vivid, forceful acting."—

Exhibitors Herald on "The Sheik's Wife" Vitagraph Special

New Hodkinson Release Scheduled for April

THE home-office of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation announces that it has completed distributing arrangements for the Outlook production, "Free Air," made under the direction of E. H. Griffith; and that two more pictures will shortly be put in production for release on the Hodkinson schedule. These are "Don't Weaken," a story by Charles K. Harris, in which Irene Castle will be starred; and "Pattering Feet," which will be made by Hugo Ballin from an original screen story.

"Free Air" is adapted from the story by Sinclair Lewis, which ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post. Marjorie Seaman, a promising young screen player, is seen in the leading role. The subtitles were written by Katherine Hilliker. The picture will be released in April.

"Hope," based on the famous painting by Watts, will be started next week with Mary Astor. This will be the fourth of the Triart Great Masterpiece pictures. "A Spinner in the Sun," adapted from the story by Myrtle Reed, is to be started this week by Renco Film. Lloyd Ingraham will be the director.

Seven Paramount Re-Issues

Will Be Released in Block for Week's Program; Open at Rialto

PARAMOUNT announces the re-issue of seven of its successes, all of which were originally released prior to November, 1920. These pictures, all of which are to be shown by Hugo Riesenfeld at the Rialto Theatre, New York, during the week of April 9, are George Loane Tucker's "The Miracle Man," John Barrymore in "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," Cecil B. DeMille's "Old Wives for New," George Fitzmaurice's "On with the Dance," Cecil B. DeMille's "Why Change Your Wife?" George Melford's "Behold My Wife," and Cecil B. DeMille's "Male and Female."

These pictures will be released in block, forming a complete week's feature program, to be used just as Mr. Riesenfeld is using them, in successive showings. New prints have been ordered and the various Paramount exchanges will be ready in a few days to accommodate the block bookings, it is announced.

George Loane Tucker's "The Miracle Man" was adapted from the story by Frank L. Packard and the play by George M. Cohan. It features an all-star cast headed by Betty Compson and Thomas Meighan and including Joseph Dowling, Lon Chaney, J. M. Dumont, Elinor Fair and W. Lawson Butt.

"Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," starring John Barrymore, was produced by John S. Robertson from the scenario by Clara Beranger. Martha Mansfield plays opposite Mr. Barrymore.

"Old Wives for New" produced by Cecil B. DeMille was the first of his series dealing with the problems of married life. It was adapted by Jeanie Macpherson from the novel by David Graham Phillips and features in its cast Elliott Dexter, Sylvia Ashton, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Florence Vidor, Helen Jerome Eddy, and Tully Marshall.

"On with the Dance," written by Ouida Bergere, was the first of George Fitzmaurice's series of special productions for Paramount. Mae Murray and David Powell are featured.

"Why Change Your Wife?" is the second of the Cecil DeMille series introduced by "Old Wives for New." William DeMille wrote the story, and the all-star cast includes Gloria Swanson, Thomas Meighan, Bebe Daniels and Theodore Kosloff.

"Behold My Wife," scenarized by Frank Condon from Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Translation of a Savage," was produced by George Melford, the action being centered chiefly in the Far North. In the cast are Mabel Julienne Scott, Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter and Ann Forrest.

